Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT.
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

CURTIS & McOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. HANFORD,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER;
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO.,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Prince and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS.
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. S. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG,
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Peas Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN ASHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

HENRY H. PAGE,
Union Livery, Feed and Sale Stable,
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Mich.
WILLIS NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewashing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

Bolden Tower.

Since I had been a young fellow of fourteen years of age my life had been almost entirely passed at sea. I had long been accustomed to the icebergs of the polar seas, or the burning and fervent glare of the tropic waters. Since I had left home mighty changes had taken place. I had never before paid a visit to the Bolden Tower, for my uncle had been a solitary man, who loved mathematics as much as he disliked society, and who never thought of inviting his younger relatives, for the simple reason that he did not want to be bored, and preferred to be alone. My brother Tom had only succeeded to his inheritance about a year and a half. He was the reverse of his uncle. In the first place he was a married man, and had a select assortment of rosy faced children, who shouted through the old fortress house all day long and made his table blossom with their happy faces. In the next place, he loved society dearly, and hated mathematics cordially. In the next place, Tom was always inviting his relatives, whether young or old, and making much of them when they came.—Without any letter or notice I had arrived at Bolden Tower, fresh from a homewards voyage, the first for many long years. The house was full of attractions for me. It contained Tom himself, his pretty wife and my rosy nephews and nieces, and also a couple of sisters younger than myself, whose dear faces I had not seen for many weary years. When at sea I had heard, of course, in letters from home, of the taking possession of Bolden Tower, and one of my sisters had on one occasion written me a letter which read like a page from some old romance, so full was it of old legends and stories which had been told them about the house in which they had come to live. 'We have a real ghost, though that is absurd, to be sure,' wrote my sister Clara, 'and for the first week we went in the Tower, Mary and myself sat up all night, and did not dare to go to bed, but slept in the day time instead; but we have never seen anything, and have since learned that the supernatural doings are confined to an old part of the original building which stands in the stable-yard, and is quite disconnected with it. Had this not been the case, I am quite sure that Mary and myself could not have ventured to live with Tom, much as we love him and Rosa and the dear children.'

I was a sailor, and therefore ought to be superstitious, but superstitions I was not. I had seen many strange sights and met with strange things on the high seas and in savage countries, and it seemed to me that ghosts could scarcely be stranger than many things with which I had become familiar. I had come home from the sea unexpectedly. I had emptied my pockets of small change in the toy shops of a seaport where I landed, and my purchases had made the coming of the sailor uncle a very joyful occasion for my young nephews and nieces. By my dear brother and sisters and sister-in-law I was received with open arms and bewildered with embraces. The meeting and the welcome were cheaply purchased by the years of sea-faring hardships and loneliness. But not only were my relatives inhabitants of the old house for the festive season; the place was full, for Tom had determined to keep open house, and it seemed as if he had invited all the people he knew to fill the old house setting. 'Too full,' said Tom, 'for I'll be hanged if I know where you are to sleep, Jack.'

'I declare,' said Clara, 'it will be just like all the stories of ghosts which one reads of—the haunted houses are always full except one room which the ghost has; and this is a haunted house too—'

'With this difference—that we have never been disturbed by ghosts, male or female, and that the part they call haunted is separated from all our bedrooms.—There's the haunted part, Jack, said Tom, pointing out of the bay window of the breakfast room to the ivy grown and detached building in the stable yard.—'That's where the ghosts hang out, they say, and laugh as you like I declare I think there must be truth in the legend after all; for one night I was coming home—'

'Oh, Mr. Belden! now don't frighten us—pray don't,' called out a nervous, middle aged lady.

'I assure you, madam, what I am going to say is the truth,' continued Tom. 'I was coming home from fishing very late, and I rode into the stable yard and gave my rods to Joseph; and just as he was taking them we heard a peculiar low cough. Where it came from we could not tell, but we both thought from the upper room in the building yonder. At the same moment there was a rattling sound as if some one was trying to open the windows in the upper story, and as the moon was bright at that moment, I declare I thought I saw something white at the far window there, under the clock. I know I felt quite shaky, and I also know that Joseph was so terrified that he broke the top joint of my best fly rod, and ran into the house as fast as his legs would carry him. Now I'll be bound Jack here would be in a fright if he saw the same thing, though he pretended to be so courageous, as all sailors do.'

'What is the room on the ground floor in the old house used for?' I asked.

'Oh, we use that as a harness room, and as we keep up a good fire there usually, it isn't a bad place to have a smoke in—in the day time.'

'And the upper room?'

'Well, we intended, when we first came, to let the men servants sleep there, and so had it fitted up, beds and all; but as that is just the portion of the building which is said to be haunted, we soon found that neither love or money could tempt any of the servant tribe to sleep there, or, if they could avoid it, go past its walls after dark.'

'I'll tell you what I'll do, I said. 'I'll sleep there and see what these ghosts of yours are made of.'

'Pooh, nonsense!' exclaimed my brother. 'I would not allow you for the world.'

'But I am determined,' said I, 'and I have never seen any spectres yet, nor slept in a haunted room; and it is a thing to be done once in one's life, as I take it, just for the sake of saying so.'

'Oh, don't be so foolish, dear,' said Clara, seizing hold of my arm. 'Mary and myself will sit up, and you can have our bed, won't we Mary?'

'If you say any more I will go back to sea again and never come back any more,' I said. 'I want to try the haunted chamber and beg it as a favor. Put a fire in for me; let me have a bottle of claret and a comfortable arm-chair, so that I can warm myself before the fire, and get sleepy and comfortable, and then I don't think the spirits will harm me.—But sleep there I must.'

This determination had the desired effect upon the party. Therefore, it was finally arranged that I should sleep in the haunted chamber, but it was also arranged that the chamber should be then and there made as comfortable as possible and that—this was insisted upon by my sisters—a young ensign who was staying in the house, and who had been sharing the bed of another gentleman should participate in my fate, and sleep in the room with me. My sisters would insist upon this, and as the young fellow in question, though evidently scared, did not dare to disobey when Clara spoke, he agreed at once.

'They surely won't face the army and navy,' he said, 'and we can talk ourselves to sleep over our claret and pipes.'

All this was arranged in the morning, and the day passed in a very lively, festive manner. We were dancing, at forfeits—even turning the trencher; flirting was abundant, for there was plenty of material; and unlimited love and speculation were indulged in by most of us when our legs were tired. I did my share in the flirtation: for there was a charming little girl, the daughter of a neighboring proprietor, in whom—the girl, not the proprietor—I found myself taking quite a lively interest, and whom I succeeded in amusing with all sorts of queer stories of foreign countries, and a few homespun yarns of my own.

My brother noticed it. 'I don't think its canny' for you two to be paying such attention to each other,' he said, 'considering the legend about the connection between our families long ago—'

'Ah? I said, blushing, I am sure as deeply as Miss Heronside herself, 'is there a legend about the two families—what is it?'

'Well, you see,' Tom; but no—it is connected with the precious ghost business; and as I want to test the truth of the matter, I will not let you know till after you and the ensign there have slept in the room, or else you may get to dreaming of what I tell you.'

'But you are surely not going to sleep in that dreadful room Mr. Bolden?' said Miss Heronside with a beseeching look.'

'Honor bright. I have pledged myself to it, and my soldier comrade the same,' I answered.

Miss Heronside looked much disturbed, but said no more, and afterwards went home in her father's carriage, promising to dine with us on the following day.

Eleven o'clock came, twelve o'clock came, and the ensign and myself went to our bedroom. My sisters bade me good night with grave countenances, and said they should not sleep for thinking of our unpleasant quarters.

When my comrade and I arrived in our chamber, to which we ascended by a flight of steep stone steps, which had perhaps, at one time been covered in but now wound outside the building to the upper story, we found a monstrous fire burning, a table set out with wine, a can for mulling claret, if we so desired, standing by the fire, a bright carpet, over the portion of the floor nearest the fire, and two comfortable arm chairs. The room was flooded with light, the glasses and decanters sparkled, the fire leaped and crackled, so that we involuntarily exclaimed, in almost the same breath, 'What a jolly room!'

We locked, bolted and barred the door which was the only inlet to the room, tied the window being in the middle of the room, and the door nearly opposite. There were no ponderous hangings, righ cornices, oil paintings frowning from the walls, as the majority of haunted rooms that I have heard or read of. The walls were whitewashed and bare, the floor oak, the chimney had been large, but was bricked and a modern grate inserted. If it had not been for the fire and carpet, it would doubtless have been a very cheerless room. As it was, it was delightful, not a bit fearsome. We went to bed.—According to my usual habit, I scarcely lay down than I fell fast asleep. I had been too much accustomed to the howling storms to be disturbed by land winds. Nay, I question whether the very noise did not really lull me to sleep.

I cannot say how long I had been asleep, but I suddenly awoke. Opening my eyes, I found that the fire had died down, and that the room was in comparative darkness. The wind had ceased, but the rain and sleet were pouring down outside. The ensign was snoring. I was just closing my eyes again, when I was attracted by what seemed a gentle motion of the door. Was it the flickering light of the fire; No the door was quietly noiselessly opening—no doubt of it. The last circumstance caused a feeling of fear to pass over me. The door was a heavy one, and always creaked and groaned on its hinges whenever the ensign or I opened or shut it. It was now opening as quietly and noiselessly as if gliding over snow. We had made the door perfectly fast too. Who—what could it be?

At that moment the recollections that I was in the haunted chamber passed over me, and I felt a chill strike to my very bones. Slowly, quietly, the door opened. I stared at it with a species of fascination which I could not overcome. Happening once to glance towards the ensign's bed, I could see that he had raised his head, and was also starting at the moving door. When the door had half opened a white figure, a mere image through which I could see, as it glided in the door it left behind; far more terrible than a perfect figure—the luminous image of man, which said at once, as plainly as form can speak, I am not mortal. The face was pale, the eyes cold dead, glazed. Oh, horror! the eyes, the head was turned towards my bed. I was seized, grappled with a numbing sense of fear which I could not overcome. I could not move or cry—I would have given worlds to have leaped from my bed out of the window; but I was spell-bound, paralyzed. Judge, then, of my unutterable horror, when the ghastly figure calmly, quietly, glided toward the bed on which I lay. It came nearer and nearer; its cold glassy eyes were fixed upon my face, the chill breath of its presence struck to my very bones—it came quite close to my pillow; my very blood curdled; my heart almost ceased to beat. Crowning horror of all, its shadowy hand passed over the bed, as if feeling for something—passed over my brow, with the cold calmly touch of a corpse. In my intense fear, my reason was surely leaving me. Once—twice—thrice the spectre hand passed over my bed, and then, turning, the figure passed swiftly into the centre of the room.

When there, I saw another figure, spectral too, transparent like the other, luminous like the other; but this figure was the figure of a young, slight girl, arrayed seemingly in her nightdress. I could notice even then, in spite of my deadly terror, the wonderous beauty of her pallid face; nay I could also notice a something in that face which spoke of Violet Heronside; a hint, a trace, a family shadow, call it. The look of terror, of pain in the face, was such as I have never forgotten, can never forget. That look haunts me yet. Shall I ever outlive the image of that horrible night?

The male spectre appeared to be dragging the other along the floor toward the window. The window slided upwards as noiselessly as the door had opened, and the figures seemed to glide, or fall, or pass together in the open air, but just at that mom it a shrill female shriek ran through the room. I heard this, and close thereupon the loud report of a pistol. My brain realed and I fell back senseless.

I recovered myself in the breakfast room of the Tower—Tom and his wife and my sisters about me, in half undress, chafing my hands and bathing my head.

It was just daybreak, the watery rays imperfectly lighted the room, and the faces around me were very pale. The ensign was at a little distance, leaning against the mantel piece, and as white as ashes.

When I recovered sufficiently to be informed how I got there I was told that Tom had heard the report of the pistol which the ensign with more presence of mind than I possessed, had fired at the spectres, and jumped out of bed, knowing that something must be wrong, had compelled a terrified footman to accompany him to our chamber, and on arriving there had found the door and window open, the ensign sitting upright in his bed trembling like an aspen leaf, and myself lying senseless.

I swallowed draught after draught of hot brandy and water, which seemed scarcely to have any effect upon my shaken system. Every now and then a memory of what I endured passed across me, and I shook in every limb, and my teeth chattered in my head.

I was wrapped up in blankets, and sat in an arm chair in front of the kitchen fire, and there I dozed till breakfast time.

Of course, the numerous visitors knew nothing of what had happened till they assembled round the table; but before a word was said, the haggard faces of the ensign and myself had betrayed us.

The tale was told, not by me—for I could not bear to speak of it—but by the ensign, who had not undergone the extremest horror of all the passing of the cold corpse hand over my face. A chill seemed to pass over the circle as they listened to the narration, and although it was broad daylight, many glanced fearfully about them, as if dreading a ghost in one of their neighbors.

'Then,' said Tom, 'there is truth after all in the legend about the two families.

Remembering the inexplicable likeness in the female spectre to Violet, I eagerly asked for the legend. Its substance was as follows: An ancestor of ours, in the reign of Henry VII had wooed and won the heiress of the Heronsides. It seems that ours was the poorest family and that the old Heronsides was averse to the match. My ancestor had carried off his bride and married her in private, then brought her home to the chamber in which we slept, then a bride chamber hung with rich tapestry.

On the third night after their arrival home the angry father had himself come to their bridal bower in the dead of night, had opened the door by means of false keys, stabbed the bridegroom in his bed, dragged his daughter from his side and thrust her from the window, in doing so he had overbalanced himself, and both were picked up dead. Such was the tragic tale, and such the foundation for a feud, which had lasted for many generations and had but recently been patched up.

'By Jove,' said the ensign, 'I am not exactly a coward, but I would not sleep in that room again for a marshal's baton.'

'Nor I to be made Admiral of the Blue.' I answered; and so we slept on the breakfast room floor that night.

I saw Miss Heronside a day or so after, and told her the story. She was strangely moved and the tears burst into her beautiful eyes. I ventured—we were alone—to kiss them softly away. 'Cannot we heal the old feud and atone for the old crime?' I asked softly, and the happiness of life I owe to the gentle answer—'Yes.'

To PRESERVE GRAPES.—Pick when in full bloom, fully ripe, in a dry warm day; lay the clusters carefully in boxes holding 30 lbs. with layers of paper between each layer of grapes; cover and put in a cool, dry cellar, and they will keep fresh until May.

Maj. Gen. Washburn is in Boston.

Scraps.

—Presentations are getting common: The captain of a canal boat out West has just been presented with a service—of five years in the penitentiary, in consideration of the distinguished ability with which he plundered a passenger, and then kicked him overboard.

—Some of our religious exchanges tell a story about a woman's being relieved from speechless grief by a hymn. We have known a number of the sex to be strongly affected and greatly benefited by HIMS before this.

—Howell Cobb is reported to have remarked, when he heard of Gov. Brown's arrest: "Yes, d——n him! he'll go to Washington a prisoner, and be sleeping with Andy Johnson in less than a fortnight."

—A well known lawyer in Boston had a horse that always stopped and refused to cross the mill dam leading out of the city. No whipping, no urging would carry him over without stopping, so he advertised him, "To be sold for no other reason than that the owner wants to go out of town."

—An eminent judge said to a jury who had passed a sleepless night in their room, unable to agree upon a verdict: "Gentlemen, I am surprised that you cannot agree in this case. I could agree either way in five minutes."

—According to a North Carolina paper, the motto of a large number of the subdued rebels must be, "Turn up the sacred soil, porcine inhabitant, or your name will swell the mortuary column."

—A brewer was smothered in a malt bin in Dover, England, by a stream of malt falling upon him when he was asleep or fallen in a fit. A melancholy way of coming to one's beer.

—A somewhat juvenile dandy said to a fair partner at a ball, "Don't you think, miss, my moustaches are becoming?" To which she replied, "Well, sir, they may 'be coming,' but they have not yet arrived."

—One of the most uncomfortable of positions is to be seated at the table opposite to a pretty girl, with a plate of hot soup, on a hot day, a troublesome moustache and no handkerchief.

—At a recent catechising held in Paris, the rector asked a little girl: "How many sacraments are there?" "There are none now." "What—none?"—"No; none; for cousin Francois died Saturday, and ma told me they gave him the last."

The President's Brother.

At some point on the march from Fayetteville, an old couple, man and wife, in the shabby dress of the poor whites of the South, and with a countenance smoke-dried and stained with tobacco juice, made their appearance at the headquarters of the General commanding the column of the division, and when they succeeded in getting attention, preferred a request to "pass to Washington." The following dialogue ensued:

"What do you want to pass to Washington for?"

"I want to see my brother there."

"Who is your brother?"

"Well, I reckon you'ns has heard tell of him. He's Andy Johnson, Vice President of the United States."

This reply caused some astonishment; but the strong likeness of the old man to the Vice President, which now became apparent to all, confirmed his statement, and all became satisfied of its truth. In the course of the inquiries it came out that the old man could not read or write.

"No more could Andy, gentlemen," said he, "when we were young men; his wife taught him."

"And why didn't your wife teach you?" was the rejoinder.

"Well, General," said the old lady, "I couldn't never read or write myself."

An experienced physician states that the unpleasant odor produced by perspiration is frequently the source of vexation to persons who are subject to it.—Nothing is simpler to remove, much more effectually than by the application of such costly unguents and perfumes are in use. It is only necessary to procure some of the compound spirits of ammonia, and place about two spoonful in a basin of water. Washing the face, hands and arms with this, leaves the skin all clean sweet and fresh as one could wish. The wash is perfectly harmless and very cheap.

"Ah Charley," said one little fellow to another "we are going to have a cupalo on our house." "Pooh, that's nothing," rejoined the other, "papa's going to get a mortgage on ours."

SEE CRITTENDEN

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 27, 1865

The News.

Tuesday, July 25th, 1865.

The New-York World's correspondent from Alabama gives a description of the condition of affairs in that State. There is still a quantity of cotton in the hands of the planters, but none has been raised during the present season. The writer still complains that restrictions are still virtually placed on the sales of cotton through the fraudulent transactions of military and Treasury agents, whose conduct he severely censures. The appointment of Gov. Parsons as Provisional Governor is generally acceptable. Fine crops of corn are now standing in Central Alabama.

All the rebel prisoners remaining in Fort Warren, with the exception of A. H. Stephens and Postmaster Reagan, were released yesterday. Among them were two Major Generals and ten Brigadier Generals.

Advices from South America state that the Republics of Equador and Peru are still in a state of insubordination. A battle occurred in Peru on the 5th, between the rebels and government troops, in which the former were defeated with considerable loss. The President of the Equador recently seized an English steamer of the Pacific Navigation company while at Quayaquil, and with it steamed to where the revolutionists were lying with captured ships of the government which he recaptured or destroyed.

Wednesday, July 26.

Mining is being carried on quite extensively in North Carolina by the negroes. There are large quantities of copper, iron, lead, coal and sulphur to be shiped North. The rebels in North Carolina are again becoming defiant and threaten the lives of Union men and negroes as soon as the United States troops are withdrawn.

Secretary Stanton has taken possession of Fort Pickens, [illegible] proprietor $1,500 per month for the rent of it until February, and to pay $100,000 should Congress consent to purchase it.

A former clerk in the Treasury Department, named Whittlesey was arrested in New York on Monday, for stealing $1,000,000 in U. S. bonds in June, 1864. He was suspected at the time and closely watched. When arrested he confessed his guilt. The coupons were found in his possession but the bonds were destroyed. He was taken to Washington.

The Pacific Railroad Company have contracted for the construction of 1,200 miles of their new telegraph line, to be completed before the close of the season. The line from San Francisco to Chicago will be completed and in working operation in one year.

The Richmond Whig, which was suspended a few weeks since, has recommenced publication by permission of Gen. Terry. The tone of its editorial is that of a bitter irony at the restriction placed upon it.

The Cincinnati Bridge.

In about two weeks a foot bridge for the use of the workmen only, will be thrown across the river, on wire ropes, and about one month from that time workmen will commence stretching the wires for the main cable. They are receiving wire for the latter as fast as possible. The main bridge will be suspended on two wire cables, each of which will be thirteen inches in diameter. The cable will be made by stretching one wire across at a time, until the whole number required are in place, and then machines will be brought into requisition to twist them together. The iron saddle plates, on which the cables will rest on the tops of the piers, are now ready, and weigh nine tons each. The span of the bridge is one thousand and fifty-seven feet, being about two hundred feet longer than the Niagara Suspension Bridge, and longer than any wire suspension bridge in the world. About five hundred tons of wire will be used in constructing it. The distance from the foundation to the top of the piers is two hundred feet, and from the floor of the bridge to the top of the piers one hundred and ten feet. The floor of the bridge when the river is at its present stage, will be about ninety feet from the water, and will be ten feet higher in the center than at either pier. The latter are built of solid masonry, and measured at the foundation, one hundred by fifty feet, decreasing until reaching the top, where the measurement is seventy by thirty-six feet. As many workmen as can be had are employed, but notwithstanding all this the bridge will not be ready for public travel short of one year. The spans from the piers to the anchorage are two hundred and eighty feet.—Cincinnati Gazette.

Dansville.

We clip the following from the Dansville (N. Y.) Herald:

Tecumseh, July 10, 1865.

In my former letter I made mention of the excellence of this region for farming, and in particular of our little village of the old Indian Chief, Tecumseh. Now I will add, what many in your country are well aware of, that this Northern Lenawee country was settled, or is now mainly inhabited, by people from your own Livingston county. You may be assured that many [illegible] would not leave such lands, and such society, as abound in Sparta, Groveland, Geneseo, Nunda and other towns in your region, and come to this neighborhood and village, unless our lands, and the society here were of the first quality. In my calls upon the people, I am brought forcibly to realize, that I am in the midst of old acquaintances, as they seem, for they bear names that were familiar to me in your region, and are well acquainted with all your prominent families. The card of William Richard is now before me, and he and his lady are from Sparta; and lately I met at his house, Mrs. Slate, and Mr. and Mrs. Bonner of the same old Sparta. The family of De Puys in this town, well to do farmers, are from the same town. The family of Gillespies are also from Sparta, and the lady of young Gillespie, they twain keeping our chief hotel, is from Nunda, that part classically called, in your region, Brushville. We had a call lately from Joseph Begole of Mt. Morris, who, as he came down our street, and rode around the town found himself a hail fellow well met by at least a dozen persons from his neighborhood. Of course, there is no such thing as fair with such emigrants as these to this grandest of all farming counties. It would do your eyes good to ride through their fields about these days and see their fine clover and grass, in stacks and barns, or yet afield; the large field of almost black corn, as high as the good board fences that inclose it; the acres upon acres, and hundred upon hundred farms of wheat all ready for the reaper, or shocked in the field; the potatoes, the bending orchards of apples and every now and then the splended herds of cattle, or flocks of sheep feeding, or reclining under the beautiful groves of oak, hickory and black walnut, that here abound. Thanks to the Great Giver, these crops are all first rate, and the wheat [illegible] spell with a instead of a w—is not accused of injuring the wheat worth speaking of, at least this year.

Well we have had our 4th of July, and your servant "J. W. R." was the honored orator. It was a union gathering of six towns, Macon, Raisin, Ridgeway, Franklin, Cambridge and Tecumseh, Clinton being included in this town. We met in a splendid oak forest. Our stage would hold some two hundred, and was honored with the old battle flag of Great, when he was at Corinth; and also with the flag of the 4th Michigan, which was so tattered and torn by the twenty battles it had been in, that it could not be unfurled. "Johnny came marching home" just in time to be with us; and among these, were Crittenden and Tyler who were the first to lay hands on Jeff. Davis at his capture by Col. Pritchard, a Michigan man. I had the pleasure of taking them by the hand, on the stage, and hearing them tell how it was done. I found it a warm day to speak in, and especially to speak an hour and a half.—But the thousands held still, and took it patiently, and all the more as I had so much to say as to what the Michigan boy in blue had done in this war. Are you aware that this plucky little State sent over 90,000 to the war, which is one eighth of her entire population. What State did as well? After the dinner where near 2000 ate, a bouquet of fresh flowers was presented to the soldier who had been the longest in the war. He put it up for sale, and it was sold for $25, and again put up, and again put up, and it was sold thus till it netted over $500. There was about twelve hundred raised in all, which is the beginning of a fund to rear a monument for our dead soldiers, to be placed upon our village square.—Did your people do as well, and raise as much for a monument for your brave heroes departed? If not, I hope you will testify yourselves, for they are worthy of a noble shaft. I have collected 120 names to go upon our monument, and this is not all who have died from these six towns represented in our celebration. Alas! how many homes are broken by the war; and how great duties devolve on those of us who have stayed at home, to remember the dead, and their families—now!

"When wild war's deadly blast is blown,
And gentle peace returning:
We mony a sweet babe fatherless
And mony a widow mourning."

J. W. R.

☞ Mr. L. A. Wallace, master machinist of the M. S. R. R. shops, in Adrian and at LePorte, is dangerously ill.

☞ The telegraph lines have been extended to the village of Morenci, in the northern part of this county.

Jeff. Davis in his Cell.

From all the sources of information I am able to command, there is no doubt Jeff. Davis is slowly, but surely declining in health from his protracted imprisonment. He will not even avail himself of the opportunities of exercise afforded him, and he has a space of about twenty by twenty feet he could walk about in if he chooses; but all the long hours of each weary day he sits at the barred embrasure of his casemate, sullen, silent, speechless. With his chin chronately resting on one hand and then on both, he looks intermittingly through this opening—the execution of the assassinating conspirators in Washington has been communicated to Davis within the past three or four days. It is certain that a great and marked change has come over him, and to his undoubted knowledge of this execution the change is attributed. His food is of the best quality, he has abundance of pure air, and there is no special reason accounting for the present gloominess and decreasing health.

Every day Mr. Clay is improving in health. He still takes his morning hour's walk, and is in greatly improved physical condition on account of it. Dr. Bancroft feeds him on hospital diet yet; in fact, [illegible] star that brain no one can tell. Before him are the bay and the passing ships, and the Rip Raps, growing each day into a wondrous work of impregnable strength; and beyond, the blue sky and fleeting clouds and wild sea-birds enjoying the boundless freedom of the outer air. And mingling with these sights comes that perpetual, mournful refrain, the sound of the waves dashing upon the beach. Here he is a prisoner, and under what circumstances and under what terrible charges hanging over him! Not a moment is he left alone—not a moment passes that he is not under the vigilant eye of soldiers. There is no egress through these strong iron bars. There is no escape through this cordon of muskets. There can be no attempt at rescue from without. What wonder is it that that form has grown more emaciated, those cheeks more sunken, those eyes more lustrious, that brow more wrinkled—his hair whiter, his words fewer, his spirits sunk in perpetual gloom?—Health has left him; hope has gone; that proud spirit is broken, and the end is not far. I am writing no fancy sketch. I am told to-day that Jeff. Davis, if he keeps up his present prison habits and despondency, will not live six weeks longer.

Yesterday Mr. Davis requested permission for a chaplain to see him. This is the second request of this kind he has made since his arrival. Chaplain Kerfoot was sent to his cell. He greeted the chaplain with warmth. "It is to you and to this book" (holding the Bible in his hand) "I must look," he said, "for consolation now." The chaplain talked to him of his spiritual condition, read to him passages from the Bible and prayed with him. After the chaplain left, Davis appeared to be in much better spirits than he has been in for some time past.

He reads the Bible morning and evening. Recently, I am told, he protracts these readings much more than at the commencement of his imprisonment. He confesses his belief in the Bible, and professes to have made it the ruling guide of his life. It is evident that he does not fancy being confined exclusively to readings the Scriptures, for he sometimes clamors for a different style of literature; but his request in this regard thus far has not been complied with. This refusal to extend to him the privileges and not permitting him to write to his wife or see letters from her, have formed the burden of his complaints.

If permission was given him to have all the books he wished, he could not read much himself, and for the comfort derived from them, would have to rely mainly on others reading to him. One eye is now almost totally blind, and the other gives indication of rapidly becoming so. He has complained lately of seeing objects double. He still wears his goggles during the daytime.

Life in prison is necessarily monotonous. With few it has ever been more so than with Davis. He rises pretty early, usually at five o'clock in the morning.—He takes a bathe the first thing, using salt water at first, and winding up with fresh. His bathing facilities are limited, consisting of a common washtub half filled with salt water, a wash basin of fresh water, coarse towels and soap. An army blanket he converts into a temporary screen, and bathes behind this. He is not very particular about his toilet, the fashion of combing his hair and all that, but is exact upon the subject of cleanliness of his underclothing, sheets, towels, &c. Bath and toilet completed, he reads his Bible, and at half-past eight has his breakfast. This is served him from Dr. Craven's table. The statement in some of the papers that a daughter of Dr. Craven brings him his food is incorrect.—A soldier brings his food to him. Tea, toast and an egg or two, or broiled steak, usually make up his breakfast. His appetite is very variable. Gen. Miles may call in to see him and pass a few words, or the officer of the guard may have something to say, for only these two, except his physician, Craven and the chaplain, of course, when he calls, are allowed to speak to him. In conversation he has betrayed an anxiety and even determination to discuss the subject of the impossibility of ever convicting him of treason. He throws himself back upon the question of State rights as his main point of defence. For some time, finding that all the discussion was on his own side, he has kept silent on the subject. Except these interruptions in the way of conversation, which, it will be understood, are not daily by any means, he passes most of his time till 3 P. M., his dinner hour, in looking at the window. He smokes his pipe occasionally, but is no great smoker. He says that much smoking makes him nervous. After dinner he passes the time as before. He has supper at half past 8 o'clock, and then directly goes to bed. He sleeps pretty soundly, but more so formerly than latterly. At first the light kept burning in the room all night troubled him, but he has become used to it and makes no complaint on the subject now, as perhaps he knows it would do no good if he did.

In previous letters I have described Mr. Davis' quarters and the guard placed over him. Both continue the same as at first. He has been urgent to have the guard in his own room, the rear room of the casemate—two are kept constantly in both front and back room, and an officer with them—removed and kept in the front room. But his entreaty was of no avail. Next he desired that the guard in his own room might be allowed to stand instead of being kept walking, but here, too, his request has not been complied with.

There is every reason to believe that stronger food. He is very [illegible] and chatty if he can get any one to talk with him, and hopeful as to the future.

Nothing seems to affect the physique of Mr. Mitchel. He is apparently as good in health as on the day he was brought here. He goes barefooted most of the time, and takes things coolly and quietly. His manners are not very conciliatory, nor calculated to attach friends to him. I am told that he has not lately expressed any fears as to the President pressing a pardon upon him.

Caught at Last.

In the summer of 1863, a young man calling himself Stone, presented himself at the banking office of Messr. Mitchel & Waldron, in Hillsdale, and represented himself as the agent of McCormick & Co. for the sale of McCormick's reapers, and inquired as to the responsibility of a Mr. McDermot, and also Mr. Willits, farmers living a few miles from Hillsdale, representing that he was about selling them each a reaping machine, etc. Being assured that they were good, he went out to their places and represented that he was purchasing cavalry horses, struck a bargain with each of these men for a horse, and stating that his brother would call next day and get the horses, he requested them to give him an order for the horses so that he could send it next day when his brother came for them.—This they in each case consented to do, when he presented them the orders so adroitly folded, that, instead of signing an order, they put their signatures to the corner of a blank piece of paper, above which he proceeded to write two promissory notes, in each case for $115 and in the other for $165. The signatures being genuine and the parties perfectly good the notes were without much hesitation purchased by one of the above named firm of bankers. It was immediately ascertained that the note part of the said instruments were forgeries. Pursuit was [illegible] but the fellow succeeded in eluding his pursuers. He was tracked to Jackson, Detroit and Canada, and then disappeared. Last week, detective H. H. Sherman, who had a description of the man and had been on the watch for him for about two years, succeeded in nabbing him at Port Huron, where he was arrested and taken to Hillsdale on Thursday last, and is now in jail awaiting examination. He is a man about 35, well dressed and gentlemanly in appearance, and is doubtless an old hand at such games.

The Conspirators.

A Fortress Monroe correspondent says: The Sentenced conspirators Mudd, Arnold, O'Laughlin and Spangler, arrived here Monday on the State of Maine.—They were in charge of Brevet Brig. Gen. Dodd, and wore irons on their ankles.—When first placed on board at Washington they also had on manacles. These last fetters were removed after the steamer left her wharf at Washington. On the trip down Mudd and Spangler were very cheerful and employed their time in playing back gammon. O'Laughlin and Arnold on the other hand seemed much depressed in spirits, and were melancholy and reserved. On her arrival in the Roads, the State of Maine anchored and Gen. Dodd came on shore and communicated with Washington by telegraph.—Just at sundown the steam tug Chowan went along side of the State of Maine, and the four conspirators were placed on board of her. The Chowan then steamed along side of the United States gunboat Florida, the four prisoners were put on board the Florida, and the gunboat immediately steamed to seaward. The destination of the conspirators was not made known. The conjecture was Dry Tortugas. The only person possessing the information was Capt. Budd, of the Florida and he did not disclose it to any one.

Dangerous Counterfeits.—Dangerous counterfeits have made their appearance on the $1 Treasury notes. Excepting a few minor discrepancies the spurious note is an exact facsimile of the genuine bill. The general appearance of the bill is very good. The green ink is of somewhat lighter shade than that used on the genuine, and some parts of the note looks scratchy and blurred. The figures 1 on the green scroll-work on the lower right quarter of the note are printed in green, in the genuine they are white. The face of Chase in the counterfeit, is badly executed.

☞ The bridge across the Hudson at Albany is commenced. The draw, to allow vessels to pass, is to swing upon a circular rail about 27 feet in diameter, and will weigh about 200 tons.

Scraps of News.

There are 285 Congregational Churches in Connecticut.

Last year 54 Graduates of Harvard College died.

A New York paper estimates that New York pays $7,000,000 yearly for amusements.

There is a movement on foot to establish a joint stock brewery in Cincinnati.

A lateral rifle ball has just been extracted from the head of a recovered New Haven soldier, after remaining there 106 days.

A white woman of Fishkill, N. Y., has [illegible] band's money.

Somebody has ascertained that there are 400,000 feathers on the wing of a silk worm moth.

An extensive fire took place in Dundas, C. W., on Friday last, destroying $13,000 worth of property.

The library of Judah P. Benjamin—containing over 600 volumes, has been confiscated and sold.

The bark Dahomy has been siezed in New York on suspicion of being designated for the African slave trade.

The Ohio State Fair this year is to be held at Columbus, from the 12th to the 15th of September.

The Council Bluffs Nonpareil gives an account of the murder of a whole family by Brigham Young's "Danites."

Marshal Bazaine has at last married his young Mexican girl. The ceremony took place in the palace before Maxamilian and the Empress.

The veritable log cabin built by the late President, Abraham Lincoln, 35 years ago, upon a prairie in Illinois, is on exhibition on Boston Common.

Skates have been invented with a heating chamber under the foot plate, by means of which the feet are prevented from being cold while skating.

A New Yorker has invented a little machine for the convenience of one-armed persons by which they are enabled to wash the remaining hand and arm.

Boston has purchased and is going to place in Faneuil Hall, the picture of Mr. Lincoln, Painted by Joseph Ames. It is pronounced the best portrait extant.

The Coroner's inquest of the murder of the Joyce children, near Boston, could find no evidence implicating the man Stewart, arrested on suspicion.

In St. Louis, while workmen were removing bodies from an old cemetary, to a new one, considerable sums of money were found in the graves. In one was $500 in French gold.

A Philadelphia paper estimates the loss in five or six counties of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, by the recent floods in the Schuylkill and Raritan rivers, at $600,000.

The theatrical wardrobe of J. Wilkes Booth, [illegible] on the wreck of the steamer Marie Victoria, was recently sold at auction in Canada. Most of the articles, though greatly damaged, brought high prices.

The Police investigation at Montreal have been brought to a disgraceful close. One councellor tore up the minutes, another left the room; and the absence of a third left the committee without a quorum.

The "United Service Company" of New York have inaugurated a grand serenade to be given to Gens. Dix and Hooker, the outgoing and incoming commanders of that military department.

The streets of Hamilton C. W., have been lit with coal oil for the past three years, gas having been discarded for that purpose. The bids for the present year were $12.50 per light per annum for coal oil, and $16 for gas.

Eggs may be kept fresh for two years by dipping them in a solution made of one pound of quicklime and one of salt to a gallon of water. They should be packed with the small end downward, in bran or salt.

An association of New England railroad men, it is said, have, after a long series of computations and observations, given it as their opinion that the wear and tear on a railroad train and track in stopping, costs about eight cents a stop, on an average.

It is suggested that Congress at its next meeting make an approbation for the purchase of Ford's Theatre, and convert it into a Library Building for the Department clerks, the books to be obtained by donation and subscription.

In front of the residence of Mr. Burbridge, in Cleveland, is an iron statue of a negro, used as a hitching post. It was taken from in front of a Baton Rouge slave pen, where it was used as a sign. Quite a curious relic of a defunct institution.

A horse was recently bitten by a mad dog in Lafayette, Ind. For some time he did not exhibit signs of hydrophobia, and it was thought he was safe, when one day he bit his keeper and the horse hitched by his side. He is now stark mad.

The attempted sale of the catafalque at New York a few day since, met with poor success. It was dividided into 115 lots, but only 30 were sold. The proceeds are to be applied to the Union Home and School. It cost $18,000, and will not sell for more than $1,200.

A writer in the New York Evening Post, a medical man, say that in all probability the cholera will be in this country next year (1866). His theory is, that its appearance is periodical, returning every 17 years. It prevailed here in 1832, and again in 1849, and usually a few cases appear for a year or two after.

Quite a row was got up in Boston the other day. A gang of boys robbed an old man. The man afterwards went to the Police Station and made complaint. While the policemen were trying to arrest two of the parties described, they were attacked by about 75 boys and women. The police finally succeeded in arresting 16 of the boys.

There is $32,009,410 of taxable property at Buffalo.

18 Pronunciamento 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, yield and have the flour suit.

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them.

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd cost Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Middlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. W. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sa[illegible]

WATER-LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDDLINGS, BRAN, SALT,

Corn In the Ear and Shelled,

A good assortment of the kinds lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed [illegible] wood Siding, sectioned [illegible] Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned ue of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any order for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

Made at the warehouse, also goods bought and sold on commission. Wheat received at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats, Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN

GAZLAY'S

PACIFIC MONTHLY.

Now is your time to Subscribe for our New Pacific Monthly, which we cheerfully commend to you as the Excelsior of all the

MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

Employing and paying more for Literary talent than any other Magazine in the country, we flatter ourselves that no Department of the Pacific Monthly will suffer neglect from the want of able and well-known

LITERARY CONTRIBUTORS,

of the [illegible] and additional engagements as circumstances may demand. Your special attention is called to our

ILLUSTRATIONS,

which are produced, without regard to expense, by an efficient corps of artists—at whose head stands Brightly and McLenan, unequalled as Designers and Engravers. We call the attention of the Public to the profusion of first-class illustrations of the varied, novel and picturesque scenery and local views of the

GOLDEN STATES

AND

TERRITORIES

OF THE

PACIFIC.

With Descriptive Views and Reading Matter, affording the most reliable and comprehensive medium in existence for full information in regard to California, Oregon, Nevada, and their contiguous and auriferous territories. The information we give in regard to the Pacific States, alone, is worth ten times the Subscription Price of our Magazine. The twelve numbers, a year's subscription, when neatly bound, affording two splendid volumes, suitable for the

DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY,

OR THE

COUNTING-HOUSE,

and costing but FIVE DOLLARS, which in years to come can not be purchased for any price. Our

EDITORIAL DRAWER

will abound with selections of Wit, Original Stories, Comic Sketches, and light Literature, culled from a well-garnered storehouse of fun, fact and incident, affording interesting light reading matter for the Parlor and the Fire-side.

COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS.

This Department of the Monthly, under the immediate supervision of McLenan, the celebrated Comic Delineator, will be found always rich in Wit, Merriment, and appropriate Design.

FASHION PLATES.

Having made special arrangements with Mme. Demorest, 473 Broadway, New York, for contributions to our Fashion Department, we call the attention of the Ladies to the same, and commend our Monthly to their notice, as containing more information in regard to Dress and the Toilet, than any other Magazine published.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!

Now is the time to Subscribe, and have your volume complete for 1865. We will furnish back Numbers to such as do not subscribe in time for the January or February issues. But to secure and get them without delay, send in your Subscriptions early. Our Subscription Price is payable in Advance, upon the receipt of which or receipt, for the same, will be sent in return.

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR,

PREMIUMS IN GOLD!

As an additional inducement to Subscribe early, we shall distribute among our Subscribers a large list of valuable Premiums, relying upon an extraordinary large Subscription List to compensate us for our liberality. These Premiums will consist of valuable Souvenirs of the Golden Wealth of the Pacific States, and will be as follows:—

☞ To any person sending us One Hundred Paying Subscriptions, we will send them, immediately, a Twenty and a Ten Dollar Gold Piece, California Coinage; and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Fifty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Ten and a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Twenty-five Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Five Dollar and a Two-and-half Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Ten Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Three Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Five Paying Subscriptions, we will send an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ We are, also, having made, a large quantity of Valuable PRESENTS and KEEPSAKES for Single Subscribers, who send direct to the Office.

The Presents and Souvenirs consist of Ladies' Breast Pins, Ear-Rings, Finger-Rings, Sleeve Buttons, etc.; and Gentlemen's Breast Pins, Finger-Rings, Sleeve Buttons, Studs, Settings for Cane-Heads, etc., made from California and Nevada Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Crystalized Quartz Jewelry, (commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry.) The Gold and Silver-bearing Quartz and Ore from which these Souvenirs are made is from the celebrated Lecompton and Spider Mines of Nevada, and are valuable as Mineral specimens in other respects and Ornaments. EVERY SINGLE SUBSCRIBER, as above, to the Pacific Monthly, will be entitled to one of these Articles for every subscription standing opposite his name on our Books.

SPECIMEN COPIES

OF THE

PACIFIC MONTHLY

sent, postage pre-paid, upon the receipt of Fifty Cents, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

CAUTION!

☞ Write your Name, Post-Office, County and State, to where you want the Pacific Monthly sent, Plain and Distinct.

☞ Register all Letters containing Money, or when convenient, send by Express.

☞ If your Post-Office is a Money-Order office, obtain a Money-Order for your remittance.

☞ Send none but United States Treasury Notes, or money Bankable in New York.

☞ All Letters asking Information, etc., to receive attention, must contain a Stamp, to pay answer. Address all Correspondence,

D. M. GAZLAY & CO.,

PUBLISHERS,

PACIFIC MONTHLY,

34 LIBERTY STREET,

NEW YORK.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:

AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,

121 Nassau Street, New York.

WHITE & BAUER,

San Francisco, California.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 80	$ 1 25	$ 4 50	$ 6 00	$ 8 00
2 Squares	1 00	2 00	3 00	5 00	12 00
3 Squares	2 50	3 50	6 00	10 00	14 00
¼ Column	3 00	4 00	8 00	12 00	18 00
½ Column	4 00	6 00	10 00	18 00	30 00
1 Column	8 00	10 00	20 00	30 00	50 00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be published until ordered out, and charged accordingly.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

☞ That Red X after your name indicates that you have an account at this office which you are requested to call and settle.

☞ We would say to those who are indebted to us that we must have our pay immediately or the accounts will be left with an officer for collection. A word to the wise is sufficient.

☞ Extra copies of the Herald can be procured at Ketcham's News Depot.

☞ Charlie Conklin of the Clinton Exchange, gives a Soldier's Ball on the 4th of August. The Jackson City Cornet Band furnishes the music.

☞ There is to be a dance at the Lake Ridge House, in Macon, on Friday Aug. 11th. Warner will do his best to please all who attend.

☞ We would ask our City Fathers if it is lawful that Chicago street should be used as a race course. If it is we have nothing more to say.

☞ J. D. Robbins has a large assortment of Wall Paper, School Books and Stationery which he is selling remarkably cheap.

☞ L. Wells, of Clinton, presented us, last week, with a basket of the best new potatoes that we ever saw. He calls them the Vermont Whites. He will please accept the thanks of all hands even to the 'devil.'

First National Bank.

The new National Bank of Tecumseh, has received a portion of its currency from the Treasury Department and has already commenced issuing it. The bills received thus far are all fives. A supply of ones, twos and threes is expected in a few days.

Atlantic Monthly.

The Atlantic Monthly, for August is at hand. It has a good table of contents. Among those articles most interesting to the general reader, are 'Among the Honey Maker,' and a 'Sketch of the life of John Bright and the English Radicals,' and a political article on 'Negro Suffrage.'

☞ Hoag, the Artist, has just received a large supply of new Frames of all sizes. He has some of the nicest ever brought to this county. Go and purchase one (or more) and have him take the best picture of yourself you ever saw to put in them. By the Powers he can beat the man who invented the art, of taking pictures.

☞ There will be no Sabbath School or religious services at the Universalist Church on Sunday July 30, and Sunday Aug. 6, owing to the temporary absence of the Pastor of the Society, Rev. H. L. Hayward, who is taking a short summer vacation among his friends abroad.—Services will be resumed as usual on Sunday, Aug. 13.

☞ We take pleasure in calling the attention of our patrons to the advertisement of Doctor's Hause and Pelham.—Owing to the great amount of work in his profession Doct. Hause has associated with him Doct. Pelham, who having had ample practice is thoroughly qualified to suit the wishes of this community.

From the fine specimens of work we have heretofore noticed we feel confident they will suit the most fastidious and would advise all who need their professional services to call without delay.

☞ The new driving park, for the accommodation of the State Fair, at Adrian is now open to the public, the track having been completed. It is half a mile in length, and is pronounced excellent in every respect. The fence surrounding the park is also completed. It is of pine eight feet high, and is set with cedar posts. The Building Committee of the State Agricultural Society are expected there soon, to make arrangements for the erection of the necessary buildings.

☞ The rainy weather of the past week has damaged the wheat crop very materially. There will be a large amount of grown wheat in this vicinity this season. The complaint of grown wheat is very general among the farmers, and many pieces will scarcely be worth the harvesting. There was probably more wheat drawn in on Wednesday, in the town of Tecumseh, than ever before during a single day. The clouds cleared away on Tuesday and the weather since has been excellent for the farmers. All crops excepting wheat have been much benefitted by the rains.

☞ R. C. Moore would respectfully call the attention of all those in want of Dry Goods, to the fact, that he is retailing goods to-day, (very many articles) from ten to twenty-five per cent. less than he can buy them in New York,—for proof of this statement, he refers you to the quotations (at wholesale) of the New York, Detroit, and Toledo papers, selling goods at retail at less than we can buy them. Will not last long. Reader can you see it?

☞ A Life Insurance company accomplishes all that is done by a Savings Bank and much besides. It not only allows him interest upon it but for a certain sum paid to it annually it engages to pay a much larger amount to his family in case of his decease, let it occur when it will. Money in a Savings Bank is too often drawn out to gratify some passing desire. It cannot be drawn from insurance companies. Money in a bank is exposed to the demand of creditors. In an Insurance company it is secure from them. For Life Insurance apply to S. C. Stacy, Agent.

National Lyrics,

The third volume of Companion Poets for the People, published by Ticknor & Fields is just from the press. It contains selections from the choicest poems of J. G. Whittier, and is the best volume published thus far. The design of the series is to present selections from the leading poets in a style at once convenient, tasteful and inexpensive, and the price is fixed at only fifty cents per volume. No family should be without it. The next volume, now in press, is entitled Lyrics of Life by Robert Browning.

The Atlantic Telegraph,

This great work will soon be completed. It is being pushed forward with great vigor, and already we have the tariff of prices announced. It is expected that the first dispatch over the line will be as follows: "The best and cheapest place in Southern Michigan, to buy Books, Stationery, Photograph Albums, Paper Collars, and all notions connected with the Stationery trade, is at Ketcham's Book News and Paper Store, Post Office Building, Tecumseh, Mich."

☞ The American Phrenological Journal for August lies on our table.—It contents are as interesting as usual.—In addition to much other useful matter it contains a sketch of the life and character of Herbert Spencer, articles upon Mrs. Sigourney, good and bad heads, the Sandwich Islanders, the Shakers, and a biographical and phrenological sketch of Gen. Wm. Tecumseh Sherman.

☞ Go to Holton & Fields for Pianos, Melodians, Organs and Sheet Music.

LIFE, SPEECHES AND PUBLIC SERVICES OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, by J. H. Barrett, com. of Pensions. Mr. S. L. Beal, is now canvassing for the above entitled work, which is a complete history of his early life, political speeches in and out of Congress, also a general view of his policy as President of the United States and his messages, Proclamations, letters &c., and a concise history of the war. It embodies the events of the first 3 years of his administration, and will contain the history of the last year of his administration and the particulars of his tragic and lamented demise. Mr. Beal will call upon the citizens of Tecumseh, Franklin, Combridge, Woodstock, and Macon, and give them a chance to subscribe for this valuable work. It is sold wholly by subscription, so do not fail to become a subscriber.

'A thing of Beauty is a joy forever.'

MARTHA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER.—a perfect success; the best in market. Is not a dye—will not stain the skin—will restore gray and faded hair to a beautiful black, brown auburn color, and cause it to assume its former beauty. It will cure all humors of the scalp, remove dandruff and scurf from the head, keep the hair soft and nice, and give it a silk like appearance. It is the best dressing for the hair in the WORLD. Every woman with grey and faded hair—every man with gray hair and faded whiskers, can NOW be restored to their original beauty and color in one or two month's time by using "MARTHA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER." It will prevent the hair from falling off, promote a healthy growth, will cause it to grow on bald heads when there is life and vitality at the roots.—Where these are gone there is no hope of success. WARRANTED, or money refunded. ☞ Sold everywhere.

A. B. WILSON, Agent, Michigan.

Village Lots For Sale!

I propose to open the streets and have my 10 acre lot laid out in lots to suit purchasers. It is a beautiful location south of west school house. Terms easy. Cash on time. Also 7 acres with orchard and all kinds of fruit; good house Lot, sheds &c. Also other Houses and Tenements located in the beautiful village of Tecumseh.

June, 1865. WM. McCOWEN.

BROOM HANDLES!

FOR SALE AT

Haydens Warehouse,

TECUMSEH, MICH.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., July 27, 1866

Daniels Lorenzo — Griffin
Miller Volney J — Mento Mrs Jacob
Overn Thomas — Smith H
Vosberg Mrs Abigal — Vanormer J C
Wilcox Eugene

Letters to strangers or transient visitors in a town or city, whose special address may be unknown, should be marked, in the lower left-hand corner, with the word "Transient."

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

N. B.—A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within 30 days, will be complied with at the usual prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer.—Sec. 28, law of 1863.

Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner, and leave space between the stamp and direction for post marking without interfering with the writing.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Chancery Sale.

In pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court, for the County of Lenawee, in Chancery, made on the 6th day of April, 1836, in a cause therein pending wherein Lewis Brooks is complainant, Hannah Rowland and others are defendants.—Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the Room, in the city of Adrian, where the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee is holden, on the 8th day of September, 1865, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, all that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Tecumseh in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan bounded and described as follows: Said premises being situated west of and near the village of Clinton in said County and bounded and described as follows, viz: Commencing at a point in the center of the Chicago road twenty-seven feet west of the west abutments of the public bridge across the mill race of the Atlas mill property thence west along the center of the Chicago road one hundred and twenty feet, thence south one hundred and ninety feet, thence east one hundred and eight feet, to the west side of the west bank of said mill race, thence north along the west side of said mill race bank one hundred and ninety feet to the place of beginning containing about one half an acre of land be the same more or less, reserving always from the operation of this mortgage all the rights and privileges of road and roadways that were reserved by F. S. Snow and wife in their deed of said premises to George Unterkercher and Hannah Rowland dated January 22nd, 1859, this mortgage is intended to cover and convey the undivided one half only of the above described property and appurtenances.—July 27th, 1865.

J. J. HOGABOAM,
Circuit Court Commissioner.

E. B. Woon, Sol. for Compl't.

DENTISTRY.

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices.

DISSOLUTION:

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER.—☞ Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

F. R. Stebbins,

Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

J. C. BURROUGHS,

VETERINARY

Physician and Surgeon,

Of the Village of Tecumseh,

Would inform the citizens of this vicinity that he is always prepared with various kinds of Medicines for curing the numerous diseases to which that useful and domestic animal the horse is subject namely

All cases of Chronic Distempers, Fevers, Inflammation of the Lungs, Farcy, Aches of the intestines, Ringbone, and Bone Spavin, Bog or Blood Spavin, &c.&c.

Now my good friend why will you suffer your horse to remain ailing when the complaint can be cured for a trifle and by so doing you may save the life and price of a good, faithful and valuable animal. Take notice and apply to J. C. Burroughs without delay as delays are sometimes dangerous.

J. C. BURROUGHS, V. S.

753

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co: If you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April, 4, '65 A. JAMES.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

consisting of

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction.

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat.

Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c

I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best filled Establishments!

Stock of Furniture

Is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St, Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notice by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices.

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pic. ures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style,

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to make room for other Goods. Better bargains can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county. Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door westof of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

If you are in want of anything in the Meat line be sure and give him a call. n759

Corporation Notice

The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

DEUEL & WILBUR,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE, MOLLASSES, TEA, SYRUP, SPICES, FISH, TOBACCO, WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK, LARD, COD FISH, and in fact everything that anybody or his brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

And all our neighbors know

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICHIGAN

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of Williamsport, New York, and requested his assistance in collecting bounty and pay for two husbands who had been killed during the rebellion. Her third husband accompanied her.

☞ What a world of gossip would be prevented if it was only remembered that a person who tells you the faults of others, intends to tell your faults.

☞ A barnacle-nosed old fellow gave as a reason for taking his liquor clear, that since the flood, water had always been wet of sinners.

☞ A coal oil milionaire has named his little heiress Petrolia Ann. We suppose the next little heiress will be named &c. &c.

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n706 A. JAMES.

NEW AND CHEAP

CASH STORE

WASTEL & ADAM

Have just opened in the village of Tecumseh, at No. 2,

MECHANICS BLOCK

The most choice and splendid assortment of

DRY GOODS

Ever offered for sale in Southern Michigan. Their stock consists entirely of the very NEWEST and LATEST styles of

DRESS GOODS, FANCY GOODS, Yankee Notions &c. embracing

SILKS, ALAPACAS, DELAINES, CALICOES, PRINTS, SHAWLS, LACES, RIBBONS, SHIRTINGS, SHEETINGS, WORSTEDS,

And everything in the Dry Goods Line. Their Goods were all purchased at

PANIC PRICES,

since the late fall in New York, and will be sold as low as at any Store in the West.

We can, and will sell as low as any Dry Goods Store in Lenawee County, or elsewhere. Quick sales for READY CASH and SMALL PROFITS, is our motto.

☞ Call and see our

HOOP SKIRTS AND INVISIBLE CLASPED

New York Bell Balmorel

If you wish to encourage competition, which is the life of business, please favor us with a portion of your patronage.

Call and see, and examine Goods and Prices and judge for yourselves.

Tecumseh, April 4th, 1865. n740-3

JEFF'S CAPTURED

MORE PARTICULARS,

GREAT EXCITEMENT

AT THE

NEW STORE

In John Usborn's Block,

DRY GOODS

FANCY GOODS,

Yankee Notions

&c., of the latest styles selling at

NEW YORK PRICES,

Please call and examine our Goods before purchasing elsewhere.

C. B. ACKLEY.

NEW DRUG STORE.

M. Wright, has just received from New York, and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hood's, north side of Chicago street.

GAZLAY'S PACIFIC MONTHLY.

Note in your time to Subscribe for our New Pacific Monthly, which we cheerfully commend to you as the Excellence of all the

MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

Employing and paying more for Literary talent than any other Magazine in the country, we flatter ourselves that no O. portment of the Pacific Monthly will suffer neglect from the want of able and well known

LITERARY CONTRIBUTORS.

representing some of the the Literary world. We shall make such additional engagements as circumstances may mand. Your special attention is called to our ich are produced, without regard to expense, an efficient Corps of artists at whose head ands BIGHTELY and MCLEAN, unequalled as designers and Engravers. We call the attention of the Public to the production of first class illustrations of the varied, novel and picturesque scenery and local views of the

ILLUSTRATIONS,

GOLDEN STATES

AND

TERRITORIES

OF THE

PACIFIC.

With Descriptive Views and Reading Matter, affording the most reliable and comprehensive medium in existence for full information in regard to California, Oregon, Nevada, and their contiguous and auriferous territories. The information we give in regard to the Pacific States, alone is worth to times the price of our Magazine. Price years subscription, who in neatly of two splendid volumes, sent post

DRAWING-ROOM ARY,

OR THE

COUNTING-HOUSE,

and costing but FIVE DOLLARS, which in years to come can not be purchased for any price. Our

EDITORIAL DRAWER

will abound with selections of Wit, Original Stories, Comic Sketches, and kind Literature, culled from a well-stocked storehouse of fun, fact and incident, affording amusing light reading matter for the Parlor and the Fire side.

COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS.

This Department of the Monthly, under the immediate supervision of McLEAN, the celebrated Comic Delineator, will be found always rich in Wit, Merriment, and appropriate Design.

FASHION PLATES.

Having made special arrangements with Mme. DEMOREST, 473 Broadway, New York, for contributions to our Fashion Department, we call the attention of the Ladies to the same, and commend our Monthly to their notice, as containing more information in regard to Dress and the Toilet, than any other Magazine published.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!

Now is the time to Subscribe, and have your commence with the Year. We will furnish Back Numbers to such as do not subscribe in time for the January or February Number. But to be sure and get them without delay, send in your Subscriptions early. Our Subscription Price is

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR,

Payable in Advance, upon the receipt of which our receipt, for the same, will be sent in return.

PREMIUMS IN GOLD!

As an additional inducement to Subscribe early, we shall distribute among our Subscribers a large list of valuable Premiums, relying upon an extraordinary large Subscription List to compensate us for our liberality. These Premiums will consist of valuable Specimens of the Golden Wealth of the Pacific States, and will be as follows:—

☞ To any person sending us One Hundred Paying Subscriptions, we will send, immediately, a Twenty and a Ten Dollar Gold Piece, California Coinage, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Fifty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Ten and a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Twenty five Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Five Dollar and a Two and half Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Ten Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Three Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Five Paying Subscriptions, we will send an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To Clubs we offer, ready made, a large assortment of valuable PRESENTS and CHEAPSAKES for Single Subscribers, who send direct to the Office.

The Presents and Souvenirs consist of Ladies' Breast Pins, Ear Rings, Finger Rings, Sleeve Buttons, etc.; and Gentlemen's Breast Pins, Finger Rings, Sleeve Buttons, Studs, Settings for Cane Heads, etc., made from California and Nevada Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Ore—Crystalized Quartz Jewelry, commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry. The Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Ore from which these Souvenirs are made, is from the celebrated Gold & Silver and Opide Mines of Nevada, and will be valuable as Mementos, as well as beautiful in Appearance and Design. EVERY REGULAR SUBSCRIBER, as above, to the PACIFIC MONTHLY, will be entitled to one of these Articles for every Subscription standing opposite their names on our books.

SPECIMEN COPIES

OF THE

PACIFIC MONTHLY

sent, postage prepaid, upon the receipt of Fifty Cents, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

CAUTION!

☞ Write your Name, Post Office, County and State, to which you want the PACIFIC MONTHLY sent, Plain and Legible.

☞ Register all Letters containing Money; or, when convenient, send by Express.

☞ If your Post Office is a Money Order office, obtain a Money Order for your remittance.

☞ Send none but United States Treasury Notes, or money Bankable in New York.

☞ All Letters asking information, etc., to receive attention, must contain a Stamp, to prepay answer. Address all Communications,

D. M. GAZLAY & CO.,

OR BLAGSHIRES

PACIFIC MONTHLY,

34 LIBERTY STREET,

NEW YORK.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:

AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,

121 Nassau Street, New York.

WHITE & BAUER,

San Francisco, California.

THE SCANDINAVIAN Remedies.

"Be not up Elias wrestle our power,
For the which boundless Continent is ours."

DR. ROBACK'S

and

BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands

of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula,	Syphilis,
Skin Diseases,	Old Sores,
Salt Rheum,	Rheumatism,
Dyspepsia,	Sick Headache,
Liver Complaint,	Fever and Ague,
Leucorrhœa,	Female Complaints,
Erysipelas,	St. Anthony's Fire,
Tumors,	Eruptions,
Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away.

The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years. Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

which, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache, Costiveness,
Colic Pains, Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion, Pain in the Bowels,
Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of three eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati,

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $5. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

Principal Office and Salesroom, No. 8 East Fourth St. M Building from Main St., Cincinnati, O. Laboratory, No 19 Hammond Street.

FOR SALE BY

P. N. Curtis and Fisher & Baker

Editor of Herald, DEAR SIR:—With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send, by return mail, to all who wish it (free) a Recipe, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm that effectually removes, in ten days, Pimples, Blotches, Tan, Freckles, and all impurities of the skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and beautiful.

I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads, or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxuriant Hair, Whiskers, or Moustache, in less than thirty days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours, THOS. F. CHAPMAN, Chemist, 511 Broadway, New York. 749m3

Ackley has the largest stock of Hosiery, Gloves &c. ever brought to town.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

A healthy tonic, positive stimulant and unequalled invigorating cordial. Prepared in the old Bourbon, Rhine wine and to the exclusion of all other Bitters by more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been specially exempted from stamp tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

are made of ingredients well known having powerful tonic properties, of a palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system, and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases:—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Affections, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity, so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.—

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ Ladies, who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system.

☞ If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters, have him send for them.—Remember the name, and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical Journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession, are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

DR. C. H. SWAIN, PROPRIETOR.

OFFICES—{ 875 Broadway, New York, / 84 South Water St., Chicago.

C. A. COOK, General Agent for the West, Office, 26 Market Street, Chicago.

RED JACKET Stomach Bitters

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket to Dr Chandler, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all the ox drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache;
They are perfectly pure and palatable

Any person who has once taken these bitters can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters, are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the glass and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OUR—

Fig Medicated and Table wines, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gold label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,
No. 21 River Street Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the Brick Shop on Railroad Street,

Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS.

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

To the Ladies & Gentlemen of Tecumseh,

The undersigned having fitted up rooms expressly for the sale of

Ice Cream, Lemonade, Soda Water &c.

Will be happy at all times to wait upon you. Rooms over Wishart's Crockery Store. Open day and evening.—June 15th, 1865.

J. S. WALTERS.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co.: if you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April 1, '65. A. JAMES

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone and the

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young America. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at a panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days. I cheap, Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool.

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

cap and Straw

HATS. CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save a great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

U. S. 7-30 Loan!

Third Series.

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General Subscription agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN,

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U S 5 20 Six per cent GOLD-BEARING BONDS.

These Bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent per annum to their value according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker. The interest at $7 30 per year amounts to

One cent per day on a	$50	note.
Two cents "	"	$100	"
Ten "	"	$500	"
20 "	"	$1000	"
$1 "	"	$5000	"

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the 7.30 already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent., instead of 7.3 10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven-thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this Third Series affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent in currency. This is

Only Loan in the Market.

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the

GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress, and now on the market. This amount at the rate at which it is being taken (at a quarter of a million per day) will all be subscribed for within two months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans. It now seems probable that no considerable amount beyond the present series will be offered to the public.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions and act as Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and to whom they are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

JAY COOKE,
SUBSCRIPTION AGENT, Philadelphia.

may 1st, 1865

Subscriptions will be received by the First National Bank of Tecumseh,

First National Bank of Ypsilanti, and the First National Bank of Detroit.

Guardian Sale.

In the matter of the estate of James S. Collins, a minor

By virtue of a license of sale to me granted by the Court of Probate of the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder at the door on the land hereinafter described on the 25th day of July, 1865, at two o'clock in the afternoon all the interest of James S. Collins, a minor, of in and to all that tract or parcel of land situate in the town of Macon in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as south part (24 acres.) of the east half of south east quarter of section five; also south quarter of west half of south west quarter of section four; also east half of west half of south-west quarter of said section four. Terms made known on day of sale.—Dated June 8th, 1865.

JAMES B. CHAMBERS.
Guardian of said Minor.

n758w7

Commissioners Notice.

We the undersigned having been appointed commissioners by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee to adjust claims against the estate of Joseph Litchard, deceased, would give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the residence of Jacob Litchard, in Macon, on Saturday the 1st day of July, 1865, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day when all persons having claims against said estate can appear and present their said claims for allowance and that six months from this date are allowed for creditors to present their claims for allowance.—Macon, June 5th, 1865.

JOHN JACKSON,
DAVID BERDAN,
Commissioners.

If you want to find the best assortment of English, French & Scotch Cassimere in the county go to A. HOOD'S.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware IMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block,

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock, of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands Also a splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cuttery of all descriptions,

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

MILLINER.

MILLINERY.

Mrs. O. McCoy,

Is now receiving the largest and best selected stock of millinery goods which were

BOUGHT since the GOLD PANIC

consisting of

Bonnets, Hats, Ribbons &c.,

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS TOWN,

which she is selling cheaper than any other establishment of the kind or

DRY GOODS STORE DARE SELL.

Such a magnificent display of goods is seldom seen in the towns of the West, Walk up, Ladies, and see me and hear the prices.

BLEACHING AND PRESSING

done in the nearest manner. Remember the place and do not fail to call,

Mrs. O. McCOY.

Tecumseh, April 13th, 1865

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee. The vilest trash, under Showy and Taking names, has been thrust upon the public. Bogus and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their Labels and wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a

Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee, can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to supply this demand.

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of Uniform Standard and Quality, Specially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable. If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our Ground Spices, Mustar, Cream Tartar, Baking Soda and Saleratus, put up at the Java Mills, will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Groceries will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, C. Lawrence, B. J. Bidwell, P. N. Curtis, Fisher & Baker, Ketchum & Conkling; at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCULARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No 52, Vesey Street, New York.

To Consumptives.

The undersigned having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every suffer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg Kings County New York.

ATLANTIC & GRT WEST'N RAILWAY

New Broad Gauge

PASSENGER, FREIGHT, MAIL,

EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH ROUTE

Connecting at Salamanca, N. Y., with the Erie Railway, forms continuous Six Foot Track from New York to Akron and Cleveland.

On and after Monday, Nov. 16th 1863, Through Passenger and Freight Trains will be run regularly between

CLEVELAND & NEW YORK,

NEW AND IMPORTANT PASSENGER ROUTE.

FARE AS LOW AS BY ANY OTHER ROUTE

BAGGAGE CHECKED THROUGH

Passengers by this Line have choice of Five different Routes between New York and Boston

TICKETS THROUGH

Can be obtained at any of the Offices of the Erie Railway and all Ticket Offices of Connecting Lines West or South-west; also at the Central Ticket Office under the Wendell House, Cleveland, O.

Ask for Tickets via the Atlantic and Great Western and Erie Railways.

Passenger Trains stop at Meadville thirty minutes giving passengers ample time to dine at the

"McHENRY HOUSE,"

Best Railway Hotel in the country.

NEW AND EXPEDITIOUS FREIGHT LINE

ALL RAIL.

No transhipment of Freight between New York and Akron or Cleveland.

Merchants in the West or Southwest will find it to their advantage to order their goods to be forwarded via the Erie and Atlantic & Great Western Railways, thus saving trouble and expense.

Rates of Freight as Low as by any other all Rail Route.

Especial attention will be given to the transportation of Freight of all kinds, East or West.

The Engines, Cars and other equipments of this Company are entirely new, and of the most improved modern style.

The only direct route to the wonderful

OIL REGIONS of PENNSYLVANIA

Via Meadville or Corry.

Even Leavitsburgh, the Mahoning Branch runs to Youngstown and the Coal Mines.

This Road is being extended and will soon be in adjustable running order to Galion, Urbana, Dayton and Cincinnati, without break of Gauge.

J. H. ANDERSON, Gen'l Freight Agent
T. H. GOODMAN, General Ticket Agent
H. F. SWEETSER, Gen'l Supt.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 10, 1863.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Counterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 10th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Calvin Wood, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Jane E. Wood administrator, de bonis non, of said estate praying for the allowance of her final account and distribution of said estate, and her discharge:

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 24th day of July next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.
(A true Copy.) n759

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Thursday the 15th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of William J. O'Brien, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Mary O'Brien, widow of deceased, praying that Richard Osborn may be appointed administrator on said estate.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 24th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted:

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.
(A true copy) n760

Commissioners Notice

Estate of Jacob D. Harring, deceased.

The undersigned appointed by Session of Probate of Lenawee county on against ers to receive, hear and audit claims on such said estate, hereby give notice of residence purpose they will meet at their in the town of Jacob D. Harring deceased, of July and ship of Macon, on the 10th, at 10 o'clock the 27th day of October next, that said of each day, and also allowed six months Judge of Probate 7 day of April 1865, for next ensuing the estate to present their the creditors of PENINGTON, claims. ISH SAGE, Commissioners.

1865. 756w4-4

Dated

Bridal Chamber, an Essay of Warning and Instruction for Young Men—published by the Howard Association, and sent free of charge in sealed envelopes. Address Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Howard Association, Philadelphia, Pa. 748y

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit, &c, at

A. JAMES.

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage, executed by George Allison of Macon, Michigan, to James Patton of the same place, dated the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty four and recorded on the 8th of March 1864, at 9 o'clock A. M., in the Register's office for the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, in Liber 39 of mortgages on pages 720 and 721, upon which there is claimed to be due and unpaid, at the date of this notice, of the first instalment thereon, one hundred and eighty-two 68-100 dollars, and the further sum of six hundred dollars and interest, secured to be paid therein hereafter with interest, and now due and payable by reason of the said default, making now due and payable the sum of seven hundred and eighty-two 68-100 dollars; for the recovery of which, or any part thereof, no suit or proceeding has been instituted, and no action at law or in equity pending, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, on the twenty-seventh day of June next ensuing the date hereof, at three o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the front door of the Hall, the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county of Lenawee, in the city of Adrian, in said county, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of money due and payable on said mortgage by reason of said default and interest, together with the costs and expenses allowed by law as stipulated in said mortgage; said premises being described in said mortgage as follows, namely: situate in the town ship of Macon, Lenawee county, Michigan, known as the north-east quarter of the north west quarter of section No. thirty five (35) town five (5) [south of]-range five (5) east containing forty acres more or less.

JAMES PATTON Mortgagee.
P. R. ADAMS, Attorney.
Dated March 20th, 1865. n747w13

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 18th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Stephen B. Cole, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified of John McDole praying that the administrator of said estate may be directed to convey certain lands of said deceased to said petitioner for reasons in said petition stated:

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 5th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the next of kin of said minor and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.
(A true Copy.) 750w4

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Monday the tenth day of April in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Litchard, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Jacob Litchard, a son of said deceased, praying that Ebenezar Harmon may be appointed administrator on said estate.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday the eighth day of May next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted;

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.) Pd 750-w4.

ROBACK'S CATAWBA BRANDY

made from the PURE JUICE OF CATAWBA GRAPE, which is grown in abundance in Ohio, and from which this article is obtained—it has an agreeable flavor, fine clear color, and possesses all the qualities for medicinal purposes, and for a beverage of the best imported brandies. As a flavoring for mince pies and other cooking purposes it is the best economical article that can be used, being one half a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found rapid sales, and is daily gaining in popularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally throughout the West.

C. W. ROBACK, Proprietor,
56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

If you are in need of anything go to Ackley's.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2.00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 10. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 3, 1865. WHOLE NO. 766.

J. D. ROBBINS.

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER.
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

—o—

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

than any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

—o—

CASH FOR RAGS!

—o—

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,
JUVENILES,
Bibles and Testaments,
Hymn Books for all Denominations,
BLANK BOOKS
Sheet Muic,
Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

L. DREW'S
NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!
Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass, Window Sashes,
House Trimmings,
Carpenters Tools, Farming Tools
Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps,
Bolts, and a
Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country. Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ever invented. Warranted to give satisfaction. Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

WANTED.

Butter, Eggs, Pork, Dried Meats, Lard, Dried Fruits, Paper Rags, &c, &c, for which I will pay the Highest price in Cash.

To those who wish to pack their own Butter, I will furnish Packages free of charge Give me a call. A. JAMES.

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight, 7.00 A. M.

GOING NORTH.

Mail and Express, 1.00 P. M.
Accommodation, 9:32 A. M.
6:40 P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD.
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. SIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St, Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR.
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING,
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilets, &c.
Chicao St. Tecumseh, Mich.

P. S. CURTIS.
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER,
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. HANFORD,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harnass and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO.
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX. HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAWSON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks, and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM,
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

I. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT,
Raisin, Adrian, Grist, and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG,
Photograhs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE,
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HOUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

HENRY H. PACKARD,
Union Livery Feed and Sale Stable.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ANSON HOUSE,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAMSON, - - Proprietor.

WILLIAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanger, Whitewasing, &c. &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

THE WIFE.

BY FLORENCE MACDONALD.

'I am hopeless!' said the young man, in a voice that was plainly desponding. 'Utterly hopeless! Heaven knows I have tried to get employment! But no one has any need of my service. The pittance doled out by your father, and which comes with sense of humiliation sufficient to provide this miserable abode, and keep hunger from our door. But for your sake, I would not touch a shilling of his money if I starved.'

'Hush, dear Edward!' returned the gentle girl, who had left father, mother, and a pleasant home, to share the lot of him she loved; and she laid her finger on his lips, while she drew her arm around him.

'Agnes,' said the young man. 'I cannot endure this life much longer. The native independence of my character revolts at our present condition. Months have elapsed, and yet the ability I possess finds no employment. In this country every avenue is crowded.'

The room in which they were overlooked the sea.

'But there is an other land, where, if what we hear be true, ability finds employment and talent a sure reward.' And as Agnes said this, in a voice of encouragement, she pointed from the window toward the expance of waters that stretched far away toward the south and west.

'America!' The word was uttered in a quick, earnest voice.

'Yes.'

'Agnes, I thank you for this suggestion! Return to the pleasant home you left for one who cannot procure for you even the plainest comforts of life, and I will cross the ocean to seek a better fortune in that land of promise. The seperation painful to both, will not, I trust, be long.'

'Edward,' replied the young wife with enthusiasm, as she drew her arm more tightly about his neck, 'I will never leave thee nor forsake thee! Where thou goest I will go, and where thou rest I will lie. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.

'Would you forsake all,' said Edward, in surprise, 'and go far away with me into a strange land?'

'It will be no stranger to me than it will be to you, Edward.'

'No, no, Agnes! I will not think of that,' said Edward Marvel, in a positive 'If I go to that land of promise, it must first be alone.'

'Alone!' A shadow fell over the face of Agnes. 'Alone! It cannot be—it must not be.'

'But think, Agnes. If I go alone, it will cost me but a small sum to live, until I find some business, which may not be for weeks, or even months, after I arrive in the New World.'

'What if you were to be sick?' The frame of Agnes slightly quivered as she made this suggestion.

'We will not think of that.'

'I cannot help thinking of it, Edward. There for entreat me not to leave, nor to return from following thee. Where thou goest, I will go.'

Marvel's countenance became more serious.

'Agnes,' said the young man, after he had reflected for some time, 'let us think no more about this. I cannot take you far away in this strange country. We will go back to London. Perhaps another trial there may be more successful.'

After a feeble opposition on the part of Agnes, it was firmly agreed that Edward should go once more to London, while she made a brief visit to her parents. If he found employment, she was to join him immediately; if not successful, they were to talk further of the journey to America.

With painful reluctance Agnes went back to her fathers house, the door of which ever stood open to receive her; and she went back alone. The pride of her husband would not permit him to cross the threshold of a dwelling where his presence was not a welcome one. In eager suspense she waited for a whole week ere a letter came from Edward.—The tone of this letter was as cheerful and as hopeful as it was possible for the young man to write. But as yet he had found no employment. A week elapsed before another came. It opened in these words.

MY DEAR, DEAR, AGNES! Hopeless of doing anything here, I have turned my thoughts once more to the land of promise, and, when you receive this, I will be on my journey thitherward. Brief, very brief, I trust, will be our seperation.—The moment I obtain employment, I will send for you and then our reunion will take place with a fullness of delight such as earth knows not of.

Long, tender and hopeful was the letter; but it brought a burden of grief and heart sickness to the tender young creature who felt almost as if she had been deserted by one who was as dear to her as her own life.

Only a few days had Edward Marvel been at sea when he became seriously indisposed, and, for the remaining part of the voyage, was so ill as to be unable to rise from his berth. He had embarked in a packet ship from Liverpool bound for New York, where he arrived at the expiration of five weeks. There he was removed to the sick wards of the hospital on Staten Island, and it was the opinion of the physicians there that he would die.

'Have you friends in this country?'—inquired a nurse who was attending the young man. This question was asked on the day after he had become an inmate of the hospital.

'None,' was the feeble reply.

'You are very ill,' said the nurse.

The sick man looked anxiously into the face of his attendant.

'You have friends in England?'

'Yes.'

'Have you any any communication to make to them?'

Marvel closed his eyes, and remained for some time silent.

'If you will get me a pen and some paper, I will write a few lines,' said he, at length.

'I'm afraid you are too weak for the effort,' replied the nurse.

'Let me try,' was briefly answered.

The attendat left the room.

'Is there any one in your part of the house named Marvel?' asked the physician, meeting the nursersoon after she had left the sick meeting the nurse soon after she had left the sick man's room.—'There's a young woman down in the office inquiring for a person of that name.'

'Marvel—Marvel?' The nurse shook her head.

'Are you certain?' remarked the physician.

'I'm certain there is no one by that name for whom any one here would make inquiries. There's a young Englishman who came over in the last packet, whose name is something like that you mention. But he has no friends in this country.'

The physician passed on without further remark.

Soon after, the nurse returned to Marvel with the writing materials for which he had asked. She drew a table to the side of his bed, and supported him as he leaned over and tried, with an unsteady hand to write.

'Have you a wife at home?' asked the nurse; her eyes rested on the first words he wrote.

'Yes,' sighed the young man, as the pen dropped from his fingers, and he leaned back heavily, exhausted even by the slight effort he had made.

'Your name is Marvel?'

'Yes.'

'A young woman was here just now inquiring if we had a patient by that name.'

'By my name?' There was a sligit indication of surprise.

'Yes.'

Marvel closed his eyes and did not spead for some moments.

'Did you see her?' he asked at length evincing some interest.

'Yes.'

'Did she find the one for whom she was seeking?'

'There was no person here, except yourself, whose name came near to the one she mentioned. As you said you had no friends in this country, we did not suppose you were meant.'

'No, no.' And the sick man shook his head slowly. 'There is none to ask for me. Did you say it was a young woman?' he inquired soon after. His mind dwelt on the occurrence.

'Yes. A young woman with a fair complexion and deep blue eyes.'

Marvel looked up quickly into the face of the attendant, while a flush came into his cheeks.

'She was a slender young girl, with light hair, and her face was pale as from trouble.'

'Agnes! Agnes!' exclaimed Marvel, rising up. 'But no, no,' he added, mournfully, sinking back again on his bed; 'that cannot be. I left her far away over the wide ocean.'

'Will you write?' said the nurse, after some moments.

The invalid without unclosing his eyes, slowly shook his head. A little while the attendant lingered in the room and then left it.

'Dear, dear Agnes!' murmured Edward Marvel, closing his eyes and letting his thoughts go swiftly across the billowy sea. 'I shall never look on your sweet face again? Never feel my light arms about my neck, or your breath on my warm cheek? Oh, that I had never left you! Heaven give thee strength to bear trouble in store!'

For many minutes he lay, thus alone, with his eyes closed, in sad self communion. Then he heard the door open and close softly; but he did not look up. His thoughts were far, far away. Light feet approached quickly, but his eyes remained shut, nor did he open them untill her warm lips were pressed against his own, and a low voice thrilling through his whole being said—

'Edward!'

'Agnes!' was his quick responce, while his arms were thrown eagerly around the neck of his wife. Agnes! Agnes!—Have I awakened from a fearful dream.

Yes, it was indeed her of whom he had been thinking. The moment she received his letter, informing her that he had left for the United States, she resolved to follow him in the next steamer that sailed. This purpose she immediately avowed to her parents. At first they would not listen to her; but finding that she would, most probably, elude her viligence, and get away in spite of all efforts to prevent her, they deemed it more wise and prudent to provide her with everything necessary for the voyage, and to place her in care of the captain of the steamship in which she was to go. In New York they had friends, to whom they gave her letters fully explanitory of her mission, and earnestly commending her to their care and protection.

Two weeks before the ship in which Edward Marvel sailed reached her destination, Agnes was in New York. Before her departure, she had sought but in vain to learn the name of the vessel in which her husband had embarked. On arriving in the New World, she was therefore uncertain whether he had preceded her in a steamer, or was lingering on the way.

The friends to whom Agnes brought letters received her with great kindness, and gave her all the advice and assistance needed under the circumstances. But two weeks went by without a word of intelligence on the one subject that absorbed all her thoughts. Sadly was her health beginning to suffer. Sunken eyes and pale cheeks attested the weight of suffering that was on her.

One day it was announced that a Liverpool packet had arrived with a ship fever on board, and that several of the passengers had been removed to the hospital.

A thrill of fear went through the heart of the anxious wife. It was soon ascertained that Marvel had been a passenger on board of this vessel; but, from some cause, nothing in regard to him beyond this fact could she learn. Against all persuasion, she started for the hospital, her heart oppressed with a presentment that he was either dead or struggling in the gasp of a fatal malady. On making inquiry at the hospital, she was told the one she sought was not there, and she was about returning to the city when the truth reached her ears.

'Is he very ill?' she asked, struggling to compose herself.

'Yes, he is extremely ill,' was the reply. 'And it might not be well for you under the circumstances, to see him at present.'

'Not well for his wife to see him?' returned Agnes. Tears sprung to her eyes at the thought of not being permitted to come near in his extremity. 'Do not say that. Oh, take me to him! I will save his life.'

'You must be very calm,' said the nurse; for it was with her she was talking. 'The least excitement may be fatal.'

'Oh I will be calm and prudent.' Yet even while she spoke, her frame quivered with excitement.

But she controlled herself when the moment of meeting came, and, though her unexpected appearance produced a shock, it was salutary rather than injurious.

'My dear, dear Agnes!' said Edward Marvel, 'a month from this time, as they sat alone in the chamber of a pleasant house in New York, 'I owe you my life. But for your prompt resolution to follow me across the sea, I would in all probability, now be sleeping the sleep of death. Oh, what would I not suffer for your sake?'

troubled expression flitted over his countenance. Agnes gazed tenderly into his face, and asked—

'Why this look of doubt and anxiety?'

'Need I answer the question?' returned the young man. 'It is, thus far, no better with me than when we left our old home. Tough health is coming back through every fibre, and my heart is filled with an eager desire to relieve these kind friends of our support, yet no prospect opens.'

No cloud came stealing darkly over the face of the young wife. The sunshine, so far from being dimmed, was brighter.

'Let not your heart be troubled,' said she, with a beautiful smile. 'All will come out right.'

'Right, Agnes? It is not right for me thus to depend on strangers.'

'You need depend but a little while longer. I have already made warm friends here, and, through them, secured for you employment. A good place awaits you so soon as strength to fill it comes back to your weakened frame.'

'Angel!' exclaimed the young man, overcome with emotion at so unexpected a declaration.

'No, not an angel,' calmly replied Agnes, 'only a wife. And now dear Edward,' she added, 'never again, in any extremity, think for a moment of meeting trials or enduring privations alone. Having taken a wife, you cannot move safely on your journey unless she moves by your side.'

'Angel! Yes, you are my good angel,' repeated Edward.

'Call me what you will,' said Agnes, with a sweet smile, as she brushed with her delicate hand, the hair from his temples; 'but let me be your wife. I ask no better name, no higher station.'

A SLEEPLESS MAN.—The Wheeling [illegible] member of the West Virginia Infantry, is now in camp on the island. He is one of greatest wonders of the age, not having slept for fourteen years. This fit of wakefullness came on him in August 1851, since which time he has not even been drowsy. He says he enjoys perfect health, and lives happily, and knows no reason for his singular and unnatural phenomena, and experiences no inconvenience from it. Since his enlistment he was for a time in the hospital at Philadelphia, and was a subject of great interest to the surgeons of that institution, who sat a watch on him for some days, but did not "catch him napping."

A lady made a call upon a friend who had lately been married. When her husband came home to dinner, she said:

"I have been to see Mrs. ——"

"Well," replied the husband, "I suppose she is very happy."

"Happy! I should think she ought to be; she has a camel's hair shawl two thirds border."

It turns out that the rebels at Charleston actually destroyed all the boasted rams and other iron clads, upon which they had so much relied and so long labored. In butchering their own rams, they must have felt sheepish. We believe that all the rams in the Confederacy are now turned to mutton, and covered with copious brine.—[Prentice.

A woman called on an attorney in Williamsport, New York, and requested his assistance in collecting bounty and pay for two husbands who had been killed during the rebellion. Her third husband accompanied her.

What a world of gossip would be prevented if it was only remembered that a person who tells you the faults of others, intends to tell your faults.

A barnacle-nosed old fellow gave as a reason for taking his liquor clear, that since the flood, water had always tasted of sinners.

A coal oil milionaire has named his little heiress Petrolia Ann. We suppose the next little heiress will be named Carrie Sene.

The man who keeps his fences bull strong, pig tight, and horse high, need never keep his neighbor's live stock, or fear his own.

Joining hands ain't matrimony a custom originated by pugilists shaking hands before they fight.

Peaches are peeled without waste, when fully ripe, by pouring boiling water on them, and let them remain a minute, to cook only skin deep, as, in tomatoes.

The Dead Man by the Roadside.

[illegible] Franklin, I saw for the first time a rebel corpse. There were several wagons, men on horseback, and a few straggling soldiers resting themselves near by. Away to the left, clouds of smoke could be seen rising from our batteries and the rebel cannon, which were then engaged in a deadly struggle near the base of the distant hills. The pike here was enclosed on both sides by a fine stone wall. The dead soldier lay with his head to the wall, still as a stack, his feet stretched out toward the road. A bullet had entered under his right ear and come out beneath the left, where some of his brains could be seen hanging down. The stones around his head were besmeared with blood. His last ration lay beside him—a chunk of yellow corn-cake, and a very fat raw piece of pork. A man of twenty-five, clad in the coarse gray rebel suit, his left arm lying on the ground along his side, his right arm resting on his breast, with light brown hair, and short cut reddish beard and moustache; his blue eyes, glassy and vacant, stared at the skies a ghastly gaze. Thus he had lain for a whole day and night, no one pitying, no one burying him, no friend to close his eyes. But he had been touched by some unhallowed hand, for his pockets were turned inside out. I hoped that this deed was done by no soldier of ours; but I feared that it was, before I left the spot. I had been on a battle field before, and I had looked on thousands of wounded men elsewhere, but it happened that this was the first rebel corpse that I had seen. I got off my horse and stood near the dead man. I had hardly written a few notes, ere a boy ten or twelve, some officer's servant, who was riding along, came up, checked his horse, and looked down upon the corpse.

"Ah! you thought you would eat your dinner in Nashville, did you?" said he in a mocking tone, speaking to the dead man.

The stiff lips, the fixed eyes, the dead ear, neither moved, nor flashed, nor heard. But I was shocked at this hideous speech from so young a boy.

"Look here, boy,"—I do not think he liked that title—"the dead should be treated with respect. May be you will lie one day like him, with no one to pity you. If he was a rebel, he is dead now, and—"

"He ought to be," said the young scamp, angrily, and he spurred his horse and started. I did not try to go on, for I saw that he, too, was one of the victims of the war already, like the other, beyond any help of mine. I was greatly moved with pity for the rebel, and turning to a soldier on horseback beside me, I said that I thought some one ought to close the dead man's eyes.

"Oh, he's well enough," was the gruff response.

I suspected that the soldier was a Tennesseean, and determined to try and touch his heart.

"Well, I don't know," I said; "I pity the Southern soldiers; I care mighty little for their officers; they went in where they knew better; but the common people were conscripted—they had no choice.—The Tennessee boys in our army were most of them forced into the rebel army and there are not better Union men in the whole country."

Not a word. He looked away. I saw that I might now do safely, and without arousing any suspicion of my own loyalty, what my heart urged me to do for the poor rebel. I knelt down, and shut his eyes, and then rode off. And as I tho't that if the war went on, perhaps a Northern boy I knew might yet lie stark and stiff, as this man now lay, on some Southern highway, with no one to pity him or to close his eyes; and that, in some far away hut, a young widow or loving mother might soon have to weep for this new-made corpse that my hand had touched, I saw almost as little for some minutes, as the glassy eyes of the rebel soldier had seen since the bullet gave him his last long furlough.—[Army Correspondence.

When the odor of flowers is unusually perceptible, rain may be expected, as the air when damp conveys the odor more effectively than when dry. Damp air being also a better conductor of sound than dry, the sound of mills, railway trains, bells, &c., may be heard more plainly just before rain.

Wild peppermint will keep rats from barns and granaries.

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 3, 1865

Good Advice from a Good Quarter.

There are those who insist that now the Rebellion is crushed, our "manifest destiny" impels us to engage in fresh wars. Some contend that England should be made the first victim of our martial fury; others urge that France should be hauled over the coals; others will have it that we shall go straight to work to redeem Mexico and clean out Maximilian; while a few enthusiastic spirits demand that we shall attack the great powers in the gross, and make one job of vanquishing creation in general.

These hot-headed gentlemen will do well to listen to the counsels of those who have borne the brunt of the fight during the four years that are past. Our soldiers do not clamor for fresh wars. Our ablest Generals are, without exception, the earnest advocates of a policy of peace.—Generals Grant, Sheridan, Schofield, and others, have recorded their protests against aggressive schemes, that would have for their effect collisions with Foreign Powers; while General Sherman, in his speech in Cincinnati, thus eloquently urged the diversion of all the energies of the country in the direction of peace:

Let us, then, go on in peace and harmony with the peaceful pursuits of life. When ad is under cultivation, and we have a population as dense as that of Europe, it will be soon enough to trample on each other's heels. We have a future of peace now before us—an honorable peace; and, so help me God, I do not want to hear of war again for fifty years to come at least. When other nations attempt to trample upon our national rights, we shall have an opportunity of resuming the business of war. But now that the war is over, I am a peace man; all of my army are peace men; 'Sherman's Bummers' (laughter) are peace men.

These words, coming from one of our most illustrious chieftains, are timely.—Our country has had a surfeit of war.—Her energies have been taxed severely. She has incurred a debt that it will take generations if not centuries to liquidate. Her best blood has flowed in torrents; her treasures have been expended with a prodigality unexampled in history. She is exhausted and needs rest. The arts of peace, neglected during the terrible struggle of the Rebellion, demand the attention of our people. We have grievances to settle; we have controversies to adjust;—but let us not assume in advance that they cannot be amicably arranged. We have made such an exhibition of power to strike hard blows that we can afford to waive technicalities in our disputes with Foreign Powers. We need not have any fears of being suspected of want of courage. The whole world has had fresh cause to respect and fear us.—We are in no danger of being insulted, or very grievously wronged at present.—If emigation to Mexico should restore that country to the position in which we should like to see it, and a position which of right she ought to occupy, it is no fault of ours—we can't help it. But we want no more war of our own.

For the Tecumseh Herald.

The Children at Work.

A real wide-awake meeting of the children of Tecumseh was held at the lecture room of the M. E. Church on Monday 3 P. M. of this week. The children came together to organize the Tecumseh Band of Hope, which, (for the benefit of the uninitiated, let me say) is to be a children's live Temperance Society. All the sabbath schools in the place were represented. After sixty-six of these young soldiers had signed the children's pledge they proceeded to adopt the following Constitution:

Art. 1. This association shall be called the "Tecumseh Band of Hope." Its object is the promotion of Temperance and purity among the children.

Art. 2d. Any boy or girl under 16 years of age may be a member who will take the following pledge, viz:

"I pledge myself to abstain from the use of all intoxicating Liquors as a beverage, from the use of Tobacco, and from Profanity."

And any adult person may become an honorary member who is governed by principles of Temperance and pays into the treasury the sum of twenty-five cents annually.

Art. 3d. The officers shall be President, who shall be man of mature years and who has taken the children's pledge, two Vice Presidents—one boy and one girl—a Secretary and Treasurer, a Chaplain and four ushers—two boys and two girls, all of whom shall be elected quarterly and hold their offices until their successors are elected.

The duties of the others shall be as follows:

1st. The President shall preside at all meetings of the society or procure a substitute who shall be as well qualified as himself.

2d. The Vice Presidents shall assist the President in such manner as he may direct, and act in his stead.

3d. The Secretary shall keep accurate minutes of the transactions of the Band.

4th. The Treasurer shall recieve all money due and paid to the society and pay it out on the order of the President which shall never be made except by a vote of the society.

5th. The Chaplain shall open and close all meetings with prayer, and attend all funeral services.

6th. The ushers shall attend the door and attend to seating all members and visitors.

Art. 4th. The admission fee shall be for boys five cents and for girls three cents, and the monthly dues shall be for boys and girls five cents, to be paid always on the day of the last meeting of the Band for the month.

Art. 5th. The President and Chaplain and three members elected by the Band shall constitute a judicial committee, who shall hear and examine all reports of violation of the pledge or misconduct in meetings and shall administer proper discipline or reproof, but they shall not pronounce expulsion without a vote of the Band.

Art. 6. It shall be the duty of all officers and members of the Band to attend all its meetings when it is practicable, and to endeavor to bring others into the same covenant with themselves.

Art. 7. The Band shall meet weekly at its own room, and monthly in some public Hall or Church. The exercises may consist of speeches by members or invited speakers, singing temperance odes, and dialogues. At every meeting public or private there shall be an opportunity given for the admission of new members by signing the pledge.

Art. 8th. This Constitution may be altered or amended by the Band, after a month's notice, and by a two-thirds vote of all the members present voting.

The children's meeting was enlivened by temperance songs and short addresses after the above constitution had been adopted, and the officers had been elected. The Tecumseh Band of Hope is now fairly organized for work. The children have already commenced by raising money to procure a beautiful flag. At the next meeting (on Friday 3 P. M. of this week) there will be a hundred new singing books, with some other things which will attract and benefit the children. Come on children.

TEETOTLER.

Jeff. Davis.

The New York Times' Washington special says: Jeff. Davis' health is better now than it has been in five years.

Rising at an early hour, Mr. Davis takes a bath, then dresses, after which he is visited by the officer of the guard, the officer of the day, and medical attendants. He then breakfasts, after which he walks up and down his room, converses with Gen. Miles, who generally visits his quarters about that time, and with Dr. Craven, and reads the Bible.

The New York Herald's correspondent, dated the 26th, says: A second hour's walk inside the fort was yesterday permitted Jeff. Davis. The same guard attended him as in his first walk, and the same reticence was observed upon his part and that of his guard. The salutary effect on the spirits of Davis is already apparent. If they are continued there can be no doubt of his health improving, if it is not fully restored. Rumors reach us of his speedy removal to Washington for trial, but no credit is given them.

☞ A dispatch from Galveston to the Houston News, dated July 1st, says that orders have been received at Matamoras to prepare accommodations for 35,000 French, Austrian and Algerine troops, the reason given for their collection at that point being the similar concentration of forces on the part of the United States at Brownsville and adjacent points. The French officers assert there is no reason why the United States should send an army of 80,000 or 100,000 men to Texas unless she designs aggressive movements upon Mexico. The spirit of the armies is described as being hostile and there is no affiliation between our officers and those of the Empire.

☞ Geffrard was elected President of Hayti for five years at the end of that period the Senate re-elected him for life, according to the constitution of the country, but not in accordance with the wishes of the majority of the people. Yet he had done more to elevate and civilize the nation than any ruler that had preceeded him. The government of the country is a military despotism similar to that of Napoleon when First Consul, and the President, consequently, has almost unlimited power. Therefore, when the people want a new President they have to get up a revolution. The present revolution has been in contemplation for some years.

Scraps of News.

The city of Springville Mass., has a new musical hall capable of seating 1,000 persons.

Stowe, Vt., has already four summer hotels full to overflowing, and is to have another, a fine structure, costing $100,000.

A package of three letters recently arrived at the Woodstock, Vt., postoffice from Trasburg, having been over 21 years in traveling the 100 miles between the two places.

The ladies of Flushing, L. I., are going to erect a magnificent monument to the braves who went from that village, and have fallen in this this cruel war.

The courts all over the country are employed with divorce cases. The war has

From 10 to 12 divorces are now granted by New York City Courts daily.

The young man who received the first prize for Commencement-day oratory at Rochester University, was nine years ago a canal-driver, parentless, unable to read, and ignorant even of the time of his birth.

Our "pretty dears," who have pretty ankles, will be gratified to learn that the fashion makers are trying to introduce the plesant skirt, which doesn't reach the ground by several inches.

The Episcopal congregation of Buffalo have subscribed 20,000 for the purchase of a residence for Bishop Cox. A house has been secured, and the Bishop is expected to take possession about the first of September.

A gossiping correspondent says that "Miss Braddon the novelist, has her domestic dark spot. She is not the wife of Maxwell, the the publisher, at whose board she sits, while Maxwell's wife is confined in a madhouse. The pair live at Windsor."

Somebody to "raise the wind" is exhibiting in New York "a splended horse which had the honor of bearing the person of Lieut. Gen. Grant during the grand review in Washington." As Gen. Grant sat on the platform with the Cabinet during the entire review, the only horse that it was possible for him to sit on as a sawhorse.

There are 174 first class colleges in the United States

A fund of $50,000 is to be raised to establish a Universalist Academy in Vermont.

An Agricultural College is to be established at St. Charles, Mo.

Some 200 American diggers and speculators are now at Bothwell, C. W.

The first theatre ever erected as such in New Jersey. is now being built at Patterson.

A boy in Boston, five years old, died a few days since from the effects of drinking brandy, which he got hold of in his mother's absence.

The deaths in New York last week were 591, an increase of 69 over the same week of last year.

The Missouri Conference of the M. E. Church meet at Hanible, Mo., on the 16th of August.

A brilliant tournament for the championship of Maine is to be held at Portland during the first week in September.

Varieties.

Doesticks is lecturing to the soldiers at Hilton Head. His success is greater than before college literary societies.

The Jackson Mississippian says: 'We learn that unbleached domestics in this city have fallen from 75 to 45 cents per yard.' On which the Vicksburg Herald sagely observes: "Unbleached domestics" have fallen here from $1800 to zero per head."

Mr. A. N. Dickens, of Chicago, brother of the great English novelist, has been made the father of three children at one birth. The "Great Expectations" of the uncle are more than realized, "which they was." This is what may be called "raising the Dickens."

Some papers believe that there is great danger to be apprehended from Southern women on the restoration of peace. To which the Richmond Republic wisely says: "The sex is proverbially dangerous but mankind have always shown a perfectly reckless courage in encountering the dear creatures."

Sad domestic explosion—an injured wife lately burst with rage.

Loan ly man—Jay Cooke.

Dilated pupils—college gradutes.

How to correct mistakes in whiskey—rectify it.

A locomotive out west the other day got cross and blew up its engineer.

A young lady at school was asked if 'kiss' was a common or proper noun.—After some hesitation, she replied: "It is both common and proper."

Hip, hip, hurrah! was originally the war cry adopted by the assailants of a German city where a large number of Jews had taken refuge.

Some young ladies insisted on naming a gentleman's kitten Julia—it was so pretty. He gallantly replied that he should be most happy to gratify them, but it was not that kind of a cat.

The bachelors of Marseilles, France, have struck. 16,000 of them have assembled in mass convention, and resolved not to ask any young woman in marriage until the women practice greater economy in dress.

At Oskosh, Wis., the other day a young man was up before a justice for hugging a woman, and that too, upon complaint of the lady. She never ought to be hugged again in all her life.

A story is told of two Vermont captains between whom there had been a generous rivalry during the war. Both were wounded at the Wilderness. One was insensible for three days, and on opening his eyes he asked how the other captains was. On being told he was doing well, he said energetically, "Well, if W. can live I'll be d—d if I'll die," and he didn't.

A Valuable Recipe.

We have recently learned of a very simple and cheap process of making Champaign Wine directly from apples; and as the coming fall will furnish an abundance of the necessary material, the recipe may prove interesting to farmers and profitable to dealers.

The juice is pressed directly from sound apples without previous grinding, because the bruising of the fruit, in a short time, discolors the juice, and produces other chemical change, by exposure to the atmosphere, as to prevent the practical working of the proces, while the juice pressed fro n the sound apples is nearly as limpid as water.

to a filter, consisting of a suitable box about a foot deep by six inches square, filled with a mixture of pulverized charcoal and clean sand or or fine gravel, about half and half. A thin layer of straw is put into the box before it is filled with the filtering material and the bottom of the box is perforated with fine holes.

The juce passes through the filter into bottles, which should be immediately corked to exclude the atmosphere which gives it the appearance of real champaign; and our informant who has used the process, assures us that the wine, after remaining in the cellar a while presents the action and flavor of the imported article, with the advantage of being a much more healthy beverage while its cost does not exceed two cents a quart bottle where apples are plenty.—Imported champaign of the commonest quality, cannot be bought in this market for less than two to three dollars per bottle, while its genuineness and purity are very questionable to say the least.

To crush and press apples at one operation requires a very powerful press. We have examined a portable arrangement of the kind quite simple and cheap and well addapted to this process as it is sufficiently powerful to crush and press the hardest apples, having a pressing power of 10,000 pounds with 50 pounds weight applied to the crank. Such a press would be good to extract the juice from grapes as it would not break the seeds, and thereby give a bad favor to the wine.

This press is manufactured and sold, wholesale and retail, by Hall, Reed & Co., No. 55 Liberty street, N. Y.—American Artisan, N. Y.

[The press, referred to in the foregoing extract, will be found advertised in another column of this paper. Agents who would like to circulate a useful invention would do well to read this advertisement and send for a circular. Farmers who have orchards should not neglect to make a note of the above recipe.]

The Rebel Gun.

The Republic says: "The immense park of artillery which since the occupation of the city by the United States authorities, has remained at Rockets, has recently been removed to the gun yard at Fortress Monroe. During the past two weeks, 180 pieces have been received at the above named place. The ten-inch guns which were taken from Drury's Bluff are nearly new, having been cast in 1854. They bear a strong resemblance to the Armstrong gun, being reinforced at the breech by concentric bands. They were all cast in this city, and are pronounced by competent judges to be excellent specimines of serviceable artillery. Nearly every one of the guns is effectually spiked. They were never finished at the foundaries where they were cast, and they bear the roughness peculiar to castings when first taken from the sand in which they were moulded. Eighty-five brass guns have also been received at the yard. These are of every conceivable shape and pattern, many of them being of United States manufacture, and were captured by the confederates in battle. There are also rude brass pieces of southern make, and quaint old French guns, which were stored away in government arcenals, and which were brought forth to do service by the Confederate authorities in the hour of need. All these guns are now huddled together in the gun-yard. What disposition is to be made of this ordnance has not yet transpired. An immense quantity of ammunition has also been sent from this city and received at the gun-yard. These explosive projectiles, of every conceivable shape and pattern, are rudely boxed and marked 'C. S. of America, Richmond Laboratory.' The guns and munitions of war have all been placed under charge of the gray-haired old ordnance sergeant, James Welch who pats his favorite guns as he would a fond father his particular bright precious boy. About one thousand tons of ordnance, left here by the Confederate authorities, are now awaiting shipments to the various arsenals at Washington, Philadelphia and New York. Several schooners and barges are now loading in this city with the material for the above destination. The barge John T. Lee recently sailed from the port with a cargo of ordnance stores, and arrived at Fortress Monroe on her way to Watervliet; New York."

The News.

Monday, July 31.

Gov. Brownlow, of Tennessee, has written a letter to the recent military commandant at Columbia, who was relieved of command by Gen. Thomas on account of improper treatment of the freedmen, sustaining and agreeing with the latter's opinion with reference to working of the military and civil powers in that State.

The railroads in the Southern States are being rapidly repaired and constructed, and some are already in successful operation their entire length. Others are so greatly damaged that it will take month to rebuild them.

Richmond is again putting on a businesslike aspect. Nearly $200,000 revenue has been derived from Henrico county during the six weeks the the offi-

Tuesday, Agust 1.

The lately pardonek rebels of North Carolinia, are beginning to take the lead in political affairs of that State, and intend to have everything their own way. They are endevoring to be elected delegats to the approaching State Convention. They are extremely obnoxious to the loyal mne of the State.

By the arrival of the Hiberian we have European news to the 22d. The Great Eastern had arrived safely at Valentia.—The shore end of the cable was to be laid by the 23d. Gladstone had been elected to Parlialmen in South Lancaster. 5-20s are quoted in England at 71 1-4@71 1-2.

A party of Indians attacked an emigrant train in Colorado on Saturday, killing two men. Other Indian depredations are also reported an the same day.

Gen Grant was the guest of the City of Boston yesterday, and visited the Navy Yard and Bunker Mill Monument in the morning. At noon he gave a reception at Faneuil Hall, and in the afternoon visitee Harvard College at Cambridge, and the Watertown Arcenal. He leaves to-day for Halifax.

The Mexican emigration scheme is being revived in New York, and an American legion has been organized there to encourage emigration to Mexico, offering 700 acres of land to each person emigrating.

Tuesday, August 2.

The Salisbury, North Carolina Daily Union Banner has been suppressed by Gen. Ruger for publishing disloyal sentiments. Other journals in the State, of a similar manner.

Gen. Grant arrived at Portland yesterday, and will visit Augusta to-day. He leaves on Saturday for Quebec to meet Gen Doyle, commander of the British forces in Canada.

Advices from England to the 23d are received. The Liberal gains are now reported at 24.

The shore end of the Atlantic cable was laid on the 33d ult., amid great enthusiasm. Speeches were made by Sir Robert Peel and others. The Queen and President of the United States were heartily cheered.

It is reported that Dick Taylor has been sent home by the President, that he may use his influence to restore the people to loyalty. Another report says he is understood to have had an intervew with Jeff. Davis.

A meeting of the sympathizers of Jeff. Davis was held in New York on Monday last, to see that Jeff. and his associates have a fair defense at his trial. A committee consisting of Mayor Gunthur and other prominent Democrats of New York were appointhe to raise funds for the object proposed, and to adopt other other measures. A Mr. Livingston a rebel from Mobile, took a prominent part in the meeting.

It is reported that a new election it to be ordered in Richmond.

The president is still indisposed, and was unable to receive visitors, for the past two days, or to attend a cabinet meeting yesterday.

Thursday, Aug. 3.

Gideon B. Tucker denies that he uttered the sentiments attributed to him at the meeting of Jeff. Davis' friends in New York. Cutler and Butterfield make similar denials.

Hon. Byron Diman, ex-Governor of Rhode Island, died Tuesday night at Providence, aged 70 years.

The man supposed to be John H. Surratt arrived in Washington yesterday and was confined in the Old Capitol prison. Some who formerly knew Surratt say that the person under arrest is not him, while it is reported that one man, an old friend, recognized the culprit as Surratt. He was arrested at Memphis.

A Most Important Discovery.

INTERESTING TO AGENTS, FARMERS, AND LADIES.

WE are makeing a single machine which combines the best and cheapest portable Wine and Cider Press the dryest Clothes Wringer and the most powerful Lifting Jack in the world. It is the only press adapted to making Apple Champaig, which is now regarded as one of the most important discoveries of the age. A good agent wanted in every county, to whom we will hold out such inducements as to insure $1,000 before Christmas. The first one making application from any county shall have the exclusive agency. Full particulars, etc., by Circular.

Address HALL, REED & CO., No. 55 Liberty St., N. Y.

If you want to find the best assortment of English, French & Scotch Cassimere in the county go to A. HOOD'S.

18 Pronunciamento 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour suit.

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd best Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Midlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. W. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always find the highest market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE,

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Salt.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEATFLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BAN, MEAL,

Corn In the Ear and Shelled.

A good assortment of the kids of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Ink Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressd; White wood Siding, seasone Barn Boards, Lumber, sorted qualities & thickiss,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoid pine of assorted size.

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 ha wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE and RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats Buckwheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN.

GAZLAY'S PACIFIC MONTHLY.

Now is your time to Subscribe for our New PACIFIC MONTHLY, which we cheerfully recommend to you as the Excelsior of all the

MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

Employing and paying more for Literary talent than any other Magazine in the country, we flatter ourselves that no Department of the PACIFIC MONTHLY will suffer neglect from the want of able and well-known

LITERARY CONTRIBUTORS,

representing some of the principal shining lights of the Literary world. We shall make such additional engagements as circumstances may demand. Your special attention is called to our

ILLUSTRATIONS,

by an efficient corps of artists—at whose head stands BRIGHTLY and MCLENAN, unequalled as Designers and Engravers. We call the attention of the Public to the profusion of first-class illustrations of the varied, novel and picturesque scenery and local views of the

GOLDEN STATES AND TERRITORIES OF THE PACIFIC.

With Descriptive Views and Reading Matter, affording the most reliable and comprehensive medium in existence for full information in regard to California, Oregon, Nevada, and their contiguous and auriferous territories. The information we give in regard to the Pacific States alone, is worth ten times the Subscription Price of our Magazine. The twelve numbers, a year's subscription, when neatly bound, affording two splendid volumes, suitable for the

DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, OR THE COUNTING-HOUSE,

and costing but FIVE DOLLARS, which in years to come can not be purchased for any price. Our

EDITORIAL DRAWER

will abound with selections of Wit, Original Stories, Comic Sketches, and light Literature, culled from a well-garnered storehouse of fact and incident, affording interesting light reading matter for the Parlor and the Fireside.

COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS.

This Department of the Monthly, under the immediate supervision of MCLENAN, the celebrated Comic Delineator, will be found always rich in Wit, Merriment, and appropriate Design.

FASHION PLATES

Having made special arrangements with Mme. DEMOREST, 473 Broadway, New York, for contributions to our Fashion Department, we recommend our Monthly to their notice, as containing more information in regard to Dress and the Toilet, than any other Magazine published.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!

Now is the time to Subscribe, and have your volume complete for 1865. We will furnish Back Numbers to such as do not subscribe in time for the January or February Number. But to be sure and get them without delay, send in your Subscriptions early. Our Subscription Price is

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR

Payable in Advance, upon the receipt of which our receipt, for the same, will be sent in return.

PREMIUMS IN GOLD!

As an additional inducement to Subscribe early, we shall distribute among our Subscribers a large list of valuable Premiums, relying upon an extraordinary large Subscription List to compensate us for our liberality. These Premiums will consist of valuable Souvenirs of the Gold Wealth of the Pacific States, and will be as follows:—

☞ To any person sending us One Hundred Paying Subscriptions, we will send them, immediately, a Twenty and a Ten Dollar Gold Piece, California Coinage; and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Fifty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Ten and a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Twenty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Five Dollar and a Two-and-half Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Ten Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Two Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Five Paying Subscriptions, we will send an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ We are, also, having made, a large quantity of Valuable PRESENTS and KEEPSAKES for Single Subscribers, who send direct to the Office.

The Presents and Souvenirs consist of Ladies' Breast Pins, Ear-Rings, Finger-Rings, Sleeve Buttons, etc.; and Gentlemen's Breast Pins, Finger-Rings, Sleeve-Buttons, Studs, Settings, Cane-Heads, etc., made from California and Nevada Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Crystalized Quartz Jewelry, (commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry.) The Gold and Silver-bearing Quartz and Ore from which the Souvenirs are made, is from the celebrated Gold & Cupper and Ophir Mines of Nevada, and will be valuable as Mementos, as well as beautiful Appendages and Design. EVERY REGULAR SUBSCRIBER, as above, to the PACIFIC MONTHLY, will be entitled to one of these Articles, if every Subscription standing opposite their name on our books.

SPECIMEN COPIES OF THE PACIFIC MONTHLY

sent, postage pre-paid, upon the receipt of Fifty Cents, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

CAUTION!

☞ Write your Name, Post-Office, County and State, to where you want the Pacific Monthly sent, Plain and Distinct.

☞ Register all Letters containing Money, or, when convenient, send by Express.

☞ If your Post-Office is a Money-Order office, obtain a Money-Order for your remittance.

☞ Send none but United States Treasury Notes, or money Bankable in New York.

☞ All Letters asking Information, etc., to receive attention, must contain a Stamp to pay answer. Address all Correspondence to

D. M. GAZLAY & CO.
PUBLISHERS
PACIFIC MONTHLY
34 LIBERTY STREET
NEW YORK.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:
AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY
121 Nassau Street, New York
WHITE & BAUER,
San Francisco, California.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising.
(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 60	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Square	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12.00
3 Square	2.50	3.50	6.50	10.00	14.00
¼ Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	16.00
½ Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
Column	6.00	10.00	20.00	35.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted at $10 per year.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable

☞ We would say to those who are indebted, that we want the money. We must pay immediately or the accounts will be left with an officer for collection. A word to the wise is sufficient.

☞ Extra copies of the Herald can be procured at Ketcham's News Depot.

☞ R. C. Moore is just receiving new Goods.

☞ Just received—New Goods at Wastell & Adam's, it is the place to get good goods cheap. No humbug.

☞ J. D. Robbins has a large assortment of Wall Paper, School Books and Stationery which he is selling remarkably cheap.

☞ Elegant Dress Prints at Moore's.

☞ Look at Brown and Bleached Muslins at Moore's.

☞ If you are in want of a good Cigar, one that is good, be sure and call on H. B. Mathias. He has a large stock of the best brands of Tobacco, which he sells cheap.

☞ Cotton Yarn at Wastell & Adam's of the best kind for $1,00 per pound.

☞ A. B. Ward, of the firm of Ward & Strickland is now in New York buying a large stock of new goods for this market They will tell you all about it soon.

☞ Prints at Wastell & Adam's from 15 to 35c. DeLaines of the choicest style, only 30c. Summer shawls at cost.

☞ Moore is selling Summer Dress Goods at reduced prices.

☞ Tickings, demins and stripes at Moore's.

Post Office

Webb. Anderson, it appears, has had a slight attack of the prevailing epidemic for improvement, and has made a large addition to the case of boxes for the reception of mail All who want a good box in a convenient locality and belle speak in time.

☞ Call for anything you want at Moore.

Improvements.

Marshal Hyde is always busy at something. He is now engaged in graveling Railro d street and is also putting in a new bridge over the Raisin, near Van Tine & Smith's Cabinet shop in Brownville. A new bridge at that point was much needed, and will be a decided improvement.

New Goods.

Wastell & Adam are receiving new goods every day.

Wool.

Wool is coming into market rather slowly but steadily. There are only two firms in town buying wool this season.—A. Anderson and Tindall & Slayton — The price during the past week has ranged from 55 to 60 cents, according to the quality.

☞ Broadcloths, Cassimeres and Kentucky Jeans at Moore's.

Matrimonial

Our whilom townsman, Capt. D. A. Dodge, has lately committed matrimony, the lucky bride being Miss Helen Mills, daughter of Philo Mills, Esq., of Franklin. That the Captain may enjoy a long, happy and prosperous life in the state of matrimony is the sincere wish of his many friends in Tecumseh.

☞ Holton & Fields have purchased the stock of goods formerly owned by C. B. Ackley. Mr. Holton has gone east after new goods and will soon return with one of the largest stocks ever brought to this place. They are live business men and will let their light shine through the columns of the Herald.

☞ A Pic-nic is to be held in Arnold's grove 1-2 mile west of valley meeting house, on Friday August 11th, the third anniversary of the organization of the West Raisin Aid Society, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M. We hope this is the last call we shall make upon the patriotic and generous people who have always donated liberally at all of our previous pic-nics and we hope will be more liberal considering the cause in which it is given. The object of the pic-nic is to get funds to help construct a home for the disabled defenders of our country. Good speakers and music are expected to be in attendance. Every one is expected to donate something for the table. We cordially extend our invitation to all. E. M. FLITCRAFT Sec'y.

Curiosity.

Chas. Culbertson, a day or two since, brought us a very curious relic, in the shape of a Commission, given in 1753 to his grandfather James Culbertson by the governor of Pennsylvania.

It commences "By the Honorable William Denny Esq Lieutenant Governor and commander in chief of the Province of Pensylvania and counties of New Castle, Kent and Sussex on Delaware." Then follows the body of the commission, appointing James Culbertson ensign of a company of Foot, It is given under his hand and seal of war Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, and signed "By his honors command.—Richard Peters, Secretary." The signature of the governor and seal are placed printed upon parchment, and in the old fashioned style of type, with the long s.

A WORD TO THE LADIES.—The employments of ladies are for the most part sedendary. They sit too much and walk too little. They do not as a general thing, take enough of Natures medicine,—air. To keep the secretive organs in a regular and healthful state, and to prevent the sensitiveness of the nerves, which arises from close confinement, we recommend to them air, exercise and Red Jacket Bitters. This prescription will be a sure thing to bring a blush to the palest cheek; and, if the former can only be enjoed to a limited extent, the latter is more than ever necessary.

Life Insurance.

"The importance of Life assurance to society everywhere; its strengthening influence upon the sinews of social life; the solidity it imparts to all domestic institutions; the protection it affords to the labors and the recreations of existence; the comfort it brings to the sacred fireside of home; the countless benefits it scatters along the pathway of life; the blessings it reserves for a future of sorrow—all these are more truly perceived and more warmly appreciated than ever they were before. The hopes of parent and child, lover and sweetheart, husband and wife, brother and sister, old and young, the widowed and the orphaned—all are garnered up in their keeping.'—N. P. Willis.

Reader, Insure immediately. Apply to S. C. Stacy, Agent.

☞ Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters, Roback's Bitters, Bovee Dod's Vine Bitters, Newton's Jaundice Bitters, and all other Bitters for sale cheap at the Drug store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

☞ Go to Holton & Fields for Pianos Melodians, Organs and Sheet Music.

LIFE, SPEECHES AND PUBLIC SERVICE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, by J. H. Bal, is now canvassing for the above entitled work, which is a complete history of his early life, political speeches in and out of Congress, also a general view of his policy as President of the United States and his messages, Proclamations, letters &c., and a concise history of the war. It embodies the events of the first 3 years of his administration, and will contain the history of the last year of his administration and the particulars of his tragic and lamented demise. Mr. Beal will call upon the citizens of Tecumseh, Franklin, Combridge, Woodstock, and Macon, and give them a chance to subscribe for this valuable work It is sold only by subscription, so do not fail to become a subscriber.

'A thing of Beauty is a joy forever.'

MARIA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER.—Perfect success; the best in market. Is n a dye—will not stain the skin—will restore gray and faded hair to a beautiful black brown auburn color, and cause it to assume its former beauty. It will cure all humors of the scalp, remove dandruff and scurf from the head, keep the hair soft and nice, and give it a silk like appearance. It is the best dressing for the hair in the WORLD. Every woman with gray and faded hair—every man with gray hair and faded whiskers, can NOW be restored to their original beauty and color in one or two month's time by using "MARIA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER." It will prevent the hair from falling and promote a healthy growth, will cause to grow on bald heads when there life and vitality at the roots.—Where these are gone there is no hope of success. WARRANTED, or money refunded. ☞ Sold everywhere.

G. WILSON, Agent, Michigan

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Fri the 28th day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Landy, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Oliver B. Taylor, administrator of said estate praying that he may be licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased to pay the debts of said deceased and expenses of administration.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the ninth day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted:

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.) 766-w5.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., July 27, 1865

Aldrich, Mrs. L. P.	Bray, Mr.
Cook, Miss Orrissa,	Hale, H.
Higgins, Mr.	Hinckle, Reuben
Lampkin, Thomas	Reed, Joseph
Wright, Daniel	Ward, C.

Letters to strangers or transient visitors in a town or city, whose special address may be unknown, should be marked, in the lower left-hand corner, with the word "Transient."

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

N. B.—A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within 30 days or less, written or printed with the writer's name, postoffice and State across the left-hand end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with at the usual prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer. Nov. 29 1864

Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner, and leave space between the stamp and direction for post marking without interfering with the writing.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Chancery Sale

In pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court, for the County of Lenawee, in Chancery, made on the 6th day of April, 1865, in a cause therein pending wherein Lewis Brooks is complainant, Hannah Rowland and others are defendants.—Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the Room, in the city of Adrian, where the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee is holden, on the 8th day of September, 1865, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, all that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Tecumseh in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan bounded and described as follows: Said premises being situated west of and near the village of Clinton in said County and bounded and described as follows, viz: Commencing at a point in the center of the Chicago road twenty-seven feet west of the west abutments of the public bridge across the mill race of the Atlas mill property thence west along the center of the Chicago road one hundred and twenty feet, thence south one hundred and ninety feet, thence east one hundred and eight feet, to the west side of the west bank of said mill-race, thence north along the west side of said mill race bank one hundred and ninety feet to the place of beginning containing about one half an acre of land be the same more or less, reserving always from the operation of this mortgage all the rights and privileges of road and roadways that were reserved by F. S Snow and wife in their deed of said premises to George Unterkercher and Hannah Rowland dated January 22nd, 1859, this mortgage is intended to cover and convey the undivided one half only of the above described property and appurtenances—July 27th, 1865.

J. J. HOGABOAM,
Circuit Court Commissioner.
E. B. Woon, Sol. for Compl't.

DENTISTRY.

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices.

DISSOLUTION:

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — ☞ Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

F. R. Stebbins,
Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

J. C. BURROUGHS,
VETERINARY
Physician an Surgeon,
Of the Village of Tecumseh.

Would inform the citizens of this vicinity that he is always prepared with various kinds of Medicines for curing the numerous diseases to which that useful and domestic animal the horse is subject namely

All cases of Chronic Distempers, Fevers, Inflammation of the Lungs, Farcy, Ache of the intestines, Ringbone, and Bone Spavin, Bog or Blood Spavin, &c.&c.

Now my good friend why will you suffer your horse to remain ailing when the complaint can be cured for a trifle and by so doing you may save the life and price of a good, faithful and valuable animal. Take notice and apply to J. C. Burroughs without delay, as delays are extremely dangerous.

753 J. C. BURROUGHS, V. S.

Village Lots For Sale!

I propose to open the streets and have my ten acre lot laid out in lots to suit purchasers. It is a beautiful location south of west school house. Terms easy. Cash or on time. Also 7 acres with orchard and all kinds of fruit, good house barns, sheds &c. Also other Houses and Lots, situated in the beautiful village of Tecumseh. June, 1865.

WM. McCOWEN.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

CONSISTING OF

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED

BALMORAL SKIRTS,
HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS.

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction.

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best filled Establishments!

Most Varied Stock of Furniture

Is to be found at

VAN TINE & SMITH'S

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St., Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,
TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY,
WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE,
COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP,
WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pic. ures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH,

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to make room for other Goods Better bargains can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

If you are in want of anything in the Meat line be sure and give him a call. n759

Corporation Notice

The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

DEUEL & WILBUR,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO,
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK, LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything
that anybody or his
brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

And all our neighbors know

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICHIGAN

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n706 A. JAMES.

NEW AND CHEAP

CASH STORE

WASTEL & ADAM

Have just opened in the village of Tecumseh at No. 2,

MECHANICS BLOCK

The most choice and splendid assortment of

DRY GOODS

Ever offered for sale in Southern Michigan. Their stock consists entirely of the very NEWEST and LATEST styles of

DRESS GOODS, FANCY GOODS,
Yankee Notions &c. embracing

SILKS,
ALAPACAS, DELAINES,
CALICOES, PRINTS,
SHAWLS, LACES,
RIBBONS, SHIRTINGS,
SHEETINGS,
WORSTEDS,

And everything in the Dry Goods Line. Their Goods were all purchased at since the late fall in New York, and will be sold as low as at any Store in the West. We can, and will sell as low as any Dry Goods Store in Lenawee County, or elsewhere. Quick sales for READY CASH and SMALL PROFITS, is our motto.

PANIC PRICES,

☞ Call and see our

HOOP SKIRTS AND INVISIBLE CLASPED
New York Belt Balmorel

If you wish to encourage competition, which is the life of business, please favor us with a portion of your patronage.

Call and see, and examine Goods and Prices and judge for yourselves.

Tecumseh, April 4th, 1865. n749yl

JEFF'S CAPTURED

MORE PARTICULARS,

GREAT EXCITEMENT

AT THE

NEW STORE

In John Usborn's Block,

DRY GOODS

FANCY GOODS,

Yankee Notions

&c., of the latest styles selling at

NEW YORK PRICES,

Please call and examine our Goods before purchasing elsewhere.

C. B. ACKLEY.

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just received York, and is now opening a new stock of all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hood's, north side of Chicago street.

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.

GAZLAY'S PACIFIC MONTHLY.

Now is your time to Subscribe for our New Pacific Monthly, which we cheerfully commend to you as the Embodiment of all the

MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

Embodying and using more real literary talent than any other Magazine in the country, the latter ourselves not no department of the Pacific Monthly will suffer neglect from the want of able and well known representing some of the principal shining lights of the Literary world. We shall make such

LITERARY CONTRIBUTORS,

ILLUSTRATIONS,

which are produced, without regard to expense, by an efficient corps of artists—at whose head stands Brightly and McLenan, unequalled as Designers and Engravers. We call the attention of the Public to the profusion of first class illustrations of the varied, novel and picturesque scenery and local views of the

GOLDEN STATES AND TERRITORIES OF THE PACIFIC.

With Descriptive Views and Reading Matter, affording the most reliable and comprehensive medium in existence for full information in regard to California, Oregon, Nevada, and their contiguous and auxiliary territories. The information we give in regard to the Pacific States, alone, is worth ten times the Subscription Price of our Magazine. The twelve numbers, a year's subscription, when neatly bound, affording two splendid volumes, suitable for the

DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, OR THE COUNTING-HOUSE,

and costing but FIVE DOLLARS, which in years to come can not be purchased for any price. Our

EDITORIAL DRAWER

will abound with selections of Wit, Original Stories, Comic Sketches, and light Literature, culled from a well-stocked storehouse of fun, fact and incident, affording interesting light reading matter for the Parlor and the Fireside.

COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS.

This Department of the Monthly, under the immediate supervision of Mr. Nye, the celebrated Comic Delineator, will be found always rich in Wit, Merriment, and appropriate Design.

FASHION PLATES.

Having made special arrangements with Mme. Demorest, 473 Broadway, New York, for contributions to our Fashion Department, we call the attention of the Ladies to her page, and commend our Monthly to their notice, as containing more information in regard to Dress and the Toilet, than any other Magazine published.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!

Now is the time to Subscribe, and have your volume complete for 1866. We will forward Back Numbers to each subscriber, so as to be in time for the January and February Numbers. But to be sure and get them without delay, send in your Subscriptions early. Our Subscription Price is

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR,

Payable in Advance; upon the receipt of which our receipt, for the same, will be sent in return.

PREMIUMS IN GOLD!

As an additional inducement to Subscribe early, we shall distribute among our Subscribers a large list of valuable Premiums, besides upon an extraordinary large Subscription List to compensate us for our liberality. These Premiums will consist of valuable Specimens of the Golden Wealth of the Pacific States, and will be as follows:—

☞ To any person sending us One Hundred Paying Subscriptions, we will send, transmittal, a Twenty and a Ten Dollar Gold Piece, California Coinage, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Fifty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Ten and a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Twenty-five Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Five Dollar and a Two-and-half Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Ten Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Three Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Five Paying Subscriptions, we will send, an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

☞ We are also keeping on hand a large quantity of Valuable PRESENTS and KEEPSAKES for Single Subscribers, who send direct to the Office.

The Presents and Souvenirs consist of Ladies' Breast Pins, Ear Rings, Finger Rings, Sleeve Buttons, etc.; and Gentlemen's Breast Pins, Finger Rings, Sleeve Buttons, Studs, Settings for Cane Heads, etc., made from California and Nevada Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Ore—Crystalized Quartz Jewelry, (commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry.) The Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Ore from which these Souvenirs are made, is from the celebrated Gould & Curry and Ophir Mines of Nevada, and will be valuable as Mementoes, as well as beautiful in Appearance and Design. EVERY REGULAR SUBSCRIBER, as above, to the PACIFIC MONTHLY, will be entitled to one of these Articles for every Subscription standing opposite their names on our books.

SPECIMEN COPIES OF THE PACIFIC MONTHLY

sent, postage prepaid, upon the receipt of Fifty Cents, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

CAUTION!

☞ Write your Name, Post-Office, County and State, to where you want the Pacific Monthly sent, Plain and Distinct.

☞ Register all Letters containing Money; or, when convenient, send by Express.

☞ If your Post-Office is a Money-Order office, obtain a Money-Order for your remittance.

☞ Send none but United States Treasury Notes, or money Bankable in New York.

☞ All Letters asking information, etc., to receive attention, must contain a Stamp, to pay answer. Address all Correspondence,

D. M. GAZLAY & CO., PUBLISHERS PACIFIC MONTHLY, 34 LIBERTY STREET, NEW YORK.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:

AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY, 121 Nassau Street, New York.

WHITE & BAUER, San Francisco, California.

"As pertaining to Goodness, as Nature, from which Health is sent."

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands

of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates,

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula,	Syphilis,
Skin Diseases,	Old Sores,
Salt Rheum,	Rheumatism,
Dyspepsia,	Sick Headache,
Liver Complaint,	Fever and Ague,
Leucorrhœa,	Female Complaints,
Erysipelas,	St. Anthony's Fire,
Tumors,	Eruptions,
Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away. The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years. Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Doctors and Drugs have been tried in vain, and have been cured by the use of these Medicines.

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

which, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache,	Costiveness,
Colic Pains,	Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion,	Pain in the Bowels,
Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

Principal Office and Salesroom, No. 6 East Fourth St., 3d Building from Main St., Cincinnati, O. Laboratory, No 18 Hammond Street.

FOR SALE BY

P. N. Curtis and Fisher & Baker.

Commissioner's Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, s. s. The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court for said County, commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands of all persons against the estate of Alpheus Kies, late of the Township of Tecumseh, in said county, deceased, hereby give notice, that three months from the 15th day of June A. D. 1865 are allowed by order of said Probate Court for creditors to present their claims against the estate of said deceased, and that they will meet at the office of Shaw & Kies, in the village of Clinton, in said county of Lenawee, on Saturday the first day of July and Saturday the ninth day of September next at one o'clock of each of said days to receive, examine and adjust such claims.—Dated, June 23d, 1865.

Daniel Keyes, Charles Brooks, } Commissioners.

Editor of Herald, Dear Sir:—With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send, by return mail, to all who send me (free) a Receipt, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm that effectually removes, in ten days, Freckles, Blotches, Tan, Pimples, and all Impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and beautiful. I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxuriant Hair, Whiskers or Mustaches, in less than thirty days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours, PROF. T. HAPNER, Chemist, 841 Broadway, New York. 1 Jun5

Ackley has the largest stock of Hosiery, Gloves &c. ever brought to town.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

A healthy tonic stimulant and unequalled invigorating cordial. Prepared in the old Bourbon, pledge now used in the distillation of all other liquors in the United States Army Hospitals, and in the principal physician's practice, and is the only popular medicine which has ever universally accepted from temperance lecturers, and recommended as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

They are made of ingredients well known, and approved by the medical profession, and having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strength to take according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases:—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Affections, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirits, Sallow Complexion,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity, so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.—

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ Ladies, who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too strongly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system.

☞ If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters, have him send for them.—

☞ Remember the name, and take no other,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical Journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession, and by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

DR. C. H. SWAIN, PROPRIETOR.

Offices—135 Broadway, New York, 181 South Water St., Chicago.

C. A. COOK, General Agent for the West, Office, 26 Market Street, Chicago.

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from sluggish liver or indigestion.

diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable.

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gold label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other. Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,
No. 21 River Street Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the

Brick Shop on Railroad Street,

Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and leave your orders.

To the Ladies & Gentlemen of Tecumseh,

The undersigned having fitted up rooms expressly for the sale of

Ice Cream, Lemonade, Soda Water &c.

Will be happy at all times to wait upon you. Rooms over Wishart's Crockery Store. Open day and evening.—June 15th, 1865.

J. S. WALTERS.

Last Call.

I would say to all who owe me, being unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co., that I shall be at home to settle with them, and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall be to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April 1, '65. A. JAMES.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is still in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young America. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of Clothing which I will sell cheap at prices unheard of before, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days. I

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50,

Broadcloth and cassimere coats very cheap, linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars, Neck Ties, Shirts, Gloves, Hosiery, Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save a great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

U. S. 7-30 Loan!

Third Series.

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the Sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent GOLD-BEARING BONDS.

These Bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County and Municipal taxation, which add from one to three per cent per annum to their value according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker. The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to

One cent per day on a	$50	note.
Two cents " "	$100	"
Ten " " "	$500	"
Twenty " " "	$1000	"
Dollar " " "	$5000	"

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the 7.30 already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at a rate equivalent to 7.3 10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15, 1865, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven-thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this Third Series affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in gold be availed of, would so reduce and equilize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three-tenths per cent in currency. This is

Only Loan in the Market.

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the

GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $300,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress and now on the market. This amount at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within two months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans. It now seems probable that no considerable amount beyond the present series will be offered to the public.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscription at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

JAY COOKE,
Subscription Agent, Philadelphia.

may 1st, 1865

Subscriptions will be received by the

First National Bank of Tecumseh.
First National Bank of Ypsilanti, and the First National Bank of Detroit.

Guardian Sale.

In the matter of the estate of James S. Collins, a minor

By virtue of a license of sale to me granted by the Court of Probate of the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the barn on the land hereinafter described on the 25th day of July, 1865, at two o'clock in the afternoon all the interest of James S. Collins, a minor, of in and to all that tract or parcel of land situate in the town of Macon in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as south part (24 acres) of the east half of south east quarter of section five; also south quarter of west half of south west quarter of section four; also east half of west half of south west quarter of said section four. Terms made known on day of sale.—Dated June 8th, 1865.

JAMES B. CHAMBERS,
Guardian of said Minor.
n768w7

Commissioners Notice.

We the undersigned having been appointed commissioners by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee to adjust claims against the estate of Joseph Litchard, deceased, would give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the residence of Jacob Litchard in Macon, on Saturday the 1st day of July, 1865, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day when all persons having claims against said estate can appear and present their said claims for allowance and that six months from this date are allowed for creditors to present their claims for allowance.—Macon, June 5th, 1865.

JOHN JACKSON,
DAVID BERDAN,
Commissioners.

☞ Wishart's Crockery Store.

English, French & Scotch Cassimere in the county go to A. HOOD'S.

Good News to All

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH'

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show an old or new customer the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY, GLASS, ROCKINGHAM, EARTHERN,

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE

of the LATEST and BEST English brands

Also a splendid assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions,

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

MILLINER.

Mrs. O. McCoy,

is now receiving the largest and best selected stock of millinery goods which were

BOUGHT since the GOLD PANIC

consisting of

Bonnets, Hats, Ribbons &c.,

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS TOWN,

which she is selling cheaper than any other establishment of the kind or

DRY GOODS STORE DARE SELL.

Such a magnificent display of goods is seldom seen in the towns of the West. Walk up, Ladies, and see me and hear the prices.

BLEACHING AND PRESSING

done in the neatest manner. Remember the place and do not fail to call.

Mrs. O. McCOY.

Tecumseh, April 13th, 1865

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee; The vilest trash, under Snowy and Taking names, has been thrust upon the public. Bogus and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their Labels and wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a

Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to supply this demand.

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of

Uniform Standard and Quality,

Specially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable. If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our Ground Spices, Mustard, Cream Tartar, Baking Soda and Saleratus, put up at the Java Mills will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Groceries will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, C. Lawrence, B. J. Bidwell, P. N. Curtis, Fisher & Baker, Ketcham & Conkling, at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCULARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No 52, Vesey Street, New York.

To Consumptives.

The undersigned having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge) with the discription for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every suffer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address

Rev EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County New York. 746w3

ATLANTIC & GRT WET'N RAILWAY

New Broad Gauge

PASSENGER, FREIGHT, MAIL,

EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH ROUTE

Commencing at Salamanca N. Y. on the Erie Railway, it runs continuous Six Hours' Track from New York to Akron or Cleveland.

On and after Sunday, Nov. 13th, 1864, Through Passenger and Freight Trains will leave regularly as follows:

CLEVELAND & NEW YORK.

NEW AND IMPORTANT PASSENGER ROUTE.

FARE AS LOW AS BY ANY OTHER ROUTE

BAGGAGE CHECKED THROUGH.

Passengers by this Line have choice of Five different Routes between New York and Boston.

TICKETS THROUGH.

Can be obtained at any of the Offices of the Erie Railway, and all Ticket Offices of Connecting Lines West or northwest, also at the Central Ticket Office under the Wendell House, Cleveland, O.

Ask for Tickets via the Atlantic and Great Western and Erie Railways.

Passenger Trains stop at Meadville thirty minutes giving passengers ample time to dine at the

"McHENRY HOUSE,"

The best Railway Hotel in the country.

NEW AND EXPEDITIOUS FREIGHT LINE

ALL RAIL.

No transhipment of Freight between New York and Akron or Cleveland.

Merchants in the West or Southwest will find it to their advantage to order their goods to be forwarded via the Erie and Atlantic & Great Western Railways, thus saving trouble and expense.

Rates of Freight as Low as by any other all Rail Route.

Especial attention will be given to the early transportation of Freight of all kinds, East or West.

The Engines, Cars and other equipments of this Company are entirely new, and of the most improved modern style.

The only direct route to the wonderful

OIL REGIONS of PENNSYLVANIA

Via Meadville or Corry.

From Leavittsburgh the Mahoning Branch runs to Youngstown and the Coal Mines.

This Road is being extended and will soon be in complete running order to Galion, Urbana, Bryton, connecting without break of Gauge.

J. FARNSWORTH, General Freight Agent.
T. H. GOODMAN, General Ticket Agent.
H. F. SWEETSER, Gen'l Supt.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov 10, 1863.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Counterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his process in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh, Mich.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 24th day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of George A. Stanton deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Gilbert J. Stanton a brother of said deceased, praying that a duly authenticated copy of the last will of said deceased, of the Surrogate Court of Orleans County New York, and the probate thereof may be filed and recorded in this office for reasons stated in said petition

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 1st day of May next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous said day of hearing. ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true Copy.) n759

Probate Notice

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee s. s.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Thursday the 15th day of June the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of William J. O'Brien deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Mary O'Brien, widow of deceased, praying that Richard Osborn may be appointed administrator on said estate.

Thereupon it is ordered, that on day the 24th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate
(A true copy) n760w4

Commissioners' Rice.

Estate of Jacob D. Harring deceased, &c.

The undersigned appointed by the Judge of Probate of Lenawee county commissioners to receive, hear and audit claims against said estate, hereby give notice that for such purpose they will meet at the late residence of Jacob D. Harring deceased in the township of Macon, on the 10th day of July and the 27th day of October next, at 10 o'clock of each day; and also give notice that said Judge of Probate has allowed six months next ensuing the 27th day of April, 1865, for the creditors of said estate to present their claims. ISRAEL PENINGER,
JOHN SAGE, Commissioners.

Dated May 1st 1865. 7n6w4-4

The Bridal Chamber, a Day of Warning and instruction for Young Men—published by the Howard Association, and sent free of charge in sealed envelopes. Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HORTON, Howard Association, Philadelphia Pa. 745y

---

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit, &c. at JAMES

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage, executed by George Allison of Macon, Michigan, to James Patton of the same place, dated the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty four and recorded on the 18th of March 1864, at 9 o'clock A. M. in the Register's office for the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, in Liber 3 of mortgages on pages 720 and 721, upon which there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice, of the first instalment thereon, one hundred and eighty-six 100 dollars and the further sum of six hundred dollars and interest, secured to be paid thereon thereafter with interest, all now due and payable by reason of the default, making now due and payable the sum of seven hundred and eighty-six dollars for the recovery of which sum or any part thereof, no suit or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity. Notice is therefore, hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage, contained and in pursuance of the statute in such day of June next ensuing the date hereof, three o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the front door of the Hall, the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county of Lenawee, in the city of Adrian, in said county, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of money due and payable on said mortgage by reason of said default and interest, together with the costs and expenses allowed by law and stipulated in said mortgage; said premises being described in said mortgage as follows, namely: situate in the township of Macon, Lenawee county, Michigan, known as the north east quarter of the north west quarter of section No. thirty five (35) town six (5) south of range five (5) east containing forty acres more or less.

JAMES PATTON Mortgagee.
P. R. Adams, Attorney.
Dated March 20th, 1865. n754w13

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, county of Lenawee, s.s.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 18th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Stephen E. Cole deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified of Mela McDole praying that the administrator of said estate may be directed to convey certain lands of said deceased to said petitioner for reasons in said petition stated.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 5th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the next of kin of said minor and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, six successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.
A true Copy.) 750w7

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 25th day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of George A. Stanton deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Gilbert J. Stanton a brother of said deceased, praying that a duly authenticated copy of the last will of said deceased, of the Surrogate Court of Orleans County New York, and the probate thereof may be filed and recorded in this office for reasons stated in said petition

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 1st day of May next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.) 750-w7

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Monday the tenth day of April in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Roswell R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Bitchard deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified of Jacob Bitchard, a son of said deceased, praying that Ebenezar Harmon may be appointed administrator on said estate.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the eighth day of May next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R BEECHER, Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.) Pd 750-w7

ROBACK'S PURE CATAWBA BRANDY

is made from the RIPE JUICE of CATAWBA GRAPE, which is grown in abundance in Ohio and from which this article is obtained—it has an agreeable flavor, fine clear color, and possesses all the qualities for medicinal purposes, and for a beverage of the best imported brandies. As a flavoring for mince pies and other cooking purposes it is the best economical article that can be used, being one half a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found rapid sales, and is daily gaining in popularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally throughout the West.

C. W. ROBACK, Proprietor,
56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

If you are in need of anything go to Ackley's.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 11. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 10, 1865. WHOLE NO. 767.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLD)

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER.
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

as any other dealer in the country, and the goods sold as good as recommended.

WARRANT

CASH FOR RAGS!

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,
JUVENILES,
Bibles and Testaments,
Hymn Books for all Denominations,
BLANK BOOKS
Sheet Music,
Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All

THE POPULAR PERIODICALS,
Papers and cheap Publications, of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

L. DREW'S
New Hardware!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass. Window Sashes,

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools
Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps,
Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE.

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country. Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL.

CLOTHES WRINGER,

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye Invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

WANTED.

Butter, Eggs, Pork, Dried Meats, Lard, Dried Fruits, Paper Rags, &c. &c. for which I will pay the Highest price in Cash.

To those who wish to pack their own Butter, I will furnish Packages free of charge. Give me a call. A. JAMES.

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight,	7:08 A. M.
Mail and Express,	1:06 P. M.

GOING NORTH.

Accommodation,	6:40 P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD.
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES.
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

I. DECEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING,
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

P. N. CURTIS.
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER,
Attorneys, Councellor's and Solicitors
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT.
Justices of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McOWEN,
Dealers in Furniture, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD P. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. HANFORD,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO.
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY.
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ANDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin, Flour, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

G. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG.
Photographic Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

S. C. M. BISSELL,
Photographic Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago Tecumseh, Mich.

HOUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

ORYN H. PACKARD,
Union Livery Feed and Sale Stable.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

UNION HOUSE,
Chicago St, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

WILLIAM WESCOTT.
Paper Hanger, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

What's the Use,

'Harry, my son,' said Mrs. Willoughby, 'I wish you would practice your music lesson this morning.'

Harry: 'I wish that Lindeman had the piano-forte, and that I had never taken a lesson.'

The use his mother calmly replied, 'you cannot now see. If you never learn a lesson till you know what its practical use will be, you will grow up in ignorance, I fear.'

'But,' presisted Harry, 'playing the piano is just fit for girls. I want to be out doors a-coasting with the other boys.

'Edward Bliss pratices two hours every morning, he is not out a-coasting. The the lesson must be learned at some time.'

'Well,' said Harry, 'if I must, I must; but I don't mean to take another quarter's lessons;' and he went into the parlor to while away the time that he ought to have devoted to his lesson.

Instead of practising as his mother desired, and supposed him to be doing, he took a small song book, and tried to play the air of 'The Star-Spangled Banner, then other tunes, as his inclination led him; and finally, when that ceased to amuse him, he turned to the Instruction Book.'

All that Harry needed was patience, for he had a quick ear for music, and his teacher said he appeared to have a natural skill. But as he was so unwilling to devote his time to science, his parents yielded to his importunity, and permitted him to relinquish the study.

'Two more hours for play now,' said Harry as he went out one morning, after a snow-storm. Passing the house in which Edward Bliss, he heard Edward practising his lesson. I wonder what good Ed. thinks it's going to do him; he likes play as well as any one of us,' he said amusingly. 'I wonder how he can made up his mind to practice so much.'

The fact was that Edward had confidence in his parents. He thought they knew better what was for his benefit than he did, and in the spirit of true obedience he did as they desired.

'Where are you going with that shovel, Ben?' said Harry to one of his companions whom he met on the side-walk.

'I've earned fifty cents this morning shoveling snow. Mrs Miles gave me a quarter for cleaning the snow out of her yard. It didn't take only half an hour or so,' said Ben; and then he asked Harry to go home and get a shovel, and they would go into the next street and see who would earn the most money.

Harry was pleased with the proposition, and congratulated himself, when he returned home, on having earned a whole dollar.

'To think,' said he 'what a stuped boy Ed. Bliss is, sitting at the piano drumming away while I am earning money.'—He said something of the kind to his mother, and was vexed to think she could not unite with him in calling Edward a stuped boy.

But music was not the only study about which Harry felt competent to decide. 'What's the use of studying grammer?' he said. 'Don't I know how to talk?' so he avoided all he could without being censured. He thought he knew grammer enough.

'Halloa! Ed, who done the best day's work last Saturday, you or I? When you was practising I was shoveling snow, and I earned a dollar.' So Harry began when he met Edward Bliss on Monday morning.

Edward was going to tell him that he had better have been studying his grammar, because he noticed two errors in what he had said, but he thought Harry would be offended, perhaps, and so he answered that at present Harry's day's work seemed to pay better than his, but he hoped to reap some benefit from his labor at some time.

Harry laughed, and went along Whistling.

Some six months after, one summer evening, Harry ran into the house—'Mother,' he said I've a chance to earn some money. You know Mr. B., the man that plays our church organ; he says if I'll blow the organ an hour this evening, he'll pay me 50 cents.'

When Harry arrived at the church some one was playing, and Mr. B. was waiting for him. 'I am glad to see you, Harry,' he said; 'now stand here and be sure to keep the bellows filled.'

Harry found it harder work than he had supposed it would be; 'but it's only for an hour,' he said, 'and fifty cents when it's over.'

Mr. B. paid him promptly, and told Harry that he would like to engage him, if he might depend upon him, to blow the organ for the next four Sabbaths. The boy who usually served was to have a vacation at the same time, he wanted to leave matters fairly arranged, that the chorister need have no trouble in his absence. For the four Sabbaths' service he would pay him a dollar.

Harry was pleased to accept the proposal and went home delighted.

'This is something I never thought of,' he said, as he told his parents of the arrangement, 'earning money Sabbath day.'

The church bell was tolling when Harry was on his way to church, and he stepped briskly forward, remembering that he was to be there in time for the 'voluntary.'

As he assended the stairs leading to the gallery, he observed Edward Bliss.—'I thought you always sat with your mother, Ed! You going to sit in the gallery to-day?' he asked in surprise.

'Yes,' replied Edward, 'I don't know how I shall succeed, but I promised Mr B. that I should do my best.'

'At the organ?' Harry inquired.

'Yes,' Edward modestly replied.

'But he's hired me,' said Harry, his face coloring.

'Yes, the same evening that he engaged me to play, he engaged you to blow the organ. I was practising a voluntary that evening. You did not know it I suppose. I did not know who was blowing until you was gone.'

'You play for church service? You are in fun, Ed. When did you ever learn?'

'I learned by practising It took time,' said Edward, 'but it was time well spent, my mother says.'

They had reached the door and further conversation could not be had. Harry wished he could break his engagement, but he dare not do it.

So, though he never felt so mean before, he was obliged to serve Edward Bliss in a manner that he had never dreamed of. He tried to avoid his acquaintences when going home from church, for he thought they would laugh at him. But far from that; for no one thought to inquire who blew the organ, while he heard many complimenting the performance and good taste of the young organist.

'How much does Mr. B. pay you?' he asked Edward, when they met in the forenoon

'Two dollars a Sabbath,' Edward replied.

'Two dollars! Honest, though?' said Harry.

Certainly.'

'But he only pays me a quarter, and of course it takes me as long as it does you. It isn't fair.'

'But it didn't take your time to learn, you know. It didn't cost you anything,' replied Edward,

Then Harry saw how much better it would have been for him to have listened to his mother's counsel, and he wished he had been wise betimes.

More than a year later Harry learned to deplore another a folly.

A business firm wished to procure a corresponding clerk. Applications were to be made in handwriting of the applicant. Harry felt almost sure that he should obtain the situation, for he wrote a handsome hand.

When he was refused he asked as a favor, to know what objection they could have to employing him, and was told that it was simply that the grammar which he used would be a disgrace to their name

Harry was extremely mortified, and all the more unhappy because Edward Bliss was the successful candidate.

To think that Edward Bliss should have annually a thousand dollars salary for week-day work, and a sallery for playing the organ on Sundays, vexed Harry exceedingly; for Edward had become an accomplished organist, and could command a handsome salary. But each was reaping what he had sowed. When I hear a schoolboy say, 'What's the use?' when his parents desire him to learn any useful lesson; or, as I heard a lad say, 'Stay in from play, to play the piano, may be I ought to, but I don't see it,—I think the time is coming when he will see how much wiser it would have been for him to listen to the instructions of his parents than to follow his own indiscreet inclination. A lost hour never returns. Youth is the time to store up knowledge. He that harkeneth unto counsel is wise.

—Congregationalist.

How I Came to be Married.

It may be funny but I've done it. I've got a rib and a baby. Shadows departed—oyster stews, brandy cock-tails, cigar whist and demijohn. Shadows present—hoop skirts, band boxes, ribbons, garters, long stockings, juvenile dresses, tin trumpets, little willow chairs, cradles, bibs pap, sugar teats, paregoric, hive sprup, rhubarb, senna, salts, squills, and doctor bills. Shadows future—more pound babies, more hive syrup, etc., etc. I'll just tell you how I got caught. I was always the darndest, most tea custard bashful fellow you ever did see; it was kinder in my line to be taken with the shakes every time I saw a pretty gal approaching me, and I'd cross the street any time rather than face one; 'twasn't because I didn't like the critters, for I was behind the fence looking through a knot hole. I couldn't look at one long enough. Well my sister Lib gave a party one night, and I stayed away from home because I was to bashful to face the music I hung around the house whistling "Old Dan Tucker," dancing to keep my feet warm, watching the heads bobing up and down behind the window curtains and wishing the thundering party would break up, so I could get to my room: I smoked up a bunch of cigars, and as it was getting late and mighty uncomfortable, I concluded to shin up to the door post. No sooner said than done, and I soon put myself snug in bed.

"Now," says I, "let her rip! Dance till your wind gives out!" And cudling down under the quilts, Morpheus grabbed me.

I was dreaming of soft shell crabs and stewed tripe, and having a good time, when somebody knocked at the door and woke me up. "Rap, rap!" Then Lib sings out:

"Jack, are you in there?"

"Yes," says I.

Then came a roar of laughter.

"Let us in," says she.

"I won't," says I, "can't you let a fellow alone?"

"Are you a bed?" says she.

"I am," says I.

"Get out," says she.

"I won't," says I.

Then came another laugh.

By thunder! I began to get riled.

"Get out, you petticoat scarecrow!" cried I; "cant you get a beau without hauling a fellow out of bed? I won't go home with you—I won't—so you may clear out!"

And throwing a boot at the door, I felt better. But presently—oh! mortal buttons!—I heard a still, small voice, very much like sister Lib's, and it said,

"Jack, you'll have to get up, for all the girls things are there!"

Oh, Lord, what a pickle! Think of me in bed, all covered with shawls, muffs, bonnets and cloaks, and twenty girls outside the door waiting to get in! If I had popped to think I should have pancaked on the spot. As it was I rolled out among the bonnet ware and ribbons in a hurry. Smash! went the millinery in every direction. I had to dress in the dark—for there was a crack in the door, and the girls will peep—and the way I fumbled about was death on straw hats. The critical moment came. I opened the door and found myself right among the women.

"Oh, my Leghorn!" cried one. "My dear darling, winter velvet!" cries another, and they pitched in—they pulled me this way and that way, boxed my ears and one bright-eyed little piece—Sal—her name was—put her arm right around my neck, and kissed me right on my lips. Human nature couldn't stand that, and I gave her as good a one as she sent. It was the first time that I ever got the taste, and it was powerful good. I believe I could have kissed that gal from Julius Cæsar to the Fourth of July.

"Jack," said she, "we are sorry to disurb you but won't you see us home!"

"Yes," said I, "I will."

I did do it, and I had another smack at the gate, too. After that we took a kinder turtle-dove after each other, both of us sighing like a barrel of new cider, when we were away from each other. 'Twas at the close of a glorious summer day, the sun was setting behind a distant hen roost—the bull frogs were commencing their evening songs, and the polly-wogs, in their native mud-puddles, were preparing themselves for the shades of night, and Sal and myself sat on an antibuated backlog, listening to the music of nature, such as tree toads, roosters, and grunting pigs, and now and then the music of a jackass was wafted to our ears by the gentle zephyrs that sighed among the smoken stalks, and came heavy laden with the delicious odors of hen-roosts and pig sties. The last lingering rays of the setting sun, glancing from the buttons of a hole in a hog-pen full in Sal's face, dying her hair an orange peel hue, and showing off my threadbare coat to a bad advantage. One of my arms was around Sal's waist, my hand resting on the small of her back—she was toying with my auburn locks of jet black hue—she was almost gone and I was ditto. She looked like a grass-hopper dying with the hiccups, and I felt like a mudturtle choked with a codfish ball.

"Sal," says I, in a voice as musical as the notes of a dying swan, "will you have me?"

She turned her eyes heavenward, clasped me by the hand, had an attack of the heaves and blind staggers, with a sigh that drew her shoe strings to her palate, said:

"Yes!"

She gave clear out, then, and squatted in my lap, she corkscrewed and curflumixed and rolled in. I hugged her till I broke my suspenders, and her breath smelled of onions she had eat two weeks before.

Well, to make a long story short, she sat the day, and we practised for four weeks every night how we would enter the room to be married, till we got so we could walk as graceful as a couple of Muscovy ducks The night, the company and the minister came, the signal was given, and arm in arm we marched thro' the crowded hall. We were just entering the parlor door, when I went kerslap on the oilcloth, pulling Sal after me. It split an awful hole in my cassimeres, right under my dress coat tail. It was too late to back out; so clapping my hands over it we marched in and were spliced and taking a seat, I watched the kissing-the-bride operation. My groomsman was tight, and he kissed her till I jumped up to take a slice, when, oh, horror! a little six year old imp had crawled behind me and pulled my shirt through the hole in my pants, had pinned it to the chair, and and jumping up I displayed to the admiring gaze of the astonished multitude a trifle more white muslin than was pleasant. The women giggled, the men roared, and I got mad, but was finally put to bed, and there my troubles all ended.—Good night.

An Old Paper.—The Philadelphia 'North American' has received a copy of the Pekin 'Gazette,' the only Chinese daily published in the empire of 414,000,000 souls. Number one of volume one was issued more than two centuries ago, and its daily number has been issued ever since. The workmen are probably intent today on preparing to-morrow's form.—The publication is about twelve inches by five inches in width. The paper is similar to, but much finer than that found in tea-chests. There are five several sheets besides the covers. The sheets are folded in the center, and only one side is printed. Five of the passages contain seven columns of characters each; the remainder have eight columns. The last page holds the title and date, and the last page of the cover has an editorial inscription.

A Good Joke.—A good story is told of a Boston man who recently visited this city. Happening here on the evening of the first temperance meeting, he thought he saw one of the gentlemen with whom he had taken a quiet drink only a few hours before, filling one of the offices.—He said (in relating the incident afterward) he thought it was a queer country out here, if the cause of temperance was represented by such men. But it might be that he was mistaken; men look so differently by gaslight sometimes, and perhaps the officer in question is another man entirely. "But," said he, "after the meeting, to make the thing sure, I again asked him to drink, and by thunder, he did drink!—Janesville Gazette.

Tommy, my son, what are you going to do with that club?

Send it to the editor, of course.

But what are you going to send it to the editor for?

Because he says if any body will send him a club he will send them a copy of his paper!

A child's faith in his mother is well illustrated by the following incident:

"A little boy, disputing with his sister on some subject, exclaimed, 'It is true, for mother says so; and if she says so, it is so, if it ain't so.'"

BIBLE QUESTIONS

NUMBER XIX.

For Sabbath Hours.

1. What country did Christ reach after passing through the storm? v. 28, also Mark v: 1.
2. Who met Him there? v. 28. m. s.
3. How do you reconcile this statement with that of Mark and Luke?
4. Where did these demoniacs dwell? v. 28.
5. Why did they occupy such a place?
6. What qualities of mind did they exhibit? v 28. l. c.
7. How did they receive Christ's coming? Mark v: 6.
8. Why did they run to Him?
9. What question did they ask Christ? v. 29.
10. What is the meaning of the question?
11. Why did they ask it? Mark v: 8.
12. Was there any torment in Christ's command—"Come out of the man?"
13. "Before the time"—what time? Rev. xx: 10.
14. Is there a time coming when all power to harm shall be taken from evil spirits? 1. Cor. xv: 24. 25.
15. What evidence that the judgment of devils is yet in the future? 1. Cor. vi: 3; Jude 6.
16. Did the devils obey at once?
17. Why did not Christ instantly cast them out?
18. What request did they make? v. 31.
19. What was it they feared? Luke viii: 31 also Rev. xx: 3.
20. Why did Christ ask for the name of the demoniacs?
21. Was His question honestly answered?
22. Did Christ grant them their request to be allowed to enter into the swine? v. 32. f. c.
23. What resulted therefrom? v. 23.
24. What good might result from granting their request? Trench p. 142.
25. Was there an injustice to the owner of the swine, in destroying his property?
26. What became of the swine herds? v. 33.
27. Were the people drawn to Christ by this great miracle? v. 34. f. c.
28. What prayer did they offer? v. 34, l. c.
29. Did Christ take them at their word? chapt. ix: 1.

Note 1. The wicked purposes of the evil one end in his own discomfiture.

2. The loss of property affects the men of the world more than the loss of a soul.

3. The granting of the prayers of the wicked is the worst calamity that could befall them.

A Railroad Romance.

A young Lieutenant had apparently succeeded in making himself exceedingly agreeable to a married lady, accompanied by her little daugher. By and by the train approached the tunnel at Mudcrough Hill. The gay and festive Lieutenant leaned over and whispered in the lady's ear. It was noticed that she appeared thunderstruck, and her eyes immediately after flamed with indignation. A moment more a smile lighted up her features. What changes! That smile, it was not of pleasure, but was sinister. It was unperceived by the Lieutenant. She made him a reply which rejoiced him apparently very much. For the understanding properly of the narrative—this o'er true tale—we must tell the reader what was whispered and what was replied. Whispered the Lieutenant, "I mean to kiss you when we get into the tunnel!" Replied the lady, "it will be dark—who will see it?" Into earth's bowels—into the tunnel—ran the cars. Lady and colored nurse quietly charged seats. Gay lieutenant threw his arms around the lady sable, pressed her cheek to his and fast and furious rained kisses on her lips. In a few moments the train came into the broad daylight; white lady looked amazed, colored lady bashful, blushing, gay lieutenant befogged. 'Jane,' said the lady, 'what have you been doing?' Responded the colored lady 'nothing!' "Yes, you have" said the white lady, not in under tone, but in a voice that attracted the attention of all in the car; 'see how your collar is rumpled and your bonnet mashed." Jane, poor colored beauty, hung her head a moment, then "observed of all observers," then turning around to the Lieutenant, replied, "this man hugged and kissed me in the tunnel!" Loud and long was the laugh that followed among the passengers. The white lady enjoyed the joke amazingly. Lieutenant looked like a sheep stealing dog, left the car and was seen no more during the trip.—Nashville Union.

A Western wag remarks that he has seen a couple of sisters who had to be told everything together, for they were so much alike that they couldn't be told apart.

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 10, 1865

The Leading Rebels

"What are they going to do with Jeff. Davis?" is the frequent inquiry of people everywhere. There is evidently great [illegible] in this destiny. If the people of the United States were the jurors to decide his fate, no doubt a large majority would respond to the inquiry—hang him. A human being who has been the leader of so unholy a rebellion as he has, should not be suffered to live. Floyd, as appears by late accounts, has escaped from the United States. It is evident he did not feel safe within the Union, after having taken such a prominent part as he has for the destruction of that Union and has made good his escape to a foreign land. Is it not vastly more important that one or more of the leaders in getting up and carrying to its bitter end the great rebellion, should be made to pay the penalty of their treasonable acts with their lives, than it was in the case of those already executed for having been accessaries in the assassination of the President? If treason is a crime punishable with death, the jurists in the case of Jefferson Davis need not long delay in their decision. In taking the life of one individual, justice requires the life of the perpetrator or perpetrators of the deed, also of the lives of those proved to be accessaries in the crime, how vastly more important that the getters up of an unlawful movement, resulting in the lives of hundreds of thousands, and untold misery to millions, should suffer the penalty of death. Justice demands not only the life of Jefferson Davis, but the live of all the prominent leaders and prosecutors of the slaveholder's rebellion. The prayer of every loyal and righteous heart is, that justice may be speedily meted out in this case.

Michigan.

All of our exchanges from the Northern counties, speak of the great rush of emigration to this State. The region about Grand Traverse seems to be peculiarly favored. From various causes Michigan has been strangely overlooked by foreign emigration and the greater part of this even now goes around us, but emigrants of a most desirable character from the Eastern States are now settling within our borders. No State in the Union has a better population than Michigan. While other States furnish great agricultural advantages, and nothing much beside this, our diversified resources, furnish opportunities for every branch of industry. This State is now conspicuous for its wheat and wool products, for its lumber and its minerals, salt and plaster, but aside from these, it offers thousands of the most magnificent sites for manufactories, its educational system is of the very first order, its public institutions are mostly completed, its settled portions are well traversed by railroads, and there is now uncommon interest and activity throughout the State in the development of unimproved sections by new roads, the State has inaugurated and is pushing an extended system of common roads, which are doing much for the development of the new counties, its public debt is small and taxation light. Every Michigan man is proud of its interior cities and villages, which are rapidly increasing in population, trade and manufactures, and in which there is universal complaint of the lack of accommodation in the matter of dwelling houses. As every intelligent traveler knows, the commercial advantages of Michigan are unrivalled. It is indeed strange that such a State has been so much overlooked. The lack of Michigan, as a State, is the lack of Detroit, as a city, viz; public spirited enterprising capitalists. All sorts of enterprises have been much straitened also for want of banking capital, but the introduction of the National Banking System found this State in the most favorable condition to receive it. Its old banking institutions in which the people had confidence, could be numbered by the fingers on one hand, and hence National Banks have sprung up all over the State, and the capital thus made available has largely contributed to our prosperity. If our bank officers will now diffuse their loans among substantial manufactures, and new and promising industrial enterprises, building associations, and in encouragement of the formation of useful corporations, instead of confining their operations to grasping speculators in produce, the advantages of our increased banking capital will produce results that will astonish even the most sanguine.—Adv. and Trib.

☞ The steamer Roth has been sold at St. Louis for $200,000, the largest price ever paid for a western steamboat.

The Connecticut Tragedy.

The telegraph on Wednesday announced the murder at Manchester, Conn., of a woman named Starkweather, aged 64, and her daughter, aged 14, who were chopped to death with an axe while they were in bed. They were also stabbed in many places with a large knife, which was found in the room of Mrs. Starkweather's son, a young man aged 24 years. The Hartford Times of the 3d inst., contains the confession of Albert L. Starkweather, the son, who acknowledges that he perpetrated the crimes—that he, and he alone, butchered his own mother and his sister, as they lay asleep in the bed together.

The confession—which was not unexpected by those best informed of the Hartford, to Mr. James Campbell, of Manchester, the father of the girl to whom the prisoner was engaged to be married. The Chief of Police, believing that he would acknowledge more to Campbell than to anybody else, induced the latter to go to jail, where the wretched young man, discarding all his previous lies and contrivances to avoid detection, made a clean breast of it, and confessed the awful crime.

He acknowledged, after some questioning, that he had butchered his mother, and then his sister, with the axe, and then, to make certain of the fiendish job, he had repeatedly plunged his butcher knife into their throats and bosoms, winding up the deed of horror by setting the bed on fire, and then his own bed, down stairs.

"I did it," he said, "I did it, Mr. Campbell, out of love for your daughter, and nothing else. I felt I must have the money, for without it she wouldn't marry me; and I got the money."

A letter had been previously written by the murderer to Mr. Campbell. It filled nearly four pages, and the statement was made that the writer was now in a condition to marry Miss C., as he had succeeded, through forgery in getting money to the amount of $4,000; and it also stated that he was about to commit an atrocious——," leaving the intended crime unnamed. The forgeries alluded to are believed to have never been committed, and his counsel will claim this letter as proof of the prisoner's insanity; though it may have been written to deceive the girl's father into the belief that the prisoner had money enough to get married with.

Starkweather told the police, during the examination following the murder, that he had purchased his mother's interest in the farm for fifteen hundred dollars; that he had got a deed of the property, which conveyed it to Miss Campbell, and that on their marriage it was to be recorded. He also stated that he had made a bill of sale of all his stock—horses and cows—to Miss Campbell's father, and that this, together with the deed of the farm, had been stolen by the two murderers.

Confession of Dr. Mudd.

Brig. Gen. Dodd, who had charge of the assassins during the voyage to the Tortugas, reports that on the trip Dr. Mudd acknowledged to Capt. Budd, Gen. Dodd and others, that he knew Booth when he came to his assassination, but was afraid to tell of his having been there, fearing that the lives of himself and family would be endangered thereby. He knew that Booth could never be taken alive. He also acknowledged that he had been acquainted with bath for some time, and that he was with Booth at the National Hotel on the evening referred to by Weichman; that he met Booth in the street, and said he wanted him to introduce him to John Surratt; that they started up 7th street on their way to Mrs. Surratt's house, and on their way they met John Surratt and Weichman, and returned to Booth's room at the National, where he and John Surratt had some conversation of a private character. He said that the military commission in his case had done their duty, and as far as they were concerned the sentence in his case was just, but some of the witnesses had sworn falsely and maliciously.

O'Laughlin acknowledged the court had done its duty but insisted that he was only implicated in the plot to capture the President. Arnold also said that he was a party to the plot to capture the President only, and that he believed the assassination was gotten up by Booth only a few hours before executing it. Spangler insisted he had nothing to do with any plot and that his expression that he would help Booth all he could was in reference to selling his horse.

Counterfeit $1 Greenback.—Counterfeit one dollar greenbacks are in circulation. Excepting a few minor discrepancies, the spurious notes is an exact fac simile of the genuine bill. The general appearance of the bill is very good. The green ink is of somewhat lighter shade than that used on genuine, and some parts of the note looks scratched and blurred. The figures "1" on the green schroll-work on the lower right quarter of the note are printed in green; in the genuine they are white. The face of Chase, in the counterfeit, is badly executed.

Enigma—y w a h p a n z t o n y w e o.—answer next week.

Richmond News.

The New York Tribune's special of the 7th says there is much disorder in that city since the election, among the citizens. Young men make it their duty to waylay and assault the negroes, while the old ones have universally adopted the plan of fighting our soldiers, at the same time hissing into their ears the bitterest denunciation of the negro. There is much ill affection among the soldiers on account of the poor rations, worse than such as were issued in the trenches, and less wholesome than is distributed to the citizens, and in not being paid what is due them. On the evening of the 3d the colored people held a meeting, and drew up a petition to Gen. Terry, in which they mentioned numerous outrages, and asked for orders.

☞ The Commissioner of Internal Revenue receives daily a large number of specimens of devices, mechanical and others, to evade payment of taxes and stamp duties. He received Saturday a double-ender match, nearly twice as long as the ordinery match, with each end of it dipped in phosphoric mixture. The consumer breaks each of these double-enders in the middle and has two matches, the tax on which is one cent for all packages if not more than one hundred. By the double-ender system the dealer pays about half the Government tax intended by law. Another ingenious evader gets up large packages of thin blocks, three inches long, and of the length of matches one edge being dipped in phosphoric mixture. These blocks he denominates kindling wood, and informs the purchaser that if he desires to use them as matches he can do so by whittling them off. By the terms of the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue these evaders are compelled to pay the honest tax required by law.

☞ The 7-30 Loan has all been taken. The rapidity which this popular loan has been disposed of is quite surprising. It is of course, a safe and remunerative investment, and those who hold it, are sure to get their interest promptly, and the principle the time promised. Much however, is due the press of the country in bringing this loan before the public, and constantly keeping there. Secretary Chase and his successors have evinced wisdom and statesmanship in their financial schemes; but they are all indebted to the press of the country for their success. A patriotic and intelligent press is an element of power.

The Tomato.

A good medical authority ascribes to the tomato the following very important medical qualities.

1st. That the tomato is one of the most powerful aperients of the liver and other organs; where calomel is indicated, it is one of the most effective and the least harmful medical agents known to the profession.

2d. That a chemical extract will be obtained from it that will supercede the use of calomel in the cure of disease.

3d. That he has successfully treated diarhoea with this article alone.

4th. That when used as an article of diet, it is almost sovereign for dyspepsia and indigestion.

5th. That it should be constantly used for daily food. Either cooked or raw, or in the form of catsup, it is the most healthy article now in use.

☞ It is reported that the Atlantic & Great Western Railroad Company have purchased a controlling interest in the stock of the New York & Erie Railroad. The N. Y. & E. R. R. is a well conducted and safe road, and has commodious and elegant cars; and obliging and gentlemanly conductors. It affords a pleasant and quick route to the City of New York; and must continue to grow in importance as a railroad communication.

☞ An effort has been made to induce Gen. Grant to recommend the pardon of a number of general officers of the rebel army from Virginia, to enable them to participate in civil affairs of the State. In the case of Gen. Kemper, Speaker of the Virgina rebel Legislature, Gen. Grant was particularly importuned, it being claimed by them Kemper was desirous of re-entering the politics arena, for the purpose of imposing upon the minds of the people of Virginia the importance and advantage to them of heartily acceding to the new order of things. Applicants are not all encouraged by the result of their efforts, but express a determination to persevere for the immediate restoration of their original rights and privileges.

☞ As we go to press a steamboat just passed north over the R. R. in search of water. So Ketch says.

Scraps of News.

The population of Utah is now 100,000 Salt Lake City contains 20,000.

Newport, Rhode Island has a population of 12,701.

The rebel Gen. Ewell is passing the summer at South Kingston, R. I.

The Chicago papers claim that their city has a population of 226,000.

The largest income in Rhode Island is $615,215. The man lives in Providence and is burdened with his money.

Ladies patronize the fire hooks at Saratoga this summer. It is the latest "foreign fashion" from the german watering places.

The oldest paper in the civilized world is the "Gazette de Paris," which in 1865 enters its 235th year.

A few Philadelphia merchants have subscribed $20,000 for a bronze statue of [illegible]

The hop crop of Central New York is nearly a failure. The lice honey-dew and mould have done the mischief.

The census of Albany, N. Y., shows a population of 61,375, an increase of nearly 1,000 in five years.

The Treasurer of the National Lincoln Monument Association reported the contributions on hand, July 27, at 41,377.-23.

Counterfeit $10 bills on the Merrimack River Bank, of Manchester, N. H., are in circulation, but are easily detected, being unlike the genuine.

Paxton Longley and wife, of Fulton, Mo., got mutually jealous and concluded to die. So last Sunday Paxton shot his wife through the heart and then blew his own brains out.

A french company are going to establish a line of first class packets between Brest and New York. The steamers are of 900 horse power, and perform the voyage in less than 10 days

A man named John Hunter was shot by an unknown assassin near Effingham, Ill., on the 24th ult. The murderer came skulking through the bushes, and shot his victim while at work.

The police of Cincinnati a few days ago broke up a gang of burglars and thieves. Seventeen noted professionals were arrested. At their headquarters were found stolen goods of every description to the amount of $100,000.

A Mr. Gordon, a merchant of Cleveland and a Protestant too, has given to the Catholic Bishop, Rappe, of that city, $20,000 in money, 140 acres of land in Michigan, and 40 near Cleveland, for a hospital, which the Bishop has built in that city.

By order of Gen. Canby, two wealthy beef contractors of St. Louis, named Aiken and Morser, have been arrested on charges of fraud in furnishing beef to the army. They are now under heavy bonds, and will be sent to New Orleans for trial.

Another case of female butchery took place in Chicago, last week. A prostitute named Ellen McKenny, attaked another named Mary Cassello, in a public saloon, litterally chopping her face up with a large knife. The injured [illegible] alive.

A correspondent writing to the St. Paul Press, says that Gen. Sully is in conference with a large number of Indian representatives. The old Indians want peace, but the young ones more fight.—The American Fur Company were engaged in the dirty business of inciting the Indians to continue their warfare against the American whites.

A story is told of a hen in Danville, Me., which lately laid a very large egg. On breaking this open another small egg was found within, fully formed and closed in a shell. On breaking this small egg still another was found, and so on till it appeared that in laying this egg biddy had laid five eggs, of interesting dimensions.

There is to be a convention of deaf mutes at Syracuse, N. Y., on the 30th inst., for the purpose of organizing an association. The friends of the deaf mutes are expected to be present. Communications may be addressed to either N. M. Duncan, No. 285 First avenue, or M. D. Bartlet, No. 78 East Broadway, New York city.

A rebel soldier recently returning to his home in Marshal county, Miss., found that during his absence his wife had married another man. He killed the interloper, shot the woman in the arm, and supposing he had ended her existance, he blew his own brains out. The woman recovered and is now looking after another home.

Gen. Ord and party returned to Chicago from their tour of Inspection of the Lake Superior country on Saturday.—They found the strike of miners not so formidable an affair as it has been reported. The small force sent to Negaunee, numbering 20 muskets, at once restored order, and the strikers resumed work. A garrison will be maintained on the peninsula, and will remain for the present at Negaunee, the heart of the iron region where comfortable barracks are already occupied. Some of the men now there, whose term of service has expired, will be relieved, and the garrison will be increased to 100 effective men, under the Command of Captain Munch, a very efficient and discreet officer.

A lady in the Shawano, Wis., Journal office set 6,000 ems in one day before she had been in the office five weeks. The Milaukee Sentinal says a lady in that city distributed and set 7,000 ems and corrected her proof before she had been in the office four weeks.

The citizens of Galena have built Gen. Grant a new house, furnished it from top to bottom, and laid a sidewalk in front.—Now they want to get him back home.—The Philadelphians have given him a splended mansion, and want him to stay there.

A West India paper gives the following as a certain cure for diptheria: Take a common tobacco pipe, place a live coal in the bowl, drop a little tar upon the coal, draw the smoke into the mouth and discharge through the nostrils.

The News.

Tuesday, August 8.

Five thousand dollars of Jeff. Davis' specie, said to have been scattered in his flight, and found near the residence of Howell Cobb, has been taken to Savannah. A secession sheet in Macon, Ga., has been appointed by Gen. Steadman.

Wade Hampton has written a letter to a Columbia, South Carolinia paper, counseling the citizens of the State to devote their energies to the restoration of law and order and recommends all to take the oath of allegiance.

Gens. Pope and Ord have been brevetted Major Generals in the regular army meritorious and gallant service.

By the arrival of the steamer Damascus we have European news to the 28th.

[illegible] ern was 450 miles out of Valentia, and had paid out 500 miles of cable. The signals were good. 5-20s were quoted on the 28th in London at 69a70.

The planters in some of the eastern counties of Virginia are reported to have engaged their former slaves, at a compensation of from five ten dollars per year, giving them to understand that Government will allow them but that amount.—They are virtually as much slaves as ever.

A dispatch from Montreal says that John H. Surratt has been in Canada for some time, and is now concealed in or near Montreal, Detective are now keeping a watch for him.

Since the election in Richmond considerable disorder is reported as prevailing there. The secessionists vent their rage upon our soldiers as well as upon negroes. The soldiers complain of bitter treatment as regards rations, which are said to be poorer than those issued while in the trenches.

Wednesday, August 9.

Up to 12 o'clock last night no intelligence had been received from the Great Eastern, and it is believed that up to last night she had not reached Heart's Content, as the telegraph is supposed to be in working order through Newfoundland.

The Canadian parliament assembled yesterday afternoon at Quebec.

The telegraph this morning announces that an unsuccessful attempt was made at Montreal on Monday evening to kidnap the notorious George N. Sanders, and cary him across the lines. The plan was frustrated through the betrayal of a detective to whom his would-be captors entrusted their plans. Three of the kidnapers were arrested.

Gen. Grant was at Montreal yesterday and held a reception in the afternoon, attended by several distinguished Canadian military officers. He left last evening for Toronto.

Some of the secession leaders in North Carolina are reported as organizing the late rebel soldiers for a political conflict with the government, and a war against Union men and negroes. This class of political demagogues are arranging to control the convention soon to be called in that State.

Green Clay Smith has been elected to Congress on the Union ticket from the Sixth District of Kentucky. Randall is probably elected in the Eighth District. In the Seventh District Shanklin is probably elected.

Six cents stamped envelopes are about to be issued by the Postoffice Department.

A Word to the Ladies.—The employments of ladies are for the most part sedentary. They sit too much and walk too little. They do not as a general thing, take enough of Natures medicine,—air. To keep the secretive organs in a regular and healthful state, and to prevent the sensitiveness of the nerves, which arises from close confinement, we recommend to them air, exercise and Red Jacket Bitters. This prescription will be a sure thing to bring a blush to the palest cheek; and, if the former can only be enjoed to a limited extent, the latter is more than ever necessary.

Life, Speeches and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln, by J. H. Barrett, com. of Pensions. Mr. S. L. Beal, is now canvassing for the above entitled work, which is a complete history of his early life, political speeches in and out of Congress, also a general view of his policy as President of the United States and his messages, Proclamations, letters &c., and a concise history of the war. It embodies the events of the first 3 years of his administration, and will contain the history of the last year of his administration and the particulars of his tragic and lamented demise. Mr. Beal will call upon the citizens of Tecumseh, Franklin, Combridge, Woodstock, and Macon, and give them a chance to subscribe for this valuable work. It is sold wholly by subscription, so do not fail to become a subscriber.

"A thing of Beauty is a joy forever."

Martha Washington Hair Restorer.—a perfect success; the best in market. Is not a dye—will not stain the skin—will restore gray and faded hair to a beautiful black, brown auburn color, and cause it to assume its former beauty. It will cure all humors of the scalp, remove dandruff and scurf from the head, keep the hair soft and nice, and give it a silk like appearance. It is the best dressing for the hair in the World. Every woman with gray and faded hair—every man with gray hair and faded whiskers, can NOW be restored to their original beauty and color in one or two month's time by using "Martha Washington Hair Restorer." It will prevent the hair from falling off, promote a healthy growth, and cause it to grow on bald heads when there is life and vitality at the roots.—Where these are gone there is no hope of success. Warranted, or money refunded. ☞ Sold everywhere.

G. B. Wilson, Agent, Michigan.

WARD & STRICKLAND'S

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing!

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. - - Tecumseh, Mich.

Old and young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it soft and glossy and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,

SOLE PROPRIETOR,

NEW YORK.

M. S. & N. I. Railroad.

Winter Arrangement

1864. 1864.

On and after May 16th, 1864, Passenger trains will leave Tecumseh station as follows, daily except Sunday:

GOING EAST.

Leave 7.08 a. m., arrive at Adrian 8.00 Toledo. 9.15 a. m. Leave 1.06 p. m. arrive at Adrian 1.40. Toledo 3.45 p. m.

Both trains connecting at Toledo with trains for the east.

Trains leave Adrian for Hillsdale 2.05 p. m. Leave Adrian for Hillsdale 6.15 p. m. Leave Adrian for Detroit 3.00 a. m. at 2.40 p. m.

GOING WEST.

Leave 9.32 a. m. arrive at Jackson 10.00 a. m. Leave 6.40 p. m. arrive at Jackson 8 p. m.

For full details, see the Company Posters and Time Tables at the Depot and other public places.

Trains are run by Chicago time, which is twenty minutes slower than Toledo or Detroit time.

C. P. LELAND, Gen'l Passenger Ag't, Toledo. H. H. BAXTER, Gen'l sup't, Toledo

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up But

GEORGE HEESN'S

CLOTHING EMPRIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young america. I will say to my friends and customers that I be just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days, I Sell Cassimere Pantat 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap, Linen coats cheer than any other house in tow wool. en and Straw

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars, Neck Ties, Shirts, Gloves, Hosy, Traveg Bags, &c.

It is easily understood tha can sell goods cheaper than my neighbors for I save a great expense, being a tail and having followed the business for that 17 years I know how work ought to be.

Please come yes on the Cada side for you can buy goods cheaper in yes can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable,

Cutting Done at 6 Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an best job done.

Geo. Heesen.

A Most Important Iccovery.

INTERESTING TO AGENTS, FARMERS, AND LADIES.

We are makeing a singlachine which combines the best and capest portable Wine and Cider Press tiryest Clothes Wringer and the most perful Lifting Jack in the world. It is the only press adapted to making Apple Cmpaig, which is now regarded as one of the most important discoveries of the age. A good agent wanted in every county, to whom we will hold out such inducements to insure $1,000 before Christmas. Thest one making application from any county shall have the exclusive agency. Full piculars, etc., by Circular.

Address HALL, RD & CO., No. 55 Liberty St., N. Y.

Village Lots For Sale!

I propose to open the sets and have my ten acre lot laid out lots to suit purchasers. It is a beaiful location south of west school house Terms easy. Cash or on time. Also 2 rea with orchard and all kinds of fr good house barns, sheds &c. Also or Houses and Lots, situated in the beaiful village of Tecumseh. Jthe, 1865.

WM. COWEN.

18 Pronunciemento

GLOBE MILLS

"This well known and popular Mill

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grain the farmers in a satisfactory manner will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour sui

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and invite others to try and sel

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready accommodate, having always on hand

SUPPLY OF FLOUR

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd best Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail,
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse
Fine Midlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. W. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply. Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their stuff.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Salt.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL,

Corn In the Ear and Shelled.

A good assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak, Pine Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats Buckwheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 50	$ 1.25	$ 4.00	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	6.00	8.50	12.00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10.00	14.00
1 Column	5.00	8.00	8.	12.00	18.00
2 Columns	8.00	10.00	20.00	35.00	50.00
4 Columns	8.00	10.00	20.00	35.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted one year, $5 per year.

☞ Job Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

☞ We would say to those who are indebted to us that we must have our pay immediately or the accounts will be left with an officer for collection. A word to the wise is sufficient.

☞ Extra copies of the Herald can be procured at Ketcham's News Depot.

☞ 200 new Lithograph Prints just received at Ketcham's.

☞ Gillott's genuine Steel Pens for sale at Ketcham's.

☞ Go to Holton & Fields for Pianos, Melodians, Organs and Sheet Music.

☞ M. L. Sykes Esq., has resigned the Presidency of the M. S. R. R., and Philo Morehous, Esq., of Elkhart, Ind., is at present acting President.

New Goods

Wastell & Adam, are up with the times. Their stock of New Goods consist of Dress Goods of most every kind, for this season of the year. Call and examine.

☞ Sabbath School and religious services will be resumed as usual at the Universalist Church next Sunday, Aug. 13th. Sabbath School at 11 1-2 o'clock, a. m., and preaching at 1 o'clock, p. m.

☞ It is the opinion of those connected with the Society, that from present indications, the State Fair, to be held at Adrian, will be one of the largest meetings ever held since the Society was organized.

☞ Capt. W. A. Weatherhead has purchased the interest of L. Wilbur, of the late firm of Deuel & Wilbur, in the Grocery business, and will be happy to see his many friends at his new quarters.

Personal

Lieut. S. M. Kneeland starts to-day for Kansas. Gen. Spaulding, commander of that department, has promised the Lieutenant a position if he would go there, and consequently he is going out to prospect a little. May he meet with perfect success.

Married.

At Wheatland, on Sunday, Aug 6th, by Rev. Calvin Sawdy, Mr. Henry L. Jones, of Tecumseh, and Miss Mary Edgerley, of Wheatland.

May theirs be a long and happy life and blest with lots of little responsibilities.

☞ Tindall & Slayton are pushing the addition to their Agricultural Warehouse to completion as rapidly as possible. It will be a decided improvement upon their old wooden structure and will afford them nearly twice the amount of room. They are doing a heavy business and should be well patronized.

Teachers Institute.

We understand that a Teacher's Institute will be held in this village commencing on the 28th inst., under the auspices of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. The exercises will take place in the Union School Building. These institutes are of great interest and advantage to all teachers, and we have no doubt it will be well attended.

Religious.

Rev. J. Wainright Ray, Rector of St. Peter's Church, in this village, has received and accepted an invitation from the vestry of St. John's Church, in Clinton, to preach there every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and to perform such other labors as he can consistantly with his duties in his parish at Tecumseh.—Mr. Ray entered upon his duties at Clinton last Sunday week.

☞ The regular monthly Sabbath School Concert was held last Sabbath afternoon at the Presbyterian Church, and was well attended. Several Sabbath School songs were sung by the children and remarks were made by Dr. Fulton, Deacon Adams and Rev. S. E. Wishard.

☞ On the night of the 2d inst., the Boot and Shoe Shop of Mr. Gauntlett at Moreville was entered and about one hundred dollars worth of Boots, Shoes and Leather stolen. Several clothes-lines in the vicinity were visited the same evening. Two nights afterwards the Dry Goods store of Hunt, and the Grocery Store of S. Ellison, at Pennington's corners were visited by the same gang, it is supposed, and something over one hundred dollars worth of Goods stolen. Mr. Hunt was sleeping in his store at the time, but failed to hear the burglars so quietly did they perpetrate their plunder.

Parties are on their track with a probability of overtaking and securing the thieves, of whom a strong clue has been obtained.

Income List.

We see by referring to the Income List which we give below of the towns of Tecumseh, Blissfield, Raisin, Franklin, Macon, Ridgeway, Palmyra and Riga, that most of our business firms are in a very prosperous condition. Ward & Strickland, R. C. Moore, Tindall & Slayton, Wm. Hayden and Albert Anderson have reported income from $3000 to $5000, while a large number have reported upwards of a thousand dollars income. Very well, let them go in, we are glad to see so many indications of prosperity.

Anderson, A.	3,404	Liddle, Robt.	651
Adams, P. R.	979	Larnard, H	710
Adams, Isaac	1,235	Mills, R.	2,201
Adam, John J.	2060	Moore, R. C.	2,429
Bramble, J. H.	768	McCowan, W.	500
Brower, H.	750	Mills, P.	711
Bills, Parley	1,016	Miller, S. W.	627
Bidwell, B. J.	2,342	Osborn, F	630
Carter, N. B	867	Patterson, M A	1,018
Clarkson, D	1,166	Parsons, W	550
DeWolf, O. B,	1,200	Pennington, I	1,031
Drew, L.	1,079	Perry, G. D.	560
Dewey, Pitch	2,200	Richard, J	594
Evans, D. H,	515	Richard, H	848
Fisher, John	1,006	Reynolds, H.	1,047
Gibbons, J.	1,816	Rose, S. B.	557
Hay, H McB	738	Smith, E	3,200
Hunter, A. J.	1,316	Strickland, EB	2,844
Haviland, D.	921	Sutton, A U	1,137
Holdridge, E, S.	584	Snow, F S	591
Hall, Wm. A.	643	Smith, John	729
Hayden, Wm.	3,918	Smith, E R	500
Hood, Andrew	750	Slayton, J P	3,186
Hoag, E. H.	653	Stacy, C A	1,958
James, Alfred	603	Taylor, J	1,400
Kies, J. S.	501	Tindall, E	2,266
Kinney, J W	1,218	Thomas, C. B	520
Knapp, S C	505	Tribou, E A	518
Ketcham, G. W	1,706	Ward, A. B.	3,001
Lilley, Lucius	1,062	Wilson, A	1,232

☞ A Pic-nic is to be held in Arnold's grove 1-2 mile west of valley meeting house, on Friday August 11th, the third anniversary of the organization of the West Raisin Aid Society, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M. We hope this is the last call we shall make upon the patrotic and generous people who have always donated liberally at all of our previous pic nics and we hope will be more liberal considering the cause in which it is given. The object of the pic-nic is to get funds to help construct a home for the disabled defenders of our country. Good speakers and music are expected to be in attendance. Every one is expected to donate something for the table. We cordially extend our invitation to all. E. M. FLITCRAFT Sec'y.

☞ R. C. Moore, informs us that he is now receiving new goods. Elegant Merrimac Prints, DeLaines, Brown and Bleached Cottons, Cotton Yarn, Childrens whe Cotton Hose in various sizes, old fashioned Cotton Batts—"as is Batts," Carpet Tiny, Dress trimmings or anything else you want. Whenever you go to Moore—if you do not see what you want, ask for it and you will be pretty sure to find it there. Goods of all kinds are scarce in the market now, but he manages to find scarce goods if they are to be found anywhere. Bear it in mind—and look at his elegant Flexible Skirts, you can bend them around your arm and take them home.

☞ See Ward & Strickland's advertisement in another column. They are doing a very extensive business, and well they might for they keep a large and varied stock of goods which they are selling at very low rates. Their store is constantly thronged with customers who carry off their new goods by the armful. If you want anything, be sure and call on W. & S. their income foots up at the nice little figures of $5,945.

Wastell & Adam have the largest stock of Mooral skirts, in town. They will be not higher as cold weather sets in, buy them now, before prices advance, they are selling cheap.

☞ Have you seen that new lot of Photograph albums, at reduced prices, at Ketcham's Book Store?

☞ Gebur Stripes, Checks, Denims, Kentuc Jeans, Factories bleached and unbleach, at Wastell & Adam's.

☞ Lace Cloths, Prints, DeLaines, Corsets, Hoop Skirts, Table Linnen, Cotton Yarn, just anything in the Dry Goods line can be procured at W. & A's.

☞ J. Dobbins has a large assortment of Wallpaper, School Books and Stationery which he is selling remarkably cheap.

Good Advice.

Kind reader would you always live
In peace and plenty, joy and health,
Possess an easy conscience here,
Enjoy the bounteous fruits of wealth?
And would you shun the cares and toils
Of this vain world, its bounteous strife?
Then listen to his wise advice,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Have you a pleasant, happy home,
And children all of mirth and glee,
Who always greet you with a kiss,
And climb upon their father's knee;
And is this home made doubly dear
By loving, kind and gentle wife?
O see that you may never want,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Of S. C. Stacy, Agent.

Dissolution.

The co-partnership heretofore existing under the name and style of Deuel & Wilbur is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The accounts of said firm can be found with L. Wilbur. A prompt settlement is requested.

T. DEUEL
L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Aug 3d, 1865.

☞ Red Jet Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters, Robin Bitters, Bovee Dodd's Wine Bitters, Newton's Jaundice Bitters, and all other bitters for sale cheap at the Drug store of T. P. N. Curtis.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Aug. 10, 1865

Brown, Mrs M. J.	Baker, R. H.
Beels, Mrs. Jane	Buskirk, D.
Bolan, Steward	Bigelow, Wm.
Fuller, Simon	Ferguson, Ella
Foster, L.	Kelley, E. C.
King, W.	Miller, Mary
McKenzie, F.	Neybet, G.
Thompson, R. T.	Wells & Brothers.

Letters to strangers or transient visitors in a town or city, whose special address may be unknown, should be marked, in the lower left-hand corner, with the word "Transient."

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

N. B.—A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within 30 days or less, written or printed with the writer's name, postoffice and State across the face of the envelope or in the left hand corner of the outside, will be complied with at the usual prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer.—Sec. 28, law of 1863.

Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner, and leave space between the stamp and direction for post marking without interfering with the writing.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Chancery Sale.

In pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court, for the County of Lenawee, in Chancery, made on the 6th day of April, 1835, in a cause therein pending wherein Lewis Brooks is complainant, Hannah Rowland and others are defendants.—Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the Room, in the city of Adrian, where the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee is holden, on the 8th day of September, 1865, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, all that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Tecumseh in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan bounded and described as follows: Said premises being situated west of and near the village of Clinton in said County and bounded and described as follows, viz: Commencing at a point in the center of the Chicago road twenty-seven feet west of the west abutments of the public bridge across the mill race of the Atlas mill property thence west along the center of the Chicago road one hundred and twenty feet, thence south one hundred and ninety feet, thence east one hundred and eight feet, to the west side of the west bank of said mill race, thence north along the west side of said mill race bank one hundred and ninety feet to the place of beginning containing about one half an acre of land be the same more or less, reserving always from the operation of this mortgage all the rights and privileges of road and roadways that were reserved by F. S Snow and wife in their deed of said premises to George Unterkercher and Hannah Rowland dated January 22nd, 1859, this mortgage is intended to cover and convey the undivided one half only of the above described property and appurtenances.—July 27th, 1865.

J. J. HOGABOAM,
Circuit Court Commissioner.
E. B. Wood, Sol. for Compl't.

DENTISTRY.

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices.

DISSOLUTION:

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent. G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — ☞ Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

F. R. Stebbins,
Adrian, piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand, at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.
Adrian, Mich. n742tf

J. C. BURROUGHS,
VETERINARY

Physician and Surgeon,

Of the Village of Tecumseh.

Would inform the citizens of this vicinity that he is always prepared with various kinds of Medicines for curing the numerous diseases to which that useful and domestic animal the horse is subject namely

All cases of Chronic Distempers, Fevers, Inflammation of the Lunge, Farcy, Ache of the intestines, Ringbone, and Bone Spavin, Bog or Blood Spavin, &c.&c.

Now my good friend why will you suffer your horse to remain ailing when the complaint can be cured for a trifle and by so doing you may save the life and price of a good, faithful and valuable animal. Take notice and apply to J. C. Burroughs without delay, as delays are extremely dangerous.

753 J. C. BURROUGHS, V. S.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co: If you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April, 4, '65. A. JAMES.

☞ Now is the time to subscribe and pay for the Tecumseh HERALD.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

CONSISTING OF

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING.

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction.

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c.&c

I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best filled Establishments!

Most Varied Stock of Furniture

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St, Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show-Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notic by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pic. ures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH,

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to make room for other Goods. Better bargains can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county. Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

If you are in want of anything in the Meat line be sure and give him a call. n759

Corporation Notice

"The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder

C. BURRINGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

DEUEL & WILBUR,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE, MOLLASSES, TEA, SYRUP, SPICES, FISH, TOBACCO, WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK, LARD, COD FISH, and in fact everything that anybody or his brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

And allour neighbors know

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICHIGAN

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n766 A. JAMES.

NEW AND CHEAP

CASH STORE

WASTEL & ADAM

have just opened in the village of Tecumseh

MECHANICS' BLOCK

The most choice and splendid assortment of

DRY GOODS

Ever offered for sale in Southern Michigan. Their stock consists entirely of the very NEWEST and LATEST styles of

DRESS GOODS, FANCY GOODS, Yankee Notions &c. embracing

SILKS,
ALAPACAS, DELAINES,
CALICOES, PRINTS,
SHAWLS, LACES,
RIBBONS, SHIRTINGS,
SHEETINGS,
WORSTEDS,

And everything in the Dry Goods Line. Their Goods were all purchased at

PANIC PRICES,

since the late fall in New York, and will be sold as low as at any Store in the West.

We can, and will sell as low as any Dry Goods Store in Lenawee County, or elsewhere. Quick sales for READY CASH and SMALL PROFITS, is our motto.

☞ Call and see our

HOOP SKIRTS AND INVISIBLE CLASPED

New York Bell Balmorel

If you wish to encourage competition, which is the life of business, please favor us with a portion of your patronage.

Call and see, and examine Goods and Prices and judge for yourselves.

Tecumseh, April 4th, 1865. n749yl

JEFF'S CAPTURED

MORE PARTICULARS,

GREAT EXCITEMENT

AT THE

NEW STORE

In John Usborn's Block,

DRY GOODS.

FANCY GOODS,

Yankee Notions

&c., of the latest styles selling at

NEW YORK PRICES,

Please call and examine our Goods before purchasing elsewhere.

C. B. ACKLEY.

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just rece d

York, and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hoag's, north side of Chicago street.

GAZLAY'S PACIFIC MONTHLY.

Now is your time to subscribe for our New Pacific Monthly, which we cheerfully commend to your all but peerless of all the

MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

Employing and paying more for Literary talent than any other Magazine in the country, we flatter ourselves that no Department of the Pacific Monthly will suffer neglect from the want of able and well known

LITERARY CONTRIBUTORS,

representing some of the principal shining lights of the Literary world. We shall make such additional engagements as circumstances may demand. Your special attention is called to our

Illustrations,

which are produced, without regard to expense, by an efficient corps of artists—at whose head stands Bilhorey and McLenan, unequalled as Designers and Engravers. We call the attention of the Public to the merits of these chaste illustrations of the varied, novel and picturesque scenery and local views of the

GOLDEN STATES

AND

TERRITORIES

OF THE

PACIFIC.

With Descriptive Views and Reading Matter, affording the most reliable and comprehensive medium in existence for full information in regard to California, Oregon, Nevada, and their contiguous and kindred territories. The information we give in regard to the Pacific States, alone, is worth ten times the Subscription Price of our Magazine. The twelve numbers, a year's subscription, when neatly bound, affording two splendid volumes, suitable for the

DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY,

OR THE

COUNTING-HOUSE,

and costing but FIVE DOLLARS, which in years to come can not be purchased for any price. Our

EDITORIAL DRAWER

will abound with selections of Wit, Original Stories, Comic Sketches, and light Literature, culled from a well gathered storehouse of fun, fact and incident, affording interesting light reading matter for the Parlor and the Fireside.

COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS.

This Department of the Monthly, under the immediate supervision of McLenan, the celebrated Comic Delineator, will be found always rich in Wit, Merriment and appropriate Design.

FASHION PLATES.

Having made special arrangements with Mme. Demorest, 473 Broadway, New York, for contributions to our Fashion Department, we call the attention of the Ladies to the same, and commend our Monthly to their notice, as containing more information in regard to Dress and the Toilet, than any other Magazine published.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!

Now is the time to Subscribe, and have your volume complete for back Numbers in sets are not of such ready sale as the January or February Numbers. But to be sure and get these will be to get a year's Subscription easily. Our Subscription Price is

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR.

Cash in advance, or on receipt of first number by mail, or to be paid to our agents.

PREMIUMS IN GOLD!

As an additional inducement to Subscribers early subscribing, we offer the following Premiums:

To any person sending us Twenty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Fifty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Ten and a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Twenty-five Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Ten Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Three Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Five Paying Subscribers, we will send an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

We are also letting made a large quantity of Valuable PREMIUMS and GIFT-SAKES for Single Subscribers, which send direct to the Office.

The Premiums and Souvenirs consist of Ladies' Breast Pins, Ear Rings, Finger Rings, Sleeve Buttons, etc., and Gentlemen's Breast Pins, Finger Rings, Sleeve Buttons, Studs, Settings for Cane Heads, etc., made from California and Nevada Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Crystallized Quartz Gems (commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry.) The Gold and Silver-bearing Quartz and Ore from which these Souvenirs are made, is from the celebrated Gould & Curry and Ophir Mines of Nevada, and will be valuable Mementos, as well as beautiful in Appearance and Design. EVERY REGULAR SUBSCRIBER, as above, to the Pacific Monthly, will be entitled to one of these Articles for every Subscription standing opposite their names on our books.

SPECIMEN COPIES

OF THE

PACIFIC MONTHLY

sent, postage prepaid, upon the receipt of Fifty Cents, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

CAUTION!

☞ Write your Name, Post Office, County and State, to where you want the Pacific Monthly sent, Plain and Distinct.

☞ Register all Letters containing Money; or, when convenient, send by Express.

☞ If your Post Office is a Money Order office, obtain a Money Order for your remittance.

☞ Send none but United States Treasury Notes, or money Bankable in New York.

☞ All Letters asking Information, etc., to receive attention, must contain a Stamp, to prepay answer. Address all Correspondence,

D. M. GAZLAY & CO.,

PUBLISHERS

PACIFIC MONTHLY,

34 LIBERTY STREET,

NEW YORK.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:

AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,

121 Nassau Street, New York.

WHITE & BAUER,

San Francisco, California.

THE SCANDINAVIAN Remedies

DR. ROBACK'S

BLOOD PURIFIER

and

BLOOD PILLS

than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands

of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The popularity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Old Sores, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, Leucorrhœa, Female Complaints, Erysipelas, St. Anthony's Fire, Tumors, Eruptions, Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away. The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had lasted fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

with in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves will relieve and cure

Headache, Costiveness, Colic Pains, Cholera Morbus, Indigestion, Pain in the Bowels, Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a cognate part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

Principal Office and Salesroom, No. 6 East Fourth St. Old Building from Main St., Cincinnati, O. Laboratory, No. 12 Hunt Street.

FOR SALE BY

P. N. Curtis, Fisher & Baker

Commissioner's Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, s. s. The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court for said County, commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands of all persons against the estate of Alpheus Kies, late of the Township of Tecumseh, in said county, deceased, hereby give notice, that three months from the 15th day of June A. D. 1865 are allowed by order of said Probate Court for creditors to present their claims against the estate of said deceased, and that they will meet at the office of Snow & Kies in the village of Clinton, in said county of Lenawee, on Saturday the first day of July and Saturday the ninth day of September next at one o'clock of each of said days to receive, examine and adjust such claims.—Dated, June 23d, 1865.

Dunforth Keyes, }
Charles Bagley, } Commissioners

Editor of Herald. Dear Sir:—With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send, by return mail, to all who wish it (free) a Receipt, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm that effectually remove, in ten days, Pimples, Blotches, Tan, Freckles, and all impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and Beautiful.

I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads, or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxuriant Hair, Whiskers, or Mustaches, in less than thirty days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours, PHOS. F. CHAPMAN, Chemist, 811 Broadway, New York. 745m3

Ackley has the largest stock of Hosiery, Gloves & Suspenders ever brought to town.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS.
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

A healthy tone, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer, prepared in the old Bourbon Rilling now used as the exclusive of all other Bitters in more than Fifty United States Army Hospitals, and in the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ They are made of ingredients well known, and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strength-ening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system, and as a mild aperient when taken according to direction, as a remedy for

Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Want of Appetite, Languor of Spirit, Sallow Complexion,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable bitters, once used and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity, so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.—

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ Ladies, who have tried and found most other Stomach Bitters too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system.

☞ If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters, have him send for them.—

☞ Remember the name, and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical Journals, and having been analyzed and approved by the Medical Profession, and by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

DR. C. H. SWAIN, PROPRIETOR.

Offices— 535 Broadway, New York, 151 South Water St., Chicago.

C. A. COOK, General Agent for the West, Office, 26 Market Street, Chicago.

RED JACKET Stomach Bitters

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these troublesome diseases will find a sure remedy in the free use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those deleterious drugs usually put up in such preparations as are offered to the public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable

and persons and delicate females will find they can give large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OR—

PEACH & APPLE BRANDY
STRAWBERRY WINE
BLACKBERRY WINE
MUSCAT WINE
CHERRY WINE
RED RASPBERRY WINE

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our red jacket on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,
No. 21 River Street Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the Back Shop on Railroad Street,

Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

To the Ladies & Gentlemen of Tecumseh,

The undersigned having fitted up rooms expressly for the sale of

Ice Cream, Lemonade, Soda Water &c.

Will be happy at all times to wait upon you. Rooms over Wishart's Crockery Store. Open day and evening.—June 15th, 1865.

J. S. WALTERS.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co., if you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April 1, '65. A. JAMES.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESENS

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young America. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at sacrifice prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit. No two prices but one and that the lowest.

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap. Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool.

Straw and Straw

Hats, Caps, Boots & Shoes,

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for. I save a great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

U. S. 7-30 Loan!

Third Series

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General Subscription agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent. GOLD-BEARING BONDS.

These Bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum to their value according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker. The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to

One cent per day on a		$50 note.
Two cents	"	"	$100 "
Ten "	"	"	$500 "
20 "	"	"	$1000 "
$1 "	"	"	$5000 "

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the 7.30 already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent. instead of 7.3 10ths in currency. Subscribers will do best the interest in currency up to July 1867, at the time when interest is payable.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven Thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of the third series does not affect the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be in value to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent. in currency. This is

Only Loan in the Market.

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the

GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $220,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within two months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has until lately been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans. It now seems probable that no considerable amount beyond the present series will be offered to the public.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscription at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

JAY COOKE,

Subscription Agent, Philadelphia.

May 1st, 1865. 745m3

Subscriptions will be received by the

First National Bank of Tecumseh.

First National Bank of Ypsilanti, and the First National Bank of Detroit.

Guardian Sale.

In the matter of the estate of James S. Collins, a minor.

By virtue of a license of sale to me granted by the Court of Probate of the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder at the barn on the land hereinafter described, on the 25th day of July, 1865, at two o'clock in the afternoon all the interest of James S. Collins, a minor, of in and to all that tract or parcel of land situate in the town of Macon in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as south part (24 acres,) of the east half of south east quarter of section five; also south quarter of west half of south-west quarter of section four; also east half of west half of south-west quarter of said section four. Terms made known on day of sale.—Dated, June 8th, 1865.

JAMES B. CHAMBERS,
Guardian of said Minor.

n758w7

Commissioners Notice.

We the undersigned having been appointed commissioners by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee to adjust claims against the estate of Joseph Litchard, deceased, would give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the residence of Jacob Litchard, in Macon, on Saturday the 1st day of July, 1865, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day when all persons having claims against said estate can appear and present their said claims for allowance and that six months from this date are allowed for creditors to present their claims for allowance.—Macon, June 5th, 1865.

JOHN JACKSON,
DAVID BERDAN,
Commissioners.

If you want to find the best assortment of English, French & Scotch Cassimere in the county go to

A. HOODS.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware

EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

ever received and in store a complete

WHITE GRANITE WARE,

of the LATEST and BEST English brands. Also an splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions,

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can.

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

MILLINER.

MILLINERY.

Mrs. O. McCoy,

is now receiving the largest and best selected stock of millinery goods which were

BOUGHT since the GOLD PANIC

consisting of

Bonnets, Hats, Ribbons &c.,

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS TOWN,

which she is selling cheaper than any other establishment of the kind or

DRY GOODS STORE DARE SELL

Such a magnificent display of goods is seldom seen in the towns of the West. Walk up, Ladies, and see me and hear the prices.

BLEACHING AND PRESSING

done in the neatest manner. Remember the place and do not fail to call.

Mrs. O. McCOY.

Tecumseh, April 13th, 1865

JAVA MILLS

COFFEE & SPICES

NEW YORK

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee. The vilest trash, under Showy and Taking names has been thrust upon the public. Bogus and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their Labels and wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a

Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to supply this demand.

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of Uniform Standard and Quality, Specially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable. If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our Ground Spices, Mustard, Cream Tartar, Baking Soda and Saleratus, put up at the Java Mills, will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Groceries will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, C. Lawrence, B. J. Bidwell, P. N. Curtis, Fisher & Baker, Ketcham & Conkling; at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCULARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No 52, Vesey Street, New York.

To Consumptives.

The undersigned having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with severe lung affection, and that dred disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his felow suffers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every suffer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County New York. 746m3

ATLANTIC & GRT WEST'N RAILWAY

New Broad Gauge

PASSENGER, FREIGHT, MAIL,

EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH ROUTE

Connecting at Salamanca, N. Y., with the Erie Railway, formed Southern Six Feet Track from New York to Akron or Cleveland.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th 1863, Through Passenger and Freight Trains will be run regularly between

CLEVELAND & NEW YORK,

NEW AND IMPORTANT PASSENGER ROUTE

FARE AS LOW AS BY ANY OTHER ROUTE

BAGGAGE CHECKED THROUGH.

Passengers by this Line have choice of Five different Routes between New York and Boston.

TICKETS THROUGH

West or northwest, also at the Central Ticket Office under the Wendell House, Cleveland, O.

Ask for Tickets via the Atlantic and Great Western and Erie Railways.

Passenger Trains stop at Waverly Hall 15 minutes giving passengers ample time to dine at the

"McHENRY HOUSE."

The best Railway Hotel in the country.

NEW AND EXPEDITIOUS FREIGHT LINE

ALL RAIL.

No transhipment of Freight between New York and Akron or Cleveland.

Merchants in the West or Southwest will find it to their advantage to order their goods to be forwarded via the Erie and Atlantic & Great Western Railways, to avoid trouble and expense.

Rates of Freight as Low as by any other all-Rail Route.

Especial attention will be given to the transportation of Freight of all kinds, East or West.

The Engines, Cars and other equipments of this Company are entirely new, and of the most improved modern style.

The only direct route to the west.

OIL REGIONS OF PENNSYLVANIA

Via Meadville or Corry.

From Leavittsburgh, the Mahoning branch runs to Youngstown and the Coal Mines.

This Road being just laid and will soon be in complete running order to Galion, Urbana, Dayton, and Cincinnati, without break of Gauge.

J. FARNSWORTH, General Freight Agent.
T. H. GOODMAN, General Ticket Agent.
H. B. SWEETNER, Gen'l Supt.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov 10, 1863

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Counterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND

NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to gain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City Adrian, on Saturday, the 10th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Calvin Wood, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Lucy E. Wood administrator, (bonus non,) of said estate praying for the allowance of her final account and distribution of said estate, and her discharge.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 24th day of July next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.) n759w3

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City Adrian, on Thursday the 15th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of William J. O'Brien deceased, reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Mary O'Brien, widow of deceased praying that Richard Osborn may be apointed administrator on said estate.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 24th day of July next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered that said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.) n760w4

Commissioner Notice.

Estate of Jacob D. Harg, deceased.

The undersigned appointed by the Judge of Probate of Lenawee county commissioners to receive, hear and adjust claims against said estate, hereby give notice that for such purpose they will meet at the late residence of Jacob D. Harring deceased, in the township of Macon, on the 10th day of July and the 27th day of October, at 10 o'clock of each day, and also give notice that said Judge of Probate has allowed six months next ensuing the 27th day April, 1865, for the creditors of said estate to present their claims. ISRAEL PENINON,

JOHN SAGER, Commissioners.

Dated May 1st 1865. 745w4-4

The Bridal Chamber. Essay of Warning and Instruction for young Men—published by the Howard Association, and sent free of charge in sealed envelopes. Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HIGHTON, Howard Association, Philadelphia, Pa. 745ly

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit, &c., at

A. JAMES

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage bearing date the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty four and recorded on the 8th of March 1864, and which is in the Register's office for the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, in Liber 3 of mortgages on pages 720 and 721, upon which there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice, of the first mentioned mortgage one hundred and eighty eight 100 dollars, and the further sum of one hundred dollars and interest, secured to be paid therein hereafter with interest, all now due and payable by reason of the said default, making now due and payable the sum of seven hundred and eighty two dollars for the recovery of which or any part thereof, no suit or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity. Notice is therefore, hereby given that by virtue of power of sale in said mortgage contained and in pursuance of the statutes in such case made and provided, on the twenty-second day of June next ensuing the date hereof, at three o'clock in the afternoon of that day, the undersigned, at the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county of Lenawee, in the city of Adrian, in said county, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of money due and payable on said mortgage by reason of said default and interest, together with the costs and expenses allowed by law and stipulated in said mortgage, said premises being described in said mortgage as follows, namely: situate in the township of Macon, Lenawee county, Michigan, to wit, the north east quarter of the north west quarter of section No. thirty five (35) town five (5) [south of] range five (5) east containing forty acres more or less.

JAMES PATTON Mortgagee.

P. B. ADAMS, Attorney.

Dated March 20th, 1865. n747w13

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 18th day of April in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Oliver B. Taylor, administrator of said estate praying that he may be licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased to pay the debts of said deceased and expenses of administration.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday the 18th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A True Copy.) 746-w6.

ROBACK'S OLD CATAWBA BRANDY

is made from the PURE JUICE of CATAWBA GRAPE, which is grown in abundance in Ohio and from which this article is obtained—it has an agreeable flavor, fine clear color, and possesses all the qualities for medicinal purposes, and for a beverage of the best imported brandies. As a flavoring for "mince" pies and other cooking purposes it is the best economical article that can be used, being one half a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found rapid sales, and is daily gaining in popularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally throughout the West.

C. W. RODACK, Proprietor,
56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

If you are in need of anything go to Ackley's.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 12. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 17, 1865. WHOLE NO. 766.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

than any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

CASH FOR RAGS!

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,

JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Music,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety
Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large stock of the following goods viz

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass, Window Sashes.

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer yet invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

WANTED.

Butter, Eggs, Pork, Dried Meats, Lard, Dried Fruits, Paper Rags, &c. &c. for which I will pay the Highest price in Cash.

To those who wish to pack their own Butter, I will furnish Packages free of charge Give me a call.

A. JAMES.

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

Express Freight,	7:08 A. M
Mail and Express,	1:06 P. M.
GOING NORTH.
Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD.
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING,
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilets, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

F. N. CURTISS.
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney at Counsellor, and Notary Public,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER,
Attorney's Counsellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

MCNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HONG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. HANFORD,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

GAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

GRACE BREWER.
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BLINGAMEN & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY.
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TIBBITS & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS.
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Stationer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. C. TERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOODEN COMFORT.
Raisin, Flour Grist and Saw Mills
Tecum. Michigan.

S. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich,

J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh Mich.

MRS. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH, VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HALL & PELHAM.
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

HENRY PACKARD.
Union Livery and Sale Stable.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MASON HOUSE,
Chicago Street Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM MASON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewashing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

THE SEDUCER'S FATE.

'Give us the brandy, quick. The sky is lowering and I have no time to lose.

'Do you hear, landlord?' The voice was sharp and stern, and startled by its unwonted accents, I stepped to the door, curious to see the speaker; for I knew by his tone that he was no ordinary man, either for good or evil.

Never shall I forget that face. There is a picture of Ugolino at which I used to gaze in terror when a boy, and this man's countenance, though unlike that of imprisoned count, filled me with the same feeling of unspeakable awe and horror.

The face was dark and sunburnt, with deep set, glowing eyes, and a settled frown which made me shudder then, and has haunted my sleep ever since. His hat was slouched over his eyes; and his person was wrapped closely in an overcoat, the collar of which rose high on his cheeks so that the shaggy brow and the gloomy orbs beneath were the only parts of his person distinguishable. He was mounted on a powerful dark-bay horse, which stood pawing the ground, snorting impatiently.

'I would not like to be at that man's death-bed,' said the host, shaking his head, as we all stood gazing after the horse and rider.

'I was thinking the same,' said I; 'who can he be? He rides as if the fiend was after him; but what connection is there between him and that lovely child?'

'I will tell you,' said the host; 'you saw the expression of the horseman,' he said, addressing me, 'and I know, by your shuddering look, what you think of him. You are right. The heart of that man would long since have been crushed to powder by remorse had it not been as God-defying as it was criminal. But he grows more haggard every day; his life is consuming itself. He is not yet thirty, and, to look at him, you would say he had seen at least half a century, for his hair is turning gray, and his whole countenance betrays premature age. Yet, ten years ago, there was not a handsomer lad in the district than Harry Powell; and many a gay sally have I heard from the lips that now speak only in anger, in curse, or in sarcasm.

'Did you notice, as you came along, the roofless house at the lower end of the glen, just where the Chenango emerges from the ravine, and spreads out into that broad and beautiful stream which is the admiration of every traveler who visits us. Especially was the only daughter of the aged couple the brightest and most joyous creature I ever knew. Lucy and young Powell had been playmates in childhood, though he was several years older than herself, for their parents were looked up to throughout our primitive district as a sort of gentry, and companions for the children were therefore scarce.

'Suddenly the father of Powell died. He was found cold in bed one morning, after an evening of hard debauch.

'This event, we all knew, must put off the wedding, which otherwise we had determined would take place the ensuing spring.

'Well, the tale came out. Infidelity had snapped his principles, moral as well as religious; he had learned to sneer at woman's virtue; and the selfish gratification of his passions had become with him a study, which he pursued with all the ardor of an epicure. He make it a point to be celebrated for his triumphs, to boast to his base associates and correspondents of the number of his victims. And he marked out the ruin of Lucy as the grandest of all his achievements.—But, alas! love is a powerful ally. You may imagine him stealing, like the serpent, to her pure heart. You need not be told of the desolation and darkness that ensued. I cannot dwell on this part of my story without shuddering at such incredible wickedness. Let me hasten on.

'He had won her love, deluded her with false promises, and then revealed in his crime, aye! boasted of it publicly. It was long before she knew of this baseness, for he kept her secluded in his home; but her parents heard it, and though broken hearted and dying, they made an effort to save her. The aged father rose from his bed, and went to the seducer's house, and there, in the hall, with servants and grinning horse boys by, pleaded for admittance to his child. It was denied. It was but two days ere she died, leaving behind her a boy, whom her seducer claimed, and to whose charge, unwillingly, the babe was consigned. She died forgiving her murderer, and it was in obedience to her wish that the infant

'Three months since he appeared again in the vicinity. It is said he had traveled in every land, and returned here as restless as he went. But he no longer resides on his estate, choosing to live in the neighborhood of the county town. He has grown twenty years older in his absence; and things are written on his face such as no tongue can describe. I can see there days of remorse and nights of sleepless agony—fierce struggles of the soul, God-defying arrogance, impiety impenitence, sullen endurance. But the rock is wearing away.

'No one can do anything with him but his son; and the boy's presence is his only solace. They saw he will never part, no not for a moment, from the child; but that he carries it about with him as a talisman; and, sure, if anything can keep away phantoms from his pillow, it is the smile of that innocent boy.

He ceased. A deep silence of several minutes ensued, during which the host sat absorbed and still. Suddenly he started, and stopping his glass half-way to his lips, exclaimed,

'Hark! what sound is that?'

I put my tumbler on the table and I listened intently, an example in which I was followed by the whole company. A low rushing sound, like the quick trot of a distant horse, now heard in the lull of the tempest, and now for a moment overpowered, smote on the ear; and while we remain gazing in blank wonder into each other's countenance, the noise suddenly changed into that of a whirlwind howling through a forest. We started as one man to our feet. What could it be? my hand was on the lock, and I flung open the door. A gust of wind whistled in, driving rain into my face, and flaring the huge candles. The sound now assumed a more distinct shape; and I knew it to be that of raging waters, mingled with the grinding and splitting of timbers.

'It is a freshet!' said the landlord, who stood with me outside; 'the Chenango is in a flood and must have swept away the bridges, for I hear the cracking and snapping of frame work."

'Ay, and what was that?' I said as a loud cry like that of some one in mortal peril, met my ear. 'Surely no one can be in the stream.'

'God help him or her—it is a human voice!' said the landlord, with startling energy, his face becoming white as a shroud. 'The mill above must have been carried away, and with it the family.

'Ho! help here, one and all!' and with the words followed by myself and the rest of the company, he rushed toward the brink of the stream.

The river was scarcely a hundred yards from the door and ran through the bottom of a deep ravine, so that in ordinary times the surface of the water was at least thirty feet below the level where we stood.

Just as we gained the edge of the heights, a flash of lightning blazed before our eyes, and by its spectral glare we saw the tide had risen nearly ten feet, and was surging fiercely onward, foaming and plunging along, now wirling in gigantic eddies, and now boiling up as if over a furnace, while on its bosom was borne trunks of trees, masses of loosened rock, and timbers apparently of bridges twisted and splintered as by the hands of Titans.

During the momentary glimpse afforded us of the current; though we beheld all this ruin we saw no human beings. We scarcely deemed it possible, indeed, that any living thing could exist a moment amid the rocks grinding together in that fierce abyss, and were turning away, with hearts lightened of apprehension, when again that cry arose on the ear, sounding this time nearer and louder, and like a woman's wail.

'God of heaven!—see—see!' said the landlord, pointing downward with a quivering finger.

'What?—who?' and all crowded to the spot.

Torches had by this time been brought to the brink of the ravine, and looking down, I saw, by the ruddy light cast on the black gulf below, a riderless horse, apparently dead, and close behind him, surrounded by encircling timbers, a man struggling. It was only for an instant that I beheld his features, for the torches, flaring in the tempest, cast only a fitful and ghastly radience below, but that one look revealed to me the seducer of Lucy; and just by him as I pictured her from the host's description, was the face of the victim. I started back with a cry of horror. All did likewise; and for a moment, as if paralyzed by what seemed a judgment of God, no one made an effort to save the drowning.

flashed across me that the face I had taken for Lucy's must be that of the child.

'A rope—a rope!' I shouted' the boy is drowning!'

The man heard the words and answered with a hallo, holding the child, with a giant's effort, above the roaring tide.

But no rope was at hand; and before one could be brought from the house, our aid would be useless. The father comprehended it, and a shade of utter agony shot over his face, while he looked upward at us, as he was hurried past. Suddenly he saw a sapling which grew out of the ravine, swaying to and fro in the current, and springing up, he clutched desperingly at the tree; but the impetus of his, combined with the undermining force of the current, was too much for the young oak, it gave way by the roots, and falling on him, buried him in the tide, which whirled both away into the centre of the roaring abyss. His child torn from him in the struggle, to be lodged miraculously, as we afterwards found, on a narrow ledge; and the look of horror and agony depicted on his upturned face, as he was sucked into the struggling gulf, ignorant of the fate of his boy, will never fade from my memory. In that one look the crimes and remorse of his whole life were told.

Horror-struck, we gazed on his face, scarcely for a minute afterwards drawing a breath. Our first thoughts then were of the child.

'He is here,' said one, 'still unharmed; give me a rope and let me descend for him.'

In a narrow cave scarcely four feet high, and not half that width, situated but a few feet below where the uprooted saplings had grown, the child had been providentially lodged. Need I tell how quickly aid was tendered him, or how tremulous we were until he stood safely beside us, or the involuntary tary awe and gratitude with which we bore him to the house.

The next day the body of the seducer was found at the mouth of the ravine, on the first bank that met the rushing torrent in the valley. That bank, as the landlord had before told us, was the lawn in front of the deserted cottage. Almost at the dismantled door they found the bruised, mangled, and nearly undistinguishable corpse. Was not God's hand in this?

The child told us what we had suspected—that the horseman had paused under a clump of trees for shelter, and that driven at length from them by a soaking rain, he had dashed on, and when recklessly crossing the bridge, been precipitated with it into the stream.

That child still lives: let us hope he may atone to society, by his life, for the errors of one parent, and the crimes of the other.

Advice to Wives.

A wife must learn how to form her husband's happiness; in what direction the secret of his comfort lies; she must not rashly run counter to his prejudices.

Her motto must be, never to irritate. She must study never to draw largely upon the small stock of patience in man's nature, nor to increase his obstinacy by trying to drive him; never if possible, to have scenes. I doubt much if a real quarrel, even if made up, does not loosen the bonds between man and wife, and sometimes, unless the affection of both be very sincere, lasting. If irritation should occur, a woman must expect to hear from most men a strength and vehemence of language far more than the occasion requires. Mild as well as stern men are prone to this exaggeraton of language; let not a woman be tempted ever to say anything sarcastic or violent in retaliation. The bitterest repentance must needs follow such an indulgence, if she do. Men frequently forget what they have themselves said, but seldom what is uttered by their wives. They are grateful, too, for forbearance in such cases; for, whilst asserting most loudly they are right, they are often conscious that they are wrong.—Give a little time, as the greatest boon you can bestow, to the irritated feelings of your husband.

LOVER'S VOWS.—"Don't put too much confidence in lover's vows and sighs." said Mrs Partington to her neice. "Let him tell you that you have lips like a strawberries and cream, cheeks like a tarnation an eye like an asterick; but such things oftener come from a tender head than a tender heart."

☞ Be whatever you will, but, first of all, be yourself.

Few of the Old Blue Laws.

The following which we here insert, were some of the "Blue Laws" of Connecticut—they may be quite a curiosity to some of our readers:

The Governor and Magistrates, convened in General Assembly, are in supreme power, under God, of this independent dominion. From the determination of the Assembly, no appeal shall be made.

Whosoever says there is power and jurisdiction over this dominion, shall suffer death and loss of property.

No one shall be a freedman, or give a vote, unless he be a member in full communion with one of the churches allowed in this dominion.

No one shall hold any office who is not sound in faith, and faithful to his denomination, and whosoever gives a vote for such a person shall pay a fine of 20s for the first offence, and for the second shall be disfranchised.

Each freeman shall swear by the blessed God to bear true alliance to this dominion, and that Jesus is the only King.

No lodging or food shall be offered to a Quaker, Adamie, or any other heretic.

If any person turns Quaker, he shall be banished, and suffer death on his return.

No priest shall abide in the dominion; he shall be banished, and suffer death on his return.

Priests may be siezed by any person without a warrant.

No one shall cross the ferry, but with an authorized ferryman.

No one shall run on the Sabbath day, or walk in the garden or elsewhere, except reverently to and from meeting.

No person shall travel, cook victuals, shave or cut hair on the Sabbath day.

No woman shall kiss her children on the Sabbath or Fasting day.

The Sabbath shall begin on at sunset on Saturday.

None shall buy or sell land without permission of the Select men.

A drunkard shall have a master appointed by the Selectmen, who are to debar him from the liberty of buying or selling.

Whosoever publishes a lie to the prejudice of his neighbor, shall sit in the stocks, or be whipped fifteen stripes.

No minister shall keep school.

Whosoever brings cards or dice into this dominion shall pay a fine of £5.

Whosoever wears clothes trimmed with gold, silver or bond lace over two shillings a yard, shall be presented by the Grand Jurors, and the Selectmen shall tax the offender three hundred pounds.

A debtor in prison swearing that he has no estate shall be let out and sold to make satisfaction.

No man shall court a maid in person or by letter, without first obtaining concent of her parents; five pounds for the first offence ten pounds for the second, and for the third an imprisonment during the pleasure of the court.

Whosoever sets fire to wood and burns a house suffer death; and any person suspected of this crime shall be imprisoned without the benefit of bail.

No one shall keep common prayer, keep Christmas, Saint's day, make mince pies, play cards, dance or play upon any instrument of music, except drum trumpet and jewsharp.

No minister shall join people in marriage. The Magistrate shall join people in marriage, as they may do it with less scandal to Christ's church.

When parents refuse their children a convenient marriage, the Magistrate is to determine the point.

The Selectmen on finding children ignorant, may take them away from their parents and put them into better hands at the expense of parents.

Fornication shall be punished by compelling marriage or as the court shall think proper.

Adultry shall be punished with death.

A man that strikes his wife shall pay a fine of ten pounds.

A woman that strikes her husband shall be punished as the court directs.

A wife shall be deemed good evidence against her husband.

Married persons must live together or be imprisoned.

Every male shall have his hair cut round according to a cap.

☞ Why is an oyster asleep in his bed like Lot's wife? 'Cause he's "turned-em" to salt.

☞ A SILENT WAG.—The wag of a dog's tail.

Catching a Lion Alive.

Many years ago the people of Doomasansa (a town on the Gambia,) were much annoyed by a Lion, that came every night and took away some cattle. By continuing his depredation, the people were at length so much enraged, that a party of them resolved to go and hunt the monster. They accordingly proceeded in search of the common enemy; whom they found concealed in a thicket, and, immediately firing at him, were lucky enough to wound him in such a manner that, in springing from the thicket towards the people, he fell down among the grass and was unable to rise. The animal, however manifested such an appearance of vigor that not any cared to approach him singly, and a consultation was held concerning the most proper means of taking him alive; a circumstance, it was said, which, while it furnished undeniable proof of their prowess, would turn out to great advantage, it being resolved to convey him to the coast and sell him to the Europeans.

While some persons proposed one plan, and some another, an old man offered a scheme; this was, to strip the roof of a house of its thatch, and to carry the bamboo frame (the pieces of which are well secured together by thongs) and throw it over the lion. If, on approaching him, he should attempt to spring upon them, they had nothing to do but to let down this roof upon themselves and fire at the lion through the rafters.

This proposition was approved and adopted. The thatch was taken from the roof of a hut, and the lion-hunters, supporting the fabric, marched courageously to the field of battle, each person carrying a gun in one hand and bearing his share of the roof on the opposite shoulder. In this manner they approached the enemy, but the beast had by this time recovered his strength, and such was the fierceness of his countenance that the hunters, instead of proceeding any further, thought it prudent to provide for their own safety by covering themselves with the roof.

Unfortunately the lion was too nimble for them, for, making a spring while the house was letting down, both the beast and his pursuers were caught in the same cage, and the lion devoured them at his leisure, to the astonishment and mortification of the people of Doomasansa, at which place it is dangerous, even at this day to tell the story, for it has become the subject of laughter and derision in the neighboring countries, and nothing will enrage an inhabitant of that town so much as desiring him to catch a lion alive.

A word of Advice.

The man who starts in pursuit of fortune without carefully surveying the ground and laying down his line of march beforehand, is a reckless Absalom, who is pretty sure to be caught by the thorns of speculation, and left helplessly struggling in their midst, a ridiculous spectacle to all right-thinking men.

Map your course, young man, before you set forth on your business journey.—While you are yet out of the tumult and turmoil of the busy world adopt a set of principles. Let them be such as your conscience and your common sense approve. Then fashion a code of laws for your future government—rules of conduct based on the duties you owe to your neighbor and yourself. Lay your course straight in the beginning, and stick to it as closely as you can in a storm and sunshine. Providence is the underwriter of those who sail this "sea of troubles". For the chart of honor and the compass of prudence, and even if blown on the rocks they are not likely to perish there for lack of help.

☞ A lady residing at Dover wanted a "page" and got a friend in London to look her out one. A young "buttons" having been found, he was supplied at her request with a sovereign to pay his fare and expenses down. On being seen it was thought he would suit the situation; but next morning he intimated his intention forthwith to return to town, as the place did not come up to his expectation. The lady expressed her surprise, and demurred on being called on to pay for his ride back. "Oh, mum," said Buttons, "I provided for that by taking a return ticket."

☞ Some of our religious exchanges tell a story about a woman's being relieved from speechless grief by a hymn.—We have known a number of the sex to be strongly affected and greatly benefited by hims before this.

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 17, 1865

Bothwell Canada Oil Fields.

We have now heard from Bothwell. We do not mean the original Bothwell mentioned in Scottish history, where Monmouth at the head of a military force so severely punished the Covenenters, because their ideas of loyalty differed from that of the King, his master, but simply mean a village by that name in Canada West, where a certain disease is now raging with great fury.

This village is located about 23 miles north-east of Chatham, on the line of the Great Western Railway, and in the midst of a country where the late developements furnishes indisputable evidence that oil abounds in inexhaustible quantities. There are now about 10 wells being worked in that vicinity, and which yields respective from 5 to 80 barrels per day, and several others will be ready to commence pumping within a week.

The capital necessary to give practical effect to the enterprise, was in the first place difficult to procure, but now that the matter is fully tested, and the fact no longer in doubt that this is one of the richest oil fields yet discovered, it begins to flow an more abundantly, and a number of wealthy companies organized in the western States, represented here by efficient men, have gone into the business in earnest. Derricks are being erected all over the country, and boring is going on with great energy, and one very important consideration in connection with this matter, and one that gives stimulous to the enterprise, is the fact, that in no case where a depth of from 300 to 500 feet has been attained, have they failed to find oil in paying quantities; and in one instance a vein has been struck at 10 feet from the surface, where oil comes up freely. This last, however, is an unprecedented circumstance but one which gives encouragement to the idea, that continued search may yet bring to light still richer deposits, and that too, nearer the surface than those already found.

A Geneva company, and a Linn company, both of New York, and which are managed by Captain Raines, are also operating extensively. One well belonging to the latter company is already producing oil. It commenced with a yield of only about 5 barrels per day, but has kept increasing gradually until 25 barrels are now produced in the same time. About 80 rods from this latter place is the famous Lick well which yields on an average about 60 barrels, but when the engine is run at a high rate of speed a much larger quantity is obtained.

The country included in these oil fields, as they are called, is quite extensive reaching from below Thamesville to near London, probably about 50 miles in length, along the valley of the Thames river, and offers to capitalists a fine chance to make safe and profitable investments.

The Great Western Railway, which passes through this region, is one of the finest and best managed roads in America and is of incalculable advantage to those engaged in this new enterprise.

The News.

Wednesday, August 16.

A dispatch from Heart's Content of Monday to the New York Herald confirms the report received by telegraph yesterday that the cable parted on the 2d.—The intelligence was received from the Captain of the First Fruits, who was informed by the Terrible, one of the vessels accompanying the Great Eastern.

A terrible railroad disaster occurred yesterday near Bridgeport, Conn. A locomotive ran into the rear of a passenger train, passing through the rear car, when the boiler exploded, causing fearful havoc. Seven persons were killed and eleven mangled and scalded.

The New York bankers are greatly excited with reference to some gigantic forgeries just brought to light, by which the forger, Edward Ketchum, of the firm of Ketcham & Son, obtained about $2,000,000, and then absconded. Several failures are reported in consequence of having been victimized by the forger.

The Democrats of Maine met in a convention yesterday, at Portland, Me., and nominated Hon. Jas. Howard as candidate for Governor, and adopted a series of resolutions, embodying their platform.

It is now reported that Jeff. Davis will be tried by civil tribunal at Richmond, for high treason.

The National Teachers' Association met at Harrisburg yesterday. It is attended by some of the most distinguished educators in the country.

A pardon was granted to Herschel V. Johnson, of Georgia, on Wednesday at the intercession of Mrs S. A. Douglas.

The Cholera.

Again, if we are to judge from the reports that reach us from abroad, we are to be visited by that great epedemic, the cholera. Already has it traveled Asia, and is making strides westward, across the face of Europe. That it will visit our own country, there can be no doubt, and it only the part of prudence to make every preparation for its reception. It may well raise grave study, in view of precedents that show that the ocean is no barrier, when the dread earth sweeping circle of the pestilence returns. It is finding out its own stepping stones, and plants its foremost foot where dirt, the train of [illegible] in human communities have prepared its way. In Alexandria it has swept with a broad besom its thousands of victims, and the latter accounts are strands cumulative in the recorded terrors of the visitations. Says one writer, after noting the appalling mortality:

"It cannot be doubted that such a rapid spread of the epedemic is to a great extent due to local causes, and principally to the state of the dwellings of the Arab fellans which are shared alike by man and beast."

But if it begins in squalid homes, the destroyer does not end its ravages there. It is but a short stride from alley to avenue, and the list of mortality first swelled by the lowly, come to enroll victims from homes of all classes. The great alleviator, if not the protection, is cleanliness, and the cities and towns of our own country may well take the warning of a visitation another season may realize.—Through the fall and open months remaining, let them carry sanitary reforms and cleanliness as widely and thoroughly as possible.

The Army and its Reduction.

The armies of the United States during the last year of the war, were numerically much larger than the popular estimate of them. At the recent festivitives of Yale College, in honor of the students and graduates of that institution who had seen active service during the war. Gen. Parsons, of St. Louis, Chief of the Bureau of Transportation, stated that 782,642 men had been discharged and sent home, and that another 100,000 would be sent home in a few days. He further stated that, at the time Lee surrendered, there were in the service within two or three thousand of a round million of men. This, says the Cincinnati Commercial, confirms what was stated to us by a paymaster of the army, stationed in Washington last winter, and who had access to the official [illegible] there were on the pay-rolls of the army, exclusive of Quartermasters' clerks and other pseudo-soldiers, one million four hundred thousand men. The figures were so enormous as to appear incredible to us, but the facts stand by General Parsons confirm their accuracy.

Constitutional Amendment.

The Chicago Tribune advocates a half a dozen amendments to the Federal Constitution. First an amendment authorizing uniform national suffrage, to be confined to those who can read and write; second, an amendment to prevent the payment of the rebel debt or the payment of pensions to rebel soldiers; third, an amendment affirming that National Sovereignty is in the National Government; fourth, an amendment providing additional safeguards for filling the office of the President, in the event of its becoming vacant by death of the incumbent or otherwise; fifth, an amendment extending the Presidential terms to six years, and making the President ineligible for a second term; and, sixth, amendment providing that the inauguration of a President shall be as early as the second Tuesday in December, instead of the 4th of March. There is no necessity for an interim of four months between a Presidential election and induction into office.

☞ A severe destructive storm of rain and hail passed over Spring Green, Sauk county, west of Madison, Wisconsin on Monday night. Hail stones as big as pigeon's egg fell in abundance, breaking the windows on the storm side of buildings, and doing an immense amount of damage to the crops of all kinds, completely threshing out small grains as clean as if they had been through a machine, and entirely stripping corn of its foliage, nothing but the bare stalks standing. The storm also passed near Boscobel, in Grant county, and probably did equal damage there. The destruction of the crops in these localities is almost total.

Gen. Steadman has issued an order providing that in the absence of civil courts, and in the localities where no agent of the Freedmens' Bureau is established, all questions of wages, &c., between freedmen and whites will be decided by Provost Marshals. Vagrants and idlers are to be arrested and put to hard labor.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, noticing a statement in the Chicago Times that Davis is to be tried by civil court in a few days, says so much as to imate an early trial is without foundation. It is true, the Governmnent has decided to try Davis by civil court, but the date of the trial has not been fixed. He is still in the fort at Richmond.

☞ Of the large amount of notes presented for redemption at the U. S. Treasury's office, not more than from one and a half to two per centum, if so many, are counterfeit. Spurious notes are easily detected and promptly branded "counterfeit" with an iron constantly kept heated for that purpose. Of course the holders and not the Treasury bear the loss.—From $50 to $100 of such currency of various denominations, is destroyed every day. No knowledge of counterfeit national bank notes has come to the bureau nor of one's or twos of U. S. currency.—The latter denomination, however, are altered to represent higher amounts, and some photograph fives are in circulation, tolerably well executed. A fifty dollar note recently found its way to the redemption bureau, having previously been stamped as counterfeit by an Eastern bank. [illegible] are on the fractional currency.

A Great Villain.

The Cedar Falls, Iowa, Gazette, gives an account of the arrest, examination and conviction of a life insurance agent named Frank N. Case, from Wisconsin, on a charge of bigamy. It was ascertained that the scamp had married no less than ten different wives, all of whom are living. Five of these marriages occurred in the East, and the rest in the various parts of the West. His last victim was a respectable lady in Cedar Falls, whom he married clandestinely, in opposition to the wishes of her parents, last April. He has lately been courting another lady in that vicinity, whom he intended to marry shortly.

On Friday morning Case hanged himself in his cell at the jail in Cedar Falls. He did a good thing by so doing.

Scraps of News.

Five steamers left New York for Europe on Saturday.

Major General W. S. Hancock and family are in St. Louis.

The reported pardoning of Herschell V. Johnson is untrue.

Negroes are flocking into Washington in great numbers from Maryland and are provided for at the Campbell Hospital.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Orton, having partially recovered from sickness, has returned to the duties of his Bureau.

About 100 men were discharged from the armories of the Washington arsenal on Saturday. There are now less than 50 men employed there.

The President had a general reception on Saturday, admitting all having business with him. He appears in good health, though greatly debilitated.

Mr. Parker, cashier of the Phœnix Bank of New York, publishes a note saying the defalcation will exceed $300,000, which exceeds the bank surplus.

The President granted special pardons to [illegible], George W. Morducai and William J. Hawkins, of North Carolina under the amnesty proclamation.

E. H. Eastman, a lawyer of Nashville, has been invited by the President to become his confidential secretary, in order to facilitate the transaction of public business.

A man named Wiseman was arrested in New York on Saturday, with a large amount of counterfeit 50 cents and counterfeit bills on the Weybosset, of Providence, in his possession.

A Post Office is to be established at Parry Sound, C. W., on the Georgian Bay. A steamer will be put on the route between Collingwood and Parry Sound early next month, and will carry a mail to that promising settlement.

The remains of the late Bishop Potter, of Pennsylvania, who died in California, arrived at Philadelphia on Wednesday.—The funeral took place on Friday, at Christ Church, and was largely attended. The remains were interred at Laurel Hill Cemetery.

Some of the government officers estimate that at present there are in New York 5,000 deserters from the regular army, from regiments now in service.—The War Department does not now pay detectives for the arrest of deserters, so that the latter are not taken into custody.

The works of the Chicago Glass Company, corner of North Market and Ontario streets, Chicago, were entirely destroyed by fire at an early hour on Saturday morning. The loss is estimated at $15,000, which is nearly covered by insurance. The works have been in operation but few months.

A diabolical murder was committed near Lexington, Ky., on Thursday night. A. M. Taylor, keeper of the toll gate on the Versailles pike, was shot dead in his house by a ball passing through the window. Denny, who has been in the habit of killing Union men thereabouts, was arrested on suspicion.

Gov Brownlow, of Tennessee, has issued a proclamation, proposing certain questions to Clerks of County Courts and Sheriffs, with a view of ascertaining whether or not the elective franchise act was fully complied with in conducting the recent election. Information has reached the State Department that in some counties it was erroneously construed, while others wilfully evaded it.

Why is it vulgar to send a telegram. Because it is making use of flashy language.

Within the present year the Chinese Government has completed the translation and publication of Wheaton's International Law, which is recognized there as the highest authority on such questions.

An iron torpedo, weighing about 2400 lbs., and capable of containing 60 pounds of powder has been placed in the State arsenal at Cambridge. It was taken from the obstructions of Charleston harbor.

A large number of Government mules are being sold at Cleveland. They bring from $75 to $180 each.

Appalling Disaster.

It becomes our painful duty to record the occurrance of the most appalling disaster that has darkened the records of the western lakes for many years. On Wednesday night about half past eight o'clock the fine propellar Pewabic, Capt. George McKay, on her way down from Lake Superior to this port, when abreast of Thunder Bay Island and about six miles from the light, collided with the propeller Meteor, Capt. Wilson, upward bound, by which the Pewabic was immediately sunk. The evening was a tolerably clear one, although it had been somewhat rainy, and the lights of each steamer were discernable by the other at the distance of six miles. A moderate breeze prevailed and the waters was rough. The course of the Pewabic was on the side towards the shore, and that of the Meteor on the opposite tack, by which they would steer clear each other. The movements of each steamer were plainly observed by the crew as well as passengers upon the other, and the fact of their coming together under such circumstances cannot be explained except on the hypothesis of an almost unaccountable blunder on the part of some one. When Capt. McKay saw that a collision apeared inevitable, he blew his whistle as a signal to the other boat to keep out of the way, which signal, so far as is known, was not responded to. He then ordered his wheel to be put to starboard, which would tend to put her out of danger by taking his boat farther in towards shore. From all we can gather, it is rendered probable that the wheelsman of the Meteor, not having properly understood his orders, or by mistake of some kind put his wheel to port, instead of the contrary direction, which he ought to have taken. He thus brought his bows in a direct line with the port side of the Pewabic, and the fact of striking the latter so squarely in the side would seem to confirm this theory of the cause of the catastrophe; although it is possible that a full investigation may present the affair in a different phase so far as some particulars are concerned. The bows of the Meteor, which are long and sharp, struck the Pewabic almost at right anghes under the pilot house, opening her to the width of twelve or fifteen feet, and cutting her down to the water's edge. There was probably at least 150 persons on board, including the crew, and consternation and dismay fell like palsey upon hearts which only a few brief moments before overflowed with mirth and gladness. The scene was one of which beggars description, but was soon over. Within four minutes of the collision the Pewabic sunk, carying down with her from 70 to 100 persons, as nearly as the number can be estimated. Many of those on the bows of the ill fated steamer had the presence of mind to jump from the deck of the Meteor; others were saved from drowning by the heroic exertions of friends, and many were subsequently picked up by the boats of the Meteor. As there were two or thee said vessels in the neighborhood, it is possible that a few of those now numbering among the lost have been picked up by them, but as the Meteor remained near the scene of the disaster to pick up all that could be found, this is like hoping against hope.

If the accident had occurred a few hours later, nearly all would have been wrapped in sleep, and very few would have been spared to recount the fearful tale.

Several noble and heroic incidents occurred worthy of mention, one or two in particular. The most memorable of which was performed by Miss Ada Brush, (a daughter of E. A. Brush, Esq., of this city). This lady, by her cool and determined efforts, not only saved her own life by expert swimming, but that of Mrs. C. M. Wright, whose husband was drowned with a lady clinging to his neck. Mrs. Brush saw Mrs. Wright struggling in the water some distance from her, and with great presence of mind she swam to her rescue, pushed a floating spar up to her, and thus saved her from the fate of her beloved husband. The manifestation of such fortitude on the part of this lady, will ever be remembered by those who were witnesses of the terrible catastrophe. Mrs. L. McKnight, of this city, and others whose names have not yet come to hand, also displayed a spirit of determination seldom witnessed.

Capt. McKay was one of the last upon the wreck, and upon leaving the sinking vessel, of which he was so proud, he saved the life of Miss James, of New York. Mr. Cleveland, the mate, worked to the last, and cut loose one of the life-boats just as the ill-fated Pewabic went down.—he was also one of the last on board.

Mr. McKnight did not leave the wreck until he was taken up by one of the crew and thrown upon the deck of the Meteor. The affable and ready clerk—Mr. Chas. A. Mack—was one of the first in the life boat, and would not rest until he had rendered all the aid that was possible. He saved the engineer before the boats were got into the water.—Ad. & Trib.

Regina Strack, a woman 40 years old, in Cincinnati, hanged herself on Thursday last to escape a law suit for abusing a neighbor.

BIBLE QUESTIONS.

NUMBER XX.

JAIRUS DAUGHTER RAISED FROM DEATH.

MARK V: 22—24 also 34—43 (Also Matt. IX: 18—26, Luke VIII: 41—56.)

1. Where was Christ when Jairus came to Him? v. 10—compare als Luke V: 27, 28, 29.
2. With whom was Christ talking at the time? v. 18.
3. Who was Jairus? v. 22.
4. What was the nature of the office held by him? See Lange on Matt. IX: 18.
5. What brought him to Christ? v. 23.
6. What rendered this child peculiarly dear to the father? Luke VIII: 42.
7. In what position did he place himself in his entreaty apper? v. 22, l. c, 23, f. c.
8. What special thing did he ask of Christ? v. 23. l. c.
9. Was the child dead?
10. What response did his position gain? v. 24, f. c.
11. Was Christ as ready to go to a funeral as a feast?
12. Why should we imitate Him in this? Eccl. VII: 2.
13. Who followed Him, and why? v. 24.
14. What news came to Jairus by the way? v. 35.
15. Would such tidings greatly try his faith?
16. Can there be any triumph without trial?
17. How did Christ sustain him under this new weight of sorrow? v. 38, also Luke VIII: 50.
18. What had delayed them by the way? v. 25—34.
19. Does the bestowment of blessing upon one, lessen the gift for another?
20. What alone can hinder the blessing? Ans. unbelief.
21. Whom did Christ select as special witnesses of this miracle? v. 37
22. Why were these specially chosen?
28. On what other occasions were they thus favored? Matt. XVII: 2, XVI: 37.
24. Whom did he find at the house of Jairus? v. 38, also compare Matt. IX: 23.
25. What was the occupation of these minstrels? Barns Notes Matt. IX: 23. See also Amos V: 16. Jer. IX: 20.
26. How did He treat the noisy mourners? v. 39.
27. Was the damsel not dead?
28. How then do you explain His words?
29. Why did He put the scorners out?
30. Why were the parents of the child permitted to witness His work? John XI: 40
31. How was the child raised up? v. 41.
32. What evidence that the work was done? v 42, f, c.
33. Why would Christ have the miracle kept secret?

Note 1.—The healed soul will begin to move and act.

34. [illegible] proper nutriment.

3d. Parents who will not call the great Physician for their children are no better than infidel

A WORD TO THE LADIES.—The employments of ladies are for the most part sedentary. They sit too much and walk too little. They do not as a general thing, take enough of Natures medicine,—air. To keep the secretive organs in a regular and healthful state, and to prevent the sensitiveness of the nerves, which arises from close confinement, we recommend to them air, exercise and Red Jacket Bitters. This prescription will be a sure thing to bring a blush to the palest cheeks; and, if the former can only be encoed to a limited extent, the latter is more than ever necessary.

LIFE, SPEECHES AND PUBLIC SERVICES OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, by J. H. Barrett, com. of Pensions. Mr. S. L. Beal, is now canvassing for the above entitled work, which is a complete history of his early life, political speeches in and out of Congress, also a general view of his policy as President of the United States and his messages, Proclamations, letters &c., and a concise history of the war. It embodies the events of the first 3 years of his administration, and will contain the history of the last year of his administration and the particulars of his tragic and lamented demise. Mr. Beal will call upon the citizens of Tecumseh, Franklin, Combridge, Woodstock, and Macon, and give them a chance to subscribe for this valuable work. It is sold wholly by subscription, so do not fail to become a subscriber.

"A thing of Beauty is a Joy forever"

MARTHA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER.—a perfect success; the best in market. Is not a dye—will not stain the skin—will restore gray and faded hair to a beautiful black, brown auburn color, and cause it to assume its former beauty. It will cure all humors of the scalp, remove dandruff and scurf from the head, keep the hair soft and nice, and give it a silk like appearance. It is the best dressing for the hair in the WORLD. Every woman with gray and faded hair—every man with gray hair and faded whiskers, can NOW be restored to their original beauty and color in one or two month's time by using "MARTHA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER." It will prevent the hair from falling off, promote a healthy growth, will cause it to grow on bald heads when there is life and vitality at the roots.—Where these are gone there is no hope of success. WARRANTED, or money refunded. ☞ Sold everywhere.

G. B. WILSON, Agent, Michigan

Dissolution.

The co-partnership heretofore existing under the name and style of Deuel & Wilbur is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The accounts due said firm can be found with L. Wilbur. A prompt settlement is requested.

T. DEUEL
L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Aug. 3d, 1865.

Ackley has the largest stock of Hosiery, Gloves &c. ever brought to town.

WARD & STRICKLAND'S

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

Old and young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleans, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the wild.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,
SOLE PROPRIETORS,
NEW YORK.

Advantages of his Plow.

It will last from two to six times longer than any other Steel Plowmade anywhere by anybody. This has often been verified by actual use in "gritty" soils, occasionally twice and on the margins of streams in the West, in which steel Plows have been habitually worn through following eighty acres or less, or having already plowed over three hundred acres of the same soil without being half worn.

It will "scour" in most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed. If there is a tough or ground anywhere in which it will not scour, we have yet to find it.

It draws lighter on any other Plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, or a Point welded on, as readily as ordinary Plows, by any blacksmith who understands trade, as the steel is perfectly malleable, and workably".

Any section can replaced by a duplicate, to be had of any Agent the Share, Landside and Mouldboard are cast in his

It is well stocked with New England second-growth Timber, are standard is wrought iron, with "plate" in the cap so give or take land at pleasure

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, works perfectly in either stubble or turf, leaves a clean furrow, turns under stubble and foul trash completely.

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the world, just as sure as it is economy in paying six dollars once, rather five dollars five or six times over; — let not to time and your temper be lost because your Plow won't scour;" — and in doing a quarter or a fifth more work, with the same power. The quality and quantity work it will endure to perform must be considered well as the cost price in determining whether or not the Plow is cheap or dear, as the cheapest, we are confident a man gets more than a hundred dollars' worth of "Plow" every time he gets one.

Those remarks made after a familiarity with the merits of the good Plows in use in the West, many of a have justly earned a good reputation

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for hard and foul ground. Heretofore we have had the "C" pattern designed for both, turf stubble. The "B" and "C" patterns together enable us, to meet the views of all at to hand give them either "mold" or "steel" plows as they prefer

Call and see the Warranvery liberal.
For Sale only
Tindall & Ston, Tecumseh.

F. R. Sbbins.

Adrian pio Rooms,

I am selling, and p on hand at my Furniture Store,

"Steinway & Sons, m. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vosemos fr m fifty to one hundredollars cheaper than any dea in the West.

Call and see or ades me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAIFRAMES &c.

In Southern Mich. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed as represented, and shipped safely railroad to any point

STEBBINS' ANTIQUE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. 742tf

Village Lo For Sale!

I propose to open streets and have my ten acre lot laiut in lots to suit purchasers. It is beautiful location south of west schoolhouse. Terms easy, Cash or on time. Also 7 acres with orchard and all kind fruit, good house barns, sheds &c. Also other Houses and lots, situated in the antiful village o Tecumseh. June, 15.

L. McCOWEN.

If you want to find best assortment of English, French & Scotch Cassimere in the county go to A. HOOD'S.

18 Pronunclements

GLOBE MILL

This well known and popular Mill

Now in Good Running Order

and prepared to do Grinding Grain the farmers in a satisfactory manner will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour ma

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and invite others to try and see

How well we can do For the

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready accommodate, having always on hand

SUPPLY OF FLOUR

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd est Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse
Fine Midlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. W. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle
Corn and Oats ground for horses

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER.

and does more certainly have a supply Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around. Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and exchange. They will always also usually find market at the Mill for their other grain

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sat.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,
RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR
COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL

Corn In the Ear and Shelled

A good assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak, Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed, White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes.

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received, on storage. Corn, Oats, Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought, at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 1.00	$ 1.25	$ 1.50	$ 2.00	$ 3.00
2 Squares	1.50	2.00	3.00	3.50	5.00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	4.50	10.00	14.00
1 Column	3.00	4.50	6.	12.00	18.00
1 Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	35.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted at $5.00 per year.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges

☞ We would say to those who are indebted to us that we must have our pay immediately or the accounts will be left with an officer for collection. A word to the wise is sufficient.

☞ Extra copies of the Herald can be procured at Ketcham's News Depot.

☞ L. Drew started for New York on Tuesday last, for the purpose of buying a new stock of Hardware.

☞ What has become of S. H. Beal the canvassing agent for Barrett's Life of Abraham Lincoln?

☞ Lieut. A. W. Slayton of Battery A, U.S.C.T. left town to-day, on his return to duty at Nashville. The Lieut. has been enjoying a short furlough among his many friends.

Married.

On Thursday August 10th, in St. Peters Church, Tecumseh, by Rev. J. Wainwright Ray, Rector—assisted by Rev. Henry B. Wallbridge, D. D., Rector of Trinity Church Toledo, Ohio, Henry S. Waite Esq. of Toledo and Miss Josie Brown, daughter of Gen. Joseph W. Brown of Toledo, and formerly from Tecumseh.

☞ We are informed that Wastell & Adam are selling the shoulder strap and Skirt supporter Corset for $2,50 each, 50c. less than they have been selling for at other places, procure of the same before they are all gone. The Ladies say that they are a decided improvement.

☞ The dog days have come and the news has flown. No one has run away with somebody's niece no murder has been committed, no tornado has visited us, no quarrels have come to light, no horrible calamity has happened, no sea serpent has turned up and nobody has paid the printer. We are at a dead lock for news

Tornado.

A very severe tornado visited South Bend, Ind., a few days since, unroofing the Court House, and carrying away the new bridge over the St. Jo. which cost $20,000, besides doing much other damage. Several buildings in process of erection throughout the city were blown down, and one large block of stores nearly enclosed was demolished.

☞ Rev. E. H. Hascall, formerly pastor of the Methodist Society, here, filled the pulpit of the M. E. Church on Sunday last, in the absence of the Rev. D. C. Wright. Mr. Hascall's many friends were very glad to hear him preach once more. His efforts connected with the building of the new Methodist Church will long be remembered by the citizens of Tecumseh.

☞ The Silver Band, at this place, is fast becoming an ornament to the town. Before the war our village could boast of having one of the best bands in the state; and we hope soon to see the present fully equal to it. There is no better amusement for young men when they have a spare hour, than to practice music. We hope soon to see our band in a flourishing and prosperous condition.

Notice.

New Goods just from New York. Wastell & Adam are selling goods cheap. Go there for Factory, Stripes, Checks, Denims, Kentucky Jeans Flannels for shirts, Calicos, Alapaccas, Woolens, Balmoral Skirts, Hoop Skirts, Ladies' Cloth, Table Linen, Hosiery, Gloves, Cord and Tassel Trimming, Bugle Trimming, in fact anything you want.

☞ R. C. Moore, informs us that he is now receiving new goods. Elegant Merrimac Prints, De Laines, Brown and Bleached Cottons, Cotton Yarn, Children's white Cotton Hose in various sizes, old fashioned Cotton Batts—"as is Batts," Carpet Twine, Dress trimmings or anything else you want. Whenever you go to Moore's—if you do not see what you want, ask for it and you will be pretty sure to find it there. Goods of all kinds are scarce in the market now, but he manages to find scarce goods if they are to be found anywhere. Bear it in mind and look at his elegant Flexible Skirts, you can wind them around your arm and take them home.

☞ Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters, Roback's Bitters, Bavee Dodd's Wine Bitters, Newton's Jaundice Bitters, and all other Bitters for sale cheap at the drug store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

☞ J. D. Robbins has a large assortment of Wall Paper, School Books and Stationery which he is selling remarkably cheap.

Thrilling Incident.

"Accidents will happen in the best of families," is the saying of some wise philosopher. Whether he was married or single we have no positive means of knowing, but judging from the wisdom of the adage, we should say he must have been a married man. To illustrate:—Not over one thousand miles from here, lives a staid and sober deacon of a staid and sober church. He is well to do in the goods and necessaries of this life, has money invested in well paying stocks, houses occupied by wealthy tenants, fast horses and fine running gear to match, a handsome and accomplished daughter and hundreds of acres of beautiful prairie, from which he expects to realize an independent fortune. But prairie land to be salable at a profit, must be fenced and surveyed.

Accordingly the Deacon engages the services of one Mr. ——— a Surveyor who does not reside in Chicago, and three or four assistants, to survey out the prairie into lots. The party, accompanied by the Deacon and a full supply of bread and cheese in boxes and jugs, is in the habit of starting from home every Monday morning and returning the next Saturday night—weather and other contingencies permitting—passing the nights while absent at a hotel in the neighboring village of D——. Now it came to pass that, last week, the good Deacon did not accompany the surveying party, having important business at home and on Friday he and his daughter took the cars and went over to the city of M—— to engage rooms at a Ladies Seminary for her, where she intends to go at the opening of the term in September, and returned the same day to D—— where they left the train and stopped for the night.

On the following morning they took the train, went home and by some unaccountable oversight, the daughter's nightly apparel was left behind. The laudably with true matronly care discovered the oversight, and handed the garment to the surveyor, requesting him to see that the owner thereof received it. He promised faithfully to do so, put the baggage in his valise and carried it home, but amid his sines and co-sines, chains, links and eighty acre lots, he entirely forgot to call at the deacon's on his return, and also—a far more fatal slip of the memory—forgot to mention the circumstance to his better half. Well, affairs passed on quite as usual until Monday morning, but then transpired the thrilling portion of our tale.

On Monday the surveyor's wife, like all other good wives are in the habit of washing, and Mrs.——— upon opening the aforesaid valise to pick out its contents of "dirty clothes" was suprised and indignant at finding an extremely lengthy cotton garment which bore a striking dissimilarity to her husband's French yoke shirts. Said she:

Mr. ———, what is this?"

"One of my shirts I suppose."

"One of your shirts! Unfaithful wretch!" &c. &c., (any married man can supply the balance.)

Mr. surveyor tried to explain, but it was no use. Words at such a crisis was only adding fuel to the flame; so he puts on his hat and repairs to the deacon's, unfolds to him his unfortunate situation, and the deacon, in a kind and christian spirit, returned with him to his indignant wife, laid claim to the mysterious garment, explained her husband's connection with it, proved property, paid necessary expenses and took the baggage away. Verily "accidents will happen in the best of families."

Conjugal Infelicity.

Our usually quiet village is becoming quite a city in its way, and we advise our Board to apply to the Legislature at their earliest opportunity for a charter. We are about having a race course, we already have our saloons of different kinds, and last Wednesday evening an occurrence transpired which was excessively well adapted for a Police Court to investigate. About 9 o'clock in the evening one Mrs. F——— entered a wet Grocery & Provision store on ——— street and inquired if her husband was there. The proprietor replied that he did not know but would see. He stepped into an adjoining room and met Mr. F——— coming out, who soon stood face to face with his indignant spouse, and thereupon she began inflicting upon him a Candle lecture on the spot. Her "Injine was up," and the more she talked the higher it got, until from words she came to blows, and to make a long story short, she—the sober half—gave him—the drunken half—a tremendous walloping! He took it like a major, and judging from appearances he evidently had had considerable experience in the business.

Constable Niblack, hearing the disturbance, rushed in to separate the parties, when the angelic wife "pitched into" him and came very near cleaning him out also, using her nails and teeth in a tremendously reckless manner. In fact her temperature could not be reduced at all, until Constable Niblack poured oil upon the troubled waters in the shape of a pair of hand-cuffs. She then cooled down several degrees. The happy pair soon after dispersed, she in search of a Justice and he homeward, a wiser and soberer man. Such affrays are a disgrace to our village and should be stopped if possible.

A Wife in Trouble.

"Pray tell me, my dear, what is the cause of those fears?"

"O, such a disgrace!"

"What is it, my dear; don't keep me in suspense?"

"O, I have opened one of your letters, supposing it to be addressed to myself—Certainly it looked more like Mrs. than Mr."

"Is that all? What harm can there be in a wife opening her husband's letters?"

"No harm in the thing itself—but the contents. Such a disgrace!"

"Who has dared to write me a letter unfit to be read by my wife?"

"Why, this letter in the most chast and beautiful language. But the contents! the contents!"

Here the wife burried her face in her handkerchief, and commenced sobbing aloud, while her husband eagerly caught up the letter and commenced reading the epistle that had nearly broken his wife's heart. It was a bill from the printer, for two years' subscription to the Herald.

Good Advice.

Kind reader, would you always live
In peace and plenty, joy and health,
Possess an easy conscience here,
Enjoy the bountecus fruits of wealth?
And would you shun the cares and toils
Of this vain world, its bounteous strife?
Then listen to this wise advice,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Have you a pleasant, happy home,
And children full of mirth and glee,
Who always greet you with a kiss,
And climb upon their father's knee;
And is this home made doubly dear
By loving, fond and gentle wife?
O see that they may never want,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Of S. C. Stacy, Agent.

To the People of Lenawee County.

OFFICE OF THE REGISTER OF DEEDS,
Adrian, Aug. 10, 1865.

The fear on the part of my predecessors in this office of being accused of selfishness, has no doubt prevented them from recommending what I now do at the same risk.—The necessity of all who hold real estate to have their deeds of farms and cemetery lots, mortgages, assignments and releases of mortgages, placed upon record, does not seem to be as apparant to all, as the necessity of the case requires. In view of these facts the undersigned would state that oftentimes either a warranty or Quit Claim Deed, Mortgage, Assignment, or Release of Mortgage not being Recorded, will cause a vast deal of trouble and expense, and jeopardize the Title to Real Estate about to be conveyed, delaying the sale, and often breaking up the sale of property. In consideration of this fact and many others, which I might suggest, I propose to try and remedy this as far as possible, by publishing to the people the danger to themselves and wrong to others. In anticipation of the coming STATE FAIR, and the largest number of people who will visit the city of Adrian, September 19th 20th 21st & 22d, suggested it self to me to be favorable time for all those to collect together all unrecorded papers in their possession from Government down to the present time, and have them placed upon the records where they should have been long ago.

Further, I would state that there are now in this office about Two Hundred Deeds and other papers which have been accumulating for the last 30 years, Unrecorded, in consequence of their not being prepaid.

In making these suggestions, it is with a conciousness that I am doing my duty as a Public Officer; that the titles to your lands are of vastly more importance to you than myself, you will admit. That you may avail yourselves of the above suggestion, this office will be kept open in business hours during the coming State Fair.

Wm. A. WHITNEY, Register of Deeds.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Aug. 17, 1865

Callum Miss C	Chase D H
Dalmyple D	Davis Miss Vina
Fitch A w	James Miss M J
Harrington Miss	Harries William
Morgan Sames F	Miller Mis Hattie
Miller Elizabeth	Miller J H
Reed Richard	Salms Heyley
Sickley Martin	Thackabeny N
Thorp Mis P J	weter Shepard
waldron S C

Letters to strangers or transient visitors in a town or city whose special address may be unknown, should be marked, in the lower left-hand corner, with the word "Transient."

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

N. B.—A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within 30 days or less, written or printed with the writer's name, postoffice and State across the left-hand end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with at the usual prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer.—Sec. 28, law of 1863.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Chancery Sale

In pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court, for the County of Lenawee, in Chancery, made on the 6th day of April, 1865, in a cause therein pending wherein Lewis Brooks is complainant, Hannah Rowland and others are defendants.—Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the Room, in the city of Adrian, where the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee is holden, on the 8th day of September, 1865, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, all that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Tecumseh in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan bounded and described as follows: Said premises being situated west of and near the village of Clinton in said County and bounded and described as follows, viz: Commencing at a point in the center of the Chicago road twenty-seven feet west of the west abutments of the public bridge across the mill race of the Atlas mill property thence west along the center of the Chicago road one hundred and twenty feet, thence south one hundred and ninety feet, thence east one hundred and eight feet, to the west side of the west bank of said mill race, thence north along the west side of said mill race bank one hundred and ninety feet to the place of beginning containing about one half an acre of land be the same more or less, reserving always from the operation of this mortgage all the rights and privileges of road and roadways that were reserved by F. S Snow and wife in their deed of said premises to George Unterkercher and Hannah Rowland dated January 22nd, 1850, this mortgage is intended to cover and convey the undivided one half only of the above described property and appurtenances.—July 27th, 1865.

J. J. HOGABOAM,
Circuit Court Commissioner.
E. B. Woon, Sol. for Compl't.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

consisting of

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING.

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best filled Establishments!

A LARGE STOCK,

Most Varied

Stock of Furniture

Is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St., Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notice by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pic. ures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VanTine,
G. Smith.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to make room for other Goods. Better bargains can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county. Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy.

Meat Market

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c

If you are in want of anything in the Meat line be sure and give him a call. n750

Corporation Notice.

The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

This is the plate never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

DEUEL & WILBUR,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE, MOLLASSES, TEA, SYRUP, SPICES, FISH, TOBACCO, WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK, LARD, COD FISH, and in fact everything that anybody or his brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL.

And all our neighbors know

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICH'N

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n706 A. JAMES.

NEW AND CHEAP

CASH STORE;

WASTELL & ADAM

Have just opened in the village of Tecumseh as at No. 2,

MECHANICS' BLOCK

The most choice and splendid assortment of

DRY GOODS

Ever offered for sale in Southern Michigan, Their stock consists entirely of the very NEWEST and LATEST styles of

DRESS GOODS, FANCY GOODS, Yankee Notions &c. embracing

SILKS,
ALAPACAS, DELAINES,
CALICOES, PRINTS,
SHAWLS, LACES,
RIBBONS, SHIRTINGS,
SHEETINGS,
WORSTEDS,

And everything in the Dry Goods Line. Their Goods were all purchased at

PANIC PRICES,

since the late fall in New York, and will be sold as low as at any Store in the West.

We can, and will sell as low as any Dry Goods Store in Lenawee County, or elsewhere. Quick sales for READY CASH and SMALL PROFITS, is our motto.

☞ Call and see us!

HOOP SKIRTS AND INVISIBLE CLASPED

New York Bell Balmorel

If you wish to encourage competition, which is the life of business, please favor us with a portion of your patronage.

Call and see, and examine Goods and Prices and Judge for yourselves.

Tecumseh, April 4th, 1865. n719y1

JEFF'S CAPTURED

MORE PARTICULARS,

GREAT EXCITEMENT

AT THE

NEW STORE

In John Usborn's Block,

DRY GOODS

FANCY GOODS,

Yankee Notions

&c., of the latest styles selling at

NEW YORK PRICES,

Please call and examine our Goods before purchasing elsewhere.

C. B. ACKLEY.

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just rec'd p York, and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.,

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hoag's, north side of Chicago street.

GAZLAY'S PACIFIC MONTHLY.

Now is your time to Subscribe for our New PACIFIC MONTHLY, which we cheerfully commend to you as the Excelsior of all the

MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

Employing and paying more Literary talent than any other Magazine in the country, we flatter ourselves that no Department of the PACIFIC MONTHLY will suffer neglect from the want of able and well-known

LITERARY CONTRIBUTORS,

representing some of the principal shining lights of the Literary world. We shall make such demand. Your special attention is called to our

ILLUSTRATIONS,

which are produced, without regard to expense, by an efficient corps of artists—at whose head stands BRIGHTLY and MCLEAN, unequalled as Designers and Engravers. We call the attention of the Public to the profusion of first-class illustrations of the varied, novel and picturesque scenery and local views of the

GOLDEN STATES

AND

TERRITORIES

OF THE

PACIFIC.

With Descriptive Views and Reading Matter, affording the most reliable and comprehensive medium in existence for full information in regard to California, Oregon, Nevada, and their contiguous and auriferous territories. The information we give in regard to the Pacific States, alone, is worth ten times the Subscription Price of our Magazine. The twelve numbers, a year's subscription, when neatly bound, affording two splendid volumes, suitable for the

DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY,

ON THE

COUNTING-HOUSE,

and costing but FIVE DOLLARS, which years to come can not be purchased for any price. Our

EDITORIAL DRAWER

will abound with selections of Wit, Original Stories, Comic Sketches, and Light Literature, culled from a well-garnered storehouse of fact and fancy, affording interesting and reading matter for the Parlor and the Fire-side.

COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS.

This Department of the Monthly, under the immediate supervision of MCLENAN, the celebrated Comic Delineator, will be found always rich in Wit, Merriment, and appropriate Design.

FASHION PLATES.

Having made special arrangements with Mme. DEMOREST, 473 Broadway, New York, for contributions to our Fashion Department, we call the attention of the Ladies to the same, and commend our Monthly to their notice, containing more information in regard to Dress and the Toilet, than any other Magazine published.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!

Now is the time to Subscribe, and have your volume complete for 1865. We will furnish Back Numbers to such as do not subscribe at once. Be sure and get them without delay, and have your Subscriptions carry. Our Subscription Price is

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR,

Payable in Advance, upon the receipt of which our receipt, for the same, will be sent in return.

PREMIUMS IN GOLD!

As an additional inducement to Subscribe early, we shall distribute among our Subscribers a large list of valuable Premiums, relying upon an extraordinary large Subscription List to compensate us for our liberality. These Premiums will consist of valuable Souvenirs of the Golden Wealth of the Pacific States, and will be as follows:—

To any person sending us One Hundred Paying Subscriptions, we will send, immediately, a Twenty and a Ten Dollar Gold Piece, California Coinage; and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Fifty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Ten and a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Twenty five Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Five Dollar and a Two and half Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Ten Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Three Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Five Paying Subscriptions, we will send an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

We are also, having made, a large quantity of Valuable PRESENTS and KEEPSAKES for Single Subscribers, who send direct to the Office.

The Presents and Souvenirs consist of Ladies' Breast Pins, Ear-Rings, Finger-Rings, Sleeve Buttons, etc.; and Gentlemen's Breast Pins, Finger-Rings, Sleeve Buttons, Studs, Settings for Cane Heads, etc., made from California and Nevada Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Ore—commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry, (commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry.) The Gold and Silver-bearing Quartz and Ore from which these Souvenirs are made, is from the celebrated GOLD & SILVER and Opalite Mines of Nevada, and will be valuable as Mementos, as well as beautiful in Appearance and Design. EVERY REGULAR SUBSCRIBER, as above, to the PACIFIC MONTHLY, will be entitled to one of these Articles for every Subscription standing opposite their names on our books.

SPECIMEN COPIES

OF THE

PACIFIC MONTHLY

sent, postage pre-paid, upon the receipt of Fifty Cents, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

CAUTION!

Write your Name, Post-Office, County and State, to where you want the PACIFIC MONTHLY sent, Plain and Distinct.

Register all Letters containing Money; or, when convenient, send by Express.

If your Post-Office is a Money-Order office, obtain a Money-Order for your remittance.

Send none but United States Treasury Notes, or money Bankable in New York.

All letters asking Information, etc., to receive attention, must contain a Stamp, to prepay answer. Address all Correspondence,

D. M. GAZLAY & CO.,

PUBLISHERS

PACIFIC MONTHLY,

34 LIBERTY STREET,

NEW YORK.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:

AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,

121 Nassau Street, New York.

WHITE & BAUER,

San Francisco, California.

THE SCANDINAVIAN Remedies.

To prevent Fine counterfeits are present, for the whole hundred Dollars is a sum,

DR. ROBACK'S

BLOOD PURIFIER

and

BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands

of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula,	Syphilis,
Skin Diseases,	Old Sores,
Salt Rheum,	Rheumatism,
Dyspepsia,	Sick Headache,
Liver Complaint,	Fever and Ague,
Leucorrhœa,	Female Complaints,
Erysipelas,	St. Anthony's Fire,
Tumors,	Eruptions,
Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away. The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

which, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache,	Costiveness,
Colic Pains,	Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion,	Pain in the Bowels,
	Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

Principal Office and Salesroom, No. 6 East Fourth St. Old Building from Main St., Cincinnati, O. Laboratory, No 13 Hammond Street.

FOR SALE BY

P. N. [illegible] Tecumseh.

Commissioner's Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, s. s. The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court for said County, commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands of all persons against the estate of Alpheus Kies late of the Township of Tecumseh, in said county, deceased, hereby give notice, that three months from the 15th day of June A. D. 1865 are allowed by order of said Probate Court for creditors to present their claims against the estate of said deceased, and that they will meet at the office of Snow & Kies in the village of Clinton, in said county of Lenawee, on Saturday the first day of July and Saturday the ninth day of September next at one o'clock P. M. of said days to receive, examine and adjust such claims.—Dated, June 23d, 1865.

Danforth Keyes,
Charles Brooks, } Commissioners

Editor of Herald. DEAR SIR:—With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send, by return mail, to all who wish it (free) a Recipe, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm that effectually removes Tan, Freckles, Pimples, Blotches, Tan, Freckles, and all Impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and Beautiful. I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads, or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to obtain a full growth of Luxuriant Hair, Whiskers, or Mustaches, in less than thirty days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours, CHAS. F. CHAPMAN, Chemist, 811 Broadway, New York. 746w3

Ackley has the largest stock of Hosiery, Gloves, &c. ever brought to town.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in the old Bourbon Rye, free from all the impurities of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

They are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strength [illegible] to the system, and are recommended and taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases:—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Affections, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirits, Sallow Complexion, &c.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity, so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.—

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

Ladies, who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system.

If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters, have him send for them.—

Remember the name, and take no other,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical Journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession, are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

DR. C. H. SWAIN, PROPRIETOR.

OFFICES—1275 Broadway, New York, 84 South Water St., Chicago.

C. A. COOK, General Agent for the West, Office, 20 Market Street, Chicago.

RED JACKET Stomach Bitters

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of the diseases of the Constitution.

Sick and Nervous Headache, fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drags and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters, are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the bottle, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OUR—

PEACH & APPLE BRANDY, STRAWBERRY WINE, BLACKBERRY WINE, MUSCAT WINE, CHERRY WINE, RED RASPBERRY WINE.

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gold label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,
No. 21 River Street, Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee, that he is still located in the [illegible] Shop on Railroad Street,

Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

To the Ladies & Gentlemen of Tecumseh,

The undersigned having fitted up rooms expressly for the sale of

Ice Cream, Lemonade, Soda Water &c.

Will be happy at all times to wait upon you. Rooms over Wishart's Crockery Store. Open day and evening.—June 15th, 1865.

J. S. WALTERS.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co., If you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April 4, '65. A. JAMES.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone!!! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young America. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell cheap as any small profits, for they must be sold within ninety days.

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6 50.

Best cloth and cassimere coats very cheap. Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool.

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save a great expense being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

U. S. 7-30 Loan!

Third Series

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the general Subscription agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent

GOLD-BEARING BONDS.

These Bonds are now selling handsome premium, and are exempt as are all the Government Bonds from State, County and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent per annum to their value according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually on coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker. The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to

One cent per day on a	$50 note,
Two cents "	"	"	$100 "
Ten " "	"	"	$500 "
20 " "	"	"	$1000 "
$1 " "	"	"	$5000 "

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscription.

The notes of this third series are precisely like the five and ten-twenties of the 7.30 series, in the option of paying interest on gold coin at 6 per cent, instead of 7.30 in currency. Subscribers will find the interest in currency up to July 15, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven Thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continue uninterrupted thereafter.

The slight change made in the conditions of the third series obviates any loss to the holder of interest. The payment in gold, is made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent in currency. This is

Only Loan in the Market

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the

GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within two months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans. It now seems probable that no considerable amount beyond the present series will be offered to the public.

In or er that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscription at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

JAY COOKE,
SUBSCRIPTION AGENT, Philadelphia.

May 1st, 1865.

Subscriptions will be received by the

First National Bank of Tecumseh.

First National Bank of Ypsilanti, and the First National Bank of Detroit.

Guardian Sale.

In the matter of the estate of James S. Collins, a minor

By virtue of a license of sale to me granted by the Court of Probate of the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the barn on the land hereinafter described on the 25th day of July, 1865, at two o'clock in the afternoon all the interest of James S. Collins, a minor, of in and to all that tract or parcel of land situate in the town of Macon in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as south part (24 acres,) of the east half of south east quarter of section five, also south quarter of west half of south-west quarter of section four; also east half of west half of south-west quarter of said section four. Terms made known on day of sale.—Dated June 8th, 1865.

JAMES B. CHAMBERS,
Guardian of said Minor.

n758w7

Commissioners Notice.

We the undersigned having been appointed commissioners by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee to adjust claims against the estate of Joseph Litchard, deceased, would give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the residence of Jacob Lichard, in Macon, on Saturday, the 1st day of July, 1865, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day when all persons having claims against said estate can appear and present their said claims for allowance and that six months from this date are allowed for creditors to present their claims for allowance.—Macon, June 5th, 1865.

JOHN JACKSON,
DAVID BERDAN,
Commissioners.

If you want to find the best assortment of English, French & Scotch Cassimere in the county go to A. HOOD'S.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware

EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block,

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN.

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands. Also a splendid assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions.

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

MILLINER.

MILLINERY.

Mrs. O. McCoy.

Is now receiving the largest and best selected stock of millinery goods, which were

BOUGHT since the GOLD PANIC

consisting of

Bonnets, Hats, Ribbons &c.,

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS TOWN,

which she is selling cheaper than any other establishment of the kind or

DRY GOODS STORE DARE SELL.

Such a magnificent display of goods is seldom seen in the towns of the West. Walk in, Ladies, and see me and hear the prices.

BLEACHING AND PRESSING

done in the neatest manner. Remember the place and do not fail to call.

Mrs. O. McCOY.

Tecumseh, April 13th, 1865.

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee. The vilest trash, under Snowy and Taking names, has been thrust upon the public. Bogus and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their Labels and wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a

Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to supply this demand,

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of Uniform Standard and Quality, Specially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable. If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our Ground Spices, Mustard, Cream Tartar, Baking Soda and Saleratus, put up at the Java Mills will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Groceries will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, C. Lawrence, B. J. Bidwell, P. N. Curtis, Fisher & Baker, Ketcham & Conklings; at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCULARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No 52, Vesey Street, New York.

To Consumptives.

The undersigned having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every suffer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 746m3

ATLANTIC & GRT WET'N RAILWAY

New Broad Gauge

PASSENGER, FREIGHT, MAIL,

EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH ROUTE

Connecting at Salamanca N. Y. with the Erie Railway, Both connections, 5½ Feet Track from New York to Chicago or Cleveland.

On and after Monday Nov 14th 1864. Through Passenger and Freight Trains will be run regularly between

CLEVELAND & NEW YORK,

NEW AND IMPORTANT PASSENGER ROUTE

FARE AS LOW AS BY ANY OTHER ROUTE

BAGGAGE CHECKED THROUGH.

Passengers by this Line have choice of Five Different routes between New York and Buffalo.

TICKETS THROUGH

Can be obtained at any of the offices of the Erie Railway and all Ticket Offices of Connecting Lines West or north-west, also at the Central Ticket Office under the Wendell House, Cleveland, O.

Ask for Tickets via the Atlantic and Great Western and Erie Railways.

Passenger Trains stop at Meadville thirty minutes giving passengers ample time to dine at the

"McHENRY HOUSE,"

The best Railway Hotel in the country.

NEW AND EXPEDITIOUS FREIGHT LINE

ALL RAIL.

No transhipment of Freight between New York and Akron or Cleveland.

Merchants in the West or Southwest will find it to their advantage to order their goods to be forwarded via the Erie and Atlantic & Great Western Railways, thus saving trouble and expense.

Rates of Freight as Low as by any other all Rail Route.

Especial attention will be given to the transportation of Freight of all kinds, East or West.

The Engines Cars and other equipments of this Company are entirely new, and of the most improved construction.

The only Air Line route to the oil region.

OIL REGIONS OF PENNSYLVANIA

Via Meadville or Ferry

From Leavittsburgh the Mahoning Branch runs to Youngstown and the Coal Mines.

This Road being all ballasted and all iron has been renewed, is by odds the best route to Akron, Dayton, and Cincinnati, all the way through.

J. FARNSWORTH, General Freight Agent.
T. H. GOODMAN, General Passenger Agent.
D. W. SAWYER, Master of Transportation.

Cleveland Ohio Nov 30, 1863.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Counterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND

NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 10th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Calvin Wood, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of John E. Wood administrator, de bonis non, of said estate praying for the allowance of his final account and distribution of said estate, and her discharge.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 24th day of July next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true copy) n760w4

Commissioners' Notice.

Estate of Jacob D. Harring, deceased.

The undersigned appointed by the Judge of Probate of Lenawee county commissioners to receive, hear and audit claims against said estate, hereby give notice that for such purpose they will meet at the late residence of Jacob D. Harring deceased, in the township of Macon, on the 10th day of July and of each day; and also give notice that said Judge of Probate has allowed six months next ensuing the 27th day of April, 1865, for the creditors of said estate to present their claims.

ISRAEL PENINGTON,
JOHN SAGE, Commissioners.

Dated May 1st 1865. 7n6w4-4

The Bridal Chamber, an Essay of Warning and Instruction for Young Men—published by the Howard Association, and sent free of charge in sealed envelopes. Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Howard Association, Philadelphia, Pa. 746ly

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit, &c, at

A. JAMES

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage executed by George Allison of Macon, Michigan, to James Patton of the same place, dated the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty four and recorded on the 8th of March 1864, at 9 o'clock A. M., in the Register's office for the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, in Liber 30 of mortgages on pages 720 and 721, upon which there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice, of the first instalment thereon, one hundred and eighty-eight 00/100 dollars, and the further sum of seven hundred dollars and interest, secured to be paid therein hereafter with interest, and now due and payable by reason of the said default, making now due and payable the sum of seven hundred and eighty-two 00/100 dollars; for the recovery of which, or of any part thereof, no suit or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity: Notice is therefore, hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and made and provided, on the twenty-seventh day of June next ensuing the date hereof, at three o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the front door of the Hall, the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county of Lenawee, in the city of Adrian, in said county, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of money due and payable on said mortgage by reason of said default and interest, together with the costs and expenses allowed by law and stipulated in said mortgage; said premises being described in said mortgage as follows, namely: situate in the township of Macon, Lenawee county, Michigan, known as the north-east quarter of the north west quarter of section No. thirty five (35) town five (5) [south of] range five (5) east containing forty acres more or less.

JAMES PATTON Mortgagee.

P. R. ADAMS, Attorney.

Dated March 20th, 1865. n747w13

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 18th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Stephen E Cole, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified of John McDole praying that the administrator of said estate may be directed to convey certain lands of said deceased to said petitioner for reasons in said petition stated.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 5th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the next of kin of said minor and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for six successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true Copy.) n750w4

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 25th day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of George A. Stanton deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Gilbert J. Stanton a brother of said deceased, praying that a duly authenticated copy of the last will of said deceased, of the Surrogate Court of Orleans County New York, and the probate thereof may be filed and recorded in this office for reasons stated in said petition.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 1st day of May next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A True Copy.) 750w4

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 28th day of July in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five,

Present, ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of O. B. Taylor, administrator of said estate, praying that he may be licensed to sell real estate of said deceased to pay the debts of said deceased and expenses of administration.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 18th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A TRUE COPY.) 750w4

ROBACK'S GOLD CATAWBA BRANDY

is made from the PURE JUICE of the CATAWBA GRAPE, which is grown in abundance in Ohio and Illinois, from which this article is obtained, has an agreeable flavor, fine color, and possesses all the qualities for medicinal purposes, and for a beverage of the best imported brandies. As a flavoring for mince pies and other culinary purposes it is the best article of its kind that can be used, being only a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Where it has been introduced it has found ready sales, and is daily gaining in popularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," and may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally throughout the U. S.

C. W. ROBACK, Proprietor.

56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

If you are in need of anything in the Ackley's.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 13. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 24, 1865. WHOLE NO. 767.

J. D. ROBBINS

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

—o—

Will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

than any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

goods sold as good as recommended.

—o—

CASH FOR RAGS!

—o—

Rags, Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH, - - - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,
JUVENILES,
Bibles and Testaments,
Hymn Books for all Denominations,
BLANK BOOKS
Sheet Music,
Photograph Albums,
STATIONERY, in endless Variety
Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass. Window Sashes,

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer yet invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

WANTED.

Butter, Eggs, Pork, Dried Meats, Lard, Dried Fruits, Paper Rags, &c, &c, for which I will pay the Highest price in Cash. To those who wish to pack their own Butter, I will furnish Packages free of charge. Give me a call.

A. JAMES.

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.
Express Freight,	7:08 A. M
Mail and Express,	1:06 P. M.
GOING NORTH.
Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD.
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & SHRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD J. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING,
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

P. N. CURTIS,
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN R. WOOD,
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER.
Attorney's, Counsellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. HANFORD,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich,

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mach.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Implments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. C. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT,
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

ORRIN H. PACKARD,
Union Livery Feed and Sale Stable.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

The Woodmen of Australia.

These sawyers and their mates are a strange, wild set comprising, in general, a good proportion of desperate ruffians, and sometimes a few runaways, they themselves commonly being ticket-of-leave men or emancipist. Two or three pair, accompanied by one or two men for felling, squaring small timber and digging pits, shoulder their axes and saws; and, with a sledge or dray-load of provisions, proceed to some solitary bush, where they make a little gunga, or hut, with a few sheets of bark, and commence operations. They labor very hard, stripping to the waist in the hottest summer days; but they live in extreme abundance, and, indeed, wastefulness though their fair is but simple, consisting only of salt beef, damper, tea, and sugar.

The timber is only squared with a saw into large logs, and is left at the pit, a new pit being generally dug when all the trees in the immediate neighborhood of their former one had been felled and squared. After working for two or three months in this way, these men will go down the river to receive their wages, or to "have a settlement," as they call it.

Though generally from one hundred to two hundred per cent, is charged by their employer on the rations and clothes supplied to them, they have always a large amount to receive on getting which (invariably in the shape of orders, &c.), they start off to the nearest public house (perhaps a distance of forty miles), there to remain till they have spent every farthing, often exceeding thirty or forty pounds, when they return once more to the bush, in order to resume as before the same labor. They are certainly the most improvident and reckless set of men in the world.

In riding along some path leading through a brush, and bewildered and lost amid the various and endless mazes of cedar tracks, one will often stumble upon a miserable cabin shut out from the genial rays of the sun, instinct with life in the shape of gigantic mosquitoes and other vermin, and inhabited by a lonely sawyer and his dirty wife, or mistress—probably a ticket-of-leave woman, or emancipist. If there are any children, they are in the last stage of squalor and filth, their pale and emaciated features already showing that fever and ague—the demons of these brushes—have begun their work with them. When rum is brought to these abodes, and a few sawyers are convened, then begin the scenes of riot and mischief. It is well known that men have been killed on these occasions. In lonely places one or two sawyers have combined to make away with another in order to share the fruits of his toil. Their usual carelessness of money, when they have it, could be exemplified by numerous instances. One which fell within my own observation was, that out of a spirit of bravado, or "flashness," as it is called, one man actually used a pound note as a wadding for his powder and shot.

These habits are attributed to several causes: the depraved and degraded class to which most of the sawyers belong; their loneliness and seclusion, being cut off during their whole time from any chance of good advice or example; and, the comparatively high pay for their work together with the large sums which they receive at one time.

Young Girls.

What a pity that the friendship of young girls do not last! Nothing seems purer or more sincere than the mutual regard which young girls at school entertain for each other. Yet, alas! a few days' separation is sufficient to "dissolve the gay frost-work of bliss," and they have become perfectly indifferent to each other.

It is these changes—these shifting uncertain loves and friendships which once seemed so solid and enduring—that bring a chill upon the denizen of earth, and that make one so often exclaim: "This world is not our home!"

Thus we are made to feel like sojourners in a far country, strangers in a strange land; and even if his own town, where he was born and bred, man feels like a cat in a strange garret.

But nowhere among no class are these changes so rapid and unaccountable as among those sweet flowers of Paradise who cluster together in the school-room.

Pun. Doce.—A Dutchman a few days ago picked up a bound volume of documents, on the back of which was stamped 'Pub. Does.' "Tuyfel," said he, "vot kinder pooks vill they print next? As I lif, here is one on pup dogs."

Love in a Printing Office.

I once heard an old Jour remark that a printing office was no place for love-making, and I have since experienced the truth of the expression; being now perfectly convinced that the flowers of love can never bloom in the midst of type, cases, and printing ink.

It was my fortune once to sojourn for a few days in the village of——. Directly opposite the office was a pretty, white cottage, with a rosebush clambering around the casement, and I was not long in making the discovery that the aforesaid cottage with the rose shaded window contained a fair inmate—a flower whose beauty outshone the roses that clustered around the window. She was the belle of the village: Her name was Mary—sweet, poetic Mary. I have a passion for the name of Mary.

It was a beautiful summer morning, and I had raised the window to admit the breeze from the flower decked fields, it was not long before I perceived the cottage window was also hoisted, and that sweet little Mary was sitting busily engaged with her needle. I worked but little that morning. My eyes constanly wandered toward the cottage where sweet little Mary sat, and all sorts of strange fantastic notions whirled through my brains, and I began to think I felt a light touch of what the poet calls love, sliding in at one corner of my heart.

A few days passed away, and chance made me acquainted with Mary. Oh! she was a sweet creature, she had a form that would have shamed the famous Venus de Medici—cheek that outflushed the richest peach, and a lip that would have tempted a bee from its hive on a frosty morning. I thought as I gazed on her in mute admiration, that I never looked on one so exquisitly beautiful. She seemed the embodiment of every thing lovely and bewitching. Well time passed on, and one day Mary expressed a desire to visit the printing office. Good, thought I, 'what a chance! I'll have a kiss there yes, there, in the very midst of implements of mine art—why shouldn't I?" Love in a printing office! Oh! there was something original in that and I resolved to try it all hazards.

Well, Mary came to the office, and I explained to her the use of various implements of the black art—the press, the roller, the sticks, the ink, the stands and the boxes of the A B C's. I took an opportunity to snatch her pretty little white hand; she drew it back, knocking a stickful of matter it to 'pi.'

'I must have a kiss for that, my pretty one, said I, and at her I went. I managed to get my arm around her waist and in struggling to free herself she upset a galley of editorial, and a long article on the Oregon Question.

Nothing daunted, I made at her again. This time I was more successful, for I obtained a kiss. By Saint Paul, it was a sweet one, and that little witch bore it like a martyr, she never screamed once. But as I raised my lips from hers, she lifted her little hand and gave me a box on the ears that made me see more stars than was ever viewed by Herschel thro' his telescope. Somewhat nettled, and my cheek smarting with pain I again seized her waist and said:

'Well if you don't like it just take back the kiss.'

She made a desperate struggle, and as she jerked herself from my arms her foot struck the lye pot, and over it went. Another galley of editorial was sprinkled over the floor, her foot slipped and she fell, and in her effort to sustain herself her hand—the same little hand that came in contact with my ears—oh! horrible—was stuck up to the elbow in ink. Shade of Franklin! She slowly drew it from the keg, dripping with ink, and asked what use I made of that tar. I began to be seriously alarmed, and apologized in the best manner I could, and to my surprise she seemed more pleased than angry; but there was a lurking devil in her eye that told me there was mischief afloat. As I stood surveying the black covering of her hand scarcely able to suppress a laugh at the strange metamorphose, she quickly raised it on high and brought it down kerslap upon my cheek. Before I could recover from surprise the same little hand had again descended, and left its inky imprint on my other cheek.

'Why, Mary,' I exclaimed, what are you about?'

'I think you told me you rolled ink on the face of the forms,' she replied with a loud laugh, and again the hand lit upon me taking me a broad slap upon the middle of my countenance, most bedaubing peal of laughter, she skipped through the door. She turned back when beyond my reach and her roguish face peering thro' the door way shouted:

'I say, Charley, what kind of a roller does my hand make?'

'Oh,' said I, 'you take too much ink.'

'Ha! ha!' she laughed, 'well good bye, Charley, that's my impression.'

I went to the glass and surveyed myself for a moment, and I verily believe that I could have passed for a Guinea nigger, without the slightest difficulty.—'And so,' said I to myself. 'This is love in a printing office. The devil fly away with such love.'

The next morning, when the editor come to the office, I rather calculate he found things a little topsy turvy. However, that made no difference to me, for I had mizzled before daylight. I bore the marks of that scene many a day, and now whenever I see a lady entering a printing office, I think of little Mary, and keep my eye on the ink keg.

All About a Weathercock.

A weathercock that had, for all I know not how long, swung backwards and forwards on a tall pole near an old country house, became at last strangely discontent with its lot. How it came about it is impossible for me to say; but so it was, that, to itself it expressed a distinct opinion that it was created for something better than to twist and turn every day, and all day long, just to let country folks know which way the wind blew.

"What a life," said our weathercock, "do I lead! creak—creak—creak, all day and all night too—never enjoying a moment's repose, save at the pleasure of these good-for-nothing breezes, that are nearly always blowing about me, and that make a point of taking both their rest and exercise at such times are least agreeable to me I do believe they change about to all points of the compass for no other reason than to tease and thwart me. In the summer, when I was languid, and suffering because I could get no change of air (which the odious way in which I am fixed up here renders impossible,) the slightest puff, even of an east wind would have been real comfort to me; but it was not to be had. Now this blessed New Year's Day, for a whole week I have been kept in such a constant state of agitation, and spun round so often that I declare I am quite giddy. There are Hobnail and Cabbagestalk coming every day to look at me, without apparently a single thought about the unpleasantness of my position. How would they like it I wonder? Only give them a week of it and I'll engage they would be more thankful to get back again to their plough and spade than ever they were to throw them down after a hard day's work. To think of my abilities being wasted up here!

Why, if I were only loose, I am sure I could fly as well as a bird. How I would astonish the people! I should fly right over the Hall, and then to the church steeple, like the rocks—and look much handsomer than they, too, for their black jackets can't be compaired to my gilded sides. They look well enough even here, when the sun shines upon them; but fluttering through the air, oh! that would be beautiful. Flying, I am sure, is the easiest thing in the world. And, then travelling does so improve the mind and manners! I am a complete rustic, nay a clown, with having spent all my life in this out-of-the-way place."

And with that, the weathercock gave itself a good twitch. But that had only the effect of making it spin round, and it was as far off flying as ever. Then it tried turning obstinate, and for three days contrived not to move an inch, though there was so brisk a gale blowing that, being washing-day, more garments than I can mention were blown off the clothes-line, and carried away to Jericho, I suppose, for they never came back again.

But Hobnail got a tall ladder, and set it up against the tall pole; and climbing very clumsily to the top, he gave the weathercock such an oiling, that it could not, for the life of it, stand still a moment, but went on trembling and shaking like an aspen leaf.

The sensitive actor, who couldn't stay in the same room with a tea urn, on account of its hissing, has just been killed by a burst of applause.

"How odd it is," said Pat, as he trudged along on foot one hot sultry day, "that a man never meets a team going the same way he is."

The Maiden's Tower.

The tower at Scutari, called Leander's Tower, and by some the Maiden's Tower, is a picturesque object. It has a legend attached to it which is perfectly Oriental.

One of the Sultans had a lovely little daughter, of whom he was so fond that he anxiously desired to know what fate had in store for him as regarded her; the nativity was cast, and the reply was, that if she survived her sixteenth birthday, her life would be long and happy, but she must beware of a serpent. On hearing this, the Sultan caused a tower to be constructed, in which was centred every accommodation and delight that he could procure his child, but she was never to leave it till the prescribed time should be past. The eventful moment arrived, the princess was dressed and awaiting the arrival of her father, who, with a glittering train, was to come and release his child from the prison in which paternal love had immured her; she was lovely, gay, and happy! Soon the beautiful gardens and groves, on which her eye rested, would be trodden by her feet; she would be at home beneath the roof where she was born. A pretty small garden had been contrived for her, latticed and secure, with a ledge outside, on which she often found fruit and flowers as offerings from people who felt interested in her fate.

She was looking out for the Sultan, when she perceived a small basket, covered over with fresh leaves, and standing on the ledge; with girlish pleasure she ran to fetch it, and then sat down in her luxurious chamber to examine its contents.

Soon the Sultan came,—he rushed up, surprised at not being met by the princess.—and he found her evidently arrayed for the occasion, but seemingly asleep.

"My child!" No answer; an asp, which dropped down revealed that here was the sleep of death: hidden among the flowers and fruits, the serpent had bit ten her,—and thence was this edifice called "The Maiden's Tower."

A Tough Story.

There is a place in Maine so rocky, that when the Downeasters plant corn, they look for crevices in the rock to shoot the grains in with a musket; they can't raise ducks there no how, for the stones are so thick that the ducks can't get their bills between them to pick up the grasshoppers, and the only way that the sheep get at the sprigs of grass is by grinding their noses on a grindstone.

But that ain't a circumstance to a place on the Eastern shore. There the land is so poor that it takes two kildeas to say "kildes," and on a clear day you can see the grasshoppers climb up a mullen stalk, and look with tears in their eyes over a fifty acre field; and bumble-bees have to go down on their knees to get the grass; all the mosquitoes died of starvation, and the turkey buzzards had to emigrate.

But there is a county in Virginia which can beat that—there the soil is so sterile that when the wind is at the northwest, they have to tie the children to keep them from being blown away; there it takes six frogs to see a man, and when the dogs bark they have to lean against the fence; the horses are so thin that it takes twelve to make a shadow, and when they kill beef they have to hold him up to knock him down.

But, Oh! there is a region in Jersey, saith Mose Draper, where they held a two weeks jubilee in the churches because it was announced that afresh blade of grass had sprouted in the county. There the natives had once murdered a traveler for the sake of half a gingerbread cake, which he was rumored to have in his pocket, and there too they turned a man out of meeting because after a visit to Philadelphia, he reported that while in the city he had at one time as much as he could eat. Such is life.

PARTED HIS HAIR IN THE MIDDLE.—A young man, living in Springfield, Mass., who is the least bit feminine in his appearance, parting his hair in the middle &c., went to Boston, and while in that city, was taken with a severe fit of cholic. Stopping at a hotel he put himself to bed, and sent for a physician. The doctor came, felt of his patient's pulse, examined his stomach, and enquired solemnly if his habits were "regular," to which the young man answered in the affirmative. The doctor then cautiously and politely informed his patient that his symptoms manifested some probabilities of an increase of the census in a short time. The surprise of the cholic stricken young man at this singular announcement was only equalled by that of the doctor when he discovered the true sex of his patient.

Woman.

Woman, woman! truly thou art a miracle! Place her among flowers, foster her as a tender plant, and she is a thing of fancy, waywardness, and sometimes folly—annoyed by a dew-drop, fretted by the touch of a butterfly's wing, and ready to faint at the rustle of a beetle; the zephyrs are to rough, the showers too heavy, and she is overpowered by the perfume of a rosebud. But let real calamity come—rouse her affections—enkindle the fires of her tender heart—and mark her then; how her heart strengthens itself—how strong is her purpose.—Place her in the heat of battle—give her a child, a bird, anything she loves or pities, to protect—and see her, as in a relative instance, raising her white arm as a shield, as her own blood crimsons her upturned forehead, praying for life to protect the helpless. Transplant her to the dark places of the earth—awaken her energies to action, and her breath becomes a healing—her presence a blessing. She disputes inch by inch the stride of the stalking pestilence, when man, the strong and brave, shrinks away pale and affrighted. Misfortune daunts her not; she wears away a life of silent endurance, and does forward with less timidity than to her bridal. In prosperity, she is a bud full of imprisoned odors, waiting but for the winds of adversity to scatter them abroad. In short, woman is a miracle, a mystery, the centre from which radiates the great charm of existence.

The Printers Ten Commandments.

1. Thou shalt love the Printer (especially the young ladies) for he loveth you muchly.

2. Thou shalt subscribe for his paper—for he seeketh much to obtain the news of which you remain ignorant.

3. Thou shalt pay him for his paper—he laboreth hard to give you the news in due season.

4. If a business man, thou shalt advertise, that thus thy profits may enable thee not only to pay for thy paper, but, "put money in thy purse."

5. Thou shalt not visit him regardless of his office rules—in deranging the paper.

6. Thou shalt not touch anything that would give the printer trouble; that he may not hold thee guilty.

7. Thou shalt not read the manuscript in the hands of the compositor—for he will not hold thee blameless.

8. Thou shalt not see the news before it is printed—for he will give it to you in due time.

9. Thou shalt ask him few questions of things in the office—from it thou shalt tell nothing.

10. Thou shalt not at any time send abusive and threatening letters, to the editor, nor cowhide him more than five times a year—nor bring the printer old rotten wood—nor bring produce that defies the devil to eat.

FINED FOR A KISS.—On learning through the Courier des Etats Unis that one William Snyder was fined ten dollars in the United States for having obtained a kiss from Miss Phœbe L——, without her consent, the charming Blanche D., of Paris, exclaimed: "Ungrateful country! You shall not have my bones. Like Lafayette, I will emigrate in a noble cause to the land of Franklin." "And what would you do there?" inquired one of her intimate friends. "What? why, I should let the men kiss me—without my consent!"

If people named Nathaniel would keep out of temptation, they will avoid Ohio, as they cannot go into that State without hearing in the mouth of every third man they meet the invitation to do wrong, in the words, "Sin-sin-natty!"

A little boy, a few days since, while coming down stairs, was cautioned by his mother not to lose his balance.—His question which followed was a puzzler: "Mother, if I should lose my balance, where would it go to?"

Dear old Mrs Craker says that if woman had not caused man to commit his first sin in eating, no doubt he would very soon have sinned of his own accord in drinking.

"The man who was lately "struck with a new thought," has concluded to overlook the act, it being the first time, and there is little danger of a repetition of the offence.

We are never satisfied that a lady understands a kiss, unless we have it from her own lips.

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 24, 1865

A True Story of the Richmond Election.

We learn from a trustworthy source, that the action of Gen. Turner, in annulling the recent election at Richmond, was based chiefly, if not entirely upon the fact that the judges of the election, while they admitted the votes of Virginians who had served in the rebel armies, rejected those of Virginians who had served in the Union armies. One of the votes thus reported was that of a citizen, a resident and merchant of Richmond for at least five years before the war, a strong Unionist, the Secretary of the last open Union meeting held in the city before the war began. This gentleman, when troops were called for, left his home in Richmond—where they were not enlisting men for the Union armies at the time—and entered the three months' service. When his term there expired, he re-enlisted and served during the war. He fought in the first battle of Bull Run, at Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Gaine's Mill, Glendale, Savage Station, Malvern, second Bull Run, Chantilly, South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Madison Court House, Jack's Shop, Raccoon Ford, at the siege of Wagner, Olustee, Drury's Bluff and was at last wounded at Cold Harbor. That is to day, he was in 21 battles, and when he returned to Richmond his vote was rejected as a "non-resident." Now this is a little too strong. The men who have served in the Southern armies are permitted to vote—but they must not expect to keep their loyal neighbors from the polls. There is a limit to human patience, and a Southern loyalist who returns after serving in the army during the war, is not to be denied his vote on any quibble of non residence. We hear that this case was presented to the President, with the proper affidavits and testimony to prove all its parts, and that he immediately ordered that an election conducted on such principles should be annulled. He did right; and his action in this case should be a warning to others in the South who may be inclined in a like manner to set a penalty upon loyalty. A Southern Union man is at least as good as a rebel; in the general opinion of the country he is a good deal better, if he has served in the army.—Evening Post.

ONE WAY TO TAKE THE OATH.—A correspondent, writing from Richmond relates an incident as follows: A modest young country girl, on applying for rations to one of our relief agents a few days ago, was asked if she had ever taken the oath. "No indeed, sir!" was her terrified reply; "I never swore in all my life." "But you must take the oath, my good girl," said the agent, "or I cannot give you the rations." "No, indeed, I can't sir," said the girl; mother always taught me never to swear." The agent mildly persisted, and the maiden as pertinaciously refused all attempts at persuasion, until, overcome at last by the dreadful conflict between the necessity and the high sense of moral duty, she stammered out, with downcast lids, "Well sir, if you will make me do such a horrid, nicked thing, d—n the Yankees.

CHICKENS BY THE WHOLESALE.—The Cleveland Herald' states that a man in that city has fitted up an apartment on his premises in which to hatch chickens through artificial heat. The first experiment consists in arraging fifty eggs upon shelves in the room covering them with cotton, and raising the temperature of the room, with a gas heater, to one hundred and five degrees. This was done three weeks ago, and yesterday the chickens commenced to break the shell and to peep in a conventional manner common to all well-regulated chickens. The experimenter hit upon one hundred and five degrees as the proper temperature, by placing a thermometer under a setting hen, which raised the mecury to that point. He is much pleased with his success, and thinks of continuing operations on a larger scale.

DARING BURGLARY AT MONROE.—In the Monroe Commercial we find the following particulars of a daring burglary committed in that town on Friday night last:

The grocery store of Wm. H. Boyd, on Front street, was entered from the front, one of the blinds being taken off and a window broken, so as to admit the person of the burglar. The safe in the office in the rear of the store was broken open, and some $150 to $200 in currency, together with several thousand of U. S. bonds, were taken. The exact amount of bonds is not known, though they were upward of $2,000 belonging to S. B. Crego $2,000 belonging to Mrs. E. J. Boyd, a few hundred dollars belonging to W. H. Boyd and perhaps a couple of thousand more belonging to other parties. The loss falls particularly heavy upon Mr. Crego, for he had recently sold his farm, and these bonds constituted nearly his all.

Gen Scott is on a visit to New York city. He still reads without glasses, and is in excellent health.

Correspondence.

In the HERALD of last week, an article entitled "Advice to Wives," seems to be an argument for the husbands only—either overlooking or disregarding the right of the wife to charitable forbearance when her patience is overtaxed and her tongue so unruly that she utters bitter and sarcastic words.

The writer says—"a wife must learn how to for a her husband's happiness"—"must not run counter to his prejudices," "nor irritate him"—"must expect to hear harsh and violent language if he gets angry, but must not retaliate for, "men selves said, but seldom what is utterered by their wives."

Now this is all well enough, but ought not men to be equally careful to avoid running counter to the prejudices of their wives? Ought they not to be forbearing when she is angry? Is it not their duty to seek her comfort and pleasure? Is woman so much an angel—so devoid of faults and temper, that she can stand quietly by while her husband upbraids her, and answer him with sweet and honied words, or not at all, and then forget his bitter words? He "doubts much if a real quarrel, even made up, does not loosen the bonds between man and wife, and sometimes, unless the affection of both be very sincere, lasting." This is very evident, but does he mean to say that the violent and often unreasonable passion of the husband will not loosen the bond, if the wife quietly submit to the indignity without retaliation? Will not such a scene shock the trust and esteem of any sensitive, spirited woman? even though she may so far restrain her propensity to defend herself, as to, hold her tongue" and be so meek that he shall feel himself unworthy to receive her forgiving caress. She will indeed win a stronger hold upon his affection—but has he not lost somewhat of her confidence and esteem? A woman who can guard her words and be mild during a storm, if she be a woman of mind, is the most lovely of her sex, and to be highly extoled for her excellence: but when men are taught to believe that woman must bow to their will at all times in meek submission, and must even listen to the violent language of an angry man, in silence and love him as well after as before—she is wronged.

Woman is renowned for her constancy in love, through trial and tribulation, scorn and abuse, but is it right to require it of her? Has she nothing to weary her patience; nothing to annoy her. Does man bear all the burden and she only the sunshine and flowers? If the world could look into the hearts of some wives, and read the struggles there to do right, and injured rights, men would be warned to "guard her feelings against irritation" more than he is. There would be fewer sneering paragraphs about "scolding wives" and "silly women." It were well for wives to heed the warning and be forbearing—but let the husbands also beware, that they take not advantage of their wives, but guard and cherish them. Seek to gratify their wishes and, thereby insure the gratification of their own.—When man and woman abide by the the Golden Rule and do as they would be done by—there will be peace and harmony and no need of advising wives to be submissive and husbands charitable in their judgment. C.

JUVENILE PLUCK.—We saw at Randall's Island a little fellow ageo fifteen, who a short time since swam from his keeper. He was followed to New York, where he was found in the Albany boat. Seeing the keeper, he jumped into the water and swam to the Troy boat. He was there caught and given in charge of a policeman. From him he escaped, and swam back to the Albany boat, which he reached as she was leaving the pier. He held on by a stanchion under the guards in front of the paddle, and there he remained twelve hours wet to the skin.—While there his head was hit by the paddle and split open. Undaunted, he held on till the boat reached Albany. The telegraph had notified officials there, and in a boat he saw men waiting for him.—He took to the water and baffled pursuit for two hours. He was caught, taken back to Randall's Island, and now does a man's work in the shoe shop. He's a smart boy.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Fortress Monroe dispatch says:—That on Sunday evening, Maj. Gen Miles received information that the steamer stolen, or said to have been stolen from New York, about four weeks since, was seen yesterday, passing into Watchapreaque Inlet. The General consequently dispatched a detachment of about 30, men, in charge of Lieut. Bowman, of the 3d Pennsylvania Artillery, to go in search of the steamer.

Luther C. Gallagher, who was arrested in New York, charged with forgingorders for the commutation of soldiers' rations who had been confined in rebel prisons, to the amount of $8,000, was brought before United States Commissioner Hollett, at Boston, yesterday, and waiving examination, was held in $15,000 bail for trial.

The News.

The counsel of Jeff. Davis have applied to the proper authorities to know when, where and before what tribunal he would be tried, but have received no answer. It is believed that neither point has yet been determined upon.

The Mississippi Convention have adopted a proposed amendment to the Constitution of that State, forever prohibiting involuntary servitude except for the punishment of crime.

In the trial of Wirz yesterday, his counsel moved to quash the charges and specifications against him arguing that that he was amenauble before civil and not military courts for the alleged offences. The arguments were overruled, and Wirz plead not guilty. The court then adjourned without agreeing upon any specified time to re-assemble.

A serious riot occurred at a German Teamers' Picnic in Nashville, on Sunday last, which was quelled by the military authorities after a number were seriously wounded. Some of the ringleaders were arrested.

Advices from Fort Laramie state that about the 1st inst., Gen. Connor started upon an expedition against the Indians located upon Powder and White Rivers, a section of the country which has hitherto never been explored. The territory is believed to surpass in richness of gold deposits any yet discovered—and favorable results are anticipated from the expedition.

Another forgery is announced this morning at New York, by a man named George Gladwin, of a draft of $3,900.—He also forged a name by which he obtained possession of $200,000 in railroad bonds. He was arrested at New Haven, and the bonds recovered.

At 7 o'clock Monday evening a fire broke out in the large workshop attached to the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island, N. Y., which resulted in its complete destruction. It is reported that a number of prisoners escaped.

The night express train from Iowa, on the Dixon and Fulton branch of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, ran into a culvert on Monday night which had been washed away by the storm. The engineer, fireman, express messenger and one passenger were killed, and three passengers injured.

Gov. Morton, of Ind., arrived in New York yesterday.

The reign of Horror.

One of the teachers for colored schools sent from Chicago, for whose veracity the Secretary of the North-western Freedmen's Aid Commission vouches, has written a letter dated at Mobile from which the Tribune publishes the following account of the reign of horror in Alabama:

"A meeting was held here last night, before which, statements were made as to the treatment of colored, by white people in the interior of the State, which would make you sick of life. 133 dead bodies were counted in the woods; five bodies were seen floating in the river. Two white men were seen to pull a negro down across a log and cut his head off with an ax. Women and children were killed, and then poked up and thrown into the river. A woman was killed by a white man, and burial refused by him to her relatives. For a black man to be seen with greenbacks in his possession, is death. Colored people are hiding in the woods, living on berries, fruit, etc, to escape the fury of their former masters. These statements were made by intelligent candid colored men, before an audience of several hundred last night. In Mobile through the connivance of somebody, churches and negro houses are burned, women set to work cleaning the streets, men and women arrested in bed and taken to the guard house, fined or sent to the work house, etc. Last night there was a heavy fire, in which three or four squares mostly of negro quarters were burned. Men were heard to say that before they were done they would burn every negro quarter and school house in Mobile. These things might be remedied."

Horsewhipped.

A case of horsewhipping occurred at Bakers Corners, last Friday, in which Nathan M. Strong, a returned soldier from the 18th regiment, somewhat severely applied a horsewhip to the person of Isaac C. Rumsey. The offender was arrested and brought before Justice Robinson this morning and plead guilty, but pleaded in extenuation that Rumsey had about two years ago and while Strong was absent in the army, insulted his (Strong's) sister, since deceased, a fact pretty apparent on the examination, when it appeared that Rumsey, "rather than have any disturbance" had paid $25 to the girl, who had threatened legal proceedings for the insult, and had moreover engaged not to go upon the premises of the girl's mother or molest her in any way. The Justice saw fit to find Strong five dollars and the cost of suit for the assault, and he was, under another complaint, bound over to keep the peace for one year. Col. Horner appeared for the defendant, Strong, and bore evidence to his good conduct in the army.—Adrian Watchtower.

Major General Curier Grover was married at Northampton, Mass., last week, to Miss Susie Willard, daughter of Dr. Austin Flint, of New York.

News Items.

Yesterday morning a counterfeit $50 note of the United States was presented at the mint in Philadelphia; it is apparently and doubtless is from a new plate and is pronounced a dangerous fac simile of the genuine fifties.

A fire commenced yesterday noon in a liquor store, 204 South street, New York, and communicated to buildings 202 and 206, thence to the Government bonded warehouse 208. At 8 P. M., the fire was burning with prospects of a heavy loss. A large force of police was present to protect property and prevent riots among the firemen.

Jasper Harding, Collector of Internal of Pennsylvania, formerly publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, died yesterday at the residence of his son, W. W. Harding, at Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, aged 65. He was one of the oldest newspaper men in the country.

Brig. Gen. Ullman was married on Saturday last to the daughter of the late Bishop Berrian, of Trinity Church.

William Grimes, better known as "Old Grimes," a quaint darkey, once a slave known to all citizens of New Haven, Conn., and to thousands of Yale College graduates, died at New Haven on Sunday, at an advanced age, probably 90 years.

The New York Commercial states that an employee of an extensive express company has turned up a defaulter to a large amount, and has left for parts unknown.

Advices from Cape Haytien to July 25th state that the rebels still held the place, sustaining a daily cannonading from the National troops, who had failed to inflict much damage, only three persons having been killed and a few houses damaged.

Many robberies and murders are still committed near Memphis. Many are losing large sums of money.

While a large stone was being raised over the south wing of the Capitol, at Washington, it fell a distance of 80 feet, instantly killing one man.

There is an editor in Norfolk, Va., who discourses luminously "the Decade of Nations," in the belief that the word means decay.

The Laclede Racing Association, of St. Louis, have offered a purse of $10,000 to be run for in September, provided the celebrated racers Asteroid and Kentucky are entered.

The rise and fall of the tide on the Atlantic side of the Isthmus of Panama is only about 14 inches, while on the pacific side it is 22 feet.

An enthusiastic young surgeon says the war is worth all it has cost, in the improvement it has brought to the service of amputation.

Timothy O'Sullivan, a returned soldier at Plymouth, Ind., got drunk and while showing Jeremiah Horan how they fire salutes in the army, shot Jerry through the head

A young man at the Winter Garden in New York, is pronounced the most graceful zampilloerostationer that New York has ever had. He must be graceful if he can get through that work without contortions.

A man named Stoddard, in Cass county Iowa, was carelessly handling a gun the other day, when it was discharged, fatally wounding a young lady named Decker. Stoddard and the unfortunate victim were to be married in a few days.

The celebrated Merino buck "Gold Drop," the property of Mr. Hammond, of Middlebury, Vt., died recently and was buried with appropriate honors. Mr Hammond has refused $10,000 for him, and it is said the buck was valued at $25,000.

The total value of carpet manufactures in the New England States, as shown by the census returns for 1860, was $3,352,988. In New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, they amounted to $4,480,407. They all show a large increase since 1850.

A German servant fell out of a third story window at Cleveland, Ohio, the other day, and would have been killed had not a gentleman caught her in his arms. She asked him if he "wasn't ashamed of himself," and to be off "with his impertinence."

Peter Fortier, while riding in a street railway car in Black Rock, N. Y., on Monday last, had some altercation with the conductor, and in attempting to draw a pistol from his pocket, shot himself in such a manner that he died the next day.

Mrs. Adelia E. Sayers, of New Haven, Conn., while on a visit to her friends in New York, was drugged and abducted by a bounty jumper named Frederick Sull about ten days ago, and has not been heard from since. She is 23 and pretty. New York detectives have the case in hand.

The liquor dealers of Iowa have been holding a State Convention at Des Moines, and passed resolutions that they would support no man for office who will not pledge himself in writing in favor of the repeal of the present prohibitory law, and the enactment of a judicious license law.

The number of battles fought during the late war is 252. Of these the soil of Virginia drank the blood of 89, Tennessee witnessed 37, Missouri 25, Georgia 12, South Carolina 10, North Carolina 11, Alabama 7, Florida 5 Kentucky 14, the Indian Territory and New Mexico 1 each. Once the wave of war rolled into a Northern State and broke in the great billow of Gettysburg. Of the battles enumerated, 16 were naval achievements.

There is a young man in the lunatic asylum at Flatbush, N. Y, who was made insane by the July riots in New York city in 1863, when he was compelled by the mob to join their ranks. Although the boy's mental powers appear to be entirely destroyed, his physical development since his confinement in the asylum is really astonishing. From a slight and delicate youth, he has become a giant, at least in stature, and now stands nearly seven feet high.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE.—The London Times, speaking of the Atlantic cable, says no commercial misadventure of modern times has ever excited more widespread interest and deep regret than this almost national disaster. It believes the directors are about to take steps to immediately replace the cable that has been lost. The Times further remarks that it would be strange if, after all the land should beat the sea and Russians and Americans should complete the telegraphic wire from London to New York, by way of Siberia and Behring's Straits, before the success of this cable. There can be no question as to the practibility of a land line, but England inclines to Atlantic route. Both are only a question of time and money. In the too probable event of the Great Eastern returning with a tale of disaster, we might immediately set about improving our cable. It appears to be admitted that it is capable of improvement.

JEFF. DAVIS.—Mr. R. H. Gillett, in a note to the Albany Argus says: Mr. Davis has no more information concerning his trial than others have. In a letter from Mr. Davis, dated the 15th inst., to Mr. Gillett, he says: "I am still ignorant of the charges against me, the source of them, and the tribunal before which I am to answer. Your letter gave me the first notice of the Washington Indictment." Mr. Davis requests Mr. Gillett to have a conference with Mr. Charles O'Connor, his only other counsel, so that they may be prepared for the trial whenever it may be brought on, with as little delay as the nature and importance of the case will permit. A direct application to the proper department, asking to be informed, if not improper, when, where and before what tribunal Mr. Davis is to be tried remains unanswered, because, as is supposed neither has been actually determined upon by the President.

A WORD TO THE LADIES.—The employments of ladies are for the most part sedentary. They sit too much and walk too little. They do not as a general thing, take enough of Natures medicine,—air. To keep the secretive organs in a regular and healthful state, and to prevent the sensitiveness of the nerves, which arises from close confinement, we recommend to them air, exercise and Red Jacket Bitters. This prescription will be a sure thing to bring a blush to the palest cheek; and, if the former can only be enjoed to a limited extent, the latter is more than ever necessary.

LIFE, SPEECHES AND PUBLIC SERVICES OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, by J. H. Barrett, com. of Pensions. Mr. S. L. Beal is now canvassing for the above entitled work, which is a complete history of his early life, political speeches in and out of Congress, also a general view of his policy as President of the United States and his messages, Proclamations, letters &c., and a concise history of the war. It embodies the events of the first 3 years of his administration, and will contain the history of the last year of his administration and the particulars of his tragic and lamented demise. Mr. Beal will call upon the citizens of Tecumseh, Franklin, Combridge, Woodstock, and Macon, and give them a chance to subscribe for this valuable work. It is sold wholly by subscription, so do not fail to become a subscriber.

'A thing of Beauty is a Joy forever.'

MARTHA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER.—A perfect success; the best in market. Is not a dye—will not stain the skin—will restore gray and faded hair to a beautiful black, brown auburn color, and cause it to assume its former beauty. It will cure all humors of the scalp, remove dandruff and scurf from the head, keep the hair soft and nice, and give it a silk like appearance. It is the best dressing for the hair in the WORLD. Every woman with gray and faded hair—every man with gray hair and faded whiskers, can NOW be restored to their original beauty and color in one or two month's time by using "MARTHA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER." It will prevent the hair from falling off, promote a healthy growth, will cause it to grow on bald heads when there is life and vitality at the roots.—Where these are gone there is no hope of success. WARRANTED, or money refunded. Sold everywhere.

G. B. WILSON, Agent, Michigan

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Wednesday the 23d day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Anna Dibble, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of John Chever administrator of said estate praying that his final account with said estate may be allowed and that distribution of said estate may be made to those entitled to the same and that he may be discharged.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 16th day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted:

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate
(A true copy) n767w4

The Bridal Chamber, an Essay of Warning and instruction for Young Men—published by the Howard Association, and sent free of charge in sealed envelopes. Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Howard Association, Philadelphia, Pa. 745ly

Ackley has the largest stock of Hosiery, Gloves &c. ever brought to town.

WARD & TRICKHAM'S

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

Old and young should use STERLING'S AMBROSIA FOR THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y, SOLE PROPRIETORS, NEW YORK.

Advantages of this Plow.

It will last from three to six times longer than any other Steel Plow made anywhere by anybody. This has often been proved by actual use in "gritty" soils, occasionally to be found on the margins of streams in the West, in which sheet-steel Plows have been habitually "cut through" in plowing eighty acres or less, it having already plowed over three hundred acres of the same soil without yet being half worn.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed. If there is a piece of ground anywhere in which it will not scour, we have yet to find it.

It draws lighter than any other Plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, or a Point welded on, as readily as an ordinary Plows, by any blacksmith who understands his trade, as the steel is perfectly malleable, and works "kindly".

Any section can be replaced by a duplicate, to be had of any Agent, as the Share, Landside and Mouldboar is are cast in moulds

It is well stocked with New England second-growth timber, and the standard is wrought iron, with "slots" in the cap so as to give or take land at pleasure

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, works perfectly in either stubble or turf, leaves a clean furrow, and turns under stubble and foul trash completely

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the world, just as sure as there is economy in paying six dollars cash, rather than five dollars five or six times over;—in not losing time and your temper because your Plow won't "scour;"—and in doing a quarter or a fifth more work, with the same power. The quality and quantity of work it will endure to perform must be considered, as well as the cost price, in determining whether or not the Plow is cheap. Plows are used for profit, and the time and of which the work costs and cents can be got in proportion to the cost, is the cheapest. And we are confident a man gets more than a hundred dollars' worth of "Plow" every time he gets one of these.

These remarks are made after a familiarity with the merits of most of the good Plows in use in the West, many of which have justly earned a good reputation

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for stubble and foul ground. Heretofore we have had only the "C" pattern designed for both, turf and stubble. The "B" and "C" patterns together will enable us, to meet the views of all as to shape, and give them either "bold" or "lean" plows as they prefer.

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by
Tindall & Slayton, Tecumseh.

F. R. Stebbins, Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE, WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.
Adrian, Mich. n742tf

Village Lots For Sale!

I propose to open the streets and have my ten acre lot laid out in lots to suit purchasers. It is a beautiful location south of west school house. Terms easy. Cash or on time. Also 7 acres with orchard and all kinds of fruit, good house barns, sheds &c. Also other Houses and Lots, situated in the beautiful village of Tecumseh. June, 1865.

WM. McCOWEN.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit, &c. at

A. JAMES

18 Pronunclements

GLOBE MILL

This well known and popular Mill

Now in Good Running Order

and prepared to do Grinding for the farmers in a satisfactory manner. We will endeavor to make a good yield and have the

Old Customers

will be pleased to remain, and new customers to try and see

how well we can do for them.

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand

SUPPLY OF FLOUR

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd best Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Unbolted
Fine Midlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. W. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle
Corn and Oats ground for horses

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around. Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grain.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Salt.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime, RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR, COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL

Corn In the Ear and Shelled

A good assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Siding, Joists, Oak Plank, Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No 1 pine to the best No, 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats, Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	2 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 50	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.00	12.00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10.00	14.00
1 Column	3.00	6.00	8.00	12.00	18.00
1 Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	15.00	30.00
Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly.

☞ Job Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable

☞ We would say to those who are indebted to us that we must have our pay immediately or the accounts will be left with an officer for collection. A word to the wise is sufficient.

☞ Extra copies of the Herald can be procured at Ketcham's News Depot.

☞ J. D. Robbins has a large assortment of Wall Paper, School Books and Stationery which he is selling remarkably cheap.

☞ Remember the Teachers Institute. It commences next Tuesday at 1 o'clock P. M. in the Union School Building.

☞ Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters, Roback's Bitters, Bovee Dodd's Wine Bitters, Newton's Jaundice Bitters, and all other Bitters for sale cheap at the Drug store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

☞ "Do you enjoy going to church now?" asked a lady of Mrs. Partington. "Law me, I do," said Mrs. P. "Nothing does me so much good, as to get up Sunday morning, and go to church, and hear a populous preacher dispense with the gospel."

JUST OUT—General Custer's Grand March, at Holton & Field's. For your music and musical merchandise generally, call on them.

Mr. Holton has just returned from New York, where he has been purchasing a large stock of goods of every discription, for this market.

BAD BLOOD.—The Red Jacket Stomach Bitters are the best blood purifier in existence. They cleanse the stomach, produce appetite, and consequently remove dyspepsia, mental depression, fevers &c. &c. They are for sale by all druggists and general dealers.

☞ The Catholics of Tecumseh and the surrounding towns had a very pleasant pic nic at Clinton on Wednesday.—The attendance was large and they had an excellent time.

Make Your Land Titles Secure.

We earnestly direct the attention of all persons interested in land titles to the advertisement under the head "To the People of Lenawee county," from the office of the register of deeds and mortgages. It is a subject of vital interest, and it may avoid a vast amount of litigation if attended to without delay. A person in possession of real estate may have his deed on record, but if his predecessors have not recorded their deeds, he is not absolutely secure, and can only become so by having the entire chain of titles on record.

Affray.

A very singular affray took place on Saturday evening between Dave Cupples and one Hasty in James' Store. It appears that there had long been a grudge between them, owing to a little rivalry in a love affair, and they have had two or three fights previously about the same matter. There were but few in the store at the time and they were quietly talking, when Cupples deliberately walked up and struck Hasty in the face. The two then clinched and fell to the floor. But they had no sooner fallen than they were seperated by the by-standers, and then it appeared that Cupples had been stabbed in three or four places, receiving one very severe wound. Hasty was immediately searched but no knife was found upon him, although there is but little doubt that he inflicted the wounds. The whole thing was done within the space of a minute.

Good for Michigan City.

A friend of ours, who was recently coming from Kalamazoo over the Central Road fell in with four jolly journeymen printers on their way from Indianapolis to Detroit. They had come via Michigan City, and having failed to connect at that point, they had lain over several hours for the next train to Detroit and in the meantime had become slightly mellow. As they were quite sociable our friend soon scraped an acquaintance, and in the course of the conversation which followed, in which Tom—who appeared to be spokesman for the company—gave a full history of their trials and tribulations after leaving Indianapolis, he drily remarked that when they started from the latter city he had purchased the tickets. He asked the ticket agent to give him four tickets for h—l, and the agent without the least embarrassment or hesitation handed out four tickets for Michigan City. He paid for them, took the train and during his short stay at that place he and his companions had become convinced that the aforesaid ticket agent thouroughly understood his business.

Letter from the Rev. A. Coplin.

MR. EDITOR:—Through a sincere desire to benefit the afflicted, I wish to call the attention of the public, through your columns, to the notice of Dr. L. V. Durand who is to visit your place on the 27th of August I understand. Being acquainted with his high merit as a Physician, and indebted to his skill for the restoration of my wife to health, when brought to the confines of the grave by a most agravated and complicated disease. I would most cheerfully and earnestly recommend all who are afflicted to call on him.

Unlike most traveling Physicians he is no medical pretender, but a man of solid attainments and long experience. He was induced to travel by the solicitation of many who had tested his skill in his local practice, and for the accommodation of his patients he established places for periodical visitation in the principal towns of central New York. During many years of practice throughout the extensive field he has increased in popularity and influence and now stands unrivalled among the most learned and skilled of his profession.

He has consented to visit some of the towns in southern Michigan at the urgent request of some who have learned to appreciate his worth. It is hoped that all afflicted will avail themselves of the rare opportunity of calling on him.

A. COPLIN, Pastor of the M. E. Church.

Hilladale, Aug. 12th. 1865.

☞ R. C. Moore, informs us that he is now receiving new goods. Elegant Merrimac Prints, DeLaines, Brown and Bleeched Cottons, Cotton Yarn, Childrens white Cotton Hose in various sizes, old fashioned Cotton Batts—"as is Batts," Catpet Twine, Dress trimmings or anything ele you want. Whenever you go to Moore's—if you do not see what you want, ask for it and you will be pretty sure to find it there. Goods of all kinds are scarce in the market now, but he manages to find scarce goods if they are to be found anywhere. Bear it in mind—and look at his elegant Flexible Skirts, you can wind them around your arm and take them home.

Good Advice.

Kind reader, would you always live
In peace and plenty, joy and health,
Possess an easy conscience here,
Enjoy the bounteous fruits of wealth?
And would you shun the cares and toils
Of this vain world, its bounteous strife?
Then listen to this wise advice,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Have you a pleasant, happy home,
And children full of mirth and glee,
Who always greet you with a kiss,
And climb upon their father's knee;
And is this home made doubly dear
By loving, fond and gentle wife?
O see that they may never want,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Of S. C. Stacy, Agent.

Maj. Gen. Hitchcock has published a letter on the subject of the exchange of prisoners, the cause of the suspension, the inhumanity of the rebel Government, and supports the policy of Secretary Stanton. Gen. H., in this letter says: "As long as the cartel for the exchange of prisoners was respected in the South, it was faithfully observed by our Government, and there was no reason to doubt its faithful execution by the Government until the end of the war, unless properly revoked by competent authority, if the rebel authorities had not distinctly violated its terms under circumstances indeed of great aggravation."

Gen. H. adds: "The day must come when every true American will be proud of the reflection that the Government was strong enough to crush the rebellion without losing the smallest element of its humanity or its dignity."

Gen. Grant will visit Dubuque, Iowa, on Wednesday next, and on Thursday morning himself and family will leave on a trip for St. Paul.

The city of Newark, N. J., pays the Government, this year, about five million dollars in taxes.

☞ Now is the time to subscribe and pay for the Tecumseh HERALD.

DR. L V DURAND,

French Physician, of the Rochester Medical Institute, Rochester, N.Y. Will be at the Exchange Hotel, Tecumseh, Aug. 27th & 28th.

Dr. Durand is one of the most celebrated and renouned Physicians of the State of N. Y., for the curing of Chronic Diseases, such as Consumption, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Diseases of the Heart, Liver, Stomach, Bladder, Kidneys, Bowels, &c, Female Complaints, Dropsy, Piles, Fits, Cancers, Ulcers, Tumors, &c.

DISEASES OF THE EYE and EAR, and all others complaints attended with debility or a vitiated condition of the blood.

Dr. Durand comes to this place to visit several patients who have been doctoring with him in the State of New York. Still he extends an invitation to all who are sick to call and see him.

Those unacquainted with his system of practice or his reputation can obtain a circular at the above Hotel explaining all.

HALF THE ITCHING—NO SCRATCHING—ONLY HALF THE MONEY!

Citron Balsam will cure the Itch or Army Scratches in one or two applications; also, cures all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Ulcers, Old Sores, Gangrene and Rheumatism. It contains no Mercury, and is safe to use at any time. Only 25 cents a bottle.

OLIVER CROOK & CO, Dayton O.
Wholesale Agents,
Sold by Fisher & Baker, Tecumseh, Mich.

If you want to find the best assortment of English, French & Scotch Cassimere in the county go to A. HOOD'S.

To the People of Lenawee County.

OFFICE OF THE REGISTER OF DEEDS,
Adrian, Aug. 10, 1865.

The fear on the part of my predecessors in this office of being accused of selfishness, has no doubt prevented them from recommending what I now do at the same risk.—The necessity of all who hold real estate to have their deeds of farms and cemetery lots, mortgages, assignments and releases of mortgages, placed upon record, does not seem to be as apparant to all, as the necessity of the case requires. In view of these facts the undersigned would state that oftentimes either a waranty or Quit Claim Deed, Mortgage, Assignment, or Release of Mortgage not being Recorded, will cause a vast deal of trouble and expense, and jeopardize the Title to Real Estate about to be conveyed, delaying the sale, and often breaking up the sale of property. In considerk might suggest, I propose to try and remedy this as far as possible, by publishing to the people the danger to themselves and wrong to others. In anticipation of the coming STATE FAIR, and the large number of people who will visit the city of Adrian, September 19th 20th 21st & 22d, suggested itself to me to be a favorable time for all those to collect together all unrecorded papers in their possession from Government down to the present time, and have them placed upon the records where they should have been long ago.

Further, I would state that there are now in this office about Two Hundred Deeds and other papers which have been accumulating for the last 30 years, Unrecorded, in consequence of their not being prepaid.

In making these suggestions, it is with a conciousness that I am doing my duty as a Public Officer; that the titles to your lands are of vastly more importance to you than myself, you will admit. That you may avail yourselves of the above suggestions this office will be kept open in business hours during the coming State Fair.

Wm. A. WHITNEY, Register of Deeds.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Aug. 23, 1865

Bow Charlotte	Crittenden Burt
Cox Charles	Fellows C. M.
Goodrich Thomas	Gillespie Lewis
Harty Mrs Ann	Jefferson W.
Manly W. E.	Morgan James F.
Ward Charles G.	Stump Mrs. Charlotte 2
Thompson Mrs M J.

Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner, and leave space between the stamp and direction for post marking without interfering with the writing.

Letters to strangers or transient visitors in a town or city, whose special address may be unknown, should be marked, in the lower left-hand corner, with the word "Transient."

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

N. B.—A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within 30 days or less, written or printed with the writer's name, postoffice and State across the left-hand end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with at the usual prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer.—Sec. 28, law of 1863.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Chancery Sale.

In pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court, for the County of Lenawee, in Chancery, made on the 5th day of April, 1865, in a cause therein pending wherein Lewis Rowland is complainant and Hannah Rowland and others are defendants.—Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the Room, in the city of Adrian, where the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee is holden, on the 8th day of September, 1865, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, all that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Tecumseh in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan bounded and described as follows: Said premises being situated west of and near the village of Clinton in said County and bounded and described as follows, viz: Commencing at a point in the center of the Chicago road twenty-seven feet west of the west abutments of the public bridge across the mill race of the Atlas mill property thence west along the center of the Chicago road one hundred and twenty feet, thence south one hundred and ninety feet, thence east one hundred and eight feet, to the west side of the west bank of said mill race, thence north along the west side of said mill race bank one hundred and ninety feet to the place of beginning containing about one half an acre of land be the same more or less, reserving always from the operation of this mortgage all the rights and privileges of road and roadways that were reserved by F. S. Show and wife in their deed of said premises to George Unterkercher and Hannah Rowland dated January 22nd, 1859, this mortgage is intended to cover and convey the undivided one-half only of the above described property and appurtenances.—July 27th, 1865.

J. J. HOGABOAM,
Circuit Court Commissioner.

E. B. WOOD, Sol. for Compl't.

DENTISTRY.

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices.

DISSOLUTION:

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent. G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — ☞ Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

Dissolution.

The co-partnership heretofore existing under the name and style of Deuel & Wilbur is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The accounts due said firm can be found with L. Wilbur. A prompt settlemet is requested.

T. DEUEL
L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Aug. 3d, 1865.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c

I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best fitted Establishments!

A LARGE STOCK,

Most Varied

Stock of Furniture

Is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St, Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notic by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pictures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to make room for other Goods. Better bargains can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county. Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

If you are in want of anything in the Meat line be sure and give him a call. n759

Corporation Notice

"The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

DEUEL & WILBUR,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE, MOLLASSES, TEA, SYRUP, SPICES, FISH, TOBACCO, WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK, LARD, COD FISH, and in fact everything that anybody or his brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

And allour neighbors know

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICH'N

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n706 A. JAMES.

NEW AND CHEAP

CASH STORE.

WASTEL & ADAM

Have just opened in the village of Tecumseh at No. 2,

MECHANICS' BLOCK

The most choice and splendid stock of

DRY GOODS

Ever offered for sale in Southern Michigan. Their stock consists entirely of the very NEWEST and LATEST styles of

DRESS GOODS, FANCY GOODS, Yankee Notions &c. embracing

SILKS.
ALAPACAS, DELAINES.
CALICOES, PRINTS,
SHAWLS, LACES,
RIBBONS, SHIRTINGS,
SHEETINGS,
WORSTEDS,

And everything in the Dry Goods Line. Their Goods were all purchased at

PANIC PRICES,

since the late fall in New York, and will be sold as low as at any Store in the West.

We can, and will sell as low as any Dry Goods Store in Lenawee County, or elsewhere. Quick sales for READY CASH and SMALL PROFITS, is our motto.

☞ Call and see our

HOOP SKIRTS AND INVISIBLE CLASPED

New York Bell Balmorel

If you wish to encourage competition, which is the life of business, please favor us with a portion of your patronage.

Call and see, and examine Goods and Prices and judge for yourselves.

Tecumseh, April 4th, 1865. n749yl

JEFF'S CAPTURED

MORE PARTICULARS,

GREAT EXCITEMENT

AT THE

NEW STORE

In John Usborn's Block,

DRY GOODS

FANCY GOODS,

Yankee Notions

&c., of the latest styles selling at

NEW YORK PRICES,

Please call and examine our Goods before purchasing elsewhere.

C. B. ACKLEY.

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just rece p York, and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hood's, north side of Chicago street.

GAZLAY'S PACIFIC MONTHLY.

Now is your time to Subscribe for our New Pacific Monthly, which for worthy contents leaves far in the rear the Eastern Magazines.

MONTHLY MAGAZINES

Employing and paying more for Literary talent than any other Magazine in the country, we flatter ourselves that our Department of the Pacific Monthly will suffer neglect from the want of able and well known

LITERARY CONTRIBUTORS,

in the literary world. We shall make such additional engagements as circumstances may demand. Your special attention is called to our

ILLUSTRATIONS,

which are produced, without regard to expense, by an efficient corps of artists—at whose head stands BIGGERT and McLENAN, unequalled as Designers and Engravers. We call the attention of the Public to the publication of first class illustrations of the varied, novel and picturesque scenery and local views of the

GOLDEN STATES

AND

TERRITORIES

OF THE

PACIFIC.

With Descriptive Views and Reading Matter, affording the most reliable and comprehensive medium in existence for full information in regard to California, Oregon, Nevada, and their contiguous and auriferous territories. The information we give in regard to the Pacific States, alone, is worth ten times the Subscription Price of our Magazine. Twelve numbers, a year's subscription, when neatly bound, affording two splendid volumes, suitable for the

DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY,

OR THE

COUNTING-HOUSE,

and costing but FIVE DOLLARS, which in years to come can not be purchased for any price. Our

EDITORIAL DRAWER

will abound with effusions of Wit, Original Stories, Comic Sketches and Light Literature, culled from the well-filled storehouse of fact and incident, affording interesting and reading matter for the Parlor and the Fireside.

COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS.

This Department of the Monthly, under the immediate supervision of McLENAN, the celebrated Comic Delineator, will be found always Rich in Wit, Merriment, and Grotesque Design.

FASHION PLATES.

Having made special arrangements with Mme. Demorest, 473 Broadway, New York, for contributions to our Fashion Department, we call the attention of the Ladies to the same, supplanting one Monthly to their bodies, as containing more Information on regard to Dress and the Toilet, than any other Magazine published.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!

Now is the time to Subscribe and bring with volume complete for 1866. We will inevitably advance the price of our Magazine after the first of January, 1866. Our Subscription Price is

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR.

Payable in Advance, upon the receipt of which our receipt, for the same, will be sent in return.

PREMIUMS IN GOLD!

As an additional inducement to subscribe early, we shall distribute among our Subscribers a large list of valuable Premiums, relying upon our extraordinary large Subscription List to compensate us for our liberality. These Premiums will consist of values of Six Dollars of the Gold in Wealth of the Pacific States, and will be as follows:

To any person sending us Ten Hundred Dollars in subscriptions, we will send the money equivalent, a Twenty and a Ten Dollar Gold Piece, California Gold, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Twenty Paying Subscribers, we will send, unasked, a Five Dollar and a Two and half Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Ten Paying Subscribers, we will send, unasked, a Three Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

To any person sending us Five Paying Subscriptions, we will send an extra Copy of the Pacific Monthly for a Year, free.

We are also having made, a large quantity of Valuable PRESENTS and KEEPSAKES for Single Subscribers, who send direct to the Office.

The Presents and Souvenirs consist of Ladies' Breast Pins, Ear Rings, Finger Rings, Sleeve Buttons, Gents' Scarf Pins, Bracelets, Finger Rings, Sleeve Buttons, Studs, Settings for Cameo Heads, etc., made from California and Nevada Gold and Silver bearing Quartz and Ore—Crystallized Quartz Jewelry, commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry. The Gold and Silver-bearing Quartz and Ore from which these Souvenirs are made, is from the celebrated GOLD & CINDY and other Mines of Nevada, and will be valuable as Mementos, as well as beautiful in Appearance and Design. EVERY REGULAR SUBSCRIBER, as above, to the PACIFIC MONTHLY, will be entitled to one of these Articles for every Subscription standing opposite their names on our books.

SPECIMEN COPIES

OF THE

PACIFIC MONTHLY

sent, postage pre-paid, upon the receipt of Fifty Cents, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

CAUTION!

Write your Name, Post-Office, County and State, to where you want the PACIFIC MONTHLY sent, Plain and Distinct.

Register all Letters containing Money; or, when convenient, send by Express.

If your Post-Office is a Money-Order office, obtain a Money-Order for your remittance.

Send none but United States Treasury Notes, or money Bankable in New York.

All Letters asking Information, etc., to receive attention, must contain a Stamp, to prepay answer. Address all Correspondence,

D. M. GAZLAY & CO.,

PUBLISHERS

PACIFIC MONTHLY,

34 LIBERTY STREET,

NEW YORK.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:

AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,

121 Nassau Street, New York.

WHITE & BAUER,

San Francisco, California.

THE SCANDINAVIAN REMEDIES.

DR. ROBACK'S

BLOOD PURIFIER

and

BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands

of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Old Sores, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, Leucorrhœa, Female Complaints, Erysipelas, St. Anthony's Fire, Cancers, Eruptions, Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away.

The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

which, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache, Costiveness, Colic Pains, Cholera Morbus, Indigestion, Pain in the Bowels, Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

Principal Office and Salesroom, No. 6 East Fourth St. 34 Building from Main St., Cincinnati, O. Laboratory, No. 18 Hammond Street.

FOR SALE BY

P N Currie and Pessler & Baker

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

These Bitters are prepared in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Swain, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

palatable and pleasant, with delicious invigorating properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system, and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases:—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Affections, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend themselves with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity, so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.—

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

For Ladies, who have used and found none other "Swain's Bitters" the best bitter, unobjectionable and too highly recommended for their delicate taste, please give them a trial, and you will not be disappointed. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system.

If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters, have him send for them.—

Remember the name, and take no other,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public, through the columns of Medical Journals, and having received such standing and recommendation from the Medical Profession, as by the decisions of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXCLUDES THEM FROM STAMP DUTY.

DR. C. H. SWAIN, PROPRIETOR.

OFFICES—1273 Broadway, New-York.
1 Tremont Row, Boston.
1 Market St., Chicago.

C. A. COOK, General Agent for the West, Office, 26 Market Street, Chicago.

RED JACKET

Stomach Bitters

These Bitters are prepared in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Swain, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Costiveness, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from effects of those fearfully fatal diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that for the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable.

Any person and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OR—

PEACH & APPLE BRANDY
STRAWBERRY WINE
BLACKBERRY WINE
MUSCAT WINE
CHERRY WINE
RED RASPBERRY WINE

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only to tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our private label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in each cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,

No. 21 River Street Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the

Buggy Shop on Railroad Street

Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby carriage to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and see for your orders.

To the Ladies & Gentlemen of Tecumseh,

The undersigned having fitted up rooms expressly for the sale of

Ice Cream, Lemonade, Soda Water &c.

will be happy at all times to wait upon customers. Rooms over Wishart's Crockery store. Open day and evening.—June 15th, 1865.

M. WALTERS.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co., if you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April 4, '65. A. JAMES.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young America. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at gunpowder prices, and I will sell

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6 50;

Broadcloth and cassimere coats very any other house in town, wool, en and Straw

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save a great expense being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 10 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

U. S. 7-30 Loan!

Third Series

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, General Subscription agent for the Sale of United States securities, offer to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest, known as the

7 30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent. GOLD-BEARING BONDS.

These Bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are except, under all the Government Bonds, from State, County and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. premium to their value according to the rate of taxation on other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker. The interest on $50 30 per cent. amounts to

One cent per day on a	$50 note
Ten " " "	$100	"
20 " " "	$500	"
81 " " "	$1000	"
	$5000	"

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in every respect to the notes already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent., instead of 7 3 10 per cent. in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15 1865, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this third series affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices, that purchasers made with six per cent. in gold, would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent. in currency. This is

Only Loan in the Market.

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the

GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $250,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress and now on the market. This amount at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within two months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium as has undoubtedly been the reason during the subscriptions to other Loans. It now seems probable that no considerable amount beyond the present series will be offered to the public.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscription at par. Subscribers will select their own agents in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

JAY COOKE,

Subscription Agent, Philadelphia.

May 1st, 1865 n748w13

Subscriptions will be received by the

First National Bank of Tecumseh.

First National Bank of Ypsilanti, and the First National Bank of Detroit.

Guardian Sale.

In the matter of the estate of James S. Collins, a minor.

By virtue of a license of sale to me granted by the Court of Probate of the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder at the barn on the land hereinafter described on the 25th day of July, 1865, at two o'clock in the afternoon all the interest of James S. Collins, a minor, of in and to all that tract or parcel of land situate in the town of Macon in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as south part (24 acres,) of the east half of south east quarter of section five; also south quarter of west half of south-west quarter of section four; also east half of west half of south-west quarter of said section four. Terms made known on day of sale.—Dated June 8th, 1865.

JAMES B. CHAMBERS,

Guardian of said Minor,

n758w7

Commissioners Notice.

We the undersigned having been appointed commissioners by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee to adjust claims against the estate of Joseph Litchard, deceased, would give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the residence of Jacob Litchard, in Macon, on Saturday the 1st day of July, 1865, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day when all persons having claims against said estate can appear and present their said claims for allowance and that six months from this date are allowed for creditors to present their claims for allowance.—Macon, June 5th, 1865.

JOHN JACKSON,
DAVID BERDAN,
Commissioners.

If you want to find the best assortment of English, French & Scotch Cassimere in the county go to n756 A. HOODS.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware

EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH.

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS

EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands. Also a splendid assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions;

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices;

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

MILLINERY.

MRS. O. McCOY,

Is now receiving the largest and best selected stock of millinery goods which were

BOUGHT since the GOLD PANIC

consisting of

Bonnets, Hats, Ribbons &c.,

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS TOWN,

which she is selling cheaper than any other establishment of the kind on

DRY GOODS STORE DARE SELL.

Such a magnificent display of goods is seldom seen in the towns of the West. Walk up, Ladies, and see for yourselves and hear the prices.

BLEACHING AND PRESSING

done in the neatest manner. Remember the place and do not fail to call.

MRS. O. McCOY.

Tecumseh, April 19th, 1865.

JAVA MILLS

COFFEE & SPICES

NEW YORK

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee. The vilest trash, under Showy and Taking names, has been thrust upon the public. Bogus and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their Labels and wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a

Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to supply the demand.

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of

Uniform Standard and Quality,

Specially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable. If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our ground Spices, Mustar, Cream Tartar, Baking Soda and Saleratus, put up at the Java Mills will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Spices will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, C. Lawrence, R. J. Bidwell, P. N. Currie, Fisher & Baker, Kerchan & Conklin, at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCULARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No 52, Vesey Street, New York.

To Consumptives.

The undersigned having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with severe lung affection, and that dread disease, consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and shroud a formation which he believes to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address

Rev EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County New York. 746w8

ATLANTIC & GREAT WEST'N RAILWAY

New Broad Gauge

PASSENGER, FREIGHT, MAIL,

EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH ROUTE.

Connecting at Salamanca, N. Y., with the Erie Railway, forming a continuous Six Feet Track from New York to Akron or Cleveland.

On and after Monday, Nov. 14th, 1864, Through Passenger and Freight Trains will be run regularly between

CLEVELAND & NEW YORK.

NEW AND IMPORTANT PASSENGER ROUTE.

FARE AS LOW AS BY ANY OTHER ROUTE.

BAGGAGE CHECKED THROUGH.

Passengers by this line have the choice of the two finest Routes between New York and Boston.

TICKETS THROUGH

Can be obtained at any of the Offices of the Erie Railway and all Ticket Offices of Connecting Lines Western, Southwest, also at the Central Ticket Office under the Wendell House, Cleveland. Or

Ask for Tickets via the Atlantic and Great Western and Erie Railways.

Passengers by Trains stop at Meadville thirty minutes giving passengers ample time to dine at the

"MAHENRY HOUSE,"

The best Railway Hotel in the country.

NEW AND EXPEDITIOUS FREIGHT LINE

ALL RAIL.

No transhipment of Freight between New York and Akron or Cleveland.

Merchants in the West or Southwest will find it to their advantage to order their goods to be forwarded via the Erie and Atlantic & Great Western Railways, thus saving trouble and expense.

Rates of Freight as Low as by any other all Rail Route.

Especial attention will be given to the transportation of Freight of all kinds, East or West.

The Pullman Cars and other equipments of this Company are entirely new, and of the most improved modern style.

The only direct route to the wonderful

OIL REGIONS of PENNSYLVANIA

Via Meadville or Corry.

From Leavittsburgh the Mahoning Branch runs to Youngstown and the Coal Mines.

This road is being extended and will soon be in complete running order to Galion, Urbana, Dayton, and Cincinnati, without break of Gauge.

J. FARNSWORTH, General Freight Agent.
T. H. GOODMAN, General Ticket Agent.
D. F. SWEETSER, Gen'l Supt.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 16, 1863.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Counterfeiter Arrested!!!

ROBMOND

NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 10th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Calvin Wood, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Jared K. Wood administrator, de bonis non, of said estate praying for the allowance of her final account and distribution of said estate, and her discharge.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 24th day of July next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.) n759 Judge of Probate.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, s.s.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Thursday the 15th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of William J. O'Brien deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Mary O'Brien, widow of deceased, praying that Richard Osborn may be appointed administrator on said estate.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 24th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true Copy.) n760w4

Commissioners Notice.

Estate of Jacob D. Harring, deceased.

The undersigned appointed by the Judge of Probate of Lenawee county commissioners to receive, hear and audit claims against said estate, hereby give notice that for such purpose they will meet at the late residence of Jacob D. Harring deceased, in the township of Macon, on the 10th day of July and the 27th day of October next, at 10 o'clock of each day, and also give notice that said Judge of Probate has allowed six months next ensuing the 27th day of April, 1865, for the creditors of said estate to present their claims. ISRAEL PENINGTON,

JOHN SAUE, Commissioners.

Dated May 1st 1865. 7w5w4

The Bridal Chamber, an Essay of Warning and Instruction for Young Men—published by the Howard Association; and sent free of charge in sealed envelopes. Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Howard Association, Philadelphia, Pa. 745ly

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit, &c.

A. JAMES

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage, executed by George Allison of Macon, Michigan, to James Patton of the same place, dated the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four and recorded on the 8th of March 1864, at 9 o'clock A. M., in the Register's office for the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, in Liber 33 of mortgages on pages 720 and 721, upon which there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice, of the first instalment thereof, one hundred and eighty-five dollars and eighty cents; and the further sum of one hundred dollars and interest, secured to be paid thereon hereafter, with interest, now due and payable by reason of the said default, making now due and payable the sum of seven hundred and eighty-two dollars; for the recovery of which, or of any part thereof, no suit or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity. Notice is therefore hereby given that I shall and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, on the twenty-second day of June next ensuing the date hereof, at three o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the front door of the Hall, the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county of Lenawee, in the city of Adrian, in said county, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of money due and payable on said mortgage by reason of said default and interest, together with the costs and expenses allowed by law and stipulated in said mortgage, said premises being described in said mortgage as follows, namely: situate in the township of Macon, Lenawee county, Michigan, known as the north-east quarter of the north-west quarter of section No. thirty five (35) town five (5) south of range five (5) east containing forty acres more or less.

JAMES PATTON Mortgagee.

P. R. ARANDS, Attorney.

Dated March 20th, 1865 n747w13

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 18th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Stephen E. Cole, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified of John McDole praying that the administrator of said estate may be directed to convey certain lands of said deceased to said petitioner for reasons in said petition stated.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 5th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the next of kin of said minor and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for six successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

A true Copy.) n760w7

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 25th day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of George A. Stanton deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Gilbert J. Stanton a brother of said deceased, praying that a duly authenticated copy of the last will of said deceased, of the Surrogate Court of Orleans County New York, and the probate thereof may be filed and recorded in this office for reasons stated in said petition.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 1st day of May next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.

(A true Copy.) 750w4

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 28th day of July in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Oliver B. Taylor, administrator of said estate, praying that he may be licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased to pay the debts of said deceased and expenses of administration.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 18th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.

(A True Copy.) 750w5

ROBACK'S PURE JUICE OF CATAWBA GRAPE BRANDY

is made from the PURE JUICE of CATAWBA GRAPES, which ripens in abundance in Ohio and from which this article is obtained—has an agreeable flavor, fine color, and possesses all the qualities for medical and purposes, and for a beverage of the best imported brandies. As a flavoring in mince pies and other cooking purposes it is the best economical article that can be used, being one half a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found rapid sales, and is daily gaining in popularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally throughout the West.

C. W. ROBACK, Proprietor,

56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

If you are in need of anything go to Ackley's.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 14. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 31, 1865. WHOLE NO. 768.

J. D. ROBBINS.

SUCCESSOR TO ROBBINS & DEWOLF

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

—o—

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

has any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

—o—

CASH FOR RAGS!

—o—

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,

JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Music,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety
Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass. Window Sashes.

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer yet invented. Warranted to give satisfaction. Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

WANTED.

Butter, Eggs, Pork, Dried Meats, Lard, Dried Fruits, Paper Rags, &c. &c. for which I will pay the Highest price in Cash.

To those who wish to pack their own Butter I will furnish Packages free of charge. Give me a call.

A. JAMES.

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight, 7:08 A. M

GOING NORTH.

Mail and Express, 9:32 A. M.
Accommodation, 6:40 P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD,
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BOWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRUBLE, M.D.
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING.
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh. M.

MOSES WRIGHT.
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet-, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

F. N. CURTIS.
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD,
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER,
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. HANFORD,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh Mich.

HORACE BREWER.
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO.
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY.
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer
Chicago St, Tecumseh, Mich.

I. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St, Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

MRS. O. M. BISSELL.
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. h

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

HENRY H. PACKARD,
Union Livery, Feed and Sale Stable.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c. &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich

ON THE FIELD.

BY EMMA M. BABSON.

Don't try to move me. Haven't
I suffered nearly good,
Let me die as I have fallen,
In the place where I have stood.
In the hospital tents I should sigh:
Here I can see the sky,
And feel the soft spring wind blow,
Yes: here is the place to die.

No: my knapsack is wet and bloody!
I had rather lie on the grass,
Only turn my face from the battle,
Yes, that mountain pass.

One wants to be quiet in dying:
How low all the trees seem to bend!
Things begin to look dim and strangely,
O God! and is this the end?

I grieve with an infinite pity
For the life that has reached its close,
This man with a hand on your knee, Hal,
You've never known, and none knows.
He should have lived—as he did not,
He should have died—not like this,
Now that my chance is all over,
I see where I made my miss.

That shot was a straight one;
And it has let out on the sod
The blood, so rebellious and fevered,
That kept me away from God.
See how my sleeve is soaked in it;
And I think it has met the core
That's hid in my bosom dying,
And holds a girl's blonde face.

'Tis a face of enticing beauty.—
The case is most ten years old;
She was not true, though so lovely.—
I am growing so weak and cold!
Was she worth the price of my manhood?
Was it love that bought me despair?
How mad is a boy of twenty
For a ringlet of fine, fair hair!

But that is all over now, Hal,
And gone with the heart's hot blood
And the face I have carried so long, Hal,
If I lived now, I'd drop in the mud.
And I'd woo and win little Amy,
And live in the sunshine of God;
And, loving such pureness and sweetness
I'd know that I never loved Maud.

Give Amy then, when you shall see her,
A kiss on her little gold head,
And say that I died like a soldier,
—The good God—he maketh my bed;

"Our Father in heaven, give"—
I cannot pray. I—good-bye, Hal:
'Tis better to die than to live.

A Wife's Secret.

I was forty years old when I married Caroline Mowbray. A severe disappointment which I experienced in early life had changed me much. To most persons I seemed cold hearted and repulsive; but I thought she knew me better. Her father was a clergymen of small means, and she had four brothers, two of them broad. By accident I met her. Our courtship was short. Her father was happy to see his last child provided for, and our wedding was celebrated with great poup. Two of her brothers were here; the other two were in India. I took her to our secluded house in the country, and for a year and more I led a life of happiness such as falls to the lot of few.

She was of wonderful beauty. Tall of exquisitely moulded shape, with flashing eyes of brilliant blackness. She was much given to melancholy, which greatly increased after the first year of our union I then began to fancy that the memory of some old affection haunted her; but she had often told me that I was the only man she had ever oved, and that my well known learning and accomplishments (those were her words) had long caused her to entertain for me the greatest respect, even before she had seen me.

Several times I came upon her unexpectedly, and found her in tears, with an open letter in her hand. On my entreating her to let me know the cause of her unhappiness she pleaded nervousness, the thought of her father's delicate health, and other family matters, which, she assured me, I could never enter into. I troubled myself much about this. I tho't that my manner toward her was not demonstrative enough and indeed no manner could show the boundless depth of my love for her; then I thought that the disparity of our years precluded a perfect interchange of feeling and sentiment.

We had been married fifteen months when most unexpected news came to me from India. An English relative had died there, leaving me a large fortune, and my presence was required in Bengal to arrange important affairs. Finding that a ship was soon about to sail I resolved to take passage in her, and I settled all things needful for my absence, which was to be for a twelvemonth. The despondency deepened, and I strove to flatter myself that my approaching departure was the cause.

I had had a lovely garden laid out for her. A side walk led down to a tasteful bridge of ornamented wood, which spanned a pretty stream, an insignificant torrent after rain. In time of flood The water rushed down with great velocity, and to prevent the "bursting" of the bridge several of the flooring boards were not nailed down. This bridge led into a park, just beyond which were the stables, and the stables commanded a view of our garden. Although there was thus a short cut to the stables, yet I believe none of the servants were allowed to avail themselves of it; our usual evening stroll was the garden and the park, and those were strictly private.

For some days the rain had been falling heavily, and our walks were stopped. I was much occupied, however, by business in the neighboring town, and did not return as early as usual for several days in succession.

I returned one dark, rainy evening just before sunset. Much rain had fallen, and as I crossed the bridge on foot I noticed the stream flowing turbid and whirling beneath. This was not my usual way of going home; but in consequence of the rain I rode straight to the stables, gave my horse to the groom, and took the short cut. There was a shady summer house in the upper corner of the garden, and I observed to my surprise, a man's footprints along the path leading thither from the bridge. The prints were those of a fashionably-made boot; and my surprise was increased by coming to a spot in which they seemed to have been met by another person's prints and thence both led to the summer-house. Whose foot but hers could have made those tiny impressions? I reached the summer-house, and there I found my wife.

"Good Heavens, Caroline!" I exclaimed; "you out on such an evening—you so delicate?" She was shivering with cold. "Who was here?" I said.

She shivered still more, and replied, timidly. "No stranger has been here Reginald."

"What!" said I, "no one up the walk from the bridge?"

She appeared frightened, and shuddered, and gazing with her large eyes in my face, she repeated, "No stranger has been here."

I looked at her earnestly. Her eyes drooped; she was ghastly pale.

"Well, my dearest," I said, "let me muffle you well; you are very imprudent in so exposing yourself to the damp air."

I wrapped her large shawl around her; from one of its folds fell to the ground a glove. It dropped from behind, and she did not see it. It was a lavender kid glove that had been worn by a man.

I will not speak much of my feelings that night. Hundreds of trivial things came rushing and crowding into my memory—all of them, each of them confirmation that the worst was true of her.

Her dejection, her frequent weeping over the letters, were now accounted for. Had she not often and often withdrawn from me in the evenings, and staid long away, returning with overladen excuses? Had I not seen her, more than once of late, drop a letter into the receiving box of the post office, when she might have put it in my mail-bag at the house?—Had I not seen her nervously starting at the slightest noise, when seated in the twilight at the window in her little sitting-room which overlooked the garden?

She walked into the house before me, and I had time to collect myself. I pleaded headache, and retired into my library. She knew that I never could bear the presence of any one when ill, and I was safe from interruption. Amidst the whirling dance of maddening thoughts no idea of revenge on her had any place. I don't believe in the commonly-received opinion that real love can be changed into hate. I could not hate her. I even thought with pity of the outer sorrow that could not fail to be hers in this world forevermore.

But him—he escape me! No. How best to proceed? "Shall I go and question my groom, who must from the stables have sometimes witnessed their stolen interviews?" No, my instincts revolted at the idea of talking to a groom about her, fallen angel though she was. I would do it all myself. My plans were soon formed. Early next morning I rode to our little town and sent back, by my servant, a note to my wife, stating that I was compelled to start for the city that moment to make some arrangements about my voyage, and that I should be absent at least a week. I then went to D—— purchased a light colored wig, a large pair of green spectacles, and, disguised with these and a large beard and moustache, returned to our village, where I engaged apartments opposite the post-office. There I remained on the watch.

Three days after my departure, my wife's carriage drove up to the shop kept by the postmaster. Previous to her entering the shop, I saw her drop a note into the letter box. After a few minutes' delay, in making purchases she drove off again.

Late in the afternoon, a tall, distinguished looking man, with a traveling cap, pulled down over his face entered the shop. I felt this to be my enemy. I saw him receive a letter from the postmaster's wife and hastily walk away. I hurried to the shop, and in broken English asked if there were any letters for Mr. Thirl? She replied in the negative, but I earnestly requested her to look over al the letters. This was in order to gain time for a question or two.

I inquired who was that fine looking man who had just gone out of the shop? She didn't know; he was a stranger.—But was not his name on his letters? Oh yes; the name was Mr. Thornton, but he didn't live in the village. Had he been long in the habit of coming for letters? Not very long.

I walked forth in the direction of my home. It was nearly dusk when I came within sight of that spot where my bliss in life had been. Over the wet spongy fields, over crumbling fences, through swollen watercourses I had come, but danger and fatigue were unfelt. About a mile from the house I saw a horse tied up to a fence. He was with her then.

I hid myself close to the bridge for a while, until darkness should conceal my movement. I then hurried across and approached the summer house noiselessly They were not there. No. Of course they were in the house then. I was not long left in indecision as to my next step. The window of her sitting-room opened, and there they stood within a few yards of me, his arm thrown around her waist. I heard him, I saw him kiss her; I heard him bid her "good-bye," and then, with the noiseless step of fate, I hastened by a near cut to the bridge.

I crossed it, shoved the ends of three planks off their supports so that the slightest weight should tilt them over, and waited about ten yards off, with a heart whose throbs I heard above the roaring of the angry flood.

He came. He made a few steps along the bridge. Then with a wild cry, a dashing of wood together, a plunge in the torrent, an interval of silence; another cry, "Help, help!" That was all. I was avenged. No mortal could escape out of that rock-handed stream in its then state.

Next morning I sent a note to my wife. "Caroline," I said, "I was close to you when you and he parted last night. I saw everything. He shall come to you no more. God forgive you."

I left at once in a ship bound for Bengal. The events of the past few weeks had made such a wreck of me in body and mind that there were many of my fellow passengers who thought me insane. I cannot describe the agony of my life during those few days. His face—that face which I never saw in life, was with me ever. And so closely was the memory of her entwined with my being, his face bore a likeness to hers; but unlike hers it always wore a ghastly frown, which grew into a menace.

One evening, it was at sundown, a man fell overboard. The ship was going free, and there was a stiff breeze. As the man passed the quarter—or rather as the quarter passed him—it was plain that he could not swim. A sudden impulse seized me; I snatched a life buoy and leaped overboard. The helpless seaman and myself floated together. I remember seeing the cormorants sweeping about our heads, and a boat putting forth from the ship.

The next familiar remembrance which comes to me is of our presence on board a whaler which had picked us up. We were forwarded by the first passing vessel to our destination. The tedium of business arrangements connected with my recent inheritance was a partial relief.—But my fortune was no solace to the bitter past. After two years of objectless life I went to Australia. Here, a few days after my arrival, in the course of my travels I came to a creek where I stopped to lunch. I had but just alighted when a horseman passed me at a rapid pace. He wore a red Garibaldi shirt and a helmet hat with a red silk "puggaree" streaming behind it. He had hardly disappeared over the steep bank on the opposite side of the creek when two shots were fired, followed by a shout. I spurred my horse over the creek, and in a few minutes came upon a scene which I will not attempt to describe. The horseman had ridden into an ambuscade of bushrangers, who had evidently mistaken him for a rich traveler. He had ridden some distance after receiving their fire, and had then turned upon his pursuers, killing one and wounding another. As I came up he was engaged with the remaining three, who had dismounted and were firing at him from behind trees. As I came in sight they fired a volley at me, and ordered me to surrender. Instead of doing so I fired my revolver among them, and they fled into the bush. We buried their dead companion by the side of the road, and then my companion, who had ridden on for help, returned with a party of his friends, who had been on my track all the morning. We then rode on to his station, where I remained a week, when I was quite recovered from the effects of my ducking and bruises.

My companion was a young squatter, and his station was in a very wild part of the country. He was a bachelor, and we led a very lonely life, hunting, fishing, and smoking all day, and playing cards and smoking all evening. He was a generous fellow, and would have insisted on my remaining with him for months, but I was restless, and felt that I must be doing something to kill the time. He rode with me for the first day on my journey back to the settlements, and we parted with many regrets on both sides, and with a warm invitation from him to come back and make his house my home whenever I could do so for any length of time. He was a Scotchman, and his name was Reginald Ashton.

I had been back to the settlements about a month, when I received a letter from my wife's brother, James Mowbray, who was a clergyman residing in Adelaide, the capital of South Australia, about 1500 miles from the place where I was then living. He was the only man living who had any right to know my history, and I had written to him from Calcutta, and had told him that I was married, but had left my wife for ever, and had sailed for Australia, where I was about to settle down. I had told him that I was married to a woman who was unworthy of my name, and had left her because she had deceived me, but I had not told him that I had left her because I had found her guilty of adultery, and had taken her lover's life. I had told him that I was about to live in a place where I was known by a name which was not my own, and had asked him to address his letters to me at Adelaide, under my assumed name, and to keep my address a secret from all the world

J. D. ROBBINS has the largest stock of SCHOOL BOOKS ever brought to Tecumseh, which he is

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 31, 1865

Schools and Newspapers.

[illegible] improvements of civilization owes its crown of intelligence. These are the chief bulwarks of free society—the mightiest, most powerful agencies of Christendom. Indebted to religion, perhaps, for their better spirit and morality, it is not exaggerating to say that religion is deeply indebted for its diffusion to them. Both educators and disseminators, their functions are still measurably different—the school laying the basis of knowledge, with unparalleled speed and universality among men.

It is now a little over four centuries since printing commenced its simple, and some thousands of years since book making began, yet it is safe to say that newspapers, within the half a century past, have done more for the diffusion of essential knowledge, and to make it the common property and blessing of mankind, than all the ages of books. So too, though Universities date back into the dimness of time, and academies are as old as the "classic groves" of Hellas, modern common schools have transcended them all in universalizing intelligence. Schools and newspapers are the grandest of the new time institutions, and to show that they are new time institutions, we need but to quote what Governor Berkley, of Virginia, wrote to King Charles, in 1671: "I thank God there are no free schools nor printing presses here!" And he thanked God for it hoping "there would not be these hundred years, for learning breeds up heresies, sects, and all abominations."

And it was one hundred years, and more, before free schools or newspapers were at all common in our country. But what a revolution since the days of the old Governor—changes in politics, government, newspapers and schools. Less than two centuries, and the New World is rid of kings and parliaments, and while every hamlet has its free schools—or [illegible] there are about five thousand newspapers published in the land. It is enough to make the ghost of Berkley wince, and would astonish the shades of Guttenberg and Faust, were they penetrable. Let us be thankful that we live in an age when free schools and newspapers are all around us, as beacons and shields. Let us sustain the schoolmaster and encourage the printer—multiply the schools and extend the circulation of the newspaper, and freedom and knowledge shall flourish.—Ex.

A DARK RECORD FOR ONE DAY.—The alarming increase of crime in this country is beginning to attract the attention of the people. On Thursday of last week the New York papers contained accounts of the defalcation of young Ketchum, and the suspension of the firm with which he was connected; the examination of Jenkins, the Phœnix Bank defaulter; the murder of a policeman in Seventh street by a rowdy; the suicide of a young girl who roamed the streets and lodged in the ferry-houses, for three nights, in misery and despair; the inquest in the case of the slaughter on board the steamboat Arrow; the arrest in England of the New Haven Bank robber; and, in addition, the horrible railroad massacre near Bridgeport, Connecticut. All of these, with the minor cases of crime, make up the dreadful catalogue of one day's report. Whither are we drifting.

The Cholera.

The London correspondent of the New York Tribune writes August 12: "The cholera is carrying off 800 or 1,000 a day at Constantinople. It is at Malta and Ancona, and is said to be spreading in Italy. There is a report of its appearance at Marseilles. Travelers complain of vexatious quarantines, and we are assured that if it is to visit England it cannot be shut out. Free trade—any trade lobbies. We must prepare for it. We must clean up and make ourselves decent. But the cholera, at its former visits, ravaged places accounted the most healthful. I know that it was so in America. Where would one look for a finer, a more healthy place, for instance, than Sandusky and where was the cholera worse? It appeared to me then that a morbific influence pervaded the atmosphere, and that I could feel it stronger or weaker, day by day. I was able to indicate by this feeling the days of greatest mortality. The strong resisted this influence—the weak succumbed to it. Of course other conditions had their influence; but it was only when men in one way or other fell below a certain power of resistance—a certain force of vitality, that they became victims of the destroyer. It seems very probable that we shall have the cholera in London. It is likely that 50,000 persons will die of the disease here, and 250,000 in the United Kingdom. A case of true Asiatic cholera is reported at Belfast."

Arrest of Ketchum.

Edward B. Ketchum was arrested Friday afternoon, in a house on West Twentieth street, in New York. Ketchum took lodgings at the above house, under the name of Mr. Lowry, of Cincinnati, on the day of his disappearance. The arrest was made by detective officer Gillmore, who had been "working up" the case with detective officer McDougal, under directions of Superintendent Kennedy. Information had been received that young Ketchum could be found on Twentieth street, and officer Gillmore proceeded there. Ketchum was walking homeward and the officer, recognizing him from the [illegible] custody. He made no resistance whatever. He did not seem even to be surprised, but saying it was all right, he accompanied the officer to the police headquarters, in Mulbery street, under arrest. Ketchum did not exhibit any concern.—He spoke of the subject as the end of a rather wild career, but did not apparantly apprehend any unpleasant consequences. He spoke freely of the manner in which he had lived since his flight. Every day, except the day on which the disclosures were made, he has been in the street, and has not once been out of New York. During his walks he had often seen persons whom he knew, including brokers and others who were involved by his forgeries. He apparantly avoided them. On Thursday last Ketchum rode to Castle Park and remained there a considerable time. He saw there a number of persons with whom he was acquainted. After Ketchum was taken to the police headquarters, his father and other members of his family, with an officer of one of the banks which had received part of the forged papers, and persons who have been chosen as counsel, were notified of his arrest. He met them all, except his father, with singular coolness; spoke to them as though he had been temporarily absent on business. He did evidently consider himself a criminal.—Persons who called spoke to him with kindness, and none of them showed any disposition whatever to persecute him for his conduct. Ketchum speaks with freedom, of the operation. He says at one time he had property worth $6,000,000 in gold. He says the amount which was involved in various transactions was about $4,000,000. He would have found it easy, he declares, to pay off the indebtedness of $2,500,000. The sum found with him was $48,000.

[illegible] Jeff. Davis will take place before the U. S. circuit court, but what particular one has not been designated. There seems to be no importance attached to the fact that the Grand Jury of the District of Columbia, some months since, found a true bill against him for constructive treason in sending his troops to operate against Washington in the summer of 1864. The grand jury of a court at Knoxville has indicted him for treason, for there Davis harangued the people against the United States Government. His trial, however, cannot now take place in that town, or in any other place in the 10th Judicial District, for the reason that a vacancy occasioned by the death of Associate Justice Catron has not been filled. As military operations against the United States were directed by orders given from Richmond, it is probable that this trial will take place in Virginia, at Norfolk, in which event, Chief Justice Chase will preside, if that State is embraced in the Judicial Circuit assigned to him.

The News.

Wednesday, Aug 30.

In the Wirz trial yesterday, four witnesses were called, two of whom were surgeons on duty at the prison hospital, and two Union prisoners confined at Andersonville. Their testimony is nearly a repetition of the evidence already given during the trial. Messrs. Baker and Schade reappeared again yesterday as counsel for the prisoner at his earnest solicitation. The counsel for Wirz intend to summon 150 witnesses, which, with the number to be called by the prosecution, will make about 300.

The National Bank, of Willmington, Ohio, was robbed of between $70,000 and $100,000 on Monday night in Government bonds.

The President issued a proclamation yesterday removing the existing restrictions upon trade with the South after the first of September.

The funeral of Gov. Brough, of Ohio, will take place from his residence at Cleveland on Friday night.

The trial of Jeff. Davis will take place before the United States Circuit Court, but it has not yet been designated at what place. It is supposed, however, it will be at Norfolk, Va., in which event Chief Justice Chase will preside.

The New York Evening Post, in an article on railroad accidents, notes 24 which have occurred since Jan. 25, all of nearly all, the result of sheer carelessness.

In the murder case at Concord, New Haven, to-day, the jury rendered a verdict that Michael McManus came to his death at the hands of Bryan McDonald, Jr., but whether by accident or design the jury are unable to determine. The elder McDonald has been discharged from arrest.

Caution to Soldiers.

It being represented that persons are engaged in buying up discharge papers of returned soldiers, with a view of securing land grants, we would caution and advise soldiers to hold on to their "eagles." The present Government has given to officers and soldiers one hundred and sixty acres of land, only charging the expense of giving, amounting to about a dime an acre, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who is to prescribe the "regulations for giving proper effect to the provisions of the act" to enable persons in the United States military or naval service to take steps whilst absent on duty to take steps whilst absent on duty to secure for themselves homesteads on the public lands, they take an oath and appoint an agent. Upon these being filed [illegible] office, "the same will take effect from date of filing, and, if regular in all respects, the entry will have legal inception from that time, provided the fee ($10) and commissions are paid. No taxes are chargeable for five years and no liability for debts. The cultivation may be done by another. Soldiers in the service need not occupy the land while in service, and after being mustered out, have six months in which to occupy the land."

GOSSIP.—Horace Greeley thus hits the gossips, but of course there are none here—oh, no: "There is in almost every village some garrulous old woman, or rattle-brained young one, or some weak-headed and talkative male—we will not say man—who makes it a business, first to pry into the affairs of the neighborhood, and then to publish them with nimble and tireless tongue. The world, weary, indignant, outraged, or simply bored, has decided upon the social standing of these two-legged gazettes—it has voted them to be moral nuisances, which it may be impossible to abate, either by contemptuous silence, or well feigned deafness, or even by open rebuke. Still will they continue to chatter, to peep, to surmise, to distort, to invent, to insinuate. There is not a clergyman in the whole country who has not been embarrassed, and, unless his temper be uncommonly sweet, has not been exasperated, by the mischief which these meddlers have made in his congregation. There is not a school teacher who has not been tormented by the same insects. There is hardly a sensitive, shrinking, peace loving young woman who has not been bit at and stung by her waspish and voluable sisters."

WIRTZ THE ANDERSONVILLE JAILOR.—Wirtz, the Andersonville jailor, is to be defended by Hughes, Denver and Peck of Washington. Hughes, was one of the counsel for Miss Harris. Denver is noted as the former Californian who in 1859 killed Hon. Edward Gilbert in a duel near San Francisco. He has been a member of Congress, Commissioner of Indian affairs, Governor of Kansas, and latterly Brigadier General in the army by appointment of the late Mr. Lincoln.—Peck is a small measure. It is asserted that the defense will set up the plea that whatever Wirtz did, was by the order of his superior offier, Winder, and that he cannot therefore be held responsible.—Wirtz is a swiss by birth. He married in Louisiana, and before the war owned a large plantation and a number of slaves. He was in Richmond at the time our troops went up the Mississippi river and took possession of his plantation. In 1853 he was sent to Europe on a secret mission by the rebel authorities. After an absence of eight months he returned, and was appointed captain, and assigned to duty on the staff of the rebel Gen. Winder. Afterward he was placed in command of the Andersonville prison.

DESTRUCTION OF CANADA THISTLES.—It will be pleasant news to our friends in the agricultural districts that an enemy of the Canada thistle, which threatens to work its destruction has at last made its appearance. A worm of the same character as that infesting the current bushes, though much large, is preying upon the thistle in some localities, and it multiplies so rapidly as to promise the eradication of the obnoxious plant. When the worm first made its appearance it was feared by some that it was the army worm, which sweeps everything that comes before it; but thus far it has confined its operations to the thistle alone.

RETURN TO INDUSTRY.—Our exchanges are full of appeals to citizens asking them to give employment to returned soldiers. Many say that the boys have some difficulty in getting employment.—We apprehend no difficulty on this score except for the moment. The returned soldiers will quietly drop into places, resume their old habits, and become industrious, orderly citizens. The change from the camp to the farm or the shop is a great one, but it will be quietly and speedily made. The soldiers will show that they were not only capable of transformation from quiet citizens into the best of soldiers, but also from soldiers into industrious citizens. If in the first transformation and the deeds of valor they subsequently performed, they excited the admiration of mankind, they will still more excite it by quiet resumption of civil life. But let our citizens meet our boys at once, and help them back to the old ways of industry. Especially let them look to the maimed and disabled.—If there be any position they can fill, or any labor they can perform it should be at their command.

☞ About 5,000 Indians have already arrived at Fort Smith, to attend the council there on the 1st of September, and about 10,000 more are expected.

Scraps of News.

Waterbury, Conn., has a population of 14,500.

Each of the Simese twins is said to have given a son to the rebel army.

Horse railway cars were run in Quebec on Thursday last, for the first time.

They are making good molasses out of Indian corn at St. Louis—three gallons from one bushel.

A company has been organized to build a railroad from Ithaca to Towanda, N. Y., opening up a semi-bituminous coal region.

A New York photograph house proposes to make a specialty of taking pictures of private country residences.

Judge Florence McCarthy, of the Maine Court, New York, died on Monday last, aged 52 years.

The Cincinnati merchants expect an unusually heavy fall trade, and look for a big report from the South.

The fare of the Overland Stage Line has been reduced from $175 to $150 between Denver and the Missouri river.—Competition will soon bring it lower.

A man named Bain was shot dead by a man named Higgings, near Lecompton, Kansas, last Sunday. The affray grew out of a love affair with a young lady.

A young wife, named Mrs. John A. Hughs, of New York, committed suicide last week, because her husband charged her with being unfaithful to her marriage vows.

The fall book sale trade in New York opens on the 7th of September. The catalogue forms a thick pamphlet of nearly 400 pages.

At Gen Grant's reception at Galena, one of the arches under which the procession had to pass bore the words, "General, that sidewalk is built!"

The four men, soldiers, accused of committing an outrage upon the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Bates, in Boston on the 13th inst., has all been sentenced to State Prison for life.

A sample of the fall style of bonnets which has arrived in New York from Paris is described as an awkward, unattractive coal-scuttle shaped affair, possessing no commendable featuress whatever.

A new style of condencing milk is to evaporate 75 per cent of the whole bulk in receivers from which the air has been exhausted. The milk is condensed in this way without being cooked.

The celebrated Indian Chief, John Ross, accompanied by Lewis Ross, William P. Ross, and other Cherokee celebrities, left St. Louis on Thursday for Fort Smith, to attend the great Indian council.

Bears are abundant in the remoter regions of Maine this season, and juvenile berrying parties are constantly in dread of meeting the fate of the children who mocked the prophet. Mischief is Bruin, they fear.

Mr. Dunlap, a Baltimore merchant, has transported a cargo of Maltese kittens from Norwich, Conn., to supply the demand in Baltimore, where the feline species are very scarce.

Several clerks of the Treasury Department at Washington have been notified that intoxication, during business hours, will be sufficient cause for immediate dismissal. Intoxication at any hour ought to cause their dismissal.

Two fellows who loved the same girl at Ford Edward, N. Y., took a drink together the other night, proposing to drown their rivalry; but there was poison in the cup, and the poor girl now finds one lover dying and the other waiting to be hanged.

Mr. Hodgson, the first builder of iron ships in England, said recently that Richard Cobden, an iron vessel which he built 21 years ago, had not cost a shilling for repair from that day to this, and wouldn't for a thousand years to come.

John J. Sackerson, of New York, wants to match any crew from St. John, N. B., or any part of the British provinces or any part of the United States, to row a four-oared race of five or six miles upon the Charles River course, Boston, for $5,000 a side.

A company has been formed at New Haven, Conn., with $125,000 capital, to make and sell Mansfield's elastic frogs for railroads. They are said to last 10 years at the same cost as common ones, which will last only six months.

According to the Troy Times there may still be seen in the Baptist churchyard at Hoosick Falls a rude board which marks of Nathaniel Simmons, the original of Fennimore Cooper's "Deerslayer," and of "Hawkeye," in "The Last of the Mohicans." It is proposed to erect a more imposing monument.

The faculty of the University of Virginia have voted that it is expedient at this time to congratulate the statue of Jefferson, executed in marble by the late Virginia artist, Alexander Galt, of Norfolk. The statue now lies in the University, boxed up, just as it came from Europe.

The silver ware manufactory of Francis W. Cooper, New York, was entered by burglars on the night of the 16th inst. and $10,000 worth of diamonds and $3,000 of silver were taken. Two persons have been arrested on suspicion, David Bartlet an old and celebrated burglar, who has spent eighteen years and six months of his life in State Prisons, and Wm. Coleman, a boy 18 years old.

A story is told of a young lady in Chicago who was betrothed to a Lieutenant at the beginning of the war. He was killed in a battle and brought home and buried by his nearest comrade. The lady transferred her affections to this friend, and they were engaged to be married. As the clergyman was joining their hands in matrimony the lady fainted.—On recovering, she said she had seen the spirit of her lover, who had forbidden the marriage. Out of deference to the wishes of the deceased gentleman, the nuptials were indefinitely postponed, and the heroine has just entered a convent.

"I am a broken man," said a poor poet. "So I should think," was the reply: "for I have seen your pieces."

STATIONERY ALBUMS &c.

GEM SAFES

GOLD PENS

In Pt. of Ketcham,

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c. at

A. JAMES

Here We Come

WITH

GOOD NEWS

For Everybody.

DRY GOODS

AND

FANCY GOODS

Of every description, cheaper than the cheapest and good as the best.

Just received a VERY LARGE and well selected STOCK of

FANCY DRESS GOODS,

ALAPACCAS, MERINOS, PRINTS, DELAINES, FANCY FLANNELS, BALMORALS BROWN AND BLEACHED SHEETINGS,

HOOP SKIRTS,

HOSIERY, GLOVES, BELT RIBBONS, BELT BUCKLES, FANCY DRESS BUTTONS &c.,

Including many other articles to numerous to mention, all of which we pledge ourselves to sell

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Do not fail to call and see us and examine our

GOODS AND PRICES.

In John Usborn's Block,

Holton & Field.

We have also on hand a fine selection of Pianos, Melodeons

PARLOR CABINET ORGANS

AND EVERY VARIETY OF Musical Instruments.

BRASS and SILVER Instruments furnished at Manufacturers prices.

NEW SHEET MUSIC

received daily from the publishers.

HOLTON & FIELD.

Tecumseh, Mich. Aug 31st, 1865.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together edge to edge. Making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single Springs, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies Operas, Carriages, Railroad cars, Church pews, Arm chairs &c. in promenade and house dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress.

A Lady having once tried the pleasure comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 2 ply twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the Single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts.—The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Double Steel, and twice or double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c. &c., which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant corded tapes, and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible, and are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

WM. BRADLEY & CASE, Proprietors of the Invention, and Sole Manufacturers, 97 Chambers and 79 & 81 Reade Streets, New York.

For Sale in all first class Stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada, Havanna de Cuba, Mexico, South America, and the West Indies.

☞ Inquire for the Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

F. R. Stebbins,

Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Voss Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

18 Pronunciamento. 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour sift.

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them.

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd best Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Midlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. w. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE,

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sat.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime.

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL

Corn In the Ear and Shelled

A good assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fe[illegible] Boards, Pine Siding, dressed, White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. W[illegible] fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. W[illegible] purchased at the highest market pri[illegible] also received on storage. Corn, Oa[illegible] Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought [illegible] market price and Cash paid for all [illegible] scriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN.

SELLING CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER MAN WEST of New York City.—Fact. Call and see.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising.
(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	2 wk	3 wk	6 m	1 yr
One square	$ 80;	$ 1.25;	$ 4.50;	$ 6.00;	$ 8.00
Two squares	1.00;	2.00;	3.00;	6.50;	12.00
Three squares	2.50;	3.50;	6.50;	10.00;	14.00
Quarter column	3.00;	4.50;	8.;	14.00;	18.00
Half column	4.00;	8.00;	12.00;	18.00;	30.00
One column	6.00;	10.00;	20.00;	35.00;	60.00

No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied by directions for the number of insertions, will be published until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted at $10 per year.

Job Printing neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

☞ We would say to those who are indebted to us that we must have our dues immediately or the accounts will be placed with an officer for collection. A word to the wise is sufficient.

☞ Extra copies of the Herald can be procured at Ketcham's News Depot.

☞ Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters, Roback's Bitters, Bowes Dodd's Wine Bitters, Newton's Jaundice Bitters, and all other Bitters for sale cheap at the Drug store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

Wanted.

As a curiosity for Barnum, the man, woman or child, who does not know that Ketcham, not only has the largest and best stock of School Books, Stationery, Albums, and all goods connected with the Book and Stationery trade, but that he is selling them as cheap or cheaper than any other man dare sell.

☞ Buy your alapaccas before they go higher. Wastell & Adam have a few lot that they are selling cheap.

Runaways.

On monday last as Hiram Sherman was driving past Brewer's Foundry in company with Robert Culbertson and James Wright, his horse became frightened at the whistle, and ran down the alley by the Church, across the bridge and wildly into the trees in front of Ira Penock's. Here the wagon box and its contents came to a sudden halt, the whole thing down with a general smash, while the horse went on. Mr. Sherman was badly injured, having a deep cut in the head and one shoulder and arm much bruised. One of Mr. Culbertson's thumbs was broken in the fracas and Mr. Wright received a few scratches.

Wednesday forenoon, a large gray team hitched to a light wagon got frightened at the hand-car near Underwood's livery stable and ran across the Railroad track into White's shoe shop, which they bought them up standing. A gentleman and his wife, who were in the wagon were both thrown out and the lady was injured quite serriously, though it is thought not dangerously. The team was owned in the vicinity of Clinton, but we did not learn the owners name. The Railroad track running through the center of the village is an unmitigated nuisance and it is a great pity the Railroad Co. cannot be induced to remove the Depot to some other locality more distant from the business portion of the place and change the track.

☞ Reduced Prices —Go to Wastell & Adam's to buy Dry Goods.

☞ On Tuesday night a family of movers with a wagon of household goods stopped at Nixon's Hotel, leaving the wagon in the back yard, and the next morning they discovered that all their beds and bedding and many other valuable articles had been stolen during the night. The owner of the wagon alleges that "Bill" told him the goods would be perfectly safe outside the barn, but Bill denies it. The officers are after the thief; but at last accounts they had not succeeded in catching him.

Found.

A few days ago a lady went into Ketcham's Book and Stationery Store and found that he had been marking down the prices of Books to exactly what they were retailing for in New York.

☞ Zephyrs at Wastell & Adam's only 40c. an ounce.

☞ The following named persons were drawn as petit jurors to serve at the September term of the Circuit Court: Henry M. Boies, Hudson; Isaac A. Brown, Hudson; Charles S. Ingals, Seneca; James H. Parker, 4th ward; Patrick Winn, 1st ward; John W. Allen, Madison; Robert Wooden, Cambridge; Aaran Brube, Tecumseh; William Bundell, Franklin; Francis Coats, Ridgeway; Miner L. Finch, 4th ward; William Harrington, Tecumseh; John Cavender, 4th ward; Welcome Teachout, Rome; Johnathan Lapham, 2d ward; Charles Seley, Rome; G. V. Bailey, Bliesfield; James H. May, Fairfield; George Lane, Riga; Henry H. Warn, Rollin; Oliver C. Pease, Palmyra; Augustus W. Foote, 4th ward; Edwin D. Crane, Adrian; Smith Shumway, Madison.

☞ Ketcham has been refitting his store and extending his shelving to nearly double its former length to make room for his large stock of School Books and Stationery which will arrive during the present week.

What does it Mean?

We notice that Nixon and Gillispie the proprietors of the two Hotels in town have both put up the sign "This Hotel closed." Something must be in the wind. What is it? That is the question.

☞ Best DeLaines at Wastell & Adam's, 25c. per yard.

Boy run over.

Yesterday an affair occurred in front of Wright's Drug Store that attracted universal attention. A nice carriage drove up before the store, and the lady occupant ordered her boy to run over to Ketcham's and procure his supply of School Books for the full term, as that was the only place in town where a complete assortment could be found. The boy soon returned with his arms full of books, and stated that "Ketch" was selling all books at publishers prices, which were now about 10 per cent. less than last winters prices.

☞ Hoop Skirts, Corsets, Balmoral skirts, Cotton Yarn, Stripe's Checks, Denims, Ticking, Kentucky Jean, can be had cheap at Wastell & Adam's.

Reunion.

At the close of the winter term of 1854—5 the students of the Raisin Valley Seminary then, as now better known as the Quaker School, pledged themselves to to meet again in ten years if circumstances should permit.

On Saturday the 26th of August, this re-union was celebrated; twenty of the thirty-six members being present. After a very interesting social, the company met in the large school-room of the Seminary, and R. V. Robinson Esq. was appointed Chairman. He made a few remarks upon taking the Chair and then introduced the Orator, Prof. Elisha Jones of the Detroit High School, who delivered an eloquent oration upon the subject 'Ten Years.'—The Poet Prof. Daniel Satterthwaite, was then called upon and read the poem—a well written and excellent production. Both these gentlemen paid a high tribute to the lamented teacher who had charge of the school ten years ago, Major James D. Jones. He fell at the head of his regiment, in a cavalry charge, at the battle of Silver Springs.

The company then adjourned to a bountiful repast—meeting again in the evening to renew their pledge, to again return to this spot hallowed by the associations of school days, when another ten years shall have rolled around.

The occasion was one long to be remembered and we look forward with interest to its recurrence.

☞ Dress Trimming, Cord and Tassels, Ribbon's, Button's and other kinds at Wastell & Adam's.

Wanted.

Persons wishing to furnish us wood on subscription to the Herald, must bring it along immediately. We can't defer our fuel arrangements until bad weather sets in and the roads become impassable. "It won't pay," particularly the printer. If this call is not responded to promptly, we expect to let an individual contract for all the wood we will need until spring. We dont mean to be "left out in the cold," as was often the case last winter.

Teacher's Institute.

The Teachers Institute commenced here on Monday last and is still in session.—Superintendent Hosford, Prof. Esterbrook, principal of the Ypsilanti Union School, and Prof. Goodeson of the State Normal School are in attendance as lecturers.—There are six lectures daily three in the forenoon and three in the afternoon.—The Institute thus far has been well attended and the exercises very interesting. On Tuesday evening Superintendent Hosford delivered a public lecture at Bidwell's Hall on Educational Forces, which was attentively listened to by a large audience.

County Fair —The County Fair of Lenawee County will be held at Adrian on the 10th, 11th, and 12th of October.

'Struck Ile.'

Ebenezer Harmon Esq. on the Ridge, bored forty-eight feet for a fountain well, striking at that depth a subterranean current of water, which forces itself with great power to the top of the ground, completely filling a six inch pipe. It is sufficient, well conducted to supply the country with water some distance and is of inestimable value to many farmers in the vicinity, who have hitherto been very destitute of water during the summer months It is thought that a sufficient opening to the above depth will produce a stream large enough to run machinery. Further experiments are to be made.

☞ J. D. Robbins has just received some new and beautiful styles of Jewelry. His assortment of Ladies sets, Pins and Drops, Sleeve Buttons, Gold Pens &c. is larger than ever, which he is selling at reduced prices. He will be pleased to show his goods to any one favoring him with a call.

☞ Now is the time to subscribe and pay for the Tecumseh Herald.

☞ The Phrnological Journal for Sept. has a very readable table of contents, containing sketches of Gen. Grant, F. N. Gibson, the originator of the Atlantic telegraph & other valuable articles.

Something New.—We call attention to the advertisement of the Duplex Elliptic or double Spring Skirt. Though a recent invention, it has become very popular, and is rapidly obtaining the preference over other kinds in use. The rods in it are composed each of two delicate and well-tempered steel springs, which are ingeniously braided together edge to edge, the lower rods heavier, and having a double covering. This peculiarity of construction makes this skirt very strong and durable, and also so exceedingly flexible that it readily adapts itself to the form of the wearer, and allows of any amount of doubling and crushing without injury to its shape. These skirts are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical ever made. These are advantages which ladies, who have experienced the disagreeable inconvenience of single springs, will duly appreciate.

The State Fair.—In speaking of our State fair, the Chicago Tribune says:

The State fair this year will be held at Adrian on the line of the Michigan Southern railroad, commencing Tuesday, Sept. 19th, and closing on Friday, the 22d. The fairs of this society for the past three years have been held at Kalamazoo, and have been very successful.—Kalamazoo, by usage, is a fair city. But the society anticipate even a greater success by giving the fair the novelty of a new location, and Adrian has been chosen with good judgment. The officers of the Michigan Agricultural society understand their business, and their programme this year is equal to any emergency;—Their premium list is large, and its details well chosen. If the weather permits the fair will be a great success.

☞ Grant and Sherman; their campaigns and Generals, is the title of a new work now in press, written by Hon. J. T. Headley, author of Napoleon and his Marshals, Washington and his Generals, History of the Rebellion &c. The work will be comprised in one large volume containing nearly six hundred pages and embellished with fine steel engravings of eighteen generals, numerous battle scenes &c. It is written in Headley's usual elegant style, and will no doubt be a very valuable work. It will be just about as good as a history of the last two years of the war. We consider it the best work of the kind that has appeared as yet.—No man who deserves to be posted upon the greatest campaignes of the war should be without it. It is sold only by subscription.

Good Advice.

Kind reader, would you always live
In peace and plenty, joy and health,
Possess an easy conscience here,
Enjoy the bounteous fruits of wealth?
And would'st you shun the cares and toils
Of this vain world, its bounteous strife?
Then listen to this wise advice,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Have you a pleasant, happy home,
And children full of mirth and glee,
Who always greet you with a kiss,
And climb upon their father's knee;
And is this home made doubly dear
By loving, fond and gentle wife?
O see that they may never want,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Of S. C. Stacy, Agent.

☞ R. C. Moore, informs us that he is now receiving new goods. Elegant Merrimac Prints, De-Laines, Brown and Bleached Cottons, Cotton Yarn, Childrens white Cotton Hose in various sizes, old fashioned Cotton Batts—"as is Batts," Carpet Twine, Dress trimmings or anything else you want. Whenever you go to Moore's—if you do not see what you want, ask for it and you will be pretty sure to find it there. Goods of all kinds are scarce in the market now, but he manages to find scarce goods if they are to be found anywhere. Bear it in mind—and look at his elegant Flexible Skirts, you can wind them around your arm and take them home.

Life, Speeches and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln, by J. H. Barrett, com. of Pensions. Mr. S. L. Beal, is now canvassing for the above entitled work, which is a complete history of his early life, political speeches in and out of Congress, also a general view of his policy as President of the United States and his messages, Proclamations, letters &c., and a concise history of the war. It embodies the events of the first 3 years of his administration, and will contain the history of the last year of his administration and the particulars of his tragic and lamented demise. Mr. Beal will call upon the citizens of Tecumseh, Franklin, Combridge, Woodstock, and Macon, and give them a chance to subscribe for this valuable work It is sold wholly by subscription, so do not fail to become a subscriber.

List of Letters

Remaining in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Aug. 31, 1865

Allen Timothy	Bonnell Mrs Aaron
Boyd M M	Chase L
Cunshon L	Chase Nancy J
Fleming W	Gleason Mrs C
Jefferson Wm	King W
Langan H	Marras Miss Libbie
Milener E	Miller Mrs Mary
Pattison Mary M	Strong E
Stump Miss C 2	Smith Wm K
Tuthill W H	Wilson David

Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner, and leave space between the stamp and direction for post marking without interfering with the writing.

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

N. B.—A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within 30 days or less, written or printed with the writer's name, postoffice and State across the left-hand end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with at the usual prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer—Sec. 28, law of 1863.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

CONSISTING OF

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best filled Establishments!

A LARGE STOCK,

Most Varied

Stock of Furniture

Is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

Rooms in the

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St., Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notic by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pictures Framed to Order...

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style,

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VanTine,
G. Smith.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to make room for other Goods Better bargains can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county. Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy

Probate Notice.

State of Michigan,—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday, the 30th day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher. Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of John Culbertson deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of John E. Culbertson a son of said deceased, praying that the last will of said deceased may be proved and allowed and that Robert Culbertson may be appointed executor thereat.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 16th day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner ... should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the said Petitioner ... give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petion, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ROBERT R. BEECHER,
(A true Copy) n759 Judge of Probate.

Village Lots For Sale!

I propose to open the streets and have my ten acre lot laid out in lots to suit purchasers. It is a beautiful location south of west school house. Terms easy. Cash or on time. Also 7 acres with orchard and all kinds of fruit, good house barns, shede &c. Also other Houses and Lots, situated in the beautiful village o Tecumseh. June, 1865.

☞ McCOWEN

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICH.

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the busines If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n706 A. JAMES.

NEW AND CHEAP

CASH STORE.

WASTEL & ADAM.

have just opened in the village of Tecumseh at No. 2,

MECHANICS' BLOCK

The most choice and splendid stock of

DRY GOODS

Ever offered for sale in Southern Michigan. Their stock consists entirely of the very NEWEST and LATEST styles of

DRESS GOODS, FANCY GOODS, Yankee Notions &c. embracing

SILKS,
ALAPACAS, DELAINES,
CALICOES, PRINTS,
SHAWLS, LACES,
RIBBONS, SHIRTINGS,
SHEETINGS,
WORSTEDS,

And everything in the Dry Goods Line. Their Goods were all purchased at

PANIC PRICES,

since the late fall in New York, and will be sold as low as at any Store in the West.

We can, and will sell as low as any Dry Goods Store in Lenawee County, or elsewhere. Quick sales for READY CASH and SMALL PROFITS, is our motto.

☞ Call and see our

HOOP SKIRTS AND INVISIBLE CLASPED

New York Bell Balmorel

If you wish to encourage competition, which is the life of business, please favor us with a portion of your patronage.

Call and see, and examine Goods and Prices and judge for yourselves.

Tecumseh, April 4th, 1865. n749y1

WARD & STRICKLAND,

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. . . Tecumseh, Mich.

DENTISTRY.

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices.

Dissolution.

The co-partnership heretofore existing under the name and style of Deuel & Wilbur is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The accounts due said firm can be found with L. Wilbur. A prompt settlement is requested.

T. DEUEL,
L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Aug. 24, 1865.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co: if you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April, 4 '65. A. JAMES

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just rece p York, and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hood's, north side of Chicago street.

DISSOLUTION.

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent. G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — ☞ Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

M. S. & N. I. Rail Road.

Winter Arrangement.

1864. 1864.

On and after May 16th, 1864, Passenger trains will leave Tecumseh station as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING EAST.

Leave 7.03 a. m., arrive at Adrian 7.30; Toledo, 9.15 a. m. Leave 1.05 p. m. arrive at Adrian 1.30, Toledo 3.40 p. m.

Both trains connecting at Toledo with trains for the east.

Trains leave Adrian for Chicago, 8.50 a. m. and 2.05 p. m. Leave Adrian for Hillsdale, 6.15 p. m. Leave Adrian for Detroit 8.00 a. m and 5.40 p. m.

GOING WEST.

Leave 9.32 a. m. arrive at Jackson, 11.00 a. m. Leave 5.40 p. m. arrive at Jackson, 7.00 p. m.

For full details, see the Company's Posters and Time Tables at the Depot and other public places.

Trains are run by Chicago time, which is twenty minutes slower than Toledo or Detroit time.

C. F. HILAND, Gen'l Ticket Agt. Toledo. E. H. POTTER, Gen'l Superintendent, Toledo, Ohio.

Advantages of this Plow

It will last from twice to six times as long as any other Steel Plow now in use.

It is very easy on the team, as it does not scour in any soil.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed.

It draws lighter than any other Plow.

Any section can be replaced by a mechanic, to be had of any Agent, at the cost of a few cents.

It is well stocked with New Improvements, and we stand ready to supply a complete set of patterns at any time.

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, working equally well in clay, muck, or sand, turning a clean furrow, and turns under all the leaf trash completely.

CHARGES: PLOWS, etc.

These remarks are made for a familiar with the wants of farmers in the West, and are offered with a good reputation for this Plow.

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for the Prairies, and is offered to the trade and farmers with a full stock of patterns (which we keep on hand at our warehouse) of all its castings, and we can supply the trade with plows as they prefer.

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tinion & Sayles, Toledo.

Chancery Sale

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court, for the County of Lenawee, in Chancery, made on the 6th day of April, 1865, in a cause wherein Lewis Brooks is complainant, and Hannah Rowland and others are defendants, Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the Room of the City Assessor, where the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee is held, on the 8th day of September, 1865, at 9 o'clock in the afternoon, all that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Tecumseh in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, bounded and described as follows: Said premises commencing at a point in the center of the Chicago road, twenty-seven feet west of the west abutment of the public bridge across the mill race of the Lenawee mill property, thence west along the center of said road, [illegible] feet; thence south [illegible] feet; thence east [illegible] feet; thence north [illegible] feet to the place of beginning, containing [illegible] acres of land, be the same more or less, reserving always from the operation of the mortgage all the rights and privileges of the owners of the mill race, by [illegible] and water in said race.

George Lindsley and Harriet [illegible], dated January 2nd, 1859, the mortgagors intended to convey and convey the mortgaged premises, one half only of the premises being their property and appurtenances.—Dated 27th, 1865.

J. J. B. [illegible]
Circuit Court Commissioner.

E. Bo[illegible], Sol for Complt.

To the People of Lenawee County.

Gentlemen of Lenawee:

The fear of the loss of the records in this office of being [illegible] in consequence of their not being [illegible] meeting what I now deem [illegible] The necessary steps [illegible] Firms, [illegible] mortgages, [illegible] and release mortgages, [illegible] Deed, Mortgage, Assignment, Quit Claim Deed, Mortgage, Assignment, Quit Claim Mortgage not being recorded, will consequently [illegible] and deprive the Title to Real Estate [illegible] conveyed, delaying the sale and hindering and [illegible] the settlement of many others, which might suggest. I endeavor to avert this as far as possible by publishing to the people the danger to themselves and wrong to others in anticipation of the coming State Fair and the large number of people who will visit the City of Adrian on that occasion, [illegible] Winter 1863 and 1864 [illegible] suggest to myself to meet be a favorable time for a large [illegible] to collect together all mortgages, papers in their possession from Government [illegible] the present time, and have them placed upon the records where they should have been long ago.

Further, I would state that there are now in this office about Two Hundred Deeds and other papers which have been accumulating for the last 20 years. Unrecorded in consequence of their not being presented.

In making these suggestions, it is with a consciousness that I am doing my duty as a Public Officer; that the titles to your lands are of vastly more importance to you than myself. You will admit. That you may avail yourselves of the above suggestions this office will be kept open in business hours during the coming State Fair.

Wm. A. WHITNEY, Register of Deeds.

Ballard, Hood, Dec. 8, 1864.—With your permission, I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send, by return mail, to all who wish it (free), a Receipt, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm that effectually removes in ten days, Pimples, Blotches, Tan, Freckles, and all Impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and beautiful.

I will also send free to those having Bald Heads, or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxuriant Hair. Whiskers or Mustaches, in less than thirty days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours, [illegible] Chemist, 41 Broadway, New York.

Corporation Notice.

The annual meeting of the corporation shall be on the first and third Mondays of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. (unless the first Monday be a legal holiday, then on the next day following), at the office of the Recorder.

C. Blanchard, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 20th, 1865.

"In proof thereof the contents are powerful,
For the which humbles Continents to cure."

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering the possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands

of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula,	Syphilis,
Skin Diseases,	Old Sores,
Salt Rheum,	Rheumatism,
Dyspepsia,	Sick Headache,
Liver Complaint,	Fever and Ague,
Leucorrhœa,	Female Complaints,
Erysipelas,	St. Anthony's Fire,
Tumors,	Eruptions,
Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away. The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years, cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

which, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the abovementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache,	Costiveness,
Colic Pains,	Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion,	Pain in the Bowels,
	Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you Love ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

Principal office and Salesroom, No. 6 East Fourth St., M Building from Main St., Cincinnati, O. Laboratory, No. 1 Hammond Street.

FOR SALE BY

[illegible] & Baker.

Old and young should use

STERLING'S AMBROSIA FOR THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y, SOLE PROPRIETORS, NEW YORK.

[illegible] Manufacturing Chemists, Grand Haven, Mich., are the sole agents for Army Blackberry, in one or two applications, also cures all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Ulcers, Old Sores, Gangrene and Rheumatism. It contains no Mercury, and is safe to use at any time. Only 25 cents a bottle.

OLIVER CROOK & CO. Dayton O.

Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Ehlers & Baker, Tecumseh, Mich.

Cards and Circulars, Engraved Free of charge to purchasers of 6 bottles.

A. JAMES.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

A healthy tone, vigor and life are imparted to the morning sportsman, traveler, or those who use Swain's Bourbon Bitters in more than fifty United States and Territories, and millions of persons testify, and in the same breath say Bitters which has been especially compiled from stump tail by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

which are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, for having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strength to correct the bilious derangements of the system, such as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Liver Affections, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirits, Sallow Complexion, Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Try every one by those agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity, so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.—

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ Ladies, who have tried and found most other "Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strengthen the whole system.

☞ If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters, have him send for them.—☞ Remember the name, and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical Journals, and a description of this Medicine, entered by the Medical Profession, are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

DR. C. H. SWAIN, PROPRIETOR.

OFFICES— 575 Broadway, New York. 84 South Water St., Chicago.

C. A. COOK, General Agent for the West, Office, 26 Market Street, Chicago.

These bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their great success in curing Liver or Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

which, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the abovementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache,	Costiveness,
Colic Pains,	Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion,	Pain in the Bowels,
	Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you Love ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

Principal office and Salesroom, No. 6 East Fourth St., M Building from Main St., Cincinnati, O. Laboratory, No. 1 Hammond Street.

FOR SALE BY

[illegible] & Baker.

Old and young should use

STERLING'S AMBROSIA FOR THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y, SOLE PROPRIETORS, NEW YORK.

[illegible] Manufacturing Chemists, Grand Haven, Mich., are the sole agents for Army Blackberry, in one or two applications, also cures all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Ulcers, Old Sores, Gangrene and Rheumatism. It contains no Mercury, and is safe to use at any time. Only 25 cents a bottle.

OLIVER CROOK & CO. Dayton O.

Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Ehlers & Baker, Tecumseh, Mich.

Cards and Circulars, Engraved Free of charge to purchasers of 6 bottles.

A. JAMES.

GLORIOUS NEWS.

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young America. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold. Sample:

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broadcloth and cassimere coats very cheap. Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool.

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars, Neck Ties, Shirts, Gloves, Hosiery, Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save a great expense, being a tailor, and having no other business for the last 3 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

U. S. 7-30 Loan!

Third Series

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General Subscription agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the

7-30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under Acts of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent. GOLD-BEARING BONDS.

These Bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County and municipal taxation, which adds from one to five per cent. to their value, when compared with other property. The interest is payable semi-annually, by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker. The interest at 7-30 per cent. amounts to

One cent per day on a	$50 note
Twenty " "	"	$100	"
Ten " "	"	$500	"
20 " "	"	$1000	"
$1 " "	"	$5000	"

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the 7-30 already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying in a certain [illegible] per cent. instead of [illegible] currency.

Subscribers will receive in addition to the interest in currency up to July 15 [illegible] the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven Thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of the third series, which now makes the coupons payable at the payment in gold, is made with a view to equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchasers made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent. in currency. This is

Only Loan in the Market

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the

GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within two months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on every other issue of securities. In other Loans it now seems probable that no considerable amount beyond the present series will be offered to the public.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the Loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscription at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

JAY COOKE,
SUBSCRIPTION AGENT, Philadelphia.

May 1st, 1865.

Subscriptions will be received by the First National Bank of Tecumseh.

First National Bank of Ypsilanti, and the First National Bank of Detroit.

Guardian Sale.

In the matter of the estate of James S. Collins, a minor.

By virtue of a license of sale to me granted by the Court of Probate of the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder at the barn on the land hereinafter described on the 25th day of July, 1865, at two o'clock in the afternoon all the interest of James S. Collins, a minor, in and to all that tract or parcel of land situate in the town of Macon in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as south part (24 acres) of the east half of south east quarter of section five; also south quarter of west half of south west quarter of section four; also east half of west half of south west quarter of said section four. Terms made known on day of sale.—Dated, June, 8th, 1865.

JAMES B. CRAMER,
Guardian of said Minor.

n768w7

Commissioners Notice.

We the undersigned having been appointed commissioners by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee to, adjust claims against the Estate of Jacob Litchard, deceased, would give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the residence of Jacob Litchard, in Macon, on Saturday the 1st day of July, 1865, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day. When all persons having claims against said estate are to appear and present their said claims for allowance and that six months from this date are allowed for creditors to present their claims for allowance.—Macon, June 5th, 1865.

JOHN JACKSON,
DAVID BERDAN,
Commissioners.

If you want to find the best assortment of

English, French & Scotch Cassimeres

in the county go to A. HOODES.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY, GLASS, ROCKINGHAM, EARTHERN,

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE,

of the LATEST and BEST English brands. Also a splendid assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions.

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices.

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

Mrs. O. McCoy,

is now receiving the largest and best selected stock of millinery goods which were

BOUGHT since the GOLD PANIC

consisting of

Bonnets, Hats, Ribbons &c.,

EVER BROUGHT TO THIS TOWN

which she is selling cheaper than any other establishment of the kind or

DRY GOODS STORE DARE SELL.

Such a magnificent display of goods is seldom seen in the towns of the West. Walk up, Ladies, and see me and hear the prices.

BLEACHING AND PRESSING done in the neatest manner. Remember the place and do not fail to call.

Mrs. O. McCOY.

Tecumseh, April 18th, 1865.

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee. The vilest trash, under Java and Taking names, has been thrust upon the public. Rejected and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their labels and wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to supply this demand.

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of Uniform Standard and Quality. Specially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable. If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our Ground Spices, Mustar, Cream Tartar, Baking Soda, and Saleratus, put up at the Java Mills will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Groceries will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, G. Lawrence, B. J. Bidwell, P. N. Curtis, Fisher & Baker, Ketcham & Conkling, at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCHIBARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No. 52, Vesey Street, New York.

To Consumptives.

The undersigned having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread the information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address

REVERAND EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County New York. 7[illegible]

ATLANTIC & GREAT WEST'N RAILWAY.

New Broad Gauge

PASSENGER, FREIGHT, MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH ROUTE.

Connection at Salamanca, N. Y., with the Erie Railway, forms continuous Six Feet Track from New York to Akron or Cleveland.

On and after Monday, November 28th, 1864, Through Passenger and Freight Trains will run regularly between

CLEVELAND & NEW YORK,

NEW AND IMPORTANT PASSENGER ROUTE.

FARE AS LOW AS BY ANY OTHER ROUTE.

BAGGAGE CHECKED THROUGH.

Passengers by this Line have choice of Five different Routes between New York and Buffalo.

TICKETS THROUGH

Can be obtained at any of the Offices of the Erie Railway and all Ticket Offices of Connecting Lines West or south-west; also at the Central Ticket Office, under the Weddell House, Cleveland, O.

Ask for Tickets via the Atlantic and Great Western and Erie Railways.

Passenger Trains stop at Meadville thirty minutes, giving passengers ample time to dine at the

"McHENRY HOUSE,"

The best Railway Hotel in the country.

NEW AND EXPEDITIOUS FREIGHT LINE

ALL RAIL.

No transhipment of Freight between New York and Akron or Cleveland.

Merchants in the West or Southwest will find it to their advantage to order their goods to be forwarded via the Erie and Atlantic & Great Western Railways, thus saving trouble and expense.

Rates of Freight as low as by any other all Rail Route.

Especial attention will be given to the transportation of Freight of all kinds, East or West.

The Engines, Cars and other equipments of this Company are entirely new, and of the most improved modern style.

The only direct route to the oil region.

OIL REGIONS OF PENNSYLVANIA

Via Meadville or Corry.

From Leavittsburgh, the Mahoning Branch runs to Youngstown and the Coal Mines.

This Road is being ballasted and will soon be in complete repair, making it a Gilton, Ophana, Dayton, Cincinnati, without break of Gauge.

J. FARNSWORTH, General Freight Agent.

T. H. GOODMAN, General Ticket Agent.

H. G. SAYERS, Gen'l Supt.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 10, 1864.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Counterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND NOT YET TAKEN

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh, Mich.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 10th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Calvin Wood, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Jane E. Wood administrator, de bonis non, of said estate praying for the allowance of her final account and distribution of said estate, and her discharge.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 24th day of July next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.) n767w4

Commissioners Notice.

Estate of Jacob D. Harring, deceased.

The undersigned appointed by the Judge of Probate of Lenawee county commissioners to receive, hear and audit claims against said estate, hereby give notice that for such purpose they will meet at the late residence of Jacob D. Harring deceased, in the township of Macon, on the 10th day of July and the 27th day of October next, at 10 o'clock of each day; and also give notice that said Judge of Probate has allowed six months next ensuing the 27th day of April, 1865, for the creditors of said estate to present their claims.

ISRAEL PENINGTON,
JOHN SAGE, Commissioners.

Dated, May 1st 1865. 7w4w4

The Bridal Chamber, an Essay of Warning and instruction for Young Men—published by the Howard Association, and sent free of charge in sealed envelopes. Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Howard Association, Philadelphia, Pa. 7491y

Ackley has the largest stock of Hosiery, Gloves &c. ever brought to town.

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage, made by George Allison, of Macon, Michigan, to James Patton, of the same place, dated twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty four, and recorded 18th of March 1864, at 9 o'clock A. M., in the Register's office for the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan, in liber 3 of mortgages on pages 720 and 721, upon which there is claimed to be due, and unpaid at the date of this notice, of the first instalment thereon, one hundred and eighty 68-100 dollars, and the further sum of [illegible] hundred dollars and interest, remaining unpaid, therein hereafter with interest thereon now due and payable by reason of such default, making now due and payable the sum of seven hundred and eighty two dollars for the recovery of which sum or any part thereof, no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted, Notice is therefore, hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and provided, on the twenty seventh day of June next ensuing the date hereof, at three o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the front door of the Hall, the place of holding the Circuit Court for said County of Lenawee, in the city of Adrian, in said county, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be due and payable on said mortgage by reason of said default and interest, together with the costs and expenses allowed by law and stipulated in said mortgage; said premises to be described in said mortgage as follows, namely: situate in the township of Tecumseh, Lenawee county, Michigan, known as the north east quarter of the north west quarter of section No. thirty five (35) town [illegible] (5) south of range five (5) east, containing forty acres more or less.

JAMES PATTON Mortgagee.

P. R. ADAMS, Attorney.

Dated March 20th, 1865. n747w1

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 18th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Stephen E. Cole, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified of Julia McDole praying that the administration of said estate may be directed to convey certain lands of said deceased to said petitioner for reasons in said petition stated.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 5th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the next of kin of said minor and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, six successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

A true Copy.) n760w

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 25th day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of George A. Stanton deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Gilbert J. Stanton a brother of said deceased praying that a duly authenticated copy of the last will of said deceased, of the Surrogate Court of Orleans County New York, and the probate thereof may be filed and recorded in this office for reasons stated in said petition.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 1st day of May next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.

(A true Copy.) 756w4

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 28th day of July in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Oliver B. Taylor, administrator of said estate praying that he may be licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased to pay the debts of said deceased and expenses of administration.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 18th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.

(A True Copy.) 756-w5

made from the PURE JUICE of CATAWBA GRAPE, which grows in abundance in Ohio and from which this article is obtained, has an agreeable flavor, fine color, and possesses all the qualities for medicinal purposes. For a Beverage of the best imported brandies. As a flavoring in mince pies and other cooking purposes it is the best article of the kind. It is a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found ready sales, and is daily gaining in popularity, giving to it, in cases, the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally throughout the U. S.

W. ROBACK, Proprietor,
56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

If you are in need of anything in Ackley's.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 15. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 7 1865. WHOLE NO. 769.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
PINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

—o—

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

an any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

l goods sold as good as recommended.

—o—

CASH FOR RAGS!

—o—

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Dried Apples, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH, - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,
JUVENILES,
Bibles and Testaments,
Hymn Books for all Denominations,
BLANK BOOKS
Sheet Music,
Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and Cheap Publications of the day received as soon as publ hed.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE!!

aving received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass, Window Sashes,

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country. Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

WANTED.

Butter, Eggs, Pork, Dried Meats, Lard, Dried Fruits, Paper Rags, &c, &c, for which I will pay the Highest price in Cash.

To those who wish to pack their own Butter I will furnish Packages free of charge Give me a call. A. JAMES.

THUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.
Express Freight,	7:08 A. M
Mail and Express,	1:06 P. M.
GOING NORTH.
Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD,
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES.
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING,
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilets, &c.
Chicao St. Tecumseh, Mich.

P. N. CURTIS.
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER,
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Agents of the Peoples Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG.
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. HANFORD,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harnass and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. O. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

I. C. SATTERTHWAITE.
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT,
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh. Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

HENRY H. PACKARD,
Union Livery, Feed and Sale Stable,
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT.
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich

The Diamond Ring.

"MY DEAR BILL: Take the horse at two hundred dollars. It is below his worth—but I must have the money. I want to buy a diamond breastpin for the prettiest woman in Boston Say nothing to my wife about this—it must be a secret—especially from her.

Yours, truly, DASHER."

The above note addressed to Mr. William Graves, a malicious bachelor of a certain age, by Mr. Augustus Dasher, a friend of his who had been married some two years to a very charming woman, and supposed to have sworn his wild oats.—but of this man Mr. Graves had his doubts. He had no faith in the reformation of fast young men, and moreover he had no wish that Dasher should become a model beause he had courted the young lady he married himself, and he now kept up his intimacy with the young couple, it was in the beneuevolent hope of finding some means to annoy them and make them unhappy.

Hence Mr. Graves very readily consumated the bargain, and sent his friend two hundred dollars for his horse, reserving his secret to be used to his disadvantage as occasion might suit.

Soon after this transaction, Graves was invited to spend the day with his friend.

"My dear boy," said Dasher, when they met, "I want you to do the amiable to my wife this afternoon. Get her out of the way for an hour or two. I am expecting a person to see me and I don't want my wife to see the—the person."

"Is the person a lady or gentleman?" asned Graves.

"A lady," replied Dasher; "but not a word of this to my wife. Here she comes. Get her out of the way as quick as you can, for I am expecting my visitor every moment."

Mrs. Dasher entered the drawing room a moment afterward. She was a beautiful creature, and very fond of her husband and for this reason somewhat disposed to jealousy. After some indifferent conversation Graves invited her to go to the Athenæum Gallery, and though she seemed not much inclined to accept, her husband urged her vemently to go.

"You seem very anxious to get rid of me," she said somewhat pettishly "Are you going with us?"

"No my dear, I have something to occupy me at home.

Here Mrs. D. detected a wink passing between her husband and Mr. Graves, and became yet more disinclined to the proposal.

"I believe I shall stay at home," said she, somewhat pettishly, "I have a headache."

"The best thing you can do is to take a little walk," said her husband eagerly.

But before she could reply, a footman entered and said in a mysterious way to Mr. Dasher:

"Sir, a person is inquiring for you."

"Show the person to my study," said Mr. Dasher, "I will join the person directly."

The servant bowed and left.

"My dear," said Dasher, nervously, "you must excuse me. A—a person is waiting to see me in my study. Graves remember?" and with this the gentleman followed the servant.

"A person! a person! in his study? Who is this person sir? Can you enlighten me?"

"I don't know indeed, madam," replied Graves with a hypocritical sigh.

"Mr. Graves," said the lady, "I am convinced that you know more than you are willing to tell. You are a friend of the family, and we have no secrets from you. I am free to confess that I am jealous of Mr. Dasher, but I must own that he has never given me any cause.—Still, his conduct to-day has been very strange. And now his mysterious visitor. What am I to think of it?"

"Indeed, my dear madam," said Graves "I don't know her name any more than you do"

"Her name!" shrieked Mrs. Dasher. "It is a lady then. My worst fears are confirmed. My husband loves me no longer,' and she burst into a flood of tears.

"Well," said the old bachelor, "I never could bear to see a womon in distress. Agustus is my friend—but you are too, my friend I cannot bear to see deception practised. And perhaps this note may throw some light upon the cause of your sorrow."

Mrs. Dasher read the private note of her husband which Mr. Graves handed to her.

"I thank you, Mr. Graves," she said, with forced calmness. "But I pray you to leave me. No one must witness either my struggles or my interview with that man—that—that loafer. Leave me Mr. Graves to deal with him alone.—Another time I shall know how to thank you."

Graves wended his way hame, rejoicing at having thrown a firebrand into his friend's household. The poor lady, after a hysterical burst of weeping, succeeded in calming herself and prepared to meet Dasher, the perfidious.

* * *

"My dear," said Dasher, do you remember what day this is?"

There was no reply.

"It is the anniversary of our wedding day."

"Why do you remind me of it?" asked Mrs. Dasher.

"Because," said Dasher, "as it the happiest day of my life, I think it might not be indifferent to you. And here, Ellen, is a slight token of my remembrance."

He handed her a small case—she opened it. It contained a beautiful diamond breastpin.

"Is this for me?" cried Mrs. Dasher in astonishment.

"Certainly. I wish it were handsomer. But I am rather short just now.—but where is Graves? I wanted to have some fun with him I wrote him that I designed this pin for the prettiest woman in Boston. It would have been egotistical, you know to have confessed to him that I thought my wife the prettiest woman in town—aye, in the wide world, as I do."

"My dear Augustus, answer me one question, and make me the happiest woman in the world. Who was that lady that called upon you just now?"

She shall answer for herself," said Dasher, throwing open the door.

"Dear sister!" cried Mrs. Dasher, throwing herself into the arms of a very pretty woman; and what brought you on from New York?"

"A letter from Augustus," answered the sister.

"I planned a surprise for you," said Dasher. "I wanted Graves to take you out for a walk, so that when you came back you might find Jenny installed in your drawing room. But where is that Graves?"

"Don't ask me," said Mrs. Dasher, blushing. "He's gone, and I never want to see him again. He's a snake in the grass—a false friend—sour, cross, envious bachelor, and I advise you, dear Augustus, never to trust him, for he'll be sure to betray you. I thank you a thousand times for my diamond breastpin, and for sister's visit—but if ever you ask me to receive Bill Graves again, I shall quarrel with you outright."

It was some days before Dasher found Graves out, but after that, whenever Mr Graves called he was not at home—and his wife too.

How to Cook a Husband.

As Mrs. Glass said of the hare you must first catch him. Having done so, the mode of cooking him, so as to make a good dith of him, is as follows:—Many good husbands are spoiled in the cooking; some women go about as if their husbands were bladders, and blow them up; others keep them constantly in hot water; whilst others freeze them by conjugal calddess; some smother them in hatred, contention, and varience; and some keep them in pickle all their lives. These women always serve them up with tongue sauce.

Now, it cannot be supposed that husbands will be tender and good if managed in this way. But they are, on the contrary, very delicious when managed as follows:—Get a large jar, called the jar of carefulness (which all good wives have on hand), place your husband in it, and set him near the fire of conjugal love; let the fire be pretty hot, but specially let it be clear; above all let the heat be constant; cover him over with affection, kindness, and subjection; garnish with modest becoming familiarity; add a spice of pleasantry; and if you add kisses and other confectioneries, let them be accompanied with a sufficient bortion of secrecy, mixed with prudence and good sense.

We would advise all good wives to try this recipe, and realise how admirable a dish a husband is when properly cooked.

Bedbugs are said to be outrageous this summer, and we are called upon by our readers, who insist that we shall provide a remedy. We can only say that a gentleman of our acquaintance who was very much annoped by them, got up and read the riot act. If that won't make them disperse, we don't know what will.

My Railroad Adventure.

BY ROSALIE RITTENOVEN.

Rain, rain, rain! but that is always my luck. I am the most unfortunate mortal in existance; I never made up my mind to go anywhere but what the very cloud must weep over my anticipated pleasure So thought I one morning while preparing for a little trip to Philadelphia, to see a very dear friend of mine. And I should certainly have postponed my visit had I not learned by experience that it would keep raining until I did so.

It was therefore in not the most desirable humor that I took my seat in the ladies car, inwardly invoking the gods to send me, at least somebody to talk to. I presume almost every one is aware to a lady "talk" is quite a balm for illnature.

After a critical examination of my fellow passengers, in hopes of finding among the different physiognomies one that I would have the courage to assail with my conversational shafts, I subsided into mournful nothingness, for no pleasant face did I find; and with an inward Ugh! I concluded to make the best of my time by ensconsing myself in the corner of my seat, and taking a nap. But very few moments elapsed ere I was bowing and nodding to Father Morpheus at a dangerous rate, from which I was aroused by a very musical voice saying:

"If this seat is not engaged, may I beg permission to sit here?"

To which I replied by taking my feet down and drawing my skirts closer toward me.

"We are having very disagreeable weather"

I did not see fit to reply, so I honored him with a scowl.

Mr. impudence, however, nothing daunted, proceeded with:

"It must be something very urgent that would take a lady out such a day as this. Do you go far?"

"That is my business."

To which hasty reply my interlocutor made such a ridiculous face that my risibles became stronger than my dignity, and I could not restrain the laugh that would come in spite of me. He also joined in; and we were soon chatting like old friends, and before we parted we exchanged cards, with the hope that we would not meet again.

I still hope so.

I arrived in due time at my friend's house and of couse I related my little adventure, forth most brilliatly all the good qualities of my new friend, and was about to show the card he had given me, when lo! I put my hand into my pocket and found my pocket-book had disappeared, my dress cut, and myself minus all the money I had taken with me.

I pass over the consternation of the moment; I did not regret the loss of the money so much as I regretted my foolishness to be bamboozeled—if we may use the term. I imagined I could see him laugh when looking at my card. I vowed then and there neves to trust another good looking fellow passenger.

How well and how long I kept that vow you will see before long.

Two weeks passed along quite pleasantly in the nice Quaker City. I had recovered from the shock I had received, and was prepared to face half a dozen good looking rogues when I took the cars to return to New York. Again the sun refused to shine, and again the Storm king held sway, but this time I did not hunt some one to talk to, but sat reading very quietly, and once in a while looking out of the northwest corner of my eye at a neat, plain, but very gentlemanly looking man, who sat next to me. (I will state here that I had taken good care to put my new pocket-book out of harm's way, and not tempt another rascal to take care of it for me. While wondering who he was and thinking I should like to hear him speak, I fell asleep.

Now, for a lady to sit in an upright position and sleep with any comfort, is an utter impossibility. Nevertheless, after bowing in the various directions, and mashing my "dixie" into anything but a fashionable, I at last became obivious to the surroundings How long I thus peacefully slumbered, I cannot say; but when I opened my eyes, I was not a little astonished to find that my head was pillowed,—upon another strangers breast. O blushing maidens who read these lines, only think what you would have done under such harrassing circumstances. I must confess that I did feel like boxing the gen's ears, but I did not have heart to be unselfish. For one moment I was very quiet, then stily peeping into his face to see if he observed that I was awake, and finding that he did, and was nothing to himself, I compassed all the dignity I was master of and hastily coming to an upright position exclaimed:

"Sir I think you are very bold, how dare you?"

Oh the wretch! I shall never forget he mischievious smile that he gave me as he said:

"Indeed you must pardon me. I really could not help it. It was really heart rending to see your poor little head keeping time to the music of the cars."

The blood rushed in torrents to my face, to think he an entire stranger, should dare to ridicule me to my face. I am certain my eyes flashed fire as I replied:

"Well, I don't thank you for your very disinterested kindness; in future please restrain your generous impulses until they are asked for," and, turning my face toward the window, became very much interested in admiring the landscape until we arrived at the depot, when my neighbor-traveler, courteously taking his hat said:

"I hope to have the pleasure of meeting you again; good evening."

Several evenigs after, I was invited to a little party to be given at a friend's house. Of course, I attended. In the course of the evening, Mrs. Farrell, the lady at whose house the party was given, came dancing up to me, saying:

"I have such a delightful friend I wish to introduce you to; now mind, Puss, I want you to captivate him. He is all you could desire, wealthy, wise and handsome."

And away she went to bring this modern Adonis.

Judge of my astonishment on seeing her return, leaning on the arm of my saucy friend who had served as a pillow on the cars. After being introduced, he said:

"Did I not tell you that we would meet again?"

And that was not the only time that we have met, and we soon came to the conclusion that we had better take another journey together—a journey that will end only in death.

And this is how I lost my purse and found a husband. But I would advise all romantic young ladies to beware of teresting young gents, and take warning by my little railroad adventure.

Justice Coming Home.

Students at the United States naval academies are not permitted to marry, but some time since, before the naval scool was removed from Annapolis, an amorous cadet, unwilling to defer his happiness till the receipt of his commission, ventured upon a private marriage with a young beauty of the place.—Nothing remained but to keep the secret. The preacher knew nothing of this however, and cursorily let the mouse of the trap, so that an old professor, who disliked cadets because they beseiged in quads a certain pretty daughter he had, ascertained the fact without ascertaining but one of the names, and he court-martialed the cadet immediately. Despite the personal entreaties of youth, the case was brought up. He acknowledged the fact, pleadingnilty and fell back upon the mercy of the court. The old professor aforesaid sternly objected; he stood upon law and good policy, and called for the lad's dismissal.

"You will take the bread out of my wife's mouth," said the cadet.

"I don't care," said the professor; "I justice be done, though the larder be empty."

"Do you know the lady's name?" urged the cadet.

"I don't want to know it; she isn't the criminal it is you."

"My wife is your daughter!"

The old gentleman was overwhelmed with rage and shame. The court, acting upon his suggestion, and partly with a sly malice, struck the cadet's name from the rolle. So the old gentleman had to pay for a time, the expenses of both daughter and son-in-law. The lad got back into the navy during the rebellion and rendered a good account of himself.

STONELESS FRUIT.—To make peaches grow without stones, agriculturist, who has tried it with success, says: "Turn the top of the tree down, cut off the ends, stick them into the ground and fasten so with stakes; in a year or two these tops will take root, and when well rooted cut the branches connecting these reversed and rooted branches with the tree proper, and this reversed tree will produce fine peaches without stones." The same experiment may be tried with plumbs, cherries and currants.

Chip Basket.

A city belle is like a steamboat—she has always a swell after her.

Can a watch, fitted with a second-hand be called a second-hand watch?

Are the minutes relating to an affair of honor, always drawn up by the seconds?

The man who "kept his word" gave serious offence to Webster, who wanted it for his dictionary.

Some of the young ladies say that the times are so hard that the young men cannot pay their addresses.

They have come to soleing shoes with cedar shingles, veneering wood with a piece of poor sheepskin.

A strange dog is the hardest thing in the world to get acquainted with, worse even than an Englishman.

A popular writer, speaking of the ocean telegraph, wonders whether the news transmitted through the salt water will be fresh.

An Edingburgh paper states that an American has invented a machine which is to be driven by the force of circumstances.

"Pappy, I know what makes same folks call pistols, horse pistols." "Why, my son?" "Because they kick so." 'Mary, put that boy to bed; he is so sharp he will cut somebody.

It is stated that cotton is about to be cultivated extensively in the Sandwich Islands.

If the negro is indeed a descendant from Ham, he ought now to find plenty of employment among the Sandwichers.

A man swallowed a set of teeth lately, and the last accounts of him stated he was experiencing, as was to be expected, a terrible gnawing at the stomach.

In military parlance, why is April like fatigue? Because it comes after March.

Contradicted.—The report that a Yankee had invented a machine for taking the noise out of thunder.

Heartless Desertion.—The leaving of one's leg on the battle field to be captured by the enemy.

Births and deaths are more frequent by night than by day.

A farmer going to get his grist ground at a mill, borrowed a bag of one of his neighbors. The poor man was knocked into the water wheel and the bag went with him. He was drowned; and when the melancholy news was brought to his wife, she exclaimed, "My gracious, what a fuss therell be about that bag."

A State Fair is a queen; an Agricultural Fair is a farmer's daughter; a Church Fair is a parson's wife; a soldier's Fair is the best looling girl he can get hold of; a Charity Fair is a female pauper; and the most unpopular fare in the universe—boarding house fare.

Why is a young lady's heart heart like the moon? Because in is ever changing and has got a man in it.

An old criminal was once asked what what was the first step that led him to ruin, when he answered: "The first step was cheating a printer out of two years subscription. When I had done that, the devil had got such a grip on me that I could never shake him off."

DON'T SUIT.—Many years ago there resided in a town in one of the Western States, twelve jovial old citizens, who met on the first of every January, for social and convivial intercourse. Wine, wit and good will towards themselves and the rest of mankind reigned around their ample board. At one of these reunions a proposition was offered and unanimously concurred in, that each member should state the character and qualities of his wife, without concealment, by the same good or otherwise. The disclosures commenced, and each one pictured in glowing terms the amiable belongings of his better half. One, however, remained silent, and absorbed, apparently in deep reflection. He was urged to respond to the common pledge, but still remained obstinately reticent. At last, on being assured and reassured that what he disclosed would never be mentioned outside of the presincts of the club, he said: "Gentlemen, you have given flattering, even angelic descriptions of your wives, and I have no doubt each one of you have told the truth. Mrs. —— and myself have lived together harmoniously for forty years. She is an exemplary wife, a kind mother, a good christian and charitable to the poor; her hand and her heart are ever open to the afflicted; her neighbors, and all who know her, say she possesses every lovely attribute that should adorn female character; but confound me if she suits me."

J. D. ROBBINS has the largest stock of SCHOOL BOOKS ever brought to Tecumseh, which he is

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEP. 7, 1865

Another Cable-istic Affair.

The Erie Dispatch says the Cleveland Herald is responsible for the subjoined article. We have before seen some singular insuendoes and half-doubting paragraphs about the sincerity of the cable managers, but before we have not seen a plain hint that all was "not as it should be" about the great cable. It must be confessed there was something suspicious in the determination to exclude all reporters from the Great Eastern. It was strange, when it was an enterprise in which the whole civilized world was supposed to feel an interest, and the wonder was that instead of insisting on the world getting its knowledge of the laying of the cable and all the incidents, for their own paid reporter, the managers should not have preferred that the most ample facilities should have been furnished to the press, so that the public could have got the facts from so many sources that there could have been no suspicion of concealment. The Herald says:

The history of the last Atlantic cable laying, as given in the diary of Russell, the London Times correspondent, points, very directly, to some "bear" operator in the stock of the Company. Some English Ketchum has sold "short" and so taken a sure way of running down the stock by destroying the cable.

Either there were some very expert rascals on the Great Eastern, who perforated the cable just as it was going overboard, or there was a very serious defect in the manner of testing the cable. If the injuries existed when the cable was shipped, it shows that the electrical tests may be satisfactory while the cable is extended.

The whole affair, since the cable went on board ship, looks suspicious. Newspaper reporters were carefully excluded, but, evidently stock operators were interested in the failure of the enterprise, had free access. In these days of rascality [illegible] ed to believe the entire scheme a gigantic fraud, and the going overboard of the cable but a part of the programme as originally laid down. The perforations of the cable were detected every time, and a remedy readily applied, the great ship was drawing rapidly towards Heart's Content, the deepest part of the ocean would soon be passed, and yet no fatal accident had happened. The time had come for the accident, and to make sure, the cable was sent overboard.

Statistics of the War.

The number of battles fought during the last war was two hundred and fifty-two. Of those, the soil of Virginia drank the blood of eighty-nine; Tennessee witnessed thirty-seven, Missouri, thirty-five, Georgia twelve, South Carolina ten, North Carolina eleven, Alabama seven, Florida five, Kentucky fourteen, the Indian Territory and New Mexico one each. One of the waves of war rolled into a Northern State, and broke in the great billow of Gettysburg. Of the battles enumerated, sixteen were naval engagements.

Some idea of the terrible havoc of war may be gleaned from the following figures: In the desperate encounter at Chickamauga, Rosecrans lost 16,851 men, and at Murfreesboro 12,085; at Pittsburg Landing Grant lost 13,573, at Vicksburg 9,875, and at Mission Ridge 6,000; at Gaines' Mills, Peach Orchard, Savage Station, Glendale, White Oak Swamp, and Malvern Hill, McClellan lost 70,000, and at Antietam 11,426; Hooker lost, in his campaign in the Wilderness, 20,000; Burnside, at Fredericksburg, 12,000; and Grant's united losses from the time of crossing the Rapidan, in his finale campaign, to the surrender of Lee, are computed at 90,000

☞ Among the many troubles of the Canadians the fear of a hostile movement on the part of the United States still holds a prominent place. The Toronto Globe of the 26th inst., replying to the remarks of a cotempory, who has been indulging apprehensions of an invasion of the province by an army of half a million men from the United States, makes the silly statement, with the view of administering consolation to the frightened provincials, that it is absurd to suppose that anything like this number of men could be raised in this country for such a purpose. It says that in a war with Great Britian the people of the financial and physical drain required to put in the field even three hundred thousand fighting men, and does not believe that the greatest efforts which could be exerted would be sufficient to place on the border an army of two hundred thousand.

The Wirz Trial.

In the Wirz trial on Saturday Mr. O. S. Belcher, of the 16th Illinois Cavalry, testified that he had been a prisoner at Andersonville from the 5th of March to September, 1864. On one occassion a cripple hobbled up to Wirz and asked permission to go outside the prison. The request was refused, when the cripple said he would rather be shot than stay there. The witness soon heard Wirz say to the sentinel, "Tell that man if he did not go back he would shoot him." The man did not return, when the sentinel fired and shot him in the jaw. There [illegible] There was scarcely room in the prison for men to stand upon. He heard Wirz say he was killing more Yankees than those who were serving at the front. The witnesses gave various instances of men being shot.

Ja es H. Davidon, a member of an Iowa cavalry regiment. He had seen rebel soldiers with blankets, shoes and shirts on them, sent there by the United States Sanitary Commission, for the use of our men. He had seen 400 or 500 boxes of supplies, at the Andersonville depot, marked "U. S." His testimony in references to the dogs kept for pursuit of escaped prisoners, and also to the dead line is the same substantially as has before been published. Witnesses had seen men starved to death. Food was so scarce that on one occasion, some of them picked up food that had already passed through the system. The graveyard comprised some 25 or 30 acres, and when he left Andersonville, on the 11th of September last, it was two thirds full.—The men were buried in trenches, three and a half feet deep. On one occasion, 150 were put into a single trench.

The consolidated return of Gen. Winder and Capt. Wirz, for the month of August, 1864, was held as evidence for the prosecution. It reports the number of deaths, for that month as 993, out of a total of 31,678.

Thomas Hall of Maine corps, a prisoner at Andersonville, and Dr. Wm. Balsur, a surgeon in the United States army, testified. The latter testified that of 3,300 returned prisoners, the were not two hundred who did need medical treatment, and described the horrible condition of the sufferers. The testimony of two other prisoners corroborates many of the facts heretofore published.

NEW RAILROAD FREIGHT ARRANGEMENTS.—The first of the Boston and Chicago through line of freight cars left Chicago Aug 12th, and were back there on the 24th, the time for the trip each way being made in four and a half days. This line, when completed, will have five hundred new cars, painted and lettered uniformly—A vermillion red with a large white letter, "Boston & Chicago," and "New York & Chicago" through freight. These cars are to leave each end of the route via M. S. & N. I., C. & T., Cleveland & Erie, Lake Shore and New York Central, Western, Boston and Worchester and Harlem and Hudson railroads, and will not be diverted to any way freight or any other purpose.

PARDON BROKERAGE.—The New York Herald special says:—The President is somewhat annoyed at the fact that certain persons have been accepting money for their influence in obtaining pardons. He stated to-day that he wished the fact known that he investigated each case himself, and only granted such petitions as recommended themselves to his clemency. Some of those present asked permission to call again for further consideration, to which he replied that "it would be some time before many more pardons would be granted."

A Desperate Scheme.

There was a bold attempt made at the Illinois State Penitentiary, at Jolliet, to carry out a mutinous plot to enable the convicts to escape from that institution, last week. The plot was originally concocted between a man named Smith and certain outsiders, friends of three convicts, to secure whose release he was to receive a handsome sum of money. The first thing in the programme was for Smith to obtain employment as a guard in the Penitentiary, in which he succeeded a few weeks ago, and had been acting as a general guard up to the time of the discovery of the plot. This man was to arrange the manner of escape for the convicts, one of which was a plan for them to scale the wall while he was on it as guard. This was attempted a week ago last Friday, the three convicts whom he was especially interested in releasing having succeeded in getting upon the wall, and the unfaithful guard firing upon them four times, but being careful not to hit them. Two of the convicts succeded in getting over the wall, but another guard, who was not in the secret, fired upon them from another portion of the wall, killing one of the convicts, named Strong, sentenced from St. Clair county; the other was pursued caught and taken back. These circumstances aroused the suspicions of Warden Buckmaster and Deputy Warden Simonds, that the guard Smith was playing false, and plans were accordingly laid to watch and detect him. As a pretended mark of favor, he was promoted to the position of night guard in the cell house, where could have an opportunity to communicate freely with the prisoners. A convict who had no previous knowledge of the plot, was employed to gain Smith's confidence, and to help "work up" the affair. Smith bit at the bait eagerly and at once. Another guard was concealed under the detective convict's bedstead in the cell where he laid three successive nights overhearing every thing that passed between Smith and the convict. Smith, among many other things, told the convict that he was engaged in maturing the plan by which to raise a general mutiny and stampede.—The first was to enable the prisoners to get possession of the armory, telling them where the key was concealed; the officers of the Penitentiary were then all to be shot, and the prisoners liberated. The other plan was to secure his restoration to his former position as guard on the wall, where he always had eight or ten loaded muskets at his command. Leaving the lower door approaching his tower on the wall unfastened, the convicts were to rush up, seize the muskets, gag and tie him, (he having the gag and rope all prepared,) and then they were to protect the escape of all the other convicts by shooting the remainder of the guard and officers of the prison. In his private interviews with the detective convict, these he detailed as his own plans, and stated the amount of money he was to receive for it. He also furnished the detective convict with a bottle of aquafortis and a saw in the cell, with which he was to make his way out and assist the others.

On the third night after overhearing these plans and confessions, and the mode of proceeding against him having been fully matured by the officers of the penitentiary, the concealed guard gave a preconcerted signal from his hiding place under the detective convict's bed, whereupon Deputy Warden Simonds entered the cell house, and, in sight of Smith, unlocked the cell and brought out the concealed guard. Instantly appreciating the circumstances of his detection, Smith fell down in a spasm of terror and consternation. He was taken to the solitary prison, where, after the recovery of his bewildered senses, he immediately made a clean breast of the whole matter to the Deputy Warden, confessing everything as above narrated, with several additional particulars, indicating that the fellow had planned and was about executing a plot that would, if he had not been thus forcibly [illegible] most fearful scenes of massacre and horror known in the annals of sanguinary mutinie, embracing the slaughter of all the officers and guards of the prison, and letting loose upon the usually quiet city of Joliet and vicinity an army of between six and seven hundred of the most hardened desperadoes extant.

Smith was next day taken before Benj. Richardson, of Joliet, who, in default of bail, had him committed to the county jail of Will county, to await the session of the Circuit Court, when he will no doubt be granted the privilege of serving, in the convict's garb, under the officers whom he conspired to murder.

THE LONG ISLAND COLLISION.—The coroner's jury in the case of the collision on the Long Island railroad have rendered a verdict in substance as follows:—That the collision was produced by the carelessness of R. J. Race, conductor of the mail train, and James White, engineer of the express train; that Louis C. Sands and Daniel F. Chase are not considered responsible; censuring Oliver Charlick, president of the railway company for the careless, irregular manner in which the train are run, and considered him indirectly responsible for the catastrophe. Two of the jurors find Daniel F. Chase, engineer of the mail train, also guilty of carelessness. Another juror find Louis C. Sands conductor of the express train, also guilty of carelessness—Three other jurors find R. J. Race, conductor, and Daniel F Chase, engineer of the mail train, guilty of carelessness and inattention to their duties, and reccommend that more definate rules be adopted for running irregular trains. Sheriff Snideker, who was one of the jury, declined voting on the question of the general mismanagement of the running of traing and accomodation of passengers, upon the ground that it is an improper question for the jury to determine. The only proper question being, was the road mismanaged that day, and, if so, by whom? G. C. McKee, another juror, concurred in his opinion.

☞ Speaker Colfax, in addressing the Miners of Nevada, said: "And, above all, let us remember that a man who stands chief among them, modest and unassuming, and yet as inflexible and persistent as mortal man can be—our Lieutenant-General, Ulysses S. Grant—[tremendous cheering]—worthy of a place in all our hearts; fitted to grace, as I believe he will, the first chair in the Republic of the United States."

☞ J. D. Robbins has the largest assortment of School Books in town.

Scraps of News.

Since the 1st of August 17,000 emigrants have arrived in New York. Some 850 of them went direct to Richmond Va.

A man named John Jay, of Brantford, C. W., was scalded to death on Tuesday by falling into the hot slop vats of a distillery.

The ruins of an ancient city, with temples of colossal size have been discovered in Mexico.

The military road from Green Bay to Lake Superior will be opened this fall, and a daily line of stages will be run thereon.

A new line of steamers between Boston and New Orleans and Mobile is soon to be started.

At the election in Louisiana, which takes place in November, 2,000 offices are to be filled.

A woman on Long Island gave the census man the names of 20 of her children, and said she couldn't just then remember the name of two or three more.

The Boston Courier states that in the town of Taunton, Mass., in a population of 16,000 there are 1,192 persons over 20 years of age who can neither read nor write.

A Yankee has just imported a cargo of 150 negroes from Richmond to work as woodchoppers away down in Maine.—They will be likely to sigh for the sunny South before next spring comes.

The planters of La Fourche, La., have decided to stop trying to raise sugar and cotton on account of the scarcity of labor and turn their attention to the cultivation of corn.

The White House was in darkness the other evening by some oversight, the gas having been shut off. Tin candlesticks and tallow candles were resorted to, which must have smelt strongly to the primative days of the Republic.

A party of foreign stockholders of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad, accompanied by prominent European bankers and railroad men, are on the way to this country to inspect the road mentioned and the other principal roads of the United States.

On account of the scarcity of female operatives at the mills at Lawrence, Mass., 40 men are being initiated into the mysteries of the art.

The Springfield Republican quite naively states that the counterfeit fractional currency in circulation may be distinguished from the genuine by the superiority of the execution.

The Baptists in Georgia are already taking steps to establish a Female College at Atlanta. Rev. Wm. T. Brantly, D. D. is to have charge of it.

A Boston reporter has been cowhided by an indignant female, who, being cruelly deserted by her husband, was referred to by the knight of the quil as "a poor abandoned woman."

The Polytechnic School to which Judge Packer of Pennsylvania gave half a million of dollars, is to be known as the Lehigh University. Bishop Stevens of Pennsylvania is President of the Trustees.

The chemists have decided that notwithstanding the Albany, N. Y. water smells and tastes nasty enough, is perfectly healthy. Small consolation for the unlucky people who have to drink it.

A piece of board flying from a circular saw at Erie, Pa., a few days since, struck Joseph Evans on the throat with such force as to sever the wind-pipe and arteries instantly. He survived gasping and bleeding for some minutes.

One of the best port wine makers at Cleveland, Ohio, says that if, for five years to come the people of this country plant vineyards as they have for five past there would be more wine and grapes here than in the old country.

A fellow in Cleveland, named Geo. W. Smith, stole a guitar from a young lady boarding at the same house he did; was arrested with the instrument in his hand; was committed to prison; has since "got religion" and been visited by the young lady persecutor, and they are going to be married.

An affray occurred in New Orleans on the 23d ult. in which Senor Lavego, on Gen. Merritt's staff, was fatally stabbed by Col. Charles Forsyth. It appears that Forsyth charged Lavega with seducing his wife, when Lavega slapped Forsyth in the face, whereupon Forsyth drew a knife and stabbed Lavega.

A French editor has given the following sensible description of the effect of an advertisement: The first time a man sees an advertisement he takes no notice of it; the second time he looks at the name; the third time he looks at the price; the fourth time he reads it; the fifth time he speaks of it to his wife; the sixth time he buys.

One night last week a man in New York having lost his false teeth out while asleep in bed supposed he had swallowed them. He was in great agony and could feel the teeth cut his bowels.—A surgeon probed him, but could not find the grinders. The man continued in great agony until the teeth were found in his bed, when he immediately recovered. Such is the force of imagination.

On Wednesday last deliberate attempts were made to throw two passenger trains from the track of the Dixon air line of the North-western Railroad, running west from Chicago. As the first train was a few miles from Dixon the engineer saw a heavy cross tie laying across the track, but as it was down grade he could not stop the train, but, fortunately, it was not thrown off. Fifteen minutes afterwards the train coming in the other direction found the same obstructions re-placed upon the track, but being cautioned by the engineer of the other train, he stopped his train and removed the timbers. The fiend who did this work cannot be to heavily punished.

Sir Benjamin Haywood, a prominent citizen and merchant of Liverpool, and a former member of parliament, is dead.

The News.

Wednesday, Sept. 6.

A fire occurred at West Troy yesterday, destroying 25 valuable brick buildings. Loss $75,000 to $100,000.

The Boiler of a locomotive drawing an express train on the Pennsylvania Railroad exploded yesterday morning, near Duncannon, killing three persons.

The New York Democratic State Convention will assemble to day at Albany. A large crowd of outsiders had assembled yesterday, among them some of the most prominent Democratic politicians of New York State. Gov. Seymour will probably be President of the Convention.

Gen. Grant had a perfect ovation at Milwaukee on Monday.

On Sunday the funeral service of Henry O. Clarence McCarthy, Depuy Head Center of the Fenian Brotherhood, took place at St. Louis. The demonstration was the largest ever seen in that city.—The principal speaker was very bitter against the Archbishop for his refusal to give the diseased the usual Catholic burial. He said it was an outrage which nothing but their love for the Church prevented them from redressing.

By the arrival of the steamer Scotia we have European advices to the 27th ult. The news is unimportant. The English Emancipation Society has dissolved. The Telegraph Construction Company offered to contract to recover and complete the lost cable and lay a second one during the next year.

The Wirz trial was resumed yesterday the testimony being wholly that of men who were prisoners at Andersonville.

A New Roofing Material.

During the past year a new material for roofing buildings has been discovered, which promise to become an important article of commerce and to produce an entire revolution in the roofing business.—For a long time in this country shingles were the only materials in use for roofing buildings. During a few years past tin roofs have become quite popular in some sections of the country, while at the East in the vicinity of slate quarries, this costly but durable material has been considerably used. As lumber became scarce and high in price, other roofing materials are now used to a large extent. Tin is found to rust and corrode, leaking badly after a few years; and of late the only substitute has been coal tar, sand and gravel.

This is cheap, yet beneath the warm rays of the sun the tar often melts, and it will not always form a perfect amalgam with the sand. The new roofing material we refer to is cheaper than any of the above, and as durable as slate, and promises to soon come into very general use. It is composed of pulverized slate mixed with coal tar, which soon hardens like stone, and makes a fire-proof roof perfectly impervious to water. The discoverer has patented the article, and it is now being manufactured in several places at the East and orders for it are received far more rapidly than it can be supplied. Messrs. Kellogg & Smith, proprietors of the Jackson plaster mill have made arrangements with the proprietors of the patent to manufacture the article here, and are now turning out many tons per week. It is made from the strata of shale or slate which is found in this section overlaying the coal formations.—It is easy of access, and the supply is inexhaustible. The slate is mined, carted to the mill, and, by the same machine used to grind plaster, it is reduced to a fine, impalpable powder. It is then ready for market. It is sold at $25 per ton. It forms a perfect amalgam with the coal tar, rapidly hardens, is thoroughly fire-proof, and will last for many years. Pieces of this roofing material, when placed in the fire and heated to a red heat, retain their solidity and form. Its cheapness and indestructibility will soon bring it into general use.—This firm has just commenced the manufacture of this roofing, yet they are receiving orders as fast as can be filled.—It will yet grow to be an important article of commerce from this point.—Jackson Citizen.

Messrs. Tindall & Slayton of Tecumseh are licensed to deal in the material for this roofing and are prepared to fill orders for it.

D. NOTEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases, will visit Tecumseh the

1st & 2d of Every Month,

for Consultation with patients. Cancers and Scrofulous Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Incipient Consumption cured in three to five months. Liver Complaint, Dispepsia, and Constipation cured in 2 to 4 months. Piles Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs yield readily to his treatment. Prolepsus Utur he is master of. Charges reasonable according to ability to pay: the really poor will be treated grates. He will be at Comstock & Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence on Budling Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars (See Circulars.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Sept. 7, 1865

Adams Mrs Adelia	Aten C N
Boll Henry	Durand L V
Dewey L J	Failing Miss Nancy
Glenn S P	Relley R
Preast I	Ross Mattie
Smith S	Sayre Amos
Ward Wm	Wells J

Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner, and leave space between the stamp and direction for post marking without interfering with the writing.

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

N. B.—A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within 30 days or less, written or printed with the writer's name, postoffice and State across the left-hand end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with at the usual prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer—Sec. 28, law of 1863.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

This is fine weather for duck-shooting.

STATIONERY ALBUMS &C.

In Fr. O. of G. T. Ketcham.

BOOKS,

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c. at A. JAMES'

Here We Come WITH GOOD NEWS For Every Body.

DRY GOODS AND FANCY GOODS,

Of every description, cheaper than the cheapest and good as the best.

Just received a VERY LARGE and well selected STOCK of

FANCY DRESS GOODS,

ALAPACCAS, MERINOS, PRINTS, DELAINES, FANCY FLANNELS, BALMORALS BROWN AND BLEACHED SHEETINGS,

HOOP SKIRTS,

HOSIERY, GLOVES, BELT RIBBONS, BELT BUCKLES, FANCY DRESS BUTTONS &c.,

Including many other articles to numerous to mention, all of which we pledge ourselves to sell

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Do not fail to call and see us and examine our

GOODS AND PRICES.

No. 2 MECHANICS BLOCK

C. H. ADAM & CO.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single Springs, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad cars, Church pews, Arm chairs for promenade and house dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 2 ply twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the Single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts—The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Double Steel, and we cover double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c., &c., which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant corded tapes, and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible, and are unquestionably the lightest, most durable, comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

WESTA BRADLEY & CARY, Proprietors of the Invention, and Sole Manufacturers, 97 Chambers and 79 & Reade Streets, New York.

For Sale in all first class Stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada, Havana de Cuba, Mexico, South America, and the West Indies.

☞ Inquire for the Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

If you are in want of anything in the Meat line be sure and give him a call. n15

F. R. Stebbins, Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE, WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

SELLING CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER MAN WEST of New York City.--Fact. Call and see.

ECUMSEH HERALD.

al and Miscellaneous.

ates of Advertising.

inch of column constitutes a square,)

	1 wk	3 wk	1 m	6 m	1 yr
	$ 80	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12.00
	2.50	3.50	6.00	10.00	14.00
	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	18.00
	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	50.00

No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied by directions for the number of insertions, will be published until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted at $8 per year.

Payable

We would say to those who are indebted to us that we must have our dues immediately or the accounts will be placed with an officer, for collection. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Extra copies of the Herald can be procured at Ketcham's News Depot.

Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters, Roback's Bitters, Bovee Dodd's Medicine Bitters, Newton's Jaundice Bitters, and all other Bitters for sale cheap at the drug store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

J. D. Robbins has just received the new and beautiful styles of Jewelry. An assortment of Ladies setts, Pins and Rings, Sleeve Buttons, Gold Pens &c. is better than ever, which he is selling at reduced prices. He will be pleased to show his goods to any one favoring him with a call.

Now is the time to subscribe and pay for the Tecumseh HERALD.

Mr. J. W. Wellman, who for several years has ben acting as Station Agent for the Michigan Southern Railroad at this point, has resigned his position and is about to take up his abode in Titusville, Pa. He is going to seek his fortune in the "ile" country. He has a brother living at Titusville, with whom he intends going into business. Mr. Wellman has gained many friends among the business men by his prompt and gentlemanly manner of doing business, and at the same time has been an upright and faithful servant of the Railroad Co. Our community will sustain a serious loss in his departure, but wishes him success in his new undertaking Mr. Peck succeeds him as Station Agent.

One bright moon-light night this week, the wife of a worthy farmer of Tecumseh was aroused by a suspicion that thieves were on a raid to capture her turkeys and, on taking observation, was not a little surprised to discover, not owls, but in the garden, hovering over the melon patch, three large, wingless bipeds—owly enough, but showing at once, from their appearance, to be birds of quite different species.

Prompted by a desire to capture one of the creatures to present to the State Museum, and a secondary desire to save the melons from their threatening claws; she called her husband; who took his six-shooter and stealing cautiously around, succeeded in flanking them, but just at this critical moment the animals proved themselves shy, for sniffing the enemy the apparently wingless creatures took flight over corn-stalks and pickets, and being joined by some four or five companions who probably, were to timid to come in, made a hasty departure for the woods, and though followed for some distance, were seen no more.

An Eventful Week.

Last week was quite an evenful one for our usually quiet village. Amid the hanging of firms, closing of Hotels string of lightning and other improvements, we managed to work ourselves into considerable excitement. Like all country towns, we are subject to intermittent attacks of temperance and anti-temperance. The temperance attack came on last week. The village Fathers ordered all the saloons closed, and also the bars at the Hotels, and the Hotels, in retaliation, concluded to shut up shop for the present. Every day strangers come into the village look about for accomodations, swear a few, and leave town. Conversations like the following are of frequent occurrence.—Stranger with a carpet bag meets a boy upon the sidewalk, and a dialogue ensues:

"Bub, can you tell me where there is a Hotel?"

"There aint none here."

"Can you show me a restaurant then?"

"There aint none of that either."

"But why are the Hotels closed?"

"'Cause the Board wont let 'em sell whiskey."

"Is there no place in town where travellers can procure a meal?

"Oh, well, yes: Mr. W. and A. keeps 'em sometimes."

"Will you direct me to one of them?

The boy directs him and he vanishes to make room for the next comer. In this connection we would suggest that the village Board offer $5,00 reward for the apprehension of the person who carelessly left the barrel of beer on the mortar bed that stands near the starboard flank of Nixon's Hotel, one day last week. Many stragglers got more beer than should be taken in a temperance community. We would like to inquire whether there is any law against giving beer away. If there is none, some enterprising Yankee might make a small fortune here in a few weeks by setting up a shop for beer presentations. It would flourish without any doubt. We await the issue of the present crisis with much interest.

Turning from the Hotels to our business firms we there find many changes consummated during the past week—Holton & Fields have disposed of their stock of music to G. T. Ketcham and are removing the balance of their stock to Adrian. The stock of Dry Goods owned by Wastell & Adam has been purchased by the junior member of the firm who will hereafter carry on the business at the old stand.

Last Saturday we were visited by a very heavy thunder shower. The house of John Beers in the north-western portion of the village was struck by lightning, and the Exchange Hotel was "opened" temporarily by another clap. The bolt that struck the Hotel was an unusually sharp one. It divided before reaching the earth, part of it descending on the lightning rod upon Hayden's warehouse. Among the latest improvements, we would mention the rapid enclosing of Keysor & Sutfin's block on Chicago street, the new and elegant signs put up by Robbins and Ketcham,—the new and suggestive signs put up by Gillespie and Nixon, Ketcham's improved poultry house and the bran new wooden seat in Hewitt & McNair's Justice office.

A Trip with the Tecumseh Band.

"It is an ill wind, that blows nobody, good." So good came to some of us, by that murderous accident, when that ill-starred Meteor shot athwart the course of the Pewabic, for, as the result, our Band did not take their trip to Lake Superior, but to Evans' and Sand Lakes instead.—We could almost wish our boys had gone over the watery graves of that one hundred, and played there one of their Dirges, to calm those angry waters, and lament those poor unfortunates. It was a good hit, that Aug. 31st. Whether the clerk of the weather was "Uncle Sim," I know not, but this time, the Lake did not come to us instead of our going to the Lake, as was the case with some recent voyagers. The ride was charming, as we took our course through the lovely region between here and the Lakes—passing through Franklin Center. How nobly the corn and Sorghum held their heads. How the sweet fields of clover smiled and wafted their fragrance. How the cows threw their greedy tongues around the green grass; and the sheep huddled together in solemn conclave under the spreading trees. How Snell's "spanking bays" dashed through the deep shaded roads, and snuffed the cool airs that came to us from the region of the Lakes; and how cheerily loomed up, the Davenport House when first seen across the Lake—the whole looking like a fairy scene in romantic tales. I shall not stop to find much fault with the taste, or want of it, that built so fine a Lake House, in the sunshine, and on a sand hill, when it might have been in a grove or forest; nor will I repeat the indignant strictures of Gen. B—— for cutting down the trees, on that pretty Island, opposite the House, to make a peach orchard of it—the peaches, and the trees, both being now, in the Vocative case. The excellence of the House, kept by our former townsman Lancaster, and the surpassing beauty of the view, from his piazza, with the good array of both sail and row boats, make the place so charming that one must be hard to please, to come away grumbling. But when we add to all else, that is lovely there, the presence of the Band, in full strength, with their splendid Instruments all shining, and in full blast, and in good tune and tone in the hands of their masters, the day was one to be marked with one of the whitest stones on the pebly sandy beach, even of Sand Lake itself. Perhaps the music was all the better, from the presence of the Ladies, which the Band were careful to bring with them. Sure we are, that the music on those waters was the sweetest we ever heard from those mellow horns. We do not say any were mellow from the horns there taken. But those Islands never heard such music, I ween, as swept around them that day, and evening, and chimed in with the merry voices of wives and wives intended. Whether it was this, that called the mermaids up in one group and mermen in another, I cannot say; but some affirm that they saw "spirits from the vasty deep," dashing the spray, which fell in rainbows upon them; and gliding in long robes of white, amid the trees along the shore.

The Rev. Mr. Lyster showed his love of a pretty Lake, when he purchased the Sand Lake surroundings, and made his "Birds Nest" on the south-west shore.—To my mind, the Lake House should have been there, and embowered as a Birds Nest. It would have had a hundred visitors where now it has ten.

The shades of night were falling fast, when the Band played Sweet Home, along our streets. Long may they play and we be there to hear it.

J. W. R.

Slight Mistake.

On a beautiful morning not many days ago, as one of our village clergymen was riding out with his wife, to enjoy the fresh and bracing morning air, an incident occurred which shows that even ministers may sometimes be mistaken. While passing a pleasant farm—so many of which lie scattered about Tecumseh—they observed a man engaged in hoeing just over the fence, and Rev. Mr. —— who was very attentive to his better half exclaimed "Just look there, Mary, what a beautiful patch of sweetpotatoes!" The observation was all right with one exception. The patch of sweetpotatoes happened to be a strawberry bed. The man [illegible] the strawberries overheard the remark and thought it too good to keep, hence—like sweetpotatoes and strawberries—it spread.

Remorse.

It is said that John Randolph of Roanoke, when on his dying bed, and unable to articulate, motioned for paper and pencil, and wrote the word "Remorse;" this has been denied by sume writers, but be that as it may, those who from ignorace or otherwise do not buy their Books and Stationery of Ketcham, will have more occasion to write remorse, than Mr. Randolph did, for Ketcham is selling better goods at less prices than any other dealer.

The regular monthly Union Sabbath School held its session last Sabbath at the Methodist Church. The house was well filled. Appropriate exercises were performed by the classes of Misses Sherman, Bangs and Train, and remarks were made by Dr. Fulton and Rev's. Wishard and Wright.

Died.

In Tecumseh, Aug. 18th 1865, JOHN CULBERTSNN, an elder of the first Presbyterian Church of this place, in the 74th year of his age.

Union School.

The fall term of the Tecumseh Union School commenced last Monday with a very fair attendance of students. Prof. Thomas has been retained as principal for the ensuing year, and Miss Sharp and Miss Rosebrough as assistant teachers in the central building. The places of Mrs. Thomas and and Mr. Barney, who resigned their positions last summer, have been filled by Miss Lewis and Mr. Mulholland—both from Ann Arbor—the former acting in the capacity of preceptress. They come to us highly recommended and will no doubt prove themselves fully competent to fill the positions they occupy.

Married.

At Binghamton, N. Y. on Tuesday Sept 5th, by Rev. J. P. Gilman, Mr. D. Ros. and Miss Lizzie Van Nortwick of Binghampton.

There is to be a picnic at the Haverland Home, Raisin, on Wednesday the 13th inst.

Lieut. A. W. Slayton will please accept our thanks for late copies of Nashville papers.

Personal.

We are much pleased to learn that the report published in the Jackson Citizen, of Monday last, from its correspondent here, that Mr. George Wastell was about to leave this place for East Saginaw, is incorrect. Mr. W. remains with us, at least for the present, and we are sure that the people of Tecumseh would regret the existence of any circumstance which would deprive the place of so valuable a citizen, and of a young man whose more than ordinary business qualification and gentlemanly deportment, has gained for him the esteem and confidence of all.

Good Advice.

Kind reader, would you always live
In peace and plenty, joy and health,
Possess an easy conscience here,
Enjoy the bounteous fruits of wealth?
And would you shun the cares and toils
Of this vain world, its bounteous strife?
Then listen to this wise advice,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Have you a pleasant, happy home,
And children full of mirth and glee,
Who always greet you with a kiss,
And climb upon their father's knee;
And is this home made doubly dear
By loving, fond and gentle wife?
O see that they may never want,
"Apply at once—insure your life."

Of S. C. Stacy, Agent.

R. C. Moore, informs us that he is now receiving new goods. Elegant Merrimac Prints, DeLaines, Brown and Bleached Cottons, Cotton Yarn, Childrens white Cotton Hose in various sizes, old fashioned Cotton Batts—"as is Batts," Carpet Twine, Dress trimmings or anything ele you want. Whenever you go to Moore's—if you do not see what you want, ask for it and you will be pretty sure to find it there. Goods of all kinds are scarce in the market now, but he manages to find scarce goods if they are to be found anywhere. Bear it in mind—and look at his elegant Flexible Skirts, you can wind them around your arm and take them home.

LIFE, SPEECHES AND PUBLIC SERVICES OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, by J. H. Barrett, com. of Pensions. Mr. S. L. Beal, is now canvassing for the above entitled work, which is a complete history of his early life, political speeches in and out of Congress, also a general view of his policy as President of the United States and his messages, Proclamations, letters &c., and a concise history of the war. It embodies the events of the first 3 years of his administration, and will contain the history of the last year of his administration and the particulars of his tragic and lamented demise. Mr. Beal will call upon the citizens of Tecumseh, Franklin, Combridge, Woodstock, and Macon, and give them a chance to subscribe for this valuable work. It is sold wholly by subscription, so do not fail to become a subscriber.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

CONSISTING OF

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs, Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best filled Establishments!

A LARGE STOCK,

Most Varied

Stock of Furniture

is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St., Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notic by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pictures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE, G. SMITH.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to make room for other Goods Better bargains can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county. Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.

Manufacturers of Photographic Materials,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

501 BROADWAY, N. Y.

In addition to our main business of PHOTOGRAPHIC MATERIALS, we are Headquarters for the following, viz:

STEREOSCOPES & STEREOSCOPIC VIEWS.

Of these we have an immense assortment, including War Scenes, American and Foreign Cities and Landscapes, Groups, Statuary, etc. etc. Also, Revolving Stereoscopes, for public or private exhibition. Our Catalogue will be sent to any address on receipt of stamp.

PHOTOGRAPHIC ALBUMS.

We were the first to introduce these into the United States, and we manufacture immense quantities in great variety, ranging in price from 50 cents to $50 each. Our ALBUMS have the reputation of being superior in beauty and durability to any others. They will be sent by mail, FREE, on receipt of price.

FINE CARDS MADE TO ORDER.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.

Our Catalogue now embraces over FIVE THOUSAND different subjects, to which additions are constantly being made, of Portraits of Eminent Americans, etc., viz: about 100 Major-Generals, 100 Lieut.-Colonels, 350 Statesmen, 200 Brig.-Generals, 120 Other Officers, 120 Divines, 275 Colonels, 75 Navy Officers, 105 Authors, 40 Artists, 125 Rangs, 50 Prominent Women. 2,000 Copies of Works of Art, including reproductions of the most celebrated Engravings, Paintings, Statues, etc. Catalogues sent on receipt of Stamp. An order for One Dozen Pictures from our Catalogue will be filled on the receipt of $1.00, and sent by mail, free. Photographers and others ordering goods C. O. D., will please remit twenty-five per cent. of the amount with their order.

The prices and quality of our goods cannot fail to satisfy.

Soldiers' Pocket Albums for 13 Pictures, 75 Cents; for 26 Pictures, $1.00.

Village Lots For Sale!

I propose to open the streets and have my ten acre lot laid out in lots to suit purchasers. It is a beautiful location south of west school house. Terms easy. Cash or on time. Also 7 acres with orchard and all kinds of fruit, good house barns, sheds &c. Also other Houses and Lots, situated in the beautiful village o Tecumseh. June 1865.

WM. McCOWEN.

Stray Colt.

Taken up by the Subscriber within the last ten days, a black mare colt, about three years old, thirteen hands high. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take her away.—Macon, Lenawee Co., Mich. June 14th. 1865.

CHARLES M. BAKER.

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICH

sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the busines If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n706 A. JAMES.

WARD & STRICKLAND,

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. - - Tecumseh, Mich.

DENTISTRY.

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices.

Dissolution.

The co-partnership heretofore existing under the name and style of Deuel & Wilbur is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The accounts due said firm can be found with L. Wilbur. A prompt settlemet is requested.

T. DEUEL.
L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Aug. 3d, 1865.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co: If you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April, 4, '65. A. JAMES

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deuel & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK, LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything
that anybody or his
brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL.

And allour neighbors know

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just rece p

York, and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hoed's, north side of Chicago street.

DISSOLUTION:

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

M. S. & N. I. Rail Rad.

Winter Arrangement.

1864. 1864.

On and after May 16th, 1864, Passenger trains will leave Tecumseh station as follows, daily except Sunday:

GOING EAST.

Leave 7.08 a. m., arrive at Adrian 8.00 Toledo, 9.15 a. m. Leave 1.00 p. m. arrive at Adrian 2.40, Toledo 3.45 p. m.

Both trains connecting at Toledo with trains for the east.

Trains leave Adrian for Chicago, 3.50 a. m. and 2.05 p. m. Leave Adrian for Detroit 8.00 a. m. and 2.40 p. m

Leave Adrian for Detroit 3.00 a. m. and 2.40 p. m

GOING WEST.

Leave 9.32 a. m. arrive at Jackson, 11.00 a. m. leave 6.40 p. m. Arrive at Jackson, 9.00 p. m

For full details, see the Company's Posters and Time Tables at the Depot and other public places.

Trains are run by Chicago time, which is twenty minutes slower than Toledo or Detroit time.

O. P. LELAND, Gen'l Passenger Ag't. Toledo.
E. H. PORTER, Gen'l Sup't. Toledo

GAZLAY'S 'CIFIC MONTHLY.

is your time to Subscribe for our New ic Monthly, which we cheerfully commend to you as the Excellent of all the

MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

aboring and paying more for Literary talent any other Magazine in the country, we f consolate that no Department of the ric Monthly will suffer neglect from the of able and well-known

LITERARY CONTRIBUTORS,

senting some of the principal shining lights e Literary world. We shall make such nal engagements as circumstances may d. Your special attention is called to our efficient corps of artists—at whose head s BARGHLEY and MCLEAN, unequalled as ngers and Engravers. We call the attention Public to the profusion of first-class illus- ns of the varied, novel and picturesque ry and local views of the

ILLUSTRATIONS.

OLDEN STATES

AND

TERRITORIES

OF THE

'PACIFIC.

h Descriptive Views and Reading Matter, ding the most reliable and comprehensive ou in existence for full information in re- to California, Oregon, Nevada, and their gnous and auriferous territories. The in- tion we give in regard to the Pacific States, , is worth ten times the Subscription Price r Magazine. The twelve numbers, a year's ription, when neatly bound, affording two dsome volumes, suitable for the

DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY,

OR THE

COUNTING-HOUSE,

costing but FIVE DOLLARS, which in to come can not be purchased for any Our abound with selections of Wit, Original ns, Comic Sketches, and Light Literature, d from a well garnished storehouse of fun, and incident, affording interesting light ding matter for the Parlor and the Fire-side.

EDITORIAL DRAWER

COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS.

This Department of the Monthly, under the immediate supervision of McLENAN, the cele- brated Comic Delineator, will be found always rich in Wit, Merriment, and appropriate Design.

FASHION PLATES.

Having made special arrangements with Mme. DEMOREST, 473 Broadway, New York, for con- tributions to our Fashion Department, we call the attention of the ladies to the same, and commend our Monthly to their notice, as con- taining more information in regard to Dress and the Toilet, than any other Magazine published.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!

Now is the time to Subscribe, and have your volume complete for 1865. We will furnish Back Numbers to such as do not subscribe in time for the January or February Numbers. But to be sure and get them without delay, send in your subscriptions early. Our Subscription Price is

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR

Specimen Copies, free to any address, when our receipt, for the same, will be sent in return.

PREMIUMS IN GOLD!

As an additional inducement to Subscribe early, we shall distribute among our Subscribers a large list of valuable Premiums, relying upon an extraordinary large Subscription List to com- pensate us for our liberality. These Premium will consist of valuable Souvenirs of the Golden Wealth of the Pacific States, and will be as fol- lows:—

☞ To any person sending us One Hundred Paying Subscriptions, we will send them, immediately, a Twenty and a Ten Dollar Gold Piece, California Coinage; and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Fifty Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Ten and a Five Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Twenty-five Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Five Dollar and a Two-and half Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Ten Paying Subscribers, we will send, immediately, a Three Dollar Gold Piece, and an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ To any person sending us Five Paying Subscriptions, we will send an extra Copy of the PACIFIC MONTHLY for a Year, free.

☞ We are, also, having made, a large quan- tity of Valuable PRESENTS and KEEP- SAKES for Single Subscribers, who send direct to the Office.

The Presents and Souvenirs consist of Ladies' Breast Pins, Ear-Rings, Finger-Rings, Sleeve- Buttons, etc.; and Gentlemen's Breast Pins, Finger-Rings, Sleeve-Buttons, Studs, Settings for Cane-Heads, etc., made from California and Ne- vada Gold and Silver bearing Quartz, and Ore—Crystalized Quartz Jewelry, (commonly known as California Diamond Jewelry.) The Gold and Silver-bearing Quartz and Ore from which these Souvenirs are made, is from the celebrated GOULD & CURRY and Ophir Mines of Nevada, and will be valuable as Mementos, as well as beautiful in Appearance and Design. EVERY REGULAR SUBSCRIBER, as above, to the PACIFIC MONTH- LY, will be entitled to one of these Articles for every Subscription standing opposite their names on our books.

SPECIMEN COPIES

OF THE

PACIFIC MONTHLY

sent, postage pre-paid, upon the receipt of Fifty Cents, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

CAUTION!

☞ Write your Name, Post-Office, County and State, to where you want the PACIFIC MONTHLY sent, Plain and Distinct.

☞ Register all Letters containing Money; or, when convenient, send by Express.

☞ If your Post-Office is a Money-Order office, obtain a Money-Order for your remittance.

☞ Send none but United States Treasury Notes, or money Bank-bills in New York.

☞ All Letters asking Information, etc., to receive attention, must contain a Stamp, to pre- pay answer. Address all Correspondence,

D. M. GAZLAY & CO.,

PUBLISHERS

PACIFIC MONTHLY,

34 LIBERTY STREET,

NEW YORK.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:

AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,

121 Nassau Street, New York.

WHITE & BAUER,

San Francisco, California.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good article and have the flour sift.

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

for having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd and R. I. Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse.
Fine Millings, B. W. Flour,
Shop Stuffs, B. W. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can none of an grind, because not in running

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around. Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. The well known cash market at the Mill for their other grains

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE.

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sat.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL.

Corn In the Ear and Shelled

A good assortment of the kinds of lum ber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all de- scriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm HAYDEN

Advantages of this Plow.

It will last from three to six times longer than other Plows, and consequently is economical. This has already proved by several years' public service, during which time thousands of acres in the West, in which other Plows have been habitually rust down, have been plowed with this Plow, to the entire satisfaction of the farmers, without any other repairs than a share.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed, after a few days trial, or before a single acre has been plowed.

It draws lighter than any other Plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, one foot with blows as readily as a common plow share.

Any section can be replaced by a blacksmith, at a trifling expense.

It is well stocked with New Eng- land second-growth timber, and the standard is be- lieved to be equal to any made. Those who want a good plow, which will last for years, are invited to call and see.

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, works perfectly in other than stubble, and leaves a clean furrow, and turns down stubble and green weeds completely.

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the market, just as sure as there is economy in paying a few dollars more, rather than five dollars the first season or two—as not long since every farmer knows.

☞ Because your Plow will last twenty years—and in many instances a quarter or a fifth more work with the same power.

☞ The quality and quantity of work it will execute and performs must be considered, as well as the first price, in determining whether or not it is the cheapest.

☞ Plows are used for profit, as well as other stock, and dollars and cents are used in purchasing them. To such, the question of economy is the chief point, and where it can be shown that a plow lasts twenty times as long, and gets more than a hundred dollars worth of labor done, it need not be said that it is economical.

These remarks are made after a familiarity with the merits of most of the Plows made in the West, many of which have a very earned good reputation.

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for meadow and heavy green sward. Heretofore we have had only one pattern, designed for both, turf and stubble. But experience has proved that two patterns, designed for each, work much better than one. We have both patterns together will enable us to meet the wishes of all as to share and give them either "mold" or "land" plows as they prefer.

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Slayton, Tecumseh.

Chancery Sale

In pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court, for the County of Lena wee, in Chancery, made on the 6th day of April, 1865, in a cause therein pending wherein Lewis Brooks is complainant, Han nah Rowland and others are defendants.—Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the Room, in the city of Adrian, where the Cir cuit Court for the County of Lenawee is holden, on the 8th day of September, 1865, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, all that cer tain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Tecumseh in the county of Lenawee and State of Michigan bounded and described as follows: Said premises being situated west of and near the village of Clin ton in said County and bounded and descri bed as follows, viz: Commencing at a point in the center of the Chicago road twenty- seven feet west of the west abutments of the public bridge across the mill race of the At las mill property thence west along the center of the Chicago road one hundred and twenty feet, thence south one hundred and ninety feet, thence east one hundred and eight feet, to the west side of the west bank of said mill race, thence north along the west side of said mill race bank one hun dred and ninety feet to the place of begin ning containing about one half an acre of land, more or less. Excepting always from the operation of this mortgage all the rights and privileges of road and roadways that were reserved by F. S. Snow and wife in their deed of said premises to George Unterkercher and Hannah Rowland dated January 22nd, 1859, this mortgage is intended to cover and convey the undivided one half only of the above described proper ty and appurtenances.—July 27th, 1865.

J. J. HOGABOAM,
Circuit Court Commissioner.

E. B. Wood, Sol. for Compl't.

To the People of Lenawee County.

OFFICE OF THE REGISTER OF DEEDS,
Adrian, Aug 10, 1865.

The fear on the part of my predecessors in this office of being accused of selfishness, has no doubt prevented them from recom- mending what I now do at the same risk. The necessity of all who hold real estate to have their deeds of farms and cemetery lots, mortgages, assignments and releases of mortgages, placed upon record, does not seem to be as apparant to all, as the neces sity of the case requires. In view of these facts the undersigned would state that oft- entimes either a warranty or Quit Claim Deed, Mortgage, Assignment, or Release of Mortgage not being Recorded, will cause a vast deal of trouble and expense, and jeop ardize the Title to Real Estate about to be conveyed, delaying the sale, and often break ing up the sale of property. In consider ation of this fact and many others, which I might suggest, I propose to try and remedy this as far as possible, by publishing to the people the danger to themselves and wrong to others. In anticipation of the coming STATE FAIR, and the large number of peo ple who will visit the city of Adrian, Sep tember 19th 20th 21st & 22d, suggested it self to me to be a favorable time for all those to collect together all unrecorded papers in their possession from Government down to the present time, and have them placed up on the records where they should have been long ago.

Further, I would state that there are now in this office about Two Hundred Deeds and other papers which have been accumu lating for the last 20 years, Unrecorded, in consequence of their not being prepaid.

In making these suggestions, it is with a consciousness that I am doing my duty as a Public Officer; that the titles to your lands are of vastly more importance to you than myself, you will admit. And you may avail yourselves of the above suggestions this office will be kept open in business hours during the coming State Fair.

Wm. A. WHITNEY, Register of Deeds.

Editor of Herald. DEAR SIR:—With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send, by return mail, to all who wish it (free) a Recipe, with full directions for making and using a sim ple Vegetable Balm that effectually remove, in ten days, Pimples, Blotches, Tan, Freck les, and all impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and Beautiful.

I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads, or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxuriant Hair, Whiskers, or Moustache, in less than thirty days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours, THOS. F. CHAPMAN, Chemist, 811 Brod way, New York. 740m3

Corporation Notice

"The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BERRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

"Be not up this mutiny, our power,
For the whole Scandinavian Continent is sure."

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER

and

BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands

of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula,	Syphilis,
Skin Diseases,	Old Sores,
Salt Rheum,	Rheumatism,
Dyspepsia,	Sick Headache,
Liver Complaint,	Fever and Ague,
Leucorrhœa,	Female Complaints,
Erysipelas,	St. Anthony's Fire,
Tumors,	Eruptions,
Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away.

The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former con dition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

hich, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache,	Costiveness,
Colic Pains,	Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion,	Pain in the Bowels,
	Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chem ists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates pub lished in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Veg etable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

Principal Office and Salesroom, No. 6 East Fourth St. M Building from Main St., Cincinnati, O. Laboratory, No. 19 Hammond Street.

FOR SALE BY

P. N. Curtis and Fisher & Baker

Old and young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,

SOLE PROPRIETORS,

NEW YORK.

HALF THE ITCHING—NO SCRATCHING—ONLY HALF THE MONEY!

Citron Balsam will cure the Itch or Army Scratches in one or two applications; also, cures all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Ulcers, Old Sores, Gangrene and Rheumatism It contains no Mercury, and is safe to use at any time. Only 25 cents a bottle.

OLIVER CROOK & CO. Dayton O.

Wholesale Agents,

Sold by Fisher & Baker, Tecumseh, Mich.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c, at

A. JAMES

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in pure old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ They are made of ingredients well known, and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derange- ment of the system, and act like a charm when extraordinarily in direction as a remedy for

Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confi dence to all others who are in need of a whole- some, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rap- idly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity, so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.—

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ Ladies, who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalata- ble and too highly medicated, for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system.

☞ If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters, have him send for them.—

☞ Remember the name, and take no other,

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS

☞ The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical Journals, and having been adopted as a standard rem- edy by the Medical Profession, are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

DR. C. H. SWAIN, PROPRIETOR.

OFFICES— {875 Broadway, New York, {84 South Water St., Chicago.

C. A. COOK, General Agent for the West,

Office, 26 Market Street, Chicago.

THESE Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty dif- ferent kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skep- tical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess,

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debili- ty.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in exist- ence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters, are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OR—

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gold label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,

No. 21 River Street Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lena wee Co., that he is still located in the

Brick Shop on Railroad Street,

Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

ROBACK'S OLD CATAWBA BRANDY

is made from the PURE JUICE OF CATAWBA GRAPE, which is grown in abundance in Ohio and from which this article is obtained—it has an agreeable flavor, fine clear color, and possesses all the qual- ities for medicinal purposes, and for a beverage of the best import- ed brandies. As a flavoring for mince pies and other cooking purposes it it the best economi- cal artical that can be used, being one hal a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found rapid sales, and is daily gaining in pupularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally throughout the West

C. W. ROBACK, Proprietor,

56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surren- dered to young america. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just re- ceived a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days. I

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap, Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool.

Men and Strong

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE,

of the LATEST and BEST English brands

Also, a splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions,

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

JAVA MILLS
COFFEE & SPICES
NEW YORK

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee. The vilest trash, under Showy and Taking names, has been thrust upon the public. Bogus and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their Labels and wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a

Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to sup ply this demand.

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of Uniform Standard and Quality, Specially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable. If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our Ground Spices, Mustar, Cream Tartar, Bak ing Soda and Saleratus, put up at the Ja va Mills will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Groceries will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, C. Lawrence, B. J. Bidwell, P. N. Curtis, Fisher & Baker, Ketcham & Conkling; at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCULARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No 52, Vesey Street, New York.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Conterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gal lery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any communi ty. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecum seh Mich.

ATLANTIC & GRT. WST'N RAILWAY

New Broad Gauge

PASSENGER, FREIGHT, MAIL

EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH ROUTE

Connecting at Salamanca, N. Y., with the Erie Railway, forms a continuous Six Feet Track from New York to Akron or Cleveland.

On and after Monday, Nov. 10th 1862, Through Passenger and Freight Trains will run regularly between

CLV LD & NFW YO

NEW AND IMPORTANT PASSENGER ROUTE.

FARE, AS LOW AS BY ANY OTHER ROUTE.

BAGGAGE CHECKED THROUGH.

Passengers by this Line have the choice of the Hotel Buffalo between Cleveland and Buffalo.

TICKETS THROUGH

Can be obtained at any of the Offices of the Erie Railway and all Ticket Offices of Connecting Lines West or south-west; also at the Central Ticket Of fice under the Wendell House, Cleveland, O.

Ask for Tickets via the Atlantic and Great estern and Erie Railways.

Passenger Trains stop at Meadville thirty minutes giving passengers ample time to dine at the

"McHENRY HOUSE."

The best Railway Hotel in the country.

NEW AND EXPEDITIOUS FREIGHT LIN

ALL RAIL.

No transhipment of Freight between New York and Akron or Cleveland.

Merchants in the West or Southwest will find it to their advantage to order their goods to be for warded via the Erie and Atlantic & Great Western Railways, thus saving trouble and expense.

Rates of Freight as Low as by any other all Rail Route.

Especial attention will be given to the fre tran portation of Freight of all kinds, East or West.

The Engines Cars and other equipments of the Company are entirely new, and of the most im proved modern style.

The only direct route to the wonderful

OIL REGIONS of PENNSYLVANIA

Via Meadville or Corry.

From Leavittsburgh, the Mahoning Branch runs to Youngstown and the Coal Mines.

This Road is being ext nded and will soon be in undaplete running order to Galion, Urbana, Dayton, com Cincinnati, without break of 1 gauge.

J. FARNSWORTH, General Freight Agent,
T. H. GOODMAN, General Ticket Agent
H. F. SWEETSER, Gen'l Supt,

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov 10, 1863.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lena wee s.s.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Wednesday the 23d day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five

Present, Robert R Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Anna Dibble, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of John Chever administrator of said estate praying that his final account with said estate may be allowed and that distribution of said estate may be made to those entitled to the same and that he may be discharged.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 16th day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a ses sion of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted;

And it is further ordered, That said Pe titioneer give notice to the persons interes ted in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by caus ing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate

(A true copy) n767w4

Probate Notice

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lena wee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 28th day of July in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five,

Present, ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Oliver B. Taylor, administrator of said estate praying that he may be licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased to pay the debts of said deceased and expenses of admini stration.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday the 18th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons in terested in said estate, are required to ap pear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Pe titioner give notice to the persons interest ed in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by caus ing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R BEECHER,
Judge of Probate,

(A True Copy) 766-w6.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,—County of Len wee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Wednesday, the 30th day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of John Culbertson deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of John E. Culbertson a son of said deceased, praying that the last will of said deceased may be proved and allowed and that Robert Culbertson may be appointed executor there at.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 16th day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Pro bate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner . . . should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the said Petitioner . . . give notice to the persons in terested in said estate of the pendency of said petion, and the hearing thereof, by caus ing a copy of this order to be publised in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ROBERT R. BEECHER,

(A true Copy) n759 Judge of Probate.

To the Ladies & Gentlemen of Tecumseh,

The undersigned having fitted up rooms ex pressly for the sale of

Ice Cream, Lemonade, Soda Water &c.

Will be happy at all times to wait upon you Rooms over Wishart's Crockery Store. Open day and evening.—June 15th, 1865.

J. S. WALTERS.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 16. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 14 1865. WHOLE NO. 770.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

CONSISTING OF

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICH

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n706 A. JAMES.

Here We Come

WITH

GOOD NEWS

For Everybody.

DRY GOODS

AND

FANCY GOODS,

Of every description, cheaper than the cheapest and good as the best.

Just received a VERY LARGE and well selected STOCK of

FANCY DRESS GOODS

ALAPACCAS, MERINOS, PRINTS, DELAINES, FANCY FLANNELS, BALMORALS BROWN AND BLEACHED SHEETINGS,

HOOP SKIRTS,

HOSIERY, GLOVES, BELT RIBBONS, BELT BUCKLES, FANCY DRESS BUTTONS &c.,

Including many other articles to numerous to mention, all of which we pledge ourselves to sell

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Do not fail to call and see us and examine our

GOODS AND PRICES.

No. 2 MECHANICS BLOCK

C. H. ADAM & CO.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING.

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat.
Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c
I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER;
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

han any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

CASH FOR RAGS!

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,

JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Music,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price,

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

ATTENTION LADIES.

NEW MILLINERY GOODS.

Mrs. L. WILBUR, would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that she has just purchased the largest and best assortment of Millinery Goods ever brought to this place. She intends to keep a large stock of

BONNETS, RIBBONS, FLOWERS, LACES, HATS, HEAD DRESES, PLUMES FEATHERS, and

in fact everything to be found in the Millinery line constantly on hand. Particular attention paid to Bleaching and Repairing straws. Be sure to call. Shop in rooms formerly occupied by Mrs. O. McCoy.

Mrs. L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Sept. 14th, 1865.

Village Lots For Sale!

I propose to open the streets and have my ten acre lot laid out in lots to suit purchasers. It is a beautiful location south of west school house. Terms easy. Cash or on time. Also 7 acres with orchard and all kinds of fruit, good house barns, sheds &c. Also other Houses and Lots, situated in the beautiful village o Tecumseh. June, 1865.

WM. McCOWEN.

Stray Colt.

Taken up by the Subscriber within the last ten days, a black mare colt, about three years old, thirteen hands high. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take her away.—Macon, Lenawee Co., Mich. June 14th. 1865.

CHARLES M. BAKER.

WANTED.

Butter, Eggs, Pork, Dried Meats, Lard, Dried Fruits, Paper Rags, &c. &c, for which I will pay the Highest price in Cash.

To those who wish to pack their own Butter I will furnish Packages free of charge Give me a call.

A. JAMES.

G. R. PALMER, Attorney at Law, and Notary Public, Lake Ridge, M.

Particular attention paid to collections in any part of Michigan. Is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c.

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight,	7.03 A. M
	7.00 P. M.

GOING NORTH.

Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD,
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING,
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet, &c.
Chicao St. Tecumseh, Mich.

P. N. CURTIS.
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER.
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT.
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG.
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. HANFORD,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Leather
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER;
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER.
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX. HENDRY.
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich

J. B. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. C. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

I. C. SATTERTHWAITE.
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHLAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM.
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

HENRY H. PACKARD,
Union Livery; Feed and Sale Stable.
Railroad St. Tecumseh; Mich.

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous

Rates of Advertising.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 80	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12 00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10 00	14.00
¼ Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	18.00
½ Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	40.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted on $5.50 per year.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable

☞ A few boy rowdies tried to disturb the Singing School on Tuesday evening.—Killing is too good for them.

☞ L. Drew has returned from New York and is now receiving a large stock of Hardware which he offers at low figures.

☞ Hugh McGee has opened a new meat market on Railroad street, in Bidwell's Warehouse.

☞ See the advertisement of Mrs. L. Wilbur. She is now receiving her stock of Fall Millinery Goods, which she offers remarkably cheap. Call and see.

☞ The Railroad will charge only half fare to those who wish to attend the State Fair. No extra trains will be run on the Jackson Branch.

☞ School Books, Pocket Knives, Perfumery, Red Jacket Ritters, Stationery, Wall Paper, &c cheaper than ever at the Drug Store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

☞ Keysor & Sutfin are now engaged in putting on the roof of their new block.—They are using the new Roofing Material we referred to last week, which Tindall & Slayton have for sale.

☞ J. H. Wheeler has arrived home from the eastern cities, where he has been purchasing a nice stock of Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Dry Goods &c, &c., which he will sell as cheap as any other man dare sell.

☞ J. D. Robbins has constantly on hand, the largest stock of School Books, Paper, pens Ink &c, in town, which he sells at new list prices: any Book not to be found will be ordered without delay. Give him a call.

Sheet Music.

G. T. Ketcham is again in the Sheet Music trade, having bought Messrs. Holton & Field's stock, and will be pleased to see all his old customers, and as many new ones.—He has on hand now about 300 pieces, and in a few days will receive a new stock.—Teachers will receive the usual discount.

Singing Class.

Prof. E. H. Leland has opened a juvenile Singing School here in the Union Hall.—His terms are very reasonable, only fifty cents for twelve lessons. The Professor has just finished a school at Adrian, where he gave good satisfaction. He will hold a preliminary meeting this Wednesday evening at eight o'clock for organizing an adult Singing Class.

☞ They tell a tough story about a man out west who had a hair lip, upon which he performed an operation himself, by inserting into the opening a piece of chicken flesh—it adhered and filled up the space admirably. This was well enough until, in compliance with the prevailing fashion, he attempted to raise moustaches, when one side graw hair and the other feathers.

☞ We would call the attention of our readers to the business card of G. R. Palmer Esq. who has located at Lake Ridge, for the practice of Law. Mr. P. will pay particular attention to the collection of debts in any part of the State, and is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills &c. with promptness. We would advise those in need to call on him and be accomodated.

☞ The Adrian Watchtower establishment has been sold to Col. Wm. Humphrey, late of the 2d Mich Inf, Reg. The new paper is called the Adrian Times, it has been enlarged in size, and is to be Republican in politics. The first number of the Daily was issued on Monday Sept. 11. and presents a very creditable appearance. Col. Humphrey assumes the editorial chair with no previous experience in that line; but a brave soldier, who has fought the enemies of his country in the field cannot help but succeed in conducting a newspaper. The Colonel has our best wishes for his success.

New Hotel.

A meeting of our business men was held in Bills & Baxter's Law office on Thursday evening of last week, and again on Monday evening to take into consideration the building of a new hotel. The prospect so far is very favorable. A committee of five—consisting of Wm Hayden, B. J. Bidwell, G. W. Ketcham, A. B. Ward and Wm. Richard—was appointed to receive subscriptions.—Three building sites are talked of, though it is still uncertain which one will be selected, viz., the dwelling house and lot owned by B. J. Bidwell, the old Snell stand now kept by Nixon and the corner below Wrights Drug Store near the Marble shop Mr. Bidwell has already submitted a proposal for the sale of his property Either locality is a good one for a Hotel, and we care not which one is selected, provided they put up a good House and do it immediately. An adjourned meeting will be held next Thursday evening.

To the Business Men of Town:

GENTLEMEN:—The publisher of your local foreign annual income in the amount of several hundreds of dollars, for the purpose of making a paper that should adequately represent your pecuniary interests, and speak such words for the place and its interests as no other medium and no number of men can.

It is accurately estimated that one-half the patronage of the place would go elsewhere, which now comes here, if there were no paper to represent our interests; and yet some of you think you are extremely magnanimous if you pay the paper $20 a year for its influence, while the New York, Cincinnati, Chicago and Philadelphia men come to our office weekly and beseech room in our columns to advertise to the amount of $1,000 in the aggregate! Many of them are as legitimate business houses as yours, and could rest their business success on the "merits of the goods themselves," just as reasonably. Others are nostrums, vulgarities, and shames to any newspaper, and are this week discarded, so far as we are not bound previously; and we now turn to our own home for refuge from these shams and shames, and trust that your good tact and moral sense will lead you to second what we believe to be a noble effort, namely: to bring the colums of the TECUMSEH HERALD up from the stigma of quack advertisements—and foreign city trade interests, and fill them with such matter as will be an ADVANTAGE to the place, a SATISFACTION and INSTRUCTION to readers, and an HONOR instead of a disgrace to the publisher.

But we have not room to enlighten you now. This thing is hereafter going to be done as it is done this week, with numerous added improvements yet, or it is not going to be done HERE any longer.

Therefore;—what you will need to do in order to keep Tecumseh, and its business, and its name, and its paper in successful competition with any city or village in the country, is this: 1st. Insist that every one of your customers become paying subscribers, whether they be fire-eaters, or conservatives, and don't be afraid of losing a four shilling trade, while you are trying to put $2 into the hands of your newspaper and four into your own thereby. There is the which scattereth and yet increaseth. 2d. Do not begrudge your "bill of advertising." It was part of the expenses current—and was as necessary as your clerks were, for the prosecution of your business. If you can pay them in cash, all the better for you and the publisher too. He can advertise you easier and better next time. 3d. Do not ask him two prices for articles because he "pays you in advertising" His advertising is worth more to you than his cash. So be honorable. 4th. Get all the MONEY into the hands of your publisher that you can, and you will thereby get it back into your own,—else why is it that every little, poor, business town that is destitute of it, is sighing for a paper?

A Sure Cure

Quoth David to Daniel—"Why is it thee's always
So pleasant and cheerful whenever we meet?
Thy business is prosperous, thy family is happy,
Thy course in the church is both wise and discreet
The white locks of care and the wrinkles of sorrow
Have in vain sallied forth for invading thy face,
Thy step is as light and thy laugh is as hearty,
As when, years ago, thou wert courting thy Grace."

Quoth Daniel to David—"I'll tell thee good fellow,
Why I am so cheerful, whenever we meet:
Why wealth fills my coffers, and happiness cheers me
Why with good hearty shake, all my neighbors I greet:
I was once, like thee also, both poor and desponding—
Shall I tell the cordial, with which I was cured?
'Tis a pleasure to take it, 'tis cheap and 'tis harmless,
The secret is this, sir, My life is insured,

Of S. S. Stacy, Ins. Agent.

Correction.

We stated last week that the Hotels had been closed by order of the Common Council. This was a mistake. The Board can pass laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors, but proceedings have to be commenced upon the complaint of some private individual. A complaint is made before a Justice by any one who feels himself agrieved at the sale of liquor and the justice is legally bound to prosecute the case. If the party against whom the complaint is made sees fit to stop selling, the matter is frequently compromised by dropping the prosecution. As there is considerable misunderstanding in regard to the manner of proceeding in carrying out the liquor law on the part of many, we thought proper to submit these few lines in explanation.

☞ Now is an excellent and fitting opportunity for subscribing for the HERALD. We should be pleased to have our friends in the adjoining towns form clubs and send them in. We are naturally of a bold disposition, and we defy any one to frighten us with clubs—for the Herald—no matter how large they are. Thanking our friends for their kind aid in the past and soliciting a continuation of the same in the future we greet them in our bran new suit, feeling confident that the change will meet with their hearty approbation.

MONTHLIES FOR SEPTEMBER.—The Atlantic and Harper for September are at hand. story entitled Coupon Bonds, The Chimney Corner, Needle and Garden, and Dr. Johns, are continued and are interesting as usual. Practical men will find many valuable hints in Scientific Fancy and Our future Militia System. The ode recited at the Howard Commemoration is an excellent thing.

Harper continues Armandale, by Collins, and our mutual Friend, by Dickens. There is a very interesting article on Local Life in China, two or three very readable love stories, and the usual Monthly Record, Drawer &c.

Tecumseh:

A correspondent writing to the Jackson Citizen, says of our town:

"Tecumseh—lying and being situate on the Jackson branch of the M. S. R. R., is a very neat and enterprising town. Its churches and school houses attract attention by their architectural beauty, and some residences and stores are very fine.—The inhabitants are orderly and respectable citizens, and one feels like making a stay with them for an indefinite period. Surrounded by a splended farming country, with every access to market by rail, it is a good location for the merchant.

☞ Don't keep a solemn parlor, in which you go but once a month, with your parson or sewing society. Hang around your walls pictures which tell stories of mercy, hope, courage, faith and charity. Make your living room the largest and most cheerful in the house. Let the place be such that when your boy is gone to distant lands, or even when, perhaps, he clings to a single plank in the lone waters of the wide ocean, the thought of the still homestead may come across the desolation, bringing always light hope and love. Have no dungeons about you house, no room you never open, no blinds that are always shut.

☞ R. C. Moore is receiving a large and elegant stock of Dry Goods—bought three weeks ago—when the market was at the lowest ebb it has been for months;—Every one knows—or ought to know—that, for two weeks past, the market has taken rapid strides upward, and Moore is retailing many articles lower than he or any one else can buy them in New York,—reader take the hint and buy now what you need for this coming season,—for you will most assuredly save a nice sum of money by so doing.

☞ Mrs. O. McCoy tenders her thanks to the ladies of Tecumseh and vicinity for their past patronage and would inform them that she has opened rooms at Adrian, in Cole's new block on Maumee street, where she will be happy to serve them with everything pertaining to the Millinery business, of the latest and most approved styles. Her motto is quick sales and small profits and those who are in want of anything in her line will save money by calling on her at her new quarters.

Hotels open Again

We notice that Nixon and Gillespie have taken down their mysterious signs, and are again in full blast. There was a report in circulation that they were closed for "house cleaning." We hope they have improved the opportunity to clean some, for a good scrubbing would not injure either of them a particle. The movement for a new Hotel is gaining ground and before many months we hope to see a Public House here which will be an honor to the place.

Business Change.

The stock of Dry Goods formerly owned by Mr. Calvin Lawrence, has been sold to Henry Anderson and C. Larned, who will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Lawrence goes east on a visit among his friends, and will perhaps make his future home there. We wish Messrs. Anderson & Larned success in their new undertaking. Mr. A. is now at New York buying new goods.

Liable.

Justices of the Peace are not all aware that they are liable for filling up legal documents, such as deeds, mortgages, &c, without license though such is the case. A Justice or Notary Public can take the acknowledgment of a paper without License but to draw them they must have one. Such is the interpretation of the law.

☞ We learn that E. B. Phillips, Superintendent of the Boston and Worcester R. R., has resigned his position to accept the Presidency of the Mich. Sou. and Nor. Ind. Road, at a salary of $10,000 a year.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Sept. 14, 1865

Blackwood, Clemus	Boyce, Agnes J
Galloway, S	Greenfield, Wilbur
Milligan, Louisa	Taylor, L S

Warner, A K 2

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Commissioners Notice.

Estate of John Osborn deceased:—

Notice is hereby given that we the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, to receive, audit and adjust claims against said estate, will meet for that purpose at the residence of George A. Wilkins in Macon, in said county on the 21st day of October next, and at the office of R. B. Wood in the village of Tecumseh in said County on the 25th day of November next at ten o'clock in the forenoon of those days: also that three months from the 30th day of August 1865, has been allowed the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us.

GEORGE A. WILKINS,
RICHARD CLARKSON,
Commissioners.

NEWS SUMMARY.

By the arrival of the Hibernian on the 10th, we learn that the Atlantic Telegraph Company have ordered a new cable.

The pirate Semmes and his son Oliver are now living in New Orleans. Semmes is not the "Big Injun" he was on the deck of the Alabama.

The heavy defalcation of W. D. C. Callender, cashier of the State Bank of Hartford, Conn., amounting to $300,000, is one of the latest developments of the Ketchum fraud.

Gen. Sherman, our despatch says, has purchased a residence in St. Louis for $25,000 and will probably make that city his permanent home.

Gen. Grant had a cordial greeting by the citizens of Stevenson county on Saturday the 9th at Freeport.

throughout its entire length for the first time in four years. Trains now run from Columbus, Ky. to Mobile.

An ocean race was announced for the 11th instant, between the yachts Speedwing and Henrietta, the former owned by George A. Osgood, son-in-law of Commodore Vanderbilt, and the latter by James G. Bennett, Jr. The course is from Sandy Hook to Cape May and back. Other ocean races are in contemplation.

A fire in West Troy, New York, on the afternoon of the 5th, destroyed twenty-five brick buildings, including the Democrat office. Loss $75,000 to $100,000.

A society has been organized in Washington, under the title of the Andersonville Prison Survivor's Association, for the purpose of rendering assistance to parties who have been prisoners at that point, and to widows and orphans of deceased prisoners.

Railroad murders continue unabated. On the 5th, a locomotive boiler exploded on the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Duncannon, by which three persons were instantly killed.

On the night of the 3d a train on the Great Western railroad of Illinois, was thrown off the track near Tolono, and it is reported that two or three persons were killed, and several wounded. On the evening of the 23, on the same road, a freight train was thrown off the track, and two men were killed.

A terrible railroad disaster occured on the 7th, on the Nashville and Northwestern road. As a train of three cars, to which were attached an ammunition car, was in motion a short distance from Nashville, a spark ignited some powder, and a fearful explosion of powder and shells ensued, completely wrecking the train. The number of dead and wounded is not yet known. Later intelligence says that seven persons were killed and a number wounded. The train consisted of eight cars, six of which were blown to pieces.

A collision occurred on the 8th, on the Camden and Amboy Railroad between a passenger and freight train, by which several persons were seriously injured.

One of the boilers of the steamer Reindeer running between Malaca and New Orleans exploded on the 30th ult., killing four persons, and scalding twenty.

A train on the Erie railroad, ran off the track on Thursday, the 7th, near Arrowsburg. Several cars were smashed, but only one person killed.

An explosion occurred on the propeller Mollisin, near Trenton, N. J., on the 4th, by which one person was killed and ten injured.

The Scotia has arrived from Europe. Her advices are that the Atlantic Cable Construction Company, have offered to recover and complete the present cable, and lay a new one next year. The London Emancipation Company has dissolved. Owing to the rapid spread of the cattle plague, the importation of cattle from Ireland to England, has been prohibited. The Emperor and Empress of France have returned from Switzerland to Fontainebleau.

The new British steamship Queen, which reached New York on Tuesday, the 5th inst., from Liverpool, brought one of the largest, if not the largest, freight of human beings that ever crossed the Atlantic in one vessel, having on board upwards of fifteen hundred steerage passengers.

Longueuil, opposite Montreal, is under a reign of terror raised by French Catholics, and all the English residents have left the place. Several incendiary fires have occurred, which threatened to destroy the whole town, (of some 5,000 inhabitants,) and in one of them the Catholic Church was burned.

The expenses of the mail service are being materially reduced by the Postmaster General. The Southern mail service hereafter is to be made self-sustaining.

In the Wirz trial a large amount of documentary evidence has been introduced, showing that the rebel War Department was cognizant of the sufferings of the prisoners at Andersonville, and the cruelties inflicted upon them. Wirz has made application to the Court for spiritual advisers, and the application has been laid before the War Department. The prisoner is looking very badly, and the opinion is expressed by some that his life will not last beyond another month.

It appears that Alexander H. Stephens twice made application to Jeff Davis for permission to examine the Andersonville prison, representing the barbarities that were there being perpetrated; but was informed in reply that the officers of the prison were perfectly competent to attend to their own business.

The letter of Col. Chandler, Confederate Inspector, introduced in the Wirz trial on Saturday, was heard with deep interest. He thoroughly exposes the damnable brutality of Gen. J. H. Winder, who was in charge of the Andersonville prison.

Mrs. Marston, the insane woman, who, week before last, murdered her husband and their adopted child, and then destroyed herself, at South Dedham, Mass., had gone crazy on spiritualism, and was in a few days to have been sent to an asylum.

Daniel Webster, a son of the late Colonel Fletcher Webster, and grandson of the great Daniel Webster, died at Marshfield on Saturday, aged 25 years. The young man had led a dissolute life, and was hopelessly wrecked in health and character.

The Fenian excitement in Ireland is very intense, and the order is rapidly gaining ground, though strongly opposed by the priesthood. Meetings for drill are constantly being held, and no secret is made of the object.

From certain orders which have been received at Fortress Monroe, it is surmised that Jeff. Davis will be tried at that place.

Letters from Provost Marshal General Fry show that Indiana furnished 196,357 men during the war, and Wisconsin 96,000.

Hon. Wm. Medill, ex-Governor of Ohio and late Comptroller of the U. S. Treasury, died at Lancaster, Ohio, on the 2d.

Apprehensions exist in Virginia and other of the late rebel states of a negro insurrection. President Johnson declares that, in case of any insurrectionary movement, national troops will be on hand to suppress it immediately.

A contest has sprung up between Virginia and West Virginia relative to the possession of Berkley and Jefferson counties.

The Russo-American telegraph is completed to a point 370 miles north of New Westminster.

The treaty stipulations restricting the naval force on the lakes, have been terminated, a United States gunboat is en route for the lakes, via the St. Lawrence river.

The President has declined to interfere in the case of the Southern bishops, leaving their re-union with the church North optional with them.

The returns received at the Agricultural Bureau, at Washington, for August, show that there will be an immense crop of corn this year.

The President has refused to release Malloty, the late rebel Secretary of the Navy from Fort Pulaski, but allows his family to visit him.

"Hangman" Foote has been allowed by the President to return to Tennessee upon condition of not interfering in politics.

The city of Indianapolis is suffering from an advent of thieves, burglars and desperadoes. The papers chronicle, on an average, about three homicides daily.

The conventions at Madison, St. Paul and Albany have all adjourned sine die. The ticket nominated by the Wisconsin republican convention is as follows: For Governor, Gen. L. Fairchild. Lieut. Gov. Spooner was re-nominated. For Secretary of State, T. S. Allen; for Treasurer, W. E. Smith; Bank Comptroller, J. M. Rusk; State Prison Commissioner, Henry Cordier; Superintendent of Public Instruction, J. G. McMynn. The majority platform presented by Senator Doolittle, which excludes negro suffrage, was adopted. The Minnesota republican state convention nominated the following ticket: For Governor, Gen. Wm. R. Marshall; for Lieut. Gov., Thos. Armstrong; for Secretary of State, Charles Shaffer; for Attorney General, Col. Wm. Colvin. The platform favors negro suffrage. The principal nominations of the New York state democratic convention were: For Secretary of State, Gen. Slocum; Bank Comptroller, Lucius Robinson; Attorney General, John Van Buren.

Gen Wilson was recently attacked in Georgia by four highwaymen. He put three of them to flight, and captured the fourth.

Several western newspapers contain advertisements of individuals offering their services as pardon-brokers. Among these parties is R. W. Hilliard, formerly representative in congress from Alabama.

A division of the Mexican Liberal army has gained an important advantage in the capture of a city near Orizaba and the surrender of the French garrison. The victors levied a forced loan of $120,000 upon the people and then left.

Another dispatch of different tenor says. Advices from Mexico confirm the desperate straits of the liberal cause, and the Mexican evacuation of Chihuahua. The French have been heavily reinforced, and are making rapid progress in conquest.

In the progress of military preparations (for what?) on the Rio Grande, two railroads are being constructed, the one by our Government from Brazos to Brownsville, the other by Maximilian, from a port on the mouth of the San Fernando River to Metamoras. These roads, in the event of any possible hostilities, will enable each party to hold a base of supplies on the coast, independent of the mouth of the Rio Grande. Our road is about thirty miles long, and is completed half way, with rolling stock supplied; the other is seventy miles long, and the work has but just commenced.

The notorious Wigfall has gone to Mexico.

Major Hall, with a detachment of thirty-five men, left St. Louis on the 7th to join the Liberal army in Mexico. They go by the way of Brazos Santiago, and will join Cortinas in the rear of Metamoras.

Several of the heretofore hostile Indian tribes on the plains, are beginning to manifest a desire for peace. The government is anxious to come to an arrangement with them and if one be made, will hold them rigidly to their agreements. If the attempts at pacification shall fail, military movements against the savages will be prosecuted with relentless vigor.

The Indian Commissioners have arrived at Fort Smith. The Creeks appear to be well disposed, but the Cherokees and Choctaws evince a contrary disposition. All of the Indian tribes in that section are fully represented, and important questions are to be discussed. One of the conditions of a treaty, made by the Indians, is that the Government shall compensate them for their slaves lost during the war.

News is daily expected of a battle between General Conner and the Indians, on or near Big Horn river, in the Rocky mountains. The overland telegraph line is now cleared of savages.

All of the pending death sentences for desertions have been commuted by the President to imprisonment for various terms of years.

A fire on the 4th, at Petroleum Centre, in the Pennsylvania oil region, destroyed three hundred barrels of oil, two engine houses, the derrick, and a refinery.

The agents for the rebel bondholders in London have called a meeting to take steps for the collection of their dues!

The War Department has ordered the organization of a military commission to try the rebel steamboat burners, twenty of whom are in custody.

The Postmaster General has awarded a contract for carrying the mails between Leesburg and Winchester, Va., to Robert Orrick, a colored man.

A military force of ten colored regiments has been completed in Kentucky. All the white troops in that State have been mustered out of service.

The first regular clearance from Charleston to Liverpool since the blockade, was on the 24 inst., when a ship load of cotton, worth $200,000, was sent off.

The Grand Jury of the Court of General Sessions at New York have brought in twelve indictments for forgery and one for grand larceny, the total penalties of which are 65 years' imprisonment, against Ketchum.

An interesting fact has come to light in connection with the Ketchum forgeries. It appears that two of the junior partners—Messrs. Belknap and Swan—became aware as early as last June that young Ketchum had abstracted securities deposited with the house, and used them in private speculations. They charged him with the abstraction of $885,000, when he confessed, and solemnly promised to return it if time was given him.

GLEANINGS.

—John H. Surratt, one of the assassins of President Lincoln, when last heard of, was at a monastary in Canada.

—A correspondent who has been traveling through Nevada, thinks that the silver resources of that state "are sufficient to pay off a national debt of twenty billions, and send each returned soldier of the Union with a silver musket, and then plate all our war vessels with silver thicker than they are now sheathed with iron."

—A Connecticut girl of the mature age of 15 or 16 made a runaway match. She had five dollars in her pocket. After meditating on the best mode of appropriating it for the purchase of her trousseau, she decided to devote the whole to the purchase of a hoop skirt. Being thus thoroughly equipped, she set out on her journey.

—The Fond du Lac press says: "A few days ago, the lightning struck a telegraph pole near Minnehoia Junction, just as the cars were passing it. The pole was shattered through the car windows, and one falling into the lap of a little daughter of D. D. Hooker, Esq., of this place, whose family were in the train."

—The village of Niles, Michigan, has lately been thrown into intense excitement by the discovery of an oil-well on the banks of the St. Joseph river, about two miles and a half below the village. The people talk of nothing else just now.

—A man was admitted into the New York Hospital the other day, in great agony at having swallowed his false teeth. He was relieved at once, when the teeth were found in his bed, and presented to him.

—The Cincinnati papers are chronicling the case of a gentleman who left that city a few years ago, largely in debt, and who was only recently heard from by his creditors in the shape of good bank checks, cancelling all his debts. He had "struck ile." No one will be sorry to hear of the prosperity of such a man anywhere.

—The gunboat building at Tonawanda, near Buffalo, will be ready for a trial-trip on the lake in about six weeks. The boat is 175 feet in length, 27 in width, and 11 feet beam, to be propelled by 4 8 feet cylinders.

—A paper down east, classes its accounts of the recent railroad collisions under the head of "Latest Fashionable Reunions."

—Gossips tell of a rough fight with the tiger at Morrissey's at Saratoga. A party sat from four o'clock one day to four o'clock the next, and the animal came out best although they were $25,000 ahead at one time.

—A returned soldier in Davenport, Iowa, lately collected of an officer, $300, money borrowed a year ago, the instrument used in collecting being a six-shooter.

—Two little princes were recently married in Indore, India. The bridegroom is aged 6, and the bride 3 years.

—A black man is in custody in London, charged with attempting to roast a man by putting him over a slow fire.

—An English woman in Dundalk lately gave birth to four children—two boys and two girls. A contribution is solicited for the bereaved husband.

—The New York Central Railroad finds that 2,800 lbs of peat will run an engine 175 miles.

—The finders of the assassin Booth, have not received their reward.

—A few nights since, the structure covering the stairs leading under under Table Rock, at Niagara, was destroyed by fire. The work was that of an incendiary, and suspicion points to a rival stair owner.

—Chicago has eighty-five hotels which are divided into eight grades, the prices ranging from five dollars to a dollar and a half per day.

[illegible] who drove the nails in the wood?" The Indians who inhabit the country have no idea of working iron. Perhaps it is a piece of one of Solomon's ships, which he sent to the land of Ophir after gold.

—During an irksome delay of two hours on the Troy and Boston Railroad the other day, two young men, just to kill time, proposed to two young ladies respectively, and a clergyman being on hand they were married on the spot.

—The population of Illinois is about 2,200,000—an increase of nearly 500,000 in 5 years.

—In both New Orleans and Mobile, there is much complaint of the want of houses. New Orleans is said to be more crowded now than ever before.

—A gentleman saw a notice of valuable information sent to any address on the receipt of ten cents, in a New York paper, and thought he must have ten cents worth more of knowledge, and consequently received in answer by return mail, the following: "My friend, for your ten cents, postage, &c., please find enclosed advice, which may be of great benefit to you, as many persons are injured for weeks months, and even years by the careless use of a knife, therefore my advice is, when you use a knife, always whittle from you."

—Fort Snelling in Minnesota is about to be abandoned as a military post, and the troops stationed there are ordered to go to Fort Leavenworth, while the ordinance stores go to Rock Island.

Central Park, where New York people go to breathe, has nine miles of drive, five devoted to equestrians, and twenty-two miles of walk. More than 90,000 trees and shrubs were added last year, and the park has now cost nine million dollars. A yearly expenditure of $150,000 is made upon it. There were about six millions of visitors to the park last year. But a whole column full of statistics would fail to give any idea of the beauty, richness and taste displayed in it.

—A darkey omnibus driver at Joliet was recently called on for his poll tax, but he refused to pay it. He was next ordered to appear, shovel in hand, to work it out, but this he refused to do. Mr. Colored Individual was now brought up before the Police Court for trial. Here he pleaded that he was not a "person," "citizen" or "resident" etc. After the lawyers had spread themselves, at least to their own edification, the darkey was pronounced nobody, and excused from paying tax.

At the Chatalet Theatre, Paris, a play called "the Universal Deluge," is performed without any fluid at all. The rain is very cleverly represented by ranges of bright, white metal wires, upon which electric light is flashed intermittently.

—The Digger Indians have an infallible remedy for small-pox. When one has it, he shuts the door of his hut, shoots his dog, and kills himself.

—Mr. Dietcisi, the great statistical authority in Europe, estimates the population of the world at 1,300,000,000, of whom 25 per cent. are Christians. Half of the latter—102,500,000, are Catholics. According to a census of the communicants of that church, taken in Rome in 1863, by counting the wafers consumed at Easter of that year throughout the world, the number of communicants was found to be 20,000,000.

—It has been ascertained that rebel cruelties and atrocities, only equalled by those of Andersonville, were practiced on Union prisoners at Tyler, Texas, during the war.

—At Moneks, Ill., a few days since, two men were suffocated by the "damps" in a well. The case was exactly like the one occurring a few weeks ago in Quincy. When will people learn that there is danger in descending into any well, before testing the character of the atmosphere?

—It was rumored that the insurgents had taken Pekin.

—The population of the United Kindgom of England, Ireland and Scotland—is stated at 29,172,290 in the middle of the present year.

—The cigar steamer, it has been asserted, will be worked by steam, and not smoke, as has been supposed. Punch says it is a remarkable era "vessel."

—A marriage between the crown prince of Denmark, and the Princess Louise of Sweden, is being negotiated.

—Another prize fight for the championship of England, is to come off Wednesday, the 1st of November, between Jem Ross and Joe Wormald.

—The Petersburg Express says that so many negroes are being baptised in the Appomattox, that the water is becoming quite black.

—President Johnson's family consists of his wife, a son, a son-in-law, two daughters and a number of grandchildren.

—The famous Thames tunnel has been sold for a million of dollars to a railroad

—Indianapolis, Indiana, is suffering from an irruption of the sawbones fraternity. There are already 300 practicing physicians in that city, and more are coming. Every army surgeon settles in Indianapolis as soon as mustered out.

—An interesting widow of Fifth Avenue, New York, is the leader of a movement in that city, to introduce a dress for ladies, to be "founded on the principle of bifurcation."

—There is a woman in Charleston, N. H., who has a collection of tame toads in her yard. They know their mistress, follow her about, hop into her lap to be fed, and are tenderly cared for.

—The new steamship Queen, which arrived in New York from Liverpool last week, brought the largest human cargo which has ever crossed the Atlantic ocean—1,526 souls.

—Henry A. Wise has addressee a letter of thirty foolscap pages to Gen. Grant, remonstrating against a decision of General Terry, which gives all of his abandoned property to the Freedmen's Bureau.

—All the branches of the State Bank of Iowa, have wound up, with the exception of the one at Fort Madison. The National Banks are supplying their places.

—By statistics it is announced that one man consumes 3,000 pounds of solids and fluids in a year.

—The Homer Iliad is the classical name of a lively and uncompromising Union paper, started in the town of Homer, La.

—Biela's comet is soon expected around again.

—Noiseless steam street cars are being tried at St. Louis. They make fifteen miles an hour easily.

—Chattanooga is to be made a first class military post. About $7,000,000 worth of property is to be stored there.

—A newspaper on a grand scale, to be published simultaneously in London and Paris, is about to be started. It will be called The Cosmopolitan.

—The cattle disease continues a serious matter of discussion in England.

—A great deal has been said about Death on the Pale Horse, but in view of the railroad mortality, people are now beginning to talk about Death on the Iron Horse.

—Moses Vernice, 54 years of age, was arrested in St. Louis the other day, charged with attempting to commit rape on a little girl five years old.

—The census returns in Rhode Island show that nearly all the agricultural towns and especially those in the western part of the state, are decreasing in population.

—All sentences of death in case of soldiers convicted of desertion, have been commuted by the president to imprisonment for a term of years.

A Mr. Campbell, in addressing an assemblage of Fenians lately in New York, said "the crash will come, and before six months are over, Ireland will be free or die."

—A woman was killed at Laramie's station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, recently, by being run over by a passenger train. It seems that herself and husband had got off the train and seated themselves on the cross ties, and when the train moved off, she was by some means carried under the wheels, and crushed to death. The engineer saw her position, before starting the train, but supposed she was far enough from the wheels to escape injury.

—During the late heavy storm in Philadelphia, two children were found floating about in a cradle in a cellar which was nearly filled with the still rising water. The mother was nearly frenzied with excitement, but the babes were finally rescued by tearing up a portion of the floor, against which the cradle was already knocking.

During the past four years, of the rebellion, Indiana furnished 193,327 troops, and Wisconsin 96,000. In the latter state over $10,000,000 was raised for bounties to soldiers.

—Two men (black and white), sat down on the open prairie near Lawrence, Kansas, last Sunday afternoon, 3d inst., to play a game of cards, the stakes being their pistols. The negro won, whereupon the white man shot him dead, and the dead body was found holding the cards. The affair was seen by people at a distance, but the murderer stole the negro's pony and made good his escape.

A Memphis paper relates the case of a southern female refugee, who had only one faded calico dress which she wore upon her back. A benevolent gentleman had a collection taken up for her which realized thirteen dollars. She at once repaired to a dry goods store, where she paid thirteen dollars for a lace collar.

—The newest thing out is "plumpers," for hollow chested damsels. The plumper is made of porcelain, pear-shaped in form, flat on one side, and bulging out on the other. They fit the insides of the cheeks, giving a round, plump, appearance; hence, do ess their name.

—The capital of the Hudson river railway is four million dollars. Of its 144 miles, 128 are supplied with a double track. It has 64 first class engines 3 dummies, 104 first-class passenger cars, 11 second class, 25 baggage, mail and express cars and 679 freight cars.

—The excitement about custom-house offices in New York, has eclipsed Ketchum.

A Little too Ripe.—As many of our readers are doubtless aware, it was the custom for planters at the south to purchase clothing for their slaves at wholesale; and as they did not have an opportunity to examine closely each article, they were swindled occasionally, by having a few bad ones thrown among the good. An acquaintance of ours tells us that on one occasion he laid in a box of shoes, and distributed them among his negroes. A few days afterwards old Bob, a favorite servant, found that the shoes that fell to his lot were bursting out. So going to his master, he said:

"Massa, where you buy dese shoes?"

"I bought them in New Orleans, Bob," replied our friend.

"Well, whar did de New Orleans people buy 'em?"

"They bought them from the people up North. They bought them from the Yankees."

"Well whar do de Yankees get 'em?" persisted the negro.

"The Yankees?—why they pick them off the trees, Bob."

"W-w-w-well," responded the darkey, holding up his shoes, "I reckon the Yankees didn't pick dese pair soon enuff, massa; I reckon he waited till day was a little too ripe!"—Norfolk Post.

ALL SORTS.

—Be an editor; let the devil be waiting for copy, sit down to write an article, and get a few sentences done; then let an acquaintance drop in and begin to tell you stories and gossip about town; and let him sit, and sit, and sit. That is the quickest way we can think of to drive a raving, distracted, mad.

—Four thousand pounds of lobster meat are put into cans daily at some establishments. This shows how much the people can if they only will.

—The Mobile News, speaking of the death of a Mr. Wisely, says that he succumbed to a congestion of the brain."

—An exchange gives the following modus operandi of keeping babies quiet: As soon as the squaller awakes, sit it up, propped by a pillow, if it cannot sit alone. Smear its fingers thick with molasses. Then put half a dozen feathers into its hands, and it will sit and pick the feathers from one hand to the other, until it drops asleep. As soon in place of innumerable sleepless nights, there will be silence and enjoyment unspeakable.

—The more idle a rumor is, the busier it generally proves.

—When one ox lies down, the yoke bears hard upon him that stands up.

—Old buttermilk applied to the face, is an effective cure for sunburn. Also a little lemon juice put in a cup of milk, is an effective cure for sun burn. It should not be applied too frequently, as all things are more or less hurtful to the skin, when used too often.

—Charles Reade says: "No man or woman is safe, who has once formed the habit of looking to drink for solace or cheerfulness or comfort. While the world goes well, they will be likely to be temperate. But the habit is built, the railroad to destruction is cut ready for use, the rails are laid down, the station houses are erected, and the train is on the line, waiting only for the locomotive; it comes to us; it grapples us; and away we go in a moment down the line we have been constructing, like a flash of lightning, to destruction!"

—There are many doublings in the human heart; don't think you can find out the whole of a man's real character at once.

—Those who reprove us are the more valuable friends than those who flatter us. True progress requires either faithful friends or severe enemies.

—It is a good sign to see a man do an act of charity to his fellows. It is a bad sign to hear him boasting of it. It is a good sign to see the color of health on a man's face. It is a bad sign to see it all concentrated in his nose. It is a good sign to see an honest man wearing old clothes. It is a bad sign to see them filling holes in his window.

—It is better to sleep with an empty stomach than to lie awake with an accusing conscience

Better a dog who wakes,
Than a lion who shrieks.

—In a book named "Palmetto Pictures," recently published, the following verses, with many others like them, occur:

"Temporals the thundering foliage toss,
Locks of the Deity, wizard and hoar,
An fully sighs the oracular moss,
Art thou incarnate, Dodona of yore?"

"Yonder indigenous endogens wave
Banner like blades on a mystical hole,
And, with a vigor perennial, brave
Boreal blasts from the alien pole."

—It is not manly for a man to be looking out ahead all the time to avoid work, and saying to himself, "how can I spare myself this or that piece of drudgery." What if a plow drawn by stout oxen were all the time to be looking out and saying to itself "how can I avoid having to rip through that rooted turf? What shall I do to avoid having to turn aside that stone?" No! No! take the furrow of life as it comes. And out right through

Willie had an Uncle Charles who was a minister, and whom he saw for the first time while on a visit to him. Willie was an observing little fellow of three years. The first time they they met at the table, Uncle Charles bowed his head over the plate and asked a blessing. This was a new service to Willie, who could hardly restrain himself, but spent the time in examining his plate. Just as his uncle concluded, he turned it over, and observing the stamp of the maker on the bottom, called out—

"There's more on the other side; Uncle Charles, say that!"

The people at Pithole, Pa. are in a bad way. They have no burial ground, and the land is too valuable for old purposes to admit of one. If anybody dies, he is taken to Titusville for interment.

PERSONAL.

Artemus Ward, after a remarkably successful series in New York, in which the accommodations of his old Hall proved insufficient to accommodate the audiences that nightly presented themselves for admission, has said his final "adoo," and will leave for England soon.

The property of Richard Thornton, the millionaire merchant, who was, with a single exception, the richest man in London, amounted to £2,800,000. His will makes no end of bequests, three hospitals getting £20,000 pounds apiece, and twenty-five others getting £2,000 each. His family friends are remembered in sums of £100,000 to £500,000, and his relatives all get princely fortunes. His clerks and servants are also handsomely remembered.

Late Denver City papers learn that Capt Dahlgren, son of Admiral Dahlgren of the Navy, who passed through that city a short time since for Salt Lake, unfortunately shot two of his fellow passengers while en route, by the accidental discharge of his revolver. One of the persons was not expected to live. The other was only slightly wounded.

John Welsh a rich Pottsville miner, is dead. He began with a pickaxe, and left off with an income of $614,853.

It is said that Pius IX, on being called upon to make regulations for the protection of Rome against the cholera, declined and said he would leave the fate of the holy city in the hands of providence.

Maj. Gen. Grover, who was married at Northamton, Mass., a few weeks ago, was not legally tied after all. He didn't know a marriage certificate was necessary to legalize the thing and the clergyman employed was likewise ignorant. The intention of marriage has since been entered upon the records, though a month after the wedding.

Frederick W. Seward has so far, recovered as to be able to attend to business of a private character, and intends to resume the duties of his office in a few days.

The only two devoutedly religious Generals that the war has developed are General Howard, now National Superintendent of Freedmen's Affairs, and General Fisk, at present Commissioner of Freedmen's Affairs in Tennessee.

The Tycoon of Japan has recently revealed himself to the people of the foreign settlement of Kanagawa. It is stated that the foreign residents "were permitted to see him."

Louis Napoleon is still rather spitefully disposed towards Prince Napoleon, and recently when the latter had dismissed from his household a chaplain who had been attached to it for many years, the emperor ordered him to be reinstated in his position, though it seems that the reverend gentleman received his salary from the prince and not from the government. His dismissal had originated not in any objection against his services, but simply because the prince as a practical christian, cannot afford the luxury of a chaplain.

BABY LOUISE.

I'm in love with you, baby Louise!
With your silken hair, and your soft blue eyes,
And the dreamy music that in them lies,
And the kind, sweet smile you brought from the skies—
God's sunshine, baby Louise.

When you laid your hands, baby Louise,
Your hands, like a fairy's, so tiny and fair,
With a pretty, humorous, saucy air,
You are trying to think of some angel-taught prayer,
You learned above, baby Louise!

I'm in love with you, baby Louise!
Why! you never called your beautiful head!
Some day, little one, your cheek will grow red
With a flush of delight, to hear the words said:
"I love you," baby Louise.

Do you hear me, baby Louise?
I have sung your praises for nearly an hour,
And your father keep drawing closer and closer,
And—you're gone to sleep, like a weary flower,
Ungrateful baby Louise!

The Russian Prince's Oath.

The Grand Duke Alexander Alexandrovitch, heir apparent to the imperial throne, has just attained his majority, and amid other imposing ceremonies that marked the occasion of his twenty-first birthday, the following oath was administered. It is translated from the Journal de St. Petersburg and reproduced entire as a curious and impressive document:

"In the name of Almighty God and before His Holy Evangelist, I swear and promise to serve faithfully and loyally (His Imperial Majesty) my Very Gracious Sovereign and Father, and obey him in all things, without even withholding my life, to the last drop of my blood!—to maintain and defend with all my intelligence and all my might and all my means all the prerogatives belonging to the autocracy, the power and the sovereignty of His Majesty, by virtue of the laws now in force or to succeed, co-operating in every thing which may belong to the faithful service of His Imperial Majesty and to the welfare of the State, in the capacity of heir to the throne of all the Russias and of the Kingdom of Poland and the Grand Duchy of Finland united to it. I assume the obligation and swear to maintain the order of succession to the throne and the family arrangements established by the fundamental laws of the Empire in all their force and integrity as I shall render account of them before God and His Last Judgment. Oh Lord, God of my fathers and King of kings! instruct, enlighten and direct me in the great career of duty that is opened to me; may the wisdom that sits upon Thy throne accompany me; send Thy saints from on high in Heaven that I may understand what is agreeable unto Thine eyes and what is just to Thy law. My heart be in Thy hands. Amen!"

An Irish Recruiting Office.—Enlisting a Lawyer.

Well mind yare off now, for this is as true as the gospel. It was on the 11th of May, 1820, I listed a recruit in Dublin, put the questions to him, gave him the shilin, "glory be to God, and walked him to the barracks as fine as a fiddle. Well, behold ye now, a few days after that he was claimed as a 'prentice, so he was had up before the Major and he committed him for trial. Well, at the following 'sizes, he was had up, and I was called as a witness, and the lawyer that defended him, tould me that I did not 'list him.

"I did," says I.

"Did ye put the question to him rightly?" says he.

"I did," says I.

"By the varide of your oath now," says he, "just ax me the questions, for I don't believe you axed them."

"How do you know that?" says I, "for by this and by that, you won't by."

"None of yer bizness," says he; come now, let us hear. Put the questions to me."

[illegible] and he cordingly, I pulled out a half crown, and clapped it into his fist and then I up and axed him the questions, and he said "yes," to all of them.

"Was these the questions you put to the prisoner?" says he.

"They wor," say I.

"Well, here's yer half-crown back for ye" says he.

"I can't take it," says I.

"Why not?" says he.

"Why not? says I, "sure, I can't take it back till ye go before a magistrate, and pay the 'smart money.'"

"You be hanged!" says he. And he put the money in his pocket, and I called to his lordship on the bench for a witness that I 'listed him. And oh! holy Biddy! but there was a roar in the court! Begorra, his lordship, the judge, laughed till the tears run down his face, and says he to the counsellor:

"I am sorry for you, my good man, but I hope you'll get promotion soon."

Well, the decision of the court being in my favor, I axed the judge if I might take away my new recruit. And they all roared again, and the counsellor got as red as a turkey-cock, and as mad as a bull with the colic. But at last he made the best he could of it, and paid up the "smart money," and I picked up my hat to leave the court; and says I to the counsellor, says I—

"Don't list in the line next time, sir."

"What thin?" says he snappishly.

"Oh, yer honor," says I, "stick to the rifles; that's more in your way."

Well, begorra, whin I tould the story to the major, I thought he'd die, and when he had done laughin, he bid me keep the smart money for myself.

Perhaps the most restless being in the world, is the man who needs to do nothing but keep still. The old soldier fights all his battles over again, and the retired merchant spreads the sails of his thought upon new ventures, or comes uneasily down to snuff the air of traffic and feel the jar of wheels. I suppose there is nobody whose condition is so deplorable, so ghastly as his whose lot many seem disposed to envy—a man at the top of the world's ease—crammed to repletion by what is called "enjoyment," ministered to by every luxury—the entire surface of his life so smooth with completeness that there is not a jot to hang a hope on—so obsequiously gratified that he feels miserable.—Chapin.

Mrs. Petroleum's Library.—A story is told of a certain Mrs. Petroleum, whose husband had suddenly come into possession of a large fortune and had erected a house to correspond with the enlargement of his means. Mrs Petroleum had heard that it was necessary to have a library, and accordingly sent to a popular book house, and ordered one. A well assorted library of standard works, was sent up to her house. The next day down comes the lady in a towering rage at their selection. "Choicest works," said she, as an explanation was attempted, "Bother your choicest works; they were all of different sizes and colors. I wanted them all to be in blue and gold to match my furniture!"

Disinfecting Agents.—Common copperas, which costs but three cents per pound, is perhaps, one of the most effective and economical disinfecting agents known. If two pounds of copperas be dissolved in ten quarts of water, and the solution poured into the gutters sinks and cess-pools where filth necessarily accumulates, its deodorizing power will become speedily and convincingly apparent.

They cure men of drunkenness in Holland by locking them up and mixing alcoholic spirits with every article of food or drink the patient craves. After a few days of this treatment the very smell of alcohol becomes so loathsome that he can never thenceforth endure it.

A Terrible Railroad Accident—Fifteen Persons Killed.

A collision occurred on Monday, the 2[illegible] on the Long Island Railroad, near Jamaica. The following particulars are furnished by the passengers:

At 4:45 a. m., the Greenport train, which should not leave the Jamaica station until the Hunter's Point train had arrived, was started from Jamaica ten minutes before its time, and met the other train at full speed about a mile west of that village. The [illegible] of the approaching train from Hunter's Point was heard by several passengers in the other train, and one gentleman, who was standing on the platform of the smoking car looked out, saw the danger, and leaped off without sustaining any injury.

The Hunter's Point train was under full speed, as the conductor doubless felt secure of his right of way, but the other conductor, whose name we understand is Randall, had somewhat too shaken the speed of his train, as he was aware of the insecurity of his position. There was [illegible] men, firemen and conductors to jump off, which they did without receiving any serious injury. The eastward bound train was completely run down and crushed to pieces by the superior weight of the other.

The scene was so frightful to those who escaped injury that some fainted with terror at the sight. Men were hanging suspended beneath the wreck by the lacerated tendons of their legs, both of which had been torn away in the collision. Others were suspended by the throat, across which strong iron fenders had been crushed. Others were dying beneath tons of the wrecked cars, and moaning out the brief moments they had remaining to them on earth.

At first it seemed as though few could have escaped from the dreadful catastrophe alive, but in a few moments one and another of the unfortunate victims crawled from the awful mass of broken timber and crushed human forms, until it was apparent that not more than fifteen immortal souls had been hurried into the presence of their Maker. Three of the Hunter's Point cars were torn into pieces or wedged into each other, and on these the largest loss of life occurred. The shock was so great that the trains rebounded from each other two or three hundred feet.

The number of passengers on the train from the east was so great that many were standing on the platforms. As the fronts of two or three cars were crushed, most of these passengers were either killed or wounded.

One of the most astounding circumstances attending this appalling murder, is the fact that while the smoking car of this train was crowded with passengers, not one was seriously injured, though on the next car two men were killed, and in the other cars behind more or less injury was done.

When our informant left, one man was still hanging by his crushed legs between the cars, and the employees of the road, although importuned by the passengers to take measures for his relief, set to work repairing the engines. This man was still alive, and the passengers were prevented from prying the cars apart by some of the employees, who pretended that if the car was lifted from the other, the last would fall upon its victim; and this reason was given for their own inaction to the poor dying man.

The engineers and firemen grouped together soon after the accident, and, as our informant asserts, were cheerfully congratulating each other on their own escape, and indulging in a little laughter over some of the incidents. One of them observed in a nonchalant tone: "Now, I suppose we shall have a hell of a time made over this." All these occurrences while the dead and the dying were strewn on the grass around them. These stories came from the passengers, but let us hope for the sake of human natnre that there is an exaggeration to them.

Artemus Ward Written Up.

The New York Saturday Press, in its Figaro correspondence, has the following notice on Artemus, who, as our readers know, is a regular correspondent of that paper:

Arttemus is to commence lecturing among us again on Monday, when he will come properly up as one of the topics of the day. It is a way he has to make himself a topic, whether you will or not.

In the provinces, he at once became the topic, and gets from the press such notices as the following, which I copy from his Irving Hall prospectus, in which I take it for granted of course, that everything is genuine:

From the Sheboygan, (Wis.) Bugle of Liberty.

Artemas Ward.—This great lecturer calls on us to day, and ordered quite a lot of Job Printing. We consider him one of the greatest lecturers in the country.

From the Skowhegan, (Maine) Clarion.

Although his style is different from Washington Irving's, we cannot be blind to the fact that Mr. Irving's style is different from his.

From the Rahway Gazette.

Not a dry eye in the audience. Many could have borrowed money of him on the spot.

From the Hoboken Expounder.

No family should be without him.

From the Keokuk, (Iowa) Banner.

We do no know when we have been more so.

I have not much idea what the entertainment at Irving Hall will be, but Artemus tells me that it will not be like that he gives at Dodworth's Hall, and that his "picters" are all new and by the best artists who would take his money.

Some idea of his intentions may be obtained, however, by reading another extract from his prospectus, which reads thus:

"The festivities will be commenced by the pianist, a gentleman who used to board in the same street with Mr. Gottschalk. The man who kept the boarding-house, will remember it distinctly. The touching new ballads, "Dear Sister, is there any pie in the House?" "My gentle Father, have you any Fine Cut about you?" "Mother, is the baile over, and is it safe for me to come home from Canada?" and (by request of many families who haven't heard it), "Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Munching!" While the enraptured ear drinks in this sweet music, (we pay our pianist nine dollars a week, and "find him,") the eye will be enchanted by the magnificent green baize curtain, covering the Panorama. This green baize cost forty cents a yard at Mr. Stewart's store. It was bought in deference to the present popularity of "Wearing o' the Green." We shall keep up with the times, if we spend the last dollar our friends have got.

How Poor People Live.—Four hundred and ninety-five thousand five hundred and ninety-two persons in N. York—nearly half a million—live in tenement houses—houses, that is to say, in which more than three families live; and the average number of families to each of these is seven and one-sixth. This includes families in tenement houses who, within the limited space they occupy, take in boarders or lodg

Miscellany.

SONG: THE EMPTY SLEEVE.

WRITTEN AND SOLD BY A ONE-ARMED SOLDIER OF THE FOURTEENTH PENNSYLVANIA VOLS.

By the moon's pale light to a gazing throng,
Let me tell one tale—let me sing one song;
'Tis a tale devoid of an aim or plan;
'Tis the simple song of a one-armed man.
Till this very hour would you e'er believe
What a queer, weird thing is an empty sleeve?
It tells in a silent way to all
Of a country's need and a country's call;
Of a kiss and prayer for a child and wife,
And a hurried march for a nation's life.
Till this very hour would you ne'er believe
What a tell-tale thing is an empty sleeve?
It tells of a battle-field of gore;
Of the sabre's clash and the cannon's roar;
Of the whizzing shot and the screaming shell,
And a scene that mimics the scenes of hell.
Till this very hour would you e'er believe
What a terrible thing is an empty sleeve?
It tells of a scene at a leader's veil,
To a scene where Death held carnival;
Of a furious charge at the bugle's note,
And a gurgling sound of a foeman's throat.
Till this very hour would you e'er believe
What a terrible thing is an empty sleeve?
It tells of a thousand nameless graves,
Where slumber a thousand loyal braves;
Of a widow's woe and an orphan's prayer
And a mother's tear for a "vacant chair."
Till this very hour would you e'er believe
What a mournful thing is an empty sleeve?
Though it points to a myriad seams and scars,
Yet it tells that a flag, with the stripes and stars,
In God's own chosen time, shall wave
O'er a land where droops no dowdrily slave.
Till this very hour would you e'er believe
What a hopeful thing is an empty sleeve?

From Our Young Folks.

The Boy of Chancellorville.

On the second and third days of May, 1863, was fought the great and terrible battle of Chancellorville, and not until men beat their swords into ploughshares, and boys exchange their drums for jews-harps and penny whistles, will it be forgotten. But I do not propose to write about it, for I cannot. No one can describe a battle without seeing it; and I did not see the battle of Chancellorville. But I did see, more than a year after it was fought, a little boy who was in it, and who, nearly all the intervening time, was a prisoner in the hands of the Rebels.

He was only twelve years old, and you may think that what such a little fellow did, at such a time could not be of much consequence to anybody. But it was. He saved one or two human lives, and lighted the passage of a score of souls through the dark valley; so did more than any of our great generals on those bloody days. He saved lives, they destroyed them.

You know that, if you break a small wheel in a cotton mill, the entire machinery will stop; and if the moon—one of the smallest lumps of matter in the universe—should fall from its orbit, the whole planetary system might go reeling and tumbling about like a drunken man. So you see the great importance of little things,—and little folks are of much greater importance than little things. If they were not, the little boy I am writing about would not have done so much at Chancellorville, and I should not now be telling you his story.

The battle was raging hotly on our left, when this little drummer-boy was ordered to the rear by his Captain. "Go," the Captain said; "you're in danger here; back there you may be of use to the wounded." The little fellow threw his musket over his shoulder,—his drum he left behind when the battle began,—and, amid the pelting bullets, made his way back to the hospital. Our forces were driving the enemy, and all the ground over which they had fought was strewn with the dead and the dying. Here and there, then with stretchers, was going about among the wounded; but the stretchers were few, and the wounded were many; and as the poor maimed and bleeding men turned their pitiful eyes on the little boy, or in low faint tones asked him for water, he could not help lingering among them, though the enemy's shells were bursting, and their bullets falling like hailstones all about him. Gray jackets were mingled with blue; but in a generous mind the cry of suffering dispels all distinction between friend and enemy; and Robert—that was his name—went alike to the wounded of both armies. Filling his canteen from a little stream which flowed through the battle-field, he held it to many a parched lip, and was rewarded with many a blessing from dying men,—blessings which will be to him a comfort and a consolation when he too shall draw near to death.

He had relieved a score or more, when he noticed, stretched on the ground at a little distance, his head resting against a tree, a fair-haired boy of not more than seventeen. He was neatly dressed in gray, and had a noble countenance, with a broad, open forehead, and thick, curly hair, which clustered all about his temples. His face wore the hue of health, his eyes were bright and sparkling, and only the position of his hands, which were clasped tightly above his head, told that he was in pain and wounded.

"Can I help you?" asked Robert as he approached him.

"Thank you. Yes," he answered, clutching the canteen, and taking a long draught of the water. "Thank you," he said again. "I saw you. I knew you would come to me."

"Who? have the rest passed you by?"

"Yes; for, you see, I'm a Rebel," he replied, smiling faintly. "But you don't care for that,"

"No, I don't. But are you badly hurt?"

"Pretty badly, I fear. I'm bleeding fast,—I reckon it's is all over with me";—and he pointed to a dark red stain on his jacket, just under his shoulder. His voice had a clear, ringing tone, and his face a calm, cheerful look; for to the brave death has no terrors. To the true man or boy it is only the passage upward to a higher, better, nobler life in the heavens.

Robert tore open the young man's clothes, and bound his handkerchief tightly about his wound; then, seeing an empty stretcher coming that way, he shouted to the bearers: "Quick! Take him to the hospital. He's bleeding to death!"

"I don't like the color o' his clothes," said one of the men, as the two moved on with the stretcher. "I guess he can wait till we look arter our own wounded."

His face flushing with both shame and anger, Robert sprang to his feet, and, turning upon the men, said in an imperious tone, which sounded oddly enough from such a little fellow: "He can't wait. He will bleed to death, I tell you. Take him now; if you don't I'll report you.—I'll have you drummed out of the army for being brutes and cowards."

The men set down the litter, and the one who had spoken, looked pleasantly at Robert for a moment and said: "Well, you are a bully boy. We don't keer for no reportin'; but for such a little chap as you, we'll do anything.—I'm blamed if we won't."

"I thank you very much," said Robert, in an altered way, as he hastened to help the men lift the wounded youth upon the stretcher.

The hospital was an old mill at a cross-roads, about a quarter of a mile away. It was built of logs, without doors or window-panes, and was fast falling to decay; but its floor, and nearly every square inch of shaded ground around it, were covered with the wounded and the dying. Thither they bore the Rebel boy, and, picking their way among the many prostrate and bleeding men, spread a blanket under a tree, and laid him gently on it. Then Robert went for a surgeon.

One shortly came, and, after dressing the wound, he said in a kindly way: "It's a bad hurt, my lad, but keep up a good heart, and you'll s'on be about. A little pluck does more for a wound than a good many bandages."

"O! Now you've stopped the bleeding, I sha'n't die. I won't die,—it would kill mother if I did."

And so, you see, the Southern lad, even then, thought of his mother! and so do all brave boys, whether well or wounded. They think of her first, and of her last; for no other hand is so gentle, no other voice is so tender, no other heart so true and faithful as hers. No boy ever grew to be a great and good man, who did not love and reverence his mother. Even the Savior of the world, when he hung upon the cross, thought of his, and said to John, "Behold thy mother!"

With so many needing help, Robert could do little more for the Southern youth. He saw him covered warmly with a blanket, and heard him say, "Whether I get well or not, I shall never forget you." Then he left him, not to see him again till long afterwards.

The surgeon was a kind-hearted man, and told Robert he should not go again upon the battle-ground; so he went about among the wounded in the hospital, tending them, with [illegible] reading to them from the blessed Book which God has given to be the guide of the living and the comfort of the dying.

So the day wore away, until the red tide of battle surged again around the old mill at the cross-roads. The Rebels came on in overpowering force, and drove our men, as autumn leaves are driven before the whirlwind. Numbers went down at every volley; and right there, not a hundred yards away, a tall stalwart man fell, mortally wounded. A Rebel bullet had entered his side, and as the fallen man pressed his hand upon it, a dog which was with him began to lap the wound, as if he thought he could thus stay the crimson stream on which his master's soul was going to its Maker.

Robert saw the man fall, and the dog standing by amid the leaden storm which was pouring in torrents all around them. Admiring the bravery of the dog, he stepped out from behind the tree where he had stood out of range of the bullets, and went to the wounded man. Gently lifting his head, he said to him, "Can I do anything for you?"

"Yes!" gasped the man. "Tell them that I died—like a man—for my country."

"Is that all? Nothing more?" asked Robert quickly, for he saw the soldier was sinking rapidly.

The dying man turned his eyes to the little boy's face, clasped his arm tightly about the neck of his dog, made one or two efforts to speak, and then, murmuring faintly, "Take care—of—Ponto!" passed upward to that world where there are no wars and no fightings.

The battle by this time had surged away to the northward, and a small party of cavalry-men had halted before the doorway of the hospital. Robert had closed the eyes of the fallen soldier, and was straightening his limbs upon the blood-dampened ground, when one of the horsemen called out to him: "What,—my little fellow! what are you doing out here, so far away from your mother?"

Robert looked up, and, amid the group of officers, saw a tall, broad-shouldered, grave-looking man, with handsome, regular features, and hair and beard streaked with gray, but almost as white as cotton. He wore a high felt hat, an old gray coat, and blue trousers tucked into high-top boots; and rode a large, handsome horse, whose skin was as soft, and glossy as a leopard's. He carried no arms, but the three dingy stars on his collar showed that he held high rank among the Rebels. All this Robert had time to observe, as he very deliberately answered:

"I came out here, sir, to help fight the wicked men who are trying to destroy their country."

The officer's placid face flushed with anger; and, turning to an aid, he said, in a harsh, grating tone: "Take that boy to the rear. Send him to Libby with the other prisoners."

Robert did not then know that this was the famous General Lee, the man who [illegible] who has, in short, none of the smaller vices, but all of the larger ones; for he deliberately, basely, and under circumstances of unparalleled meanness, betrayed his country, and, long after all hope of success was lost, carried on a murderous war against his own race and kindred.

It was nearly sunset before Robert was sent off to the rear, and meanwhile a narrow trench was scooped in the ground, and the dead soldier was placed in it. Robert set a small stake at the head of the grave, and it stands there still; but no one knows who rests below, and no one will know till the morning of the resurrection; and yet it may be that even now, in some far-away Northern home, hearts are heavy, and eyes are red with waiting and weeping for the father, and the husband who never again will return to his loved among the living.

Early on the following day, with about three hundred poor fellows, one-half of whom were wounded, Robert was marched off to Richmond. The soldier's dog, when he saw his master laid away in the ground, howled and took on piteously, but soon afterwards grew friendly with Robert, and the two made all the weary journey together.

It was in truth a weary journey, and I cannot find it in my heart to tell you about it, for I do not want to make you sad; and it would draw tears from the hearts of stone to know all that the poor boy endured. It seemed more than human nature could bear, and yet it was only what thousands of our tired, footsore, wounded, and starving men have suffered on their long, dusty, and muddy march to the Richmond Bastile. Time and again the little boy would have fallen by the way had not the poor dumb dog sustained him. They shared their meagre crust together; and often when Robert's spirits drooped on the march, Ponto would gambol about him, and make him cheerful in spite of himself; and often, too, when he lay down to sleep on the damp ground, the dog would stretch his huge paws across his breast, and cover him, as well as he could, from the cold air, and the unhealthy night dew.

At sunset, on the fourteenth day of May, the column, wayworn and footsore, with haggard faces and uncombed hair, was set down from the cars of the Virginia Central Railroad, and marched into the city of Richmond. Down the long, grass-grown streets they were hurried with clouded faces and heavy hearts; but when at last the cold, brown walls of the Libby rose before them darkly outlined on the gray sky, they almost shouted for joy,—for joy that their toilsome journey was over, though it ended in prison. If they had known of the many weary months of cold and hunger and misery which some of them were to pass there, would they not rather have died than have entered that dark doorway of that living grave?

All of you have read descriptions, or seen pictures, of the gloomy outside of this famous prison, so I need not tell you how it looks. It is indeed gloomy, but the inside is repulsive and unsightly to the last degree. The room into which Robert and his companions were taken was a long, low apartment on the ground floor, with naked beams, broken windows, in battered frames the spider had woven his web, and bare, brown walls, from which hung scores of torn, dingy blankets, every one of them filled with a larger caravan of wild animals than any ever seen in a Northern town. The weary travel-soiled company was soon ranged in four files along the floor of this room, and there were made to wait two long hours for the Inspector. At last he came,—a coarse, brutal fellow, with breath perfumed with whiskey, and face bloated with drink and smeared with tobacco-juice.

"Yer a sorry set!" said he, as he went down the lines, taking from the men their money and other valuables. "A sorty set! he added, as he looked down on their ragged clothes, through which here and there the torn flesh was peeping. "A sorry set! Sorrier nur partater-tops in September; but yer green though,—greener nur laurel-bushes, and ye bar [bear] better," again he said, as he stuffed a huge handful of United States notes into his pocket, and went on with his dirty work. At last he stopped before a coatless officer, with matted hair, only one boot, a tattered shirt, and no hat or neck-tie, but in their stead a stained bandage, from under which the blood still was trickling. "Who'd ha' thought o' raisin' such a crop from such a hill o' beans!" he said as he drew from the pocket of this officer a roll larger than usual, and in his greed paused to count the money.

"We reap what we sow," said the officer, with a look of intense loathing; "you are sowing theft, you'll reap hell-fire—if I live to get out of this prison."

"Yer sow'n' greenbacks, and ye'll reap a dungeon, if ye don't keep a civil tongue in yer head," responded the fellow, with a brutal sneer, as he went on down the column.

Ponto had kept close at the heels of Robert, and, following him into the prison, had crouched down behind the line, and remained [illegible] the prisoners to their quarters, and, when they began to move, the dog attracted the notice of the Inspector. "Whose dog is that?" he roared as Ponto started up the stairway, a little in advance of his young master.

Robert was about to answer, but a kind-hearted sentinel, seeing from his looks that the dog was his, touched him on the shoulder, and whispered: "Not a word, Sonny! It mought git ye inter trouble."

"Stop him! Catch that dog!" shouted the Inspector, as Ponto, hearing the inquiry, and seeming to know by instinct that it referred to him, darted forward and disappeared in the room above. The Inspector and two or three sentries pursued him, and bounding after them two steps at a time, Robert soon saw what followed.

The room was of the same size, and furnished in much the same way as the one below stairs; but scattered about it, in messes of fifteen or twenty, were more than two hundred prisoners. In and out among these prisoners, ran the dog and his pursuers. It was an exciting chase; but they might as well have tried to catch a sunbeam, or a bird without salting its tail, as to take Ponto in such a crowd of friends. In and out among them—crouching behind boxes, leaping over barrels, running beneath benches, right under the legs of his pursuers—went Ponto, as if he were a streak of lightning out on a frolic; while the prisoners stood by, laughing, and shouting, and getting in the way as much as possible, to keep the loyal dog from the clutches of his Rebel enemies. Half an hour the chase lasted. Then the patience of the Inspector gave out, and, puffing with heat and anger, he shouted, "One of you shoot the —— critter."

A sentinel levelled his musket, but a Union man threw up the barrel. "Don't fire here," he said, "you'll kill some of us."

"Fire, —— you, fire! Don't mind him," shouted the enraged Inspector.

"Do it, Dick Turner," said the man, planting himself squarely before him, "and I'll brain you on the spot," and—Turner prudently omitted to order the shooting.

Taking advantage of this momentary lull, Ponto darted up into the officer's room, and was soon snugly hid away in the third story. Baffled and exasperated, Turner turned to the man, and, growling out, "I'll have my revenge for this, my fine fellow," strode down the stairway.

Robert's quarters were in the room where this scene occurred, and his new messmates received him very kindly. They gave him food, bathed his aching, swollen limbs, and soon made him a bed on the floor, with a blanket for a mattress, and Ponto for a coverlet. He was just falling into a doze, when he heard a voice at the landing ask, with an oath, "Where is that dog?" The lights were out, but by the lantern which the man carried, the boy saw that he was a short, slight, dapper individual, with a beardless face, a [illegible] look and [illegible] which seemed to say: "Get out of my way, sir; I am Thomas P. Turner, by profession a Negro-whipper, but now keeper of Libby Prison, and I take off my hat to nobody." With him was the other Turner,—his tool, and the fit instrument of his contemptible tyranny.

No one answered the question, and the two worthies groped their way about the room with the lantern. They caught sight of Robert's mess just in time to see Ponto again take himself off up the stairway. The sagacious creature had heard the ungentlemanly allusion to himself, and, like a sensible dog, determined to keep out of such low company.

With the aid of his Union friends, that night and for a week afterwards, Ponto baffled his pursuers; but at last he was taken, and, much against his will, was set free,—for, you know, it is only men that ever deserve to be shut up in prison. What became of him Robert does not know; but if he is living, he is a decent dog; if dead he has gone where the good dogs go,—that is certain.

"So, he is your dog?" said Turner, halting before Robert who had risen to his feet.

"He is, sir," answered the little boy in a respectful tone, "and you will be cruel if you take him away from me."

"Cruel! do you call me cruel!" cried Turner, flying into a passion. "I'll teach you manners, you young whelp." Turning then to his subordinate, he asked for the "other Yankee."

The prisoner who had forbidden the firing was pointed out, and soon he and Robert was escorted to a dungeon, down in the cellar, under the sidewalk. The members of Robert's mess told Turner of his exhausted condition, and begged him not to consign a tired, sick boy to so horrible a place,—at least to let him rest where he was till the morning; but all they said was of no avail. They might as well have talked to an adder, for an adder is not more deaf, nor more venomous, than was that man!

So Robert's long, weary journey ended in a dungeon. It was a horrid den,—a low, close, dismal place, with the floor encrusted with filth, and walls stained and damp with rain, which in wet weather had dripped down from the sidewalk. Its every corner was alive with vermin, and it seemed only a fit habitation for some ferocious beast, which had to be shut out from the light of day, and kept from contact with all things human. Yet into it they thrust a sick, fragile boy; and he would have died there but for the kind-hearted soldier who was with him. He wrapped him in his blanket; gave him every morsel of his own food; stretched himself on the naked floor, and held him for hours clasped to his own warm breast; and, in all ways, nursed and tended him as if he had been his mother. So Robert lived through it, and, at the end of forty hours, God softened the hearts of his keepers.†

For a month afterwards Robert was confined to the hospital. The occupant of the next cot to his own was a Union Colonel, who, when they were well enough to go back to the prison, procured for him admission to the officers' quarters in the third story. This secured him no better fare or accommodations than he would have had below with the private soldiers, but it gave him more air and larger space to move about in. There he lived for seven long months; sleeping, at night, on the hard floor; idling, by day, through the large rooms, or gazing out on the narrow prospect to be seen from the prison window. But this time was not altogether idled away. Under the eye of the good Colonel he went over his arithmetic and grammar, and learned French and Spanish. But it was a weary time. Exchanges was suspended, and there seemed no hope; yet at last deliverence came.

Robert went seldom from his own floor, but one cold day in January, 1864, he was called by a simple errand to the lower story. He was about returning, his foot was even on the stairway, when he heard some one call his name. Looking around he saw it was the sentinel,—a young man, with light, wavy hair, and an open, handsome countenance. His left coat-sleeve was dangling at his side, but he seemed strong, and otherwise capable of military duty. "Did you call me?" asked Robert. "Why" cried the other, grasping his hand, "don't you know me? don't you remember Chancellorville?" It was the Rebel youth whose life Robert had saved on the battle-field. The musket dropped from his hand, and he hugged the little boy as if he had been his own brother. The other sentries, and even an officer, stood by, and said nothing; though all this was against the prison regulations. After all,—after even all the atrocities the Rebels have committed,—it is true that the same human heart beats under a gray coat that beat under a blue one.

The next day a gentleman came into the room where Robert was quartered, and asked to see him. He was stoutly built man, rather above the medium height, with a full, open face, large pleasant eyes, and a generous manner. He was dressed in dark gray [illegible] about him seemed to denote that he was a kind-hearted gentleman. He asked Robert how old he was; where his home was; how long he had been in prison; and all about his mother; and when he rose to go away, gave him his hand, and said: "You're a brave boy. I am sorry I haven't known you before. But you shall go home now,—in a few days I shall be going to the lines, and will take you with me."

Robert's eyes filled with tears, and he stammered out: "I thank you, sir. I thank you very much, sir."

"You need not my boy," said the gentleman, placing his hand kindly upon his head; "it is only right that we should let you go,—you saved the life of one of our men."

In three days, with money in his pocket, given him by this gentleman, Robert was on his way to his mother. He is now at his home, fitting himself to act his part in this great world, in this earnest time in which we are living, and the kind-hearted man who set him free, charged with dishonest meanness and theft, is now shut up in that same horrid prison. Robert does not think him guilty, and he has asked me to tell you this about him, which I do gladly, and all the more gladly because I know him, and believe that, if there is an honorable, high-minded man in all Virginia, that man is ROBERT OULD.‡ Edmund Kirke.

*This incident is corroborated to the writer by a lady to whom it was related by Lieutenant-Colonel Botts,—nephew to Hon. John Minor Botts,—who was a member of Lee's staff, and present when it occurred.

†This whole narrative of Robert's stay in the Libby the writer has on the testimony of two persons besides the boy himself. It is undoubtedly true in every detail. The writer would be convinced of it from what he personally knows of the two Turners, had he no other evidence.

‡Since this was written, Judge Ould has been honorably acquitted of all the charges against him.

Correspondence of the New York Tribune.

Sketch of Gen'l Grant's Early Career.

GALENA, Ill., Aug. 18, 1865.

I have a wonderful and true story to tell. Galena has about 8,000 inhabitants. It is 16 miles from Dunleith, on the Mississippi, the terminus of the main line of the Illinois Central, and is on this road. In a very early day lead first was discovered here by the Indians, who wanted it for bullets. They had a rude way of smelting it. As the country settled, miners came in, and the town began to grow. Lead is found in every direction for many miles. The river, which is navigable, is bordered with many hills; here lead is found; everywhere one sees dirt thrown up, either recently or long ago.

About fifteen years ago Gen. Grant's father established a leather house here, under the firm of Collins & Co. The leather was tanned at Covington, Kentucky, and sent hither. The firm did well, and it is understood made a fortune. The firm was dissolved, and a son came on to conduct the business, but in about two years he died of consumption. He was well liked, and was an excellent business man.

Meanwhile, Ulysess Grant, having graduated at West Point, went into the Mexican war, where he distinguished himself in every battle except one, when he was not present, that was fought; thence he went to Oregon, and acted as Captain in the Quartermaster's Department. Eleven years since he resigned his commission, and went to St. Louis, where he had some interest in a piece of land, and I was told he was engaged in hauling wood to market, himself driving his own oxen.

On the death of his brother, his father engaged him to come hither, and take charge of the store. Now I come to mention things never before related. Now I have to tell a hard story. Statements previously made about Gen. Grant will be blown away. Many a young man on reading what follows will be encouraged. I gather my account from the most trustworthy sources.

Captain Grant, as he was called, found the affairs of the concern in great disorder, but he went to work, and, in three weeks, had everything straight. There was one clerk beside himself, and generally more or less hired men. As this was the only establishment of the kind in the place, the trade of which is large, there was much business to do. Capt. Grant was not remarkable as a salesman, but he was good to oversee and to manage. Generally, he bought the hides as they were brought to the store in country wagons. He took them in himself. That he might not dirty his clothes, he had a short leather apron, which he always wore. Those not acquainted mistook him for the porter. In this way, here in the city of Galena, he toiled on for two long years. He was employed at $40 a month. The intention on the part of his father was, after a while, to establish him in the business, but he was expected to live on $480 a year. To do this, and to live in society, is impossible. Everything must be cheap and plain. Sometimes his wife had a hired girl, but usually she did her own work.

During these two years Capt. Grant made very few acquaintances. There were plenty of business men on the street who did not know him, and who never heard his name spoken. I presume it would be easy to number his associates on one's fingers. I have heard business men say they never heard of him until he was put in command at Cairo. On his arrival here to-day, the vast majority of the citizens of Galena are able to recognize him only by his portraits, and yet this is the only home he has.

A few know him intimately. Among these was H. H. Houghton, editor of the Galena Gazette, for over thirty years. Mr. Houghton learned most of the Captain from his father, and he came to admire and respect him; in fact, he had studied him. Hon. E. B. Washburne partly knew him, and became one of the best friends he had on earth.

These two years were years of trial and discouragement. In fact, the Captain came hither from St. Louis in a great degree disheartened, still he would not give up. He is described as a broken-down man. This anecdote is related: During the great depreciation in currency, Capt. Grant bought pork of the farmers to send east to get New York exchange. One day some farmers sold him their pork; they inquired where they could get gold; they must have it to pay taxes. The clerk in the house would sell it for a certain figure; Capt. Grant said he believed this was too much; he did not know exactly what it ought to be, but he advised them to go to the bank and inquire. The result was that the farmers saved $12. That was the style of the man.

At this same time, Capt. Grant was drawn beyond his expenses, though this was not ascertained till the end of the year. He could not live on $40 a month. He seldom went abroad. A few near neighbors were all he visited; here he would sit and smoke his pipe. His conversation was varied, but he liked to talk on the Mexican war. Mostly he was a man of silence. Mr. Washburne tells me that he seemed to him to be thinking on some abstract subject, and that he took him to be a thoughtful, reflective and large-minded man. Such being his condition, one is reminded of the fate of Frederick the Great during the years he was banished by his father. But in whatever makes a man, Grant, the American Hero, far excels. I will say here, that he always was temperate, and every way correct in his behavior.

A month or so before the Fort Sumter outrage, and afterwards, Capt. Grant was uneasy. He walked through the streets and in the store, saying nothing, and apparently was in a troubled state of mind. About these days the Douglas Guard organized in the city to counteract the Lincoln Wide Awakes, and Capt. Grant, as a military man, was appointed orderly sergeant. His reply was that a Captain in the United States Infantry was not the one to take such a position. He did not go near them. He meddled so little with politics, that to this day it is unknown whether he voted for Douglas or Lincoln.

At last war came; a war meeting was held and Capt. Grant was appointed chairman. Then he went to Mr. Washburne, and said pense of the Government; he had resigned, expecting never to serve again, but now he offered his services for what they were worth. A company was raised in the town, and, under his direction, was equipped and sent to Cairo.

Galena is in the northwest part of the state. Sometimes the wants of this corner are disregarded. At Springfield there is always a ring of politicians who are anxious to provide for their set. It is difficult to do anything with them. Mr. Washburne urged Capt. Grant to go down and offer his service. He would help him all he could. The Captain went down, and, after some delay, he was set to work drawing up and copying papers. After a while, he told them they could get somebody to do that work as well as he, for a dollar a day. It was not in his line to be kept in a corner at a desk, and doing little. He was met coldly, nobody knew him, nobody cared for him. Other persons then took an interest in him, and among them, Mr. Houghton, and Mr. McClellan, President of the bank here. The latter in particular, pressed the Captain's claims.

Then he was appointed an Aid of Gov. Yates, and directed to hunt up the state arms. He found about 1,500 rusty muskets. He also mustered in men. Still, so coldly was he looked upon, and so many were his discouragements, that he told his friends he was not wanted, and had best go home. The importance of hiring a man of military knowledge was urged upon the government. It was proposed he should be the Colonel of the 21st Regiment, but another got it. About this time, Capt. Grant went to Ohio to see his father and Gov. Dennison was urged to give him an appointment. The prospect here was good. Then he came back to Illinois. By this time, the 21st Regiment was demoralized. The men talked of putting the Colonel in the guard house. Capt. Grant was sent to them by the help of Logan; the men were quieted, and then our Captain was appointed their colonel. The regiment turned out to be one of the best in the state.

Then Colonel Grant came back to Galena to get his clothes—yes, to get his clothes. He had to have a uniform. To get it, money was borrowed, and security given for the money. The American people can afford to read this now. They he went back. On taking his men, he made them march, saying they would learn four times as fast. He went to Missouri, and was under Fremont.

Meanwhile his friends, like Cromwell's little daughter, were "indeed very few." Mr. Houghton, editor of the Gazette, on the 31st of May, 1861, describes Col. Grant as the soul of honor, and no man breathes who has who has a more patriotic heart, and our new soldiers need the leadership of a rare man like Capt. Grant. June 20th, the paper said the command of an Ohio regiment had been tendered to Capt. Grant, and urged his fitness for a high command. June 22d, there is a notice that Capt Grant had accepted the Colonelcy of the 7th District regiment. July 31st, it gives notice that Col Grant is to be promoted to a brigadiership, and congratulates the service on the event. December 28d, there is an editorial estimating the character of General Grant, and in particular it mentions his modesty, frankness, sagacity and strategy. I take these things from the files of the paper myself.

I will say here that Gen Grant's father was a thorough-going Union man, if not a radical, but there were some relatives who were quite different.

To earnest young men, this history of Gen. Grant will be a lesson for all time. It teaches that in waiting, there are exceeding great rewards. If need be, one must wait his whole life, and expect the time of opportunity in another world. To learn to wait is the highest wisdom.

Mrs. President Johnson.

The new mistress of the White House is thus described by a Washington letter-writer:

"The new lady of the White House has very quietly taken possession of her quarters, and as there have been no receptions as yet, and will not be until Congress meets in December, the public are not familiar with her style or appearance, and we do not yet hear many criticisms or much gossip. She need not hope to escape these things, however, as the position is too prominent for seclusion. Mrs. Johnson, when the President was Governor of Tennessee, before the war, never came to Nashville at all during her husband's term of office, but resided in the small country town of Greenville, preferring its quiet and seclusion to the gaities of the capital. None of the President's family, I believe, lived in Nashville during his term of office. Mrs. Johnson, from all accounts, is a lady very much like the late Mrs. Henry Clay, caring nothing for city life or gay society, but finding peace and content in calm, unobtrusive measures of the domestic life of own family circle. Mrs. Patterson, the President's daughter, the wife of the new Senator from Tennessee, Judge Patterson, will, it is said, do the honors of the White House. She seems a lady every way capable of appearing to advantage in this high and difficult sphere of life.

NOT THAT KIND OF A CAT.—The Springfield, (Mass.) Union is responsible for the following: The old proverb that circumstances alter cases, had a spicy illustration the other day at a Boston Hotel, and two parties, one from this city, and one from Boston, participated therein. A young man who is the least bit feminine in his appearance, parting his hair in the middle, etc., went to Boston, and while in that city, was taken with a severe fit of colic. The doctor came, felt of the patient's pulse, examined his stomach, and inquired solemnly if his habits were "regular," to which the young man, somewhat surprised, answered in the affirmative. The doctor then cautiously and politely informed his patient that his symptoms manifested some probability of an increase of the census in a short time. The surprise of the choleic-stricken young man, at this singular announcement, was only equalled by that of the doctor on discovering the true sex of his patient. "Circumstances alter cases."

WHAT THE MINES ARE DOING.—The receipts of treasure at San Francisco from different sources during the first six months of this year were $29,225,006, of which amount California and Nevada contributed $25,671,782. The product of gold and silver mines on the Pacific coast, for the first six months of last year was estimated at $28,000,000; so we have here an increase of $1,225,006, while the increase this year over the same period in 1863 is $3,581,989.

—Love in a Cottage is all very well when you own the cottage and have plenty of money at interest.

Laugh and Grow Fatities.

—"There, now," said a little girl who was rummaging in a bureau drawer a few days ago, "There now, gran'pa has gone to heaven without his spectacles."

"Sire, one word," said a soldier, to Frederic the Great, when presenting to him a request for the brevet of lieutenant.

"If you say two words," replied the king, "I will have you hanged."

"Sign," answered the soldier.

The king stared, whistled and signed.

"Now George, you must divide the cake honorably with your brother Charley."

"What is 'honorably,' mother?"

"It means that you must give him the largest piece."

"Then, yes, I'd rather that Charley should divide it."

"Yes Mrs. Mifflin," said a lady to her hostess, "dear little Emma has your features, but I think she has got her father's hair." "Oh, now I see," said dear little Emma, "it is because I have got papa's

"Brown, your guvnor made a mistake in choosing your profession. You should have been a cooper." "A cooper?" ejaculated Brown, astonished, "why?" "Yes," said the wag dryly, "a cooper; because you make such a capital butt."

—A boy, the other day, borrowed a stick of candy from a comrade to show him how he could pull it out of his ear. He swallowed it, then twisted himself about in various ways to extract it, but at length informed his companion that he had forgotten that part of the trick.

—A man in getting out of an omnibus, a few days since, made use of two rows of knees as banisters to steady himself, at which the ladies took offense, and one cried aloud, "He is a perfect savage!" "True," said a wag inside, "he belongs the Daw-knee tribe."

—"Oh, mother! do send for the doctor!" said a little boy of three years. "What for, my dear?" "Why, there's a gentleman in the parlor who says he'll die if Jane don't marry him—and Jane says she won't."

—A funny fellow had an office next door to a doctor's shop. One day an elderly gentleman, of the fogy school, blundered into the shop.

"Is the doctor in?"

"Don't live here," said the lawyer, who was in full scribble over some old documents.

"Oh, I thought this was his office."

"Next door."

"Pray, sir, can you tell me has the doctor many patients?"

"Not living."

The old gentleman told the story in the vicinity, and the doctor threatened the lawyer with a libel.

—The best anecdote of Lorenzo Dow that we have seen, is that of a conversation that occurred between Dow and the late General Root, in the presence of one Bush, at whose house they were stopping. The dialogue is related as follows:

"You say a good deal about heaven, sir," said the General, "pray tell us how it looks."

Lorenzo turned his grave face and long waving beard toward the General and Mr. Bush, replied with imperturbable gravity:

"Heaven, my friends, is a vast extent of smooth, rich territory. There is not a root or bush in it, and there never will be."

—A minister had a quarrel with one of his parishioners by the name of Hardy, who showed considerable of resentment.

On the succeeding Sunday, the divine preached from the following text, which he announced with great emphasis, and with a significant look at Hardy, who was present:

"There is no fool like the fool-Hardy."

—"Mamma," said a little fellow whose mother had forbade his drawing horses and ships on the mahogany sideboard with sharp nails, "mamma, this ain't a nice house."

"Why so?" was the reply.

"Because at Peter Sicket's we can cut the sofa, and pull out the hair, and ride the shovel and tongs over the carpet; but here we don't have any fun at all."

—A lady in Nashville was making a visit to the penitentiary, and was permitted to look through the various wards. In one room she saw three women engaged in sewing, and turning to the keeper, who was showing her about, said to him in an undertone:

"Dear me! the viciousest looking women I ever saw in my life! What are they put here for?"

"They are here," he replied, "because I am here—they are my wife and daughters, madam."

But the visiting madam was traveling out as fast as possible.

—Josh Billings says of the servants at Long Branch: "Most ov 'em air blak, but meany ov 'em hav lived so long amung the wites that they begin to adopt our kuller."

—"Are you the mate?" said a man to an Irish cook of a vessel. "No," said he, "but I'm the man as boils the mate."

—Two men were conversing about the ill-humor of their wives. "Ah," said one, with a sorrowful expression, "Mine is a regular Tartar." "Well," responded the other, "mine is worse than that—mine is the cream of tartar."

—An honest German in Philadelphia, listening to an account of a married woman's elopement with "another man," the other day, got greatly excited over it, and spluttered forth with great vehemence: "If my vife runs away mit anudder man's vife, I vill shake him out of her preeches if she be mine own fader, tunder sacre!"

—"Papa, I know why makes some folks call pistols horse-pistols."

"Why, my son?"

"Because they kick so."

"Mary, put that boy to bed: he's so sharp he will cut somebody."

—Miss Dobbs says the sweetest line she ever read, was her Simon's name written in molasses on the front stoop.

—"There's a divinity that shapes our ends," as the pig said when he contemplated the kink in his tail.

—The oldest piece of furniture in the world is the multiplication "table." It was constructed more than a thousand years ago, and is as good as new.

—The higher an ass holds his head, the plainer we can see his ears.

WHEN IS A MAN DRUNK?—A witness in a New York police court last week gave his views on this subject in reply to the questions of a counsel in the pending case, as follows:

"Lawyer.—Was Mr. Graham drunk?"

"Witness.—(metaphysically)—Well I'll tell you. I don't think he was drunk, because it pretty hard to tell when a man is really drunk.

"L.—Then you have got enlarged ideas on the subject of drunk?

"W.—Yes sir. I call a person sober as long as he can walk straight, and not stagger.

"L.—As long as he don't fall into the gutter.

"W.—Yes sir—and don't catch hold of the grass to keep himself from rolling over?"

A GOAK.—The following was perpetrated in our quiet little town, the other day, between two of our fellow-citizens who were discussing the merits of Germans and the German language in particular:

Mr. A—If I had a dog that spoke the German language, I would shoot him.

Mr. B.—I wouldn't blame you one bit if you did—if I had a dog that knew more than I did, I would shoot him, too!

—The sun is a horrid assassin. It murders the little brooklets in their beds.

—Teeth, like years, are the blessings of youth, and the curses of age.

AGRICULTURAL.

DON'T RUN THE COWS.—Now boys, we have a word to say to you. When we were of your age, we always had to drive the cows to pasture, and bring them too. Sometimes we got a little late, or were anxious to get off to play, or a cow found a good, sweet bit of grass, better than she had found all day in the pasture and would stop to get a bite, and fall behind the rest. That was provoking, and we were apt to give her a pretty severe lesson. In fact, we were guilty of hurrying her up on many occasions. It was wrong, but we little knew how much injury were inflicting on ourselves, as well as the cows.

Now, it is perfectly well known that overdriving causes the milk to be heated and feverish, especially in hot weather, and this milk is not a healthful article of food, either as milk, or when made into butter or cheese. Cows that are abused, kicked or badly treated, cannot give good milk, and no process of manufacture can make into a good an article of diet as milk that is not [illegible]

Never let the dogs chase the cows. A worriment of this kind not only lessens the quantity but the quality of the milk, and it should be carefully avoided. Dogs are generally a curse among a herd of cattle, and particularly so among milch cows, unless they are trained to drive and tend them as a few of our dogs are.—Plowman.

THE WAY THEY MAKE BUTTER IN FRANCE.—It is well know that cream may be converted into butter by simply being buried in the ground, but it is not generally known that this method is in common use in Normandy, and some other parts of France. The method is as follows: The cream is placed in a linen bag of moderate thickness which is carefully secured, and placed in a hole in the ground about a foot and a half deep; it is then covered up, and left for twenty-four or twenty-five hours. When taken out, the cream is very hard and only requires beating a short time with a wooden mallet, after which half a glass of water is thrown upon it, which causes the butter to separate from the buttermilk. If the quantity of cream intended to be converted into butter is large, it is left more than twenty-five hours in the ground. In winter, when the ground is frozen, the operation is performed in a cellar, the bag being well covered up with sand. Some persons place the bag containing the cream within a second bag, in order to prevent the chance of any taint from the

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best fitted Establishments!

A LARGE STOCK,

Most Varied

Stock of Furniture

Is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St, Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY,
WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE,
COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP,
WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notic by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pic. ures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and satisfied and furnished in the best style,

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH.

Tecumseh June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale ! !

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to mak room for other Goods Better bargains can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods !!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy.

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE ! !

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY !

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass. Window Sashes,

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Belts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron. and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deuel & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO,
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE,
OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything
that anybody or his
brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

As all our neighbors know

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just reco p York, and is now opening a new stock of all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hoad's, north side of Chicago street.

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.

DISSOLUTION:

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — ☞Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh. March 9th, 1865.

M. S. & N. I. Rail Rad.

Winter Ar gem t.

1864, 1864.

On and after May 16th, 1864. Passenger trains will eave Tecumseh station as follows, daily except Sunday:

GOING EASTY.

Leave 7 08 a. m., arrive at Adrian 8 00 Toledo, 9.15 a. m. Leave 1.06 p. m. arrive at Adrian 1.40, Toledo 3.35 p. m.

Both trains connecting at Toledo with trains for the east.

Trains leave Adrian for Chicago, 3.50 a. m. and 2.05 p. m. Leave Adrian for Hillsdale, 5.15 p. m. Leave Adrian for Detroit 3.00 a m and 2.40 p m.

GOING WEST.

Leave 9.32 a. m. arrive at Jackson, 11 00 a m leave 6.40 p. m. arrive at Jackson 9.00 p. m.

For full details, see the Company's Posters and Time Tables at the Depot and other public places.

Trains are run by Chicago time, which is twenty minutes slower than Toledo or Detroit time.

C. P. LELAND, Gen'l Passenger Ag't. Toledo.
H. H. PORTER, Gen'l Sup't. Toledo

☞ Now is the time to subscribe and pay for the Tecumseh HERALD.

---

18 Pronunciamento. 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding, Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour suit.

Old Customers

I shall be pleased as formerly, to see them and invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them.

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd rest Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Midlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. w. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around. Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE,

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sat.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL,

Corn In the Ear and Shelled.

A goo assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage, Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN

WARD & STRICKLAND,

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoe Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, ingeniously braided lightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single Springs, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad cars, Church pews, Arm chairs for promenade and house dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 2 ply twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the Single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts—The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Double Steel, and twice or double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c, &c, which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant corded tapes, and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible and are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

Weeks' Bradley & Cary, Proprietors of the Invention, and Sole Manufacturers, 97 Chambers and 79 & Reade Streets, New York.

For Sale in all first-class Stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada, Havana de Cuba, Mexico, South America, and the West Indies.

☞Inquire for the Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

Old and young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,

SOLE PROPRIETORS,

NEW YORK.

HALF THE ITCHING—NO SCRATCHING—ONLY HALF THE MONEY!

Citron Balsam will cure the Itch or Army Scratches in one or two applications; also, cures all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Ulcers, Old Sores, Gangrene and Rheumatism It contains no Mercury, and is safe to use at any time. Only 25 cents a bottle.

OLIVER CROOK & CO, Dayton O.
Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Fisher & Baker, Tecumseh, Mich.

D. NOTEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases, will visit Tecumseh the

1st & 2d of Every Month,

for Consultation with patients. Cancers and Scrofulous Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Incipient Consumption cured in three to five months. Liver Complaint, Dispepsia, and Constipation cured in 2 to 4 months. Piles Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs yield readily to his treatment. Prolepsus Utur he is master of. Charges reasonable according to ability to pay; the really poor will be treated grates. He will be at Comstock & Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence on Bedling Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars (See Circulars.

To the Ladies & Gentlemen of Tecumseh,

The undersigned having fitted up rooms expressly for the sale of

Ice Cream, Lemonade, Soda Water &c.

Will be happy at all times to wait upon you. Rooms over Wishart's Crockery Store. Open day and evening.—June 15th, 1865.

J. S. WALTERS.

Corporation Notice

"The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c, at

A. JAMES

Advantages of this Plow.

It will last from three to six times longer than any other Steel Plow made anywhere by anybody. This has often been proved by actual use in "gritty" soils, occasionally to be found on the margins of streams in the West, in which sheet steel Plows have been habitually used through "to plowing eighty acres or less, it having already plowed over three hundred acres of the same soil without yet being half worn.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed. If there is a piece of ground anywhere in which it will not scour, we have yet to find it.

It draws lighter than any other plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, or a Point welded on, as readily as on ordinary Plows, by any blacksmith who understands his trade, as the steel is perfectly malleable, and works "kindly".

Any section can be replaced by a duplicate, to be had of any Agent, as the Share, Landside and Mould Board are not in double

It is well stocked with New Jersey and second-growth timber, and the standard is wrought iron, with "shim" in the cap so as to give or take land at pleasure.

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, works perfectly in either stubble or turf, leaves a clean furrow, and turns under stubble and foul trash completely.

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the world. Just as sure as there is economy in paying six dollars once, rather than five dollars five or six times over; — in not losing time and your temper because your Plow won't "scour"; — and in doing a quarter or a fifth more work, with the same power The quality and quantity of work it will endure to perform must be considered, as well as the cost price in determining whether or not the Plow is cheap Plows are used for profit, and the one out of which the most dollars and cents can be got, in proportion to the cost, is the cheapest, and we are confident a man gets more than a hundred dollars' worth of "Plow" every time he gets one of these.

These remarks are made after a familiarity with the merits of most of the good Plows in use in the West, many of which have justly earned a good reputation.

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for stubble and foul ground Heretofore we have had only the "C" pattern designed for both, turf and stubble. The "B" and "C" patterns together will enable us to meet the views of all as to shape, and give them either "slick" or "clean" plows as they prefer

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Slayton, Tecumseh.

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache;
They are perfectly pure and palatable

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters, are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork. —OUR—

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gold label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,
No. 21 River Street Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co, that he is still located in the

Brick Shop on Railroad Street,

Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

ROBACK'S OLD CATAWBA BRANDY

s made from the PURE JUICE OF CATAWBA GRAPE, which is grown in abundance in Ohio and from which this article is obtained—it has an agreeable flavor, fine clear color, and possesses all the qualities for medicinal purposes, and for a beverage of the best imported brandies. As a flavoring for mince pies and other cooking purposes it it the best economical artical that can be used, being one half a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found rapid sales, and is daily gaining in pupularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally throughout the West

C. W. ROBACK, Proprietor,
56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A James & Co: if you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April, 4, '65. A. JAMES.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young america. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days, I

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap, Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool, en and Straw

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,

Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English Brands

Also a splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions,

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee; The vilest trash, under Showy and Taking names, has been thrust upon the public Bogus and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their Labels and wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to supply this demand.

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of Uniform Standard and Quality. Secially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our Ground Spices, Mustar, Cream Tartar, Baking Soda and Saleratus, put up at the Java Mills will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Groceries will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, C. Lawrence, B. J. Bidwell, P. N Curtis, Fisher & Baker, Ketcham & Conkling; at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCULARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No 52, Vesey Street, New York.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Conterfeiter Arrested!!!

RCHMOND

NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life-like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them

Copying executed in the most approved manner; Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday the 23d day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Anna Dibble, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Joseph Chever administrator of said estate praying that his final account with said estate may be allowed and that distribution of said estate may be made to those entitled to the same and that he may be discharged.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 19th day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true copy) n767 wt

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 28th day of July in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of O. B. Taylor, administrator of said estate praying that he may be licensed to sell real estate of said deceased to pay the debts of said deceased and expenses of administration.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 18th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted;

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A TRUE COPY) 766-wt

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday, the 30th day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of John Culbertson deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of John E. Culbertson a son of said deceased praying that the last will of said deceased may be proved and allowed and that E. Culbertson may be appointed executor thereof.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 16th day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner . . . should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the Petitioner . . . give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petion, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true Copy) n759

A. S. MATHEWS

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout,

If you are in want of anything in the Meat line be sure and give him a call.

DENTISTRY

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN

☞All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices.

F. R. Stebbins,

Adrian piano Rooms

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURES, PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos or Furniture guaranteed just as represented and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 17. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 21 1865. WHOLE NO. 771.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

CONSISTING OF

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

prices that will insure their immediate e, in order to.

ear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of lack Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold ow figures, al o a splendid assortment gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

UGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

er FAMILY GROCERIES, are ested to examine my stock before hasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

A. JAMES

s Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

MATHEWS

pectfully announce to t mseh and vicinity that e a new Market one door House where he will his customers with the try affords at all times.

stantly on hand a supp White Fish, Trout, n want of anything i re and give him a call.

TISTRY

& PELHA

lent Dentists.

Fisher & Baker's D ore, Chicago St.

MICHIGA

s of Dentistry performed in anner and at Reasonable P

Stebbins, piano Room and keep on hand at

Sons, Wm. B. Bradbu Vose Pianos from fif dred dollars cheaper dealer in the West.

r address me. I have beat assortment of NITURE SHADES, PICTURE RAPH FRAMES &c. Michigan. All Pianos n nteed just as represen ly by railroad to any p s Furniture Rooms n42tf

TECUMSEH, - - MICHI A

ere you will always find him ready to ou anything you want in the line of ceries & Provisions,

ep the largest and best assortment of

OCERIES, ROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.

r house in town, which I will sell for cheaper than any other man. ving had eleven years experience in the ess, and always buying for Cash I am ed to offer better inducements to cash ers than new hands in the busines dont believe it, ask your neighbors they get their Groceries and where y them the me and judge for yourselves.

CHEAPEST.

706 A. JAMES.

Here We Come

WITH

GOOD NEWS

For Everybody.

DRY GOODS

AND

FANCY GOODS,

Of every description, cheaper than the cheapest and good as the best.

Just received a VERY LARGE and well selected STOCK of

FANCY DRESS GOOD,

ALAPACCAS, MERINOS, PRINTS, DELAINES, FANCY FLANNELS, BALMORALS BROWN AND BLEACHED SHEETINGS,

HOOP SKIRTS,

HOSIERY, GLOVES, BELT RIBBONS, BELT BUCKLES, FANCY DRESS BUTTONS &c.

Including many other articles to numerous to mention, all of which we pledge ourselves to sell

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Do not fail to call nd see us and examine our

GOODS AND PRICES.

No. 2 MECHANICS BLOCK

C. H. ADAM & CO.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER.
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

—o—

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

han any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

—o—

CASH FOR RAGS!

—o—

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS

JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Muic,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price,

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

ATTENTION LADIES.

NEW MILLINERY GOODS.

—o—

Mrs L. WILBUR, would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that she has just purchased the largest and best assortment of Millinery Goods ever brought to this place. She intends to keep a large stock of

BONNETS, RIBBONS, FLOWERS, LACES, HATS, HEAD DRESES, PLUMES FEATHERS, and

in fact everything to be found in the Millinery line constantly on hand. Particular attention paid to Bleaching and Repairing straws. Be sure to call. Shop in rooms formerly occupied by Mrs. O. McCoy.

Mrs. L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Sept. 14th, 1865.

Administrator's Sale.

Estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased: Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, Michigan, made in said estate on the 13th day of September, 1865, empowering and licensing me thereto, I shall on the 4th day of November 1865, at the premises hereinafter described in the village of Tecumseh in said county, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, sell at public vendue, the interest said deceased died seized in and to the undivided one third of all that certain tract or parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh Michigan, known bounded and described as follows viz: Commencing at a point in the north side of Chicago street, in said village forty-one and one half feet east of the east line of Evans Street, measuring from intersection thereof by said north line of Chicago street running thence east on said north line of Chicago street fourteen feet, thence north at right angles with Chicago street eighty-nine feet, thence west parallel with Chicago street, fourteen feet and thence south at right angles with Chicago Street eighty-nine feet to the place of beginning with the privilege of an alley ten feet wide adjoining the north end of the above described land—subject to the share of the incumbrance of fifteen hundred dollars to a mortgage upon the undivided premises made by Wooster Taylor, Oliver B. Taylor and said deceased to John S. Strong bearing date on or about March 23d 1864 with interest from said date.—Terms published on day of sale.

Tecumseh, Mich. Sept 19th 1865.

OLIVER B. TAYLOR,
Administrator of said estate.

Stray Colt.

Taken up by the Subscriber within the last ten days, a black mare colt, about three years old thirteen hands high. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take it away.—Macon, Lenawee Co., Mich. June 14th. 1865.

CHARLES M. BAKER.

☞ Now is an excellent and fitting opportunity for subscribing for the HERALD

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight,	7:08 A. M
Mail and Express,	1:06 P. M

Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD,
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING.
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet, &c.
Chicao St. Tecumseh, Mich.

P. N. CURTIS,
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD,
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILS & BAXTER,
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM,
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich,

A. J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. R. PALMER, Attorney at Law. and Notary Public, Lake Ridge, M. Particular attention paid to collections in any part of Michigan. Is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 80	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 4.00	$ 5.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12 00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10 00	14.00
¼ Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	18.00
½ Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18 00	30.00
Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted on 5.50 per year.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable

To Our Friends,

You will confer a favor on us by soliciting the Judge of Probate to publish Probate Notices in the HERALD, and you will also find it convenience to your selves to have the advertisements in the paper you receive.

☞ One of our exchanges says the meaning of "C. O. D," on express packages means "Chell Out Damqu'ck!"

☞ Pickpockets, blacklegs and thieves are already making their appearance in considerable numbers at Adrian.

Married,

In this village on the 13th inst., by C Hewitt Esq., Mr O. S. Field and Miss Ella Smith, both of Tecumseh.

☞ School Books, Pocket Knives, Perfumery, Red Jacket Ritters, Stationery, Wall Paper, &c cheaper than ever at the Drug Store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

☞ Peaches are quite plenty north of Kalamazoo, and are brought into that city in profusion. A few baskets would be acceptable in this region.

☞ Agricultural Hall, on the county fair grounds, has been fitted up for an eating-house during the day time, and also to accomodate some hundreds of persons with lodgings at night during the fair.

☞ Trade and business in this place is good. The stores are selling about all the goods they can get. Plenty of business for mechanics at good wages, and a time of prosperity generally.

The Weather.

The weather has been as changable as an old bachelor during the past two weeks We have had alternate rain and sunshine, seasoned with cold winds, that has caused the largest possible demand for quinine.

☞ Several of our merchants have just returned from the East with large stocks of goods, and more are on the way, which betokens a lively fall trade. In fact, business has never been more brisk than during the present summer, and we anticipate a large increase so soon as the autumn crops are harvested.

☞ A writer in the Western Rural suggests the propriety of having each occupant of a farm place his name where it may be seen by the passer. It would certainly be a satisfaction in passing through a farming country to be able to gather up the information such a practice would impart. The idea is a good one.

☞ Work on the freight house at Adrian is being pushed rapidly forward, and when completed it will prove a great benefit and convenience to the business men and citizens of the place. The principal lumber dealers of the place have purchased land and will locate their yards near the new depot, laying tracks to them and saving carting from the cars.

☞ The new Baptist Church is progressing finely. The inside work is nearly completed, all being done but finishing the pulpit and putting in a few pews. The painter and grainer will begin his part of the work in a few days. We should judge that the Church would be ready for Dedication by Thanksgiving.

☞ The State Fair commenced at Adrian on the 19th inst. It will be one of the greatest gatherings that was ever had in our State. Ample preparations has been made for the accommodation of strangers.—The Executive Committee have done every thing that could be expected to make this fair attractive and profitable.

☞ J. C. Satterwaite has been appointed Station Agent for the Michigan Southern at this point in place of Mr. Peck, who has been temporarily filling the place since Mr. Wellmans departure. Mr. S. is an old resident of Tecumseh, a prompt and energetic business man, and will, we are confident give perfect satisfaction. We can assure all travellers, that their various wants will be attended to by Mr. S. in a prompt manner and the best of style. We congratulate "Joe" upon his appointment.

A Rare Name

If there is such an individual in the United States as John Smith, he is hereby notified that there is a letter for him in the Baltimore Post Office. It is advertised in the Sun.—Exchange.

The last we heard of John he lived in Michigan. The papers of that state will please copy the above.—Toledo Blade.

The John Smith referred to lives in the State of New York. [Jackson Citizen.

The Citizen is at fault; John is running a flouring mill down at Morenci, in this County. The Baltimore Postmaster will please forward this letter to his address.—Adrian Expositor.

Not so Mr Expositor, the said John resides at Clinton and keeps a Dry Goods store. He is the man the letter belongs to Barbers in Trouble.

Last week three or four of our Barber's in company with a "cu'lud gemman," who had just returned from the war—having served three years in the 54th Mass Col—intending to return to himself and profit to Uncle Sam—took it into their heads to have a little "time" with their old acquaintance, and as the temperance proclivities of our town rendered it rather inconvenient to indulge here, they concluded to establish their base of operations in Adrian. Accordingly two of them hire a livery rig, and the rest take the cars. However, by the attraction of gravitation or some other attraction, they soon got together in the city and of course each man had to "treat round," in other words, they drank to each other's health. But unfortunately, like A. Ward, in their anxiety to make their friends health as robust as possible, they drank until they had considerably affected their own. Four of them then got into a single buggy to ride home, but they had not proceeded far before Sambo and Caesar fell into an altercation as to which should drive, each maintaining that the other was a great deal drunker than himself. Thus far their stories agree. But from this point they diverge. Sambo insists that he rose up in the buggy to impress upon Caesar more fully the truth of the assertion that Caesar, was the drunkest man in the crowd, and while in the act of so doing, Caesar knocked him over the buggy wheel onto the ground. But Caesar declares that Sambo called him a rascal, rose up in the buggy to strike him, and was so "tight" that he fell over the wheel "ob his own accord." Very well, Sambo couldn't stand sich works as dat, so he gets out a warrant for Caesar, had him arrested and brought before Esquire Hewitt. The trial was to come off last Thursday, but before the hour arrived the two parties compromised the matter by each paying half the costs, about $4.60. By this premature settlement the community were unable to learn which one "was actually de drunkest man in de crowd." Such little incidents frequently serve to illustrate the depravity of human nature. One ungrateful racal quietly observed, and in the hearing of reliable witnesses too that he did'nt care which licked, for it was nothing but a darkey row anyhow.

The Waterfall.

She wore a monstrous waterfall the night when first we met—
A roll, half horse, half human hair, hung in a beaded net;
It rested on her shoulders, for the first time put to use,
And she looked just like a Digger squaw
when lugging a pappoose;
Or, taking a good rearward squint at head
and hair together,
Just like a horse with tail tied up in very muddy weather
And she stooped beneath her burden she thought was passing fair,
With her dainty head thrown backward
and her nose turned up in air,
I saw her but a moment, so graceful and so
frill,
Bending sweating 'neath the burden of her cherished waterfall.

Oh, when will fashion give us back the charms we prized so long—
The web of silken splendor, the theme of many a song—
The shining hair that kissed the brow in many an airy curl,
And gave the crowning beauty to every lovely girl!
When will good sense resume its rule, fashion receive a check,
And our maidens no more carry round a pillow on the neck,
A thing composed of horses' tails, of wood,
of jute, of cord—
A monstrous, mean disfigurement, by every man abhorred;
A load upon her shoulders, at home, abroad,
at ball—
A hideous bag, a senseless bump they call a waterfall!

A Sure Cure

Quoth David to Daniel—Why is it thee's always
So pleasant and cheerful whenever we meet?
Thy business is prosp'rous, thy family is happy,
Thy course in the church is both wise and discreet
The white locks of care and the wrinkles of sorrow
Have in vain sallied forth for invading thy face,
Thy step is as light and thy laugh is as hearty,
As when years ago, thou wert courting thy Grace"

Quoth Daniel to David—"I'll tell thee good fellow,
Why I am so cheerful, whenever we meet:
Why wealth fills my coffers, and happiness
cheers me
Why with good hearty shake, all my neighbors I greet;
I was once, like thee, also, both poor and desponding—
Shall I tell the cordial, with which I was cured?
'Tis a pleasure to take it, 'tis cheap and 'tis harmless,
The secret is this, sir, My life is insured,
Of S. Tracy, Ins. Agent.

☞ Prof. Leland, aided by the class which he has been instructing will give a Concert at Bidwell's Hall on Friday evening, Sept 22. The Prof. is a master of music, and we would advise those who wish to enjoy a rich musical treat, to be present at the Concert.

☞ Tuesday morning was ushered in with a bright sun and a bracing air augurring a splendid week for the State Fair.—Owing to the heavy rain on Saturday and the great change in the temperature since we shall undoubtedly enjoying fine weather during the whole fair. Every train from Jackson is loaded with passengers and freight. Many from this locality have attended from the begining, but the majority will wait until Thursday. On that day—weather permitting—nearly every man, woman and child in Northern Lenawee will be in the city of Adrian. The Fair has opened very auspiciously and will undoubtedly be the best ever held in the State.

☞ A correspondent writing to the Jackson Citizen from this place says:—The Herald, our local newspaper published here, has changed its dress, and comes out in a new and improved style. The second and third pages are now entirely devoted to reading matter, and the local items are now on the first page The paper is much improved in general appearance, besides containing a much larger and better quality of reading. The old maxim is that churches and schools are the criterions by which to judge of the enterprise and enlightenment of a town. We think the newspaper should be added. Depend upon it, any town that supports a good live newspaper will thrive and prosper.

Information is Wanted

Of the whereabouts of William Newark, who strayed from his home, in this township (about a mile north-east of Medina,) in the middle of May. He is 30 years old, (does not appear to be over 20,) slim built, medium height, has brown hair, light whiskers, and scars on his face, (caused by burns when a child,) had on when he left, an old white hat, blue shirt, and light colored pants. He is, and has long been subject to fits, and is, in consequence, at times deranged in mind. His father will be grateful for any information concerning him. Address Timothy Newark, Medina Mich.—Hudson Gazette.

Your Home Paper.

An exchange gives the following sensible advice: "Stick to your home paper. No matter if you are poor, remember none are so poor as the ignorant, except it be the depraved, and they, too, often go together—Keep your home paper. Remember that if it is not so large and imposing as some, it is the adverliser of your neighborhood and daily business and tells you what is going on around you instead of a thousand miles away."

☞ But very few take into consideration the value and use of county papers; or if they do, their actions prove that they do not live up to their convictions upon this subject. Many things are to be found in the county paper only, in which every citizen is more or less interested. It aids in giving character and importance to the county in which it is published, and the local information which it contains is often the means of new and valuable citizens to that locality.

☞ R. C. Moore is receiving a large and elegant stock of Dry Goods—bought three weeks ago—when the market was at the lowest ebb it has been for months;—Every one knows—or ought to know—that, for two weeks past, the market has taken rapid strides upward, and Moore is retailing many articles lower than he or any one else can buy them in New York,—reader take the hint and buy now what you need for this coming season,—for you will most assuredly save a nice sum of money by so doing.

That Boy Heard from again.

The boy who run over to Ketcham's Book Store, not only found that Ketcham had the largest stock of books and stationery in town, but that he would order any book which he did not have on hand, and procure it if it was to be found on the Continent.—He also wondered how much would be accomplished by "ordering any book not to be found." Vide HERALD of Sept. 14.

☞ G. Heeson is now receiving a large assortment of Ready Made lothing for the Fall and Winter trade.

☞ The Red Jacket Stomach Bitters invigorate the system, give tone to the stomach and enliven the mind. Thousands have used it, and there is but one voice, and that is of their wonderful cures. They are sold by all druggists

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Sept. 21, 1865

Geth W	Moore Orinda L
Weden David	Williams Mrs Jane M
Horsington George	Holmes George
Burr Miss M E	Bowman S
Barton Bella	Burley A

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "advertised letters," give the date of this list, and pay one cent for advertising. If not called for within one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Commissioners Notice.

Estate of John Osborn deceased:—

Notice is hereby given that we the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, to receive, audit and adjust claims against said estate, will meet for that purpose at the residence of George A. Wilkins in Macon, in said county on the 21st day of October next, and at the office of E B. Wood in the village of Tecumseh in said County on the 25th day of November next at ten o'clock in the forenoon of those days; also that three months from the 30th day of August 1865, was been allowed the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us.

GEORGE A. WILKINS.
RICHARD CLARKSON,
Commissioners.

NEWS SUMMARY.

Augusta, Maine, the capital of the State, was visited by a terribly destructive fire on Sunday morning, the 17th. The entire business portion of the city, extending from the passenger bridge to Winthrop street, and from the river to above the railroad track, is in ruins. Every lawyer's office in the city, all the banks, two hotels, the postoffice, express and telegraph offices, all the dry goods, book and clothing stores, &c., were destroyed. The loss is fully half a million dollars.

Advices from Mexico, by way of Lamoso, New Mexico, state that the French had cap the city of Chihuahua, and that Juarez was at El Paso, ready at a moments notice to cross the Rio Grande into the United States.

It is asserted that, unless the liberals can raise a large sum of money and a considerable force of troops, their cause will soon be lost.

Per contra, a Vera Cruz letter gives an [illegible] "this port of the flight or capture of Napoleon's protege."

James L. Orr, of South Carolina, formerly Speaker of the Federal House of Representatives, was pardoned last Friday.

The latest news from Hayti is, that the rebellion will, probably, soon be crushed. More determined measures are to be adopted against the insurgents at Cape Haytier.

The recent election in Alabama, so far as heard from, has resulted favorably to the Administration and the Constitution Amendment.

Orders have been issued for the muster out of all northern negro troops in the departments of North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Texas, Louisiana, and Arkansas; for the muster out of 3,000 more white troops in the department of Arkansas; and for the reduction to 60,000 men of the volunteer force in General Augur's command.

It is announced that State militia will soon supersede the Union forces in Virginia, as in the case of Mississippi.

The statement is contradicted that all the federal troops are soon to be withdrawn from the south.

Mr. Dorsey, state treasurer of Ohio, was arrested on Monday, on a warrant issued by Governor Anderson, charged with breach of trust and embezzlement. Mr. D. gave bail in the sum of $200,000. The office of treasurer has, by gubernatorial proclamation, been declared vacant. Ohio has been unfortunate in her State Treasurers. Since twelve years ago, when Breslin entered the office, not an incumbent has left it with untarnished reputation—for we must now include Mr. Stone, who privately made up a deficit of some $60,000, sought the gaming table, and has just died by his own hand, a broken bankrupt. The case of the late treasurer, Dorsey, differs from all the others in that he has been checked in mid career. He was speculating with the public funds.

Sixty-two of the twenty thousand dollar class rebels were pardoned one day last week.

A great fire has occurred at Stamboul. Two thousand five hundred buildings have been burned, and the fire was still raging on the 6th.

Joseph Bonaparte, Prince of Musignand, recently died at Rome.

[illegible] stration at Black Rock, near Dundalk, have been committed for trial at the assizes, without privilege of bail. The prosecution was instituted by orders from the authorities at Dublin Castle.

Wirz on the 16th requested the Superintendent of the Old Capitol prison to furnish him with a copy of "Baxter's Call to the Unconverted." He got it.

Wirz is in better health and his wife has been allowed to visit him. He spends the most of his time in writing.

The propositions of the government that the Indians shall abolish slavery, grant land to the freedmen and consolidate themselves into one nation, have been accepted by the delegations present at the great Indian council now in session at Fort Smith. Treaties of peace have been concluded with all the tribes except the Cherokees.

Jeff Davis has been removed from his casemate to Carroll Hall, the most comfortable quarters in the fort, owing to his declining health.

A freight train collided with a wood train on the Northwestern road on the 13th, between Shopiere and Clinton, killing one man and wrecking both engines.

Guerrillas are active in Southwestern Missouri.

The Danville railroad company have tendered the Presidency of that road to the late rebel Gen. Johnston.

The Provost Marshal General places the whole number of troops furnished by Illinois during the war at 256,297.

The Treasury department is about to abolish all sinecure offices and discharge all unnecessary clerks in the Custom Houses. Cause, economy.

Peter Hammit, the Catholic Priest, who attempted to commit suicide a few days since on the New York and Boston mail train, has since died of his injuries.

An old lady who has lost one son in battle, one murdered at Andersonville, and another rendered hopelessly insane by his cruel treatment in that prison pen, made a furious attack on Wirz on Tuesday, while he was being removed from the court room to his prison cell, and was with difficulty restrained by the guard from inflicting severe injuries upon him.

Wilkes' Spirit of the Times exposes a shrewd dodge in the Ketchum case. The poor young man appears to be so utterly abandoned that he is repeatedly brought into court unattended, save by the officers of the law, and is obliged even to conduct his own case by asking for postponements till he can secure counsel. This, of course, is sheer imposition, cunningly devised, no doubt, to disarm the public jealousy of a rich man's opportunities, and expected to result in a sudden reaction in the way of general sympathy, just in the nick of time for the poor, forsaken, and not-so-bad-after-all young Mr. Ketchum. The hand is finely played; but it will not serve.

It is understood that the British Government has made representations to that of the United States on the subject of the Fenians, which representations, it is stated, "may soon be invested with a national interest."

The following states vote on negro suffrage this year: Connecticut, special election, Monday, Oct. 2. Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, vote at their regular elections. The question was separately voted on in Colorado, but the result is not known.

The specie captured from Davis, and recently removed to Washington is claimed by the Richmond Banks.

The archives of the state of Arkansas, including the rebel record which was carried off when our forces occupied Little Rock, have been found in Lafayette county, in the extreme southwestern part of the state, and are now back to the Capitol. They were in a very damaged condition.

David N. Farry, Esq., of Ravenna, Ohio suddenly disappeared on the 6th inst., only six days after marriage, and has not been heard of since. She was formerly Miss Lucy E. Wing, of Brimfield, Ohio, and married Mr. Farry, a widower with four children on the 30th ult.

[illegible] from the Navy Department are that [illegible] ter or lieutenant shall be promoted unless he is able to speak French or Spanish.

A new and dangerous counterfeit hundred dollar compound interest bearing treasury note has been received by the Treasury Department. They are exceedingly well executed.

A grandson of Lafayette has recently arrived in this country. On the 12th, he was present at a political meeting in Boston.

A British vessel recently passed the locality where the Atlantic cable buoys were said to have been placed, and found that they had disappeared.

A terrible accident occurred at Indianapolis on the 15th, in the running over by the Indianapolis and Cincinnati freight train, at the foot of Illinois street, of a woman named Henrietta Kroman. Her son was fireman of the engine which killed her.

R. Elys, Jr., the heaviest gold and stock broker in Cincinnati, has failed. His liabilities are not known.

Two Catholic priests have been arrested in Missouri, for continuing to preach without taking the oath required by the new constitution.

The Yankton chief "Medicine Bow," has surrendered to Gen. Sully, and promises to induce his tribe to do the same.

The steamer Asia brings intelligence that the Atlantic Telegraph Company have contracted for the recovery of the old and the construction of a new cable, and have secured the services of the Great Eastern for five years. Owing to the serious phase which the Fenian movement is assuming, England is sending fresh troops into the south of Ireland. It is asserted that the rumored visit of John Bright to this country, is entirely without foundation.

The Minnesota Democratic State Convention met at St. Paul on the 19th instant, on adjournment from the 15th ultimo. The following nominations were made: For Governor, Henry M. Rice; for lieutenant governor, Captain C. W. Nash; for secretary of state, Major John R. Jones; for treasurer of state, Frank Hyderstadt; for attorney general, Wm. Lochren.

The political condition of the lately seceded states, is as follows: Virginia, congressional and legislative election, Thursday, October 12. North Carolina, delegate election, September 21; convention meets October 2. South Carolina, convention in session. Georgia, delegate election October 4; convention meets October 25. Florida, delegate election October 10; convention meets October 25. Alabama, convention in session. Mississippi, election for all state officers and members of congress, October 2. Louisiana, congressional and legislative election, November 7. Texas, election not yet ordered. Arkansas, congressional and legislative election, October 9. Tennessee, re-organized and elections held.

The war between Paraguay and the Argentine republic shows no signs of cessation. The rains have retarded military progress, but hostilities were about to commence on a grand scale, large armies having been raised by volunteering and conscription.

The parties entitled to receive the rewards for the arrest of the assassination conspirators, have been selected by the War Department, and their names will shortly be announced.

The South Carolina convention is in session with one hundred members in attendence. The Governor's address endorses President Johnson's reconstruction policy.

A collision of the Camden & Amboy railroad on the 12th, between an express and freight train, resulted in the death of a soldier. The escape of the other passengers from injury, was almost miraculous.

Major Welles, son of the Secretary of the Navy, and Capt. Barnes, officers on General Ord's staff at Detroit, have passed a night in the police station, and are held to appear for trial next Saturday, for forcibly entering the apartments of two opera prima donnas, at their hotel, and attempting violence upon them. The young men were on a drunken debauch.

A train on the Louisville and Nashville road was fired into by guerrillas on Sunday night last.

TERRIBLE LEAP.—On Sunday afternoon, Bridget Mack, a girl aged 12 years who, was confined in that portion of the Tombs known as "the Magdalen," on a charge of petty larceny, succeeded in breaking the damper of the grating of the chimney, and then removed the grating. Climbing up the chimney, she emerged on the roof and after taking two leaps of five and ten feet each, to clear intervening chasms, and scrambling over the roof she stood on the parapet of the prison wall at the height of over thirty feet. Without hesitating for a moment, she sprang from the parapet to the grass-plat underneath, alighting unhurt, and made her escape. Later in the day, she was arrested in Jackson, street, by Mr. James Finley, clerk of the prison, and committed to a cell, where she will not be apt to repeat the exploit.—New York Tribune.

THE DIFFERENCE.—After staying eighteen years in this country, I have repeatedly asked myself what is the difference between the institutions of the old world, and those of America; and I have found the answer in a few words. In Europe everything is done to preserve and maintain the rights of the few; in America everything is done to make a man of him who has any of the elements of manhood about him.—Professor Agyassiz.

FROM a peach tree in Warren county, O., two branches were taken, one of which was fifteen inches, and the other sixteen inches in length. On these there were thirty-one peaches, averaging three inches in diameter.

PERSONAL.

QUEEN VICTORIA has gone to Germany to make a match for one of her daughters.

IRA ALDRIDGE, the celebrated mulatto actor, who has made a great [illegible] England, and on the continent as Othello and Shylock, and other famous characters, and who has been decorated with orders and marks of distinction by the King of Prussia, Emperors of Russia and Austria, and King of Sweden is engaged to re appearin London at the Haymarket Theatre. Mrs. Aldridge is not a colored lady.

THE editor of a French paper, in speaking of the dedication of a cemetery near Lyons said that "M. Gascoigne had the pleasure of being the first individual who was buried in this delightful retreat."

THE expedition of Professor Agassiz to Brazil, promises most important results to science, particularly in the discovery of glaciers, and in the departments of mineralogy, geology, botany, ichthyology and natural history generally.

LUCIE MAUREL GRASSAU a French actress, died recently at the age of 70 having been during 51 years actively engaged on the stage, and with [illegible]

JUDGE HALIBURTON, better known as "Sam Slick," from his humorous work entitled, "The Clockmaker, or Sayings and Doings of Samuel Slick of Slickville," died at the end of last month in England, at the age of 62 years. He was a native of Nova Scotia.

JUDAH P. BENJAMIN, the notorious rebel who, with his usual cowardice, made his escape while his master, Davis, was being captured, has arrived at Southampton, where his co-religionary, the mayor of that city, will probably invite him to his seat in the synagogue. He is one of the worst specimens of the tribe of Benjamin, and is very appropriately named after Judas.

COLCHESTER, the Spiritualist, took out a license as a "juggler," in Buffalo on Saturday last. He paid $20 for it, and is allowed to practice until May next.

THE Hon. Horatio Seymour is one of the delegates to the Episcopal convention which meets in Philadelphia in October.

THAT grim old hero-worshipper, Thomas Carlyle, has left London for Scotland to restore his health, which is worn out by hard work on his history of Frederic the Great. Carlyle is now seventy years old, and has always been dyspeptic and atrabilious.

MISS HANNAH F. GOULD, the poetess, died at her home in Newburyport on Tuesday. She was born in the last century, the first volume of her poems was published in 1832 and she has continued to be a prolific writer both in prose and verse, until quite recently. Her poems are characterized by a strong religious sentiment, and she has written much and acceptably for children.

A COFFIN was lately discovered in Sussex England, in the course of excavations near Bosham church, which is reputed by English antiquarians to contain the remains of the youthful daughter of Canute, the first Danish King of England.

A correspondent states that Maj. Gen. Hooker was to be married on September 12, to Miss Groesbeck of Cincinnati, sister of Judge W. S. Groesbeck, ex-member of Congress. Miss Groesbeck enjoys an income of $40,000 per annum.

MARTIN FARQUAR TUPPER, has turned on his enemies the critics and punsters by a pun which would do credit to the best of them. He calls their attacks upon him, "Vituppertation." Excellent, Martin.

THE Hon. Samuel Hooper, M. C., of Boston, one of the wealthiest and best men in Massachusetts, has just given 50,000 to the Harvard University to found a school of mining and practical geology. It is to be opened on the first Monday in October.

THE Hon. John Van Buren is now on an extended western tour. Very probably he will go as far as Nebraska.

GEN. JOHN SHERLIS, formerly of Illinois, is at present visiting San Francisco after an absence in Mexico of two years, during which time he has been Superintendent of a mine in the State of Sinaloa. He will soon visit the Atlantic states.

SEVENTEEN autograph letters of Cardinal Richelieu, six of them to the celebrated Marion Delorme, who figures in Bulwer's drama, have been discovered in Paris. They were found in a secret drawer of an ancient piece of furniture.

JENNY LIND has founded a subvention of 2,000 rixthalers for worthy artists, to be awarded annually for the purpose of studying music.

JOHN C. BRECKENRIDGE, the rebel, is now sojourning in Canada, exchanging sympathies with George Sanders and other skedaddling conspirators and traitors.

MR. E. C. DAILY of Barkhamsted, a clerk in the treasury department at Washington, was the happy father of a pair of twins, which weighed when born, one pound each. One died, and the other, now seven weeks old, weighs two and one half pounds. He is probably employed in the "fractional currency department."

CALEB CUSHING is in Milwaukee, being engaged as counsel in a railway suit in the United States district court in that place.

OLE ANDREAS HANSEN, the Russian giant formerly a curiosity in Barnum's museum, went on "a spree" the other night in New York. He is eight feet, one inch tall and large in proportion, so that his capacity for beer drinking rather astonished the inn keepers whom he patronized. He finally went to sleep, and was then arrested by a single bold policeman.

ON Friday evening, Emilie Zanfretta, one of the female riders in the New York circus exhibiting at Jersey City, while riding a double act, fell from the horses, and was badly injured by the animals trampling on her neck and shoulders. The flesh was considerably lacerated but no bones were broken.

BENNETT of the New York Herald is seventy years old.

GEN. FREMONT is turning his attention to Missouri, and designs establishing at St. Louis, the manufacture of railroad iron, railroad engines and rolling stock. He is President of the Missouri company, a corporation chartered in 1864 by the Legislature, and that company will as soon as the proper arrangements can be made, enter into that business.

A boy of fifteen lately committed suicide in London because the servant maid took away his candle while he was reading "Pickwick Papers." Mr. Dickens should immortalize him in his next novel.

THE oldest woman in Maine is said to be 101 years old. She is a Penobscot Indian squaw, bearing the saccharine cognomen of Molly Molasses.

GEN. FREMONT, Col. Zagonyi, and another gentleman have taken out a patent for expelling sap that produces rot in wood, and inserting sulphate of iron, and other substances which render it incorruptible. If the discovery is what they believe it, it will be a fortune to the owners of the patent. The wood can be prepared very cheaply, and will be used for railroad ties, ship timber, wharves, and various other purposes.

MORRIS KETCHUM is reported to have said to his creditors: "If I could have my son back with his good name, and you were all paid in full, I would die content." Such is the last ambition of one of our greatest financiers. A lifetime of activity, an ample fortune its reward, and now all would be given for a son's good name.

—Human existence hinges upon trifles What would beauty be without soap?

GLEANINGS.

—The New York Times devotes a page to the recapitulation of railroad and steamboat accidents, for five months, under these lively headings: "Opening of the Fourth [illegible] He takes the place of war after Lee's Surrender; What Railroads he Selected for experiment; How Entirely Successful he was on the Rail; How Many He has Crushed and Mangled since April; He Patronizes Steamboats for a Change of Air; How the Boats Blew Up, and what became of the Passengers."

—A Virginia paper says the supply of game in that state is extraordinary. The woods swarm with squirrels, there are crowded settlements of rabbits, while the partridges are so numerous that they come up in flocks to the very doors of the farmhouses and take "pot luck" with the farmer's chickens. Virginia always was a game state.

—A bull got loose in New York last Thursday. He first had a fight with a policeman, who used up a locust club and six shots of a revolver in the contest, and was twice tossed into the air. He then tossed a boy through a second story window, and [illegible] finally sunk from the effect of the wounds he had received.

—Pittsburg is a queer place. The other day three men went into a lager beer saloon, and two commenced catching all the flies in the room while the third ate the insects as fast as caught, on a bet that he could eat them quicker than his companions could catch them. They were arrested and fined three dollars each for their fun.

Pithole City is the eighth wonder of the world; the hyperbole of Petrolia's curiosities; the last discovery of Aladdin's lamp. A magic city of 7,000, souls, with more than corresponding noise and bustle, enterprise and excitement, with hotels and stables and stores and telegraphs and expresses with newspapers and theatres and churches, with banks and land offices, with every necessory to city life except ice and railroad. Pithole City is the growth of ninety days, a flowing well of people and horses.

—It is stated by the Cincinnati Commercial, that the military force of the United States now consists of 18,000 regular troops, 100,000 volunteers and 90,000 colored troops—in all 208,000 men of whom 105,000 are reported as on duty in the field.

—The Brazilian squadron ordered to blockade Paraguay, is, in turn, blockaded by the batteries which the Paraguayans have mounted on the banks of the Parana. This is something which has probably never happened before.

—An excellent article of mineral paint has been discovered at Black River Falls. It is of bright red color, and contains considerable oil, about a third as much as is ordinarily used in mixing mineral paint.

—A man 90 years old was robbed in New York of $50 which he had laid aside to buy a coffin with. The Providence Journal says he will hardly be able now to "pay the debt of nature."

—The total casualties in Grant's Army, from the time of crossing the Rapidan till the surrender of Lee's army, were 88,387. Those in Sherman's army, from the forward movement at Dalton to the occupation of Atlanta, was 37,199.

—In one of the villages on the Delta of the Nile, celebrated for the cultivation of the water melon, the whole of the inhabitants died during the recent prevalence of cholera. Being unable to sell their fruit, they ate it themselves.

—Winchester, Va., was a much occupied place during the war of the rebellion. The Union troops took possession of it forty-eight times, and the rebels twenty-seven times, and on one occasion, it was occupied by both sides in battle.

—An Old Maid's Aid Society was organized at Warsaw, Ind., last week. It has a flourishing membership of thirty. Unmarried gentlemen are requested to attend the meetings.

—Rather less gallant is the "Bachelor's Association," founded at Vienna, to promote matrimony by keeping a register of all marriageable ladies, free from extravagant tastes.

—A lady in Philadelphia, fell from a buggy, hit the back of her head, and would have dashed her brains out, but for her waterfall.

—Of all the specimens of German-American orthography that ever saw the light, that of a Hartford saloon-keeper is the most excruciating. He has painted him a sign and it reads, "Boshdevele Nodrushd," "Positively no Trust."

—As Horace Greeley is to deliver the address before the Minnesota State Agricultural Society, it is suggested that he take for his subject, "The Eradication of Weeds."

—The oil excitement has reached Tennessee. Boring is being energetically prosecuted in various localities among the mountains of the Cumberland. New machinery is arriving daily.

—Missouri furnished 104,758 troops during the war—over one third of whom were supplied by St. Louis.

—The delivery of bogus telegrams and getting pay therefor, is getting to be a serious evil in New York.

—A number of Irish officers lately connected with Wisconsin regiments, are about going to Ireland. Among them is General Malloy, late Colonel of the 17th Wisconsin (Irish) Regiment, who is a prominent Fenian.

—You never need think you can turn over any old stone or any old falsehood without a terrible squirming and scattering of the horrid little population that dwells under it.

—There is an apple tree in Danbury, Conn., the upper branches of which hang full of ripe apples, while the lower ones are in full blossom.

—The Brooklyn ferry company carried nearly 30,000,000 passengers last year, not one of whom was either killed or injured.

—Thieves broke into the house of Mayor Hart, of Racine, Wis., recently but a brave little lady, into whose room they came, seized one of them by the hair of his head and held on until the house was aroused. The fellow cut at her with his knife, wounding her rather severely in the hand and arm, and made an escape only to be caught with his partner outside of the house. He left his cap in the lady's hand.

—What is the use of sighing and weeping as we float down the stream of Time? Why make the voyage of life a wailing voyage?

—We often hear of "fashionable marriages," but never of fashionable deaths.

—Never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you.

—A young lady by the name of Jones was arrested in Albany the other day, charged with leading a young man, aged eighteen, from "the path of rectitude." This is a novel charge. The complainant is the young man's father.

—The precedent seems to be established in Wisconsin of promoting the Secretary of State to Governor. Thus the lamented Harver was advanced in 1861; the present Governor Lewis in 1863; and now Secretary Fairchild is nominated by the Republicans with the certainty of election. In this view of the case Gen. Thomas S. Allen, the candidate for Secretary, may look forward to more substantial honors if he shall serve the State faithfully during the next two years.

—Charles Einhuff, while unpacking window glass in Detroit, stuck a sharp pointed bit of broken glass into his thigh, which pierced the femoral artery, and he bled to death.

—Lander Harvey, a boy 14 years of age, got into a grain bin at the Abingdon, Ill., depot, sank down over his head into the grain, and was smothered to death before he could be extricated.

—It is stated that the French troops on the Rio Grande have been superseded by native Mexican forces, on account of the disposition of the former to give and take offence.

—There is scarcely any more delightful emotion than that which we feel when a friend who has sacrificed our esteem, by some noble act recovers it with interest.

—A correspondent of the Boston Post has unqualified pleasure in mentioning the fall of the waterfall, a monstrous invention of the enemy of beauty, which should have died at its birth. A rather pretty fashion of dressing the hair, which I venture to call the staple and ring style is getting in vogue with the dames, while ringlets for the girls have quite superseded the ugly plug abomination which wagged behind them, like a beaver's tail, a few weeks ago. Among the really fashionable women you might as well look for a cataract in the eye as a waterfall at the back of the head.

—In one of the New England pin factories 192,000 of those useful little things are made, pointed and packed every hour. The [illegible] money.

—English papers think the mismanagement of the Atlantic cable is distinctly proved by the admission of those on board the Great Eastern, that they left it in charge of buoys.

—An eastern paper says that the new counterfeit 25 cent fractional currency in circulation may be readily detected by the superiority of its executing over that of the genuine.

—A follower of the lamented weather sage, Merriam, resident in Central New York, and evidently with no interest in the lightning rod business, declares that the prevailing droughts in that section are due to the large number of lightning rods put up thereabouts. He says they attract the electricity from its legitimate pursuit of getting up rain falls, and that the earth suffers in consequence.

—The Boston Post says that the holders of Confederate bonds in London are holding meetings and it is about the only tangible thing they do hold.

—Disastrous fires have been raging in the woods in Maine causing great destruction of property.

—A handcuffed counterfeiter, named Fassett, while being conveyed to Rochester, N. Y., under arrest, on Tuesday, made a frightful leap from the cars. When the train was a short distance east of Spencerport, running about thirty miles per hour, Fassett asked the sheriff to give him a drink of water. The sheriff stepped to a tank near by to get it. Fassett threw the irons from his wrists, placed his hands upon the backs of two seats, and threw himself out at a window feet foremost. The sheriff saw the motion and grabbed at the prisoner, making fast to his coat sleeve near the shoulder. The sleeve was retained by the officer, but the prisoner escaped. The bell was struck and the train stopped. The sheriff got off and went in search of his prisoner. He found his hat but not his man.

—There are three brothers, two of whom live in Methuen, Mass., who have had in the aggregate 11 wives. One of the gentlemen is a widower. Here is a chance for an enterprising young woman.

—Professor Lowe the aeronaut, is making balloon ascensions at New York. He takes passengers at $15 a head.

—The Albany Journal is printed on paper made of bamboo cane. We wonder if that doesn't bring it under the head of a joint stalk concern.

—A well known pickpocket (name not given) recently died in New York, leaving property to the amount of sixty thousand dollars, all of which he accumulated within the past six years in excursions through various cities of the Union.

—A census is being taken of the colored people of Memphis, and enough has been developed to show that the 20,000 state number of blacks will overreach 20,000; it is said it will reach 25,000 —At a fancy ball at West Point the other night, a lady appeared as "Bazique.' Her dress was studded with cards, and it was also noticed that the effect had been very carefully studied also.

—A horse was poisoned to death, a few days ago, in Boston, by chewing green house, paper, which was lying in a barrel. He died in a few minutes.

—John Peck of Haverstraw, N. J., sold a five year old colt for $10,000 the other day.

—The Southern Hotel, built and furnished at a cost of $1,250,000 was opened at St. Louis on Wednesday.

—During May, June, July and August, 5,500,000 three cent pieces were coined at the United States Mint in Philadelphia.

—A man with a scolding wife, being asked what his occupation was, replied that he kept a hot-house.

—The Jackson (Mississippi) News, meaning to be in season, has hoisted the name of Andrew Johnson for the next President.

—A citizen of Washington owned a very ugly and vicious dog. He named the cur "Wirz," and then shot it.

—A British army officer—Captain W. A. Baker of the Royal Bombay Engineers—in a work just published in England, entitled "The Day and the Hour: imparts a considerable amount of information, which is certainly "important if true." The day of judgment, he tells us, is fixed for September 20, 1878; the hour, sunset; the Translation of the Saints having previously taken place, at one o'clock in the morning on the 25th of January 1875.

NOT AS MODEST AS HIS FATHER.—There appears to be a young Grant, son of the Lieutenant General, who has a high appreciation of the merits of his father, and an estimate that is not reduced by shrinking modesty of the consequence of the family. In substantiation of this we quote from the Quebec correspondent of the Boston Advertiser:

"The people at the Waterville station were so intently employed in staring at the General, that they forgot all about cheering until little Jesse Grant—the pet of the family and of the party—who was standing behind his father on the platform, huffy his hat up and screamed out in his shrill, childish voice; "Three cheers for General Grant and family!" This loosed the tongue of the people, and the cheers were heartily given."

AT the Keystone Bank, Erie Pennsylvania, they have a very obstinate safe. When closing it Thursday, the lock was observed to be out of order, and on Friday morning, it could not be opened. A locksmith was sent for, and after working hard day and night until Saturday afternoon, drilled the lock completely out, and opened the safe. The bank had to do business Friday and Saturday on borrowed money.

A YOUNG Frenchman has invented a machine for making iron tubes by the application of centrifugal force. It is composed of a cylinder opening and shutting at will, in which melted iron is poured. A rapid rotary motion digs through the liquid mass in the direction of the axis of the apparatus, while it forces it to adhere to the sides of the cylinder and to assume its form. Refrigeration effects solidification, and by opening the cylinder, a perfectly smooth and straight tube is withdrawn.

IT is stated that some enterprising individual has gathered up some 5,400 bushels of tobacco ashes, the remains of the great fire in Richmond, to be used as a fertilizer.

The Silver Rule.

Kind Heaven, in mercy to the fool,
Gave him, I've heard an Indian say,
Guide of his life, a silver rule;
The fool, he threw the rule away—

What was the rule? To hold his tongue,
And listen to what others say.
The wise man seizes the rule, and sits
Silent, and hears fools talk away

Saturday Irre-Pressibles.

—The Atlantic Telegraph Company complain that there is a conspiracy to put down their cable. Why don't they put it down themselves, then? What they are after now is to re-cover it; let us hope that they will re-cover it with something that is accident proof.

—It is said that the city car people instead of taking measures to rid their conveyances of fleas and other vermin, are about to issue a paper in their defense under the title of "The Battle-cry of Fleadom."

—The papers are full of startling paragraphs headed, "Era of Crime," "Era of Frightful Accidents," "Era of Incendiarism," etc., but what we have most to fear just now is the most fearful of all eras, the [illegible]

—One of the city dailies, alarmed by Mr. Depew's census, coolly proposes that a meeting of citizens be called to provide means for increasing our population.

—As there appears to be no lady contributors to The Nation, it has been suggested that for this and other reasons, its name be changed to The Stag-Nation.

—Daniel Pratt, the "Great American Traveler," is lecturing out west on "The Value of the Human Mind." The subject must come home to him with great force.

—A correspondent suggests as a good national toast, "The Armory and Knavery" and wishes to know whether the idea is a new one or has been printed before. We should think so decidedly.

—The Scotia, which arrived from Liverpool on Wednesday, brought over a distinguished party of English "nobles and gentry," who have come over here, according to the Times, to inspect our American railroads, and to examine into the condition of things in Wall street. We advise them, as they value their lives, not to inspect our railroads too closely, and as they value their purses to stay away from Wall St.

Grandma has only Moved to Heaven.

"Wouldn't you like to see Gaandma's flowers, auntie?" asked little Nellie on the afternoon of my arrival at her father's house.

I looked into the child's face inquiringly. Her grandma, my own dear mother, had been dead nearly two months; what had she to do with earthly flowers?

"Perhaps you think I haven't any grandma, said the child," apparently comprehending my look; "but I have; she has only moved to heaven; she went last spring before the flowers came, but then, she has them all the time up there; and her face brightened at the thought, for she knew how grandma loved flowers, and she loved grandma dearly.

"Yes, I will go," said I taking the proffered hand.

"Allie go see ganma's flowers too," lisped a wee thing scarcely two years old, who came toddling towards us with outstretched arms. So another tiny hand was clasped, and we three went into the garden.

"There are grandma's" said my little attendant, pointing to the flowers that bordered the walk we were just entering. "She planted them all herself just before she went to the 'promised land' to live."

These flowers then, my mother had planted with her own feeble, trembling hands. It was her last work, a work she had always loved; but this time she had done it for others, for she knew she could not watch their growth, she could not see them bud or blossom.

"Don't cry, auntie," said the child, "for she has all the flowers she wants now, and she is never tired and will never be sick any more."

"Who told you all this," said I stooping down to kiss the flowers, and the sweet face that looked so sympathizingly up into mine.

"Why, grandma used to tell us about it every day, until one morning she went to sleep, and they carried her away. And she said we might come and live with her some time, if we were good children; and we are going sometime, ain't we Allie?" And the two went down the walk singing in their clear sweet voices,

"I have a grandma in the promised land
My grandma calls me, I must go;"

a verse of their own rendering which they had added to the hymn,

"I have a father in the promised land."

I had mourned a dead mother. Bitter tears and anguish of heart had poured out as I thought of her cold, dark, dreary resting-place. But there was no grave, no dead grandmother to these trusting, hopeful little ones. I accepted the lesson. My tears were dried. I have no dead mother, I said. She has only "moved to heaven." She lives in the "Promised Land."—Thankful Traveler.

Indifference to Life.

Men differ widely in their estimate of the value of life. The instinctive fear of death which is supposed to pervade the human family, is scarcely discoverable in some of the heathen nations. In China, a criminal condemned to be decapitated, can obtain a substitute for two hundred dollars. Straw bail is not more easily procured in New York, than men willing to sell their heads for that sum are in China. All the celestial proxy asks is a few day's furlough, in which to spend the price of his head in jolly fashion. A trivial blunder in etiquette, so disgusts a Japanese gentleman with all sublunary things, that he incontinently cuts himself crosswise on the abdomen and dies a horrible death, in order to escape the mortifying reflection that he has committed a breach of ceremony. In some parts of Africa, a native will sell his "vital spark" for a hearty dinner; and even in this Christian country, a wretch sentenced to the gallows, has been known to devour his pound or so of porterhouse steak on the very verge of eternity.

The Circus.

A circus came to town, and everybody knows how the music and the grand tent and the fine horses set all the little boys going. Quarters of dollars and shilling are in great demand, and many a choice bit of money have the circus-riders carried away, which was meant for a better purpose.

A little boy was seen looking round the premises with a great deal of curiosity.

"Halloa, Johnny!" said a man who knew him, "going to the circus?"

"No sir," answered Johnny, "father don't like 'em."

"Oh well, I'll give you the money to go, Johnny," said the man.

"Father don't approve of them," answered Johnny.

"Go for this once, and I'll pay for you."

"No sir," said Johnny, "my father would give me the money if he thought it best; besides, I've got twenty-five cents in my strong box, twice enough to go."

"I'd go Johnny for once; it's wonderful the way the horses do; your father needn't know it," answered the man.

"I shan't" said the boy.

"Now why?" said the man.

"Cause" said Johnny, twirling his bare toes in the sand, "after I'd been, I could not look my father right in the eye, and I can now."

There are 14,000 patients remaining in the various general military hospitals of the United States, not including North and South Carolina.

The Pacific Railroad.

Many of our readers, who must be somewhat mystified by the numerous ramifications of the Pacific Railroad, will find the following sketch of the original bill and its amendment, aided by a map of the Territories, an intelligible guide to its route.

Congress, by an act approved July 1st 1862, and an amendatory act approved July 2d 1864, provided for the construction of a railroad from the Missouri river to the navigable waters of the Pacific, by authorizing the incorporation of a company to construct a line of railroad from Omaha City in Nebraska Territory, to the western border of the state of Nevada; and by authorizing the Central Pacific Railroad Company of California to construct a road from the navigable waters of the western terminus of the Sacramento river, to the above mentioned route; and the Pawnee Western Railroad company to construct a branch road to Kansas City to unite with the main trunk on the 100th meridian; and the Hannibal and St. Joseph and Pacific Railroad Company of Missouri to construct a branch road through Kansas to connect with the [illegible] branch, or with the main trunk; and also authorizing the Union Pacific Railroad Company, or other legally authorized company to be indicated by the President of the United States, to construct a road from Sioux City in the state of Iowa, to unite with the main trunk line not further west that the 100th meridian—this main trunk railroad and branches to be so constructed as to form one continuous railroad of the same gauge from the navigable waters of the Pacific to the Missouri river and there connecting with the main lines extending to the principal cities on the Atlantic coast.

A Movement to Abolish Express Companies.

The trunk lines of railroad have now under discussion through a committee, the most efficient and speedy way of ridding themselves of an abuse under which they have suffered until it has become unbearable. It is proposed to cut off the commissions exacted from railroad companies by a swarm of "despatches," "expresses" "through lines," etc., by which merchants are humbugged and railways defrauded of the business belonging to them. The frieght intrusted to them travels no faster than ordinary railway freight, and it will be to the advantage of merchants to place their goods into the immediate possession of the roads. The following are the names of the committee, as far as selected; Mr. Barker for the New York Central; Mr. Diven for the Erie; Mr. Harlan for the Pennsylvania Central; and Mr. Garrett for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Every railway stockholder has an interest in the success of this movement, which will restore to whom it belongs many millions annually, which now goes to organizations whose only capital is a sign-board. The only labor they perform is the collection and distribution of large dividends by a few rapacious shareholders. Every road in the United States ought to be prepared to receipt for about everything that is moved by "Express" and thus secure to themselves the profits of a traffic which makes express stocks sell at 300 per cent. while railroads doing the work get barely 7 per cent., with occasionally an omission to pay anything.—N. Y. Tribune.

HOW IT WAS DONE.—Perhaps the following modus operandi was written by Robert himself:

Jenny sighed, and Robert seized her
Pretty little trembling hand;
Then with clasping hands he squeezed her
Half reluctant form and—and—

"Loose me!" but he clasped the tighter.
"Jenny, say, wilt thou be mine?"
Then her beaming face grew brighter,
And she whispered "I am thine!"

Then they clasped each other fondly,
Close together as two ticks,—
And they kissed each other soundly,
And—I left them in that fix.

STEEL RAILS.—The Pennsylvania railroad is the first in this country to try the experiment of steel rails. A lot of about one hundred and fifty tons of cast-steel rails was procured near the close of the 1863, but some delay was experienced in slotting them to receive the chairs and spikes, they were not laid down until the early part of the past summer, when they were placed on slidings in the yards at Altoona and Pittsburgh, where they would be subjected to considerable use. These rails appearing very brittle, it was not deemed expedient to place them in the main track where they would be passed over by trains at a high rate of speed; none of them, however, have been broken in the track, and they exhibit little or no appearance of wear.

Some other steel rails have recently been ordered, of a quality combining more toughness with a sufficient degree of hardness, and experiments will be continued to test the relative merits of the several descriptions of rail. Much confidence is felt that the result of the trials will demonstrate the superiority of the steel rails for general use. An experiment made some months since to convert the upper surface of iron rails into steel, without affecting the strength of the remaining portion of the metal, has not met with success. The President of the Pennsylvania Road, in his annual report, speaks of the successful trial of steel rails, but states that their great cost at present precludes their general introduction.—Oil News.

HOW TO RELIEVE THE EYES FROM SPARKS.—A gentleman connected with the press, lately got a cinder in his eye which caused him great pain. He was relieved in half a minute without further pain, by the following process: A friend raised the upper lid, on the inner surface of which the mote or speck of dirt will almost invariably be found to adhere; then push the lower lid up under the eyeball and close under the other, when the eyelashes of the latter will brush out the foreign substance, almost certainly on the first trial. No pain is experienced, nor can any possible injury be done to the eye by the process, while the common method of pushing a pin-head wrapped in a handkerchief, under the lid, causes great pain, and often injury to the eye.

UNDERGROUND CITY RAILWAYS.—Penny trains are now an "institution" in London. They run early and late on the underground railroad. The workingman descends into a spacious subterranean depot, well lighted, in one part of London, takes his seat it a third class "carriage," and for two cents, in ten minutes, is landed miles away, in another part of London, whither by bus would have cost him ten cents and an hour's ride. In this way the mechanic in his pretty cottage in the country, or an a distant street, is really close by his work, and one great evil of a large city, checked in part.

ADVICE FROM PRENTICE.—This editor, among many sayings that will not bear repetition in most journals, now and then gets off something that is both permissible and advantageous. The following piece of good advice, which should be remembered by every one, will prove profitable if practiced. Says he: "Never buy goods of those who don't advertise. They do so little that they have to sell dear. Always examine the advertising columns of your papers. It will pay cent per cent."

A New York paper says the railroads have to kill a good share of their customers to keep the aggregate within their capacity of transportation.

Miscellany.

SEPTEMBER.

Sweet is the voice that calls
From babbling waterfalls
In meadows where the downy reeds are flying;
And soft the breezes blow,
And eddying come and go,
In faded gardens where the rose is dying.

Among the stubbed corn
The blithe quail pipes at morn,
The carry partridge drums in hidden places,
And glittering insects gleam
Above the ready stream,
Where busy spiders spin their filmy laces.

At even, cool shadows fall
Across the garden wall,
And on the clustered grapes to purple turning,
And pearly vapors lie
Along the eastern sky,
Where the broad harvest moon is redly burning.

Ah, soon on vale and hill,
The wind shall whistle chill,
And patriarch swallows call their flocks together
And seek for lands where blow
The fairer blossoms of a balmier weather.

The pollen-dusted bees
Search for the honey-lees
That linger in the the last flowers of September,
While plaintive mourning doves,
Coo sadly of their loves,
Of the dead summer they so well remember.

The cricket chirps all day,
"O, fairest summer stay!"
The squirrel eyes askance the chestnuts browning;
The wild fowls fly afar
Above the foamy bar,
And hasten southward ere the skies are frowning.

Now comes a fragrant breeze,
Through the dark cedar trees,
And round about my temples fondly lingers,
In gentle playfulness,
Like to the soft caress
In happier days bestowed by loving fingers.

Yet though a sense of grief
Comes with the falling leaf,
And memory makes the summer doubly pleasant,
In all my autumn dreams,
A future summer gleams,
Passing the fairest glories of the present.

—Harper's Magazine.

From the New York Citizen.

A Tale of Footfalls.

BY ALFRED TRAMPLE.

The din of the day is quiet now and the street is deserted. The last bacchanal reeled homeward an hour ago. The most belated cabman has passed out of hearing. The one poor wretch who comes nightly to the waterside has closed her complaint; I saw her shawl float over the parapet, as she flung her lean arms against the sky, and went down with a scream and a splash. Here in the busiest spot of the mightiest city, there is no human measure abroad; but footsteps are yet ringing on the desolateness. They are heard only by me. There are two of them; the first, light, timorous, musical; the other, harsh, and heavy, as if shod with steel. I recognize them with a thrill; for they have haunted me many years, and they are speaking to me now. The one is soothing and pleading, and it implores me to write; but the second is like the striking of a revengeful knoll. "Confession and pardon," says the one; "horror and remorse," echoes the other. They tinkle and toll thus every midnight, when my hour of penance arrives and I have tried to register my story. It is almost finished now. Let me read the pages softly to myself.

"My life has been a long career of suffering. The elements, whose changes and combinations contribute to the pleasure of my species, have arrayed themselves against me. I am fashioned so delicately that the every-day bustle of the world provokes exquisite and incessant pain. Embodied like my fellows, my nerves are yet sensitive beyond girlishness, and my organs of sight, smell, and hearing are marvellously acute. The inodorous elements are painfully odorous to me. I can hear the subtlest processes in nature, and the densest darkness is radiant with mysterious lights. My childhood was a protracted horror, and the noises of a great city in which I lived, shattered and well-nigh crazed me. In the dead calms, I shuddered at the howling of winds. I fancied that I could detect the gliding revolution of the earth, and hear the march of the moon in her attendant orbit.

"My parents loved me tenderly, and failing to sooth or conciliate me, they removed from the busy city to a secluded villa in the suburbs. Those labors which necessitated abrupt or prolonged sound were performed without our grounds. The domestics were enjoined to conduct their operations with the utmost quietude. Carriages never came to the threshold, but, stopped at the lodge; the drives were strewn with bark to drown the rattle of wheels; familiar fowls and beasts were excluded; the pines were cut down, though they had moaned for half a century; the angles of the house were rounded, that the wind might not scream and sigh of midnight, and flapping of a shutter would have warranted the dismissal of all the servants. Thick carpets covered the floors; my apartments lay in a remote wing, and were surrounded with double walls, filled with wool, to deaden communication. Goodly books were provided, but none which could arouse fears or passions. Fiery romances were prohibited, and histories of turmoil and war, with theology and its mournful revelations, and medicine, which revived the bitter story of my organism. My library was stocked with dreamy and diverting compositions; old Walton, the pensive angler; the vagaries of ancient Burton, and the placid essayists of the Addisonian day. Of poets, I had Cowper and Wordsworth, who loved quiet life, and were the chroniclers of domestic men and manners. Pictures of shadowy studios and calm lakes, unfrequented coverts and sleepy wayside inns, covered my wall. The tints of tapestry, panel, and furniture were subdued, and the sunshine which mellowed a stained window, was softened by an ingenious arrangement of shades and refractors. Art interposed her quaintest contrivances against the intense and violent moods of Nature, and my retirement was secure from the inroads of all except my careful guardians.

"But I was still unhappy, and the prey of vivid fancies. This privacy suggested the great world without, where men were wrestling with dangers. I imagined ships upon stormy seas, and whirlwinds around mountain homes—the chaos of cities, the rout of armies, dim arctic solitudes, where the icebergs tumbled apart, and the frozen seas split asunder. They had banished painful occurrences, but the sensitive organism could not be destroyed, and I bore up until almost insane, struggling to be cheerful when stunned and dazzled. At last, when my mother stole into my room one day—it was October, I think, for I could hear the tiniest leaves dropping to the grass far below—I laid my head wearily in her lap and covered my ears with my hands. My eyes were filled with tears.

"'My dear mother, I cannot bear this life. I suffer as of old, though there be not a mote across the sun, nor a breath in the air. If my mind could be led from these consciousness, I might be calm."

"'Luke,' said my mother, 'you need a companion.'

"The thought was a new one, and so thrilled me.

"'No, mother,' I replied; 'strong, healthy beings could not exist thus cloistered.'

"'For less than money,' she responded; 'they have done more.'

"'We should not agree,' I said; 'I would be peevish, and he would despise me.'

"'Your companion must be a woman, my son.'

"A succession of short chills passed through every nerve, and a moment's faintness possessed me.

"'It must not be,' I pleaded; 'a restless, chatting, plotting woman would be worse than all.'

"My mother marked my rising agitation and glided away.

"'Whatever can relieve you, dear Luke, she said, 'your father shall obtain.'

"I now fancied that they believed me mad, and that a keeper was to be introduced to me under the guise of a companion. I formed many mental portraits of this fierce person, and they kept me awake through the long watches. I even meditated escape, and unclosed my casement with that design, but the sunlight, the bird-songs, and the zephyrs rushed into my window, and staggered me like so many sentinels. One day I slept fitfully, and dreamed that I was poor and orphaned, with the alternatives of death or work before me. I had wandered to a village and thrown myself beneath some elms, with a horrible despair sealing my eyelids. Suddenly the [illegible] were speaking close beside me.

"'It is strange,' said the first voice; 'he is pale and delicate, but with no evidences of heavier afflictions.'

"'You do not know him,' murmured the other; 'wait and see.'

"A face bent down to mine, and the lips of a woman touched my cheek. I started in my sleep, caught my pen gaspingly, and quivered like an aspen.

"'This is indeed terrible,' said the soft voice, compassionately; 'but do not despair. It cannot be nature. It must be habit, or bashfulness, or the effect of some childish or forgotten fright. Cheer up, and hope.'

"'Be kind to him, Heraine,' resumed the other; 'you are my last resort, and becoming his companion, you become my child.—Do not vex, do not excite him. Be yourself—always calm, gentle, and affectionate, and the kindness which you show my boy, may God return to you in mercy and blessing!'

"I unclosed my eyes; the scene was resolved to my quiet library. Something glided through the door, but a form from the other side flung a shadow across my face.—A premonition of the keeper thrilled me a moment, but I turned slowly at length, and looked into the intruder's face.

"A woman, or, rather, a girl with a woman's face, serene and placid, as if never ruffled by care or passion, sat between me and the window, and the gloomy light softened her calm countenance. As I looked up, her lashes fell, and her blue eyes were bent fixedly upon the floor. She seemed like one of my sedate portraits, which had come down from its case. She waited, apparently, for some sign of recognition, or until my surprise should have passed away, and did not move while I ran her over with keen curiosity. She was, probably, of my own age, though her self-possession might have stamped her as much older; but the bloom of cheek, and her bosom just ripening, were indices of a girl's years. She raised her eyes at length, and bade me a good afternoon in a voice which reminded me of the faintest lullaby. The quiet tone was seconded by an assuring glance, and directly we were conversing without restraint, as if friends of years rather than acquaintances of an hour.

"Heraine was the impersonation of composure. The neutral tint of dress corresponded with the smooth tresses of her brown hair. Her touch was magnetic, and petulancy vanished at her smile, as at a charm. Her intelligence was, doubtless, the secret of her power. She divined my moods without inquiry, and cheered them without effort. She led me out of the unhealthy atmosphere engendered by my sensitiveness, and I sometimes forgot my disability for hours.—She was as good as she was capable, and as amiable as she was resolute. We fraternized immediately, and I felt all the newness of a regenerated life. My temperament was fitful as of yore, but the gloomy spectres vanished; and my attention being weaned from the slighter occurences of nature, I was no longer racked by their tremors and jars.—The soft face of Heraine seemed to hush all chaos, and when she smiled, I thought that the very earth had ceased to roll. When her large liquid eyes were fully opened upon me, I seemed to be looking into the hungry blue of the sky, and carried aloft by the look beyond the influence of matter. For the moment, my nerves grew numb, the compass of my senses narrowed to her wondrous face, and the fetters which bound me to it were forged of gold.

"The months went by like the stars, which wheel eternally, but seem motionless as we watch them. Sometimes we read aloud, but our voices were low and lulling, as if quieter than silence. Then we talked of my calm paintings, shadowing deeper loninessses in them. But it was my highest rapture to sit in stillness for hours, while Heraine, cushioned at my feet, made cunning embroideries, like some facile poet whose fingers were dropping rhymes.

"I remarked that our conversations were progressive. My companion led me gradually into forbidden themes, as if to strengthen and embolden me. We went forth, in fancy, from our shadowy chamber, through deep groves, into twilights, beneath soft skies, even into the glare of the sun, and, at last, among the storms and the seas. I may have quivered, but I was not shocked; for the wrack and roar of the universe were drowned in the quietness of her voice. Then we walked abroad a little way, and though pained, I endured; for she did not abuse these successes. She had travelled in far countries, and often read me friendly letters, which attested how well the world esteemed her. Sometimes her acquaintances came to the house, but never to my room, and once or twice she was absent a whole day, when my nervousness returned. There was one correspondent whose missives were never read to me—a fine bold hand, which at length became familiar. Their receipt pleased her, I thought, and once I ventured to say:

"Heraine, you have a pleasant letter there.'

"She only blushed very much, and all her quietness was gone for a moment.

"As the months expanded into years, a new feeling engendered from our intimacy. I did not comprehend it at first. It crept upon me like the unfolding of a new sense or the gradual realising of the earliest profound thought. An unexpected event gave it recognition.

"The boldly endorsed letters came twice a month at first, afterward four times, and finally twice, thrice, and even five times a a week. Heraine was quick and flushed.—She passed but two or three hours daily in my apartment, and substituted for the embroidery a dress of such bright hues that it dazzled my eyes. One day she took her accustomed seat, with a face subdued to sadness and an irresolute manner.

"'Luke,'' she said, after a long pause, 'we have passed many days pleasantly together?'

"She did not wait for me to speak, though I thrilled and turned deadly pale.

"'And because so pleasantly I contemplate my farewell with regret.'

"'Your farewell, Heraine!'

"'Yes,' she said firmly; 'to-day—this afternoon—this hour—I bid adieu to Glengoyle!'

"I fell forward in my seat, forcing down my heart which sobbed and swelled; and the whole world rang, flared, and burst into violence. If the seas had opened their fountains, and the crust of the globe crushed up, there would have been no greater chaos.—But in my faintness and agony I caught the blue eye which had soothed and melted me so often, and clasping my hands I fell at her knees, and said:

"'Heraine, I love you.'

"It was her time to tremble now, and I interpreted the pallor of her cheek as a signal of hope.

"'I know that I love you,' I said; 'if the earth and the stars were blotted out, and you remain, I would not miss them. You are my universe. Without you there is no creation, and the elements are at war. If you leave me, you have left only a bright space in a wretched eternity. No voice but yours can say "peace" to me. Be merciful and remain!'

"She was moved with my appeal and tears came to her eyes.

"'I did not know that it had come to this,' she said. Then her composure returned, and she raised me, with a smile.

"'If you would win any woman,' she said meaningly, 'you must first be a man. You are not a man, Luke. You are a child! You have shut the sunlight from you, and the trill of a thrush pierces you like an arrow. Would you cage your wife in the gloominess of this sepulchre? Would you hush her songs, and tremble beneath her caresses, and die in the delights of her love? Go to! Open the window of this vault! Mingle with the crowds of the cities! Ascend into the mountains! Cross the seas! Discover worthy of affection, and then entreat me again!'

"She had shown me the abject thing I was. Her conditions were harder than death; but the hope she had spoken was like a glimpse of heaven, and I answered:

"'Heraine, I will do it!'

"In a month I set out for my travels. An easy coach conveyed me to London, and the third day I lay sick in Paris. Sore of body and of brain, strained in nerve and stunned in sense, I persisted in my resolve, and was whirled, more dead than alive, across the continent to Berlin. In the period of three months, I had traversed all the leading kingdoms, and pushed my purpose to the sandy banks of the Nile. Every moment in this journey was an infinity of torture; but in the bitterest pangs I remembered the divine consummation, and kept on. My infirmities were increased rather than diminished. In the deepest thunder I could hear the delving of the beetle; though the whole vault glowed with electric light, I could see the twinkle of the glow worm. But among the multitude of noises which haunted me, the most persistent were the footfalls of men. There were pauses in the lives of all other beings. The weasel and the hyena rested sometimes, and I could avoid their haunts, but men were forever alert and ubiquitous. I heard them in abysses, upon peaks, and in wildernesses. They trod upon my nerves; they crushed sleep from my soul. I closed my ears in vain; I fled without refuge; I prayed without avail. The patter of little children, the footfall of the maiden, the elastic pace of the youth, the racking limp of the cripple, the veteran hobbling upon his wooden stump, the confused tread of crowds, the steady tramp of soldiers—these tortured me by daylight, and I kept penance at midnight with the going of outcasts and vagrants.

"I learned to classify these footfalls. My sensations of them were so keen that my memory retained them. I recognized individuals, not by their faces but by their feet. A solitary tourist met me among the ruins of Luxor; I knew his tread, though months had elapsed, among the thousands on London Bridge. A gipsy-family, whom I passed on the Spanish sierras, went under my window in Paris, and I missed the feet of the lad who had been hanged. Ten thieves were marched to the pillory in Kiev; I counted the paces of the four who escaped from a closed diligence on the Simplon. I lost not one among the millions of footfalls. But there were two which I distinguished everywhere.—When I pursued, they retreated; when I fled, they followed me. They were like two echoes in different keys; and one of them I loved, the other I hated. The first was soft, tinkling, harmonious, like a memory rather than a sound; the other was firm, vigorous, and vehement, and it kept time with the soft footstep, as if to drown it to my ears. When fagged and wretched, the light footfall approached me; but when, inspirited, I rose to behold its owner, it died away in the [illegible] of its companion-tread.

"At last I embarked for America, and when the land disappeared, I said to myself: At sea, at least, no footfalls can follow.' But one night, when the clangor of the screw drove me upon deck, I heard, far astern, through the deep fog, the sound of two haunting feet. Next morning a swifter steamer overtook us. The waves revelled between, and the winds were high, but above the bellow of our engines and the element, those thrilling footfalls rang out. I caught a glimpse of a familiar something, as the rival craft went by, and reeled and fell upon the deck.

"I found New York the noisest city in the world, and that a week's tenure there would drive me mad. A fire occurred in Broadway, the night of my arrival, and the din of the mobs which ran to its relief was greater than all the combined clamors of Europe. So I resorted to a beautiful village called Wyoming, in the heart of the Susquehanna Mountains, and passed the month of September in comparative quiet. If any place in the world is shut in from brawls and storms, it is this historic valley. Its reminiscences were sad and painful to me, but its scenes were like soft dreams.

"During a part of my tenure in the village, I missed my shadowy attendants; but when, one day, I ascended to Prospect Rock, I heard amid the hum of farms, and mines, and mills, those same audible repetitions floating up the sides of the mountain. The valley grew dim upon my sight, and I hastened nervously to my cottage. Thenceforward I seldom lost them. When I penetrated the wild glen of the Lackawanna, or climbed the Umbrella Tree, or ventured into the Wolf's Den, or sat upon Queen Esther's Rock, or sailed upon Harvey's Lake, they followed me, the one lulling, the other maddening—invisible but omnipresent, types of the good and the evil, which forever hover in the air.

"One day I ventured to Falling Waters, a vast reservoir, which is precipitated from a cliff, called Campbell's Ridge, into a gorge of the Shawnee Mountains. The deafening roar of the cataract would be almost deathly to me; but strengthened by the promise of Heraine, I determined to add this achievement to the long list of afflictions endured for her sake.

"I made the ascent on foot, and could see, from the base of the ridge, the skein of foam shining through the pines in its everlasting flight down the rocks. I became accustomed to the sound, as I gradually approached, and mused, with gladness, on an early return to England. Heraine would acknowledge my vindication. Suffering more anguish from a sunbeam or a song than others from the knout or the rack. I had yet run the gauntlet of the intensest horrors cheered by the certainty of her regard. She would confess her error. We should shut out the world again from our shadowy home at Glengoyle, and go down together, hand in hand, to a deeper stillness. As I mused thus, I heard the haunting footfalls again, going up the mountain before me. To my delight, their attendant demon was ingatiable, and I pursued them rapturously. The rush of waters grew louder. They had moaned before; they shrieked and screamed now, as if in the agony of their suicidal leap. But, clear and musical, above the hell of sound, rang the tinkling feet which had led me around the globe.

"I called aloud. I quickened my pace.—I could see only in glimpses, through my tears; but along the steep sinuosities of the path something fluttered and vanished, and fluttered again—I recognized Heraine!

"I knew now the fidelity of her affection. She had followed my invalid wanderings, to be near me in want and prostration. I could have knelt in the aisle of the dim woods, with God's choir of waters pealing before me, to weep my gratitude. But as the figure of Heraine disappeared above, those other abhorred footfalls rang keenly below. Deep, rapid and elastic, they were generously defined above the clash of the cataract. I fled with my hands upon my ears.

"On and on! winding among holes, creeping beneath branches, climbing ledges, vaulting over fissures and chasms. I reached the open plain, at last, and halted unnerved upon the brink of the abyss.

"The glory of the prospect thrilled me with exquisite pain. A mist, arched by a delicate rainbow, rose from the tumbling flood, and the sunny vale was visible, at intervals, beyond it, inclosed by blue mountains, and intersected by the pale, ribbon-like Susquehanna. It was my fate to endure, not to enjoy; but at this moment the cataract was forgotten in a deeper torment; the boughs opened, the sky split with the shock of feet, and a man bounded from the wood.

"He was tall, handsome, and athletic, and his handsome cheeks were flushed with exercise. He made a trumpet of his hands, and hallooed, long and clear:

"Her—a—a—ine!"

"Then, he whistled through his fist, till the woods and water rang.

"Where the deuce is the dear girl! he [illegible]

"Why, do you place no [illegible]

"Come, you have been brave, and must not fail now. Have you no kind greeting for Heraine?

"Down in the abyss, swaying and rocking upon the pine bough, with the frank smile as when I murdered him, I saw my victim in fancy.

"'Speak, Luke,' she repeated. 'I have a dear friend here; he has made the long pilgrimage with me, fondly anticipating this meeting. You will know him to-day, and I am sure you will love him.'

"Still surging upon mist, and spray, and bough, with the halo of the rainbow shimmering above it, the noble face turned upward forgivingly.

"'We have planned for your happiness, dear friend. Compared to the retreat we have fashioned for you, Glengoyle is a Babel. But you are ill, Luke! What terrible allurement lies in the waterfall? Come away from the brink! Ralph! Ralph!'

"She called in clear tones. The woods and waters answered back.

"'He is there,' I stammered, 'down—deep—dead—do you see him?—how he smiles and surges on the tufts of the pines? I—thrust him over—in rage—even as he gave me his hand—I slew him!'

"'Merciful God!' she whispered, in horror, 'he was my husband.'

"The rainbow dissolved; the waterfall deluged the valley; the mountains were covered with waves, the skies grew pitchy dark; I say nothing more.

* * * * * *

"My sensations upon waking were those of a diver who has risen from the tranquil depths to the surface. Hubbub recommenced; horror returned. My hair was shaven close to my skull; my head ached dismally; I moved my hand with an effort, and my eyelids were so weak that I could not unseal them for a time.

"I was lying in my old chamber at Glengoyle, and Heraine was sitting at my bedside. Her garments were sable, her brown hair thin, her face placid, as of yore, but marked by deep-seated grief, and the magnetism of will and courage was gone from it. To the eye she was the same; to the mind, a weak and broken thing. Crime had changed both our natures; she had been tutress and governess before, and I the passive, submissive creature; but sin had made me bold, and sorrow worn her to a woman.

"'Luke,' she said, in the same lullaby-tone, 'do you know me? do you recognize the place? are you still weak?'

"'Heraine,' said I, sternly, 'do not the wrongs we have done each other forbid this intimacy?'

"'O! Luke,' she replied, 'let us not uncover the past. I have buried your sin with its victim, and watched you through weary months, and prayed God to pardon you.'

"'Can God pardon your sin to me, Heraine?'

I trust so, Luke,' she said, feebly, 'if ever in my life I treasured you a hard thought, or did you an injury.'

"'Is it no injury,' I said, 'to have lured me by a false promise from my quiet home? I have endured the torture of cities, seas, suns, and storms. Your pledge was my spur and talisman through all. But you had cheated me with a lie. You were another's already. For you I have stained my hands with blood, and shut heaven against my soul.'

"'As I have an account to settle, Luke,' she pleaded, 'I meant your happiness only. To have told you that I was wedded, would have pained you.' I thought to familiarize you with scenes and sounds, by making my regard an incentive to adventure. It was your mother's plan. I yielded to the deception, and believed it good.'

"It was a wicked falsehood,' I said; 'you knew the weakness of my nature—that my sensitiveness was a disease—that to cross me was to kill. You have made both of us wretched forever.'

"My cruelty was murdering her; her face grew deathly ill its pallor, and she pressed her hands upon her heart.

"'Let the dead man lie between us,' I proceeded; 'it is not seemly for you to be my friend; and to me you are an ever-present accusation. We must not see each other!'

"O Luke!' she cried, falling upon her knees, imploringly; 'I am a bruised thing, aweary of the world. This alienation and darkness are endeared to me. Do not send me away!'

"'You agitate me,' I said; 'let us do our penance, each, in loneliness. There was a time when our sorrows were mutual; it is past; we have only to say farewell.'

"I covered my face with my hands; she touched my brow with her lips, and when the door had closed upon her sobbing, I heard her footfalls making mournful music on the stairs. They rang upon the lawn, then pattered down the drive, they passed desolately out of the gate; they were lost on the highway, and then the world became blank again."

* * * * * * *

"Luke," said my mother timidly, "Mrs. [illegible]

"I know it," said I quietly.

She seemed surprised, and interrogated me with her eyes.

"She died at twilight yesterday," I stated, "as the first candles were lit in the lodge and the earliest star appeared—I heard her footsteps."

"At that time she passed away," sobbed my mother. "O, Luke! you were cruel to the poor girl. Her parting prayer was for you. To the last you stood between Heraine and Heaven."

"At that time, mother, I was sitting in my window. Tears and thrills haunted me during the afternoon, and I was frightened in the silence and darkness. And I heard Heraine's footsteps come up the road, pass the lodge, ascend the stairs, cross my threshold. They were like echoes rather than sounds—hollow and ghostly; and mingled with them were the deeper footfalls of that other spectre, her husband."

"I could not inhabit my chamber now. These awful sounds drove me into the open world, where I hoped to lose them in the tread of multitudes. I wandered to the old church on the day of the funeral and looked upon the bier with dry and burning eyes. The pastor read of the holy Jerusalem, and said that her pure feet were walking the golden streets; but in the hushes of the sobbing I heard them close beside me, and while children were strewing her grave with flowers; they followed me over the stile, and through the village, till I gained the fields and took to my heels in fright.

"I sought the resort of crowds and lived among turbulences. In busy hours I baffled my pursuers, but in the dark midnights when only the miserable walked, I suffered the agonies of remorse and penance. The ever-flowing stream of life on London Bridge became my solace. My apartments are here, and I sit continually at an open window, leaning far forward to catch the thunder of the tramp. I know the footfalls as of old. I see the suicide pace to and fro to nerve herself for the deed. I hear her sleek betrayer and detect their wretched offspring, as he first essays to filch a handkerchief or a purse. Oh the footfalls! the footfalls! Each tread marks a good or a wicked thought. A fiend or an angel starts beneath every heel. They write an eternal record as they go. Their voices forever float to witness against or for us. We people space as we cleave it. The ground that is dumb as we spurn it, has a memory and a revenge. I am more sensitive than my kind; and my penance to these monitors of my sin, is but a realization of the terror which all must feel at the accusation of their footfalls."

The New City of Oil.

Oleopolis is on the Allegheny river, and destined to become an important depot of transportation. It owes its importance to a simple scheme of transporting oil from Pithole by means of a pipe. The idea originated with Col. Thos. H. Rutter, of Rochester, N. Y., and was suggested, as he told us, by the falling waters of the creek, which runs from Pithole City into the river. "Give it a chance," said he, "and the oil will transport itself." He went home, organized a company, and procured a special charter from the Pennsylvania legislature, and has already completed two and a half of the six-miles undertaken. The pipe is six inches in diameter, and laid in a tunnel excavated at an inclined plane, and the tunnel again filled up. It is as simple as that, and yet it will be the means of saving thousands of dollars. It can be adjusted to the tanks of the wells at Pithole, and will carry five thousand barrels of oil a day into tanks at Oleopolis, to be transported on the Allegheny to Pittsburg. The capital stock of the company is $300,000, which on the completion of the undertaking will be more valuable than stock it oil wells. When it is considered that the cost of transportation by wagon from Pithole to Titusville is $3 per barrel, that a wagon can make only one trip a day, and carry not more than five barrels each trip, the feasibility of the undertaking will be appreciated and its success hardly doubted.

A FIGHT WITH A SHARK.—Last week one of the navvies employed on the Brenedown works, near Weston-super-Mare, was looking over the "tip," when he espied a large fish close on the hingles at the foot of the rocks. With all speed he made his way to the spot, and the fish remained within arm's length of the edge of the water. The man thinking he could pull it ashore, laid hold of its tail, but soon found it had more power in its native element than he gave him credit for, and with a flap of its fins it pulled him knee deep into the water, and, moreover, turned upon him, showing a pair of huge jaws armed with three rows of teeth, which he savagely snapped at him. The navvy, however, was not to be scared so readily. Holding on by the tail of the creature, he sang out lustily to some of his comrades, and three others went to help to land the strange and really formidable fish. It was fortunate for the man that it did not succeed in biting him, for the fish was nothing less than a shark, from five to six feet in length, and an arm or a leg would not be worth much if once fairly within the reach of its jaws. The first man who arrived at the spot seized hold of the dorsal fin. The monster now became more violent, and pulled the two men further into the brine, and it was not until a third rendered assistance that they succeeded in dragging the fish ashore. The final struggle was fierce and exciting. The shark, finding that it could not bite the men, snapped at everything within its reach. Catching hold of a large pebble, it ground at it savagely, leaving the marks of its teeth in the solid stones, and breaking them with the violence of the effort.—London Express.

—ONLY A SOLDIER.—A little paper published at the Alexandria Hospital called The Cripple, has the following lines on a dead soldier:

Only a soldier,
Gone to his rest,
With the dear banner
Wrapped round his breast

Only a private,
Left the stern ways,
For a promotion
'Mongst the bright stars.

FELL FOUR THOUSAND FEET.—A terrible accident occurred July 13th, to a party of English tourists at Monte Croni on the Alps. They had mounted a peak never before climbed by man, and were descending by a rope fastened at the top, when one of them fell with such force as to break the rope in the centre, and four—Lord Francis Douglas Charles Hudson, Edward Whymper and Michael Cruz—members of the London Alpine Club, were hurled over a precipice, bounding four thousand feet from rock to rock. They were, of course, crushed into undistinguishable masses.

Laugh and Grow Fatilities.

—A certain Irish attorney threatened to prosecute a Dublin printer for inserting the death of a living person. The menace concluded with the remark that "no printer should publish a death unless informed of the fact by the party deceased."

A REASON.—Some one asking Mr. Curran why a countryman of his walked about London with his tongue out of his mouth, he said that he "supposed he did so in hopes to catch the English accent."

—Two centuries ago, not one in a hundred wore stockings. Fifty years ago, not one boy in a thousand was allowed to run at large at night. Fifty years ago, not one girl in a thousand made a waiting-maid of her mother. Wonderful improvement in this age.

—Patrick O'Flaherty said that his wife was very ungrateful, "for when I married her, she hadn't a rag on her back, and now she is covered with 'em.

—A little girl, showing her little cousin about four years old, a star, said:

"No it ain't" said she.

"Yes it is."

"Then why don't it keep the rain off?"

DEAN SWIFT'S RECIPIT FOR COURTSHIP.

Two or three dears and two or three sweets,
Two or three balls and two or three treats,
Two or three sweetmeats gilgo as a lure,
Two or three oaths how much to endure,
Two or three messages sent in one day,
Two or three times led out from the play,
Two or three tickets for two or three times,
Two or three love letters writ all in rhymes,
Two or three months keeping strict to these rules,
Can never fail making a couple of fools.

—An Irishman was indicted at the assizes at Tralee for felony. His innocence was clearly proved, but notwithstanding that the jury found him guilty. The judge was shocked, and said:

"Gentlemen, the prisoner's innocence was clearly proved."

"Yes," said the foreman, "he is innocent of the crime now charged against him, but he stole my gray mare last Christmas."

—A very loquacious lady offered to bet her husband five pounds that she would not speak a word for a week. "Done," cried the delighted husband, instantly putting down his money, which the lady as quickly took up and put in her pocket, observing naively that she would secure it until the bet was decided. "Why," said the husband, "I've won it already," and required her to fork over. "Not at all," said the lady, "you are mistaken in the time; I mean the week after I am buried." The lady went shopping the same afternoon.

If wine is poison, so is tea—
Only in another shape;
What matter whether one is killed
By canister or grape?

—It has been satisfactorily ascertained that ducks enter the water for divers reasons and come out for swa-dry motives.

—A darkey's instructions for putting on a coat were: "Fust-de right arm, den de left, den give one general convulsion."

—At a hotel one day, a boarder remarked to his neighbor, "This must be a healthy place for chickens." "Why," asked the other. "Because I never see any dead ones hereabout."

—"Why Bridget," said a lady who wished to rally her servant girl for the amusement of the company on the fantastic ornamentation of a huge pie, "did you do this? you are quite an artist; pray how did you do it?" "Indade mum, I did it meself—ain't it pretty? I did it with your old false teeth, mum."

Now that is a word that may often be joined,
For that that may be doubted, is clear to the mind;
And that that that is right is as plain to the view,
As that that that we use is rightly used too;
And that that that that that line has, is right—
In accordance with grammar, is plain to our sight.

—A wide-awake minister, who found his congregation going to sleep one morning before he had fairly commenced, after preaching a few minutes, suddenly stopped and exclaimed: "Brethren, this isn't fair; it isn't giving a man half a chance. Wait till I get along a piece, and then if I ain't worth listening to, go to sleep; but don't do it before I get commenced; give a man a chance."

—"Won't that boa constrictor bite me?" said a little boy to a showman.

"No my boy, he never bites—he swallows his wittles whole."

—"What is the use of the eclipse?" asked a young lady.

"Oh! it gives the sun time for reflection," replied a wag.

—A little girl said: "Mother is Tom a good cat?"

"Yes."

"We'll, he'll go to heaven, won't he?"

"I suppose so, but if you're not a better girl, you'll never go there."

"Oh!" said the little girl, "I'll hold on to Tom's tail."

—The papers state that somebody has been chipping pieces off the monumental bust of Bunyan. What of it? Destroying a bunion must of course, be a great help to the pilgrim's progress!

—"Sam are you one of the Southern chivalry?" "No, massa, I's one ob de Southern shoevelry, I shoveled dirt at the Dutch Gap Canal."

—An ill looking fellow was asked how he could account for nature's forming him so ugly. "Nature was not to blame," said he, "for when I was three years old, I was considered the handsomest child in the neighborhood, but my nurse, to revenge herself on my parents for some fancied injury at their hands, one day swapped me away for another child belonging to a friend of hers, whose baby was rather plain looking."

—What conundrums are always at home? Those that are never found out.

—"I say Tom, isn't it lucky that fellow's eyes are crooked?"

"Why so?"

"Because if they were a match, his red nose would set them on fire."

—"Come to Ameriky," writes a son of the Emerald Isle to his friend in Ireland: "Tis a fine country to get a living in. All ye have to do is to get a three-cornered box and fill it wid brick and thin carry it up to the top of a four story building, and the man at the top does all the work."

—Why is it impossible for a person who lisps to believe in the existence of young ladies? Because he takes every Miss to be a Myth.

—"I don't miss my church so much as you may suppose," said a lady to her minister, who called upon her during her illness, "for I make Betsy sit at the window as soon as the bell begins to chime, and she tells me who are going to church, and whether they have got anything new."

—John H. Surratt, one of the assassins of President Lincoln, when last heard of, was at a monastary in Canada.

—Barnum, while traveling on board one of our river steamers where they feed you for a moderate outlay, (seventy-five cents a meal) very sumptuously, but the portions supplied are usually of microscopic dimensions, called for a beef steak at tea time. The waiter brought him the usual little shriveled mite of broiled flesh, certainly not more than enough for two mouthfuls. Barnum poised the morsel on a fork, "scanned it critically as though it were a sample of steak subjected to his inspection, and then returned it to the waiter, saying, "Yes, that is what I mean—bring me some of that."

—A shoemaker was the other day fitting a customer with a pair of boots, when the buyer observed that he had only one fault to find with them, and that was that the soles were too thick. "If that is all," replied Crispin, "put on the boots, and the objection will gradually wear away!"

—An important adjunct of the Naval School—a monitor.

AGRICULTURAL.

A STRAWBERRY grower in Michigan netted five hundred dollars from one acre.

GEORGE RUSSAT, of Girard, Mich., raises onions and "sets" at the rate of 500 bushels to the acre.

STAINS ON SILK.—Stains produced by lemon juice, vinegar, oil of vitriol or other sharp corrosives, may be removed by mixing a little pearlash with soap lather, and passing the silk through it.

THE hop crop in Wisconsin is unprecedented. A very low estimate places its value at two million dollars. In the vicinity of Kilbourn City, $750,000 worth have already been contracted for.

TO MAKE CALICOS WASH WELL.—Infuse three gills of salt in four quarts of boiling water; put the calicoes in while hot, and leave them standing till cold. In this way colors are rendered permanent.

You may go round and watch the opening bud from day to day; but it takes its own time, and you cannot urge it on faster than it will. All the best results of a garden, like those of life, are slowly but regularly progressive.

THE peach was originally a poisonous almond. Its fleshy parts were used to poison arrows, and for this introduced into Persia. The transplantation and cultivation, however, not only removed its poisonous qualities, but produced the delicious fruit that we now enjoy.

NICE EATING.—In South Africa there is a snake called the Python, which is sometimes found twenty feet long and as large as a man's leg. They feed on young animals, crushing their bones and then swallowing them. They do not bite, and the Bushmen shoot them when found, cut them up, and carry the pieces home on their shoulders, roast and eat them with as much relish as they would a leg of mutton.

NEW USE FOR CATERPILLARS.—Workers in iron, when they wish to weld a joint use borax as a flux. An intelligent gentleman of this city, who is curious in facts of natural history, says that on one occasion, a blacksmith near his residence having no borax, a man hanging round the shop told him he could get a substitute, and brought him a number of caterpillars, which being applied to the heated iron, produced as firm an adhesion of the metals as the borax.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

FRUITING VINES.—At the New York Farmers' Club, Solon Robinson read a letter from a man saying that he finds it impossible to get his Hubbard squash vines to produce more than one squash to the hill, though he has tried pinching off the laterals, and other plans. Mr. Pardee replied that his course was very simple and plain. He had merely to pinch off the leader a few inches from the hill and let the laterals grow. This is the proper treatment also for melon vines.

SHADE TREES.—Plant them by the roadside, plant them in the yard around the house. If you anticipate building in the future, select your site and plant trees around it, groups of evergreens and a variety of deciduous trees. You thus make a homestead attractive, and add very much to the value of your farm if you ever want to sell. You cannot do too much of the work—draw on the nurseries and forests, collect and plant seeds, and grow some to give away to your neighbors who will not buy.

TURKEYS.—We have noticed a number of well authenticated cases where the hen turkey has killed and devoured her young. The instances occurred where the turkey was confined in a coop, pen or yard, and was unable to get animal food in the shape of insects, worms, etc. Turkeys have a voracious for animal food, and should be kept supplied with it, particularly where it is necessary to keep them confined. Chickens are sometimes said to pick the feathers off each other's necks, to get the blood contained in the end of the quill. A little animal food will prevent this.

A CALCULATING HEN.—The Canton, Mo. Press is responsible for the following: A few days ago, a hen was found in a neighboring barn incubating on a nest of five eggs. Considering that too small an undertaking for a full grown hen, the owner removed these, and placed thirteen fresh eggs in the nest. On examination soon after, it was discovered that old biddy had deliberately rolled out eight, thus refusing to cover more than the original number. Four times the experiment was repeated with a similar result, and the obstinate hen was finally left to her select number, thus furnishing evidence not only of reasoning powers, but of true feminine spunk.

A GOOD BEEFSTEAK.—There is an appropriate thickness for a steak, and we do not remember to have seen that reached with any one served from a public table. Let the steak be cut at from one to one and a half inches thick, and the superficies reduced three fourths, so that it will not fill a large dish, but will just be accommodated in a small one. The juices and nutriment of the steak are thus preserved and it is fit to eat which it never is under the present barbarous mode practised in our hotels and eating houses. Never put butter on a steak; avoid as a pestilence the nasty greases which form the basis of vulgar cookery.

WHAT MAKES A BUSHEL.—The following table of the number of pounds to a bushel of different articles, may be of interest to our readers:

Wheat sixty pounds; corn shelled, fifty-six pounds; corn on the

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best filled Establishments!

Most Varied

STOCK OF GOODS

Is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEWBUILDING,

South Side Chicago St, Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various tyles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notice by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pictures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to make room for other Goods. Better bargain can be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county. Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass, Window Sashes,

House Trimmings,

Carpenters Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deuel & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO,
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK, LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything
that anybody or his
brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

As all our neighbors know

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just recd p York and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hood's, north side of Chicago street.

DISSOLUTION.

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

M. S. & N. I. Rail Rad.

Winter Arrangement.

1864. 1864.

On and after May 16th, 1864, Passenger trains will leave Tecumseh station as follows, daily except Sunday:

GOING EAST.

Leave 7.08 a. m., arrive at Adrian 8.00 Toledo, 9.15 a. m. Leave 1.06 p. m. arrive at Adrian 1.40, Toledo 3.45 p. m.

Both trains connecting at Toledo with trains for the east.

Trains leave Adrian for Chicago, 5.50 a. m. and 2.05 p. m. Leave Adrian for Hillsdale 6.15 p. m. Leave Adrian for Detroit 8.00 a. m and 2.40 p. m.

GOING WEST.

Leave 9.32 a. m. arrive at Jackson, 11.00 a. m. Leave 6.40 p. m. arrive at Jackson 9.00 p. m.

For full details see the Company's Posters and Time Tables at the Depot and other public places.

Trains are run by Chicago time, which is twenty minutes slower than Toledo or Detroit time.

O. F. LELAND, Gen'l Passenger Agt. Toledo.
H. H. PORTER, Gen'l Sup't. Toledo.

☞ Now is the time to subscribe and pay for the Tecumseh HERALD.

---

18 Pronunciemento. 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour suit.

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd est Red Wheat Four,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Midlings, R. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. w. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER.

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE,

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sat.

IN

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL,

Corn In the Ear and Shelled.

A good assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage, Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm HAYDEN

WARD & STICKLAND,

Are now Receiving a large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, so connected, braced, and firmly together edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break like the single Springs. And consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowds, assemblies, Operas, Churches, Railroad cars, Carriages, Arm chairs, Pianos, dances and house drags, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a soft muslin dress.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure of the great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterwards willingly dispense with its use. For children, Misses and young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with Cloth or Braid, Tape and will wear twice as long as the Single Spring covered with Cloth or Braid. Single Steel Hoop Skirts (Thread Braid, cloth covered) $1.25 each. Duplex Steel Spring and the other hoops covered in the same manner, of the same materials and of the same quality as those in the Single Spring Skirts, &c., &c., which they are now manufacturing, to wit:

They are made of the new and elegant corded tapes and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape, therefore and are recommended as the cheapest and most desirable article in the market.

Warren Prescott & Co., Proprietors of the Leverett Spring Skirt Manufactories, 81 Chambers and 79 & 81 Reade Streets, New York.

For Sale in and first class Stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada, Havanna, de Cuba, Mexico, South America, and the West Indies.

☞ Inquire for the Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

Old and young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,

SOLE PROPRIETORS,

NEW YORK.

HALF THE ITCHING—NO SCRATCHING—ONLY HALF THE MONEY!

Citron Balsam will cure the Itch or Army Scratches in one or two applications; also cures all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Ulcers, Old Sores, Gangrene and Rheumatism. It contains no Mercury, and is safe to use at any time. Only 25 cents a bottle.

OLIVER CROOK & CO., Dayton O.
Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Fisher & Baker, Tecumseh, Mich.

D. NOTEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases, will visit Tecumseh the

1st & 2d of Every Month,

for Consultation with patients. Cancers and Scrofulous Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Incipient Consumption cured in three to five months. Liver Complaint, Dispepsia, and Constipation cured in 2 to 4 months. Piles rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs, yield readily to his treatment. Prolepsus Uteri he is master of. Charges reasonable according to ability to pay; the really poor will be treated gratis. He will be at Comstock & Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence on Building Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars (See Circulars.

To the Ladies & Gentlemen of Tecumseh,

The undersigned having fitted up rooms expressly for the sale of

Ice Cream, Lemonade, Soda Water &c.

Will be happy at all times to wait upon you. Rooms over Wishart's Crockery Store. Open day and evening.—June 15th, 1865.

J. S. WALTERS.

Corporation Notice

The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BURRINGS, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c, at

A. JAMES

Advantages of this Plow.

It will last from three to six times longer than any other Steel Plow made anywhere in any country. This has often been repeatedly actual use in "grits" (as occasionally to be found on the fine farms of Massachusetts), in which instances these Plows have been repeatedly bent, through to double, and yet, some of them, by hammering and pounding over them, hundreds of times, have been kept in use for years, and are now as good as new.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed. If there be any of second, anywhere in which to try, we will not claim, we have yet to find it.

It draws lighter than any other Plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, or a blacksmith who understands his trade, as the steel is perfectly malleable, and works readily.

Any section can be replaced by a blacksmith, to be had of any Agent, in the Share, Landside and Mouldboards are cast to models.

It is well stocked with New England second-growth timber, and the standard is wrought iron, with "ears" in the cap so as to give of take land at pleasure.

It plows at any depth, from three to three inches, works perfectly in either stubble or sward, heavy or light forows, and turns under stubble and foul weeds completely.

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the world, and as sure as there is economy in paying sixty dollars cash, rather than five dollars five or six times over; — in not losing time and your temper because your Plow won't "scour" or "run" in heavy spots or some fifty times work, with the same money, the quality and quantity of work will induce the purchaser to invest in a Plow that will pass for the remaining whether or not the Plow is cheap. Farmers are used to pay, and the use of solid cash more dollars cash for a Plow, in proportion to the cost of the article, as compared with other articles, than the cheapest dollars' worth of "Plow" we now and to give one of these.

These remarks are made after a familiarity with the merits of most of the good Plows in the West, many of which have justly earned good reputation.

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for sandy and foul ground, and for those who have heretofore been induced to purchase a Plow for each, hard and stubble. The "B" will perform together with equal ease, to have to change Plows. Call and see them, and be convinced that we do not claim too much for them, when we say they are the best in the market.

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Sherman, Tecumseh.

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the actual formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OUR—

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gold label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,
No. 21 River Street Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the Brick Shop on Railroad Street, Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BOGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

ROBACK'S GOLD CATAWBA BRANDY

made from the PURE JUICE OF CATAWBA GRAPES, which is grown in abundance in Ohio and from which this article is obtained—it has an agreeable flavor, fine clear color, and possesses all the qualities for medicinal purposes, and for a beverage of the best imported brandies. As a flavoring for mince pies and other cooking purposes it is the best economical article that can be used, being one half a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found rapid sales, and is daily gaining in popularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and dealers generally, throughout the West.

C. W. ROBACK, Proprietor,
56, 58, 60 and 62 East Third Street.

Last Call.

I would say to all those having unsettled accounts with the late firm of A. James & Co., if you do not call and make some arrangement for the settlement of your accounts I shall have to put them into the hands of an officer for collection.

Tecumseh, April 4, '65. A. JAMES.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young America. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days. I

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap, Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool.

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware

EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
CHINA,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands. Also a splendid assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions,

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD.

GIVE HIM A CALL.

TO THE RETAIL TRADE.

The present high prices have induced all kinds of experiments, and every kind of substance has been tried as a substitute for Coffee. The vilest trash, under Showy and Taking names, has been thrust upon the public. Bogus and Spurious Coffees, whose chief merit is found in their Labels and Wrappers, have proved alike injurious to the consumer, as also to the retailer. These Villainous Compounds have about had their day, and the public taste is fast returning to its first love, and nothing less than a Good, Fragrant and Wholesome Cup of Coffee can prove Satisfactory.

There is a great and increasing demand for Good Coffee, and our design is to supply this demand.

THE JAVA COFFEE MILLS

Prepare choice Grades of Ground Coffees of Uniform Standard and Quality. Specially for the Retail Trade, and will be every way reliable, and cannot fail upon trial to prove acceptable. If not, it can be returned and the money refunded. Our Ground Spices, Mustar, Cream Tartar, Baking Soda and Saleratus, put up at the Java Mills will be found Superior to any other in the Market. Orders for our Ground Goods and Groceries will be promptly filled at the lowest market price.

For sale in Tecumseh by A. James, Ward & Strickland, C. Lawrence, B. J. Bidwell, P. N. Curtis, Fisher & Baker, Ketcham & Conkling; at Clinton, by John Smith & Son, Rose & Webster, Clark & Freeze, Seth Case, John Bush.

ARCULARIUS, BONNETT & Co., Proprietors and Wholesale Grocers, No 52, Vesey Street, New York

---

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Conterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND

NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday the 23d day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Anna Dibble, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of John Chever administrator, of said estate, praying that his final account with said estate may be allowed and that distribution of said estate may be made to those entitled to the same and that he may be discharged.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 16th day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating n said county of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate
(A true copy) n766w6

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 28th day of July in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Oliver B. Taylor, administrator of said estate praying that he may be licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased to pay the debts of said deceased and expenses of administration.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday the 18th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted;

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.) 766-w6.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday, the 30th day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of John Culbertson deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of John E. Culbertson a son of said deceased, praying that the last will of said deceased may be proved and allowed and that Robert Culbertson may be appointed executor thereof.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 18th day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner . . . should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the said Petitioner . . . give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petion, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be publised in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ROBERT R BEECHER,
(A true Copy) n759 Judge of Probate.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

If you are in want of anything in the Meat line be sure and give him a call. n75

DENTISTRY

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices

---

F. R. Stebbins,

Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Rose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 19. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN. THURSDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 28 1865. WHOLE NO. 773.

B. J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

CONSISTING OF

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICH.

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n703 A. JAMES.

JUST ARRIVED!

And yet to come

1000 CASES!

MENS, BOYS and YOUTHS BOOTS, and LADIES, MISSES, and CHILDREN SHOES.

Those goods were all bought before the present Panic for High Prices' and will be

SOLD LOWER

Than the same goods can be bought to-day. N.B. Persons in search of "Shoddy" are respectfully informed that I keep only the very best goods and

WARRANT ALL GOODS,

As represented.
Particular attention is called to my Stock of HAND MADE,

BOYS BOOTS

Brought direct from the manufactures; every pair warranted.

MENS, LADIES, MISSES and CHILDRENS RUBBERS In great abundence.

The shop in charge of an experienced foreman is turning out piles of work, and every person that leaves a measure gets

PARTICULAR FITS.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine.

Shoe Pacs,

A new water-proof Boot for Farmers, Lumber-men and Hunters. Laces and Tassels in a variety of colors.

E. H. HOAG.

COPARTNERSHIP!

The undersigned having hormed a Copartnership under the name of

A. Hood & Co-

Are now receiving at the Old Stand of A. Hood, Anderson's Block,

A LARGE STOCK

—OF—

NEW GOODS

Direct from New York consisting of

Ready Made Clothing!

A splended assortment of THE LATEST STYLES of cloths that could be found in the Eastern markets, Consisting of

BROAD CLOTHS, DOESKINS, FRENCH, SCOTCH and ENGLISH CASSIMERES, COATINGS, VESTINGS, OVER COATINGS, &c. Also a heavy

STOCK OF WOOLEN SHIRTS

Of all styles, UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, SUSPENDERS, GLOVES, HOSIERY.

A nice assortment of

HATS & CAPS!

Vanishing Goods!

Of all kinds for mens wear, We mean to keep on hand as good a selection of goods in our line as can be found in any one establishment in the County, and for CASH we will sell them as low, or a little lower than any other establishment in the County.

Our Tailoring Department is in full blast, We are prepared to get up Suits on SHORT NOTICE in as GOOD STYLE, and at as low figures as any other establishment.

CUTTING DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

H. M. GRAY. A. HOOD.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to Robbins & Blackman)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER.
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

—o—

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

han any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

—o—

CASH FOR RAGS!

—o—

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER, NEWS DEALER, AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,
JUVENILES,
Bibles and Testaments,
Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Muic,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

ATTENTION LADIES.

NEW MILLINERY GOODS.

—o—

Mrs L. WILBUR, would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that she has just purchased the largest and best assortment of Millinery Goods ever brought to this place. She intends to keep a largg stock of

BONNETS, RIBBONS, FLOWERS, LACES, HATS, HEAD DRESES, PLUMES FEATHERS, and

in fact everything to be found in the Millinery line constantly on hand. Particular attention paid to Bleaching and Repairing straws. Be sure to call. Shop in rooms formerly occupied by Mrs. O. McCoy.

Mrs. L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Sept. 14th, 1865.

Administrator's Sale.

Estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased: Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, Michigan, made in said estate, on the 18th day of September, 1865, empowering and licensing me thereto, I shall on the 4th day of November, 1865, at the premises hereinafter described in the village of Tecumseh in said county, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, sell at public vendue, the interest said deceased died seized in and to the undivided one third of all that certain tract or parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh Michigan known bounded and described as follows, viz: Commencing at a point in the north side of Chicago street, in said village forty-one and one half feet east of the east line of Evans Street measuring from intersection thereof by said north line of Chicago street running thence east on said north line of Chicago street fourteen feet, thence north at right angles with Chicago street eighty-nine feet, thence west parallel with Chicago street, fourteen feet and thence south at right angles with Chicago Street eighty-nine feet to the place of beginning with the privilege of an alley ten feet wide adjoining the north end of the above described land—subject to its share of the incumbrance of fifteen hundred dollars in a mortgage upon the undivided premises made by Wooster Taylor, Oliver B. Taylor and said deceased to John S. Strong bearing date on or about March 23d 1864 with interest from said date.—Terms published on day of sale.

Tecumseh, Mich. Sept 19th 1865.

OLIVER B. TAYLOR,
Admistrator of said estate.

Stray Colt.

Taken up by the Subscriber within the last ten days, a black mare colt, about three years old, thirteen hands high. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take her away.—Macon, Lenawee Co., Mich. June 14th, 1865.

CHARLES M. BAKER.

☞ Now is an excellent and fitting opportunity for subscribing for the HERALD.

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight,	7:08 A. M
Mail and Express,	1:00 P. M.

GOING NORTH.

Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD,
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND, &c.
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING,
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilets, &c.
Chicao St. Tecumseh, Mich.

F. N. CURTIS,
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD,
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER,
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY.
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM,
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. R. PALMER, Attorney at Law. and Notary Public, Lake Ridge, M
Particular attention paid to collections in any part of Michigan. Is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 50	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12 00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10 00	14.00
¼ Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12 00	18.00
½ Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted one year $5.00 per year.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

To Our Friends.

You will confer a favor on us by soliciting the Judge of Probate to publish Probate Notices in the HERALD, and you will also find it convenience to your selves to have the advertisements in the paper you receive.

Auction.

Calvin Lewis will sell at Auction at his residence in Cambridge on the 3d of October a very valuable lot of property.

☞ Dr. Curtis has gone to New York to buy goods. When he gets back you may look out for a splended stock of Wall Paper, Cutlery School Books and everything else usually kept in a Drug & Grocery Store.

☞ Gray's moulded collars, are acknowledged by all parties to be the best collar made. Ketcham has just received a full assortment of them, he also has a full assortment of the celebrated "Bigelow" enameled turn down, and garrote collars. His ladies collars and cuffs are the best and cheapest ever offered in this place.

☞ Rev. Mr. Burnham has been assigned to the Methodist Church here, in place of Rev. D. C. Wright, who, we understand, intends retiring from the ministry, at least for a time. Mr. Burnham was at Manchester last year and for the two years previous he preached at Hudson in this county. He commences his duties here next Sabbath.

☞ Rev. J. Wainwright Ray delivered a lecture last Sunday evening at the Episcopal Church upon Fairs, their uses and abuses. The lecture was of more than usual interest and was very highly spoken of by those who listened to it. Mr. Ray repeats the lecture next Friday evening at Ridgeway.

☞ We clip the following from the Jackson Citizen:—A short time since, a former merchant of the neighboring town of Tecumseh, obtained goods to the amount of $274, from the store of W. M. Bennett, under false pretences. The matter was placed in the hands of officer Hines, who arrested the individual at Adrian. He is now in jail. The officer would not give us the offenders name.

Died,

At her residence in Tecumseh Lenawee Co., on Sunday evening, September 24th, Mrs. Caroline W. Steele, Daughter of the late Steven Vernam, aged 54 years and 6 months

At the residence of her father, Guy Rankin, in Dundee on the 18th inst., Mrs. Helen, wife of Rev J. S. McKinley, aged 28 years. Appropriate services were conducted by Rev. Peter Sharp and her coarse was interred in the Ridgeway Cemetery beside her mother who had died but a few days before.

☞ There is to be a Musical Festival or Fair of the State of Michigan held at Tecumseh, in October next, for the purpose of testing the Musical talent of this State.—Singers and players, from different localities are expected and invited to attend.—There will be premiums awarded to the best Singers, and to those that do the best execution on Pianos, Organs and Melodians. Judges will be chosen, and ample notice of the time will be given. State Papers please copy.

A Good Business.

The Climax Ins. Co. of detroit, in which over one hundred and fifty of our townsmen are insured; insured within the city limits of Detroit alone during the past month over $125,000 of property. One agent did the whole business. This company has now over $3,225,000 worth of property insured. The people of Michigan are beginning to see that they can insure themselves as safe, with half the expense of insuring in eastern companies.

☞ The September term of the Circuit Court opened on Tuesday. The following is the criminal calendar; James P. Pennock, murder; Geo. Smith, larceny; John French, burglary and larceny; Geo. Claflin, adultery; Geo. Elliott, compound larceny; Thaddeus H. Humphrey, bigamy; Joseph A. Springsted, robbery; Wm. Vroeman, assault and battery: Frank Cullin, compound larceny; Chas. Hess, bastardy: John Brown, Jr., alias Elisha Wilcox, burglary; Chas. McGaughy, larceny, Chas. Young, robbery; Wm. Andrews and Frank Burt, felonious assault, Jacob Jennings and Dennis Daily, robbery, Joseph Johnson, compound larceny: Henry A. Burt, larceny,

Notice is hereby given, that for the purpose of making an examination of all persons who may offer themselves as candidates for teachers of the primary schools of this township, the Board of School Inspectors thereof will meet at the school house in school district no. 6 (one mile west of town house) on Saturday, Oct. 7th, at 10 o'clock P.

Raisin Township, Sept 26th, 1865. Woolston Comfort, Town Clerk.

The State Fair.

The State Fair at Adrian last week was a perfect success. The receipts being some $2000 more than any previous Fair ever held in the state and exceeding by considerable the receipts of the New York and Ohio State Fair for the present year. The arrangements were complete, the weather was splended and the sturdy yeomanry of Michigan turned out en masse. Lenawee has done nobly. The "Southern tier" gave fully sustained their reputation of being second to none in the State. The Fair was as complete in all its departments as any we ever had the pleasure of attending. Every Division and every class had its full share of entries, and something of superior merit.—The show of cattle, sheep and mechanical and farming tools was unusually large, while the Floral, fruit, dairy, and domestic Department were well represented. The trotting racing and ladies riding was excellent. But we have no space or inclination to particularize, as ninety-nine hundreths of our readers undoubtedly attended the Fair and saw the show for themselves. We noticed a fine herd of cattle on exhibition owned by Edwin Smith of Clinton, and some excellent sheep and hogs exhibited by B. J. Bidwell. Mrs Bissell had a fine collection of photographs and ambrotypes in Floral Hall, and her card photographs, we are happy to state, received the first prize. We shall publish that portion of the premium list in which our readers will be interested as soon as it appears Lenawee has done so well that we think she is fairly entitled to the Fair another year.

Thief Caught,

About the first of this month a gentleman arrived in town representing himself to be a prominent horseman from Chicago by the name of Snell, scraped acquaintance with the Livery men here, and made himself quite at home generally. In a day or two he hired a horse to go to Ridgeway, but instead of traveling in that direction he started for Petersburg, with another horse also, which he had previously hired at Adrian.—Officers were immediately put upon his track, and he was overhauled at Petersburg and brought before Esquire Hewitt to undergo examination. He insisted however that the thing was all right, and asked an adjournment of two or three days to procure witnesses. His request was granted, and accompanied by Constable Niblack he proceeded to Dundee, when he gave Niblack the slip, and nothing was heard of him until Monday last, when Niblack, who was in Adrian happened to spy him upon the street and "nabbed" him. The man Snell was again brought before Mr. Hewitt, and after an examination was turned over to the Circuit for trial.

What is a Newspaper?

It is a transcript of thoughts and a record of what is passing in the world. But it is not, as most books are, the transcript of a single mind. It is an exhibition of the thoughts of many minds. It is the collected wisdom of the world, in some instances spiced perhaps with a little of the nonsense of the same minds. It is a bouquet of beautiful flowers, composed of the varieties in nature. It is a case of precious jewels of every hue, size and shape. It is a sweet repast a board spread before the hungry composing the choicest meats and richest deserts that earth can afford—a feast of fat things—a perfect picnic of every dainty that the mind can desire. Who would be without a newspaper?—who could be without them? None, we venture to say, except the old fogies who are a hundred years behind the age.

Concerts

Last Friday evening Prof. Leland's Singing Class gave a Concert in Bidwell's Hall, to a large and appreciative audience. The programme was excellently selected, and the different pieces were well executed.—Prof. Leland has succeeded admirably during his stay here, and he has decided, we understand, to take his class through a second term of lessons. He will also teach an adult class, if he can secure one large enough to make it an object.

On Saturday evening the Continentals gave a Concert in the same Hall. It was very good, although it did not quite come up to general expectations. It gave no better satisfaction than Prof Leland's Concert of the previous evening. It is but justice to state, however, that one of their tenors, Mr. Smith, was unavoidably absent, and the whole troupe were considerably fatigued from their sing at Adrian during the Fair.

Dr. Durand Coming.

The public, and patients of the celebrated Dr Durand, of the Rochester medical Institute, will be pleased to learn that he will make his next professional visit to Tecumseh, on Monday the 2d of October, and remain two days at the Exchange Hotel. No member of the medical profession has acquired a wider celebrity in the treatment of Diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Head, Liver, Female Complaints, Spinal Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all those diseases of long standing that so baffles the skill of others. Certainly no one has been more successful in curing them. He does not fail in any case that is curable. All who are afflicted with any disease should call on him, if he cannot cure you he will tell you without costing you anything.

☞ The Building Committee of the First Presbyterian Society of Tecumseh will receive sealed proposals for the erection of a church edifice of Brick above the foundation walls up to and including the second day of October next. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of Bills and Baxter in Tecumseh.—By order of the Committee. H C Conkling, Secretary.

☞ Henry Anderson, of the firm of Anderson & Larned has returned from the east and they are expecting a large stock of new goods daily. Look out for their advertisement.

☞ The Secret Service, the Field, the Dungeon and the escape, is the title of a new work just out written by Richardson, the war correspondent of the New York Tribune. It gives the reader the author's experience as the secret service of the Tribune in the earlier days of the rebellion, his capture at Vicksburg, his confinement in Southern prison, and his miraculous escape. It is as thrilling as fiction and at the same time as truthful as fact. Over 70,000 copies have already been sold, and the demand for the work is still increasing. In giving view of the South during the war, no book yet published can at all compete with it. Every man should read it. The work is sold only by subscription.

☞ The following is a list of appointments of ministers made in this district at the late Conference, held at Ionia.

F. A. BLAKE, PRESIDING ELDER.

Adrian—B. F. Cocker.
Tecumseh—J. H. Burnham.
Clinton—Wm. Donelly
Manchester—J. W. Scott.
Napoleon—G. N. Belknap.
Franklin—J. S. Sutton.
Rome—S. Bessey.
Hudson—E. R. Hascall.
Medina—S. W. Moyer.
Morenci—J. N. Crippen.
Fairfield—John Wesley.
Palmyra—Tho Nichols.
Blissfield—H. N. Brown.
Petersburg—J. T. Hankinson.
Lambertville—I. H. Camburn.
Monroe—John Levington.
Ida—A. C. Squier.
Dundee—W. Q. Burnett.
Ridgeway—I. W. Doneison, one to be supplied.

☞ A few evenings since while on our way home, we saw an intoxicated individual vainly endeavoring to support a shade tree. Finally, after performing some of the most desperate feats of balancing—a la Mons. Blondin on the tight-rope—he "went down" Seeing that he was resigned to his fate, we approached and overheard him philosophizing thus:

"Leaves have their time to fall, and so have I;
The reason is the same—it comes of getting dry.
But the difference 'twixt leaves and me
Is, that I falls more harder and more frequentlee.

He finally closed his lids, and we left him to the tender mercy of the flies and mosquitoes.

☞ R. C. Moore is receiving a large and elegant stock of Dry Goods—bought three weeks ago—when the market was at the lowest ebb it has been for many years. Everyone knows—or ought to know—that, for two weeks past, the market has taken rapid strides upward, and Moore is retailing many articles lower than he or any one else can buy them in New York,—reader take the hint and buy now what you need for this coming season,—for you will most assuredly save a nice sum of money by so doing.

Annual Meeting of the Bible Society.

The annual meeting of the "Tecumseh and Vicinity Bible Society" will be held at the Methodist E. Church of this village on Tuesday, October 3d at two o'clock P. M.

Rev Mr. Skillman, of Macon will deliver the annual address. Short addresses may be expected from several of the Clergy present. All are invited to attend. Entertainments will be provided for those coming from a distance.

By order of the Exe. Com.
S. J. Fulton, Sec'y

☞ A. Hood has associated with him Mr. H. M. Gray, and as will be seen by their advertisement they are receiving piles of new goods of the latest styles. There is no use talking if you want anything in their line you should save money by calling on them. Do not be cheated into buying shoddy.

☞ C. H. Adam & Co. are just opening a large and splendid assortment of Fall and Winter Goods,—embracing all the newest and best styles of Merinoes, Alapacas, Delaines, Scotch Plads, and Dress Goods of every description,—also, Cloth for men's wear, that we should think would never wear out. They purchased for cash at the very lowest prices, during the late decline in goods, and they are bound to sell from as low as any such goods can be sold in the west. Call and see their goods and prices.

☞ J H Dunbar would return thanks for past patronage and would announce to the good citizens of Tecumseh that he is now prepared with a good wagon &c, to do their draying on the shortest possible notice. His charges are reasonable.

☞ We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column of E H Hoag. He has just received the largest and best stock of Boots and Shoes ever brought to this place and he is selling them cheaper than they can be bought in the country. It is a fact.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Sept. 28, 1865.

Anderson E. R.	Bowen J. R.
Borst Henry A.	Dolan John
Gregg Reuben	Jackson Jessy H.
Loomis J. E.	Woodfield Nathaniel
VanAuker Mrs. Sall.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Commissioners Notice.

Estate of John Osborn deceased.—Notice is hereby given that we the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, to receive, audit and adjust claims against said estate, will meet for that purpose at the residence of George A. Wilkins in Macon, in said county on the 21st day of October next, and at the office of E. B. Wood in the village of Tecumseh in said County on the 25th day of November, next at ten o'clock, in the forenoon of those days; also that three months from the 30th day of August 1865, has been allowed the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us.

GEORGE A. WILKINS.
RICHARD CLARKSON,
Commissioners.

NEWS SUMMARY.

A telegram from New York, Sept 24th says the captain of the English war steamer Devastation has set sail in pursuit of the rebel craft Shenandoah, determined to treat her as a pirate. The Shenandoah was still continuing her destruction of whaling vessels.

Last Sunday's New York papers contain an advertisement of a great Fenian Mass Meeting at Cooper Institute, delegations from various cities being invited.

The steamer Lone Star was wrecked in Galveston Bay, on the 19th ultimo. No lives were lost; but the hull and cargo were entirely destroyed.

The woolen mills of Bishop and Kelley on Chestnut Hill near Philadelphia, were destroyed by fire last Saturday night. Loss about $36,000.

The Right Rev. Clement Smyth, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Iowa, died at his residence in Dubuque on the morning of the 18th inst.

On Saturday morning, a serious accident occurred, caused by the explosion of one of the finest locomotives belonging to the Chicago & N. Western Co., near the corner of Jefferson and Hubbard streets, Chicago. The body of the engineer was found a hundred feet off terribly torn; a woman on the sidewalk, purchasing vegetables, had her hand and top of her scull blown off: a little boy three years old was scalded so he will not survive; and three or four others were seriously injured. The fireman was blown over a tall tree, but is not badly hurt. Four houses had their fronts entirely demolished, and the engine was thrown three times its length and made to turn a summersault.

The Alabama state convention on Saturday passed the ordinance abolishing slavery by a vote of 89 to 8.

The steamer New York has just made the trip from Aspinwall to New York in six days, eleven hours and twenty minutes, the quickest time on record.

A train on the Rensselaer & Saratoga Railroad ran through a draw into the Hudson river on Friday night. Fortunately there were but few persons on the train, and all escaped unhurt.

A man named George B. Beach was shot in the neck by his wife, at the door of the green room in Wood's Museum, last week, in Chicago. It appears that there had been some disagreement between the two, in consequence of which a bill of divorce was pending. Both were employed in the theatre department. Beach is recovering.

Brazil is making extensive preparations to carry on the war against Paraguay, and is adding rams and iron-clads to her navy.

The funds stolen during the St. Albans raid have been restored to the banks by the Canadian authorities.

The trial of the notorious guerilla Champ Ferguson has closed, and the findings of the Commission have been forwarded to General Stoneman.

An officer connected with the Freedmen's Bureau in Mississippi writes to Gen. Howard that the militia organized in that State refuse to serve under the Stars and Stripes. They are composed exclusively of returned rebel soldiers, and are doing everything in their power to embarrass the action of the Government officials.

A most startling statement is brought by a Washington despatch concerning the foreign rebel cotton loan, the holders of the bonds and the amounts lost by each. The utter impossibility of recovering anything from the United States is sufficiently shown in the correspondence attached to the list, between Mr. Seward and Mr. Adams. The heaviest losers are Sir Henry DeHoughton, Bart., £180,000; Isaac Campbell & Co., £150,000; and Thos. Sterling Bigbee, £140,000. Joseph Spence, the Liverpool correspondent of the London Times, loses £50,000; M. B. Sampson, city editor of the same paper, £15,000, and John Thaddeus Delane, the "Thunderer" himself, £10,000. The amount invested by the trio will sufficiently account for the course of the Times during the rebellion. In the same manner the course of the London Morning Post is explained, whose proprietor loses £4,000. Laird, the rebel ram builder sinks £20,000.

The Secretary of the Treasury has anticipated the payment of the 5-20 coupons due in November. They will be paid on and after September 25th.

The Australasian has arrived from Europe. The great fire at Stamboul destroyed 2,800 buildings and rendered 22,000 persons homeless. The widow of the poet Thomas Moore is dead. A royal marriage is on the tapis between the son of the King of Italy and the daughter of the Queen of Spain. England is sending vessels of war to the Irish coast. Cyrus W. Field was a passenger by the Australasian, and speaks hopefully of the prospects of the cable.

The details of the organization of the rebel steamboat burning gang show that Jeff. Davis and his Cabinet had full cognizance, and were active members of it.

The increase of the regular army will probably engross the attention of Congress at an early day in the session. Its present maximum force, if fully recruited, would be about forty three thousand of all arms. General Grant is understood to favor an increase of forty regiments of the line.

The notorious John H. Surratt, one of the assassination conspirators, and son of Mrs. Surratt, who was executed, was recently seen in Montreal, where he has been concealed. He is on the eve of leaving for Scotland.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company has absorbed the Atlantic Company, by paying $4,500,000 for the ships and appurtenances of the latter. This consolidation forms the largest steamship company on this continent, and is destined to wield a most powerful influence in our commercial relations with the world.

The first train from Kansas City, over the Missouri Union Pacific Railroad, reached St Louis on Thursday night, the trip having occupied twelve hours.

A tornado visited Isanti and Chisago counties, Minnesota, about forty miles north of St. Paul, on the 12th, making a clean track through the heavy pine and oak forests, about thirty rods wide, for a distance of many miles. Trees three feet in diameter were literally twisted into broom-splints. In some places the debris is piled thirty feet high. Three citizens of St. Paul, on a hunting excursion, were caught by the tornado and sustained bodily injuries, one of them quite severe. The direction of the tornado was from southwest to northeast. Its force was spent before reaching the St. Croix river.

The accounts from East Tennessee are one of prolonged horror. Nowhere else in the South are scenes of blood being enacted on an equally extensive scale. The Union men, remembering how they were hunted down in the earlier years of the war, are resolved that their persecutors shall not live with them in peace on any terms. The surrendered rebels, on the other hand, claim the protection of their parole, and protect themselves. But as oil and water will not mix, even with much shaking, so these two elements stand out in unrelenting hostility. Murders are of daily occurrence, but they are not murders by stealth or done for robbery. The ruling passion is "revenge." A lad of sixteen picks out the man who dealt his father the fatal blow, and shoots him. Returned Union soldiers take summary justice for outraged wives or daughters. Old men sacrifice to the names of their slaughtered sons. For four years has East Tennessee been ridden by re-horse can show the stains upon its door-posts.

The Consular reports to the State Department at Washington, give detailed accounts of the frightful ravages of the cholera at the East. At Constantinople the number of victims has reached 20,000, the death rate being 1,000 per day. At Barcelona, Spain, the rate is twelve per day. In Italy the disease is very severe, half the cases being fatal.

The cholera has been so virulent at Marseilles, France, that the railway passengers from that city are not permitted to set foot at Nice without the cars having undergone a process of fumigation.

The new ten-cent fractional currency is circulating. The pieces are a little larger than the old tens, and shorter than the twenty-five cent slips. Upon the face is a medallion head of Washington, with a factory chimney and a ship's rigging on either side, and a figure "10" in gilt in four places; the back is of a red color, and the figures 10 in large gilt. They are printed on bank note paper, and promise to be more durable than the present currency.

The Wirz trial was in hearing on Friday, and the testimony was of an unusually important character. Dr. Hopkins, a surgeon, at one time on duty at Andersonville, was on the stand and read a report on the condition of the prison pen, and the causes and remedies for that condition, which he made out while there. A thrilling episode occurred in the court room, incidental upon the identification of Wirz by an Indiana cavalryman as the man who shot a comrade of his in cold blood. The effect upon Wirz was such that it is expected he will not live to see the close of the trial.

In the Wirz trial on Saturday the testimony for the government was closed, the judge advocate, however, reserving the right to introduce further evidence hereafter.

The United States steamer Continental will leave New York on the 30th inst. with a cargo of seven hundred women from the surplus female population of Massachusetts, destined for wives of the fortunate settlers of Washington Territory.

Horace Greeley left Chicago for St. Paul last Saturday.

The troops are withdrawn from Memphis, and the military post is abolished.

A gang of thieves operating the mails from Brashear City, La., to Galveston, Texas, has been awarded to George A. Fitch, editor of the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Telegraph.

Provost Marshal General Fry concedes that Iowa furnished 75,839 men for the war.

It is now believed that the paper on which the $100 counterfeit compound interest treasury notes were printed, was stolen from the treasury department with the backs already printed.

There are indications that the military authorities intend shortly to abandon the defences of Washington south of the Potomac.

Kenneth Raynor, the well-known Unionist of North Carolina, writes that unless more merciful treatment shall be extended to the freedmen of that State, the negroes will rise and wreak a bloody retaliation.

General Hobart, Democratic candidate for Governor of Wisconsin, has invited Fairchild, the Union nominee, to accompany him in his canvass; but the latter has been compelled to decline the nomination in consequence of the requirements of his present position of Secretary of State.

The New York Herald learns from reliable sources that "the Fenian organization in the Northern States numbers 221,000 men. These men are openly pledged to move any day on the great question of the liberation of Ireland, and to aid and assist in that noble undertaking."

The gold region in Minnesota, over which so much excitement has sprung up, is located near Vermillion Lake, 80 miles north of the point previously stated.

General Sully's force has returned from Devil's Lake to Fort Rice. Nothing was accomplished by the expedition.

A meeting of Fenians was held in Jersey City, last week, on which occasion one of the speakers stated that the movement was progressing finely, and that engravers were already at work on plates for bonds of the Irish Republic.

The Fenians are negotiating for the purchase of eight ocean steamers, and it is stated large quantities of arms have been purchased of the Government by parties in their interest.

A ridiculous letter from the United States to an Irish paper states that the number of Fenians enrolled here on the 1st of last month was 278,581; that the object of the brotherhood is not to free Ireland, but to conquer Canada and divide it among the Irish; and that the movement is sanctioned by the American government and ruled by Secretary Seward.

The total loss at the New York Water street conflagration last week is about four millions, upon which there is an insurance of about two millions.

New York has again been visited by destructive fires. Besides the Water street fire, the recent destruction of the American Rice Mills and a large brewery, involves a loss of half a million dollars.

The South Carolina Convention have adopted a resolution abolishing slavery in that State.

The late rebel General Lee enters upon his duties as President of Washington College, Va., on the 3d of October.

GLEANINGS.

—A Fenian Convention is talked of in Indiana, to come off next month.

—A great deal of champagne is very cheaply made by charging sherry with carbonic acid.

—The municipal tax levy of the city of New York for the next year will be eighteen millions of dollars.

—A wrecking company have commenced raising the old frigate Merrimac, sunk by the rebels near Fortress Monroe.

—It took a fast youth just five weeks to finish a fortune of $200,000 in Paris. He had the lorettes to assist him.

—In New York city, so statistics state, there are fewer marriages by one third than there were twenty-five years ago.

—Fears are entertained that the Morgan race of horses is to become extinct. A meeting has been held to discuss the matter.

—Detroit has been discontinued as a state rendezvous for returning troops. All Michigan troops will hereafter rendezvous at Jackson.

of deaf mutes, are the children of first cousins. A fearful warning this to those who entertain a notion of forming a union of this kind.

—Gen. Fremont will take up his residence in St. Louis, and take immediate measures for putting into operation a very extensive manufactory of railroad, bar, and sheet iron.

—F. H. Smith of Birmingham, Conn., recently coughed up an ounce ball which went nearly through his head at the battle of Averysboro, N. C., and could not be previously extracted.

—Miss Margaretta Fox, one of the famous Fox sisters, claims to have been married to Dr. Kane, the Arctic traveler, some years before his death. But Dr. Kane's friends deny the story.

—The safe of the paymaster of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company, was opened on Friday night last, in Pittsburg, and $30,000 extracted therefrom. There is no clue to the robbers.

—The first lesson a business man should learn is the value of printer's ink, and then to know how to use it to advantage. The biggest incomes in business last year, accrued to the judicious advertiser.

—Pit Hole, the great Venango county oil city, was thus named in consequence of an extraordinary pit or cavern that exists near that city. In this pit stones may be thrown but they are never heard to drop. Its depth has not been fathomed.

—The census returns for all the counties in Wisconsin, shows the population to be 886,847, an increase of 92,207 since 1860. The voluntary contributions towards the objects of the war, were $8,000,000. The state debt is $1,969,000.

—It is statedoss a singular fact that the martins, robins and other birds that are in the habit of disappearing some time in October, have already left for parts unknown. This, it is prognosticated, means an unusually cold winter approaching.

—Capt. Aaron Bancroft of Newburyport, Mass., a namesake, probably a relative of the late Rev. Aaron Bancroft of Worcester, the father of our celebrated historian, has been appointed agent of Butterfield's overland express company at a salary of $[illegible] per annum.

—The New York World announces the purchase of six thousand barrels of beef in that city for shipment to Great Britain. It says the dreadful cattle disease now raging in Europe, will have an important influence upon our market for cured meats, if we shall be so lucky as to escape the disease itself.

—A Mr T. D. J. DeNyes of Brooklyn, last week took a box of the "patent universal safety matches," in his hand, closed the lid, and struck one of the matches on the box. It did not ignite the matches of the box, but exploded, burning his hand so that he was disabled for some time. Not so safe after all.

—The frog show at New York is sen fait accompli. About four hundred of these marsh warblers are on exhibition, some in bird cages, and some in glass globes. Here, says a writer, they disport upon coaling, dripping moss, and dream away the tardy hours, wondering, "why is this, thus?"

—Brigham Young, some time since, asked the King of the Sandwich Island to allow him to send Mormon missionaries to the island. To this the Sandwich Island Secretary of State replied the Mormon tenets are subversive of good government, and in violation of laws of the Kingdom, and that efforts to establish a colony of the saints there will not be tolerated.

—It is asserted that in Germany, since the beginning of the railroad system, twenty or thirty years ago, not a single life has been lost in consequence of carelessness or mismanagement on the part of the railroad agents. A few have killed themselves by incautiously approaching or getting off the train, but none have been killed by what are called accidents or casualties.

—A correspondent of the Pittsburg Despatch says a peculiar kind of disease, by some denominated the oil itch and by others called the Titusville itch, has just made its appearance at Pit Hole. It first appears on arms and faces and is contagious. Entire families, even down to the babies, are scratching, and preachers, actors and everybody else, are playing the French fiddle.

—A Harrisburg paper tells of a man who has failed in business four times, was burnt out three times, was robbed five times, was upset in a stage coach and thrown down an embankment a distance of sixty feet, fell head foremost through a hatchway in a store at Reading, has been married three times, and is the father of twenty-one children. He "still lives," and is engaged in business in Harrisburg.

—A clergyman called on a poor parishioner, whom he found bitterly lamenting the loss of an only son, a child of about four or five years age. In the hope of consoling the afflicted woman, he remarked that "one so young could not have committed any very grievous sin, and that he had no doubt the child had gone to heaven." "Ah sir," said the simple-hearted creature, "but Tommy was so shy—and they are all strangers there."

—A man in Barrington, Vermont, who was partially insane, killed himself recently by trying to force a stone down his throat using a stick for that purpose, and the result was that he forced a frightful hole through the external surface of his neck, causing death. In his stomach were found four stones of from one to two ounces weight, a corn cob, a corn husk, a wooden handle used for spinning humming tops, and a piece of wood over two inches long.

—The Cork correspondent of a New York paper, gives some interesting particulars of the progress of Fenianism in Ireland. In eleven counties, the numbers enrolled are nearly 40,000. They never meet in public or private with arms, but at a given signal, it is said they could fill the country with muskets. Numbers of Irishmen who have served in the United States army during the war, have returned, each man carrying his musket.

—The Croton Aqueduct Board have two great works on hand, looking to the better sanitary condition of New York city, viz: a new sewerage system, and an improved water supply. They have decided to build a new reservoir and water tower at Manhattanville, (172 St.) by which water will be elevated to the height of 350 feet above high tide mark, in sufficient quantity to supply the highest points on the Island, now beyond reach. The new reservoir will be seven acres in extent.

—A pair of twins born in Lansingburg, weigh 22½ pounds.

—The Fifth Avenue hotel cleared $175,000 the last twelve months.

—One hundred and twenty five thousand persons do business in New York city and live out of it.

—The shoe business is exceedingly prosperous, because every pair is sold before it is finished.

—James Morgan, a Detroit printer, has just fallen heir to $20,000 in gold, which is on deposit in the Bank of England.

—A woman in Washington has been sued because her five dogs disturb a congregation in that city by barking during service.

—A vacant lot in Chicago, with 120 feet front, recently sold for $140,000, or over twelve hundred dollars per foot of frontage!

—"I would rather have newspapers without a government," said the great Jefferson "than a government without newspapers."

—Nashville has a population of 60,000; 3 places of amusement, 5 newspapers, with 3 more in prospect, and some 500 drinking saloons.

sons have been bitten by mad dogs in Indianapolis. But one death has so far occurred.

—A match factory in Oshkosh, Wisconsin employs fifty girls who earn from three to five dollars per week. Trust the girls for making matches.

—The exports of specie for the past eight months have been only $20,000,000. We are mining gold and silver at the rate of $80,000,000 a year.

—The National Cemetery at Antietam will be twice as large as the cemetery at Gettysburg, and contains almost twice as many graves.

—Newport letter-writers unite in telling how democratic the lady bathers are. They don't object to the embraces of the serfs. Horrid, isn't it?

—The mortality in the Andersonville prison pen was so awful that the rebel authorities must certainly have thought a thousand times, "the pen is mightier that the sword."

—A few days since a young Philadelphian who was stopping with a party of friends at the Ephrata Springs, Lancaster county, in attempting to pull off one of his boots broke his leg.

—There is in Louisville an organization known as the "Forty Thieves," composed of boys between the ages of 9 and 14. The captain of the band was sent to the House of Refuge last Monday.

—The cheap dinner movement, which has done so much for Glasgow, and other large cities, has extended to London. A dining house has been established there that will accommodate 4,000 persons daily.

—The Scientific American says that Colt's pistol manufactory is running twenty-four hours a day, in order to supply the increased demand for revolvers, and adds that most orders come from southern negroes.

—It is proposed to light the streets of a village not a thousand miles away from this place with red headed girls. If we lived there, says our dabster, we'd play tipsy every night, and hug the lamp posts.

—The rapid increase of population in Colorado justifies the belief that it will soon apply for admission into the Union. The population at present is about 50,000 souls, with a large preponderance of males and voters.

—A man has just taken out a patent in England for "luminous hats." They will, he says, preserve the wearers from being run over by cabs at night, and would, to some extent, enable a saving in the lighting of streets.

—The present population of Springfield, Illinois, is 16,009. In 1860 it was 9,322, being an increase in five years of 6,686, or 71 per cent. At the same ratio of increase in that State.

—A smart three months old Cochin China rooster, residing in Portland, Me., had a mortal combat with a full-grown rat. The fight was well contested on both sides, and after a continuance of thirty-five minutes, ended in the death of the rat.

—One of the wonders displayed at the New York State Fair, at Utica, last week, was a cheese weighing four thousand pounds! It was made in Canada West, is now being exhibited at the London, C. W., Fair, and will be sent to England.

—A disease called hog diptheria is now rapidly spreading in Fairfax and adjoining counties in Virginia. The animal appears well in the morning, during the day its neck swells, and by the next day it is dead. No cure has been discovered.

—A gentleman from from Portland was left from the Grand Trunk train, but jumped into his carriage and overtook it at Falmouth. He claims that he made the five miles in fourteen minutes, and he certainly could not have been much longer about it.

—A Mr. Babcock, of Milton, has been hiring a woman and her husband, reaping, this season. The wife proved the best workman, and Mr. Babcock accordingly paid her the highest wages, three dollars per day; while her husband, being less expert, received inferior pay.

—Some men who trotted a pony to death were recently brought before the magistrates of Worcestershire, England, for cruelty, and fined. The pony was to have been driven ninety miles in twelve hours on a wager, and had nearly finished the task when he died from exhaustion.

—John Ruskin, in speaking of the fashionable passion for auburn locks, says: "I am informed, too, and can add my personal testimony to the fact, the red-haired girls who have been on the shelf until they are no longer young, are now going off in the matrimonial market like wild-fire."

—A statement is published that the suspension of work on the Mount Cenis Tunnel was caused by the discovery therein, on the 16th of July, of an immense deposit of diamonds and other precious stones; since which time the French and Italian governments have taken possession of the work.

—Mammoth boats, justly entitled to be called "floating palaces," are the rage on the Hudson river. The People's Line folks have laid the keel of a new steamboat to be fifteen feet longer than the St. John, five feet wider, and to contain one hundred state rooms. She is to have three tiers of the latter—one more than any other steamboat ever built.

—Some years ago a native of Newburyport, now residing in Boston, met there a man intoxicated and in want. The man said he had been led away, and was desirous of assistance. He was taken in, and, when sober, money was furnished him to return to his home in New York. Recently that man, ever afterward sober and respectable, died rich, and, recollecting the kindness shown him by one who had acted the part of the good Samaritan, bequeathed him $30,000.

—The wonderful energy and endurance of a poor Irish woman residing in Billerica, Mass., is almost unexampled. According to the Lowell papers, she has walked to that city every morning, performed a full day's work at the Lawrence corporation, and returned home at night. The distance she has walked, twice a day, is not an inch less than five and half miles, making eleven miles per day! Besides this, she did the cooking at home, and other housework, for her husband and one child. She was always on time in the morning, and left the mill with the other operatives at 6½ o'clock at night. Summed up, we have the result: A walk of eleven miles, a full day's work in the mill, and the care of a family at home every day for six weeks.

PERSONAL.

Victor Hugo and his sons are journeying on the Rhine.

Gen. Joe Lane is living on his farm in Portland, Oregon.

Weed is unwilling to have his photograph taken. Should think he would be.

Barnum has enlisted John Hanks and the Lincoln cabin for the new Broadway Museum.

At the Rock County (Wis.) Fair on Friday, Miss Laura Tuttey, only ten years of age, carried off the first prize for equestrianism.

Isaac Williams, a Virginian, has been sentenced to three year's imprisonment, and a fine of $1,000 for disregarding his oath of allegiance.

Bennett G. Burley, the Lake Erie pirate, has escaped from jail at Port Clinton, Ohio. A reward of $100 is offered for his capture.

The Rev. Mr. Spurgeon declares that Romanism is gaining immensely in England, and that London is now covered with a net-

The great composer Rossini has just published a declaration that the appropriation of his melodies by the street organs, is something to be proud of.

Harry Lessig announces that he will carry a chair and table out on his Niagara Falls rope, and eat his dinner there. He invites the public to dine with him.

Gen. Fremont, is about to take up his residence in St. Louis, at the Brant mansion on Choteau avenue, memorable as his official head quarters in 1861.

Boston Corbett has returned to New York, and works as a hat finisher. If he gives to his hat bodies as long a nap as he gave Wilkes Booth, his works will become popular.

A son of the late President Polk is employed with two blacks, the three at five dollars per day, in taking care of mules purchased by a Northern speculator at the army sales in Nashville.

Madame Anna Bishop sailed last week for California. After making a concert tour through the golden state, she goes to India and Europe, and will return to this country, in about two years from this time.

Jeff Davis is to have a distinguished advocate for pardon in the person of David G. Burnet, first President of the "Republic of Texas," who has been invited by the heroes of San Jacinto, to proceed on that errand to Washington.

A lady in Utica, who has recently lost her husband and two children, caused the death of her remaining child—a lovely daughter of ten years—by administering poison instead of the medicine which she thought she was giving.

Emerson Etheridge will be tried by court marshal at Memphis in a few days. He is charged with inciting the people to rebellion, defaming and holding up to infamy Gov. Brownlow and President Johnson, and desecrating the memory of the late President Lincoln.

Harriet Martineau, now in her sixty-fourth year, continues to be the most active and able contributor to the London Daily News, and other publications, and the last two volumes of her history of England during the great peace, are in press. The activity of this lady is unparalleled in the annals of literature, particularly as she is nearly as blind as Milton was, and also totally deaf.

Another astronomer is dead. Johann Frederic Encke, Director of the Royal Observatory of Berlin, has lately died in that city. He was born in Hamburg in 1791, studied at Gottingen, served in the Prussian army, and after filling various political positions, he was appointed to his post in Berlin in 1825. He will be chiefly known by his discoveries in regard to a planet called after his name, though it was first seen in 1813 by Pons.

Resist the Beginnings.—The Arabs have a fable of a miller, who was one day startled by a camel's nose thrust in at the window of the room where he was sleeping.

"It is very cold outside," said the camel; "I only want to get my nose in."

The nose was let in, then the neck, and, finally, the whole body. Presently, the miller began to feel extremely inconvenienced at the ungainly companion he had obtained, in a room certainly not large enough for both.

"If you are inconvenienced you may leave," said the camel; as for myself, I shall stay where I am."

The moral of the fable may be stated thus: When temptation occurs, we must not yield to it. We must not allow so much as its "nose" to come in. He who yields, even in the smallest degree, will soon be entirely overcome.

Scientific.—Dr. Foster of Montpelier, France, claims to have secured the most fortunate results by a new treatment of phthisis pulmonalis, and consumption in general, which he has recently discovered. He makes his patients eat the flesh of raw mutton and of beef and drink alcohol weakened with water, in small doses. The meat reduced to a pulp, and relieved of its tendons, is administered in ball, rolled in sugar or in sugared pulp in a coffee spoon, at the rate of 100 or 300 grammes a day. If the thirst of the patient is intense, it is slackened by a drink composed of 500 grammes of cold water with sugar, in which 100 grammes of the pulp are dissolved. Raw meat has a reconstructive power, while the alcohol acts upon the blood making organs.

Josh Billings, being duly sworn, deposes as follows:

That most men had rather dew a smart thing than tew dew a good one.

That backsliding is a big thing, especshuly on the ice.

There iz 2 things in this life for which we are never fully prepared, and that iz twins.

That ignorance is bliss—ignorance of sawing wood, for instunz.

That men will fale tew be saved, simply becoz they hain't got nothin' to save.

That a femail woman kan't keep a secrit, nor let nobody else keep 1.

That a "little larning iz a dangerous thing"—that iz tru ar it air common.

That it is better tew fale in a noble enterprise than tew suckseed in a mean wun.

—There is a good deal of excitement in religious circles in New York upon the question of episcopal clergymen exchanging with ministers of their denominations. Bishop Potter has remonstrated against it in a pastoral letter, but the so-called low-church clergymen continue the practice. On Sunday evening last the Rev. Dr. Storrs, a congregational minister of Brooklyn, preached in the church of the Rev. Dr. Tyng, in Sixteenth street, while the Rev. H. W. Beecher sat as one of the congregation in the minister's pew. The subject will no doubt be brought up in the approaching general convention of the episcopal church.

A Distinction with a Difference.

If fellows break into a house,
To bone the Cash they needs,
And gets off safely with the Swag,
'Tis said the Thief "Succeeds."

If Bankers do the self same thing
Upon a larger scale,
And they get safely all the Swag,
'Tis said the Bankers "Fail."

—The potato rot is alarmingly prevalent in various parts of Michigan.

—A man in Albany inherits $2,000,000 from a deceased relative in Mexico.

THE BEAUTY.

May Bell, she loves me well,
But Claribel's a beauty;
There is no law for Claribel;
In her heart love will not dwell,
For lofty lovers we know well,
His many a lofty duty.
Fare you well, Claribel!
May Bell is the beauty.

Lady Claribel has gold;
May Bell can but love you.
One's a beauty to behold,
One a darling to enfold,
Claribel, fair and cold,
Sits in state above you.
Fare you well, Claribel!
Sweet May Bell, I love you.

May Bell where she gives her heart,
Gives her love and all forever.
Let the dainty lady shade
With her wealth and her whitehand;
Love, some kind soul with the hand
Death alone can sever.
Fare you well, Claribel!
May Bell's mine forever

BY HIMSELF.

NEW YORK, NEAR FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL, Sept. 31st 3 Org. Alst 3

Dr. Sirr Yrs, into which you ask me to send you sum leadin incidents in my life so you can write my Bogfry for the papers, cum dooly to hand. I hav no doubt that a article onto my life, grammattycally jerked and properly punktooated, would be a addition to the chaois literatoor of the day.

To the yooth of Amerikx it would be valyable as shown how high a pinnykle of fame a man can reach who commenst his career with a small canvas tent and a peagreen oil which he rubbed it off while scratchin hisself agin the centre pole, causin in Rahway, N. J., a discriminating mob to say humbugs would not go down in them village. The ox resoom'd agricultooral pursoots shortly afterwards.

I next tried my hand at giving blindman concerts, appearing as the poor blind man myself. But the infamous cuss who I hired to lead me round towns in the day time to excite sympathy drank freely of a spirituous licker unbeknowns to me one day, and while under them influences, he led me into the canal. I had to either tear the green bandidge from my eyes or be drownded. I tho't I'd restore my eyesight.

In writing about these things, Mr. Editor, kinder smooth 'em over. Speak of 'em as eccentrusities of gen'us.

My next ventur would hav bin success if I hadn't tried to do too much. I got up a series of wax figger, and among others one of Socrates. I tho't a wax figger of Old Sock would be poplar with educated peple, but unfortuntly I put a brown linen duster and a U. S. army regulation cap on him, which people with classycal eddycations said it was a farce. This enterprise was unfortunit in other respecks.

At a certain town I advertised a wax figger of the Hon'ble Amos Perkins, who was a Railroad President, and a great person in them parts. But it appeared I had shown the same figger for a Pirut named Gibbs in that town the previs season, which created a intense toomult, & the audience remarked "shame onto me," & other statements of the same similarness. I tried to mollify 'em. I told them that any family possesin children aught have my she figer to play with half a day, & I would'nt charge 'em a cent, but alars! it was of no avail. I was forced to leave, and I infer from a article in the Advertiser of that town in which the Editor says, "Altho, time has silvered this man's hed with its frosts, he still brazenly wallows in infamy. Still are his snakes stuffed, and his wax works unreliable. We are glad that he has concluded to never revisit our town altho', incredible as it may appear, the fellow reelly did contemplate so doing last summer; when, still true to the craven instincts of his black heart, he wrote the hireling knaves of the obscure journal above the street to know what they would charge for 400 small bills to be done on yellow paper. We shall recur to this matter again."

I say, I infer from this article that a prejudish still exists agin me in that town.

I will not speak of my once being in straitened circumstances in a sertin town, and of my endavorin to accoomulate welth by lettin myself to Sabbath school picnics, to sing ballads adapted to the understandins of little children, accompanying myself on a claironett—which I forgot where I was one day, singing, instead of "Oh, how pleasant to be a little child:"

"Rip snap—set 'em up again, Right in the middle of a three cent pie?"

which mistake, added to the fact that I couldn't play onto the claironet except making it howl dismal, broke up the picnic, as the children said, in voices choked with sobs and emotions, where was their home, and where was their Pa? and I said be quiet, dear children, I am your Pa, which made a young woman with two twins by her side say very angrily, "Good heavens forbid that you should ever be the Pa of any of these innocent ones, unless it is much desirable for them to expire igninyusly up on to the murderers' gallus!"

I say I will not speak of this. Let it be Berrid in Oblivyon.

In your article, Mr. Editor, please tell 'em what sort of a man I am.

If you see fit to kriticise my Show speak your mind freely. I do not object to kriticism. Tell the public, in a candid and graceful article, that my Show abounds in moral and startlin curiosities, any one of whom is wuth dubble the price of admission.

I have thus far spoke of myself excloosively as a exhibiter.

I was born in the State of Maine of parents. As a infant I attracted a good deal of attention. The nabers would stand over my cradle for hours and say, "How bright that little face looks: How much it nose!" The young ladies would carry me round in their arms, saying I was munzer's bezzy darlin and a sweety eely little ting. It was nice, tho' I wasn't old enuff to properly appreciate it. I'm a helthy old darlin now.

I have allers sustained a good moral character. I never was'n railroad director in my life.

Altho' in early life I did not invariably confine myself to truth in my small bills, I hav bin gradoually growing respectabler and respectabler ev'ry year. I luv my children, and never mistake another man's wife for my own. I'm not a member of any meetin house, but firmly believe in meetin houses, and shouldn't feel safe to take a dose of laudnum and lay down in the street of a village that hadn't any, with a thousand dollars in my west pocket.

My temperament is billious, altho' I don't owe a dollar in the world.

I am a early riser, my wife is a Presbyterion. I may add that I am also baldheaded. I keep two cows.

I liv in Baldinsvill, Indiany. My next door nabor is Old Steve Billins. I'll tell you a little story abot Old Steve that will make you lart. He joined the church last spring, and the minister sed, "You must go home now, Brother Billins, and erect a family alter in your own house," whereupon the ingrejis old ass went home and built a reglar pulpit in his settin room. He had the jiners in his house over four days.

I am 56 (56) years of age. Time, with its relentless scythe, is ever binay. The Old Sexton gathers them in—he gathers them in! I keep a pig this year.

I don't think of anything more, Mr. Editor.

If you should giv my portrait in connection with my Bogfry, please have me ingraved in a languishin attitood, leaning on a marble pillar, leavin my back hair as it is now.

Trooly yours, Artemus Ward.

—A young colored man of ability and good character, Richard E. Greener of Boston, has just entered the freshman class of Harvard College.

Street Cars in St. Paul.—The question of street cars is being agitated in St. Paul. A New York company is ready to lay down the track upon certain conditions.

Steam on City Lines.—A new steam car for horse railroads was tried at East Boston, recently, and worked admirably. It is claimed to possess superior advantages on steep grades and sharp curves, and is the invention of Joseph P. Woodbury.

Soldiers, to the Rescue!—The brakesmen on the Lehigh Valley Railroad went on a strike last week. But this day enough soldiers were found to supply the places of the strikers, who were told to look elsewhere for employment.

—C. J. Richardson in a letter to the London Times, says his boiler at Woolwich Dock-yard has shown that petroleum is 50 per cent more powerful than the best coal, as steam fuel; that it can be burnt with perfect ease, and without the slightest danger.

Hard up for Currency.—One of the South Carolina railroads takes specie, greenbacks, corn, bacon, tallow or lard. Tickets must be purchased before entering the cars, for a notice warns the passengers that "no produce will be taken by the conductors on the train."

Des Moines & Chicago R. R.—A telegram from Des Moines, Iowa, of date Sept. 16th, says: The Des Moines and Chicago Railroad Company is now fully organized. This company is composed principally of the wealthy citizens of this place, and is organized to build a railroad from here to near or at Ames Station, thirty miles from here, on the Chicago and Northwestern road. Capt. Zausman, with his corps of engineers, will commence the survey on Tuesday next.

Birth on a Railway Train.—A novel birth took place, says the Cairo Democrat, on the down train of the Illinois Central, between Dongola and Pulaski. A lady fainted in the ladies' car, great excitement prevailed, and search for a physician was made. By the time the excitement had subsided another passenger had been added to the car in the shape of a bright boy. The mother and child disembarked at Pulaski, doing as well as could be expected.

—During the exercise at the breaking of the ground for the commencement of the Lynchburg and Tennessee railroad at Lynchburg, a clergyman solemnly and slowly read a manuscript prayer. At its conclusion an old negro man who had been resting with one foot on his spade and his arm on the handle, looking intently in the chaplain's face, straightened himself up and remarked very audibly: "Well, I reckon dat's de first time de Lord's ever been writ to on de subjec of railroads."

Union Pacific R. R.—A Des Moines despatch states that the work on the Union Pacific Railroad is progressing at the rate of one mile per day. Ten miles are already constructed, and locomotives are running six miles. Iron for eighty miles is already at hand, and about forty cars. The bridge timber for 100 miles is on the ground. A meeting will be held at Council Bluffs this week to initiate measures to complete within a year, the road from Council Bluffs to St. Joseph, Missouri.

The South Atlantic Telegraph.—The Albany Express says: From Paris we have the announcement that a Frenchman named Alberto Bilestrina, proposes to lay at his own risk an Atlantic telegraph, which will leave the continent at Cape St. Vincent, and pass by way of the Canary Islands and Cape Verde to Cape St. Roque, Brazil, the Antilles and New Orleans. This is quite a novel route, and includes a distance by land and sea of over ten thousand miles; and if carried out will unect Paris with New York across the territory belonging to France, Portugal, Great Britain, Spain, Brazil, and the United States.

Kansas.—The present year is emphatically the railroad era of Kansas. The great projected lines to Galveston and Santa Fe, are to be started, and the Pacific railroad pushed along, besides several local branches to tap these trunk lines as they pass through the state, or before entering it. On Tuesday the 12th, special county elections were very generally held, to vote aid to these various enterprises, and so general and so strong was the opinion in favor of being liberal, that there can be no doubt as to the result.

On Wednesday the 13th, the work was commenced of grading the railroad between Kansas City and Olathe, under the supervision of Capt. Charles G. Keeler. The grading will be pushed forward into Johnson county as fast as money will do it.

Tribute to Chicago.—Our young sister who sits by the side of Lake Michigan and says, "I am Chicago: let New York take notice!" sends forth to an astonished country a report that her population on the 1st of June was 204,000 souls. In the annals of the world's cities this is an unprecedented tale of prosperity. The established residents of that wonderful Babylon of the West frequently say to one another, "It seems only yesterday when we were pasturing cows on the very spot where now we are dwelling in marble palaces." What is the reason? As in Italy "all roads lead to Rome," so in the West all roads lead to Chicago. No man can travel through the West without passing through Chicago. Lucky spider! Thy net catches all flies.—N. Y. Independent.

A Jeu D'Esprit.—"The rich," said the Jew, "eat venison because it ish deer; I eat mutton because it ish sheep."

Fun-ereal.—"Mrs. Grundy," the recently-started humorous weekly paper at New York has given up the ghost—its ghost of wit.

His Idea of Music.—A Western musical critic says that Mr. G. W. Morgan, the organist, "can dig, kick, tramp, pull, thump, jerk and jam more music out of the bowels of that instrument than was ever supposed was in it."

Easily Reconciled.—A philosopher writes to his tailor who had failed to get ready his wedding suit "It was no serious disappointment, only I should have been married had I received the goods." That man will never be seriously disappointed.

Generosity in Shabin'.—In a cemetery in Sharon, Conn., is a family lot in which are seven graves arranged in a circle. Six stones commemorate six deceased wives of D——— S———, while the seventh and more stately slab bears the simple but affecting inscription, "Our Husband!"

Sardines.—A certain official in a certain New England city, recently determined to give a little party. He was discussing with his wife the details of the supper. "I think we must have some sardines," said he.

"Sardines," said his faithful and excellent spouse, "yes, but I never quite understood what sardines meant."

"Why, you know," replied the husband, "you've seen 'em. A sardine is a slice of beef with a piece of bread on each side of it."

The gentleman probably came from the Sandwich Islands.

A Fix.—On the Little Miami Railroad is a station called Morrow. A new brakeman on the road who didn't know the names of the stations, was approached by

Miscellany.

THE SABBATH BELLS.

BY ROBERT BUCHANAN.

Ring, sing! ring, sing! pleasant Sabbath bells!
Chime, rhyme! chime, rhyme! through dales and dells!
Rhyme, ring! chime, sing! pleasant Sabbath bells!
Chime, sing! rhyme, ring! over fields and fells!

And I galloped, and I galloped, on my palfrey white as milk,
My robe was of the sea-green wool, my serk was of the silk;
My hair was golden yellow, and it floated to my shoe,
My eyes were like two bluebells, bathed in little drops of dew;
My palfrey never stopping, made a music exactly bleat,
With the leaves of autumn dropping all round me as I went;
And I heard the bells, grown fainter, far behind me peal and play,
Fainter, fainter, fainter, fainter, till they seemed to die away;

I saw the g[illegible]
his hand;
Then he started up to see me, and he ran with cry and bound,
And drew me from my palfrey white, and sat me on the ground;
O crimson, crimson were his locks, his face was green to see,
But he cried, "O light-haired lassie, you are bound to marry me!"
He clasped me round the middle small, he kissed me on the cheek,
He kissed me once, he kissed me twice—I could not stir nor speak;
He kissed me twice, he kissed me thrice—but when he kissed again,
I called aloud upon the name of Him who died for men.

Ring, sing! ring, sing! pleasant Sabbath bells!
Chime, rhyme! chime, rhyme! through the dales and dells!
Rhyme, ring! chime, sing! pleasant Sabbath bells!
Chime, sing! rhyme, ring! over fields and fells!

O faintly, faintly, faintly, calling men and maids to pray,
So faintly, faintly, faintly, rang the bells afar away;
And as I named the Blessed Name, as in our need we can,
The ugly green, green Gnome became a tall and comely man!
His hands were white, his beard was gold, his eyes were black as sloes,
His tunic was of scarlet wool and silken were his hose;
A pensive light from Faeryland still lingered on his cheek,
His voice was like the running brook, when he began to speak:
"O you have cast away the charm my step-dame put on me!
Seven years I dwelt in Faeryland, and you have set me free!
O, I will mount the palfrey white, and ride to kirk with thee,
And by those little dewy eyes, we twain will wedded be!"

Back he galloped, never stopping, he before and I behind,
And the autumn leaves were dropping, red and yellow in the wind;
And the sun was shining clearer, and my heart was high and proud,
And nearer, nearer, nearer, rang the kirk bells sweet and loud,
And we saw the kirk before us, as we trotted down the fells,
And nearer, clearer, o'er us, rang the welcome of the bells!

Ring, sing! ring, sing! pleasant Sabbath bells!
Chime, rhyme! chime, rhyme! through dales and dells!
Rhyme, ring! chime, sing! pleasant Sabbath bells!
Chime, sing! rhyme, ring! over fields and fells!

ELLICE MONILLE'S TREASURE.

The Stolen Collar.

It was the full noontide of a brilliant April day, with diamond raindrops sparkling on the plate-glass windows of Mrs. Payson's boudoir, even while the sunshine wove itself in quivering arabesques of rivid gold around the stand of peerless white japonicas that occupied the niche between the heavy orange silk curtains. It was an elegant room; all around were scattered the witnesses of a fashionable woman's ennui—the piano, open, yet deserted—the rosewood desk containing a half finished note (Mrs. Payson was too indolent ever to achieve a full-blown letter), the workbox piled with gaily colored wools and patterns; the French novel on the sofa. Poor Mrs. Payson! she worked a great deal harder to do nothing, than any day laborer toils, to win his two or three shillings a day.

Just at present however, she had found a congenial and truly feminine occupation; she was absorbed in displaying her latest acquisition of rich laces, to her niece, Miss Genevra Ware.

Mrs. Payson was a plump, languid lady of about thirty-five, with pale blue eyes, and fair, abundant hair, rolled back a la Eugenie from a face where plentiful applications of rouge and pearl-powder concealed the remains of a very delicate skin. Her dress was elegant, and each plump wrist bore at least three heavy bracelets, twinkling with precious stones—for Mrs. Payson was fond of jewelry, and seldom did violence to her inclinations in that respect, or any other!

Her companion was altogether different Genevra Ware was a tall, superbly moulded girl, of about twenty-two, with large dark blue eyes, and hair that had the indescribable shine and glimmer of melted gold—a young Juno in face and figure—while her beautiful complexion just touched with the nectarine pink on either cheek, might have shamed even the waxen whiteness of the Japonicas in the window.

"Oh, aunt, how perfect!" she exclaimed, enthusiastically, holding up an infinitesimal web of creamy lace. "It's real Spanish point, isn't it? You might examine it with a microscope and find no flaw: the little beauty!"

Mrs. Payson smiled in gratified vanity.

"I thought to be pretty, Genevra. I gave fifty guineas for it—but then it was the only one imported.

"Oh, you extravagant aunt!" laughed Genevra, giving her amber curls a little affected toss. "Fifty guineas for a lace collar! Well, it's a delicious thing to be rich, isn't it?"

"I always prefer the very choicest and most expensive of everything," said the self-satisfied matron. "There's no pleasure in wearing those cheap, common things such as other people buy. And really, Genevra, you know Spanish point is just like diamonds and Indian shawls—a sort of investment, as your uncle says. It's a positive heirloom; it never will wear out!"

"That's true," sighed Genevra, with something of envy in her softly modulated voice, as Mrs. Payson leant forward to pull the bell-rope.

"Send Miss Monille here,"

And Miss Monille came,—a delicate, slenderly framed, interesting creature, in a plain merino dress, with heavy braids of purple-black hair, and black eyes full of liquid lights and shadows. She was a decided brunette; the crimson freshness of her cheek glowed like wine, through a clear olive dark skin; and the simple bow of black ribbon at her throat was prettier in its unostentatious grace than any flash of diamonds, or sparkle of rubies.

"I hope I haven't taken your attention off the dear children's education, Miss Monille," said Mrs. Payson, complacently playing with her bracelets; but I really don't like to trust that rattle-brained Mary with these expensive laces. Just be kind enough to put them in my wardrobe, and bring me the key!"

She laid the laces back into their satin-wood box almost as tenderly as if it had been sentient, human things, and gave it to Miss Monille who glided out of the room as quietly as she had entered it.

"Is that your new governess, aunt?" questioned Miss Genevra, carelessly hiding a yawn behind her pretty hand. "The last time I visited you, there was a portly Englishwoman, in spectacles and dyed silks, queening it over the nursery; and this I suppose is her successor?"

"Yes—isn't she a pretty little creature? So quiet, too! Ralph always declares she makes him think of pomegranate blossoms in the conservatory; he says she is perfectly tropical."

"Does he?"

Genevra looked thoughtfully into the red glow of the grate, turning her bracelets of rare Italian cameos round and round upon her wrist. And when Ellice Monille came to bring the key she shrank without knowing why, from the baleful fire that seemed to scorch her, as Genevra Ware's handsome eyes rested for an instant upon her face.

"So we are rivals!" pondered Genevra, biting her lip. "Never mind! I have no [illegible] son's fantastic whims and conciliate his wayward fancies, to be supplanted at last by a black-eyed little governess!"

But Miss Ware did not fully appreciate the dangerous advantage her unconscious enemy had gained until that afternoon, when she passed the half-open nursery door, on her way up-stairs to her own apartment.

It was a bright, cheerful room, airy and spacious, with canaries singing in the windows, and a full flood of western sunshine streaming across the carpet. Three chubby little fair-haired girls were busy writing copies at the table, and Miss Monille was finishing a water-colored drawing, at her own desk, by the window. All went so far—all perfectly proper, correct and educational; but there was a fifth individual present whom Miss Ware could have cheerfully omitted from the assembly. Ralph Payson was leaning over the chair, and smilingly criticising the progress of the fair artist.

It was a pretty tableau—the tall, splendidly proportioned young man, with a dark wavy hair, and chocolate-brown eyes, and the exquisite flower-like beauty of the girl. Nor did Genevra fail to mark, with her scathing glance, the soft absorbing light of Ralph's eyes, and the deepening color in the brown cheek of the governess. And Genevra Ware stole softly along to her room, without having been seen; more deeply resolved than ever, that the little governess must be got rid of by fair means or foul.

She began her quiet machinations the very next morning.

"My dear aunt," said she, after they had entered the carriage for Mrs. Payson's usual drive "what on earth induces you to keep that little bit of an old fashioned slip of a governess? She has no style at all!"

"She's well enough," returned Mrs. Payson, apathetically, "and her services are exceedingly reasonable. As for style, the girls are so young that I really don't thing her manner makes much difference; although I must say, she's very ladylike—a clergyman's daughter, I'm told."

"A French governess is much preferable," urged Genevra, "And I heard yesterday, that Mademoiselle Merande was at present awaiting a situation."

"Nevertheless, I prefer Miss Monille. The children are very fond of her, and she is so obliging about keeping an eye to my laces and jewels and things."

Genevra was baffled; a repulse is not a defeat. She returned yet again to the charge—this time however from a new quarter.

"Ah! but my dear unsuspicious aunt, did it never occur to your superior wisdom, that somebody else was fond of Miss Monille, besides the children?"

Mrs. Payson turned her round blue eyes wonderingly towards Genevra.

"I don't know what you mean."

Genevra coughed meaningly.

"Your young brother-in-law seems fully to appreciate all Miss Monille's good qualities."

"Nonsense!" said Mrs. Payson, comfortably clasping her hands inside her ermine muff. "It is nothing on earth but one of Ralph's flirtations. Do let him amuse himself."

The campaign, thus far, had undoubtedly been an utter failure. Genevra, however, nothing disheartened or discouraged, set herself diligently to work to plan new expedients.

Ellice Monille could not long remain in ignorance of the fact that Genevra Ware was her bitter uncompromising enemy. All her little innocent arts to conciliate the haughty blonde—all her soft, winning ways, and gentle kindness, fell fruitless to the ground. And many a time, when Genevra's bitter sarcasm or sweeping glance of scorn brought the tears to those dark eyes, Ralph Payson would whisper soothingly, "Don't mind her ungenerous taunts, Ellice—they are not worth one of those sparkling drops!"

But Genevra bided her time with a concentrated malice, of which meek little Ellice could form no idea.

"You'll wear your famous Spanish point collar, aunt, of course, as it is to be a full dress occasion?"

"Certainly! Just hand it to me, Genevra, that's a darling!"

There was to be a morning concert at an aristocratic mansion. Mrs. Payson and Miss Ware had lunched early, and now after at least two hours diligently spent at the toilet were approaching the triumphant zenith of their labors.

"I'm determined I'll be the best dressed woman there, or I will retire from society!" was Mrs. Payson's inwardly breathed vow.

Consequently Mrs. Payson was absolutely gorgeous in a rose-colored brocade dress, strown all over with glistening silver leaflets, and so many diamonds flashing from her ample person that their intolerable glitter actually made poor Mary's eyes ache, as she surveyed the magnificent tout ensemble. Genevra Ware, scarcely less splendid, in a robe of lustrous white silk, and a heavy white opera cloak, trimmed with gold cord, stood by nonchalantly, playing with her silver bouquet-holder. She leaned over to look into the little satin-wood box.

"It is not there, aunt!"

"Not there!" echoed the lady. "It must be there, Genevra. I always keep it in that one box."

"Perhaps you have dropped it among the others," suggested Miss Ware.

Mrs. Payson sought nervously among her treasures, but in vain. She turned baskets, drawers and caskets upside down, in a chaos of hopeless confusion, with no better success. The Spanish point lace collar certainly was not there. The plump matron looked aghast at her niece.

"What can have become of it, Genevra?"

The young lady arched her golden eyebrows; "I am sure, I haven't the least idea, aunt."

"But it is a matter of consequence," panted Mrs. Payson, growing visibly pale beneath the artificial bloom on lip and cheek. "A fifty guinea piece of lace surely cannot have vanished without hands."

"Certainly not," assented Genevra. "Try and remember where you wore it last,"

"At Mrs. Marshall's musical soiree I believe—yes, I am quite sure of it—last Tuesday!" said Mrs. Payson, holding one jewelled hand to her forehead in a spasmodic effort at connected thought.

"Did you replace it in your box yourself?"

"No, I was very tired when I undressed, and Miss Monille took care of it."

"Ah, Miss Monille took care it, did she?" repeated Genevra dryly, "excellent care it would appear."

Mrs. Payson started involuntarily. "Genevra, what do you mean to insinuate?"

"Ah, my dear, confiding aunt," sighed Genevra, "your trust in human nature is too great. You judge everybody by your own frank disposition. I never have been able to comprehend the confidence you repose in Miss Monille. She had frequently admitted both in your presence and mine the fact of her poverty, and—"

"But surely Genevra," interrupted Mrs. Payson in a disturbed voice, "you don't suppose Ellice Monille has stolen my collar?"

Genevra depressed her long lashes with a gentle little regretful sigh.

"Dear aunt, we are all fallible, and it was a great temptation to place in the girl's way."

Mrs. Payson turned short round to her open-mouthed maid, who was eagerly listening to the conversation.

"Mary, go to the nursery, and tell Miss Monille that I desire to see her immediately, do you hear—immediately!"

And in a minute or two Miss Monille obeyed the summons all unconscious of the ordeal which awaited her.

"Miss Monille," began the lady abruptly, "where is my Spanish point collar?"

Ellice looked surprised.

"Is is not in the box, Mrs. Payson?"

"No, Miss Monille, it is not," angrily enunciated Mrs. Payson, beginning to grow very red in the face, "and I want you to understand that I will not be responsible for it!"

"Me!"

Ellice Monille's cheek had blanched.

"You certainly had it last," chimed in the cold, hard voice of Genevra Ware. "Believe me, Miss Monille, you will be consulting your best interests in giving it up at once."

"Giving it up!" There was color enough in Ellice's face now. "Do you for a moment believe Mrs. Payson, that I have taken your lace?"

Mrs. Payson flushed and faltered. There was something in the clear light of Ellice's eye that disconcerted her.

"Of course you have, there can be no doubt on the subject, and I insist on your at once returning it. I have searched in every imaginable place for it, and can come to no other conclusion."

"Address at once," urged Genevra, "and avoid the mortification of further exposure. My aunt will not be very hard on you, considering that it is your first offense."

Ellice turned upon Genevra like a hunted fawn at bay.

"How dare you address me in those terms Miss Ware? I, who am as innocent as yourself!"

"I will have no more of this at[illegible] Miss Monille," said Mrs. Payson, had grown very cold and rigid. but one alternative open to me Gene you will have the kindness to send a policeman to search Miss Monille'

I am surprised, Miss Monille—surprised and shocked at witnessing such wicked obduracy and depravity in one so young. You will be good enough to remain here in my presence until the policeman arrives. I do not wish this web of deceit and mystery to become any more complicated than is necessary."

And Ellice stood there white and silent, listening to the tumultuous beating of her own heart, and feeling the crimson heat sweep across her face, while Mrs. Payson calmly contemplated her hot-house bouquet and Genevra's blue eyes flashed full of fierce triumphant light; for she fancied that every moment now was widening the gulf between Ralph Payson and the pale governess who was accused as being a thief.

But in spite of the active and unrelenting search, no collar made its appearance.

"Oh, I supposed as much," said Genevra Ware scornfully. "Of course she was too wise to preserve any witness against herself."

Mrs. Payson's torpid nature was now fully aroused.

"You shall leave this house at once, girl" she said stamping her foot passionately, "and don't refer to me for any future character. I have no doubt that you stole my collar—you bad, ungrateful creature—though you have contrived to elude your deserts Don't stand there, but pack up your things at once! Good gracious! Only to think of the horrid influence to which my poor little girls have been exposed."

Ellice silently obeyed, moving like one who walks through the mazes of a bewildered dream. The strong meshes of circumstantial evidence seemed tightening even closer around her failing footsteps, and she felt the utter hopelessness of an appeal or remonstrance.

"Of course," resumed the indignant matron, giving her silk robes a toss as if to shake off the very atmosphere that the governess had breathed, "you will not have the audacity to ask for your quarter's salary. It is scarcely a fifth part of the value of the lace you have stolen from me"

Ellice made no reply. She knew that she was almost penniless; yet at that moment she would cheerfully have accepted starvation rather than have touched a coin of Mrs. Payson's money. And all this time Genevra stood looking on with a bitter curve on her lip and a malignant sparkle in her cold, cruel eyes.

Yes, she had triumphed at last.

From the mansion in Belgravia to a little house in a by-street, tenanted by no less than three distinct families, is rather an abrupt transition—but not more so—alas! than many of the transitions we meet with in this life. And Mrs. Benson was only the wife of a lawyer's clerk, and fondly imagined that her three rooms were the brightest little suite in Camden town.

And so they were with bright red curtains at the windows, and pots of mignonette drinking in the sunshine, and the black-leaded stove winking with red eyes of flame at the suspicious looking mahogany book-case that never held any books, but which turned into a bedstead at night in the most inconceivable manner. And Mrs. Benson singing at her work, and counting the hours until her husband should come home, never dreamed of the dark shadow of trial that was descending on the horizon of her young sister's life.

"Ellice! my darling!"

She started to her feet with a slight involuntary scream as the door opened, and Ellice Monille hurried in pale and trembling with large, dark eyes that seemed beyond the blessed relief of tears. Barbara Benson threw her arms around the new comer, and held her close, close to her heart, as she had held her years ago, in the first lonely moments of their mutual orphanage.

"What has happened Ellice? Tell me!"

And Ellice, for the first time finding the gateway of tears, sobbed out all her griefs upon that loving breast.

"It is a shame—a burning shame," reiterated little Mrs. Benson, biting her cherry lips, and striving desperately to keep back the tears. "Never mind darling, you shall stay with me. It won't be long before you succeed in obtaining a better situation and—"I shall never be able to obtain another situation, Barbara. My prospects for life are ruined by this strange misunderstanding," and Ellice's head drooped on her sister's shoulder.

"Misunderstanding! That is not the right word! Call it a wicked, double-dyed sin, Ellice!" exclaimed Mrs. Benson, her own tears dropping fast in sympathy; "Oh! when will the rich cease to oppress the poor? Is there no justice for us either on earth or in heaven?"

At that moment a knock sounded gently one the panels of the room door. Ellice started up, and the color blossomed out redly on her cheeks—roses beneath a rain of tears—as Ralph Payson entered the room.

"Mr. Payson!"

"Yes, it is I, Ellice. I have just heard the whole impossible tale," he said, coming to her side. "I knew you would naturally turn for refuge to your sister and ventured to follow you hither."

"You—you do not believe that I took the lace?" she faltered almost under her tremulous breath.

"Do I believe the white purity of heaven's angels is sullied by aught of earthly stain Ellice, if the whole world were to rise up in accusation against you, I should know you to be as innocent as a lily blossom."

"I am glad of that!—I am so glad of that" she murmured, with a moisture on her alder eyelashes.

"Ellice," he went on, "may I prove the respect and devotion I have felt for you since the moment in which we first met—may I ask you in this hour of trial and desolation to trust your future implicitly in my hands—to become my dear and cherished wife?"

She put her hand confusingly in his.

Sometime, perhaps—when this dark cloud has passed away from my life—"

The rest of the sentence was lost in tears, but in a moment she resumed—

"Oh, Ralph, don't think me cold or ungrateful. Your love would sustain me in a thousand such trials as this. And in the future—"

"I have nothing to do with the future, Ellice," he said with a certain quiet resolution that it was impossible to oppose. "I claim my treasure now. Before three days have passed, I wish to call you wife."

"Poor Ellice! it was a brief, strange, woeing—not at all like those she had dreamed of in her early youth. Yet her child-[illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] renter on its new prop and shelter. How could the lips syllable "No," when the heart spoke "Yes," with all the uppringing, electric impulses of its exceeding joy? And three days thence, after marriage by special license, the slender bride, looking shyly up into her husband's frank face, murmured, "Oh Ralph, I hope it is not wrong to be so very, very, happy."

"Wrong!" echoed Barbara Benson from behind her pocket-handkerchief, "as if God didn't intend all his creatures to be happy. I don't believe in the theology that wears a long face and shuts its eyes for fear of seeing heaven's sunshine."

Several days elapsed before Ralph Payson found any leisure to leave his pretty villa at Richmond, in order to pay a visit to the Belgravian mansion where he had first met his pretty little wife; and when he was at length ushered into the elegant boudoir where his portly sister-in-law trifled away the time, Mrs. Payson opened her eyes wide, and Miss Genevra Ware smiled a very fascinating welcome.

"Dear me, Ralph, what a stranger you are," said the elder lady, while Genevra drew forward a chair.

"Am I?" he returned drily. "It is very [illegible]sible, for much of my time latterly has been devoted to my wife."

"Your wif[illegible]!" echoed Mrs. Payson, scarcely credit[illegible] the evidence of her own ears. Genevra's soft color ebbed away, and she closed her hand over the book she had been reading, until the rich rings cut into her flesh.

"My wife. I was married last week to Ellice Monille."

"Ellice Monille! The girl that stole my—"

She was interrupted by the light footfall of Miss. Denham, the new governess—a tall, freckled lady, with light eyelashes and pertentously thin lips.

"Well, Miss Denham, what is it?" peltantly demanded Mrs. Payson. "What is the trouble in the nursery now? what have the children been doing? Really, I don't have a minute's peace in my life."

"I beg your pardon, ma'am," apologised the abashed governess, hesitating as to whether it would be better to advance or retreat; "but I thought you would be pleased to learn that your lace collar has been found!"

"Found!"

The words broke in an almost involuntary sound from Genevra Ware's ashy pale lips, as she leaned breathlessly forward.

"Yes ma'am, found. The children were playing with Miss Ware's desk—I told them it was wrong to touch it—but they are scarcely as amenable to discipline as I could wish And Laura dropped it, quite accidentally, breaking the hinges, and scattering the contents on the floor, and in the little secret drawer, whose spring was broken

"It is false! it is false!" shrieked Genevra, springing to her feet, with a face where all the evil passions strove together for mastery. "It is a concerted tale—a falsehood!"

The next minute she sank away on the sofa, in strong hysterics.

Mrs Payson shrank away from her niece. Genevra, as if her very touch was pollution, protecting her voluminous skirts from contamination with one hand, while with the other she took up her superb Spanish point collar, viewing it with a bewildered look. Ralph smiled a cold bitter smile, more akin to a sneer.

"I hope you are now satisfied, madam, who it was that stole your lace," he said speaking very calmly "The petty malice which could stoop to plan another's misery—perhaps ruin—on such a foundation as this, is beyond all words

"I—I am very sorry, Ralph, began Mrs Payson timidly

"Stop, madam—for mercy's sake, stop, your sorrow comes too late. You should have taken all these things into consideration long ago. My wife has no need of either pity or sympathy

"It is all [illegible] Payson. "I won't have her in the house another day. I will send her home this very night—the manœuvring rascal! To think that she should steal my Spanish point collar, and lay the blame on poor dear, little Ellice! Oh, the wickedness of this world!"

And Mrs. Payson in her genuine indignation at Genevra's duplicity, never, for a single instant, fancied that her own conduct had not been spotlessly correct and right. There are too many Mrs. Paysons in the world!

Miss Genevra Ware's husband-hunting expedition came to rather an unsuccessful termination, considering the amount of diplomacy she had expended on it. She went home that very day, per express train (for Mrs. Payson kept her word, and would listen to no coaxing expostulations,) in company with seven trunks, two bonnet-boxes, and a guitar case, reflecting bitterly on the result of her London campaign. For Genevra could not but admit to herself that although she had deprived Ellice Monille of her situation as governess, yet the situation that young lady had since obtained as wife, was infinitely preferable.

And Ellice was happy, with a calm, serene happiness that was like "clear shining after rain." Through trial, she had achieved a great and exceeding peace.

A WHOLE FAMILY ANNIHILATED BY A SIKE—The Fishkill (N. Y.) Standard give an account of extraordinary mortality in one family in that vicinity It records the death of James Morrison, who died on the 25th of July, and adds that the family of which he was a member has been singularly and dreadfully afflicted. On the 1st of August, Frederick S., and on the 6th, Charles W., two children of Henry Morrison, aged a little over one year, died. On the 15th, the father died. On the next day, the day of the funeral of the father, another son, aged about four years, named after his father, also died—and on Monday morning, James, brother to Mr. Morrison, died and was buried. The mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Morrison, had also been very sick, but is now as well as usual, we believe. This family, which one month ago was unbroken, is now nearly annihilated. They lived in the house opposite the head of Newburg avenue, surrounded by large trees, completely shutting out the sun nearly all day. A sink also courses its filth through the yard, and to these causes the family physician attributes the mortality which has taken place.

—Professor Lowe, who has been making short balloon ascensions from the New York Central Park, has in process of construction a bridal car, and announces that the next sensation will be the performance of the marriage ceremony in the clouds.

The Rose Tree.

There was once upon a time a good man who had two children; a girl by a first wife and a boy by the second. The girl was as white as milk, and her lips were like cherries. Her hair was like golden silk, and it hung to the ground. Her brother loved her dearly, but her wicked step mother hated her. "Child," said the step-mother one day, "go to the grocer's shop and buy me a pound of candles." She gave her the money, and the little girl went, bought the candles, and started on her return. There was a stile to cross. She put down the candles whilst she got over the stile. Up came a dog, and ran off with the candles.

She went back to the grocer's and got a second bunch. She came to the stile, set down the candles, and proceeded to climb over. Up came the dog and ran off with the candles.

She went again to the grocer's, and she got a third bunch, and just the same event happened. Then she came to her step-mother crying; for she had spent all the money and had lost three bunches of candles.

The step-mother was angry, but she pretended not to mind the loss. She said to the child, "Come, lay thy head upon my lap that I may comb thy hair." So the little one laid her head in the woman's lap, who proceeded to comb the yellow, silken hair. And when she combed, the hair fell over her knees, and rolled right down to the ground.

Then the step-mother hated her more for the beauty of her hair, so she said to her, "I cannot part thy hair on my knee, fetch a billet of wood." So she fetched it. Then said the step-mother: "I cannot part thy hair with a comb, fetch me an axe." So she fetched it.

"Now," said the wicked woman, "lay thy head down on the billet of wood whilst I part thy hair."

Well! she laid her little golden head down without fear; and, whist! down came the axe and it was off. So the mother wiped the axe and laughed.

Then she took the heart and liver of the little girl, and she stewed them, and brought them into the house for supper. The husband tasted them, and shook his head. He said they tasted very strangely. She gave some to the little boy, but he would not eat. She tried to force him, but he refused and ran out into the garden, and took up his little sister and put her in a box and buried the box under a rose tree; and every day he went to the rose tree and wept, and wept, and wept, till his tears ran down on the box.

One day the rose tree flowered. It was spring. There among the flowers was a white bird; and it sang, and sang, and sang like an angel out of heaven. Away it flew, and it flew, and it went to a cobbler's shop, and perched itself on a tree hard by; and this it sang:—

"My wicked mother slew me,
My dear father ate me,
My little brother, whom I love,
Sits below and I sing above,
Stick, stock, stone dead."

"Sing again that beautiful song," asked the shoemaker.

"If you will first give me those little red shoes you are making."

The cobbler gave the shoes, and the bird sang the song; then flew to a tree in front of a watchmaker's, and sang:—

"My wicked mother slew me,
My dear father ate me,
My little brother, whom I love,
Sits below and I sing above,
Stick, stock, stone dead."

"Oh, the beautiful song! sing it again, sweet bird," asked the watchmaker.

"If you will give me first that gold watch and chain in your hand."

The jeweller gave the watch and chain. The bird took it in one foot, and the shoes in the other, and flew away after having repeated the song, to where three millers were picking a mill-stone. The bird perched on a tree and sang:—

"My wicked mother slew me,
My dear father ate me,
My little brother, whom I love,
Sits below while I sing above,
Stick!"

Then one of the men put down his tool, and looked up from his work:

"Stock!"

Then the second miller's man laid aside his tool, and looked up:

"Stone!"

Then the third miller's man laid down his tool, and looked up:

"Dead!"

Then all three cried out with one voice: "oh, what a beautiful song! sing it, sweet bird, again."

"If you will put the mill stone round my neck," said the bird.

The men complied with the bird's request, and away to the tree it flew with the mill-stone round its neck, and the red shoes in the grass of our foot, and the gold watch and chain in the grass of the other. It sang the song, and then flew home. It rattled the mill-stone against the eaves of the house, and the step-mother said "It thunders. Then the little boy ran out to see the thunder, and down dropped the red shoes at his feet. It rattled the mill-stone against the eaves of the house once more, and the step-mother said again. "It thunders." Then the father ran out, and down fell the watch and chain about his neck.

He ran the father and son laughing and saying: "See! the thunder has brought us these fine things." Then the bird rattled the mill-stone against the eaves a third time, and the step-mother said: "It thunders again; perhaps the thunder has brought something for me," and she ran out; but the moment she stepped outside the door, down fell the mill-stone upon her head; and so she died.

This is the same story as the German tale of "The Juniper Tree," but differs from it in many particulars. In the German story the boy is killed, not the girl; and he is killed by the shutting down of the lid of a box on his neck, as he is looking at some apples. The father is not made to eat of the flesh either; though in the corresponding Greek tale of Asterinos and the Pulja, the bad woman tries to make the sister eat of it. In the Greek story an apple tree grows out of the grave, and bears a golden apple, not a bird

In the Hungarian tale (Erdglyi Nepmesek, 5), "A mosolygo alma," the life of two princes is bound up with golden pear trees, which a step mother hews down. From them goes forth a bird which lays two golden eggs, and out of these eggs come forth the princes unhurt.

The mill stone occurs in many household tales as thunder

I have no doubt that there is a mythological root to this curious story.

There are several versions of this same story among the Slavic nations.

Saturday Press-tigiation.

The New York Saturday Press continues to abound in good things. Here are some of the best in last weeks' number:

Reports of more railroad massacres come to us every hour. The poor fool who attempted to commit suicide on one of the trains the other day, should have kept on traveling and bided his time. If we were in a hurry to "quit the surface of the earth," we should buy a railroad ticket at once. The imaginary "Under-ground Railroad" has given way to a literal one, which insures us the swiftest and surest passage to the grave.

Ketchum and Jenkins are to be put on trial on the first Monday in October. We will lay a small cable that neither of them will be convicted in six months.

Church, the artist, is said to be engaged in painting a "waterfall" which recently attracted his attention on Broadway.

Laugh and Grow Fattities.

A correspondent, an engineer, tells the following story of western life: "We had been busy during the day running a line through a dense piece of woodland. An old woman gazed on us for some time in silence. We all saw that she wished to enter into conversation, and none with the exception of myself wished to gratify her. I soon commenced a dialogue on various matters and subjects, and of course, put my best foot forward. Struck with my language, she exclaimed in a tone quite flattering to my vanity, "La, how larned you are!" But the compliment received a death blow "If I was as high larned a scholar as you," continued she, "I quit inginearin, and go to keepin a little grocery."

—"Goin to clear eh?" called out one farmer to another. "Well, I don't know," was the reply. "This plaguey mist is so thick, the sun don't seem to get a purchase on it!"

DIARY FOR A HOT WEEK.—(By "Our Own Sluggard," who is determined at last [illegible] can be done.

Monday—Being early in the week, don't be too precipitate in doing anything.

Tuesday—Determined not to let the week go by without doing something brilliant.

Wednesday—Resolve on vigorous measures for to-morrow.

Thursday—Mature yesterday's deliberations.

Friday—Rather too late in the week to do anything.

Saturday—Give yourself up to society and consult friends (who know best) what is to be done next week.

—"Ah, Sam, so you've been in trouble, have you?" "Yes, Jim, yes." "Well cheer up, man; adversity tries us, and shows us our best qualities." "Ah, but adversity didn't try me, it was an old vagabond of a judge, and he showed up my worst qualities."

The La Crosse (Wis.) Republican says that a returned soldier recently called for a glass of beer in that city, and it was dealt out to him in a small glass. He asked the saloon keeper if he had a pocket handkerchief to lend him. The rag was handed over, and he deliberately tied one end of it to the handle of the mug, and told the saloon man to hold the other while he drank his beer. Very much surprised, he asked the soldier what he meant by such a proceeding. "Nothing," he answered "Only the glass is so small I was afraid I might swallow it."

—"Oh Jacob," said a master to his apprentice boy, "it is wonderful to see what a quantity you can eat."

"Yes, master," replied the boy, "I have been practising since I was a child."

The late Archbishop of Dublin once inquired of a physician, "why does the operation of hanging, kill a man."

"Because," answered the physician, "inspiration is checked, circulation stopped, and the blood suffuses and congests the brain."

"Bosh," replied his Grace," it is because the rope is not long enough to let his feet touch the ground."

—A hotel and livery stable keeper at a fashionable watering place, advertises, with other inducements to visitors, "Sociables for young ladies and gentlemen, and Sulks for married folks."

WESTERN PRACTICE.—A Western pettifogger once broke forth in the following indignant strain:

"Sir, we're enough for ye—the bull of ye. Me and my client can't never be intimidated nor tyrrannized over, mark that, and sir, just so sure as this court decides against us, we will file a writ of propigander, sir, and—"

"May I inquire what the gentleman means by a 'writ of propigander?'" interrupted the opposite counsel.

"Mean? Why sir, a writ of propigander is a—a—a—in short a writ of propigander is a—a—a—wall, I don't remember the exact word; but it's what 'll knock thunder out of your one-horse court, anyhow."

GENEROUS.—"Oh!" exclaimed an honest fellow, bewailing the trouble of a friend, "I'd give half my life for the poor fellow."

"Yes," answered a regular son of Erin, "yes, I'd be after swearin ye'z always ready for that; but if yez would, sure and it's the half ye'z done wid."

—The article called a "water-fall" which Mr. Childs in The Independent, says "looks like a cabbage in a net," but which is so popular at the present time with the ladies, is an ancient institution. Witness Mark Anthony:

"Water-fall was there my countrymen"

This gives it the date of Julius Cæsar, unless Shakspeare was guilty of anachronism.

—An Irishman called on a lady and gentleman in whose employ he was, for the purpose of getting some tea and tobacco. "I had a drame last night yer honor," said he to the gentleman. "What is it, Pat?" "Why I dramed that yer honor made me a prisent of a pound of tobacey, and her ladyship there—heaven bless her—gave me some tay for the good wife." "Ah Pat, dreams go by contraries," said the gentleman. "And faith, they may that," said Pat, "so her ladyship is to give me tobacey, and his honor the tay."

A TEASING PUN.—"Do you know who built this bridge?" said a person to Hook. "No," replied the wit, "but if you go over, you'll be tolled."

—On the tombstone over the grave of a husband and wife, are the following lines:

"Within this grave do lie,
Back to back, my wife and I;
When the last trump the air shall fill,
If she gets up, I'll feel the chill."

—When Madge was a very little girl, her father found her chubby hands full of the blossoms of a choice tea rose on which he had bestowed great care. "My dear, "said he, "didn't I tell you not to pick one of those flowers without leave?" "Yes, papa" said Madge innocently, "but all these had leaves."

—About a week ago, says the New York Tribune, a Milesian female of huge proportions and irate looks, approached one of the departments at the post office, and not immediately seeing a clerk, began to thump the boards and create quite a commotion, when the clerk appeared, and remonstrated with her on the impropriety of her conduct. She looked at him fiercely, placed her arms akimbo, turned up a nose which nature had sufficiently turned up before, jerked her head, crowned with an abundance of red hair, toward the left side, and looking as if she sought to annihilate him with a glance of mingled rage and malice, exclaimed:

"Where's mo letther?"

"What letter, madam?"

"Never mind now, give me mo munny."

"What money?"

"What munny? why the three cints I gev ye to sing a letther to Boiston."

"Why do you want the money then?"

"For the letther niver wint."

"How do you know that?"

"Becuse when the Postmasther answered it, she said she niver resaived it."

"How then did he answer it if he never got it?"

"Be aisy and hould yer whist, and give me the munny. Will ye or no?"

"Certainly not. You must be mad to ask it."

"Me mad?"

"Yes, mad as a March hare."

"Did ye call me a hare?"

At which interrogatory the clerk smiled, when the enraged woman burst into the following rejoinder, and departed:

"Bad cess to yez, ye dirthy spalpeen, af I had a hoult of yez by the throttle, I'd pull the wizzhen out of yez and well yer soul like an ould shoo, ye dirthy omadthawn." (Anglice, fool.)

AGRICULTURAL.

CIDER—In 1864, there were 65,816 barrels of cider made in the state of Michigan. The quality and value of the cider varied greatly, depending almost entirely on the quality of apples used, and the care taken in making the cider. The apples used should always be ripe, sound and clean. These conditions are frequently neglected, but are none the less important. We do not see immature, decaying or dirty fruit, and the juice from such cannot make pure and healthful cider. Many persons are careless on these points, but they should remember that cider is to be used by human beings, and should be as clear and pure as any other article of food or drink. Not only the fruit, but the mill, the press and the vessels in which the juice is kept, should be scrupulously clean. It will be impossible to make the best of cider if this is not done. Care should be exercised to keep all the pomace out of the cider. It has been recommended to use cloth instead of straw to press the juice through.

After the cider is made, is should be put in clean barrels and set in a cool cellar, at least kept from the sun. The bung should be left open until fermentation commences. After this it may be closed, and the gas allowed to escape through a tube bent down into a vessel of water. Many persons keep cider by allowing it to ferment to their taste and then putting mustard, isinglass or other substances into it. Various preparations have been made and sold for this purpose, some of which are objectionable.

WONDERFUL HEN STORY.—A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer supplies the following: "I have a brownish white hen, with the feathers about the neck slightly penciled in gold color, and her head decorated with a small crest. A month or two since, she desired to set. I tried for a week to break her of the notion, having no eggs that I cared about putting under her. But she seemed so determined, that I finally obtained eleven eggs of the Poland variety, and gave them to her. When she came off to feed the next day, I discovered a large buff egg in her nest. I then marked the Poland eggs, and shut the other fowls on suspecting them of intrusion. Next day I found another egg, and so on for fifteen days, Miss Biddie continuing to furnish her one egg daily. At the proper time, she came off with eleven chickens. They are now nearly a week old, and as lively as crickets. If Mr. Bement, or any other man who is a fancier of fancy poultry, can produce anything to beat this uncommon barnyard fowl, I should like to know it.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD.—Fathers, take care to preserve the homestead. It will pay; yes, even if you build another. Do you doubt it? Go to Quincy. You see the modest abode of the father of the second President of the Union. Near by is the home of his son. Near by, that of his grandson; and not far off that of our present minister to the court of St. James. Near by,

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan

One of the best filled Establishments

A LARGE STOCK,

Most Varied

Is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEWBUILDING,

South Side Chicago St., Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various Styles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notic by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pictures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style,

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

Boots, Boots,

SHOES, SHOES,

Closing out Sale!!

J H Wheeler

is selling Boots and Shoes at Cost to m room for other Goods Better bargain be had in Boots and Shoes there than can be found elsewhere in the county Also great bargains in

DRY GOODS,

Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods!!

Call and examine his stock and you will be sure to buy

L. DREW'S NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass. Window Sashes,

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—one and try it.

L. DREW.

This is the place never mind the Black Beard,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deuel & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO,
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK, LARD, COD FISH and in fact everything that anybody or his brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

As all our neighbors know

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just received from New York, and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c

all of which will be sold very low for cash Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hood's, north side of Chicago street.

DISSOLUTION:

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

M. S. & N. I. Rail Rad.

Winter Arrangement.

1864. 1864.

On and after May 16th, 1864, Passenger trains will leave Tecumseh station as follows, daily except Sunday:

GOING EAST.

Leave 7.08 a. m., arrive at Adrian 8.00 Toledo, 9.15 a. m. Leave 1.06 p. m. arrive at Adrian 1.40. Toledo 3.45 p. m.

Both trains connecting at Toledo with trains for the east.

Trains leave Adrian for Chicago, 3.50 a. m. and 2.05 p. m. Leave Adrian for Hillsdale, 6.18 p. m. Leave Adrian for Detroit 8.00 a. m. and 2.40 p. m.

GOING WEST.

Leave 9.32 a. m. arrive at Jackson, 11.00 a. m. Leave 6.40 p. m. arrive at Jackson, 9.00 p. m.

For full details, see the Company's Posters and Time Tables at the Depot and other public places.

Trains are run by Chicago time, which is twenty minutes slower than Toledo or Detroit time.

C. P. LELAND, Gen'l Passenger Ag't. Toledo.
H. H. PORTER, Gen'l Sup't. Toledo

☞ Now is the time to subscribe and pay for the Tecumseh HERALD.

---

18 Pronunciemento 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour suit.

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd est Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Midlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. W. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle.
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around. Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE,

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sat.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL,

Corn In the Ear and Shelled.

A good assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood.— Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantible Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN

WARD & STRICKLAND,

Are now Receiving Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6,

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT:

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the strongest, most flexible, elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single Springs, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Springs, Railroad cars, Church pews, Arm chairs for a promenade and house dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 2 ply twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the Single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts — The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Double Steel and twice or double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c. &c., which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant corded tapes and are the best quality in every pure, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible, and are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

Weeks' Bradley & Cary, Proprietors of the Invention, and Sole Manufacturers 97 Chambers and 79 & Reade Streets, New York.

For Sale in all first class Stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada Havanna de Cuba, Mexico, South America, and the West Indies.

☞ Inquire for the Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

Old and young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,

SOLE PROPRIETORS,

NEW YORK.

D. NOTEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases, will visit Tecumseh the

1st & 2d of Every Month,

for Consultation with patients. Cancers and Scrofulus Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Incipient Consumption cured in three to five months. Liver Complaint, Dispepsia, and Constipation cured in 2 to 4 months. Piles Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs yield readily to his treatment. Prolepsus Uteri he is master of. Charges reasonable according to ability to pay: the really poor will be treated gratis. He will be at Comstock & Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence on Building Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars (See Circulars.

DENTISTRY

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's, Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices

---

F. R. Stebbins,

Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

Advantages of this Plow,

It will last from three to six times longer than any other Steel Plow made anywhere to compete with it, and many times proved to outlast two sets of molds, necessarily to be laid on, discount one set of strands in the mold, to which shovels have been habitually cast to enough in plowing thirty acres or less, it having already proved over three hundred sets of the same mold without yet being laid worn.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed. If shovel is not of ground anywhere in which it will not scour, we have yet to find it.

It draws lighter than any other Plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, or a Point welded on, as readily as on ordinary Plows, by any blacksmith.

Any section can be replaced by a duplicate, to be had of any Agent, as the Share, Landside and Mouldboar is are cast in moulds

It is well stocked with New England second-growth timber, and the standard is wrought iron, with "slots" in the cap so as to give or take land at pleasure.

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, works perfectly in either stubble or turf, leaves a clean furrow, and turns under stubble and foul trash completely

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the world, just as sure as there is economy in paying six dollars once, rather than five dollars five or six times every year — in not losing time and your temper because your Plow won't "scour!" — and in doing a quarter of a fifth more work, with the same power. The quality and quantity of work it will endure or perform must be considered, as well as the cost price in determining whether or not the Plow is cheap. Plows are used for profit, not the use of which demand dollars and cents can be put up proportion to the cost, to be cheapest, and we are confident a man will get more than a hundred dollars worth of work every time he gets one of these.

These remarks are made after a familiarity with the merits of most of the good Plows in use in the West, many of which have justly earned a good reputation

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for stubble and foul ground. It is intended to not have lost over the "C" pattern the good for both turf and stubble. The "B" and "C" patterns together will enable us to meet the views of all as to shape, and give them either "bold" or "clean" plows as they prefer

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Slayton, Tecumseh.

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, herbs and berbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and to their use gained as great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gold label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pietors & Co.,
No. 21 River Street Chicago

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co, that he is still located in the Brick Shop on Railroad Street, Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young america. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days, I

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap, Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, woolen and Straw

HATS AND CAPS

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands

Also a splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions,

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday, the 30th day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate In the matter of the estate of John Culbertson deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of John E. Culbertson a son of said deceased, praying that the last will of said deceased may be proved and allowed and that Robert Culbertson may be appointed executor thereat.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 16th day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner . . . should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the said Petitioner . . give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petion, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ROBERT R. BEECHER,

(A true Copy) n759 Judge of Probate.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Wednesday the 23d day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R Beecher, Judge of Probate In the matter of the estate of Anna Dibble, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of John Chever administrator of said estate praying that his final account with said estate may be allowed and that distribution of said estate may be made to those entitled to the same and that he may be discharged.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 16th day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted:

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate

(A true copy) n767w4

Corporation Notice.

The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock, P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock, for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c. at

A. JAMES

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS

is the place to get good grinding done. I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

Kept constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good logs and good slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c. I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort

Here We Come

WITH

GOOD NEWS

For Everybody.

DRY GOODS

AND

FANCY GOODS,

of every description, cheaper than the cheapest and good as the best. Just received a VERY LARGE and well selected STOCK of

FANCY DRESS GOODS,
ALAPACCAS, MERINOS, PRINTS,
DELAINES, FANCY FLANNELS,
BALMORALS BROWN AND BLEACHED SHEETINGS,

HOOP SKIRTS,

HOSIERY, GLOVES,
BELT RIBBONS, BELT BUCKLES,
FANCY DRESS BUTTONS &c.

Including many other articles to numerous to mention, all of which we place ourselves to sell

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Do not fail to call and see us and examine our

GOODS AND PRICES

No. 2 MECHANICS BLOCK

C. H. ADAM & CO.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Conterfeiter Arrested!!

RICHMOND NOT YET TAKEN

Those Life-like pictures taken at the gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are the counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his operations in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most superior manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 20. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 5 1865. WHOLE NO. 774.

NEW FIRM.

NEW GOODS AND

NEW ARRANGEMENTS.

The subscribers have formed a copartnership in the Dry Goods Trade, and offer for sale, at the old stand of O. Lawrence, next door to the Post Office, an entire new stock of

STAPLE AND FANCY GOODS,

consisting of Dress Goods, Yankee Notions, Brown and Bleached Muslins, Clothes Trimmings &c. Also a large and well selected stock of Crockery and Glass-Ware.

The above goods were bought for cash and will be sold as low as can be bought in Southern Michigan. Give us a call

ANDERSON & LARNED.

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, MICH

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions.

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n708 A. JAMES.

Now is an excellent and fitting opportunity for subscribing for the HERALD

JUST ARRIVED!

And yet to come

1000 CASES!

MENS, BOYS and YOUTHS BOOTS, and LADIES, MISSES, and CHILDREN SHOES.

Those goods were all bought before the present 'Panic for High Prices' and will be

SOLD LOWER

Than the same goods can be bought to day. N.B. Persons in search of 'Shoddy' are respectfully informed that I keep only the very best goods and

WARRANT ALL GOODS,

As represented.

Particular attention IS called to my Stock of HAND MADE,

BOYS BOOTS

Brought direct from the manufactures; every pair warranted,

MENS, LADIES, MISSES and CHILDRENS RUBBERS In great abundence.

The shop in charge of an experienced foreman is turning out piles of work, and every person that leaves a measure gets

PARTICULAR FITS.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine.

Shoe Pacs,

A new water-proof Boot for Farmers, Lumbermen and Hunters. Laceds and Tassels in a variety of colors,

E. H. HOAG.

COPARTNERSHIP!

The undersigned having hormed a Copartnership under the name of

A. Hood & Co-

Are now receiving at the Old Stand of A Hood, Anderson's Block,

A LARGE STOCK

—OF—

NEW GOODS

Direct from New York consisting of

Ready Made Clothing!

A splendid assortment of THE LATEST STYLES of cloths that could be found in the Eastern markets, Consisting of

BROAD CLOTHS, DOESKINS, FREFCH, SCOTCH and ENGLISH CASSIMERES, COATINGS, VESTINGS, OVER COATINGS, &c. Also a heavy

STOCK OF WOOLEN SHIRTS

Of all styles, UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, SUSPENDERS, GLOVES, HOSIERY. A nice assortment of

HATS & CAPS!

Vanishing Goods!

Of all kinds for mens wear, We mean to keep on hand as good a selection of goods in our line as can be found in any one establishment in the County and for CASH we will sell them as low, or a little lower than any other establishment in the County.

Our Tailoring Department is in full blast. We are prepared to get up Suits on SHORT NOTICE. In as GOOD STYLE, and at as low figures as any other establishment.

CUTTING DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

H. M. GRAY. A. HOOD.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

—o—

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

han any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

—o—

CASH FOR RAGS!

—o—

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,

JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Muic,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

NEW MILLINERY AND Fancy Goods Store.

—o—

Mrs L. WILBUR, would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that she has just purchased the largest and best assortment of Millinery Goods ever brought to this place. She intends to keep a large stock of BONNETS, RIBBONS, FLOWERS, LACES, HATS, HEAD DRESES, PLUMES FEATHERS, and in fact everything to be found in the Millinery line constantly on hand Particular attention paid to Bleaching and Repairing straws. Be sure to call. Shop in rooms formerly occupied by Mrs. O. McCoy.

I also have a large assortment of Fancy Goods consisting of Hoops, Traveling baskets, Merino vests and drawers, Hosiery Gloves, Dress Triming &c to which I would call the attention of the ladies, I am offering my stock at low prices and would respectfully solicit a share of your patronage.

Mrs. L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Sept. 14th, 1865.

A ministrator's Sale.

Estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased: Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County Michigan, made in said estate on the 18th day of September 1865, empowering and licensing me thereto I shall on the 4th day of November 1865, at the premises hereinafter described in the village of Tecumseh in said county, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, sell at public vendue, the interest said deceased died seised in and do the undivided one third of all that certain tract or parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh Michigan known bounded and described as follows viz: Commencing at a point in the north side of Chicago street in said village forty-one and one half feet east of the east line of Evans Street measuring from intersection thereof by said north line of Chicago street running thence east on said north line of Chicago street fourteen feet thence north at right angles with Chicago street eighty-nine feet, thence west parallel with Chicago street, fourteen feet and thence south at right angles with Chicago Street eighty-nine feet to the place of beginning with the privilege of an alley ten feet wide adjoining the north end of the above described land—subject to its share of the incumbrance of fifteen hundred dollars in a mortgage upon the undivided premises made by Wooster Taylor, Oliver B Taylor and said deceased to John S. Strong bearing date on or about March 25d 1864 with interest from said date.—Terms published on day of sale.

Tecumseh, Mich, Sept. 19th 1865.

OLIVER B. TAYLOR.
Administrator of said estate.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c, at

A. JAMES

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

Express Freight,	7:08 A. M
Mail and Express,	1:06 P. M.
GOING NORTH.
Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40 P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD.
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD S. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES.
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING.
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet, &c.
Chicao St. Tecumseh, Mich

P. N. CURTIS.
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Faints &c.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER.
Attorney's, Counsellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harnass and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

TINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. DAMS.
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. C. SATTERTHWAITE.
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL.
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM.
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. R. PALMER, Attorney at Law, and Notary Public, Lake Ridge, M Particular attention paid to collections in any part of Michigan. Is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising.

One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 Wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 80	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12.00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10.00	14.00
1 Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	18.00
1 Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	40.00

No advertisement considered less than one square Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted on $3.50 per year.

Work usually executed at this office. Charges reasonable

To Our Friends

You will confer a favor on us by soliciting the Judge of Probate to publish Probate Notices in the HERALD, and you will also find it convenience to your selves to have the advertisements in the paper you receive.

Go to Moore's for Shawls, Balmoral and Hoop Skirts.

An excellent assortment of Cloak Ornaments and Trimmings can be procured at R. C. Moore's,

Hon. Z. Chandler will please accept our thanks for valuable Congressional Documents.

Ketcham has received Harper's Atlantic, Godey's Peterson's Leslie's Arthur's, Oon Young Folks and Mme DeMorests Magazines for October.

Constitution Bitters, which took the First Premium at the State Fair, also Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters and Roback's Bitters, all for sale at the Drug Store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

Esther C. Weeks delivered a lecture before the friends of Tecumseh and vicinity, on Wednesday evening last at the Methodist church The housewas well filled and the lecture gave general satisfaction.

Never were tenements so scarce in Tecumseh as at this time Every house and shanty is occupied and the demand is great Put up tenements on your vacant lots, oh, capitalists, and charge your own price for rents, and it will be readily paid.

The Atlantic Monthly for October has already made its appearance It contains the 2d article on Coupon Bonds, a continuation of Needle and Garden and Doctor Johns, an interesting article upon Saints who have had bodies, and an excellent poem entitled Abraham Lincoln, besides much other interesting reading.

Mrs. A. L. Daskam would respectfully announce to the ladies of Tecumseh, that she has opened a Dress Making Establishment over Mrs. Wilber's Millinery Rooms, where she will be happy to see all who may favor her with a call. She is prepared to do machine stiching and embrodiery, cutting patterns &c., in the latest styles.

J. D. Robbins is now receiving some very beautiful patterns of new Style Jewelry, and we noticed he also had a new diamond sett enameled gold case watch; something new for Tecumseh We would recommend any of our friends, either wishing to buy or examine, to go as we did and see for themselves Joe D will try and please.

Workmen have broken ground upon the site of the new Presbyterian Church and preparations have been made for pushing along the work as rapidly as possible. We have examined the plans from which the society propose to build, and can safely say that their church when completed, will be the largest and most beautiful in the village.

We are under obligations to the following gent'emen for some rare specimens of the "delicacies of the season." J. Herbison, 14 apples weighing 15 lbs, the largest weighing 1 1-2 lbs and measuring 15 inches in circumference. W. Comfort, one hill of sweet potatoes weighing 10 1 2 lbs, the largest one weighing 4 1 2 lbs. J. Getty, a pail of red raspberries, the second growth on the same vines this year.

C. H. Adam & Co. are just opening a large and splendid assortment of Fall and Winter Goods,—embracing all the newest and best styles of Merinoes, Alipacas, Delaines, Scotch Plads, and Dress Goods of every description.—also, Cloth for men's wear, that we should think would never wear out, They purchased for cash at the very lowest prices, during the late decline in goods, and they are bound to sell for cash as low as any such goods can be sold in the west. Call and see their goods and prices.

Notice is hereby given that for the purpose of making an examination of all persons who may offer themselves as candidates for teachers of the primary schools of this township, the Board of School inspectors thereof will meet at the School House in school district No, 6, (one mile west of town house) on Saturday, Oct. 7th, at 1 o'clock P. M.

WOLSTON COMFORT, Town Clerk.
Raisin Township, 9 m, 25th, 1865

The Fall Trade commences brisk and promises to continue so. The amount of goods purchased for this market is larger than heretofore. Among the well selected stocks received, we notice our friend James Wheeler has made arrangements to supply the community at large (and more too) with Dry Goods, Hats & Caps, Boots & Shoes, and Gents' Furnishing Goods Our friends should examine his stock before purchasing. James delights in selling goods cheap, and when excited, has been known to sell Hats and Caps at New York cost, or less—to printers.

State Fair Premiums

The list of premiums given at the State Fair, has been published, and in it we find many names from Lenawee We append the names of those who took prizes, with the articles exhibited, and the amount of the premiums.

E Smith of Clinton, took thirteen premiums amounting in the aggregate to $185.

Wm. A. Hall, 3 premiums on cattle, $22.

T. T Hancket, Tecumseh, 2 premiums on steers, $20.

J. W. Keeney, Franklin, steer one year old 1st. premium, $5,00,

John Gray, Tecumseh, stallions 4 years, 1st. premium, $25.

E. Smith, three premiums on horses, $24.

A. H Reed, Tecumseh, matched horses, 1st premium, $12,

B. J. Bidwell, two prizes on sheep, $12,

J. W. Keeney Franklin, two prizes on sheep, $18.

A. J. Hunter, Franklin, ewes 3 years, $16

B. J. Bidwell, Tecumseh, three prizes on hogs, $20.

Ben Kelly, Tecumseh, best boar, $5,

A. K. Waldron, Tecumseh, grass breed sow, $5.

A, K. Waldron, two prizes for poultry, $5

B, Holloway, one prize for poultry, $2

A. H. Chaplin, Tecumseh, horse rake, $3

DeWitt Tallman, " 1 bu barley, $3.

Ben Kelly, " 1 bu timothy $2.

J, B, Hampton, Franklin, 1-2 bu best corn flour, $1.

W, Comfort, Raisin, 1 bl flour, $3, and Diploma,

Samuel Rappleyee, Ridgeway, 1-2 bu potatoes, $3.

Wm, Satterthwaite, Tecumseh, three hubbard squashes. $1.

Samuel Rappleyee, Ridgeway 1-2 peck red tomatoes, $1,

A. K Waldron, Tecumseh, two prizes for butter, $11.

Benj. Kelly, " one cheese, $3.

" " " three loaves salt raising bread, $5.

Mrs C. D. Satterthwaite, brown bread, made by girl 16 years or under, 1st pre. $3

Mrs, M. J. Satterthwaite, ripe cucumber pickles, $1.

" " tomato catsup, 1.

" " crab apple jelly, 1.

Anna T. Lee, Raisin, pair wool blankets, 4

Mary E, Lee, " 11 yds wool cloth, 4.

" " " two pair blankets. 2

M. B. House, Clinton, display of gloves Three dollars an Diploma.

Mrs C. M. Cissell, Tecumseh, photograph and cards, $2.

Benj. Kelly, Tecumseh, cone frame, 2.

Miss Kate Bellmar, Tecumseh, crochet tidy, $3.

Joseph Pennington, Macon, 7 premiums on apples, $42.

Samuel Rappleyee, Ridgeway, for autumn apples, $3.

Wm. Satterthwaite, Tecumseh, quinces $2

Geo. C, Monaghan, Springville, two prizes on cranberries, $4.

S, Rappleyee, 2 prizes on watermelons $3

Joseph Pennington, nutmeg melons, $2

J. L. Tallman, Tecumseh Specimen peat, Diploma.

Tindall & Slayton, plastic slate roofing, diploma.

New Goods,

R. C. Moore has received and is receiving an excellent stock of Dry Goods, which were bought before the late rise in the market. Moore, as we all know sells cheap, and connected with the low price, the best of Goods. Don't fail to call and examine his stock before purchasing elsewhere, Cassimeres, Broad-Clothes, Ladies Cloaking, Flannels, White, Red and Plaid, &c, can be found there, Dress Goods of every discription lower than can be bought at New York City. R C. Moore has engaged the services of Geo F. Wastell, where he will be pleased to meet his many friends, and they will ever find him ready to wait upon them with pleasure and promptness.

Anagram.

Ilo! 'ist eewh ot eb bemredmeer
Hewn uro file ash tosl sti oolbm,
Nad ecyrv gimnuorn uns ew teem,
Aym vesel su ta het botm;
Ehwn rou uothy si lahf ttorngofe,
Adu ew zage hiwt nngireay nodf,
Mrof a lordw hwree lal rae nigdy,
Ot a lssedathl wrodl yebdon,
Sit weets ot eb mrneeeenbd,
Sa het ratss hemremer githn,
Sininghwoodnard grothun eth kardssen,
Thiw s rupe dan lyho hitig -

Answer next week.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our patrons to the Boot and Shoe store of our friend Hoag. It would be superfluous to say that his stock is large and well selected, as every one is convinced of the fact with one visit to his Mammoth Establishment. Mr. H., is now east for a fresh stock of Fall and Winter goods, and promises to add largely to his ready-made work, and also make arrangements for the manufacture of finer grades of work than has ever been produced in Southern Michigan. Such a "Shoe Shop" has long been needed in the town and its proprietor fully deserves the liberal patronage he has thus far received.

Prof. Leland has commenced a second term of singing lessons He is teaching a juvinile and also an adult class. He proposes to begin a course of fifteen lessons for adults on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock.—He charges $1 00 for the course and will have three lessons a week We think this an excellent opportunity for our several choirs to undergo a drill in singing, something of which they all stand in need.

Died,

In this Village, on Sunday Oct. 1st, 1865, of Consumption, Mrs. Laura wife of A. J. Woodard, in the 29th year of her age.

Obituary.

Mrs. Caroline F. Steel, whose death on Sunday evening, September 24th, was noticed in the Herald of last week, was a native of Saratoga County, New York, and had resided in this village some twenty-two years. She was a christian lady of more than usual attainments, both in learning and piety.—None knew her, but to esteem her for her gentle, but firm and consistent attachment to her religious faith, which was that of the Episcopal Church, and in her church relations she was one on whom the church coul invariably rely for sympathy and support.

She was kind and gentle in all her domestic and family relations; and was a good neighbor, and a true friend. Her sickness was severe and protracted, but she bore it with great resignation, and Christian fortitude, and though at times her assurance of her good estate as a Christian was shaken somewhat, she generally had a calm and peaceful trust, that all was well, and finally died in great peace—saying she was perfectly happy. Her funeral was largely attended at the Episcopal Church, where a sermon was preached by the Rector, Rev. Mr. Ray, from the text, "I would not live alway. R.

Last Friday and Saturday our lovers of fast stock were regaled with a couple of horse races. On Friday the 'Glencoe Colt' owned by Snell & Burroughs, ran an eighty rod race with an Indiana horse, beating him some fifteen feet. The race was a very fair one, the Hoosier putting in his best licks, but the colt was too much for him. On Saturday afternoon the colt ran with the 'Backus Mare' from New York, and was himself beaten about the same distance that he beat the Hoosier the day before. But, although the colt was beaten, he virtually won the race One of the rules in running an eighty rod race is this: That the horses should carry riders of equal weight, and in case of an unequality of weight, one foot is allowed to each pound in excess The rider of the mare was a boy weighing but 63 pounds, while the rider of the colt weighed 127 pounds, making a difference in weight of 64 pounds. The colt was beaten 19 feet, but allowing a foot to the pound, he actually won the race by 45 feet. The owners of the mare refused to run except at these odds and Snell & Burroughs consented to try them on that ground. We think the friends of the colt have no reason to be ashamed of him. The Backus Mare has been traveling for several years past and is one of the fastest runners in the country.

Musical Festival

The Michigan State Musical Festival will be held in Tecumseh, October 18th and 19th, 1865 All talented singers of the State are hereby invited, also the best musicians, to compete for the following prizes, viz:

To the best Soprano Singer, a Silver Fruit Basket will be awarded.

The best Alto Singer, Silver Card Receiver

do	Tenor	do	do	Cup.
do	Basso	do	do	do
do	Pianist		do	Vase.
do	Organist		do	Cup.
do	Flutist		do	do
do	Guitarist		do	Medal.
do	Violinist		do	do

The Second Best will receive Prizes of lesser value, State papers please copy.

By order of the Committee

The new firm, Anderson & Larned, have received their goods and respectfully solicit a share of public patronage. They are both well known to our readers, and we doubt not but their enterprise will receive ample support. Henry purchased the goods, and of course they were selected to please everybody and money too. Read their advertisement and give them a call.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich, Oct. 4th 1865.

Ames Mrs A. C.	Curtis P. A.
Cook Mrs M S	Cole & Bro. R M
Dubois James	Doty Elward J
Davis C.	Elliston Miss Rosella
Glinn John	Tuller Harvey
Gillespie Lewis	Zurer Miss Jennie M
Miller Mi s R.	Pare Elijah
Royal W T	Smith Charles E.
Sanford C W	Wells Mrs Salley

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Commissioners Notice.

Estate of John Osborn deceased:—

Notice is hereby given that we the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, to receive, audit and adjust claims against said estate, will meet for that purpose at the residence of George A. Wilkins in Macon, in the said county on the 21st day of October next, and at the office of E. B Wood in the village of Tecumseh in said county on the 25th day of November next at ten o'clock in the forenoon of those days, also that three months from the 30th day of August, 1865, has been allowed the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us.

GEORGE A. WILKINS,
RICHARD CLARKSON,
Commissioners

DISSOLUTION:

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM,
H. C. CONKLING,

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER — Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The steamer America with four days later news from Europe, arrived on Saturday night, the 1st inst. The cattle plague continues to increase and the London cow houses are decimated. Donald McKay, the Boston ship builder, is in conference with the English admiralty on the torpedo question. Judah P. Benjamin, the fugitive rebel Secretary of War, is about to join the London bar.

The theatrical managers of New York kindly have united in a resolution to withdraw their advertisements from the Herald in consequence of its grossly indecent attacks upon Marelrick, the manager of the Italian opera.

The Wirz commission drags its slow length along, and hardly that, but little being accomplished during the past week on account of Wirz' illness, as that of some of the counsel. Letters, said to have been captured in the rebel Adjutant's office at Andersonville, have been secured by the Government. They not only condemn Wirz, but show the complicity of high rebel officials in the atrocities of that den.

The defense was endeavoring to prove that Wirz was sick and absent during a large portion of the time when the atrocities were committed and he was not responsible for the bad condition of the prison. Subpœnas have been issued in behalf of the defense for Gen. Lee, Howell Cobb, ex-Gov. Brown, Gen. Joe Johnston and Robert Ould.

It is understood that after the trial of Wirz is ended, and all the facts ascertained, there will be an investigation of the Salisbury, and other prisons of the South, in which Union prisoners were confined and maltreated.

The N. Y. Times of Sept. 30th says: "The President has cleared his desk of all pardon applications, he having granted nearly 1,500 pardons within the past three days. An inspection of these lists shows the names to belong almost entirely to the $20,000 clause with very few of political prominence.

The only case of pocket-picking that has come to light at the late Janesville (Wis.) State Fair, was that of the Janesville Chief of Police, who lost his purse. General Sherman was the orator of the day.

The eleven-gun first-class United States gunboat "Galatia" has been purchased by the Haytien government.

The printers of Denver City presented Hon Schuyler Colfax with a gold composition rule, on his recent visit to that city, he being one of the "craft." May he always keep "the golden rule."

Rev. Dr. Francis Wayland, who was more than twenty years President of Brown University at Providence, was prostrated by a paralytic stroke on Tuesday, the 26th, and died on Saturday afternoon, the 30th inst., aged sixty-nine years.

Bourcicault's sensation play of "Arrah-na Pogue" has been withdrawn from the English boards, owing to the Fenian excitement.

The Alabama convention has adjourned sine die. Seventeen of the delegates refused to sign a petition for the release of Jeff Davis.

The convention in Mississippi rejected a resolution submitting the constitution it had adopted to a popular vote.

Duke Wade and ex-Gov. Clarke of Mississippi, have crossed the Rio Grande into Texas, surrendered themselves to our forces and are now craving pardon.

Trains are now running through regularly from St. Louis to Kansas City.

The demand for all kinds of labor at St. Paul, Minnesota, is far in excess of the supply. The St. Paul and Winona Railway advertise for 500 men; the Superior and St. Paul Road 500, and the St. Paul and Pacific Road want men, horses, wagons and carts. The Minnesota Valley and Central Road want men to lay track, and carpenters are wanted to complete two large hotels, which are commenced, and several dwellings and blocks of stores in process of erection.

The Cuba brings very interesting news from Europe. The Fenian excitement grows more and more intense. The English authorities are moving vigorously in the matter. Numerous arrests are being made, and the Irish People, the organ of the Fenians, was placed in the hands of the police and several inmates of the office arrested. A British fleet is off Cape Clear, and a project is under consideration for laying torpedoes, in case of war, in the channels leading to British harbors.....Another plot against the life of the Emperor Napoleon has been discovered. Among the parties concerned in it was a relative of Orsini.....The cholera is on the increase at Marseilles.

The official report of the trial of engines between the Winooski and Algonquin awards the superiority to the former vessel.

A fire at La Salle, Illinois, on Wednesday night, destroyed the works of the Northern Illinois Coal and Iron Company, causing a loss of $75,000 to $100,000.

Maximilian is to establish a line of steamers between Vera Cruz and New Orleans.

Matamoras is besieged by the Liberal forces under Gen. Escabado. The garrison consisted of 1,800 men, while the force of the Liberals was 2,500 or 3,000 men.

The liquor dealers of Indiana have formed an association in opposition to the anti-license people.

Two negro women and a young man called on the President on the 27th to intercede for the pardon of their former master.

On Friday, the 22d, a splendid mirage occurred on Lake Ontario, opposite Oswego. While not a sail was visible on the lake, nine ships appeared elevated in the air, all under sail and in motion.

An attempt was made on Monday, the 25th, to commit a serious damage on the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada. The locomotive was thrown from the track not far east of Detroit, and several cars badly damaged, by means of obstructions placed on the track, but fortunately no one was killed.

Galveston, Texas, was visited by the most terrible storm ever witnessed, on the 13th. Several houses were blown down, and others moved off their foundations. Trees and fences were prostrated. No deaths are reported. The town of Orange, on the Sabine river, was blown to fragments. One house fell upon its tenants, mortally wounding one and bruising others severely. Other accounts say the storm was fearful. The equinoctial gale was severely felt along the gulf coast.

Two United States steamers have started in pursuit of the pirate Shenandoah.

The Alabama Convention, by a vote of 60 to 19, has passed an ordinance declaring all debts created by the State in aid of the late war null and void, and forbidding the general assembly to ratify the same, or assume to provide for the payment of the same; also forbidding the general assembly to assume any debts incurred by the Confederate States. The amendments to the constitution are to be submitted to the people.

It is stated that the regular army will hereafter consist of 50,000 men.

During fifty days prevalence of the cholera at Constantinople, the deaths were not less than fifty thousand. For several days the deaths were over two thousand a day. More than one hundred thousand fled the city.

The Cincinnati Commercial says of the attempt to assassinate Gen. Grant, by throwing his special train off the track near Lawrenceburg, Indiana, that the proof seems positive there was nothing in the nature of an accident about this. During Gov. Morton's administration three efforts have been made to murder him, twice by throwing trains in which he was riding from the track, and once by firing upon him in the State House yard at night.

The 17th Illinois cavalry, for some time past stationed at Lawrence, Kansas, received orders on Saturday, the 23d, to march to the plains, but positively refused to do so. Thereupon troops were sent from Leavenworth—the 13th regulars and 12th Tennessee—who, on Monday, surrounded the camp of the 17th, and compelled an unconditional surrender. Some thirty-five or forty still persisted in their obstinacy, when nineteen were marched to the guard house, and the remainder escorted between two files of soldiers to Fort Leavenworth.

It is said that the President has promised Governor Bramlette to relieve Kentucky at once from martial law: that the removal of General Palmer has been determined upon, and that General Gordon Granger will probably be his successor.

The Barings, it is reported in London, have made arrangements for a Massachusetts State loan of $5,000,000 or $10,000,000. It is well to get the barings, before launching out so heavily.

The hotel of the Union Stock Yard Co., Chicago, now in course of erection, has been leased to Wm. F. Tucker, Esq., of the Briggs House, for $12,000 per annum for a term of five years.

Col. John Orr, late of the 124th Indiana regiment, committed suicide at Connersville, Fayette county, on the 57th, by shooting himself through the head. Col. Orr was wounded at Arkansas Post by the concussion of a shell, and is said to have been subject to periodical fits of partial derangement ever since, in one of which, it is believed, he did the fatal deed.

A large fire occurred on Friday afternoon, the 29th ult., in the drug store of Smith & Dwyer, on the corner of Lake and Dearborn streets, Chicago, by which damage to the amount of $180,000 was sustained, principally by eastern insurance companies.

The banking house of August Belmont & Co., New York, was robbed on Thursday, the 28th, of $25,000 in government bonds.

The lists of letters not called for at post offices will no longer be published in newspapers.

Dispatches received at Washington state that the cholera is decreasing in Turkey, but has broken out afresh in Italy and Barcelona.

The letter from Captain Hall, now in the Arctic regions, states that he has learned such facts as to lead him to believe that three men of Sir John Franklin's expedition are still alive.

Horace Greeley delivered his address before the Minnesota Agricultural Society on the 29th.

Orders have been received at St. Paul for the execution of the two Sioux murderers, "Little Six" and "Medicine Bottle," who have been confined in Fort Snelling for a year past. The time of execution is left with General Corse.

There is a "failure to connect" in the arrangements for a joint canvass of Minnesota by Messrs. Marshall and Rice, candidates for Governor, and each party charges it upon the other.

The South Carolina Convention has refused to allow the negro to form a part of the basis of representation.

An immense Fenian demonstration took place at the Cooper Institute, in New York, on the 27th. A New York paper gives some interesting particulars relative to the extent of this organization in this country. There are at present about 500 circles, and they are increasing at the rate of 100 per month. There are also 300 female circles. The expenses of the body are $60,000 per month. Eight per cent. bonds in the name of the Irish Republic are being printed, which will be ready next week.

The tar people of North Carolina are devoting their undivided attention to the production of a living from their wreck of a State, and have very little leisure for sedition and that sort of thing.

"Gor."—The word "got" is often used superfluously and incorrectly in familiar expression. When, in reply to "Lend me a shilling," you say, "I've got no money," you simply say what you do not mean. Omit the "got" and your meaning is rightly conveyed. "I've got a bad cold," is not bad English, if you mean to convey the idea that you have procured or contracted a cold somewhere; but if you merely wish to say, as you probably do, that you are suffering under a cold, "I have a cold," is the proper expression. "She has got a fair complexion." Here "got" is an interloper, for you do not mean to say she has procured a fair complexion, but simply that she has one. "I've got to go down town, to-morrow." Here "got" is redundant and incorrect. "I have to go," expresses the idea.

It has been ascertained by an instrument called the sirene, that a musketo's wing vibrates at the rate of fifteen thousand times a second, the pitch of the note produced being more than two octaves above the highest note of a seven octave piano. The wing of a musketo is so thin that fifty thousand of them placed one upon the other would not form a heap more than a quarter of an inch in height.

The Effect of Advertising.—A French editor has given the following amusing description of the effect of an advertisement: "The first time a man sees an advertisement he takes no notice of it; the second time, he looks at the name; the third time he looks at the price; the fourth time he reads it; the fifth time he speaks of it to his wife; the sixth time he buys."

GLEANINGS.

—A new $400,000 day-boat will be placed upon the Hudson river next summer.

—Three newspaper thieves were sentenced to seventeen months' imprisonment each, in Philadelphia, last week.

—The National Bank at Concord, Mass., was broken into last week, while the Cashier was absent, and robbed of $300,000.

—A large gold mine in the Wilderness, Virginia, is shortly to be worked by Northern parties.

—A man in Kansas raised so much corn on forty acres of ground that he had to hire an adjoining field of 160 acres to stack it on.

—A man in London died from glanders, contracted from washing a diseased horse, when he had an injury upon one of his fingers.

—Mr. G. W. Thompson, of Woodford county, Ill., had his eye picked out by a young sandhill crane which some boys had captured and were exhibiting to him.

—It is stated that Herschel V. Johnson is to be an assistant counsel in behalf of the rebel steamboat burning gang, now on trial at St. Louis.

—An ex-army sutler who resides in Indianapolis made $2,000,000 in fourteen months, which he invested in United States bonds, thus escaping taxation.

—A French engineer has experimented in photography until he has invented an apparatus by which pictures can be taken in a parlor or anywhere else.

—When Wirz, the Andersonville jailor, was first placed in the Old Capitol he borrowed and read Milton, DeQuincy, etc., but now he reads Baxter's Call. It won't hurt him.

—The propeller Buckeye, from Ogdensburgh to Toledo, struck a wreck in the St. Lawrence River on the 24th, and sunk. Three persons are known to have been lost and four others are missing.

—Mace and Wormald, a pair of English bruisers, are going to pummel each other on the 1st of November, for the champion's belt and £200 a side. The betting is understood to be even on the two men.

—Twenty-five new hotels have been opened at New York during the last four years, and they still want more. Two monster ones will be built next spring—A. T. Stewart being interested in one and the Lelands in the other.

—The latest "fashionable" arrival in New York is that of a Parisian lady, who calls herself an artist in nails and eyebrows, and is prepared to put the finishing touches to any fair American lady's beauty.

—The Boston lancers are to visit Chicago next month. They come in full uniform and bring their well-trained horses with them. During their stay they will be the guests of the Ellsworth Zouaves.

—A St. Louis burglar, who was robbing a room in which a young lady was sleeping, could not resist the temptation of kissing the beautiful lips of the damsel, and was caught at it. It will be State's prison for a kiss.

—A patent for making shoes with wooden soles has been perfected, and the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Eagle says that the boots and shoes made under this patent have been subjected to the severest tests, which they have withstood—even their friends being surprised at their good qualities.

—Andrew Frank, a policeman at Niagara Falls, was shot dead last week, as was also another man, by a gang of roughs. By way of retaliation, four houses of ill-fame were destroyed, two of them being burned to the ground. A son of the murdered policeman led the mob.

—The mine of spathic ore, or native steel, at Waterbury, Conn., has been sold to a Hartford company for $100,000, and a hundred men are now at work erecting smelting works, sinking shafts, etc. This ore is said to work directly into steel without the usual carbonizing process.

—Returns of the State census of Massachusetts have been received from all but sixteen towns, and they foot up 1,215,487. The missing towns, it is estimated, will make the aggregate population nearly 1,272,000, and the voters about 245,000. The increase population since 1860 is about 11,000.

—The Union Bank of New London, Conn., has a double-barreled, forward and back action, patent combination, burglar-proof lock on its safe. The other day it was locked, and the password was forgotten: the consequence was that neither the maker nor anybody else could open it, and the door had to be cut off.

—The play of "The Confederate's Daughter" is having great success in one of the London theatres. General Butler appears in it as "the tyrant of New Orleans," makes love improperly to the Confederate's daughter, but is foiled by a faithful negro, who has a fight with Butler, and beats him with a broadsword in a square fight. Butler afterwards undertakes to hange the lover of the said daughter, but he is reprieved. Butler is relieved from command, and the Confederate's daughter triumphs. The play is highly exciting.

—A writer suggests, in the New York Saturday Times, that every railroad should be provided with its private graveyard, where its victims might be interred at the company's expense—a simple act of justice to surviving relatives. Appropriate epitaphs could be placed over the remains of the sufferers from each accident, stating that nobody was to blame, etc., as the following, for instance:

COW ON TRACK.

A bovine waif from the adjoining field
The track invaded, and my fate she sealed:
By the cow-catcher caught, she flew sky high,
And so, dear friends, I hope at last shall I.

—A little daughter of Geo. Goss, of New London, aged five years, a few days ago was reaching over a well-curb to get water from the bucket, when she lost her balance and fell into the well, a depth of thirty feet. She was soon missed, and her father heard cries of, "How cold I am!" and immediately went to the well and found his lost child struggling with death. A person rescued her from her perilous situation. She was taken out insensible, and could not, it is said, have lived more than two or three minutes longer.

—Some of the late rebel Generals are making themselves generally useful. A prominent Major General from Louisiana has charge of the construction of the wharves at New Orleans. Two Brigadiers have secured places in the Commercial Express Company. One Brigadier is prosperously engaged in the business of boss drayman. There are other Generals who are spoken of as civil engineers on our railroads. Almost every store has a Colonel or Major. There are three distinguished Colonels extensively engaged in the auction business. One Colonel, who has directed big guns in some of the fiercest battles of the war, is now selling ball rope and bagging; another—one of Stonewall Jackson's favorite regimental commanders—is pressing cotton vigorously. All this at New Orleans.

—The tower of Babel, on which late accounts announce that a cross was recently placed by a missionary, consists, now of only two of the eight stories formerly erected. The remains are, however, visible from a very great distance. Each side of the quadrangular basis measures two hundred yards in length, and the bricks of which it is composed are of pure white clay with a very slight brownish tint, which in the sun assumes a very rich hue. The bricks before being baked, were covered with characters traced with the hand in a clear regular style. The bitumen which served for cement was derived from a fountain which still exists near the tower, and which flows with such abundance that it soon forms a stream, and would invade a neighboring river did not the natives from time to time set fire to the stream of bitumen, and then wait quietly until the flames cease for want of aliment.

—A lady passenger in a street railway car in Milwaukee, recently gave birth to a child.

—It is proposed to start a company for the introduction of the Cashmere goat, in Indiana.

—The Missouri Pacific Railroad, running from St. Louis to Kansas City, is completed. It is 283 miles long, and it cost over $10,000,000.

—The cholera, while decimating the population of Marseilles, has caused the rats to run away from the city. But what is a plague for Marseilles, may become an infliction for some of its neighbors.

Dr. Joseph Fell, of Indianapolis, has been arrested for procuring an abortion upon his own wife. The penalty is a fine not exceeding $500, and imprisonment in the county jail, not to exceed one year, at the discretion of the court.

—As a battery was going into camp at New Haven recently, an old battery horse, coming to a lot bearing a bugle call, immediately ran out of the ranks and moved out to camp with the battery. So much for force of habit.

—The Canadian authorities have only restored $90,000 of the funds stolen from the St. Albans banks by the rebel Canadian raiders. It is stated Government has made a peremptory demand for the remainder, $120,000.

—At a young ladies' seminary recently, during an examination in history, one of the most promising pupils was interrogated: "Mary, did Martin Luther die a natural death?" "No," was the reply, "she was excommunicated by a bull."

—The population of Brazil was estimated by the Government, in 1856, at 7,677,000, of whom 2,000,000 were whites; 1,121,000 mixed free people, mulattoes, mestizoes, etc.; 800,000 civilized Indians; 600,000 mixed slave population; 2,000,000 African slaves.

—The best fish story of the season is related by the New London Star, of a man who while bathing was seized by a huge shark and dragged 25 feet under the water. Thinking that depth sufficient, he plunged his thumb into the monster's eye, was quickly released and regained the surface and his boat.

—A woman on the railroad between New York and Philadelphia picked her fellow passenger's pocket of her porte monnaie. A committee of ladies searched the thief without success, when, at the suggestion of a gentleman, the stolen property was found in the woman's waterfall.

—A terrible tragedy occurred last week at Fairplay, Wis., 7 miles from Dubuque, Iowa. Dr. Haines, a physician of that place, shot his daughter, knocked his wife down with the revolver, inflicting a mortal wound, and then cut his throat with a lancet. The cause of this horrible tragedy is not known.

—Belgium has been visited by a waterspout of extraordinary violence. It occurred in the neighborhood of Liege, and has spread ruin far and wide. The accompanying gale caught people up in the air and dashed them to the ground. It cut off the tops of large trees and felled many other trees to the ground. It stopped railroad trains and overthrew houses. It was attended by thunder and lightning and floods of rain. Altogether it was one of the most disastrous storms that ever visited the country.

—An amusing story is told of a California minstrel who undertook to leave San Francisco without liquidating his little bills. An officer, charged with a warrant for his arrest, searched the steamer over and could find no trace of the delinquent. The officer was boasting of his success in preventing the departure, as he had not seen him on the steamer, when he was informed that a respectable looking colored woman among the passengers was nobody else but the minstrel commencing his travels in a familiar disguise.

—A fearful affray occurred recently near Rome, Ga. Two desperadoes came up to a church during service time and called out two of the congregation. They refused to come out, when the desperadoes commenced firing at them, killing one and mortally wounding a lady. Subsequently a squad of the 29th Indiana, with three citizens, followed them up and surprised them in their house. The two men, in company with three sons, made a determined fight, killing two of the citizens, but resulting eventually in the death of the whole gang.

—The island of Jersey has an area of less than seventy square miles. Guernsey of about fifty square miles. Neither island is manufacturing or mineral, yet the population of the former in 1861, was 55,613, and the latter 29,850; being at the rate of over eight hundred per square mile for Jersey, and six hundred per square mile for Guernsey. The average population of Great-Britain, is under two hundred and eighty per square mile; in Belgium, it is four hundred and forty persons per square mile; in Holland, two hundred and eighty.

—The Hon. Mr. Grinnell of Iowa has signified his intention of appearing in congress at its next session, dressed in cloth of Iowa manufacture. The wool from which the cloth is to be manufactured, was sheared from Mr. Grinnell's own sheep. It is to be made into cloth and dressed at Davenport. He sent thirteen fleeces, 130 pounds of wool to the factory to be worked up for the purpose of making the cloth. He says he wishes to wear what is fabricated at home as an argument in favor of protection.

—On the 22d of August, a new planet was discovered by Dr. Robert Luther, director of the observatory at Bilk, Germany. It appears as a star of the tenth magnitude, is the eighty-fourth of the group of small bodies, revolving between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, and is the fourteenth detected by Dr. Luther. During a period of twenty years, no less than eighty of these small planets, varying from the seventh to the twelfth magnitude, have been detected; and as optical power is increased, these minute bodies will probably be found, which are invisible to the most powerful telescope of the present day.

—The Erie Despatch tells a funny story of oil: A citizen who lived near the refinery, found his cellar knee deep with undoubted petroleum. No man in an oil country has any right to be astonished at such indications. He fell at work, collected thirty-six barrels of the fluid, and sold it to his neighbors of the refinery, at six dollars per barrel, promising to bring them all he had. They poured it into their immense underground tank. The vender went his way. So did the oil, and it came to pass they met again in the cellar. After the process of sale had been twice repeated, the refiners smelt something stronger than petroleum, and mended a treacherous crevice in their tank. Then, by a singular coincidence, the flowing well in the cellar dried up.

—There is considerable excitement throughout South America, upon account of the execution of Gen. G. Barrios, formerly President of San Salvador. He was the lawful officer, but was overcome during the war with Guatemala in 1863, and quit the country. Latterly an attempt was made to inaugurate a new rebellion, and Barrios, in hopes of its success left Nicaragua to join the forces of the insurrectionists. He did not reach them, as before he could communicate with them, the attempt was frustrated, and its promoters defeated. But under certain representations Barrios was given up to San Salvador by Nicaragua, upon the special agreement that his life should be spared. This understanding has been treacherously broken. He was tried by court-martial, and shot. The breach of faith was an odious thing and an indefensible act. Whether Nicaragua will resent it by acts of war cannot yet be inferred from the intelligence which has been received in this country.

—At a masked ball in Norwich, a young lady was completely dressed in newspapers and an exchange says she made a good "impression."

—A Mr. Nelson Cole of Beaver Dam, Wis., got a hundred dollar greenback away in a bureau drawer some months ago, and on going to look for it, found that the mice had made a nest of it, cutting it into little pieces.

—They give odd remedies for the cattle disease in England. A cow belonging to Burdett Coutts was dosed with "eight bottles of whisker, twelve bottles of brandy, thirty bottles of port wine, and other strong drinks." The animal recovered from the distemper, but died of delirium tremens.

—A gang of swindlers got possession of a steamboat which was conveying the men of the 20th U. S. C. T. from Hart's Island up to New York, just paid off on their way home last week, and began a system of wholesale plunder, which, by the connivance of the commander, in keeping his boat in the stream, was carried on for two hours before Col. Garrison could overpower the ruffians and bring the boat to a landing. The New York Tribune says other regiments have been treated in the same manner. It is probable that millions of dollars have thus been extracted from our boys in blue by these harpies of the shore.

PERSONAL.

Anna Dickinson charges $150 a night for lecturing this winter.

Madame Kossuth, wife of the celebrated Hungarian patriot, died on the 1st of September, at Turin, Italy, at the age of 55.

Josh Billings says that opera music don't have any more effect upon him than castor oil would have upon a graven image.

Queen Victoria is in a towering passion at an article in the London Times about her prolonged grief for her husband.

P. T. Barnum, has a stalk of corn in his field at Bridgeport, which is more than seventeen feet high. No humbug.

Rev. J. S. C. Abbott has resigned charge fo the Howe street church in New Haven, and preached his farewell sermon on Sunday.

Clarence J. Prentice (the rebel son of George D.) has withdrawn from the Louisville Journal, and is about to leave the country.

Rev. Dr. Hawks, of New York, has been offered $7,000 in gold to preach in Grace Church, San Francisco, but $10,000 in currency at New York suits him better.

The young King of Bavaria, now in his 20th year, is said to be engaged to the Infanta Maria Isabella, daughter of the Queen of Spain, who is in her 15th year.

The president has recognized Mr. Louis Boerlin, as vice-consul of Switzerland, at Chicago, for the states of Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, and the northern part of Illinois.

The parents of Barnum's fat woman visited her last week, and were introduced by the daughter to the giant, giantess, and the Circassian ladies, all of whom took tea together.

Mr. Bancroft, the celebrated national historian, is busily engaged at his country residence at Newport upon the 8th volume of his great work. Mr. Bancroft is now in his 66th year, and enjoys excellent health.

Little Caprin being down stairs one evening later than usual, got up in a chair to look at the canaries. Finding them asleep, she jumped down and said:

"The birds have swallowed their heads."

Dr. Mudd is acting as nurse in the hospital at the Dry Tortugas; Spangler and O'Laughlin are on duty as carpenters, and Arnold, who is in bad health, is employed in writing for the Provost Marshal.

Fitz-Greene Halleck, the poet, is passing the evening of his days at the beautiful seaside town of Guilford, about sixteen miles east of New Haven. He is seventy-three years of age, but is still hale, hearty and active.

Mrs. Wellard, of New York had some slight trouble with her husband, who is a butcher, and walking into his shop, seized a huge meat knife, and plunged it into her abdomen, inflicting a fatal wound. She was but 22.

Belle Boyd, the notorious rebel woman, after having been turned out of her London boarding house, and sold her best dresses, and pawned her jewelry, is at length driven to the necessity of making a living as an actress.

James Monroe, the sixth President of the United States, died in New York so poor that his remains found a resting place through the charity of one of his friends. They remain in a cemetery in School street, but no monument marks the spot where they repose.

The English people complained that when Queen Victoria returned from her late visit to Germany, the blinds of the royal carriage, between Woolwich and Windsor, were kept closely drawn, so that not a glimpse of the sovereign could be seen. She still wears deep mourning.

Among the Egyptian victims of the cholera, we regret to find the name of Madame Marietie, the wife of the renowned French Egyptologist, who had followed her husband in many of his scientific exploring expeditions, and has resided for years at the foot of the Pyramids and in the desert of Sahara.

Brigham Young some time since asked the King of the Sandwich Islands to permit him to send Mormon missionaries to the Islands. To this the Sandwich Islands Secretary of State replies that the Mormon tenets are subversive of good government, and in violation of the laws of the Kingdom, and that efforts to establish a colony of the saints will not be tolerated.

Capt. Charles H. Marshall, an old and well known merchant of New York, died in that city on Saturday. He commenced life as a sailor at the age of 15, and rose by degrees to the command of a vessel, and finally to the joint ownership of the well known Black Ball line of Liverpool steamers. When he commenced his sea-faring life, his cash capital was 11 shillings; at his death he was one of the wealthiest men in New York.

Gen. Grant met with an enthusiastic reception at Indianapolis on the 25th, upon which occasion he made the longest speech of his life, as follows: "Fellow-citizens, ladies and gentlemen: You are well aware that I am not in the habit of making speeches, and I am sure you would not want me to begin it before so large a number of people as I see before me to-day. I simply say that I thank you kindly for this handsome reception, and will take my seat." Loud cheers greeted him as he sat down.

Capt. Anderson, of the emigrant ship Villafranca, which lately arrived in New York from London, has undergone an examination before a United States Commissioner for a leged cruelty to his passengers, and is held for jury trial at $5,000 bonds. The Captain is described as a dark visaged and repulsive looking man, and the records of his crimes as divulged in the testimony, fully revives the horrors of the middle passage. The provisions dealt out to the passengers were scanty, and intolerably bad, and there was not enough water to quench their thirst, while eleven cattle on board had all the water they required. One witness testified that women with starving and thirsty children, implored his consideration of their situation, but he swore that he cared nothing for them. When the passengers complained, the captain threatened to throw them overboard, and to hang them. Anderson would not even allow them to secure rain water, and a little child quenched its thirst by licking the rain-drops which fell on a vessel its mother was not allowed to use to catch the rain.

THE SNOW BIRD.

He sits in winter's sleet, and the snow is round his feet
But he cares not for the cold;
For his little cheerful heart thinks the snow as fair as May,
As the summer's green and gold.

On the branches, bare and brown, with their crystals for a crown,
Sits the little winter bird,
In the dark and cloudy days, lightening the lonely ways
With his constant, cheering word.

To his mission he is true; God has work for him to do
With his little song to cheer;
In his sweet life's simple speech, lessons high and glad to teach,
In the dark days of the year.

Oh! his little heart is strong, and he never thinks it wrong
That to him this lot is given;
Never invites birds that sing in the summer or the spring
Underneath a sunny heaven.

So he is a teacher sent, with a lesson of content,
To all spirits that are sad;
And his song, with richest freight, comes to all the desolate,
Bidding sorrow's self be glad.

Wouldst thou choose thy time or way? does the little poet say,
God hath ordered these for thee.
Where thy life can praise him best, he has set thee—only rest,
And his purpose thou shalt see.

Ye around whose life the snow lieth heavily and low,
Take a lesson from the bird:
As God giveth you a day, strive to charm the gloom away,
Whether listened or unheard.

God hath singers, many a one, that can praise him in the sun,
As the happy cherubim.
But I think the songs they raise who are toilers in dark ways,
Are a sweeter sound to Him.

Not by outer joy and sweetness does He judge of life's completeness,
But by inner test of worth.
It may be he gives the grace of his heaven's highest place
To the lowest on earth.

The Atlantic Cable.

The Atlantic Telegraph company have again commenced working in earnest. No time has been wasted in useless regrets over past failures, but those failures have been utilized with a view to future success. Various precautions have been taken and improvements resolved upon, whereby all weak points are so guarded against as to render accidents well-nigh impossible in the next attempt to submerge the cable. A new cable has been ordered, and its manufacture has already commenced. As at present arranged, it is intended the Great Eastern shall sail from Valentia in the last week of May next, with the new cable on board. This cable will be laid to Newfoundland, and when that operation is completed the Great Eastern will return to the spot where the buoy was placed upon the broken cable a few weeks ago. She will grapple for the broken ends, and no doubt is felt that it will be found. A splice will then be made, and the rest of the cable necessary to complete the line to Newfoundland will be laid.

There is every reason for believing that by the autumn of next year, two cables will be in full work across the Atlantic. The facts whereon this belief is based have been advanced in a statement drawn up by gentlemen who have taken an active part in the recent and previous attempts to lay a cable. This statement establishes twelve points, which plainly demonstrate that the objects which have hitherto prevented the accomplishment of the scheme are only of a temporary nature, and that the knowledge bought by experience in the past will infinitely reduce the risk in the future operations. The main facts deducible are—that the insulation and conducting power of the cable is improved by immersion in deep cold water; that the superior steadiness of the Great Eastern will enable the cable to be laid irrespective of weather; that faults can be immediately detected and made good; and that, even if the cable do part, it is possible with proper tackle to recover it uninjured from the depths of the Atlantic ocean.

How to be Hopeful.

There are some persons who seem to treasure up things that are disagreeable, on purpose. I can understand how a boy that never had been taught better might carry torpedoes in his pocket, and delight to throw them down at the feet of passers by, and see them bound; but I cannot understand how an instructed and well-meaning person could do such a thing. Yet there are men that carry torpedoes all their life, and take pleasure in tossing them at people. "Oh," they say, "I have something, and when I meet that man I will give it to him." And they wait for the right company, and the right circumstances, and then out with the most disagreeable things. And if they are remonstrated with, they say, "It is true," as if that was a justification of their conduct.

If God should take all the things that are true of you, and made a scourge of them, and whip you with it, you would be the most miserable of men. But he does not use all the truth on you. And is there no law of kindness? Is there no desire to please and profit them? Have you a right to take any little story that you can pick up about a man, and use it in such a manner as to injure him or give him pain? And yet, how many men there are who seem to enjoy nothing so much as inflicting exquisite suffering upon a man in this way, when he cannot help himself. Well, you know just how the Devil feels. Whenever he has done anything wicked, and has made somebody very unhappy, and laughs, he feels just as (for the time being) you feel when you have done a cruel thing and somebody is hurt, and it does you good.

The Wonders of a Watch.

Very few who carry a watch ever think of the delicate complexity of its mechanism, or of the extraordinary and unceasing labor it performs, and how astonishingly well it bears up and does its duty under what would be considered very shabby treatment of almost any other piece of machinery. There are many who think a watch ought to run for years without a drop of oil, who would not think of running a common machine a day without oiling, the wheels of which do but a fraction of the service. We were very forcibly struck with this thought the other day on hearing a person remark that, by way of gratifying his curiosity, he had made a calculation of the number of revolutions which the wheels of an American watch make in a day and a year. The result of this calculation is as suggestive as it is interesting. For example: the main wheel makes four revolutions in twenty-four hours, or 1,460 in a year; the second or centre wheel twenty-four revolutions in twenty-four hours or 8,760 in a year; the third wheel one hundred and ninety-two in twenty-four hours, or 59,080 in a year; the fourth wheel, (which carries the second-hand) 2,440 in twenty-four hours, or 525,600 in a year; the fifth, or 'scape wheel, 12,960 in twenty-four hours, or 4,728,400 revolutions in a year; while the beats or vibrations made in twenty four hours are 388,800, or 141,812,000 in a year.

A Legal Puzzle.—How strange it is that the counsel for the prisoner in criminal law pleases his client most when he acts in direct opposition to his client's conviction.

The Egyptian Viceroy's American Railway Train.

The New York Herald's correspondent who is doing Egypt, recounts his experience from Alexandria to Cairo over the Viceroy's Railway. He says that though the locomotives and carriages for the public are all English built, those used by the Viceroy himself, are all American. Of these the Viceroy, has at present, for his own use, three. As pieces of mechanical skill they are the admiration of all Egypt. They are the same as are used by the first class passenger trains, with equally artistic finish. But the Viceroy not only shows a preference for our locomotives, but also for our passenger cars. Of these he has thirty—three for his private use, and the remainder for his court and harem. The interior of the Viceroy's cars is a miniature of the apartments of his palace. The richest Turkish and Persian mats cover the floors, while the walls of the car are veneered with the richest wood and adorned with beautiful mirrors, curtains of silk and gold. On the sides are arranged luxurious divans and cushions, all of silk, lace and gold. The cars of the harem are even more elaborate. There are other cars fitted up as saloons, apartments for the viceroy alone and attendants. In fact all the luxury and appliances of an Oriental court have thus been put on wheels, and in his frequent excursions to his many palaces at Cairo, Alexandria and Ramle, the Viceroy moves from place to place as comfortably as if he were seated cross-legged in his harem, or yielding to delightful relaxation in his magnificent palace looking out upon the beautiful bay of Alexandria. The confidence of the Viceroy in his American engines and cars is so great that he frequently runs between Cairo and Alexandria in two hours, which requires a speed of sixty miles per hour. The best English engine on the road cannot perform the same journey in less than five hours.

A Train Running the Gauntlet.—On Sunday, says the Portsmouth (N. H.) Chronicle of Sept. 19th, while the fire in Cedar Swamp was at its height, an extra train of sixteen cars, bringing the 14th Maine regiment, on their way home to Augusta, came over the Eastern Railroad. On either side of the track the flames rose forty feet high, the noise drowning the sound of the train. It was a fearful sight to behold. The oil on the wheels took fire, and along the train we seen revolving wheels of fire; while the 700 officers and men of the gallant 14th were nearly smothered in the smoke. Fortunately the long train drawn by the "Cape Ann" went through the terrible ordeal without accident, and as the cars emerged beyond the burning district, the smoke rushed from the car windows into the air, giving the appearance of a train on fire.

Ready to Pay Damages.—A good story is told of a railroad accident on the New London Railroad, which had rather a ludicrous ending. A half intoxicated Irishman was sitting on the rail when the engine from the train to Norwich struck him under the haunches and tossed him down the embankment. The train was stopped and turned back to pick up the dead body. Paddy was found alive, however, and somewhat bruised, and taken to Norwich. Here the conductor kindly offered to send the man to his home, a few miles away, in a hack, but Paddy insisted on his ability to walk, and refused to be sent home in a "kerridge." The conductor pressed the matter, when the Milesian, who understood the bagging of the cow-catcher well, bristled up with: "Go my way wid you kerridge. I'll go home by myself—as I've done any damage to your ould engine bedad I'll pay it on the spot."

Northern Pacific Route.—Col. Rowland, as commissioner of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, has been at Montreal conferring with the Canadian Government and others, relative to uniting British capital with the grants of the United States, in the construction of the Lake Superior and Puget Sound Railroad. Col. Rowland is confident the commercial influence of Canada will be most fully accorded to this project, as one of great international importance to the people of both countries, and he has no doubt that his mission will be crowned with success.

Railroad "Accident."—Another ingenious mode, says the Chicago Post, of destroying a train of cars and their contents was discovered last Saturday night by an engineer on the Rensselaer & Saratoga long bridge at Troy, who deliberately backed the locomotive, tender, and one passenger car through the open draw into the Hudson river. Fortunately the passenger car which went down with the engine contained but three persons, who with some difficulty were saved, the other car hanging suspended over the abutment.

The minister of public works in France has ordered all railway companies in the empire to provide every train, before Jan. 1st, at the farthest, with a satisfactory apparatus to enable passengers in each car to communicate direct with the engine driver.

The Mount Cenis Tunnel.—Not only a great bore, but a huge cell. Spell it with a hee, Sammy.

Fenianism.—At a dinner party in France a toast was given, "The land we live in." "Why all my soul," responded an Irishman, "here's to poor ould Ireland!"

Not Tempting.—Theodore Hook, in describing a badly dressed dinner, observed that everything was sour but the vinegar, and everything but the water.

Obliging.—"My dear," said Mrs. Rumble to her daughter, "you must have somebody warm around you in the carriage." Miss R. mentioned the request of her mother to her lover and he instantly complied with it.

A Miss-take Possible.—"Is it possible, miss, that you don't know the names of your best friends?" inquired a gentleman of a lady. "Certainly," she replied; "I don't even know what my own name may be a year hence."

Aqueous.—That young lady possesses great water privileges, says an exchange, she has a cataract in her eye, a crick in her back, and a waterfall under her bonnet. Not so great, however, as the man who had a notion in his head.

Refers to Her "Pop."—A lover, who was vainly trying to explain some scientific theory to his fair inamorata, said: "The question is difficult, but I don't see what I can do to make it clear." "Suppose you pop it," whispered the blushing maiden.

New Irish Society.—The Saturday Press announces "on good authority that a new Irish Society is about to be organized in that city, having the same object in view as the Fenian Society, is to be called "The Independent order of Hod Carriers." Every member is expected to be a

Miscellany.

THE JOLLY OLD PEDAGOGUE.

BY GEORGE ARNOLD.

I.

'Twas a jolly old pedagogue long ago,
Tall and slender, and sallow and dry;
His form was bent and his gait was slow,
And his long, thin hair was white as snow;
But a wonderful twinkle shone in his eye;
And he sang every night as he went to bed,
"Let us be happy down here below;
The living should live, though the dead be dead,"
Said the jolly old pedagogue long ago.

II.

He taught the scholars the rule of three,
Reading and writing and history, too;
He took the little ones on his knee,
For a kind old heart in his breast had he,
And the wants of the littlest child he knew;
"Learn while you're young," he often said,
"There is much to enjoy down here below;
Life for the living, and rest for the dead,"
Said the jolly old pedagogue long ago.

III.

With stupidest boys he was kind and cool,
Speaking only in gentlest tones;
The rod was scarcely known in his school—
Whipping to him was a barbarous rule,
And too hard work for his poor old bones;
Besides it was painful, he sometimes said;
"We should make life pleasant down here below,
The living need charity more than the dead,"
Said the jolly old pedagogue long ago.

IV.

Helived in the house by the hawthorn lane,
With roses and woodbine over the door;
His rooms were quiet and neat and plain,
But a spirit of comfort there held reign,
And made him forgot he was old and poor;
"I need so little," he often said;
"And my friends and relatives here below,
Won't litigate over me when I am dead,"
Said the jolly old pedagogue, long ago.

V.

But the pleasantest times that he had, of all,
Were the sociable hours he used to pass,
With his chair tipped back to a neighbor's wall,
Making an unceremonious call,
Over a pipe and a friendly glass;
This was the finest pleasure, he said,
Of the many he tasted here below.
"Who has no cronies had better be dead,"
Said this jolly old pedagogue, long ago.

VI.

The jolly old pedagogue's wrinkled face,
Melted all over in sunshiny smiles;
He stirred his glass with an old-school grace,
Chuckled, and sipped and prattled apace,
Till the house grew merry from cellar to tiles:
"I'm a pretty old man," he gently said,
"I've lingered a long time here below;
But my heart is fresh, if my youth is fled!"
Said the jolly old pedagogue long ago,

VII.

He smoked his pipe in the balmy air,
Every night when the sun went down,
While the soft wind played in his silvery hair,
Leaving its tenderest kisses there,
On the jolly old pedagogue's jolly old crown;
And feeling the kisses, he smiled, and said:
"'Twas a glorious world, down here below;
Why wait for happiness till we are dead?"
Said this jolly old pedagogue, long ago.

VII.

He sat at his door one midsummer night,
After the sun had sunk in the west,
And the lingering beams of golden light,
Made his kindly old face look warm and bright.
While the odorous night-winds whispered "Rest!"
Gently—gently he bowed his head—
There were angels waiting for him I know;
He was sure of his happiness, living or dead,
This jolly old pedagogue, long ago!

—Round Table.

THE MT. CENIS STORY.

Alleged Discovery of Diamonds and Precious Stones.

[In place of our accustomed story, we present the following statement, the most sensational of the day, in which, however, we think there is vastly more fiction than in our usual narrative. We find it in The New York World, of the 22d inst., which contains a lengthy letter from Arthur M. Leary, an engineer of New York, inclosing the sworn statement of Pierro Tagliare, in reference to a discovery of a mine of jewels while burrowing the Mount Cenis Tunnel through the Alps, between France and Italy. Tagliare has been arrested by the Italian authorities, and is confined in the jail at Susa, and it is alleged that there are strong corroborating circumstances to the truth of the statement. The tunneling has been stopped, and it is said the French and Italian Governments are dividing the spoils. We omit the beginning of Tagliare's statement.]

The great event came off on the 16th inst. I was at work with Bacco in the advance chamber, and we talked, in the pauses of the drilling, of the disappearance of the English traveler, Stonewold, who had been lost on the neighboring Mount Cenis, with many valuables in his possession—among others, some diamonds, which were largely advertised by his friends as family heir-looms. His body had been found crushed to pieces at the bottom of the pass, and some of his possessions were missing. The murder had been laid to the laborers on the tunnel, as we had many bad fellows, and the hard life they led was indeed temptation to any profitable crime. Bacco, who was a cruel, greedy person, treated the alleged murder as possible enough, and half excused the commission of it. There were with us only two laborers, thick-headed Piedmontese, animal enough to love drinking and sleep, but very stolid when at work, and without sympathies of any sort out of their poor, bruised carcasses.

I recall the moment well. It was close to 7 o'clock; we took note of the time carefully, because at 7 o'clock we should be done for the day, and with a trifling intermission for supper, the work would be commenced for the night by a relief party. The advance chamber in which we wrought was closed by pivot doors from the completed tunnel without, where the masons were pricking up the sides and the engineers laying the rails; we could see through the crevices of the gates the lamps of gas flaming in wavy lines as far as the outlet, and our own close and rock-strown recess with jagged ceiling and sharp pointed sides, recently blasted, was lit by mingled lamps of oil and gas, so that it was fitfully luminous, but damp as the caverns of the Alps could well be, made supportable only by fresh air pumped in from the reservoir at the mouth of the mine, and deluged with jets of water which incessantly played against the sharp tips of the perforators. In this damp chamber the crouching figure of Bacco and our aids, stooping against the rock, threw prolonged and crossing shadows upon the granite surfaces, though the entire cavity was scarcely erect enough to permit one to stand, as it is the rule only to blast a portion of the surface to be excavated, and to complete the rest with the sledge, shovel and pick. The huge frame, propped to its place, and fed with air and water all the while, heaved from its pistons the ringing drills incessantly, and made the excavation echo with sharp reverberations. To drive to a sufficient depth nine paltry holes, with all the power at our command, required fifty-nine thousand five hundred blows, and as many revolutions of the little rotary engines behind each piston.

Suddenly Bacco stopped the engines. "Corpo di Dio!" he said; "three of the drills are quite crushed; we must have been pounding upon adamant."

Directly the frame and engines were withdrawn; we charged the perforations and applied our slow match, and fled behind the pivot doors for protection.

In a moment the deep concave trembled with the explosion, and the place became clogged with suffocating smoke.

Straightway a jet of compressed air was spirited into the recess, and the tunnel be fresh as an ice-house. We lighted the lamps immediately, and stole forward to mark the result.

A space thrice as great as a single explosion generally makes, had been excavated; a great foundation rib of primitive rock formed the bottom, and this was full of small glimmering objects, unshattered and crystallized, which dimly twinkled through the dust and debris. I lifted from the rubbish a smoothly-angled lump of shining something, and brought it toward a lamp.

I am swearing to what I speak upon the Evangels. The crystal was clear topaz, golden yellow in color, and as big as a pullet's egg.

One of the workmen here came to me, holding something in his horny palm, as big as my own great possession. I dropped the topaz with a cry. The stuff was emerald, marvellous emerald.

We all looked into each other's faces for a moment, and then the whole four rushed to the fissure; the usually dark and gray debris shone keenly here and there, and I saw in an instant that there had been some strange convulsion at this part of the mountain; all the strata lay in this small space, crushed or bitten through with a great granitic upheaval, and the various orders had been lifted almost vertically; a coarse, micaceous sandstone, traversed by what seemed accidental veins of quartz, lay on the left, running at its edges into a hard conglomerate which barely yielded to a blow of a pick, and by gradations of hard argillaceous slate, the reverse side of the fissure, wonderful to say, closed with solid basalt. A distribution so much at variance with my experience was not yet without precedents, but in the intensity of the moment I had no time to think; a prostrate column of basalt, half concealed in the dust, sparkled at my feet, and as I tumbled it towards the clear light, it broke across its breadth and disclosed the most beautiful sapphire I have ever seen, considering with regard either to its purity or its exceeding regularity.

At this instant one of the men who was exploring another side of the cavern uttered a shout:

"Don di Sabatico! The stone is all gold!"

I say again that my hand is on the Evangels, and that I tell but what I saw. Through the sandstone strayed a vein of quartz, and this was of mingled pale and metallic appearance, and the metallic place, were not sulphates, as I thought at first, but almost pure gold.

At this intelligence my comrades went almost wild. They were poor beasts and knew not the value of gems, but once or twice in their lives they had touched a louis, and at the mention of gold their animal greeds burnt in their eyes till our little cloister seemed scooped out of a delirious dream, and for an instant I pressed my head in my hands to know if I were poor Pierro Tagliare indeed, or the Prince of Golconda.

My struggle ceased at a hard, hoarse word from Crispino Bacco;

"These are mine. I am the discoverer of them all; because I head the gang. Do none of you take up one stone!"

I looked at him and shuddered. His face was like a wild beast's; his fingers were crooked hard, like a cat when she is angry. He did not weep nor embrace us at this general good fortune, but regarded us as enemies contesting his spoil.

"Crispino!" I said, "are you mad? If we are to possess this wealth it must be in common, and the secret must be kept among us, otherwise the crown will claim every ounce of gold."

"It is mine!" he howled, "I am its discoverer! Stand off!"

I saw the gathering fury on the faces of our two assistants. They muttered, and their brows worked and blackened, and together they rushed upon Bacco. Before I could stir or speak he lay upon the rock, and they had pounded his skull with the very nuggets of quartz which contained the veins of gold.

When their fury abated and the murder had been done, they stopped and breathed hard. The sight of the blood sobered them; they turned upon me.

"You will betray us, Beccamorto?"

I saw that the crime they had done would engulf us all unless I could bring my superior intelligence to bear upon these poor wretches.

"Either we must call die but one, Felice, Gaspare," I said, "and he live a fugitive or be hung; or we must agree to share this secret and be faithful to each other. Take up the body of Bacco and run it to the mouth of the gallery; say that the mine exploded prematurely and killed him; then return to me!"

I set l'affuseto and all its pistons to work immediately, that the directory might not suspect anything, and before the two men had returned the perforators were gashing the softer slate and shale at the rate of a metre an hour. Every clip of the piston rods disengaged some new fragment, all beautiful with crystals, and giving back to the iron thud the keen ring of precious metals. Chrysobery lay imbedded in the coarse granite at the bottom. The black and brown Savoyard diamonds which had been found in past years in the beds of torrents, were here, of a pale blue lustre, rarer than I had ever read of them, and I disengaged one fruticose cluster of the purest water, containing seventeen. The gold quartz was also varied by the glimmer of platinum, and a shower of garnets fell thrice, some of them so big that they could not lie in the palm of my hand.

I do not forget that to all this I am certifying under oath, and I need not specify when the whole truth of what I disclose will be known to-morrow to the crown, if it be not patent already. It is enough to add that in the thirty or forty mines wherein my drills broke down this precious deposit in the mountains, I beheld and handled more wealth than all the cloisters of Dresden hold, or the great mogul guards in his treasuries. The gems that fell were larger than all precedents admitted, and of wondrous crystallization. The topaz, beryl, tourmaline, rysecolitas, spinelle, and corundum, were often in the same fragment, and there together as if hidden years before. Sapphires, a little dull by the earth to which they were attached, and weighing three hundred carats, were common as pebbles around me. I filled my pockets with the rarest, and finding others more precious still, threw them all away and gathered and gathered, till at last my head began to reel with possession, and I sat upon the ground, beneath my engines, and laughed like one witless. I did not believe one winkful of light that shone upon me from the lamps; the cold feel of a diamond in my grasp enraged me, because I believed it a deception of the devil, and I threw it away with a curse. I spurned the quartz with my feet as if it were intangible, and held to the light a palm, filled with all clusters of worth—metallic, adamantine vitreous, resinous, silky, pearly, some phosphorescent, some full of strange polarization, composed with shifting plocchroisms, and crystallized from simple cubes to innumerable facts, whereto the tretracontaoctokedron was a plane alone; but these things were too manifest for doubt. I consider that, because this phase of nature was rare, and never until now disclosed to man, it need not therefore be impossible; for in the endless laboratory of nature my race had until now penetrated only the portal, while I was sitting in the heart of the Alps, a mile from any surface, above or behind. I thought with a keen disappointment that perhaps even this discovery at my feet was only the outer vestibule of what we should disclose further on, where gems might be encountered which would make these present precious crystals valueless by their higher comparison, and revolutionize the riches of the world.

An interval of calm reminiscence succeeded. Discoveries as unexpected had been already made; 140 years before a chance adventurer had tapped the diamond quarries of Brazil, and found at the same touch deposits of gold, of silver, of platinum, with all the gems which I encountered here. In India, subsequently, the whole coast of the Indian ocean was found to be rich in similar treasures; and so recently, 1835, Humboldt had gathered diamonds on the banks of the Adolitskoi, and from its long alluvium of gold dust had paid the debts of the czar.

I was aroused from my reverie by the coming of my companions. They had been drinking, and their feet were unsteady; their heads wagged, they were already testifying how ill prosperity consorts with ignorance.

In all this I am rendering myself liable to the penalty of the law; but the crimes that I admit, will not at least, lose my life. I am accused of murder. To escape its penalty, under the pressure of strong circumstantial evidence, let me admit under oath that it was I who assisted in the work of destruction to the frame (l'affuseto) which bores the tunnel of the Grand Vallon, with the hope of carrying off the treasures of the mine in advance of their discovery by other parties. I ordered the sharers of my secret to toss into the gorge of Rochemolles the whole stock of Belgian drills; they broke into the warehouse and carried them off in the night; we blew the engine frame, which blasts the rock, to pieces; work was suspended, of course, upon the grand tunnel, and we three selected our portion of the treasure and quit the place.

The results are known; my dull companions, with no application of the value of gems, left Bardonecche laden with rough nuggets of gold; whether they annihilated each other in the mutual hate and avarice, or wandered off separately and fell for their riches by other hands I cannot determine; I have never encountered them. For myself, I selected the most valuable gems, and carefully covered the spot at the termination of the tunnel, that my discovery might not be immediately traced by others. Being poor and moneyless, I offered at Suza a portion of my gems for sale, having previously concealed the rest. Immediately I fell under suspicion of being the murderer of Mr. Stonewold, and was arrested; it is said that the diamond I offered to sell has been recognized for one of his. If this be true the correspondence is simply accidental. I never knew of the murder, and I never laid my hand upon Crispino Bacco. But in proof of what I here charge, lead me to the advanced gallery of the water shed, and I will guarantee in a day to produce gems which will make the prosecution of the tunnel of no advantage compared with the enormous riches which will accrue to the crown. If it should please his highness, the king, to grant me, in return for these admissions, the directory of the tunnel, with simply the gems I have secured, I shall be content. Meanwhile, I ask to be released from this terrible charge of murder, and waiting the pleasure of his majesty, the king, I subscribe myself,

PIERRO TAGLIARE,
In the Jail at Suza.

Privately subscribed before Stefano Fronzuto, attorney at Suza, August 19, 1865.

MR. LEARY RESTORES THE LINES IN THE MYSTERY.—To continue my observations upon this case, I think I can readily supply all that is missing in the links of this evidence, by quoting the following from the Guornale of Florence, of Aug. 23:

His majesty the king has appointed Signor Stefano Fronzuto, of Suza, directeur en chef of the Grand Vallon tunnel, vice M. Sommeiller. It is difficult to conceive what element as an engineer M. Fronzuto has to bore a hole through the Alps, having been an attorney all his days.

May it not be well to infer that M. Fronzuto, instead of attending to the interests of his client, Tagliare, hurried off to the crown authorities with the confession of "Beccamorto," and received the office of directeur for his silence, while poor Tagliare went to Leghorn fortress, and paid the penalty of his secret with solitary confinement for life, or worse. Thence he probably escaped to Marseilles, whither he was followed by Italian officers, and summarily taken back to the silence of the jail. For the essential particulars of the truth of his narrative, so far as it relates to the geographical and mechanical character of the work near Mount Cenis, I can vouch for them by referring you to the admirable publication of Bonjean, published at Chambery, entitled Notice Historique sur la Percee au Mont Cenis et les Nouvelles Machines de MM. Sommeiller, Grandis et Grattoni; also to the brochettes of M. Nomemaine and that of Fratelli Ferario, of Milan. Taken altogether, this narrative of Tagliare's, of which the original manuscript is unfortunately missing, seems to be the most curious story of our time; so daring in its facts, and so circumstantial in every respect, that I have been unable in any part of it to discover incongruity, and it is so well confirmed by the newspaper hints about in the continental capitals, and the well-known cessation of the workmen on the Bardonneche side of the tunnel, that I deem it valid enough to send to you. Mr. Entwistle, as you may infer, has committed the narrative to me, with the supposition that my interest in physics and discovery will enable me to unravel whatever mystery may be contained in it. But, in common with all other people of whatever attainment, who will be stirred to surprise, doubt and inquiry by this revelation, I ask, in turn, where is Beccamorto? Let the question go through Europe, and we may learn why Vafluto is silent under the Grand Vallon.

Respectfully, ARTHUR M. LEARY,
Civil Engineer, Stuyvesant Place.

New Recipe for Clam Soup.

A few months ago, just before dinner time, a hungry-looking man entered the refectory of Mr. Warner, and propounded the usual interrogatory—

"Is this the place where they keep a clam soup?"

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Warner; "how much will you have?"

"Well," replied the customer, "I guess I'll take three cents' worth."

"Three cents' worth!" exclaimed the astonished host; "why, man alive, where are you going to put three cents' worth? You certainly won't pretend to eat that quantity at one time?"

"How do you sell it?" asked the astonished countryman.

"One cent a gallon."

"Well, we'll try a gallon," said the countryman, as he leisurely took a seat in one of the boxes.

Mr. Warner, who felt in the humor for a joke, measured out a gallon of clam soup and had it carried to the customer. He commenced devouring it, and, after several temporary suspensions, in order to wipe away the perspiration and breathe freer, he at length found the bottom of the soup dish.

Mr. W. inquired of the customer whether he didn't want any more. He replied negatively, and, on paying his nickel, inquired of Mr. Warner:

"How in the world do you manage to make soup so cheap?"

"Why," said Mr. Warner, "in the spring we buy about a hundred clams, put them into a hogshead of water, and, by occasionally throwing in a few crackers and sufficient pepper and salt, in a few weeks have the soup ready for use, and keep it the whole year round."

"Well, now, ain't that fust rate? What do you ask for the receipt?"

"For a county right I ask $50, $30 for a township, and $2 for a family right."

"That'll just suit us, for we don't get clams where I live more than once a year. The next time I come down I guess I'll buy a family right. I'm desperately fond of clam soup myself."—Detroit Free Press.

A Few Personal Notes on Queen Victoria.

The European correspondent of the Chicago Journal, writing from the Isle of Wight, gives two or three stories concerning the private life of the Queen on that island, which he "has reason to believe are strictly true:"

The Queen and Prince Consort were in the habit of taking long walks, unattended, and dressed only as an ordinary lady and gentleman. On one occasion, at some distance from Rome, they were caught in a shower, and took shelter under a tree by the side of the road. An old postman, going his daily rounds, was passing by, and saw only a lady and gentleman in an uncomfortable position. He had with him an old umbrella that had done duty for many years, which, with a native but rough politeness, he proffered to the gentleman, saying he would call for it on his rounds if they would tell him where they were stopping. Prince Albert frankly accepted the umbrella and mentioned the Osborne House. The postman often thereafter did not suspect the rank of his wayside friends, and passed on about his business. A day or two afterwards, it being in his way, he stopped at the porter's lodge of the Osborne House and quietly asked if his umbrella had been left there for him. It was at once handed to him, with a letter addressed to himself, in which was enclosed a five pound note, and a few lines expressing the thanks of the Queen and Prince Consort for the timely service he had rendered them. Not content with this, the Queen caused inquiries to be made, and, finding that the only son of the old postman was a worthy young man, caused him to be placed in a suitable and comfortable position in one of the Government offices, and it is pleasant to know that he is supporting his superannuated parent in ease.

On another occasion, a certain stream was crossed only by a very small and rough ferry boat. The Queen and Prince found it convenient to cross this stream, and the boatman being absent, entered the barge to await his arrival. He soon made his appearance, puffing and blowing in his haste and under his weight of years. It appears also that it was a very unusual thing for a lady or gentleman to resort to this means of transit, the old boatman's passengers generally consisting of the hard-fisted and rough-featured laborers in the vicinity. All unconscious of the character of his present customers, but anxiously pulls in his way, his first salutation was: "I beg your parding mam; but if I'd a knowed yer were coming, I'd a had a cushing fer yer," and he forthwith stripped off his coat and spread it on one of the seats. Her Majesty sat down upon the improvised cushion, and, with the Prince, chatted familiarly with the old boatman till they reached the other side, when, instead of the usual fare of two pence, she handed him a sovereign. The Queen often talks of this water journey, and the old boatman, after learning who his passengers were, had a hole bored through the coin, and has worn it day and night ever since, around his neck.

On still another occasion, the Queen and Prince, with the Prince of Wales, then a young boy, were strolling on the beach. The latter was always a proud and haughty youngster, presuming upon his heirship to the throne almost before he was out of his petticoats. He had strayed away a little from his parents, when they heard his voice and another in angry altercation. It seems that the young Prince had discovered another boy, about his own age and size, engaged in gathering periwinkles, and his basket, partly full, was standing on the beach. This basket, out of sheer wantonness, the Prince of Wales had viciously kicked over. The young fisherman saw the act, and immediately rushed out of the water and confronted its perpetrator, when about this dialogue occurred:

Young Fisherman—"What did you do that for?"

Prince of Wales—"Because I chose."

Y. F.—"I've a great mind to thrash you for it."

P. of W.—"You dar'nt. Don't you know who I am?"

Y. F.—"No, and I don't want to."

P. of W.—"I'm the Prince of Wales."

Y. F.—"I don't care if you are the Prince of Wales. You knocked over my winkles—and take that"—and straightway the young fisherman's hand made acquaintance with the cheek of young royalty.

The Queen and Prince Consort saw and heard all, and, approaching the rival combatants, told their son that he was in the wrong, and compelled him to ask pardon of the ragged periwinkle gatherer, and give him a sovereign in recompense for the injury he had done him.

It is such incidents as these that appeal to the sentiments and sympathies of the population by whom the Queen is surrounded in her Island retreat, and there is little wonder that as a woman she is beloved, and as a sovereign revered.

Wise Thieves Steal and Compromise.

Last summer a bank clerk in New York stole $100,000. He lost the money by "fighting the tiger." He then called upon a lawyer and informed him that he was a ruined man, and thought of suicide. This led to the following dialogue:

"How much does your defalcation amount to?"

"One hundred thousand dollars."

"Got any of it left?"

"Not a cent."

"That's bad; you have left nothing to work with."

"What must be done?"

"You must return to your desk and abstract another hundred thousand."

"What must I do that for?"

"To preserve your character and save you from going to state prison. With the hundred thousand dollars you intend to steal to-morrow, I intend to compromise with the bank. Your stealings after to-morrow will amount to $200,000. I will call at the bank and confess your offence; I will represent myself as your heart-broken uncle, "honest but poor;" "I will offer the bank $50,000 to hush up the matter. The bank will accept. This will leave $50,000 to divide between you and me—that is, $25,000 apiece. With this sum you can retire from business."

The young man listened and took on wisdom. He doubled his defalcation, and compromised as the lawyer said he should. He is now worth $250,000, and is counted "one of the most respectable gentlemen in the city of New York."

The Approaching Comet.—Biela's Comet Returning.

Biela's double comet, which once excited apprehensions of a collision with the earth—which was allayed by the publication of Arago's treatise—is again approaching. An astronomer says:

"The comet is not yet sufficiently near us to be discerned with a telescope, its present distance being about one hundred millions of miles, and its position being near the left arm of Andromeda. It is slowly moving into the adjoining constellation, Pegasus, and on the first day of November next, it will be close to the bright star (Alpha Pegasi) Markab, one of the four bright luminaries which form the well known square of Pegasus. It will then pursue a southerly course, crossing the celestial square about the middle of December. Singularly enough it then crosses the old path of 1846, and near the point where it was then observed to separate into two comets. It will continue to approach the earth until the end of February, when its distance from us will be only about eighteen millions of miles. At that time, however, it will have advanced far into the southern heavens, and disappeared from view here and in higher latitudes.

From the Louisville Journal.

Paragraphs—Chiefly Original.

Salaries are attached to offices, and the incumbents of the offices are attached to salaries.

Some men have a passion for a petite girl. The smaller her size, the huger their sighs.

Young men are not generally satisfied till they get a beard that an owl might roost in.

The true man is white. In the negro the truth is colored.

Rise with the cock in the morning, though you may have been on a lark over night.

If a bad woman have a family of children, it is to be hoped that they will not, like bad vinegar, have too much "mother" in them.

Many lawyers are always insolent toward the witnesses against their clients. All their examinations are cross examinations.

Littleness has its perils as well as greatness. If not pursued, as an elephant you may be trodden on as an insect.

Some people will make up and execute great enterprises while others are making up their minds.

It is as dangerous to let a spark come in contact with some young women as with gunpowder.

We may say of most authors that when they die and are buried, their works follow them.

If you know how to spend less than you get, you have the true philosopher's stone.

Motto for a crooked legged soldier, "I wish I were disbandyed."

'Tis well that the mutton chops should be ready when your own chops are.

A man leaves off pinches of snuff when the pinches of Jack Frost leave off his nose.

A man who has been cropped for felony has no ear for music.

The bachelor who has his arms shot off, must remain a bachelor. He can't give his hand to anybody.

Love is the most passionate in the south. The Girdle of the Queen of Love is the torrid zone.

A man can't eat when he is scared. If his heart is in his mouth, he doesn't wish to put anything else into it.

Don't stone your neighbor, but if you see his baby in a cradle, you may rock it.

The Chief of Morocco is said to have no heir to stand in his morocco shoes.

The more cultivated a farmer is, the better cultivated his lands are apt to be.

A vagabond will hardly be able to find quarters anywhere, if he find none in his pockets.

Now that Lord Brougham is getting near the time for pegging out, the question arises whether any of the new Broughams will sweep as clean as the Old Harry.

When a poor fellow is about to be burned by the savages, his existence is at stake.

Many a man has fine premises, who hasn't sense enough to draw conclusions.

War is a great game, but not a game of live and let live.

As long as men smell of whiskey and tobacco, the women have a right to defend themselves with musk.

Women are possessed of all sorts of devils except dumb ones.

No matter how ugly you may be, your shadow will faithfully stick by you, for it is as ugly as you are.

The man who would impart wisdom and knowledge, should diligently seek them; his imports should at least equal his exports.

A woman naturally begins to have a great antipathy for dates when she finds herself out of date.

It is when we stand upon the mountain tops that the orb of day rises most majestically before our eyes, and the golden orbs of great thoughts come up most sublimely above the horizon of our souls.

A preacher should not make the burthen of his discourse too burthensome.

A young woman and her picture are often exactly alike in one thing; they are both painted.

Bear your cross worthily, and it will turn to an anchor.

If a woman would keep her husband from running about, she had better wed him.

An absent-minded man's body is only a car-case.

Why is it that when a debtor makes mince meat of his adversary, he is said not to mince matters.

Many big bugs have a good deal of hum about them.

If we regard all life as an educational institution, a circumnavigator of the world is less influenced by all the nations he has seen than by his nurse.

The children of the rich are often so tended and restrained that they become imbeciles. They are treated like goats whose sinews are cut to prevent their jumping.

A true pun has a hearty kind of present, ear-kissing smack to it; you can no more transmit it in its pristine flavor than you can send a kiss. Have you not tried in some instances to palm off yesterday's pun upon your friends, and has it succeeded?

To be naked is much nearer to being a man, than to going in livery.

That man is passing rich who can number friends enough for a jury.

When we are children no more, we may well have a feeling of desolateness. We come out like the Trojan, prince from the burning Troy, but, unlike him, we have left our household gods behind us.

It almost seems dangerous to be innocent; nothing is more frequently a mark to be shot at than a white horse.

Among the flowers and trees, nature takes us into her own hands, and we may breathe as freely as the first man in Paradise.

We love a little eccentricity. We admire foolish enthusiasm in a young head better than wise skepticism. We almost think that a moral game law should be passed for the preservation of the wild and vagrant feelings of human nature.

A Christian man had better go to the theatre, than go home whining because he can't go.

Try what it is to speak with God behind you—to speak so as to be only the arrow in the bow which the Almighty draws?

With consistency a great soul has simply nothing to do. He may as well concern himself with the shadows on the wall.

SUMMERSAULTS.—Turning double summersaults is not a very common thing now-days. We know of but three persons in this country that do it fair and square, James Madigan, Young Bob Stickney, and a Portuguese with Lent, are the only ones that do it we believe. A triple or quadruple summersault has never been fairly done by any person. Johnny Aymar, brother of Walter, broke his neck at Astley's, London, one night, attempting a triple. Young Starks also killed himself out west about a year ago attempting the feat. McCullum, the rider never turned a double summersault from a horse's back. In his day the turning of a forward or backward summersault from a horse's back was considered a big thing.—N. Y. Clipper.

CHILDREN should not be allowed to ask for the same thing twice. This may be accomplished by parents, teachers, (or whoever may happen to have the management of them), paying attention to their little wants, if proper, at once, if possible. The children should be instructed to understand when they are not answered immediately, it is because it is not convenient. Let them learn patience by waiting.

A RIDDLE.—Take away my first letter, take away my second letter, take away all my letters, and I am still the same. The possessive.

Laugh and Grow Fatities.

.....A foot traveler, whose feet were of prodigious size, on stopping at a country tavern for lodging, asked the landlord for a boot-jack wherewith to remove his muddy boots. After surveying his foot with much deliberation, the landlord declared that there was no boot-jack on the premises that would be half big enough for him.

"Perhaps you've got a forked stick, or somethin', then," suggested the traveler.

"No, there's nothing that would answer," replied the landlord.

"What's a feller to do, then?" despondingly asked the traveler.

"I'll tell you," answered the landlord, brightening up with a new idea, "just go back and pull 'em off with the fork of the road."

.....An inveterate punster happened to go into one of the banks the other day just as the worthy cashier was running up, with his accustomed celerity and correctness, a long column of figures. The waggish visitor saw [illegible] and addressed the cashier [illegible] official, with a very grave face, "R——, I understand they think of sending you to the World's Fair as a specimen of the American adder."

.....Rev. Mr. Mathews, in his book of "all collections," tells a story of Governor Morris and Bishop Moore. At a dinner party, Mr. Morris, who was about to set sail for Europe, said to the Bishop:

"My reverend friend, I have just made my will, and have bequeathed to you my whole stock of impudence."

Bishop Moore replied, "Sir, you are not only very kind but very generous; you have left me by far the largest portion of your estate."

Mrs. Moore, the good Bishop's wife immediately added: "My Dear, you have come into possession of your inheritance remarkably soon."

.....Thackeray, when in the United States, meeting a western man who had been in England, asked him how he liked the country.

"Very well in the day time," was the quick reply.

"Why, my friend, what is the matter with it in the night?"

"Oh! I never dared to go out in England after night for fear I should step off the edge."

.....Biddy, while on a begging expedition, was asked by a lady if she had any children.

"Yes, mum," replied Biddy with great readiness, I'm the mother of an orphan."

.....Two Ladies contended, in the court of Charles V., as to who should take precedence of the other. They appealed to the monarch, who replied:

"Let the elder go first."

We are told that such a dispute was never again heard of.

.....What is the difference between a piece of honey-comb and a black eye? One is produced by the laboring bee, and the other by a belaboring.

....."I live in my charmer's eyes," said a fop to Colman. "I don't wonder at it," replied George, "for I observed she had a sty in them when I saw her last."

.....Saxe, the joker and poet, was once taking a trip on a steamer, when he fell in with a lively young lady, to whom he made himself very agreeable. Of course he made an impression upon the damsel, who said at parting, "Good bye, Mr. Saxe, but I fear you'll soon be forgetting me!" "Ah, miss," said the inveterate punster, "if I was not a married man already, you may be sure I'd be for getting you!"

....."What are you thinging of my man?" said Lord Hill, as he approached a soldier who was leaning in a gloomy mood upon his firelock while around him lay mangled thousands of French and English; it was a few hours after the battle of Salamanca had been won by the English. The soldier started, and, after saluting his general, answered:

"I was thinking, my lord, how many widows and orphans I have this day made for one shilling." He had fired 600 rounds of ball that day.

The Great Fire in Constantinople.

The great fire in Constantinople has been attended with far more serious loss of property than was expected when the first telegram was sent to London: and it now turns out that no fewer than 2,500 houses, public buildings, and places dedicated for divine service, have been, for the most part, leveled with the ground. There are certainly a few exceptions, where the walls are standing, but the principal mosques are now nowhere to be seen. The last accounts forwarded to the different London insurance companies are of a harrowing nature. The extent of the sufferings of over 22,500 persons, who had to rush out of their habitations almost naked to escape from the ravages of the flames, baffle description. It would appear that the conflagration commenced in a building two stories high. From that part the flames spread with rapidity, igniting in succession whole rows of houses and stores on the northwest side. The scene amongst the poor people was pitiable in the extreme. The meagre means of contending with such a fire were found perfectly inadequate, and added to that the water supply was equally insufficient. Explosions of a fearful character followed in rapid succession, and it was feared that, as the buildings came toppling down, several men who were assisting had been crushed to death. It was not, however, clearly stated whether any lives had been sacrificed, the excitement and confusion being so great that the agents of the different insurance offices were unable to ascertain; but there was strong ground for supposing that a great loss of life had taken place. It was found perfectly impracticable to find shelter for the whole of the burnt-out people and their children, and they had to content themselves by sleeping in field and gardens near by. When the last telegram was received prayers were being offered up to the Almighty to stop the ravages of the fire. The principal portion of the houses were composed, in a great measure, of timber, which, of course, will account for the extraordinary spread of the flames. No conflagration of such magnitude has taken place since the great fire at Hamburg; and it is stated that more persons have lost their homes, and all they possessed, than even at that conflagration. Mr. Hodsall, assessor of losses, and several other gentlemen belonging to different fire offices, have sent specially down to ascertain how the insurance companies of the city and provincial towns are interested; and also to enquire into the cause of the terrible calamity, and how many persons are left unprovided for. The fire was considered at last accounts to have been fairly stopped at each point, and unless the wind should spring up, there was no danger of any further extension of mischief. Whole streets, squares, mosques, and government buildings, were blazing away at the same time. Measures have at once been taken to get up a subscription for the housing of the poor burnt-out creatures, which it is to be hoped will be liberally responded to by the more fortunate inhabitants.

GLUE LAKE.—Dr. Mathews informs us that there has been a small lake discovered in this county from which pitroglue has been taken. But little has been said about it yet, but he promises to give us an account of it, in which he will speak more definitely.

The above item is taken from the Clear Lake Times, published at Lakeport, Lake county, California. A friend of the Placer Herald says this discovery is nothing compared to the recent discovery on the line of the Pacific Railroad, of a spring of "fine pure mush and milk."—Exchange.

Why should one refuse to keep a grant of land in Virginia? Because it is a Va. grant.

AGRICULTURAL.

THEY are getting to cure tomato vines for fodder. They are cured when green and juicy, and put in the barn for winter feed, to be fed occasionally, or as roots are.

SITTING to sew by candle light by a table with a dark cloth on it, is injurious to the eyesight. When no other remedy presents itself, spread a sheet or white paper before you.

A WESTERN paper describes a brandy manufactured from watermelons, and pronounces it excellent. Intemperate people would think this was the next thing to "extracting sunbeams from cucumbers."

SOME of the market gardeners near the city of London, it is said, apply from sixty to eighty tons of manure to their ground, particularly where great crops of cabbage are produced.

[illegible] gestion; how can it be wondered at, when they seem by their habit of swallowing their food wholesale to forget for what purpose they are provided with teeth.

TOMATO PRESERVES.—The skin should be removed, and the tomatoes sliced thinly and stewed in sugar as any other preserves, using the very best kind of sugar, pound for pound.

TO RELIEVE CHOKED CATTLE.—A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker says that he has tried pouring a half pint of melted lard down the throat of the suffering animal and has never been known to fail in giving relief.

TO PRESERVE GRAPES.—Pick when in full bloom, fully ripe, in a dry, warm day; lay the clusters carefully in boxes holding thirty pounds, with a layer of paper between each layer of grapes, cover, and put in a cool, dry cellar, and they will keep till May.

GRAPE JAM.—Boil grapes very soft, and strain them through a sieve. Weigh the pulp thus obtained and put a pound of sugar to a pound of the pulp. Boil it twenty minutes, stirring it often. The common wild grape is much the best for this use.

BLOOD SPAVIN.—The following is given as a sure cure for blood spavin: Common poke-root cut into slices and boiled in urine till it becomes quite strong. Bathe the parts two or three times a day until a cure is effected. It should not be used too strong or it will take the skin off.

COTTON.—This staple, which grows in India and Italy, has also been successfully cultivated in parts of Illinois and Indiana. The "Egypt" specimen of the former State is a very white, short-staple cotton, and will grow from 250 to 280 pounds of clean cotton to the acre.

CUTTING OFF TEATS.—"F. O. W." desires us to answer through the Agriculturalist what to do with a double teat on one of his heifers. Twist a piece of small wire round it sufficiently tight to obstruct all circulation. In ten or twelve days the teat will drop off, and new skin will form over the scar. This should not be done, however, when a cow gives milk, as the wound would be kept from healing over by the flow of the milk, before a scab could form over it.

CALIFORNIA WINE.—The public have been most egregiously humbugged by what is sold under the name of California wine. It has been advertised by physicians to the sick, and by clergymen at the communion table as the purest wine. It turns out that the article is usually made in Boston or New York—very seldom in or around the "Gold Diggins," and is as vile a compound of villainous drugs as was ever gulped down by a humbugged community.

A SINGLE grain of barley was planted by an agriculturalist in the Isle of Man in 1862 and in the same year produced three hundred grains. These were sown, and the second year's produce was about half a pint. These were again sown, and the third year's produce was fourteen pounds, which being again sown, have realized this year about seven bushels, covering a space of about fourteen yards by five. Thus have there been produced in four years, seven bushels of barley from a single grain.

WE know not of anything attended with more serious consequence than that of sleeping in damp linen. Persons are frequently assured that they have been at a fire for many hours, but the question is as to what sort of a fire, and whether they have been properly turned so that all parts may be exposed to the fire. The fear of creasing the linen, we know, prevents many from unfolding it, so as to be what we consider properly aired; but health is more important; with gentleness there need be no fear of neatness.

BLANCHING CELERY.—Seeing lately some remarks on the different modes of blanching celery, I am reminded of a plan I saw in

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan

One of the best, fitted Establishments!

Most Varied

Stock of Furniture

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St., Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various Styles and Prices

OF SOFAS.

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY,
WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE,
COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP,
WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notice by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pictures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style,

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

B.J. BIDWELL

Is now offering his

Stock of Goods

CONSISTING OF

DELAINES, PRINTS, BLEACHED AND BROWN SHEETINGS, BALMORAL SKIRTS, HOOP SKIRTS,

DRESS GOODS

LADIES' CLOTHS, &c.

At prices that will insure their immediate sale, in order to

Clear out the Entire STOCK.

Just Received a lot of

Black Cassimeres,

Bought at Auction, which will be sold at low figures, also a splendid assortment

Of gloves and Hosiery,

Those purchasing

SUGARS, TEAS, COFFEES, and

Other FAMILY GROCERIES, are requested to examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

B. J. BIDWELL.

☞ Now is the time to subscribe and pay for the Tecumseh HERALD.

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deu l & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

We are on hand and are constantly receiving as their store the largest and best assortment of

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything
that anybody or his
brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

As all our neighbors know

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just received from New York and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hoag's, north side of Chicago street.

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE ! !

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY !

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass. Window Sashes

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron. and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

---

18 Pronunciemento 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grist for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour suit.

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd est Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Midlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. w. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE.

They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE.

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sat.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL.

Corn In the Ear and Shelled

A good assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantible Lumber.

Wm HAYDEN

WARD & STRICKLAND,

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. - - Tecumseh, Mich.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single Springs and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be appreciated particularly in all crowded assemblies Operas, Churches, Railroad cars, Church pews, Arm chairs for promenade and house dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never after wards willingly dispense with their use. For children Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 2 ply twisted threads and will wear twice as long as the Single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts. The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Double Steel, and are or double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c. &c. which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant corded tape and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible and are unquestionably the lightest most durable comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

Weare Bradley & Case, Proprietors of the Invention, and Sole Manufacturers, 97 Chambers and 79 & Reade Streets, New York.

For Sale in all first class Stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada Havanna Cuba, Mexico, South America, and the West Indies.

☞ Inquire for the Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

Lad and young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,

SOLE PROPRIETORS,

NEW YORK.

D. NOTEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases, will visit Tecumseh the

1st & 2d of Every Month,

for Consultation with patients. Cancer and Scrofula, Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, an Incipient Consumption cured in three to five months. Liver Complaint, Dispepsia, and Constipation cured in 2 to 4 months. Piles, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs yield readily to his treatment. Prolepsus Uteri he is master of. Charges reasonable according to ability to pay: the really poor will be treated gratis. He will be at Comstock & Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence on Building Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars (See Circulars.

DENTISTRY

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices

---

F. R. Stebbins.

Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one-hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

Advantages of this Plow.

It will last from three to six times longer than any other Steel Plow made anywhere by anybody. This has often been proved by actual test in "gritty" soils, invariably to be found on the mountains of streams in the West, to which sheet-steel Plows have been habitually sent "forward" to plowing eighty acres or less, it having already plowed over fifty hundred acres of the same soil without yet being half worn.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed. If there is a piece of ground anywhere in which it will not scour, we have yet to find it.

It draws lighter than any other plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, on a Point solid iron, as readily as an ordinary Plow, by any blacksmith who understands his trade, as the steel is fully malleable and works "kindly".

duplicate, to be had of any Agent, as the Share, Landside and Mouldboar is are cast in moulds

It is well stocked with New England second-growth timber, and the standard is wrought iron, with "slots" in the caps so as to give or take land at pleasure

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, works perfectly in either stubble or turf leaves a clean furrow, and turns under stubble or foul trash completely

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the world, just as sure as there is economy in paying six dollars once rather than five dollars five or six times over; — in not losing time and your temper because your Plow won't "scour;" — and in doing a quarter or a fifth more work, with the same power the quality and quantity of work it will ensure to perform must be considered, as well as the cost price in determining whether or not the Plow is cheap. Plows are used for profit, and the use out of which the most dollars and cents can be put for proportion to its cost, is the cheapest, and we are confident a man gets more than a hundred dollars worth of Plow every time he gets one of these.

These remarks are made after a familiarity with the merits of most of the good Plows in use in the West, many of which have justly earned a good reputation

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for stubble and foul ground therefore we have had only the "C" pattern designed for both, turf and stubble. The "B" and "C" patterns together will enable us, to meet the views of all as to shape, and give them either "bold" or "lean" plows as they prefer

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Slayton, Tecumseh.

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained as great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters, are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OUR—

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried, to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gilt label on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,

No. 21 River Street Chicago

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins. Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the Brick Shop on Railroad Street, Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young america. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days.

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap, Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool-en and Straw

HATS AND CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, been a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

☞ Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices

Those wishing garments made would do we to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware

EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands

Also a splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions.

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday, the 30th day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of John Culbertson deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of John E. Culbertson a son of said deceased, praying that the last will of said deceased may be proved and allowed and that Robert Culbertson may be appointed executor thereunt.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 16th day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner . . . should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the said Petitioner . . give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petion, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be publised in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing ROBERT R BEECHER,

(A true Copy) n759 Judge of Probate

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 29th day of September in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Caroline V. Steele, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Elizabeth Quackenboss, sister of said deceased, praying that the last will and testament of said deceased may be admitted to probate, and that Richard C Moore might be appointed executor thereof.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 23d day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.

(A True Copy.) 773-w5.

Corporation Notice

"The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to get good grinding done. I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

Keep the Mill constantly in good order and the old Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c. I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

Here We Come

WITH

GOOD NEWS

For Everybody.

DRY GOODS

AND

FANCY GOODS,

of every description, cheaper than the cheapest and good as the best

Just received a VERY LARGE and well selected STOCK of

FANCY DRESS GOODS,

ALAPACCAS, MERINOS, PRINTS, DELAINES, FANCY FLANNELS, BALMORALS, BROWN AND BLEACHED SHEETINGS,

HOOP SKIRTS,

HOSIERY, GLOVES,
BELT RIBBONS, BELT BUCKLES
FANCY DRESS BUTTONS &c.

Including many other articles to numerous to mention, all of which we plead ourselves to sell

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Do not fail to call and see us and examine our

GOODS AND PRICES

No. 2 MECHANICS BLOCK

C. H. ADAM & CO.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Conterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND

NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 21. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 12 1865. WHOLE NO. 775.

1865. FALL TRADE 1865.

NEW FIRM,

Tribou & Bidwell Brothers,

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods,

Corner Chicago and Rail Road Streets;

Tecumseh, Michigan,

The Largest Stock.

The Best Assortment,

And the Lowest Prices.

Call and examine our Goods, and we will prove the truth of our assertion.

Cash.

E. A. TRIBOU.
L. C. BIDWELL.
L. I. BIDWELL.

NEW FIRM,

NEW GOODS AND

NEW ARRANGEMENTS

The subscribers have formed a copartnership in the Dry Goods Trade, and offer to the old stand of C. Lawrence, near the Post Office, an entire new stock of

STAPLE & FANCY GOODS,

Consisting of Dress Goods, Yankee Notions, Prints and Bleached Muslins, Clothes Pins.

Also a large and well selected stock of

CROCKERY and Glass-Ware,

Our goods were bought for cash and we sold as low as can be bought in Southern Michigan. Give us a call.

AMBISON & LARNED.

JUST ARRIVED!

And yet to come

1000 CASES!

MENS, BOYS and YOUTHS BOOTS, and LADIES, MISSES and CHILDREN SHOES.

Those goods were all bought before the present Panic for High Prices and will be

SOLD LOWER

Than the same goods can be bought to day. N.B. Persons in search of "Shoddy" are respectfully informed that I keep only the very best goods and

WARRANT ALL GOODS,

as represented.

Particular attention is called to my Stock of HAND MADE,

BOYS BOOTS

brought direct from the manufactures; every pair warranted.

MENS, LADIES, MISSES and CHILDRENS RUBBERS In great abundance.

The shop in charge of an experienced foreman is turning out piles of work, and every person that leaves a measure gets

PARTICULAR FITS.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine.

Shoe Pacs,

A new water-proof Boot for Farmers, Lumbermen and Hunters. Laces and Tassets in a variety of colors.

E. H. HOAG.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

than any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

CASH FOR RAGS!

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH, - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHUM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,
JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Music,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety. Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

NEW MILLINERY AND Fancy Goods Store.

Mrs. L. WILBUR, would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that she has just purchased the largest and best assortment of Millinery Goods ever brought to this place. She intends to keep a large stock of

BONNETS, RIBBONS, FLOWERS, LACES, HATS, HEAD DRESES, PLUMES, FEATHERS, and

in fact everything to be found in the Millinery line constantly on hand. Particular attention paid to Bleaching and Repairing straws. Be sure to call Shop in rooms formerly occupied by Mrs. O. McCoy.

I also have a large assortment of Fancy Goods consisting of Hoops, Traveling baskets, Merino vests and drawers, Hosiery Gloves, Dress Trimming &c to which I would call the attention of the ladies. I am offering my stock at low prices and would respectfully solicit a share of your patronage.

Mrs. L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Sept. 14th, 1865

Administrator's Sale.

Estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased. Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, Michigan, made in said estate on the 18th day of September 1865, empowering and licensing me thereto I shall on the 4th day of November 1865 at the premises hereinafter described in the village of Tecumseh in said county at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, sell at public vendue, the interest said deceased died seized in and to the undivided one third of all that certain tract or parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, Michigan, known and described as follows viz: Commencing at a point in the north side of Chicago street in said village forty-one and one half feet east of the east line of Evans Street measuring from intersection thereof by said north line of Chicago street running thence east on said north line of Chicago street fourteen feet thence north at right angles with Chicago street eighty-nine feet, thence west parallel with Chicago street fourteen feet and thence south at right angles with Chicago Street eighty-nine feet to the place of beginning with the privilege of an alley ten feet wide adjoining the north end of the above described land subject to his share of the incumbrance of fifteen hundred dollars in a mortgage upon the undivided premises made by Wooster Taylor, Oliver B. Taylor and said deceased to John S. Rider bearing date on or about March 23d 1861 with interest from said date. Terms published on day of sale.

Tecumseh, 5th, Sept. 19th 1865.

OLIVER B. TAYLOR, Administrator of said estate.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c, at

A. JAMES

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight,	7:08 A. M
Mail and Express,	1:06 P. M

GOING NORTH.

Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40 P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD.
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c, Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND.
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD J. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES.
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DUEL & WILBUR.
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING.
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT.
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet, &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions. Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c. Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER.
Attorney's, Counsellor's and Solicitors. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT.
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McOWEN
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c. Chicago St, Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD HOAG.
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & CARTER.
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather Chicago St Tecumseh Mich,

HORACE BEECHER.
Steam Engine and Machine Founder. Railroad St Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO.
Dealers in Agricultural Implements, &c. Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY.
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RANDALL & SLAYTON.
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements. Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. HOLT
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions. Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

D. G. DANA
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

I. C. SATTERTHWAITE.
Insurance Agent and Notary Public. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMPST
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS.
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes. Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums, Chicago St Tecumseh Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c. Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery. Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM.
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART.
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c. Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT.
Paper Hanging, Whitewashing, &c., &c Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. R. PALMER, Attorney at Law, and Notary Public, Lake Ridge, Mich. Particular attention paid to collections in any part of Michigan. He is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Notice of Advertising.

One inch (in column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	2 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 80	$ 1 25	$ 4 50	$ 6 00	$ 8 00
2 Squares	1 00	2 00	3 00	5 50	12 00
3 Squares	2 50	3 50	6 50	10 00	14 00
¼ Column	3 00	4 50	8	12 00	18 00
½ Column	4 00	6 00	10 00	18 00	30 00
1 Column	8 00	10 00	20 00	25 00	50 00

No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines or less, inserted one year for $5 00. Job Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

To Our Friends

You will confer a favor on us by soliciting the Judge of Probate to publish Probate Notices in the HERALD, and you will also find it convenience to your selves to have the advertisements in the paper you receive.

For the Herald.

I'll Think of Thee.

I'll think o' Thee my darling
When the stars are shining bright,
When the pale moon sheds her silvery rays
Through the "long, long weary night."

And Darling I will think of Thee
When the wind sighs in the gale,
And I will still remember Thee
When other friends shall fail.

And when the gentle breezes sigh
And seem to breathe thy name,
Believe me that my thoughts
But echo back the same.

And when I am sleeping Darling,
I'll dream that Thou art near,
And whisper, very gently,
The name that is so dear.

And I will cherish in my heart
The "Pet name" O! so sweet,
The name, that Thou did'st call me
When we alone did meet,

And Darling now a "boon I'll ask,
When on "Thy beaded knee"
Thou'lt pray "Our Father, to forgive
My sin, in loving Thee. L.

The fifth annual Promenade is to take place at Odd Fellows Hall in this village, on the evening of Oct. 20th, 1865. These parties are too well known to need any comment. Music by Trinkle's Quadrille Band.

The Young Ladies and Gentlemen of Tecumseh, and all who feel themselves interested in the organization of a Literary Society of some kind in our village, are respectfully requested to meet for consultation at Union School Hall on Monday evening next, at 7 o'clock. A general attendance is solicited.

Constitution Bitters, which took the First Premium at the State Fair, also Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters and Roback's Bitters, all for sale at the Drug Store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

Mrs. A. L. Daskam would respectfully announce to the ladies of Tecumseh that she has opened a Dress Making Establishment over Mrs. Wilber's Millinery Rooms, where she will be happy to see all who may favor her with a call. She is prepared to do machine stitching and embroidery, cutting patterns &c., in the latest styles.

The American Phrenological Journal is at hand. It contains a sketch of Gen'l John A. Logan, Isaac H. Sturgeon, formerly Assistant Treasurer of the U. S. at Saint Louis; Emanuel Swedenborg, the philosopher and Henry Wirz of Andersonville notoriety, besides much other useful and interesting matter.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Having sold my stock of goods to Messrs. Tribou & Bidwell Bro's, all persons indebted to me are earnestly requested to call and settle their accounts with Mr. E. A. Tribou. Shall deal in Leather and Findings as heretofore.

B. J. BIDWELL.

They do say that Charlie Adam has got the finest selected stock of Dry Goods in Tecumseh, for style, variety and Quality he can't be beat. Only think, best Delaines at 37 1-2 cts; best all wool Delaines at 70 cts; best Balmorals at $4. Don't fail to call and examine Charlie's stock before purchasing elsewhere, as he bought cheap for cash and is selling the same.

Merinos, Alapacas, Poplins, Delaines, and all kinds of nice Dress Goods, can be had at the store of R. C. Moore. Mr. Moore, as we all know keeps a nice stock of Goods, and adds to it from week to week.—his assortment of Balamoral Skirts are of a superior quality. Examine cloths at R. C. M's, and you will find them of superior quality and latest style.

Go to Moore's for Ticking, Stripes, Factory, Prints, Flannels, Cloack Ornaments, Dress Buttons, Carpet Twine, and Knitting Cotton, (both white and mixed) Gloves, Hosiery Belting &c.

A Night of Horror

A correspondent of the Tecumseh Herald furnishes us with his experience with "Musketows" as Josh Billings terms them, the other night, which our readers will enjoy as heartily as we did on its perusal. He calls it a "Night of Horror" and says if any one can beat C. H. Adam & Co., who are selling the finest assortment of Alpaccas at Seventy-five cents a yard, we should like to hear from him. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Charley says he has the finest style of Fall Shawls in the market, at Four Seventy Five.

At Springfield, (Ill.) a journeyman barber was fined $50 for shaving a gentleman, in his private room at a hotel, on Sunday. Why will not the Village Board [illegible]

Answer to Anagram.

Oh! 'tis sweet to be remembered
When our life has lost its bloom,
And every morning sun we meet
May leave us at the tomb;
When our youth is half forgotten,
And we pass with yearning, fond,
From a world where all are lying
To a deathless world beyond
'Tis sweet to be remembered,
As the stars remember night,
Shining downward through the darkness
With a pure and holy light.

Raisin, Mich. 8; M—e

Monument Mass Meeting.

A meeting will be held at Bidwell's Hall in Tecumseh, on Tuesday Evening Oct. 17th 1865, to consider further measures for erecting a monument to the memory of our deceased soldiers. The citizens of Tecumseh and adjoining towns are expected to attend in mass.

P. BILLS, Chairman of Com.

Tecumseh, Oct. 10, 1865.

The Board of Supervisors for Lenawee county met and organized on Monday afternoon, a full board being present. Mr. Lorenzo Palmer, of Hudson, was elected Chairman.

A RICH TREAT.—Kyle's Panorama of the Mississippi, "the best picture of the Father of the Waters" now traveling, will be exhibited at Bidwell's Hall, Thursday evening Oct. 12th. Associated with this exhibition, are Prof. L. C. Hungerford and his accomplished daughter, Nettie, both distinguished vocalists; also, Gen'l Arthur C. Chambers, of the late rebel army. Our citizens may rest assured the will not regret time or money if they patronise the above entertainment.

There will be a Grand Military Ball at the Lake Ridge Hotel, on Friday evening, Oct. 13th. All lovers of the dance should be there, as a good time is anticipated.

Do you want your house insured in the best company in the country,—the PHŒNIX of Hartford? Do you want your life insured on the most favorable terms? Do you want to insure against accident of every description. Then call upon S. C. Stacy, Insurance Agt.

We would call particular attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Tribou & Bidwell Bro's. They have recently purchased the stock of Dry Goods in the large and commodious store, corner of Chicago and R. R. streets, and are now receiving a choice and well selected assortment of everything in their line, purchased in New York at lowest cash prices.

Runaway

A team belonging to Harrison Daniels of Franklin, ran away one day last week, hurting Mr. Daniels somewhat but doing no other injury. The team started from Hayden's warehouse, ran down the railroad to the corners and then turned in upon the sidewalk in front of Bidwell's Store, but the wagon coming in contact with the hitching posts they were soon brought up standing. Nothing was broken however but the wagon tongue. Mr Daniels was thrown from the wagon when the team first started, and was bruised slightly.

Apples

The apple trade has been exceedingly brisk for the past week. The regular price has been three dollars per barrel. Thousands of bushels have been sold here within the past ten days. Many of our farmers have realized as much from their apple crop this year as from their wool.

Circuit.

On Friday the trial of Frank Burt, charged with felonious assault on Mr. Welch, of the Detroit Varieties, during the State Fair was concluded, and the jury returned a verdict of acquittal. Wm. Andrews, held on the same charge, was also discharged. Chas. Younge, convicted of highway robbery, was sentenced to State Prison for three years. John French, convicted of larceny, being under 20 years of age, was sent to the Detroit House of Correction for one year. Frank Cullen, who plead guilty of petit larceny, was discharged on suspended sentence. Teddeus H. Humphrey pled guilty of bigamy, was sent to the Detroit House of Correction for three months; John Brown, Jr., who robbed Cross' jewelry store, in 1853, plead guilty and was sent to the State Prison for 12 years. Pennock, convicted of manslaughter, was sentenced to hard labor in the Penitentiary for five years.

C. H. Adam & Co., have the finest assortment of Zepher Worsted in town.

LYRICS OF LIFE.—We have received from Messrs. Ticknor & Field, of Boston, another volume of Companion Texts for the People, illustrated. The title of the number before us is "Lyrics of Life," by Robert Browning. It is uniform with the other volumes of the series "House hold Poems," by Longfellow; "Songs for all Seasons," by Tennyson, and "National Lyrics," by Whittier. Each volume contains about one hundred pages, and from twelve to twenty illustrations on wood, from drawings well known to English and American artists. The series remains a handsomely printed volumes on tinted paper, and bound in a neat pamphlet form, with vignette title. The publishers have nearly ready "Humorous Poems," by Dr. Holmes; "Religious Poems," by Mrs. Sigourney. Other popular poets are to be added to the series. As the design of this series is to present selections from the leading poets in a style, at once convenient, tasteful and inexpensive, the publishers have fixed the price at 50 cents for each volume.

[illegible]—Saturday evening, October 7th, 1865, on the platform of the Tecumseh Depot, a pillet containing one hundred and twenty dollars, also a few pieces of clothing. Returning it to the owner at Clinton, or to H. Stevens, freight agent Tecumseh, will be rewarded.

J. C. WAINWRIGHT.

A new lot of Wall Paper and Window Shades just received at J. D. Robbins. Now is the time to buy as there will be no advance soon.

Musical State Festival.

(The object of which is to encourage the advancement of Musical Enterprise,) will be held at Bidwell's Hall, in Tecumseh Mich. on 25th and 26th, 1865, commencing Wednesday evening with an opening address by the President. Next in order will be instrumental Music, followed by Songs, Solos, Duets, Trios, Quartette, Quintette, Sextet, Octet and Choruses.

All lovers of Music are invited to attend and enjoy this feast, which will be beneficial and interesting as the Vocal and Instrumental Musicians compete for the following premiums, viz:

The best Soprano singer, silver Fruit Basket.

The best Alto Singer,			Silver Card Receiver
do	Tenor	do	do	Cup.
do	Basso	do	do	do
do	Pianist		do	Vase.
do	Organist		do	Cup.
do	Flutist		do	do
do	Guitarist		do	Medal.
do	Violinist		do	do

Splendid engravings will be given as second premiums.

The following are the general committee and Judges: Prof. Foot, Ypsilanti, J. W. Hurtell, Kalamazoo, R. D. Bullock, Jackson, W. W. Whitney, Toledo, Prof. Watts, Adrian, Prof. Rice, Hillsdale, J. H. Whittemore, Detroit, H. C. Conkling, Tecumseh.

No fee will be the entrance fee for Musicians and Spectators, each evening.

Preparations will be made to accommodate all from abroad. Singers are requested to bring the Olive Branch and Key-Note from which to sing Choruses. Also bring such other music as they may select to sing, as Songs, Quartette's &c.

Those wishing to take part in the exercises will please forward their name and part they perform by the 20th inst. to the Secretary. Dr. E. HAUSE, Tecumseh.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich. Oct. 10, 1865.

Crane G	Crane miss Aroline E
Clark mrs Mary	Decomes Wm
Hall mrs Jane	Horvell Josiah
Hill J	Cannada Philo
Lening Samuel	Merritt Mr E M
mitchell Nathan S.	Odell Charles
Pember J W	Reed Reuben
Terubberry Jacob	Turner mrs Phebe J
Vanardale Eugene	Williams A J
Wells mrs Sally Ann	Wright mrs M E
Wellman Mary J

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

C. H. ADAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

DRY GOODS,

Yankee Notions, &c.,

No. 2 Mechanics' Block,

oct 2tf TECUMSEH, MICH

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Tuesday the 3d day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Thomas P. Smith, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Louis O. Smith and Elias Smith praying that letters of administration of said estate may be granted to Edwin Smith of Clinton, Lenawee county.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 13th day of November next, at 10 o'clock in forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

Honor R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true copy) n767-4

DISSOLUTION:

The copartnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling in this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettelled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM.
H. C. CONKLING.

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to BUTTER, EGGS, Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and provisions generally.

H. C. CONKLING.

Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

NEWS SUMMARY.

It is reported that Gen. Fremont, as the representative agent of a large company, has purchased the Iron works of Choutzau, Harrison & Valle at St. Louis for $250,000, and will remain in that city permanently, as the chief officer of the company.

Consular despatches received at the State Department from Barcelona, Spain, say that port has been declared infected with the cholera.

The first coach over the Smoky Hill route reached Denver on the 23d ult., and all the people turned out to give Dan. Rutherford a grand reception in honor of the event.

The visit of the President to the South, which has been so many times announced, is denied by the President himself.

The late rebel General Lee was installed [illegible] Va., on the 1st. ult.

The Russian American telegraph line has reached Fort St. James on Fraser river, British Columbia.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says there are two miles of Iron clad ships of war in the back Channel of League Island.

Col. McLain, Democratic candidate for delegate to Congress from Montana has been elected.

Despatches from Leavenworth represent the people all along the North Platte badly frightened, as nearly all the troops out that way have been withdrawn, and the savages are very threatening.

The detectives are still at work on the $100 counterfeit treasury note mystery. It is reported that a large amount of testimony has been collected relative to the matter, and several persons arrested.

The Indiana State Fair closed last Saturday, after one of the most successful exhibitions ever held in the State.

The Mississippi election has resulted in the success of Humphrey, a rebel General, for Governor by about ten thousand majority.

A special from Washington says the Cabinet have determined, after full consultation, to sustain the President in sending a fleet and troops to San Domingo, to put down the insurrection in that Island.

All the officers of the Signal Corps in the United States army east of the Mississippi river, are honorably mustered out of the service.

A private letter received from Constantinople says that the recent conflagration in that city destroyed 10,000 tenements, and that 40,000 people are left without a roof to cover them.

The Fenian excitement in England continues. Over a hundred arrests have been made, among them one Murphy, of Boston, who, on threatening to present his case to Mr. Seward, was set at liberty. For Irish Americans, and for others, rewards of £100 and £200 are offered.

The New York Evening Post says of the Herald theatrical imbroglio, that Mr. Barnum presented his advertisement at the counter of the Herald office, and it was refused. The clerk declined to give any reason, other than that he had received orders to that effect from the editor. It is stated informally that Mr. Bennett is not satisfied with the terms of his purchase of the late Museum property, corner of Ann street and Broadway, and seeks to modify the transaction. This Mr. Barnum declines to do, and hence, says the Post, it is supposed his advertisements were refused.

The San Francisco Courier has the following story about the Shenandoah: "The terrible corsair or pirate, whichever it may be called, having need of supplies, sent a ship to San Francisco to procure them. The undertaking was successful, and the ship, loaded with provisions and everything of which the Shenandoah might stand in need, then obtained a clearance for Victoria. The whole was done quietly, discreetly, and, it appears, successfully. It has also been stated that the vessel clearing for Victoria had not arrived at that port. These stories appear to be incredible, yet nobody can impugn their correctness."

The railroad stock excitement in New York continues. The stocks of most leading through lines have gone up five or six per cent.

Four new railroads will be in process of construction to Kansas City, Mo., this winter—the Cameron, Platte City, Leavenworth, and Fort Scott.

General Conner has issued a circular announcing "war to the knife" against the Indians, and advising officers in command of expeditions never to leave a trail until the savages are overtaken and punished.

The 3d Illinois cavalry, after a march of 1,500 miles, have reached Fort Snelling, whence they will leave for home in a few days, to be mustered out of service.

It is stated that movements are in progress [illegible]

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions which met at Tremont Hall, Chicago, on Tuesday, the 3d inst., adjourned their fifty-fifth annual meeting on Friday. Prior to the adjournment, several mission reports were received and several interesting speeches made.

A general congress of the Fenian organization is to convene in Philadelphia on the 16th inst.

The ex-rebel Canadian Commissioner Geo. N. Sanders, has become a Canadian postmaster, to the detriment of the former occupant of the office, at Davenport, C. W.

St. Leger Grenfel, the Chicago Conspirator who was sentenced to be hanged by the Cincinnati Military Commission, has had his sentence transmuted by the President to imprisonment for life at the Dry Tortugas.

Consular letters received at the State Department state that the cholera is abating in the island of Majorca but has broken out west of Port Mahon. The Russian plague has reappeared in Siberia attended with frightful mortality.

The Democratic organ at Indianapolis, the State Sentinel, has been purchased by the former proprietors of the Journal of that city, and will hereafter be issued without change of name as a Union paper. The price paid was $21,000.

The election in Mississippi has resulted in the choice of Gen. Humphrey, formerly an officer in the rebel army. Never having been pardoned for his treason he is ineligible, and Gov. Sharkey, in consequence, is petitioning the President to pardon him, so that he may qualify for his office. He has since been pardoned.

An order has been issued for all the monitors lying at Cairo to leave for Delaware Bay as soon as the stage of water in the Mississippi will allow. It is not believed, however, that they can get away before next spring.

"Duke" Gwin and ex-Gov. Clark of Mississippi, have been arrested, and are now in Fort Donelson.

Gen. Butler had an interview with the President on the 2d inst, and tendered his resignation, with what result is not yet known.

The Secretary of the Treasury has openly declared that he does not desire a single dollar of the loan to be taken in Europe.

The Georgia State Convention has unanimously adopted an ordinance declaring the act of secession null and void.

A treaty has been concluded with the Osages by which that tribe cedes to the United States nearly three millions of acres in Kansas.

In Philadelphia, on Wednesday evening, the 4th inst., snow fell for half an hour in the northern part of the city.

Attention is drawn in Paris to the fact that there are two small islands between New Foundland and Ireland not marked on the present maps, but adapted for service in laying the Atlantic cable.

The Episcopal general convention met at Philadelphia last week. All the northern bishops were present except those of Connecticut and Oregon. The bishop of North Carolina at first occupied a seat in the body of the church, but afterwards, on invitation, took a position in the chancel. The sermon was preached by Dr. Fulford, lord bishop of Montreal.

About 1,600 additional French troops have lately arrived in Mexico. Some negro troops are expected there from Egypt, and apprehensions are felt that they will bring the cholera with them.

The Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce proposed to the government that the latter should employ freedmen in repairing the broken levees along the lower Mississippi. The officer to whom the proposition was referred has reported against it, on the ground that the government cannot assume to repair damages done by the rebellion.

A Philadelphia dispatch asserts that General Grant, a few days ago, declared that our government would vindicate the Monroe doctrine; that Maximilian must leave Mexico; and that President Johnson would take open ground in the matter on the meeting of Congress. A recent contradiction renders this very improbable.

The Boston Post says Gen. Butler is a candidate for congress, to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mr. Gooch.

Hon. R. C. Smith, acting governor of Idaho territory, was dead in the streets of Rocky Bar, a few days since.

The Total Eclipse of the 19th.

There will be a total eclipse of the sun on the morning of the 19th of the present month, visible in nearly all the United States, the centre line of the eclipse reaching from Jefferson, Mo., to Charleston, S. C. The eclipse, near this line will be annular, or will show the entire disc of the moon upon the sun disc.

The following are the computed times for Chicago, the phenomenon beginning soon after sunrise:

Lat. 41° 52' 6", Long. 5h. 50m. 36sec., or 87° 37' 58"

	h.	m.	sec.
Eclipse begins	7	45	25.4	a. m.
Greatest Obscuration	9	12	3.6	"
Greatest conjunction in Long.	9	12	52.1	"
Eclipse ends	10	50	13.4	"
Duration	3	4	29.0	"

Greatest distance of centers, 3' 39" 12".

Over 10 digits (10,098) will be eclipsed.

The Eclipse will begin 31° from Sun's vertex to the right, and end 136° towards the left.

[illegible] arrested for aiding him to conceal himself.

White, on trial for murder at Waukegan, Ill., was acquitted on the ground of insanity, and ordered to be sent to the Lunatic Asylum at Jacksonville.

The total population of Russia, amounting in 1856 to about 72,000,000 is now estimated by a leading Russian journal at 80,000,000.

An earthquake shock in Eureka, California, on Sunday, the 1st, did damage to the amount of several thousand dollars.

The Mexican General Salinas had badly defeated the French forces and captured the town of Parula.

The Iowa Central Railroad is to connect St. Louis with St. Paul, via Cedar Rapids; and the directors have pledged themselves that the road "will at no time make any contract, time-table, or business arrangement, to divert trade from St. Louis."

The military department of New Mexico has been abolished.

GLEANINGS.

—The Hon. John L. Harvey, a wealthy and eminent lawyer of high social standing at Dubuque, committed suicide in a sleeping car of the Great Western Railway, on his journey to Boston and Brattleboro', having been subject for years past to fits of despondency and insanity, hereditary in his family. Some time elapsed before his identity could be established.

—An English iron mill has succeeded in making a sheet of iron so thin that it requires 4,800 sheets to make it an inch in thickness, thus effectually beating the Pittsburg iron workers, who made a sheet so thin that it took 1,000 of them to make an inch, and challenged all England to beat it, if they could.

—An ingenious Frenchman has made a mosaic landscape composed of insects. It contains more than 40,000 beetles, besides big and little bugs of various hues.

Nicholas Van Wert, of Troy, N. Y., aged seventy-four years and four months, living on the "burgh green" with a well-beloved wife, aged sixty-four years and two and a half months, has just been blessed with twins.

—The railroad projects of the English capitalists, who recently visited the West, are summed up in a double track on the Erie road from New York to Salamanca, the construction of a bridge at Buffalo, and the extension of the branches of the Atlantic and Great Western road.

—Upon the occasion of a marriage in Fall River, Mass., recently, of a son of Col. Richard Borden to a daughter of Dr. Nathan Durfee, the officiating clergyman, Rev. Eli Thurston, received a marriage fee larger than was ever paid before in Massachusetts. The families of Col. Borden and Dr. Durfee generously extinguished a mortgage of $2,500 which rested upon the homestead of the parson.

—The Indian names which designate some of our naval vessels are the subject of transformations by Jack. He calls the Wissahickon the "Widow Higgins;" the Miami the "Miasma;" and now the Miantonomoh has been christened by the same authority, "My Aunt-knows-no-man," and the Shockokton the "Shocking-corn."

—The Palladium press at New Haven, Ct., was recently stopped by an eel which had crawled into the water pipe which furnishes the power for the wheel.

—It is stated that no flag of a Vermont regiment was ever in the keeping of the enemy during the war.

—The Taunton Gazette says that Boston has been retarded for its increase in population.

—Rev. E. Erskine, late of Sterling, Ill., now financial agent for the proposed new college of the Presbyterian Church of the Northwest, is about to publish a new religious weekly in Chicago, to be known as the Northwestern Presbyterian, and designed to be the religious organ of the Presbyterians—to be printed on a large sheet, and to be gotten up in a neat and handsome form. Mr. Erskine is to be the editor and proprietor, seconded by an able corps of regular contributors.

—It is proposed at Lewiston, Maine, to have an exhibition of the different styles of bonnets worn within the past twenty-five years. A very large hall will be required.

—A California editor speaking of complaint by his readers that he don't publish all the local items that they desire to see, justly observes that it is often their own fault in not sending the facts. He says he don't like to publish a birth after the child is weaned, a marriage after the honeymoon is over, or the death of a man after his widow is married.

—Census returns fix the white population of Iowa at 750,071, colored, 3,500. There are 86,000 dogs in the State which with the wolves have destroyed 826,148 worth of sheep.

—The great fire at Constantinople destroyed 8,000 houses, more than three hundred palaces, eight mosques, two churches and five khans. Over 70,000 people were made homeless.

—The New York Herald is quite merry over the theatrical managers of New York who have withdrawn their advertisements from its column because it (the Herald) refused to publish the advertisements of the opera and Mr. Barnum's place of amusement. It likens these two to the fox in the fable, which, having its own tail cut off indulged the other foxes to submit to the same painful operation.

—A manufacturer in Manchester, Mass., has been heavily mulcted for making false returns of the amount of his business. An investigation showed conclusively that some eleven monthly returns did not show a true statement of his business, and he was assessed $1,200 extra to cover the deficiencies, and fined $1,200 for making fraudulent returns.

—The number of printed volumes in the English language in California, which in 1847 hardly exceeded 300, is estimated in 1865 at about 2,000,000—a progress unprecedented in all the annals of literature.

—The barbarous practice of carrying living calves through the streets packed in carts with their feet tied and their head dangling over the end board or against the wheels, has been summarily stopped in New York by the arrest of a butcher man, and the imposition of an exemplary fine. Served him right.

—When the inn-keeper at Neufchatel catches an Emperor, he makes the most of him. His bill for entertaining Napoleon and the Imperial suite thirty-six hours, was $6,000. He is almost up to the prices of American hotels.

—One Sunday, recently, six thousand people visited Sydenham Crystal Palace. The usual amusements there were suspended, and instead of them lectures were given on Egyptian and Assyrian antiquities.

—The Vinton, Iowa, Eagle says that Mr. John W. Mather, of Benton county, lost his power of speech two years ago. The other day, while plowing, one of his horses became entangled in the traces, and as he stopped over to adjust matters the horse kicked at him, which frightened him so that he instantly began to yell out "Whoa!"

—The official report on the race between the Winoeski and Algonquin states that the economical performance of each vessel was equal, and that the arrangement of the Winooski machinery is the completest and most convenient possible, and its economy is fully equal to that given by the very complex design of the Algonquin.

—The discovery of what is true, and the practice of what is good, are the two most important objects of life.

—The Ripon, Wis., Commonwealth tells of apples raised up there, twenty-two of which filled a half-bushel measure chock full, and which weighed from twelve to nineteen and a half ounces apiece. Who says Wisconsin can't raise apples?

—The strikers in the mines of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company, and the Pennsylvania Coal Company, have gone to work.

—Mexican blue, is the name of a new fashionable color.

—Certain planters in the vicinity of Montgomery, Alabama, it is said have induced their negroes to sign contracts to work for a specified time at the rates prescribed by the Freedmen's Bureau, with a clause which makes the laborer agree to be whipped, whenever his employer may think he needs the punishment. This story needs to be confirmed by affidavits.

—In a graveyard in New Jersey, there is a tombstone on which is the following simple yet touching epitaph: "He was a good egg."

—In Indiana and Tennessee, hogs and cattle are dying rapidly of a disease which resembles the cholera. It is stated that at Nashville and Memphis, several persons have been attacked with the cholera.

—The Indian chiefs, Little Six and Medicine Bottle, who were tried a year ago for participation in the Minnesota massacres, have been condemned to be hanged on the 18th inst.

—John Sax was killed at Buffalo, New York, by Frederic Schafer, who interfered while Sax was beating his wife. Schafer was dressing a wound on the woman's head inflicted by her husband, and being furiously attacked by Sax, plunged a pair of shears into his heart.

—Charles Crow, a prominent man at Geneseo, New York, lately left his wife, whom he had re-married after having been divorced from her, and took what money he had and a pretty young niece and left for Europe.

—Oyster Culture Scientifically the oyster is a hermaphrodite mollusc. Each oyster can produce 1,200,000 eggs. Each young oyster is the hundred and twentieth of an inch in length, and about two millions may be packed within the dimensions of a cubic inch. About one half of all the young oysters are eaten up by old fish. Oysters attain their majority in two years. The oyster trade of New York alone is estimated at over $5,000,000 annually.

—Several persons near Auburn, New York, have been fatally bitten by a large green worm that infests tomato vines.

—A speaker at a recent Fenian meeting in Worcester mysteriously intimated that a Fenian on board the Great Eastern purposely damaged the cable, because he was determined that informers should not have the use of the cable until Irish independence was achieved.

—The hog cholera has made its fatal appearance in Poweshiek Co., Iowa.

—General Howard estimates that ten thousand freedmen have learned to read and write during the war.

PERSONAL.

Hon. Richard Fletcher of Boston, has notified Professor C. I. Walker of the Law School at Ann Arbor, that he has decided to donate his whole law library to the Law Department of the University of Michigan. This is surely a great compliment to the Law School and its able faculty.

Gov. Brownlow, in his message to the Legislature of Tennessee, opposes the extension of the rights of suffrage to the negroes, except in case the rebels are allowed to have it; is in favor of the present franchise law; advocates pardon to the masses, and no mercy to the rebel leaders.

Andrew Low, the Southern Reviewer, has been pardoned.

Gen. Sherman has made St Louis his permanent home, and has been presented with a thirty thousand dollar residence in that city.

The Round Table tells an odd story of Bossissio, Maretzek's new prima donna, who arrived in Boston by the Cunard steamer last week. When the steamer was coming up the harbor, the usual salutes were fired; the poor Bossissio, frightened nearly to death, fell down upon the deck in terror. She had the impression that a naval engagement was about to commence, her rather vague ideas of our civil war leading her to suppose that the Confederates were on the point of attacking Boston.

According to a court journal, the Princess of Wales is a very pattern for mothers. "It is whispered among the ladies of the Court, that every evening the mother of the future King of England, may be seen in a flannel dressing gown, in order that she may properly wash, and put on baby's night clothes, and see him safely in bed."

Renan has completed his "Life of St. Paul."

Henry Ward Beecher, in a discourse from his pulpit in Brooklyn last Sabbath advocated the extension of suffrage (privilege of voting), to all men and women, equally, without regard to color or sex. Universal suffrage, he assumes as his platform.

Dr. J. G. Holland's new poem for the lecture season is entitled "Jonathan at School."

On Louis Napoleon's birth-day, the Imperial beneficence was manifested by releasing from imprisonment forty-eight convicts of the citadel at Belle Isle. One of them was asked if he meant to return home to his family. "Alas," he replied, "I have none. Before coming to prison I was an orphan." "Of both father and mother?" "Yes, I had killed them."

Dr. Franklin said that "every little fragment of the day should be saved." Oh! yes the moment the day breaks, set yourself at once to save the pieces.

Mr. P. T. Barnum has written a letter to the Round Table defending himself from its criticisms, and the paper renews its attacks by calling the showman the representative of a class which is "a cross between the traditional stage Yankee and a canting moralist and a practical sharper."

The wife of Capt. Lawrence who said the famous words "Don't give up the ship" died at Newport, R. I., a few days since, aged seventy-eight.

Somewhat late in the day, it has been determined to erect a memorial at Birmingham to James Watt, the "father and pioneer of mechanical engineering." Watt died in the year 1819.

A memorial chapel is to be erected at Constance near the spot where John Huss was burned. A bust of Huss, and another of his friend Hieronymus, will be placed in the chapel.

THE LITTLE BOY'S DREAM.

Last night when I was in bed,
Such fun it was to me,
I dreamed that I was grandpapa,
And grandpapa was me.

I thought I wore a powdered wig,
Drab shorts, and gaiters too,
And took without a single sneeze,
A double pinch of snuff.

But he was such a tiny boy,
And dressed in baby clothes,
And I thought I smacked his face because
He wouldn't blow his nose.

And I went walking up the street,
And he ran by my side;
And because I walked too quick for him,
The little fellow cried.

And after tea I washed his face;
And when his prayers were said,
I blew the candle out and left
Poor grandpapa in bed.

Railroad to St. John's—The International Railway from Bangor, Maine, to St. John's, N. B., is becoming a chief topic of public interest "Down East." The road as surveyed, will be 198 miles long of which distance 108 miles are in Maine. The American Company, Hon. John A. Poor, President, have taken a lease of the New Brunswick interest in perpetuity, and will construct and manage the whole line. The Provinces give $10,000 per mile outright toward its construction.

A Secret for Scribblers.—Be brief in everything. Short words, short sentences and short stories. These make a writer popular with editors and readers. The strength of the Saxon tongue lies in its shortness. No writer can be popular who is polysyllabic oftener than occasionally.

Science of Kissing!

People will kiss yet die one in a hundred knows how to extract bliss from lovely lips, no more than they know how to make diamonds from charcoal. And yet it is easy, at least for us. This little item is not alone for young beginners, but for the many who go to it like hunting coons or shelling corn. First know whom you are to kiss. Don't make a mistake, although a mistake may be good. Don't jump up like a trout for a fly, and smack a woman on the neck, on the ear, on the corner of her forehead, on the end of her nose, or slop over on her waterfall, or bonnet ribbon, in haste to get through. The gentleman should be a little tallest. He should have a clean face, a kind eye, a mouth full of expression instead of tobacco. Don's kiss everybody, including nasty little dogs, male or female. Don's sit down to it, stand up. Need not to be anxious to get in a crowd. Two persons are plenty to corner and catch a kiss. More persons spoil the sport; Stand firm; It won't hurt any after you are used to it. Take the left hand of the girl in your right hand. Let your hat go to—any place out of the way! Throw the left hand gently over the shoulder of the lady, and let the hand fall down upon the right side towards the belt. Don't be in a hurry. Draw her gently, lovingly to your heart. Her head will fall lightly upon your shoulder—and a handsome shoulder strap it makes! Don't be in a hurry send a little life down your left arm and let it know its business. Her left hand is in your right. Let there be expression to that—not like the grip of a vice, but a gentle clasp, full of electricity, thought and respect. Don't be in a hurry! Her head lies carelessly on your shoulder! You are nearly heart to heart! Look down into her half closed eyes! Gently, yet manfully, press her to your bosom! Stand firm, and providence will give you strength for the ordeal. Be brave, but don't be in a hurry. Her lips almost open! Lean lightly forward with your head, not the body. Take good aim; the lips meet; the eyes close; the heart opens; the soul rides "the storms troubles and sorrows of life (don't be in a hurry); heaven opens before you; the world shoots from under your feet as a meteor flashes across the evening sky (don't be afraid); the nerves dance before the just erected altar of love as zephyrs dance with the dew trimmed flowers; the heart forgets the bitterness, and the art of kissing is learned! No noise, no fuss, no fluttering and squirming like hook impaled worm. Kissing don't hurt; it does not require a brass band to make it legal. Don't jab down on a beautiful mouth as if spearing for frogs! Don't grab and yank the lady as if she was a struggling colt! Don't mass her hair, scratch down her cheekbones, and leave her cheek mottled, rumpled and mummuxed! Don't flavor your kisses with onions, tobacco, gin cock tails, lager-beer, brandy, etc.; for a maudlin kiss is worse than the itch to a delicate, loving, sensible woman.

Sayings of Eminent Men.

The first principle and source of all good writing is to think justly.—Horace.

Every man complains of his memory, but no man complains of his judgment.—Rochefoucauld.

If men were perfectly contented, there would be no longer any activity in the world. —Holbach.

Those who have once tasted the pleasures of roaming at large through woods and mountains, can never again be happy under the restraints of society.—Lardner.

Great men taken up in any way, are profitable company.—Thomas Carlyle.

Man is older than nations, and he is to surround nations.—Rev. W. E. Channing.

Nations should wear mourning for none but their benefactors. The representatives of nations should recommend to public homage only those who have done the service of humanity.—Mirabeau.

No man is nobler born than another, unless he is born with better abilities, and a more amiable disposition.—Seneca.

We do not know absolutely what is good or bad fortune.—Rosseau.

Nature never says one thing, and wisdom another.—Rosseau.

It is most certain that passions always covet and desire that which experience forsakes. —Francis Bacon.

The absent party is always faulty.—Proverbs.

If you speak what you think, you shall hear what you dislike.—Blair.

Sudden movements of the mind often break out either from great good or great evil.—Homer.

Bear and blame not what you cannot change.—Publius Syrus.

Foolhardy and Startling.—Last Saturday afternoon, Harry Leslie, the funambulist, performed a number of blood-curdling exploits in connection with a balloon ascension of Professor Lowe, from Central Park, New York. When the balloon was over a thousand feet high, two ropes were dropped out and Leslie threw himself from the car, catching one of the ropes in his fall. His first feat was hanging by one hand, when he changed his position, and hung by his feet for some time. Scrambling up the rope, he next placed the loop under the back of his neck, and there swaying backward and forward, he remained for some time. His next feat was suspending himself by the chin, and at this time he could not have been less than half a mile high. In this position, he dangled in the air, till finally, when in the neighborhood of High Bridge, he struck an attitude, placing his head in one loop, and his feet in the other, and in this horizontal position, allowed himself to be toyed with by the winds. At this point, Lowe insisted on his returning to the car, and he did so. Those who have seen the feats of Godard, the famous French gymnast, say that Leslie's performances were more foolhardy and startling.

Conscience Makes Cowards of us All.—This has had a bit of testimony to prove its truth during the past week. The cashier of a dry goods establishment in New York is the witness. This man had been ten years in the service of the house and won the confidence and esteem of all with whom he came in contact. He has enjoyed a good salary and occupied a comfortable residence in the upper part of the city. Last Friday morning he called the manager of the firm aside and informed him that his conscience troubled him on a certain point, and he could only feel easy by making a full confession. A year ago, when petroleum was the rage he became somewhat infatuated with the oil fever. A friend offered him a splendid interest for $500, and while deliberating upon the matter an opportunity occurred for him to "borrow" from the money drawer. The temptation was too great and he yielded. The $500 was invested, and he "struck ile." The investment has returned $20,000, and many persons would consider the cashier a happy man. He replaced the borrowed money, and endeavored to enjoy the proceeds of the speculation. Conscience pursued him daily and hourly until he could no longer endure the agony. He made a full confession of the transaction and insisted upon paying the $20,000 to his employers. The proprietors, after mature deliberation, received the money, which they set aside for benevolent purposes. In consideration of the man's good character and his candor in revealing what could never have been discovered, they have concluded to retain him in his position.

"Christianity may be said to suffer between two thieves," one of which is its open enemies; the other its professional friends, who would conform it to the world.

That religion which does not govern the tongue and make men beneficent and holy, is not the religion of Christ.

AUTUMN LEAVES.

From the elm-tree in the meadow,
By the rill,
And the mighty oak and chestnut,
On the hill,
Come the fading leaves of Autumn,
Floating still
Through the wide extending forest,
When the winds no longer rave,
They are dropping, dropping, dropping,
O'er the land and o'er the wave;
From the green boughs where the summer
Tresses hung,
And the young twigs where the robin
Perch'd and sung,
Floating down into the grave.

And where o' I see them floating
Without sound,
From the low and pendent branches,
Aground,
When I see them torn and scattered
On the ground,
Bitter thoughts arise within me,
And of sad and mournful numbers,
Is the song that memory weaves,
For the heart that thrilled enraptured
To my own,
And the voice that answered sweetly
Every tone,
Now are silent as the leaves.

Pampering Children.

BY HORACE BUSHNELL, D. D.

First of all, it will not be a permitted practice to quiet the child when crying or in states of irritation, or pacify it in fits of ill-nature by dainties that please the taste. What is this but a schooling and drawing out of sensation by making it the reward of just that which is most totally opposed to the rules of self government? It must be a very dull child that will not cry and fret a good deal when it is so pleasantly rewarded. Trained in this manner to play ill-nature for sensation's sake, it will soon go on rapidly in the course of double attainment, and will be very soon perfected in the double character of an ill natured, morbid sensualist, and a feigning cheat besides. By what method, or means, can the great theme of God and religion get hold of a soul, that has learned to be governed only by rewards of sensation, paid to affectations of grief and deliberate actings of ill nature?

Simplicity also, as opposed to luxuries, condiments and confections, is a condition of all right feeding for infancy and childhood, which ought to approve itself to the [illegible] of parental discretion. Of course I do not mean to say [illegible] is never to have its holiday feast—that would be to cut him off from another kind of benefit—I only insist that he is not to have a perpetual holiday, and be stimulated by continual flavors on his organs till the beautiful simplicity of his appetite is gone, and nothing pleases longer, but that which is intense enough to be rather poison than food. Coffee, for example; what can be worse for a child's body or his future character than to be dosed every morning with his cup of coffee? No matter if he cries for it, all the worse if he does cry for it shows that he has been taught to love it, and has so far been taken away prematurely from the natural simplicity of his taste. And how is the child going to be drawn by the beauty of God, and the sacred pleasure of God's friendship, when thinking always of the dainties he has had, or is again to have, and counting it always the main blessing of existance to have his body seasoned by the flavors of sensation? Instead of praying as possibly he may be taught in words, "Feed me with food convenient for me," he prays in fact from morning to night with all diseased longings and hankerings, to be fed in the exact contrary with what will most increase his already overgrown sensuality. In prudential morality, Paley advises that all children and young people should live simply because they are now susceptible enough to relish simple things; in order that, as their tastes grow duller with advancing age, they may allow themselves a freer indulgence in the stimulation of appetite, and so maintain the feeding pleasure to the last. Counsel not to be questioned, even if these pleasures were the chief end of life itself. We are only disappointed and vexed by the lowness of it, when we recall what is the fact and true penalty of youthful indulgence, that it takes away the possible relish of truth, duty and religion, and makes the soul forever inaccessible to these noble powers of character and blessedness.

Danger of taking Wine.—A Word to Boys.

The late Professor Goodrich of Yale College says: "I had a widow's son committed to my care. He was heir to a great estate. He went through the different stages, and finally left with a good moral character and bright prospects. But during the course of his education, he had heard the sentiment advanced which I then supposed correct, that the use of wines was not only admissible, but a real auxiliary to the temperance cause.

"After he left college for a few years he continued to be respectful to me. At length he became reserved. One night he rushed unceremoniously into my room, and his appearance told the dreadful secret. He said he came to talk with me. He had been told during his senior year that it was safe to drink wine, and by that idea he had been ruined. I asked him if his mother knew of this. He said no, he had carefully concealed it from her. I asked him if he was such a slave that he could not abandon the habit. 'Talk not to me of slavery,' said he, 'I am ruined, and before I go to bed, I shall quarrel with the barkeeper of the Tontine for brandy or gin to slake my burning thirst.'

"In one month this young man was in his grave. It went to my heart. Wine is the cause of ruin to a great proportion of the young men of our country. Another consideration is, that the habit of conviviality and hospitality is now directed to the use of wine.

"'You give up your wine, and I will give up my rum,' says the dram drinker. Once I would not yield to this. Now I think I ought for the purpose of checking intemperance. I will not speak for others, but for me to do otherwise, would be a sin."

The Pacific R. R.—The New York Herald of September 25th says: "The main object of the trip of Mr Colfax and his companions was to ascertain if the resources and status of the country demanded the speedy construction of the Pacific railroad. Governor Bross, with whom our reporter conversed, is decided in the conviction that an early completion of the work is loudly demanded; and his opinion is shared by the entire party. The development of wealth to the country attending this event, it is asserted, will be of a most astonishing character. The Pacific end of the road is being pushed with marked energy and success over the east side of the Sierra Nevada. The ridge, which is 7,000 feet high, will soon be worked through. The rest of the road, it is asserted, is as easy of construction as a road on the New York Central line."

.....In regard to "poetical inspiration," Fitz Green Halleck, the poet, once told the following story: "Lady Morgan once called upon Rossini, at Paris. The servant said that no one at that hour could be permitted to enter. 'I will take the risk'—and in she went. Rossini was too busy at first to look up. He was seated at the piano with his coat off, in deep study. After a short interval he turned round and wiped the sweat from his forehead. 'Ah,' says Lady Morgan, 'I have found you in a moment of inspiration.' 'You have—but this inspiration is thundering hard work.'"

The Erie railroad company has issued $800,000 of sterling bonds, at a subscription price of 75, redeemable in ten years at par, and bearing 6 per cent. interest.

The secretary of the interior has officially notified the Pacific Railroad company of the acceptance of their proposition for the location of the new line, and also that their recommendation of the board of commissioners, fixing the maximum grade at 30 feet east, and [illegible] feet west, has been adopted.

Popularity of Railroads in Russia.—Railway construction is proceeding favorably and at a rapid pace in Russia. The landed proprietors everywhere declared their willingness to give up the land required for the railway without any compensation whatever, and their generous example has been followed by many of the towns, villages, and communes on the line.

Life of a Locomotive.—The Philadelphia correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune says the life of a locomotive in this country is but from two to five years, while on English roads they last twenty years. The American Railway Times says that "the more careful and conservative of our railway managers estimate the annual depreciation of locomotives at eight per cent, and others think that estimate is quite too large. There are locomotives, to our knowledge, that have been running on American railways since 1848, and we have no doubt that others have been in service still longer. The Pennsylvania Central is using upon its locomotive stock and the reputations of our locomotive builders with no too liberal a hand."

Petroleum as Fuel.—The New York Petroleum Light Company has completed its series of experiments, and have now obtained practical results, satisfactory to the company, that crude petroleum can with safety and economy be burnt as fuel on a large scale, under locomotive, stationary, and marine boilers, producing a heat of great intensity, free from smoke, soot, ashes, &c. After a few private exhibitions to parties interested, it is proposed by the company to make practical demonstrations, which will show the public the value of petroleum as a fuel, in every department where coal or wood is used.

If the exhibitions to the public prove as satisfactory as those recently made, are to the company, there will be a valuable addition to the wealth already developed in the petroleum interest, and steamers from New York to Shanghai will require less bulk of petroleum as fuel than has been occupied with coal for the passage to Liverpool.

Railway Post Offices.—The system of distributing letters, and making up mails on board the trains, instead of waiting the slow process to be consumed in these processes in the post office, is now adopted on our lines of railroad. Five lines running out from Chicago, have now the arrangement in use. They are the roads running to Burlington, to Quincy, to Davenport, to Cedar Rapids and to Dunleith. The Illinois Central and St. Louis roads are also preparing to extend the required facilities to the postal department, and a through line from Chicago to the East is nearly completed.

The advantages of such system are sufficiently shown in the fact that 60,012 letters recently passed through a single office in one week, in each of which a change in nearly twelve hours of time was effected. It is but simple justice to the several railroad companies above named to say that they have shown a disposition to do all in their power willing, but [illegible] residents also [illegible] road under their supervision.

The superintendent [illegible] Armstrong, Esq., who is a [illegible] tor of the plan, meets with little [illegible] most gratifying encouragement in the development of the idea.

Good Reason Expended.—Why are peas like children's toys? Because they are given to a man (amuse) and indulge in fancy (infancy).

Euphonious Titles.—Somebody has organized in Philadelphia, an "Anti-Butter-eating Union." Why don't somebody ought to let himself out to write a new award telegraph despatches.

Personal.—The telegraph says General Hooker was married to Miss Groesbeck, at Cincinnati, on Tuesday evening. First he was Hooker, then he tried to Hook her, but till she became Hooker, she now he must hook her dress. Poor Joe!

Belles of the Ton.—A beautiful friend of ours, returning [illegible] wearing "jars" at the ball [illegible] that he had not the [illegible] objection "rings on the fingers," but no [illegible] cal objection to "belles on the [illegible]

A New Coinage.—The musical critics rival the telegraph in the manufacture of words. A New York critic reports that a certain diva delivered" in the metrical [illegible] probably, as Sapho would say, [illegible] hing."

Treacherous.—Scene—A Railway Station. Railway official (very kindly.) Nice child that, Mam. What age may it be?

Delighted Mamma. Only three years and two months.

Railway official (at only) Two months over three. Then I shall require half price for it, please.

Double Rule of Three.—If four cats with sixteen legs, can catch fourteen rats with forty-two legs, while an old woman with two tongues is saying Jack Robinson, how many legs must eight rats have to get away from the same number of rats in two minutes, due allowance being made for tare and tret?

An Editor Relates his Travels.—"We returned home on Thursday," says an editor, "after a trip of six hundred miles in about three and a half days, having in that time passed over four States, nine railroads, over oxen and a barouche. Any person who has done more in that time, will please forward his address, and the emolument he owes us."

"Slightually" Sarcastical."—A big row occurred in Knoxville, Tenn., on Tuesday night in which several were killed. The Chattanooga Gazette speaks thus of the appearance of the city the following day:

"All quiet in Knoxville.—A gentleman from Knoxville, Wednesday, reported everything in stores all closed and only ten men dead."

"Six Chairs, One Desk and a Coat Pocket."—Passing one of our prominent business localities a few days since, says the New York Sunday Mercury, we were very forcibly reminded of the mutability of earthly events by the above notice on an office door, it being that of a "Constable's Sale." of the only visible effects of an Insolvent company.

Not Lucifer.—"Lucifer—the light-bearer—is a very good name, but few parents would desire to call it to a child; indeed if the attempt were made the sponsors would probably meet with the same treatment which was once offered by a lady, that I replied on a similar occasion. "Lucifer! I shall call her Jane." "No, sir," said the girl was for the rest of her life.

The Rudest Compliment.—Dr. Buzby, whose figure was beneath the common size, was one day accosted in a public conveyance by an Irish baronet of enormous stature with:

"May I ask to my seat, oh giant?"

When the doctor, politely making way, replied, "Yes, sir, oh pigmy."

"Oh sir," said the baronet, "my expression alluded to the size of your intellect."

"And my expression," said the doctor, "to the size of yours."

A Fitting Retort.—Rather keen and to the point was a repartee made the other evening by a little fellow in a Pittsfield, Mass., barber shop. A gentleman of high standing, and an owner in one of the factories, came in, and, impatient of being delayed while two boys had their hair cut, remarked "Little boys ought to have their hair cut in the daytime, and go to bed in the evening." To which he marked one of the juveniles, "but little boys must have to get up in the morning at 5 o'clock and work in the mill till 7 at night, must get their hair cut when they can."

The Humorist—is the title of a new department in The New York Citizen, which bids fair to make good the place of the departed Mr. Lyndon, "minus the cuts." We clip the following "gem" from its business notices:

"No supernaturated spider or paralytic pun will be accepted. Only young and tender wit will be received.

"Unmarried ladies contributing should be particular to see that their communications are not misdirected.

"Long jokes and [illegible] will be subjected with due scorn.

"No Table of Contents will be published as it is designed to make the publication too heavy to contain itself."

Miscellany.

From the Western Railroad Gazette.

THE FIRST KISS.

BY J. LOVER.

The peeping stars, one summer eve,
Spied some sweet arm in mine,
As out we sauntered toward her home,
A little after nine.

Within my hand, while kindling thoughts
My waking heart passed through,
Unchided her dainty hand was laid,
Half coy, half willing, too.

So round and round the squares we went,
Drawn by some mystic Fate,
Mingling our words and steps, until
We reached the garden gate.

We passed within, and there we stopped;
For lingering now, what plea?
A pause,—a thrill;—those night-blue eyes
Were looking right at me.

Now Venus, and ye muses nine!
Assist me to relate,
With warm, and true, and flowing pen,
What happened at the gate.

[illegible]
Sure, never man before was tried
As I, so keenly, then.

And yet I longed, and looked again;
Those stood we, heart near heart;
I took her fairy hands in mine—
She yields with maiden art.

A random word I spoke—then felt
The warm breath from the south;
And pictured by the heaven-light faint
I saw her dimpled mouth.

More nearly to her darling form,
Myself I boldly place;—
Her warm breath, sweeter than the breeze,
Came softly to my face.

[illegible] and could at that [illegible],
That sire, so high and pure,
Would suffer thee to press those lips,
Thy bearded kin endure?

Shame, coward heart! Does thou not know
Love must by love be sought?
That "faint heart never won fair lady fair,"
Must man thy night be taught?

As if my darling thought she guessed,
She whispers my, "Good night!"
"Good night!" I answer, yet retain
Her hands with gentle might.

We gaze in each other's eyes—
Softly I kiss my sire,
In doubt will she my boldness brook
Or start back in alarm.

Surprised, attracted, delighted I!
She stays so still, so sweet,
Around her form my arm I draw—
On lips approach—they meet—

Yet softly ere they meet, "Good night"
Comes breathing to my ear,
And even a long-drawn, tender kiss—
"O good night, good night, my dear."

The quicker than electric thrill
Each heart heart's secret guessed;
Oh a years of joy elysian seemed
To me that moment pressed.

All light, while sleep and wakefulness
Got my thoughts fast war,
I lie deliciously and dreamed
The rapture o'er and o'er.

Ten days and days I hoarded up
The memory of that bliss;
And never, to the end of life,
Will I forget that kiss.

Though song a precious pair of lips
With such have gently kissed,
Yet other touch ever struck so deep,
So wholly hear home went!

I was the tend rest, fullest joy—
A joy whole lifetime worth!
Oh my dear mother, it was
The sweetest thing on earth.

COUNTRY LIFE:

Five Acres More than Enough.

[From the New York Citizen, we copy the following, the second of a series of detitto chapters, each complete in itself, from the pen of that rare humorist, Ralph Cockagne. The present paper will be read with peculiar interest by all who have been through the vexations of house-building:]

[illegible] there is anything in which I do pride myself more than another, it is my ability [illegible] No matter how remarkable a shape the lot may be, I can always [illegible] convenient arrangement. I had been my [illegible] surprised [illegible] himself [illegible] by [illegible] fitting [illegible]

[illegible] was much more equally valuable advice, for which I was exceedingly grateful, and desire again publicly to thank my friends.

While ruminating over these statements, and my various different projects, I was struck with the appearance of a neat little house in one of the streets of the village. It was a parallelogram, which is the most practical and economical shape for a house, and had a modest little piazza in front, and a pretty French roof above. The internal arrangement with such modifications as my superior experience immediately dictated, was absolute perfection. The building was only twenty-four feet by thirty-six, yet there would be seven comfortable rooms on the first and second floors, the parlor moderately large, the dining-room long and narrow to suit a dinner table, and the bed-rooms of admirable proportion. I determined at once, with the heroism of self-control, to abandon my own fancies, and to look and think no farther; but having completed my modifications, gave them to a draughtsman to express in builder's signs, and to particularize with specifications. This event suggests the following beautiful sentiment: It often happens that while we are roaming the world to gratify our desires, the precise article for the purpose is at our very doors.

The drawings and specifications were soon made out in gorgeous style; there was a beautiful picture of what the house would look like, with an amount of moulding and finish that did the draughtsman great credit, showing the inside and outside sections, and ground plans, stairs and closets; and the specifications provided how every nail was to be driven, and were completed with a minuteness that would set imposition at defiance; [illegible] submitted to several builders. [illegible] men, although the inflation of [illegible] I its culminating point, [illegible] were at their highest. The [illegible] ing under the recollection of [illegible] contracts made on a rising market, [illegible] to my eloquent observations on the [illegible] of a rapid fall in the value of the [illegible] on the war was so manifestly drawing to a [illegible] ose. They had lost faith, not only in the [illegible] ety days theory of our leading modern [illegible] men, but that the rebellion would die [illegible] than a lingering death, and resolutely [illegible] used to be convinced. Some of them offered to oversee the work on commission, by which ingenious arrangement, the more they wasted, the more they would make. Others charged nearly double what was a fair price, insisting on making allowance for a further rise in prices. One man was so entirely overcome that after keeping the plans a month, he returned them secretly, ran away, and was never heard of afterwards.

New York being pretty nearly exhausted by this time, application was made to the carpenters at Flushing. With one exception they declined the job, as they called it, entirely, this one put in the lowest estimate that had yet been made, so that the reader will perceive that Flushing contains not only the finest building lots and the gentlest cows but the most intelligent and enterprising carpenters. There was one difficulty in closing with this proposal, and that was, as he coolly informed me, that he could not finish the house till next winter. Now I wanted a summer residence, not a winter one. The city is a sane man's home in the winter, but in the summer the green fields and fragrant pastures, limpid brooks and shady trees, tempt an equally sane man (meaning myself, of course) into the country. It is true, much time had been wasted away over specifications and estimates, especially by the man who ran away, and the spring was pretty well advanced, but the house had to be done by July. So, as it was impossible to accept the services of the intelligent Flushing mechanic or to make use of the admirably planned Flushing house, it became necessary to cast about for some other means of accomplishing the object.

Over against the eastern end of that barren and crooked point of land known as Cape Cod, which projecting into the ocean, considers the object of its being accomplished when it protects and shelters the "Hub of the Universe," lie three islands that were in early days, according to unquestionable tradition, the property of an elderly gentleman who was blessed with three daughters. On his death, the ladies are supposed to have divided the property among them. The daughters names were Anna, Martha, and Naomi, and names appertain to the islands still. One is called Martha's Vineyard, Martha had the good sense to [illegible] ous fruit, though the strict, [illegible] these times, may have [illegible] ing the juice, except, perhaps, [illegible] way—on the sly. Anna [illegible] called Nan[illegible] which from that [illegible] Nantucket, [illegible] Anna being vulgarized into the [illegible] Nan. Naomi's island has since been [illegible] into Nonansland; and we tell it [illegible] for no man would be contented with such a portion, while his brothers carried off the broad acres of the neighboring islands, and no woman either, unless she were a submissive creature, such as Naomis and Cinderellas are supposed to be.

Of the group, Nantucket was once a flourishing and populous, with a large tonnage of whalemen, and a goodly population of whaling men, where money was so plenty and morals so pure that theft was unknown, and hackmen charged fair prices. This modern Arcadia, however, was sadly affected by the diminution of whales, was injured by the invention of kerosene and ruined by the discovery of petroleum, the barbarous names of which had been until lately unknown in all that country. Whales tried for a time to compete with these innovations, but finding the attempt useless, they gave up in disgust, and retired to their northern homes, beyond the reach of man. That would have made but little difference if ships were used in obtaining petroleum; but, although enthusiasts supposed it came from the decayed bones of whales that existed when this world was young, they had been buried "deeper than ever plummet sounded" beneath the accumulations of modern dust. So the whalemen being useless, were sunk in Charleston harbor, and the whaling men sought "green fields and pastures new" in California. Nan's inheritance went to decay, and her people became our people—that is, they learned to cheat, and the hackmen imitated their fellows. Population diminished, building lots were worthless, and one half the houses were vacant. But they were a scriptural people, and remembering how the patriarchal tribes when water and grass became scarce, struck their tents and struck out for better quarters, they pulled down every man his house—and not only that, but every woman her house—and carried them over to the main land. It was at the zenith of this exodus that my troubles culminated, and hearing of a spot where the inhabitants had each a house to sell, and wanting the article myself, without more ado, I ordered one to be delivered at Flushing.

It was not necessary to see the new domicil. It was sufficient that it came from Nantucket, the home of purity and truth, and to be put up by a Nantucketan, doubtless a specimen of these qualities. He contracted to pull it down, transport it to Flushing, and erect it on the premises aforesaid, as we lawyers say, by the 7th of July then next ensuing; and if he failed, he was to forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars for each and every day's default and delay over and [illegible] such day as aforesaid; provided, however, nevertheless, that if he furnished and completed such house before the 1st day of [illegible] was to receive a further sum of [illegible] day for each day that the [illegible] so finished and completed before the last mentioned period, to wit: [illegible] July then next ensuing. His [illegible] de—not silly; as our New York [illegible] would call him if they read those [illegible] which, I think, do not disgrace [illegible]

[illegible] me a rough diagram of the house. It was not exactly according to my views; instead of being an economical parallelogram, it was made up of angles and eccentricities; the architecture was of the conglomerate style, the main building being Doric, and the extension Corinthian; the former having a peaked roof so perpendicular that it seemed as if it never would come to a point, and the latter being so flat that a ball would hardly roll off the eaves. The whole was ornamented with an unlimited amount of trimming and moulding, and there were windows of all shapes and characters. There were stained glass in the front and rear doors, plain glass in some windows and parti-colored in others; there were windows where no one would expect them, and blanks where one would naturally expect windows. It might have been called a model of surprises. To a person who prided himself on his ability to lay out a plan economically and advantageously, this was discouraging; but after all, to a philosophic mind, so long as the necessary accommodations are obtained, does the particular plan make much difference?

Flushing is a small place, and any unusual occurrence throws it into a wild state of excitement. Some one had been moving a house down its main street in the ordinary manner with rollers and a windlass, and its slow rate of progression led to much animadversion, and many of what in country villages, pass for jokes. One bystander wanted to know if it had stopped at the corner to take a drink, another desired to inquire if it was going to the city for a visit, and a third sarcastically pointed out its rate of speed as an example for the railroad company to imitate. The Flushing Gazette took the matter up, and had an editorial every week on the progress of the house. So the reader can imagine the effect when the Flushingites learned that a stranger was about bringing a house from Nantucket. The Gazette entered into the subject with spirited hilarity, hoping that it would move faster than the "pattern house," and wondering whether it would sail down, or come by land. After signing his agreement, Mr. Sille disappeared it was supposed to look up the house, and the foundation was rapidly completed; but neither he nor the house reappeared. Weeks went by; the prophecies of the incredulous were being confirmed, and it was rumored that he, house and all, had gone down in a storm on the Long Island Sound. In the midst of these dreadful rumors, a vessel appeared one morning at the dock near the premises, and landed brick, beams and timber—evidently what had been a house and what must be a house again. The whole aspect of things changed. Hilarity succeeded gloom; and the mason who was building the foundation, engaged all the carts, trucks and wagons in the village to transport what he called "the stuff," to my premises. He drove down in a great state of excitement, only to find the gate of the dock closed and locked. It turned out that an Irishman named Barney—whether it was something Barney, or Barney something, no one ever knew, as he was invariably called simply Barney—had hired the dock, and demanded his "damages" before he would allow the "stuff" to leave. Here was a predicament—my house landed, all the transportation of the village ready to remove it, and an obstinate Irishman named Barney barring the way. He was immovable, however, and insisted on "his damages," so that the carts and wagons and trucks drove away, and the Irish character came under lively discussion. The inhabitants of the Emerald Isle are certainly a magnificent race, especially when one wants to run for Alderman; and if they did not lie, steal, cheat, rob, murder, get drunk, perjure themselves, quarrel, fight and insist upon damages unreasonably, they would be almost as good as other nations. Barney was evidently a superior Irishman, and as no one had ever landed a load of house at his dock before, and probably never would again, he felt that dignity of tenants was at stake, and must be sustained.

When these facts were reported to me, I took down my law books, and prepared a rod for Mr. Barney. There was the clear right to land at a public dock; there was the clear wrong of detaining property belonging to another. Damages began to loom up before my eyes, and a very pretty case as an introduction to a lucrative legal practice in the place of my newly intended residence. Vistas of courts, and suits, and appeals, and new trials, rose in my mind in graceful array, and I thanked Barney who was reported to be not only "ugly," but responsible, with all my heart. There were two difficulties in the way of legal action; first, that until the suit terminated, the house could not be built; secondly, that Sille, who would have to be plaintiff, had disappeared from the sight of man. Now, the house might be delayed, but the damages would be thus increased; but a suit without a plaintiff was beyond ordinary legal remedies, and was not provided for even by the new Code of Procedure. So Barney, Irishman-like, in spite of sense, law, justice, or hospitality, kept my house, or rather, intended house, by "force and arms" and the cellar and foundation were completed alone. A cellar is a delightful part of a house, it is so cool in summer and warm in winter; it is such a nice place to store "things," as the housewives call them: but to have all cellar and no house, is carrying the joke too far. It is a pleasant place when surmounted by the proper amount of beams and mortar, but alone, like an alligator's countenance—altogether too open. I am not particular, and could have made out very well during the summer months, probably, if the cellar had only been upside down.

The foundation was built, the mason was out of work, and myself out of humor, when we were both again raised to the pinnacle of earthly happiness, by the arrival of another vessel, which fortunately selected another dock and landed another house. On inquiry, it appeared that this was my house. Lest the reader may suppose that Nantucket was so overflowing with houses that they floated down the sound and drifted ashore anywhere, it must be explained that the first house was but the workshop. The carts and trucks reappeared, and this time, carried away the debris or what was once the house of some bluff, seafaring man—timbers that were shivered as he had no doubt often requested that they should be, doors, windows, shingles, pieces of roof, floor-boards, posts, mouldings and a thousand other odds, ends, bits and pieces, in the most admired confusion—and deposited them upon my entire five acres, scattered hither and thither, as though they were component parts of five houses instead of one.

As Mr. Sille had not come with the house but was to arrive next day—for it appears he had been storm bound in some of the numerous "bights," as the Yankees call them, of Nantucket or Martha's Vineyard—he sent a watchman who was to sleep among the "stuff," and prevent Mr. Barney and his compatriots from converting it into firewood.

Mr. Sille was to arrive the next day. Week after week went by, but he did not appear. The house lay on the ground as though a hundred pound rebel shell had dropped into the cellar and scattered it to the four winds of heaven; the watchman waited, watched, and prayed, doubtless for relief, till his money was spent, his shoes worn out and his coat threadbare; I alternated between imbecility and fury; even Barney was worn out, and sent word, begging to have the workshop, which had been placed on top of a pile of his hay, removed, and Flushing made it a regular fashionable evening drive round my five acres to see how my house was—not getting along.

In about a month, when the mason was almost crazy, Sille reappeared from Nantucket, or other remote spot, looking like the ghost of his former self, and announced that he had been at the point of death. Not taking into consideration for a moment, my losses and sufferings, he absolutely wanted sympathy; in the first place, he must nearly drown himself, and now he must catch the erysipelas, and ask me to feel for any one but myself. I asked him sternly whether this was his habit with every house he moved, and explained that it must not happen again; that I had been sick too, very sick of the whole affair, and that the watchman had become demoralized and run away, that it was nearly midsummer and that all Flushing was laughing at us.

The watchman lived in a little place not bigger than a good sized dog-kennel that he constructed from pieces of the roof and the boys of the neighborhood considered it fine sport to pay him a visit of a dark night, and signalize their presence by a shower of stones. His food was never luxurious, being cooked by himself under many disadvantages and with few utensils. And when his money became scant, was supplied mainly through the charity of the neighbors. He had no bedding, and no change of clothes; and when a murder was committed near by, and the murderer was hunted through the place by constables, officers and half the people of the place as posse comitatus, accompanied by all the dogs in the village, and the school bells pealing, screaming and ringing, raised over the watchman's kennel at midnight, waking him out of sleep, he could stand it no longer, but incontinently fled to parts unknown. So that Sille had not arrived too soon, and found everything needing care and attention. He went to work at once, and bringing order out of chaos, began rapidly to construct the confused mass of material into the form and stature of a dwelling.

Murders are abhorrent things to me, either from some natural idiosyncrasy or from the trainings of my profession which teaches obedience to the powers that be, and prefers technicalities to violence. I have a species of horror at the thought of murdering any one or being murdered myself, especially the latter. It is so dirty and bloody, the body is so dreadful to look and so hard to dispose of, and it is so sudden and altogether unpleasant. I was anxious to know before settling in Flushing, if murder was one of the institutions, and was to be avoided like chills and fever, musketoes and other similar visitations. A day or two after the occurrence, I applied to my invaluable friend Weville for information, and inquired if murders were a common event. His manner in reply was very encouraging. He had lived in Flushing nine years, and this was the first case of the kind. It was the most peaceable place he ever knew; in fact he had hardly ever heard a loud word spoken. He pictured it as the abiding place of angels or Quakers, and I put my scruples entirely at rest. Violence or disputes even among the Flushingites, were not heard of, and murders were far rarer than deaths by lightning. The day after this conversation, there was a little friendly contest among the several fire companies of this peaceable village, to determine which engine could throw the highest stream of water; and what was my amazement on reading the accounts in the daily papers, to learn that the contest wound up with a free fight; that knives, pistols and clubs, were freely used, and that four persons were killed and forty wounded. For a family of semi-angels, this was doing well. The philosophy of average furnishes one consolation, however—Flushing had evidently concentrated into one day, its allowance of murders for the next five years.

None of Sille's men were in the fight, though at first, I anticipated finding my cellar a hospital; and he kept steadily on, adding boards and windows, and siding and beams together, till they took on the semblance of a house. To be sure it was rickety and full of holes as yet. One man fell between the timbers, another out of the window, a third from the roof, but that did not hurt the house.

Two Irishmen were at work digging a well, and I fell to moralizing at their fate; doomed to a lower existence than hewers of wood and drawers of water, not sufficiently intelligent even to cut sticks, and condemned to carry water and dig for water. Musing on their hard lot, I peered down into the deep hole they were making in the ground during the intense heats of summer, wondering how soon science would raise the lowest of men above the condition of beasts of burthen, when one of them glancing up, perceived me, and inquired: "Was I the boss?" I answered the affirmative, and he informed me that it was customary for the boss to stand something, when he first came on the ground. Moved by my sympathy, I stood a quarter apiece, explaining that it must not be wasted for liquor, to which they assented with great hilarity. Alas for sympathy, and charity, and human mildness! Those wretched men immediately clubbed their quarters together and converting them into gin, knocked off work, and proceeded to get drunk. They remained incoherent, as the term goes that is applied to their betters, all the next day. As it was essential that the well should be finished as rapidly as possible, my sympathy was ended, and I never stood anything of the kind again.

What with drunken Irishmen and injured workmen, murdered villagers and fighting firemen, the country house progressed but slowly towards completion. The walls, it is true, arose like mushrooms—those delicious vegetables—in a night; the roof climbed into place, partitions grew, and floors were laid, windows crept into their sash cases and doors and blinds were hung, but "the end was not yet." The seventh of July had come and gone, and the country house bid fair to be finished about Christmas time.

Of the cost of the progressing dwelling, it is not pleasant to speak; but as this veritable history depends greatly for its value to future generations upon its accuracy and minuteness, I will admit that the expense was not despicable. Labor was high, as the Nantucket builder explained, and timber was high, and bricks were high, and Irishmen occasionally got high, and altogether, he was compelled—much against his wishes—to charge a high price. As the building progressed—or rather failed to progress, it was suggested that he may have charged enough to cover a few days' delay at ten dollars a day. But that would hardly have accorded with the honesty of a Nantucketan.

I concluded to hire a house near by, which, though not the one I had expected to occupy, was doubtless as good, and had the advantages of a tight roof and solid walls. Here I could conveniently watch the progress of the undertaking, without being so deeply interested as if my lodging depended on it. As distance is supposed to lend enchantment to the view, the distant prospect of the completion of my houses hould have been enchanting; and as the summers invariably return every year, it would be only a question of a few months, and my summer house would be merely a next summer house.

A Great Natural Curiosity.—Several of our citizens returned last week from a visit to the Great Sunken Lake, situated in the Cascade Mountains, about seventy-five miles northeast from Jacksonville. This lake rivals the famous valley of Sinbad the Sailor. It is thought to average 2,000 feet down to the water all around. The walls are almost perpendicular, running down into the water, and leaving no beach. The depth of water is unknown, and its surface is smooth and unruffled, as it lies so far below the surface of the mountains that the air currents do not affect it. Its length is estimated at twelve miles, and its width at ten. There is an island in its centre, having trees upon it. No living man ever has, and probably ever will, be able to reach the water's edge. It lies silent, still and mysterious in the bosom of the "everlasting hills," like a huge well scooped out by the giant genii of the mountains, in the unknown ages gone by, and around it primeval forests watch and ward are keeping. The visiting party fired a rifle several times into the water, at an angle of forty-five degrees, and were able to note several seconds of time from the report of the gun until the ball struck the water. Such seems incredible, but it is vouched for by some of our most reliable citizens. The lake is certainly a most remarkable curiosity.—Jacksonville (Oregon) Sentinel, Aug. 12.

AGRICULTURAL.

There is a cheese at the State Fair that takes four horses to draw it.—Albany Journal.

A woman in Ayr, Scotland, found in the centre of a potato a gold wedding ring, which the ambitious tuber must have enclosed in the process of growth.

Wm. Stark of Manchester, N. H., recently imported from India, a white, sacred Brahmin cow, a lot of Patosh goats, some Hindoo sheep, several Ganges geese, and some East India deer. They are designed for his park in Manchester, where he has the largest private collection of rare birds and animals in the United States.

Nest Eggs.—To have a supply of these indestructible by heat or cold, just empty some eggs as you need them, through as small an aperture as possible, mix up with water to the consistence of cream some pulverized plaster and fill the shells therewith; when they have hardened, if you choose to peel them, you will find them perfect; and if you think your Brahmas will be fastidious about color, a little annetto mixed in, will render the illusion perfect.

Average Amount of Washed Wool.—Dr. Randall, in answer to a correspondent, states in the Rural New Yorker that his "impression is that a select flock of one hundred Merino breeding ewes and one ram, kept in the best manner," would annually produce of brook-washed wool, for two consecutive years from seven and a half to eight pounds per head; washed as thousands now wash their wool they would produce a pound more per head; washed like some Australian samples now lying before us, they would produce a pound less per head.

A practical farmer at Pleasant Valley, Ohio, has discovered a remedy for cracked hoofs: Take a piece of copper four inches long and two inches wide, and bore eight holes in it, four at each end, so as not to interfere with the crack; then take a hot iron with a sharp edge, and burn the crack at the edge of the hair till it goes through to the quick. After this, let the horse run on pasture, and it will begin to heal up in a few weeks. This remedy I have tried, and it did the work complete, and I worked the horse all the time. Care should be taken to close the crack tight before the plate is fastened on.

Farm Fences.—The continental system of having no fences, says an exchange, is evidently the best. Small enclosures are going out of vogue. In England, some of the best counties have uprooted many hedges and formed large fields. And here, instead of repairing so many fences, we should see what fences could be dispensed with, thus spoiling a harboring place for weeds and saving much time during the year in not having to turn about so often; also saving the expense of rails. Dispensing with fences almost entirely, is strongly advocated as a great convenience. It is believed the time will come when the absence of fences will be deemed a sign of a progressive farmer.

Farmer's Pudding.—Three cups of butter milk, half a cup of butter, a teaspoonful of soda, a little salt, and flour enough to make a stiff batter. Have ready some dried apples stewed; butter a large basin, and put a layer of batter on the bottom, then a layer of apples, then another layer of batter and so on until the dish is full. Set it into a kettle of boiling water, and steam it an hour and a half. The addition of a few raisins is a decided improvement. Serve hot with the following sauce: A cup of melted butter, stir in a large spoonful of flour, a cup of sugar, and a small nutmeg grated. Stir it over the fire till it gets hot, then stir in gradually, boiling water, till it becomes the consistency of rich cream.

Clover Hay.—Of all the hays there is nothing comparable with clover. Cut when just in bloom, when all the juices are perfection, and the stalk is tender and cured—only cured—not dried which destroys it, and makes it worthless. Such hay is the feed for a single feed. Horses will thrive upon it, without grain, if not worked too hard; sheep will be in clover with it—no grain needed; and cows—this is the main, the important thing—the dairy is most benefited of all. We happen to know this by personal observation on our own premises. Nothing gives more and better milk (in winter) not even the grains. This we have repeatedly demonstrated, and seen demonstrated by the dairymen in the best dairy districts.

But the clover must be taken care of. It is tender, the most delicate thing to handle. Cut when it is quite green, when the heads are just opening to blossom, before any, or very few of them are turned and when many of them are not yet colored, then cut. Cut when the dew is off; stir, if thick, for a few hours in the sun, or half a day (which is better) in clouded but warm weather. Then put up in small cocks; put up as solid as possible. Keep there three or four days—with caps if rainy, without, if not. Then draw in where the roof is not leaky and ventilate well.

In winter feed. It will still be heavy, with all the juices matured, sweet and savory, the honey candied, and the aroma perfected, fresh as a new rose, and much more grateful. This makes summer feed for your stock in winter—all of it—even the pigs, but particularly the cows, and milch cows at that. It will be eaten most greedily, like grass in summer and will have much the same effect. The bowels will be less free than in summer; the skin will be mobile and glossy; and there will be an eye and a breath that remind you of the pasture. Give warm quarters with plenty of hay and fresh water, and you have done your duty.

Signs of a Prosperous Farmer.—We clip from an exchange, the following appropriate observations on the signs of a successful farmer, and we earnestly commend them to the consideration of every thoughtful reader:

When lights are seen burning in his house before the break of day, in winter especially, it shows that the day will never break on the breaking in of adversity.

When you see his barn larger than his house, it shows that he will have large profits and small afflictions.

When you see him drive his work instead of letting his work drive him, it shows that he will never be driven from good resolutions and that he will certainly work his way to prosperity.

When you see in his house more lamps for burning lard or grease, instead of candle sticks for more expensive uses, it shows that economy is lengthening his way to happiness and plenty with that light which should enlighten every farmer the world.

When he has a house separate from the main building, expressly for ashes, and an iron or tin vessel to transport them in, it shows that he never built his house for a funeral pile for his family, and perhaps for himself.

When his hog pen is boarded outside and in, it shows that he is going "the whole hog or none," in keeping plenty inside his door and poverty out.

When his sled is safely housed in summer and his farming implements covered both winter and summer, it shows that he will have a good house over his head in the summer of early life, and in the winter of old age.

When his cattle are properly shielded and fed in winter, it evinces that he is acting according to the scripture, which says that "a merciful man is merciful to his beast!"

When he is seen subscribing for a newspaper and paying for it in advance, it shows that he is speaking like a book respecting the late movements in agriculture, and that he will never get his walking papers to the land of poverty.

—The whole amount of National Bank currency in circulation is $191,411,480.

Riding on the Rail.

The following is one of the very few really good satires upon railway mismanagement, or rather upon the popular idea of the dangers of traveling which the late "tidal wave" of accidents has brought out. B. Dadd is a clever writer, bedad:

Dear Citizen: Unless a person is endowed with as many lives as is supposed to pertain to an animal of the feline species, he must be a brave man to venture on a journey by railroad, now-a-days.

It is becoming unhealthy to travel by railroad.

It is said King Cholera is traveling westward, and will soon pay us a friendly visit.

Should King C. travel westward via H. R. R., or L. I. R. R., or some other R. R's I wot of, your readers need entertain no fears of a visit from the old fellow.

Before reaching New York, he would be "accidentally killed." Perhaps this suggestion worth considering by your Board of Health. Could they induce King Cholera to journey by rail on his western raid, his fate is inevitably sealed.

I traveled by railroad recently, and I still live.

I must admit that congealed chills glided up and down my back, when I cogitated upon the uncertainty of life on the rail. The milk-and-aqueous poets inform us, in dulcet numbers, of a better world than this. You will generally find said poets weary of this world. They are ever longing to shed this mortal coil and soar to their oft-described sphere.

And the only preparation they make to get there, is writing bad verses.

Now I am much more easily satisfied than these fellows. This world is quite good enough for me. I am in no haste to migrate to another. The man that is not satisfied with this sphere, will be apt to be disappointed when he reaches the next.

Two to one he will complain of the never-ending "heated-term." Therefore no ticket-of-leave for me, Mr. Death. Not at present.

Of late the railroad has become a bourne whence a great many never return.

Before I took the cars, my friends gathered around and bid me a lasting adieu. They said they never expected to see me again. Not till the puffing Juggernaut neared the depot did I fully comprehend the nature of their fears. I noticed that old Peggs was more affected by my departure than all the others.

I owed old Peggs fourteen dollars for a pair of boots. No doubt this was the cause of his anxiety on my behalf.

Although my life is insured, the thought was not pleasant that I might be converted into a mass of mince-meat before I could say Jack Robinsonsyzzyxwvutsrqpnmlkjihgfedcbaspanish.

Just then there was a terrible crash, and the next thing I knew I was piled up about fifteen yards from the track, along with some other old lumber. It was nothing but a railroad accident—"only this, and nothing more."

One train endeavored to run one way on the same track that another train tried to run the other way, which last was not in the same direction as the first—rather otherwise. They did not succeed, however.

Says engineer No. 1: "Why'n thunder didn't you stop your engine? Blowed of I was gein' to stop mine!"

Engineer No. 2 retorts: "You go to the devil! Why didn't you stop your engine? Darn of I was goin' to run mine back!"

There were twenty-one passengers killed and thirteen wounded. Nobody to blame!

B. Dadd.

A Brace of Stammerers.

Stephen C—— was a jovial soul, and hesitated not to play a trick on any one. Among his acquaintances was a young lady and a young man, both of whom stammered very badly. They were not acquainted with each other.

Bob F——, the young man alluded to, was quite sensitive; and to think that any one was making fun of his defect made him frequently fly into a passion. It was Stephen's fortune to meet both of them at a party, and he soon determined on a joke.

"Miss Sue," said he, approaching his lady friend, "may I have the pleasure of introducing you to one of my acquaintances, a worthy young gentleman?"

"Cer-cer-certainly, sir."

Away he went for Bob F——.

"Bob, old fellow, here is a nice girl I want to introduce you to. Come on."

"Does she taw-taw-talk?"

"Yes, like blazes."

So on they started, and soon approached the seat of the lady. Stephen introduced them, and immediately withdrew to one side that he might see how they would manage each other, when his ears were greeted with the following conversation:

"How are you enjoy-joy-joying yourself th-th-this evening, marm?"

"Th-th-thank you, pleasantly; but it is ra-ra-rather warm?"

Bob's brow contracted, but he restrained his feelings and continued:

"I pr-pr-presume you are acquainted with most of those pr-pr-present?"

"Ye-ye-ye-ye-e-s, s-i-r, with all, I be-be-believe," said she, smiling.

But that smile ruined her forever in Bob's estimation; for hastily rising, he exclaimed sharply:

"By th-th-thunder! madam, if that's the way you make f-f-fun of a f-fellow's infirmities, you may go to gr-gr-grass."

Stephen laughed immoderately all the time, and was subsequently called to account for the trick; but his good nature drove away all bad feelings.

Courting Two Hundred Years Ago.—Among the amusing reminiscences of those days is the famous courtship of the Rev'd Stephen Mix, of Wethersfield. He made a journey to Northampton in 1696, in search of a wife. He arrived at the Rev. Solomon Stoddard's, informed him of the object of his visit, and that the pressure of home duties required the utmost dispatch. Mr. Stoddard took him in the room where his daughters were, and introduced him to Mary, Esther, Christiana, Sarah, Rebekah, and Hannah, and then retired. Mr. Mix, addressing Mary, the eldest daughter, said he had long been settled at Wethersfield, and was desirous of obtaining a wife, and concluded by offering his heart and hand. She blushingly replied that so important a proposition required time for consideration. He replied that he was pleased that she asked for suitable time for reflection, and, in order to afford her the needed opportunity to think of his proposal, he would step into the next room and smoke a pipe with her father, and she could report to him. Having smoked his pipe and sent a message to Miss Mary that he was ready for her answer, she came in and asked for further time for consideration. He replied that she could reflect still longer on the subject, and send her answer by letter to Wethersfield. In a few weeks he received her reply, which is probably the most laconic epistle ever penned. Here is the model letter, which was soon followed by a wedding:

Northampton, 1696.

Rev. Stephen Mix: Yes.

Mary Stoddard.

The matrimonial mixture took place on the 1st of December, 1696, and proved to be compounded of the most congenial elements. Mix was pastor of that paradise of onions for forty-four years.

A Word to the Boys.—Boys, when night comes on, go home. There is nothing more detrimental to your morals than to be running around the street under cover of darkness, for then you can acquire little else than an education in rowdyism, and before you know it, you will become reckless and vicious. If you want to be a good man, see to it that nightfall finds you at home.

Hun-ki-do-ri.

A. M. Griswold, Esq., the spicy and humorous lecturer, is out with a racy and novel circular for his entertainments, in which he thus discourses relative to the Noble Red Man and American Antiquities:

The Noble Red Man is the theme of my lecture, to which the attention of all "well read men" is invited.

His courage and fierceness in making war—

And his singular ingenuity in making baskets.

His successful manner in treating baldness by removing the scalp.

The healthful and invigorating pastime of running the gauntlet—

And the facetious recreation called "hunting at the stake"—

Otherwise known as "Injun on Toast."

No Injun meal is complete without it.

(The lecturer prefers to have his "stake" done as rare as possible.)

Some ingenious wit has shown how the time when the red man wore the white man's scalp at his belt and the present period when the white man "belts" him over the scalp.

Affecting extract from the speech of the celebrated Indian Chief, "Hun-ki-do-ri"—"Hun-ki-do-ri is in despair. He is like the blasted oak—and he has not got a blasted cent!"

The imagination of the listener is permitted to roam among the Indian Mounds and American Antiquities generally, without extra charge. One ticket admits to the lecture and to the mounds. For sale at the bookstores and at the door.

Oil in Harrisburg—A Rich Sell.—The Patriot and Union says that last week two very ingenious Yankees visited that city with a newly-invented pump which could be driven into the ground a depth of fifty feet or more, and bring water to the surface without the necessity of digging a well. One of these they erected at the foot of State street, and admirably did it work. The wily old joker, John Hausse, thought the opportunity a good one for a huge "sell," and as the pump was placed in a rugged sort of an unfenced lot, he poured a gallon or so of coal oil down the pump and then called his neighbors to witness the "show of oil." In less than half an hour the excitement became intense. Speculations were on foot without number. Hausse would pump and up would come the oil. Several vials of it were distributed, and one fellow, in his excited eagerness for gain, proposed a stock company at once. A bottle containing a sample of the oil was taken to a leading druggist on Market street, who became very much excited, and in his hot haste he offered to buy the land for ten times its value. The news spread, and a large crowd was soon upon the ground. Hausse pumped every few moments, and up came real petroleum, which was examined with much curiosity by the bystanders. When the excitement was at its highest pitch, Hausse cruelly informed the lookers on of the joke, and with fallen countenances they left the ground, all acknowledging that they were badly "sold," none, however, uttering one word against Hausse, who so craftily deceived them.

Mr. Hudson Gurney's Dog.—One morning, says a correspondent of the Norwich Argus, sitting with the deceased gentleman on business, I heard a pattering of feet behind, and the door silently opened. I turned to see who was listening to us, and the Newfoundland dog quietly entered the room, and standing in the centre, looked coldly on me, and on his master kindly.

"This," said Mr. Gurney, "is one of my most faithful friends; he has come to pay me his usual morning visit." Turning to the dog, he continued: "I am a little better to-day, but not much; one morning you will miss me; I shall be dead."

The dog, as though endowed with human instinct, gave a low moan, and advancing to his master, placed his huge paw, with a gentleness that would hardly have crushed a fly, on Mr. Gurney's knee; that done, he raised himself on his hind legs, and placing the other on Mr. Gurney's shoulder, and licking his face, seemed to pat him on his back with an expression of countenance which almost said—

"Come, come, don't be down-hearted; you are very bad, but you'll get better by-and-by."

Mr. Gurney perfectly understood him, since he replied—

"It's no use; I tell you I shall die."

The dog moaned again.

"And now," continued the owner of Keswick, "you must go, for I am busy with this gentleman."

The dog looked at his master, then at me, and silently quitted the room. A month or so after, Mr. Gurney was a corpse.

Sharp Retort.—Two lawyers in a country court—one of whom had gray hair, and the other, although just as old a man as his learned friend, had hair which looked suspiciously blacked—had some altercation about a question of practice when the gentleman with dark hair remarked to his opponent:

"A person at your time of life, sir," looking at the barrister's gray head, "ought to have long enough experience to know what is customary in such cases."

"Yes sir," was the reply; "you may stare at my gray hair if you like. My hair will be gray as long as I live, and yours will black as long as you dye."

Stately Conundrums.

Why are the young ladies of Missouri sweet? Because they are Mo. lasses.

Why are the young ladies of Louisiana like printed slips? Because they are La. belles.

Why are the men of Georgia the greatest humbugs? Because they are all Ga men.

Why are the inhabitants of Illinois the sickliest? Because they are all Ill. people.

In a game of cards, a good deal depends on good playing, and good playing depends on a good deal.

If you were obliged to swallow a man, whom would you prefer to swallow?

A little London porter.

Why is a baby when cutting its ivories like a breakfast cup? Because it's a teething (tea thing.)

New Advertisements.

T. F. HARDENBERGH,

WHOLESALE

DEALER IN

WATCHES!

AND

JEWELRY,

No. 104 Randolph Street,

UP STAIRS,

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

WAR CLAIM AGENCY

FOR THE NORTHWESTERN STATES.

Pensions, Back Pay and Bounty, including State, County, City and Town Bounty; Prize Money, Claims, for lost Horses, Unsettled Accounts, and all other Just Claims Collected by us. Approved Vouchers Collected and Cashed. ISAAC R. HITT & CO., 65 CLARK ST., Chicago.

One of the La gest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern m'chigan.

One of the best fitted Establishments!

Most Varied Stock of Furniture

Vantine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St., Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various Styles and Prices

[redacted] OF SOFAS.

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notice by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pic. ures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

A. JAMES.

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - MICH.

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash, I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

a766 A. JAMES.

Now is an excellent time for a opportunity for subscribing for the HERALD.

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deuel & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything
that anybody or his
brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL.

As all our neighbors know

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just received from New York and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c a list of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hood's, north side of Chicago street

---

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass, Window Sashes.

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE.

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country. Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grist for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour suit,

Old Customers

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd best Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse.
Fine Middlings, Bran, Flour,
Ship Stuffs, Bran, Bean,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE.

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Salt

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL

Corn In the Ear and Shelled

A general assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

at Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage, Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm HAYDEN

WARD & STRICKLAND,

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (or Double) SPRING SKIRT.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together side by side, making the lightest, most flexible, elastic, and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single Springs and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever claims can be made. The wonderful flexibility and real comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Opera, Churches, Railroad cars, Church pews, visiting carriages, promenade and loaded pews, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress.

Lady readers enjoy the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never after wards will they observe with their own eyes for children Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 2 ply twist and threads and will wear twice as long as the Single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts. The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Duplex Steel, and twice as double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c. &c., which they are constantly subject to when in use.

Braids made of the new and elegant corded tape and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible and are unquestionably the lightest most desirable comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

Weast Bradley & Carey, Proprietors of the Invention, and Sole Manufacturers, 97 Chambers and 79 & Reade Streets New York.

For Sale in all first class Stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada Havanna Cuba Mexico, South America and the West Indies.

Inquire for the Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

Gand young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Clearses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,

SOLE PROPRIETORS,

NEW YORK.

D. NOTEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases will visit Tecumseh the 1st & 21 of Every Month, for Consultation with patients. Cancer and Scrofula Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Incipient Consumption cured in three to six months. Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and Constipation cure in 2 to 4 months. Piles, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs yield readily to his treatment. Prolapsus Uteri he is master of. Charges reasonable according to ability to pay, the really poor will be treated gratis. He will be at Comstock & Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence on Railroad Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars see Circulars.

DENTISTRY

HAUSER & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices.

F. R. Stebbins.

Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. a742tf

Advantages of this Plow.

It will last from three to six times longer than any other plow made, as we can prove by thousands of farmers in the west, who have used them for years, and many of them have purchased from three to five more since they have been introduced among them.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other plows have failed. It is certain of scouring in any soil anywhere in which it has not scoured within a few days.

It draws lighter than any other plow, in proportion to the work it does.

The Share can be sharpened, one half as fast as any other share, and any blacksmith who understands his trade, can do it.

ANY BOGGY LAND, however difficult to be kept of any kind of a share, Landside and Moldboard can be used in muddy

It is well stocked with New England steel, of a quality and temper which is standard throughout the world, and is warranted to scour when "stale" in the open field, before or after the land is plowed.

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, which can be kept by the use of the adjustable Clevis, which is very simple and easily adjusted.

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in use, as it costs only one half as much as other plows, and lasts three times as long, and does as much work, with less power, as any other plow, and the quality of work it will do in any soil is unsurpassed by any other plow.

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is a very superior plow, and is warranted to give satisfaction in every respect, and we have testimonials from many of our best farmers, stating the good results they have had with it.

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is adapted for both, in Land and Stubble.

☞ Our patterns together with moldboards, are so arranged that all the parts are interchangeable, and we can furnish all at a reasonable cost, and give time to our customers.

☞ We have also a good assortment of "Clean" plows as they prefer.

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Slocum, Tecumseh

These Bitters are prepared in pure unadulterated Whiskey from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given to the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained a great popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from the effects of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable.

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OR—

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only to be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our signature on each bottle, and per initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pfeter & Co.,

Sole Proprietors, Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the Brick Shop on Railroad Street,

Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby carriage to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young america. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at every small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days. I

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6 50.

Beaver cloth and cassimere coats very cheap, Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool, cotton and Straw

HATS AND CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

All is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, been a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American. For all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those winning garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN W. HART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE,

of the LATEST and BEST English Brands. Also a splendid assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions.

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Wednesday, the 30th day of August in the year one thousand eight hundred and five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of John Culbertson deceased. On reading and filing the petition of Sarah E. Culbertson praying that the instrument now on file in this Court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be proved and allowed, and that she may be appointed executrix thereof.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 16th day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.

(A True Copy.) a759

Probate Order.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 29th day of September in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Caroline V. Steele, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Elizabeth Quackenbush sister of said deceased, praying that the last will and testament of said deceased may be admitted to probate, and that Richard C. Moore might be appointed executor thereof.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 23d day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER,
Judge of Probate.

(A True Copy.) 778-w5.

Corporation Notice.

The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Mondays of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

CO-PARTNERSHIP!

The undersigned having formed a Copartnership under the name of

A. Hood & Co.

Are now receiving at the Old Stand of A. Hood, Anderson's Block,

A LARGE STOCK

—OF—

NEW GOODS

Direct from New York consisting of

Ready Made Clothing!

A splended assortment of THE LATEST STYLES of cloths that could be found in the Eastern markets, Consisting of

BROAD CLOTHS, DOESKINS, FREFCH, SCOTCH and ENGLISH CASSIMERES, COATINGS, VESTINGS, OVER COATINGS, &c. Also a heavy

STOCK OF WOOLEN SHIRTS

Of all styles, UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, SUSPENDERS, GLOVES, HOSIERY.

A nice assortment of

HATS & CAPS!

vanishing Goods!

Of all kinds for mens wear. We mean to keep on hand as good a selection of goods in our line as can be found in any one establishment in the County and for CASH we will sell them as low, or a little lower than any other establishment in the County.

Our Tailoring Department is in full blast. We are prepared to get up Suits on SHORT NOTICE in as GOOD STYLE and at as low figures as any other establishment.

CUTTING DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

H. M. GRAY. A. HOOD.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS,

is the place to pay particular attention of business.

CUSTOM

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price

In Greenbacks

For good White and Amber Wheat, Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

For Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs, Good hard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c

I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Counterfeiter Arrested!!!

RICHMOND NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress to the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand

Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 50 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 22. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 19 1865. WHOLE NO. 776

1865. FALL TRADE. 1865.

NEW FIRM,

Tribou & Bidwell Brothers,

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods,

Corner Chicago and Rail Road Streets,

Tecumseh, Michigan,

The Largest Stock.

The Best Assortment,

And the Lowest Prices.

Call and examine our Goods, and we will prove to you the truth of our assertion.

Terms Cash.

E. A. TRIBOU.
L. C. BIDWELL.
L. I. BIDWELL.

NEW FIRM,

NEW GOODS AND

NEW ARRANGEMENTS.

The subscribers have formed a copartnership in the Dry Goods Trade, and offer at the old stand of C. Lawrence, next to the Post Office, an entire new stock

PEOPLE'S FANCY GOODS

Consisting of Dress Goods, Yankee Notions

Brown and Bleached Muslins, Clothes Pins

&c. Also a large and well selected

Crockery and Glass Ware.

The above goods were bought for cash and will be sold as low as can be bought in Western Michigan. Give us a call

ANDERSON & LARNED.

JUST ARRIVED!

And yet to come

000 CASES!

MENS, BOYS and YOUTHS BOOTS, and LADIES, MISSES, and CHILDREN SHOES.

These goods were all bought before the present 'Panic for High Prices' and will be

SOLD LOWER

Than the same goods can be bought to-day. N. B. Persons in search of 'Shoddy' are respectfully informed that I keep only the very best goods and

WARRANT ALL GOODS,

As represented.
Particular attention is called to my Stock of HAND MADE,

BOYS BOOTS

Brought direct from the manufacturer, and warranted.

MENS, LADIES, MISSES and CHILDRENS RUBBERS In great abundence.

My shop in charge of an experienced foreman is turning out piles of work, and every person that leaves a measure gets

PARTICULAR FITS.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine.

Shoe Pacs,

A new water-proof Boot for Farmers, Lumbermen and Hunters. Laces and Tassels in a variety of colors.

E. H. HOAG.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to HOBBINS & BRIGGS)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

than any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended

CASH FOR RAGS!

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass Copper, or anything a Farmer can to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,
JUVENILES,
Bibles and Testaments,
Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Music,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

NEW MILLINERY AND Fancy Goods Store.

Mrs L. WILBUR, would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that she has just purchased the largest and best assortment of Millinery Goods ever brought to this place. She intends to keep a large stock of

BONNETS, RIBBONS, FLOWERS, LACES, HATS, HEAD DRESES, PLUMES FEATHERS, and

in fact everything to be found in the Millinery line constantly on hand. Particular attention paid to Bleaching and Repairing straws. Be sure to call. Shop in rooms formerly occupied by Mrs O. McCoy.

I also have a large assortment of Fancy Goods consisting of Hoops, Traveling baskets Merino vests and drawers, Hosiery Gloves, Dress Trimming &c to which I would call the attention of the ladies. I am offering my stock at low prices and would respectfully solicit a share of your patronage

Mrs. L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh Sept 14th, 1865.

A mini trator' Sale.

Estate of Joseph Grandy deceased: Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County Michigan made in said estate on the 18th day of September 1865, empowering and licensing me thereto I shall on the 4th day of November 1865 at the premises hereinafter described in the village of Tecumseh in said county at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day sell at public vendue the interest said deceased died seized in and to the undivided one-third of all that certain tract or parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh Michigan known & understand described as follows viz: Commencing at a point in the north side of Chicago street in said village forty-one and one half feet east of the east line of Evans Street measuring from intersection thereof by said north line of Chicago street running thence east on said north line of Chicago street fourteen feet thence north at right angles with Chicago street eighty-nine feet, thence west parallel with Chicago street fourteen feet, and thence south at right angles with Chicago Street eighty-nine feet to the place of beginning with the privilege of an alley ten feet wide adjoining the north end of the above described land subject to its share of the incumbrance of fifteen hundred dollars in mortgage upon the undivided premises made by Wooster Taylor, Oliver B Taylor and said deceased to John S. Strong bearing date on or about March 23d 1864 with interest from said date. Terms published on day of sale.

Tecumseh, Mich, Sept. 19th 1865.

OLIVER B. TAYLOR,
Administrator of said estate

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c. at

A. JAMES

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight	7.00 A. M.
Mail	1.00 P. M.

GOING NORTH.

Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD,
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich

DUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY CONKLING
Dealer in Groceries, Provisions, & &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MORES & WIGHT
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Perfumery and Toilet, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

F. N. CURTIS
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

A. STACY.
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

BILLS & BAXTER.
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER.
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Implements, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX. HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

SINDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. G. ADAMS.
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

I. C. SATTERTHWAITE.
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan

H. B. MATHIAS
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh Mich.

L. GROG
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St Tecumseh Mich

MRS. C. GRISWOLD
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's Tecumseh Mich.

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

HAUSE & PELHAM.
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich

JOHN WISHART.
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

MANSION HOUSE.
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewashing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. R. PALMER, Attorney at Law, and Notary Public, Lake Ridge, M
Particular attention paid to collections in any part of Michigan. Is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	2 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 80	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	3.00	8.00	12.00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10.00	14.00
1 Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	18.00
1 Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	50.00

No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted at $5.00 per year.

Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

To Our Friends

You will confer a favor on us by soliciting the Judge of Probate to publish Probate Notices in the HERALD, and you will also find it convenience to your selves to have the advertisements in the paper you receive.

STRAYED.—From the subscriber, Oct. 1st, Five Spring Lambs. A liberal reward is offered for their return to my residence, 3 miles west of Tecumseh. JESSE STRETCH.

Constitution Bitters, which took the First Premium at the State Fair, also Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters and Roback's Bitters, all for sale at the Drug Store of Dr. F. N. Curtis.

The receipts for tickets at the County fair were $1 011,21. Ground rents, etc., probably $200, a falling off of some $600 from last year.

The total number of prisoners confined in the county jail since January last, is 115. Expenses for boarding and jail fees $1,612,57.

Mrs. A. L. Daskam would respectfully announce to the ladies of Tecumseh that she has opened a Dress Making Establishment over Mrs. Wilber's Millinery Rooms, where she will be happy to see all who may favor her with a call. She is prepared to do machine stiching and embrodiery, cutting patterns, &c, in the latest styles.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Having sold my stock of goods to Messrs. Tribou & Bidwell Bro's. all persons indebted to me are earnestly requested to call and settle their accounts with Mr. E. A. Tribou. Shall deal in Leather and Findings as heretofore.

B. J. BIDWELL.

CONCERT.—Prof. Leland will give one of his unrivaled concerts in Bidwell's Hall, on Monday evening next, and all lovers of good singing will be well paid by attending. The Programme is full of rich things, both sentimental and comical, and we have no hesitency in saying that the tableau "Washington's Dream of Liberty" will be worth the price of admission. Give him a full house. Tickets 25 Cents.

They do say that Charlie Adam has got the finest selected stock of Dry Goods in Tecumseh, for style, variety and Quality he can't be beat. Only think, best Delaines at 37 1-2 cts; best all wool Delaines at 70 cts; best Balmorals at $4. Don't fail to call and examine Charlie's stock before purchasing elsewhere, as he bought cheap for cash and is selling the same.

We are under obligations to Mrs. J. S. Horton, township of Whitewater, Grand Traverse County, for a specimen of Peaches, raised by McKenzie Merril, Grand Traverse County is new but it can't be beat raising peaches. Over 1000 bushels of this delicious fruit was gathered in the County this season.

Remember the Musical Festival at Bidwell's Hall, Oct. 25th and 26th, when we hope to accomodate all who have written they will be in attenance. The Proprietor of the Tecumseh Exchange will make preparations to entertain all who wish with him to remain during the Festival. It is desirous that the citizens likewise do, that they may entertain visitors too, "and all be gay and happy."

On Saturday a man named Warner, formerly residing in the town of Macon, but lately in Quincy, Branch County was arrested and lodged in jail. He first attempted to pass a $50 at Auchanpaugh Brothers store, where he had purchased $3 worth of goods, but on its being condemned, refused to take them, saying that he had but $2 besides the $50 note. He then went to the store of J. J. Newell and purchased a watch for $25, receiving $25 in change. The character of the bill was soon discovered, officers put on his track, who captured him making his way out of a wood pile near the depot.

We were presented by Alfred James a few days since with a sack of Family Flower, which our 'better half' pronounces to be of a superior quality. We have heard of flour that would rise itself but never saw any before. Alf proposes to keep the same quality constantly on hand and will sell it at the cheapest rates to his numerous customers. Of course we were anxious to know where he procured such a splendid article, and upon inquiry, ascertained that it came from Comfort's mill. The mystery was then solved at once. Mr. Comfort has recently repaired his mill throughout, so that it can't be beat. In fact, the farmers say that they can get a grist ground there a little better than at any other mill in Lenawee County. With "Wool's" to do the grinding and Alf the selling at mill prices, our mechanics and laborers may always be sure of having the best of flour at the lowest rates, their wives will scold a the less and their bread, pies and cookies will be a great deal better.

"The Falling of the Year."

In the falling of the year,

As I strayed, my steps were led,
To the chambers of the dead.
Rested I upon the mound
Of a little sleepless sound,
While the Autumn winds did sigh
"All on earth must fade and die."

Lovingly, the willows hung
O'er the graves of old, and young,
Shielding them with tender care,
From the chilling autumn air.
Drooped their tresses, changed with grief,
As a golden tinted leaf
Floated gently to the ground,
Resting on the little mound.

As I gazed upon the leaf
Lying there as if in grief,
Smitten by chill autumn breath,
Yet still "beautiful in death"
Pondered I, this scene upon,
So we're dropping one by one.
And the winds still chanted clear,
A requiem to the "falling year."

Lingering still and yet I pondered,
As the many graves I numbered,
Sounds of wailing and despair
Floated on the evening air
Passed me by a mournful throng,
Singing still the sad song,
Follows they the "sable bier"
Of the fading, "falling year."

As a tear I brushed away,
And beheld the closing day,
Turned I back, my steps to trace,
From this lonely resting place,
Sure, thought I, this scene portrays,
The passing of Mans few, short days,
And warns us too, that one short year
May find us lying on our bier.

New Stock of plain and fancy Stationery just received at Ketham's, including French Note paper, new and beautiful styles of Envelops, Gilt enameled and fancy papers and ornaments,

The funeral obseques of Robert Willson (late of Clinton) were conducted at Ridgeway on the 9th inst by Rev. S. E. Wishard, assisted by Rev's Peter Sharp and Wm. Donnelly.

Mr. Willson was one of the first settlers of Ridgeway township. He had done his full share to subdue the wilderness. His ample and highly improved homestead, (now occupied by his only child William R. Willson) is a monument of his industry, and thrift.

A deep and regretful emotion pervaded the large audience, while many a gushing fountain overflowed with tears.

On the 10th inst. John V. Hoagland of Macon, while on his way home, near J. E. Swick's was thrown from his wagon, one of his ribs broken, and otherwise seriously injured. The accident was caused by breaking the neck yoke, causing the wagon tongue to fall, and enter the ground.

The only genuine Swiss Bell Ringers now in the United States, the Peak Family, will give one of their Musical Entertainments at Bidwell's Hall, Oct 24th. This troupe played at Bidwell's Hall about two years since and will be welcomed on Tuesday Evening next. Tickets 50 cts; children 25 cts. If you enjoy sweet music don't fail to be there at 7 o'clock.

A county Convention is to be held Nov 4th, to organize an association for the erection of a County Soldiers' Monument at Adrian.

Old Insurance men acknowledge the fact that the Phoenix of hartford, can't be beat. By comparing the assets of the four principal companies, as reported in July last, with their assets in January, we gather the following facts. During the six months from January to July

The Phoenix exhibits a gain of 2 1-4 pr ct.
Hartford " 1 3-4 "
Aetna " 1 "
Home " a loss of 2 1-2 "

These figures speak for themselves. The Phoenix does fire business exclusively and is one of the safest companies in the country. S. C. Stacy is resident agent for Tecumseh. See advertisement in another column.

A new lot of Wall Paper and Window Shades just received at J. D. Robbins. Now is the time to buy as there will be an advance soon.

If you want a traveling basket, cheaper than it is to be had at Detroit, Adrian or Toledo, you will find it at C. H. Adam & Co's—a few left, and more coming. If you want one of the new style of Elliptico, Spiral, Unjointed, Continuous, single-spring Hoop-Skirts, C. H. Adam & Co. can furnish you. If you want a dress of that handsome Scotch Plad, direct from Glasgow, through their correspondent there, C. H. Adam & Co's be happy to supply you. Call and examine their splendid stock of goods, bought at the very lowest rates during the late decline in goods, and satisfy yourselves that they are determined not to be undersold.

N. B.—Anticipating the wants of the trade for next season, C. H. Adam & Co. are about ordering by the Russian Telegraph line, when built, direct from China, via San Francisco, thence by the overland Mail Route or Pacific Railroad, a lot of those celebrated folding paper fans, from which those acquainted with the Chinese alphabet, (if they have any,) can derive so much information and amusement. While cooling one's self from the fervid heats of summer with one of them, we can say with the infantile prodigy,—O, Fan! thou teach-est like a tea-chest!

Married.

In Tecumseh, at the residence of the bride, on the 15th inst, GEORGE HENRY BRYAN, to Miss MATILDA HANEY, both of Tecumseh.

Gents Paper Cuffs at Ketcham's.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 18, 1865.

Allen W H	Burley A
Bliss Chandler	Card Miss Martha
Chamberlain A	Doland John
Deming J W	Geth W
Haight Ella	James N
King Wm,	Lossing Thomas
Osburn Betsy	Osborne J S
Picket Miss F	Palmer Fenly
Russ Kate	Rumbeer H
Ramsey Miss A	Reed Miss
Smith Alvin	Turner Manley
Waring Gilbert

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

C. H. ADAM & Co.,

DEALERS IN

DRY GOODS,

Yankee Notions, &c.,

No. 2 Mechanics' Block,

oct 21f TECUMSEH, MICH.

Get the Genuine Article!

PHŒNIX INSURANCE COMPANY. HARTFORD CONN.

STRAIGHTFORWARD dealings in every department of its extended business from the receipt of a premium to the payment of a loss, has rendered the name of

PHŒNIX

OF HARTFORD,

As familiar as any household word, and from far East sunrise to the golden shores of the Pacific, its eminent usefulness as an Insurance Corporation has been thoroughly tried and satisfactorily tested. It is now better than ever prepared for service and duty in the line of its profession, with increased facilities for the transaction of business.

WESTERN BRANCH,

No 24 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

H. M. MAGILL, General Agent.

Policies issued promptly by

S. C. STACY, Resident Agent.

The Science of Health!

Every Man his own Physician.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS,

AND

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

Disorders of the Stomach, Liver & Bowels.

The Stomach is the great centre which influences the health or the disease of the system. Disorganized by excess, indigestion, or nervous irritation and physical prostration are the natural consequences. Allied to the brain it is the source of headaches, mental depression, nervous complaints and unrefreshing sleep. The liver becomes affected and generates bilious disorders, pains in the side, &c. The Bowels sympathize by Costiveness, Diarrhoea and Dysentry. The principal action of these Pills is on the stomach, and the liver, lungs, bowels and kidneys participate in their recuperative and regenerative operation.

Erysipelas and Salt Rheum.

Are two of the most common and virulent disorders prevalent on this continent, to these the Ointment is especially antagonistic (its modus operandi) is first to eradicate the venom and then complete the cure.

Bad Legs, Old Sores, and Ulcers.

Cases of many years' standing, that have persistently refused to yield to any other remedy or treatment, have invariably succumbed to a few applications of this powerful unguent.

Eruptions on the Skin

Arising from a bad state of the blood or chronic diseases, are eradicated and a clear and transparent surface regained by the restorative action of the Ointment. It surpasses many of the cosmetics and other toilet appliances in its power to dispel pimples and other disfigurements of the face.

Female Complaints.

Whether in the young or old, married or single, at the dawn of Womanhood, or the turn of life, these tonic medicines display a decided and indeed that a marked improvement is seen prospective in the health of the patient. Being purely vegetable preparations they are safe and reliable remedies for all classes of females in every condition of Life and station of life.

Piles and Fistula

Every form and feature of these previously dreaded stubborn disorders is eradicated locally and thoroughly by the use of this emollient; warm fomentations should precede the application. Its healing qualities will be found to be thorough and invariable.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bunions,	Mercurial Eruptions,	Swelling of the Joints
Sprains,	Burns,	Piles
Sore Legs,	Stiff Joints,	Chapped Hands
Tetter,	Rheumatism,	Sore Breasts
Chilblains,	Ringworm,	Sore Heads,
Ulcers,	Fistula,	Sore Throats,
Gout,	Salt Rheum,	Scalds,
Lumbago,	Sores of all kinds,	Skin Diseases,
Wounds of all kinds,

CAUTION.—None are genuine unless the words "HOLLOWAY, New York and London," are discernable as a Water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box. The same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any parties counterfeiting the medicines, or selling the same, knowing them to be spurious.

Sold at the manufactory of Professor Holloway, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and by all respectable Druggist and Dealers in Medicine, throughout the civilized world.

There is considerable saving by taking larger sizes.

DISSOLUTION.

The co-partnership heretofore existing between G. W. Ketcham and H. C. Conkling is this day dissolved by mutual consent, G. W. Ketcham retiring from the business. All persons having unsettled accounts with the late firm, will please call immediately upon G. W. Ketcham who has the settlement of outstanding matters.

G. W. KETCHAM
H. C. CONKLING

Dated Tecumseh, March 9th, 1865.

The business will be continued by the subscriber at the

OLD STAND,

where a full stock of

Groceries and Provisions

will at all times be found, at LOW PRICES. Particular attention paid to FURNISHING Cash paid at all times for Butter, Eggs, Oats, Potatoes, and Rags. Tecumseh, April 6th, 1865

NEWS SUMMARY.

A Washington special to a New York Sunday's paper says: "An extraordinary rumor prevails to-night that Jeff. Davis has escaped from his place of confinement and is now afloat on the ocean, bound probably for Nassau. The story was that, on Friday noon, Davis got out of the Fortress in the disguise of a negro stevedore, and got on board of an English steamer, which was waiting in Hampton Roads."

The oldest newspaper in America is the New Hampshire Gazette, and Weekly Chronicle which was just completed its one hundred and ninth year, with every promise of continuing in health for a long time yet.

Four of the railroad companies in Minnesota are contracting for 500 laborers each, at $1 per day.

An enterprising Yankee has already hired land in Paris, near where the great exhibition of 1867 is to be held, for the purpose of establishing a restaurant for the sale of American food and drinks.

The postoffice department was self-sustaining during the rebellion, but it is estimated that when mail service in the Southern states shall be completely resumed, there will be a deficit for the year of $8,000,000.

The testimony in the Wirz case closed last Saturday, and the arguments were to be presented on Wednesday on both sides—Col. Chipman for the Government and Mr. Baker for the defense.

Wells, of Louisiana, has accepted the Democratic nomination for Governor of that State.

The small pox is raging with great violence both among the whites and blacks in Arkansas.

General Carl Schurz has returned to Washington from his mission in the South.

The steamer Huntress was sunk in the Ohio river, just above Cairo, on Sunday. She had a valuable cargo, which will probably prove a total loss.

The heavy holders of whisky in Ohio, who have been attempting to defraud the Government out of revenue, are being rigidly brought to an account, and very severely mulcted.

The celebrated New York beef speculator, one who has been in the habit of buying from seven to eight hundred head per week, is announced. His liabilities are put at $100,000.

It is understood that Stephens, Reagan, Campbell, Trenholm and Clark [illegible] with the understanding that they will return to their several States, there to labor faithfully for the restoration of the Union, on a basis which will allow the admission of Southern members to seats in Congress, including the eradication of slavery and the code thereon. They are not pardoned, but let out on work.

The Louisville papers complain of the frequency of the most daring highway robberies in the vicinity of that city.

Memphis must be a good place for lawyers. There are over 1,500 cases on the criminal docket and 1,194 cases on the common law and chancery docket. To attend to this nice little pile of business there are 400 disciples of Blackstone in the city, and only one judge for each court. The docket will scarcely be cleared during the life of the present generation, unless the number of administrators of the law is greatly increased.

The switchman, by whose carelessness the late fatal accident occurred at Stratford, Ca., on the Grand Trunk Railway, has been indicted for manslaughter, and sent to jail to await trial. The officers of the road were also censured by the coroner's jury. We don't do things in that way in the United States.

A New York Company has bought the Wisconsin Railroad, running from Bayfield to Hudson, for $175,000.

Gen. Conner has surprised the Indians under Medicine Man, on the Tongue river, killing fifty and capturing five. Col. Cole's command had also met the Sioux, Arapahoes and Cheyennes, and after three day's continuous fighting, had killed and wounded two hundred Indians and scattered them beyond recovery.

By the explosion of the boiler of the steamer Lo Senite, at San Francisco a few days ago, fifty-four persons were killed, twenty two white and thirty two Chinamen, with [illegible] thirty-two whites wounded.

An American Freedmen's Aid Commission was organized, or, rather, made a national association, at Philadelphia, on the 11th inst. Three thousand persons were present, and speeches were made by Bishops McIlvain and Simpson, Beecher, Garrison, and Dr. Bellows.

The "Union" ticket is carried in Ohio, electing Gen. Cox by about 28,000; in Iowa, electing Gov. Stone by about 15,000 majority; and in Pennsylvania, Gen. Hartranft is chosen Canal Commissioner by about 23,000. New Jersey has gone Democratic on the local elections, but the "Union" party claims great gains.

Mount Hood, Oregon, has been in a state of eruption since Sept. 23d. This fact is supposed to have some connection with the recent earthquake in California.

The Mexican Legation at Washington has received the important intelligence that Gen. Diaz, the ablest of the Liberal officers, captured at Oaxaca by the French, has escaped, and is again at the head of a rapidly-increasing army. Great alarm thereat exists in the Imperial court.

The larger part of the business portion of Belfast, Me., was destroyed by fire on the 13th. Loss $300,000. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

A writer who has great confidence in the ultimate success of the Fenian movement, advances the theory that two thirds of the British army is composed of Irishmen, who, when commanded to fire upon their countrymen, will either fire blank cartridges or else turn their weapons against their own officers.

An association was formed in Washington to present a series of winter lectures from Wendell Phillips, H. W. Beecher, Dr. Chapin and men of positive opinions on questions of negro suffrage and other kindred topics.

In two weeks' time, the Des Moines Valley Rail Road will be running to Monroe, twenty-[illegible] miles west of Newton, Jasper county, Iowa.

The President at his interview with the South Carolina delegation on Friday, intimated that Jeff. Davis should be tried for treason.

A Chinese cashier of a Chinese bank in San Francisco lately absconded with $4,000. That is as near as a Chinaman can come to imitating Ketchum and Jenkins.

A new cattle paper is talked of in New York. A railroad capitalist, it is said, will furnish the funds. Mr. Crane of the Tribune is to conduct it, and its name will be the Ajax.

Twenty one ocean steamers cleared from New York last Saturday.

A number of detectives from London arrived in New York by the last steamer, for the purpose of watching the Fenians and reporting their movements to the British government.

[illegible] was managed to be in Chicago.

There is quite a petroleum excitement at Bothwell, Canada, seventy miles east of Detroit, on the line of the Great Western Railway. Several wells are running from fifty to one hundred barrels a day, and other wells are being sunk.

Champ Ferguson, the noted guerrilla, has been sentenced to be hung on the 20th of the present month. He received the announcement of his death with unconcern.

Advice from the West Indies state that a severe shock of an earthquake had been felt, and that the coast had been visited by a terrific hurricane, doing great damage.

Thursday, the 30th day of November, has been appointed as Thanksgiving Day in Massachusetts.

It is reported that General Grant's [illegible] the discharge of at least one hundred [illegible] generals, with their staffs; also, the [illegible] ing out of nearly all the colored troops.

It is expected that the last contraband in North Carolina in aid of the rebellion will be entirely relinquished to the State Convention now in session.

The trial of Captain Wirz was resumed last Thursday, and further testimony was given for the defense, several of the witnesses being medical men. Letters were read from the prisoner to the rebel authorities suggesting certain ameliorations in the condition of the prisoners.

It is said that all the writing paper made in the United States is manufactured within twenty-five miles of Springfield, Mass.

An attempt, fortunately unsuccessful, was made to burn the Spiritual Hotel, Lock [illegible] on the 6th inst.

The President has granted [illegible] in the case of Little Six and Medicine Bottle, the Indian chiefs who were to have been executed at Fort Snelling on the 6th.

There has been a heavy snow storm on the plains extending from Salt Lake City to Laramie. Snow fell to the depth of from six inches to a foot.

A fire has been prevailing in the Dismal Swamp, which swept over thousands of acres.

An earthquake shock occurred in California on Sunday, the 8th inst., the severest experienced in that country, within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. There was great alarm in the San Francisco churches, and, in one instance, several persons were injured in the rush to the street. A telegram from San Francisco, the 9th, says: The damage by the earthquake yesterday amounts to considerable in the aggregate; many houses needing patches or new plastering, and broken windows repaired. The City Hall is damaged to such an extent that a portion must be rebuilt at the cost of several thousand dollars. The Old Merchants Exchange building, opposite the Custom House, will probably require rebuilding. No really substantial, well-constructed building was seriously damaged. Santa Cruz felt the shock more severely than any other town of the State. Several brick houses were so badly damaged that partial reconstruction is necessary. A despatch from there says there was a general tumble down of chimneys. Those left standing were turned partially around by the motion, apparently from east to west. The ground along the river opened in fissures and spouted water like geysers. People are unable to use some of the wells, which are either dry or filled with sand. The chimney at the powder mill was thrown down, and other injury was done to the works. A portion of the wall of the new hotel was thrown down, but the foundation is all right. The smash in the drug stores was great, and also in other stores. Some very narrow escapes from falling chimneys are mentioned. The tide rose very high at the time of the shock, and fell very low immediately afterward. There have been eleven distinct shocks felt since the first shock up to five o'clock this morning—also, a number of smaller visitations. The losses are estimated at about ten thousand dollars, but will probably exceed that amount.

An accident occurred on the Pennsylvania Central railroad near Lancaster last Saturday afternoon, resulting in the killing of nine persons, and the injury of several others. Among the killed is the wife of Mr. Barr, surveyor general of Pennsylvania. The accident was caused by the breaking of an axle of a car.

Mrs. Ann Lozier, who suffered the loss of a leg by reason of injuries received through the carelessness of a driver while getting on one of the Knickerbocker stages on Broadway, New York, got a verdict of $4,000 against the company last week in the Supreme court.

There was a collision of freight trains on the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne Railroad, near Massillon, Ohio last Saturday, by which the conductor and fireman were severely injured.

—In the town of Hopkinton, Mass., a hermit by the name of Seth Baily, is living in a hut, a short distance from the road built of boards and stones, and banked with earth and turf to the eaves. He 78 years of age, was born in Natick and for nearly half a century has lived in the hut alone. A gentleman, who recently made a visit to him, states that the hut contains a pallet, covered with rags, a cooking stove, and two or three griddles. He lives in seclusion, and is not very fond of visitors. The first and only vote Mr. Baily ever cast was for Abraham Lincoln, at the last Presidential election, and he regards that as a great event in his life. The hermit has worn the same pair of pants for twenty years. He stated to his visitor that he had never been married, and conversed quite intelligently.

GLEANINGS.

—Two physicians in the town of Shiloh, Randolph county, Ill., purchased a quantity of calomel from a druggist in Chester, last week, and administered it to some forty of their patients. It subsequently appeared that corrosive sublimate was mixed with the calomel. At last accounts several persons had died from the effects of the poison, and several others are not expected to live.

—A New Bedford lady, who was in Boston recently, astonished a female pick-pocket who in a crowd had thrust her hand into the lady's pocket, by informing and coolly inquiring, "Why do you put your hand in my pocket, when I have my purse here in my hand?"

—The wife of one of McClellan's army, at present residing in Raleigh, North Carolina, visited her husband on the Peninsula in 1862. While at camp a party of Confederate raiders called upon her commanded by her husband, and during the melee an infant was there born and killed in her arms [illegible] scornfully, plunged into the thickest of the fray, and with her own hands despatched seven of the assailants. For this feat Government conferred on her the rank and emoluments of major of infantry. So says the Raleigh Progress.

—The tailors in Aberdeen, England, have commenced an agitation for the adoption of the "ten hours movement" in their trade.

—The recent census in Minnesota shows a population of about 260,000, an increase of 50,000 in five years.

—A Tyrolese sharpshooter has been condemned to eight months' imprisonment for having turned a crucifix into a target.

—The Boston Post tells a story of a marriage that took place in one of the city churches last week. The ceremony was to begin at eight in the evening, but the minister having neglected to notify the sexton, the couple and their friends were kept waiting on the sidewalk until the outside door could be opened, and it was then necessary to force open the barrier, the inside doors.

—In July last, paper [illegible] in Cincinnati at [illegible] per ton, and very little to be had at that. At the same time the price in New York was [illegible], and yesterday the article was sold in Boston. Paper is as high now in this market as it was a year ago, when gold was $40. If publishers, therefore, had, when paper was down, advanced the price of subscription, they would now be compelled to advance, in order to keep their papers without profit, as was the case during a great portion of last year.

—A destructive fire occurred at Pithole recently, by which the tanks of the Grant well, containing four thousand barrels of oil, and thirteen engines and derricks were consumed. The loss is about $150,000.

—The French army numbers over 400,000 men, part of whom are in Mexico, some in Rome, some in Algeria, and the balance in France.

—Almost every country paper has one or more notices of a second growth of flowers or fruit on the same plant this season. These instances are most frequent on apple trees and rose bushes, though second crops of strawberries are not uncommon.

—The new Union Depot now being built at Chicago will, when finished, the largest in the United States, being three feet longer than the Central Depot in Chicago.

—On the 10th of September a huge fire was kindled on the Schnee Koppe, the highest of the giant mountains in Lower Silesia, to celebrate the birth of a child in a hut on the top of the mountain. The Prussian wags say this is the "highest-born" child in the Prussian dominions."

—A Texas letter-writer says: "Any man can get a good, healthy, able-bodied negro woman, one hundred head of cattle and seventy or a hundred horses and mules, is worse than worthless. Beef sells here for five cents per pound, horses and mules from fifteen to thirty dollars for round lots, and are within two hundred and fifty miles of a good market. As far as the eye can reach in every direction, and as far as you may go, the country is alive with stock."

—An agonizing story is told of a vain New York young lady, who, dissatisfied with her good but irregular teeth, had fifteen of them pulled out to make room for a new and false set. In vain her dentist wished to spare her the teeth. She would have them out. Nervous prostration followed the operation, and she died a victim to her pride, leaving the set of false teeth she had ordered unfitted for.

—The Southern papers that come our office, says the Louisville Journal, seem to be in the enjoyment of unexampled prosperity. Many of them are printed on the best paper, with new types.

—The effort for city consolidation at Pittsburgh, is taking on both form and strength, and will be pressed in the next Legislature of Pennsylvania. Within a radius of four miles from the centre of Pittsburgh are 150,000 inhabitants, in thirteen distinct political communities.

—"A traveler" wishes us to explain what sense there is, just now, in the term "railroad securities," seeing that there is no security on, any of the railroads. We can't do it.

—Mr. J. C. Watson, of Ann Arbor, Mich., telegraphs to the associated press that he has just discovered a new planet.

—Maximilian's Imperial decree nominally abolishing slavery in Mexico, but establishing a system of peonage in the Empire but little less obnoxious, elicits considerable animadversion there. It is too transparent a bid for rebel emigration and support to find favor at present.

—One of the boilers of Pratt & Co.'s rolling mills, near Buffalo, exploded recently, instantly killing three men, and seriously wounding twenty others, some of whom have since died. A portion of the boiler, ten feet long, was carried three hundred feet by the force of the explosion. The accident is supposed to have been caused by letting in cold water when the boiler was very low.

—The artesian well, at the western limits of Chicago, is one of the great curiosities of our country. It is bored to the depth of 711 feet, and is flowing at the rate of 600,000 gallons of pure water daily, which is forced to the height of twenty-five feet above the ground level. Two other wells are being sunk near by: one for oil, and the other for water. The latter has been drilled to the depth of 660 feet, and about ten feet are added to it each day.

—Bennett G. Burley, the Lake Erie pirate, whose escape from jail at Port Clinton, O., has been announced, has passed through Toronto en route to his native Scotland. He came around to Canada via Detroit, dressed as a common laborer; and seems to have taken his escape quite as leisurely as it has been regarded by officers of our Government. Inasmuch as he could not be convicted, and could not furnish bail, we are probably well rid of him.

—A tract of land of thirty thousand acres, situated near the town of Palestine, in the upper valley of the Trinity, and represented to be admirably adapted for the culture of cotton and cereals, is reported to have been purchased for the establishment of a Polish settlement in Texas.

—No other total eclipse of the sun, after this one, will be visible in the United States until August, 1869. In 1875 there will be another, and in the 1900 regenerated Virginia will be left in total darkness for the limited period of two hours and thirty-seven minutes.

—They make flour out of codfish in Norway. It is said to be very nutritious, and peculiarly adapted for long sea voyages.

—A serious accident occurred recently in the town of Westport, Dane county, Wis., caused by the heating of the journal of a separator during the process of threshing. A young man named Nitch, whose duty it was to oil the journal, opened the box and poured in some kerosene oil, which no sooner struck the heated iron than it ignited, or rather exploded, throwing Nitch back upon the tumbling rod, and whirling him about in such a manner that he was stripped and nearly killed. At the same time the flames of the burning oil communicated with the straw heap, and five stacks of oats, twenty tons of hay, the separator and wheat, reaper and other property were destroyed.

—Sir Morton Peto spoke the highest praise of American institutions in his brief address at Cleveland. "In our journeyings through the East and West," he said, "we have not seen a single man asking alms." This he regarded as extraordinary. He knew of no other country in which this noticeable exemption from beggars might be witnessed. In other countries, "no matter where," he said, "we could not have traveled a day [illegible] beggars; not a port that we could enter without being met at the landing with appeals for alms."

—A photographer of Cleveland, Ohio, is about to explore the Mammoth Cave, in Kentucky, for the purpose of taking views of its interior, by the aid of Bengal Chemical lights.

—The building of the Blackfriars bridge across the Thames occasions the reproduction of the fact about the construction of Westminster bridge, where an unexpected difficulty arose in the use of diving bells. The men, comfortably out of sight of their employers, occupied their time in reading newspapers, playing cards, and drinking beer, only making signs to those above now and then, to give the impression they were working. These sub-aqueous debauches were carried on by sunlight, because it is as night a few feet below the surface of this dirty river. After they were found out, diving dresses an helmets were substituted for the bells.

—There is much enquiry now as to the origin and pronunciation of the word Fenian. One suggests that it be pronounced Fennian (long and short), supposing the name to be derived from Fenn—the marshes or bog in which the insurgents, he supposes, will fight. Another suggests that it is derived from a Fenian, to typify the purposes of the society to cause Ireland to rise like the phenix from her ashes; but in that case the word might be [illegible] Phenian. This is probably incorrect. An English journal writes of the name [illegible] of the Celtic race to [illegible] Finn, who [illegible] one from "Finnians" vice [illegible] the [illegible] easy and natural, into "Fenians."

—The engineer of the Canandaigua and New York Central Branch of the [illegible] little pilot Railroad noticed for some [illegible] a certain of sand placed on the rails [illegible] a curve. These sand heaps offered [illegible] obstruction to the train, and no attention was paid to them. One day last week a pile of sand was found to have sharp stones under it—there was nearly an accident in consequence. It is supposed to have been the work of children.

—About the 20th ultimo, Mr. Roman, of El Paso, New Mexico, stopping at the Lindell Hotel, St. Louis, had occasion to go to the water-closet late at night, and while there took off a belt, which he wore around his waist, containing $10,600, which he forgot on going to his room. Early the next morning the employes found the belt, but its contents had been abstracted, and no clue was discovered to the guilty party until a few days since, when a bell boy was found to be spending more money than he earned, and was arrested. One thousand dollars have been recovered, and that is probably all that Mr. Roman will get back.

—A new toy has been lately invented in Paris which bids fair to supplant the roseate balloons so eagerly acquired by the children of the rising generation. It consists of a serpent composed of quicksilver, sulphur, etc., which, lighted by means of a common lucifer match, and projected into the air, performs a series of marvelous evolutions. But against the glittering fascinations of this tempting toy, the children of France are warned by an article in the Courrier de la Moselle, in which they are informed that while this flaming serpent whirls and meanders in the air it emits mercurial vapor of the most pernicious nature.

—A gentleman of considerable wealth, including a large amount of house property, at Stratford, England, where he resided, has recently died. During his long residence there, he had acquired considerable notoriety from his peculiar notions as regards letting his houses, every applicant having to agree to the following conditions before entering upon the tenancy: 1st, "There must be no children;" 2d, "The tenant must not smoke;" 3d, "Nor keep birds; 4th, "Nor exhibit flowers in pots or otherwise in any or either of the windows of the house; 5th, "If a bachelor, or widow, or spinster, he or she must not enter into matrimony during his or her tenancy."

—Barnum's last venture was the purchase of a dwarf elephant not much larger than a Newfoundland dog. The animal is on his way to New York from London.

—Alderman Phillips, of the Hebrew faith, has been elected lord mayor of London.

—It is believed that a political catastrophe is impending in the Danubian principalities, and a Turkish corps of 15,000 men is ordered to be ready to move across the Danube at twenty four hour's notice.

—A singular railway accident took place recently near Fermo, in Southern Italy. While the train was crossing the bridge over the little river Marano, a violent tornado broke out, filling the air with clouds of dust and hurling the cars into the river. Owing to the strong current, one of them was driven to the Adriatic, a number of passengers being drowned.

—A Philadelphia butter-dealer disgusted the good people of that city by asking a dollar a pound for butter. One lady offered ninety cents, which he refused; and just at that time an inspector's clerk came along, weighed his lumps, and found every one under weight, and confiscated his entire stock, to the great delight of the lookers on.

—With regard to the recent excitement in the New York stock market, the Herald of the 6th inst. says: "There is a notable accession of outside speculators and orders from the country. It is generally the case that when prices are nearing their zenith upon an excited market the public kindly step in and buy the stocks which the brokers and professional operators are glad to be relieved of."

—The official name of Rev. Dr. E. H. Chapin's new church in New York is to be "The Church of the Divine Paternity." The corner-stone, on Fifth Avenue, will be laid next week.

—One hundred and eighty houses in Paris are engaged in the manufacture of piano fortes. They employ over 2,300 workmen in their manufacture.

—An old man named Martin, from Dundee Scotland, lately met his death in rather a singular manner. He had gone up into a garret in his house for some purpose, and while coming down a trap ladder his foot slipped, and he fell. His neck-tie caught on some spike or projectile about the ladder, and before he was discovered life was extinct.

—A man complained of his pillow at a hotel in the oil regions. "Those pillows are made of cork, as an experiment," blandly responded the landlord, "and I am sorry to say they are a failure."

—It seems, after all, that the result of the North Carolina elections is an overwhelming Union triumph. In many localities the partisans of Davis and Vance were elected over Union candidates.

—The Geauga county, Ohio, cheese manufactures are just now turning out cheeses that are decidedly unique. They are but six inches in diameter and eight inches thick. Each cheese weighs ten pounds. They are said to go off like hot cakes at two dollars each.

—All Indianapolis is shaking with the ague.

—The city of Galena, Illinois, has a population of 7,146.

—Hiram Cranston, of the New York Hotel, is about to build a $1,000,000 hotel in Central Park.

—Young Ketchum has agreed to plead guilty to the charges of forgery. Jenkins case is set for [illegible]

—A young lady in Richmond was lately robbed of all her wedding outfit the very day before that appointed for the marriage. The [illegible]

—Commissioner Bells, on his tour to the Indian Council at Fort Smith, met the chiefs and head men of the Osage Nation at Canville Trading Post, on the 29th ult., and concluded a treaty by which the Indians are relinquished 3,284,000 acres of land, being a surplus not necessary for their occupation. The Government buys 960,000 acres outright for $800,000, and takes the balance in trust for private sale. These lands are all within the State of Kansas, and are among the most valuable for cultivation and settlement. The right of actual settlers already on these lands are fully protected.

—Our oldest people, says the Toledo Record, who have carefully noted the "signs of the times," say that we will have an unusual amount of snow this winter. They say that much rain during the summer is always followed by heavy falls of snow in winter, and claim that the character of the summer is always a sure index to the character of the winter in this respect. Our last summer was the wettest in years ago, and it will be recollected that the winter of 1855 and '56 afforded more fine sleighing than any winter since. We give this account as current news, but don't believe the conclusion arrived at. As only about a certain amount of rain, in any form, falls in a twelve-month, the chances are for but little snow this winter.

—Petroleum wells have been discovered in Sweden, and wealthy companies organized to work them.

—Geo. W. Pace, of Marion county, Ill., raises fine corn. 100 ears weighed 120 lbs. There is corn in Egypt this year.

—The Temple of Juno, recently discovered at Pompeii, with upward of 300 skeletons of women and children, is supposed to have been destroyed by the lava of Vesuvius while the people were assembled in worship. One of the skeletons is supposed, from its ornaments, to be that of a priestess. As soon as the skeletons were touched, they crumbled into dust. The ceiling of the chamber of the priestess, which is covered with semicircles, are covered with beautiful ornaments. The walls are covered enamel, and the arms and neck encircled by [illegible] made almost entirely of precious stones. Other valuable gems were found upon a broken table. Still more remarkable discoveries are looked for at Herculaneum. A royal decree has recently ordered the appropriation of the soil upon which that ancient Greek colony once stood. The Italian Government "stands" the expense of these exhumations.

—Winona, Minn., which is becoming one of the most important commercial points on the upper Mississippi, is to have a Board of Trade.

—A writer in the London Times reports that the gold fields of Nova Scotia, if properly worked, would equal those of Australia.

—It is stated as a remarkable fact that electricity travels so fast that it may be sent through gunpowder without igniting it; and it is only when the current is retarded that an explosion takes place.

—The Louisville papers complain of the frequency of the most daring highway robberies in the vicinity of that city.

—Memphis must be a good place for lawyers. There are over 1,500 cases on the criminal docket, and 1,194 cases on the common law and chancery docket. To attend to this nice little pile of business, there are 400 disciples of Blackstone in the city, and only one judge for each court. The docket will scarcely be cleared during the life of the present generation, unless the number of administrators of the law is greatly increased.

—The switchman by whose carelessness the late fatal accident occurred at Stratford, Canada, on the Grand Trunk Railway, has been indicted for manslaughter, and sent to jail to await trial. The officers of the road were also censured by the coroner's jury. We don't do things that way in the United States.

The post office department was self-sustaining during the rebellion, but it is estimated that when mail service in the southern states shall be completely resumed, there will be a deficit of $8,000,000.

—A New York company has bought the Wisconsin Railroad running from Hudson to Bayfield, for $175,000.

—The papers are circulating a proposed amendment to the constitution, which contemplates a constant succession of the vice president to the presidency. A president and vice president are elected. At the end of four years the former retires and the latter takes his place. Of course at each subsequent election, only a vice president is chosen. In this way the one-term rule is adopted. The vice president is elected with special reference to his fitness for the first position, and for four years, he is being educated for the vast responsibilities he is to assume.

"OWED TO AUTUMN."

BY GEORGE COOPER.

Round us Autumn winds are sighing
Like a mateless maid;
Happy birds are scattered flying,
All their notes are paid.

Trees are waxing very dry for
Now they stand in gold,
Wearily they pine and sigh for
Summer's "flowing bole."

Sounding thro' the hazy woodlands,
Fall the nuts about:
Nature, from her fair and good hands,
Now is shelling out.

Bees have ceased their drowsy humming:
Blows the fitful gust,
Breezes down the roads are coming
Down with their dust.

Lawns are rich in gaudy raiment,
Hills in purple plumes;
Once again his specie payment
Banker Year resumes.

Nothing opulent the scene lacks,
Leaves, around us rolled,
Are the season's lavish greenbacks
Changed now into golds.

—Saturday Press

SHEEP DOGS CRAZY.—A gentleman who came down on the Hempfield train yesterday informs us that two miles this side of Claysville there was a flock of sheep inclosed in a pasture field. On Wednesday a stampede occurred among the flock, when the frightened or crazy sheep commenced jumping the fence at the point indicated, going over the precipice at the same time. Two hundred and eighty of the animals were killed.—Wheeling Intelligencer.

SPANGLER, the conspirator, has written a letter from the Dry Tortugas protesting his innocence.

PERSONAL.

THE defalcation of Isaac C. Fowler, late merly Postmaster of New York, has [illegible] passed to the [illegible] of [illegible] debts. amount is about $[illegible]000.

THE remarkable poem, "Cleopatra," published in the August number of Blackwood's Magazine, is attributed to Mr. William W. Story, the American sculptor, who has recently returned to Rome after a visit to this country.

LOUIS NAPOLEON'S official penny evening paper, Le Petit Moniteur, has [illegible] by the imperial censor to be silent in regard to the death of General Lamoricière, lest the mention of that heroic warrior's name should remind the people of his life long opposition to imperial rule.

JEFF. THOMPSON tells the editor of the Louisville Journal that the only persons in the South who wish to do any more fighting are those who didn't do any while they had a chance.

NO ONE would imagine, says a fellow passenger of Mme. Dahorest, the Queen of her style or dress, that she had ever indulged in a fashion book. I was curious to talk with her, and I did so. She gave me the whole history of her own dress in New York. She had sold out to a lady who takes her name, and Mme. D. was returning to England, her native land, to start a hotel.

IT is reported that Ralph Waldo Emerson lost his entire property by the Concord Bank robbery, except his homestead.

It is said that Edwin Booth is to be married to Miss Hermione Hauel, a daughter of the well-known perfumer, Jules Hanel, of Philadelphia.

HORACE GREELEY, while on his late Western tour, expressed the opinion that no tract of land of equal size, on any continent, exceeded in fertility the Rock river valley.

ALFRED HAYLOR, doing one of his hazardous trapeze performances at Buffalo, fell to the stage, severely injuring himself, but fortunately breaking no bones.

MARTIN FARQUHAR TUPPER has become a playwright, and a new five-act historical drama from his pen is soon to be produced at the Haymarket Theatre, London.

DURING her late visit to Germany, Queen Victoria made a nice little bargain. Her second son, Prince Alfred, has been proclaimed heir and successor to the present Duke of Saxe-Coburg.

THE Emperor recently present a life-size statue of the great Napoleon, in silver, to the museum of sovereigns, at the Louvre. It is in the costume of a pupil at Brienne.

COMMODORE VANDERBILT is said to be the best euchre player in New York. He certainly handles his cards well, financially.

GEN. DIX can be mayor of New York, if he will take the nomination. If not, Gen. Sickles will take a prominent position as a candidate.

A NASHVILLE paper says that Wm. L. Yancey came to his death by violence, dying from injuries received in a scuffle in the rebel Congress at Richmond, with Mr. Ben. Hill of Georgia. The lie was given by Mr. Hill, Mr. Yancey struck the first blow, and was hurled back against a desk, injuring his spine in such a manner that he never recovered. A vote of secrecy was passed the rebel Congress, and the incident is given for the first time, told in print now.

JOHN [illegible] died recently at the age of eighty-[illegible] an American [illegible] of 72. He was the son of [illegible] When a boy established in trade in London aged of eighteen, he went to Doncaster in the employment of the St. Leger family. At eight of the St. Leger family led him to make his first attempt at painting horses, and although for some time he was obliged to earn his living as a coachman, he eventually established for himself a reputation as one of the best painters of horses in England.

SOME ten years ago there came an old, one-armed, sickly-looking man to the city of Montgomery, Ala., who followed the avocation of peddling knives and scissors through the city. It is said that he offered to sell a knife to the Hon. Wm. L. Yancey, once upon a time, and the Hon. Wm. L. struck him in the face for having the presumption to speak to him. To day this man, Wreford by name, has the largest dry goods and fancy store in Montgomery, and the eldest son of the Hon. Wm. L. Yancey is behind his counter dealing out tape and change.

THE French Emperor has lately been ruminating at Biarritz. He rises early, reads the letters and dispatches that come during the night, and gives instructions to his private secretary, breakfasts on a cup of chocolate, and takes a stroll in the grounds. He is very fond of cold meats, and devours more of the delicate morsels than his uncle the first Napoleon, and beat the most gormandizing American in the rapidity of his eating.

A COMMITTEE has been appointed by the public school teachers of Baltimore to provide for the erection of a monument to Edgar A. Poe, "this brilliant but unequal genius died sixteen years ago, and was buried in a private graveyard attached to the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Baltimore. Due [illegible]

BIERSTADT'S "Rocky Mountains" has been sold for $25,000, and Huntington's "Republican Court" has been purchased by A. T. Stewart for $20,000.

MR. JAMES O. DIX, of the Boston Journal, died the other day of consumption. The Lord knows there is no more consuming employment than that of an editor.

WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT is the oldest editor in this country, and writes better poetry than any of the rest of us.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT is the wealthiest and most unscrupulous member of the editorial fraternity.

MERLE D'AUBIGNE, author of the History of the Reformation, delivered the annual address this year before the Evangelica Society of Geneva. He is now 71 years of age.

AVERY SMITH, the great circus proprietor, has purchased Dr. Chapin's Church on Broadway, New York, for $110,000, and will erect on the site an extensive equestrian theatre on the plan of Astley's in London.

THE Hon. John P. Hale, our new minister to Madrid, was, in the middle of last month, still cholera-bound at Paris, waiting for the disappearance of the epidemic from Spain before he ventures to proceed on his journey.

THE Wirz trial will cost the Government a million dollars.

THE two candidates for State Treasurer of Wisconsin are partners in the First National Bank at Fox Lake. One of the firm is pretty sure to succeed.

LORD BROUGHAM celebrated his 87th birthday on Sept. 19th, in the enjoyment of the best health.

CHARLES DICKENS, who had a narrow escape from a railway accident not very long ago, on his journey from London to Paris had a sun-stroke after he arrived in the latter city, and was quite insensible for some hours, but we rejoice to hear that he is entirely recovered.

THE report that Ralph Waldo Emerson was a large loser by the Concord, Mass., bank robbery, is unfounded. The Boston Traveler, however, says that the elder and son of the late Hon. Horace Mann and Mrs. Samuel Hoar were owners of many thousand dollars of the United States stocks that were stolen.

PERSONALS every one connected with the Litchfield (Conn.) Enquirer office "from the editor up," [illegible] connected with the Union army and has assisted in overthrowing the late wicked rebellion.

Star Freight's Pilgrimage.

[We take the following from a series of very clever articles in The Western Railroad Gazette, understood to be from the pen of [illegible], or, as he is known among his Western brethren, Shanghai Chandler.]

OTTUMWA, IOWA, Oct. 8, 186[illegible].

I'm in Ottumwa; throw'n all vegetable nature in this latitude is to an unknown stay.

"The flowers of spring are faded now,
The woods are sere and cold;
The frostmonarch's cheek is ruddy,
And the raw air shines to gold."

In the doggery 'cross the way,
For good old stock and legs,
Are not in Ottumwa.

There is a front rank, on the [illegible] of this place, right out west, called [illegible] Turkey street, and in that long row of rank old heavy coats and bleating kids gambol and [illegible] quadrupeds and fowls, may be seen on the Atlantic flying right across the track. Feed will be [illegible] corn, cuss and swear, and talk about [illegible] horses and dogs, and of the [illegible] they are full of; and instead of clucking at the horses and whistling in their pups, they cluck at Tige and Rose and remark to the horses "my" Who dared they tell 'em "sugar?"

[illegible] gobble. Heavy old curmudgeons, rank in sin and speculation, sport long spoons, and open their mouths with wealthy little goodies for kids who frisk at [illegible] and sport and back against the other at Hoyt and [illegible]

"Such is life!" All the world's a Depot House barn-yard; and the traveling men in it are mere swine, goats, tom-turkeys and the like. [illegible] me the part of Dogberry by writing an [illegible] made per end.

This Ottumwa is the present terminus of the Burlington and Missouri Railroad, which joins with the Des Moines Valley Road right alongside the D. M. river. Mr. J. B. Wolf and his [illegible] from Cedar Rapids or Chicago or some other village, have taken a contract to build sixty miles further of the D. & Mo. Riv. Road, due west to Oregon, and some work on a branch of twenty miles to Albia. They [illegible] work will go on with a strong pull, and eventually fetch up at either Nebraska City or Plattsmouth, something more than 250 miles away. The track on the Des M. V. Road is being laid at the rate of about 400 yards per day, north-westward from Fella, the present terminus, toward the capital. The next Hon. Legislature will only have to stagger a foot it 86 miles from Monroe, the next time they go to enact laws and other iniquities. Fella, (a word derived from propeller, or pull-can), has been the terminus for several months, and the place has improved ten or twenty miles by it. The Pellacans must turn over their roosts and let the Monroeites, who in their turn must hustle out over their end again to other impatient suitors.

Des Moines river at this place is now about from 12 to 20 rods wide, on an average; and is so shallow that this morning I saw a great long string of emigrant wagons fording it just below the bridge. The bed of the river is flat, solid rock. (A Chippewa Indian would call it a canoe.) Lime building stone quarries are dipped near the shore long down the river. Boats did once ply on this river, when time was buoyant; yes, twice and many more times did they do it. And now betimes a wee bit of a craft comes puffing up, more for fun than for commercial gain. And, take her all in all, ten months in the year the Des Moines river is better adapted to bathing, thirst-quenching and baptismal purposes, than to navigation. Her water are polluted and baths are bounded at the [illegible] Skunk river, thirty miles east, are muddy, dark, pestiferous and in every way as foul as Chicago river.

I wish trans-Mississippi railroads were endowed with better rolling stock and more of it. Why has to be waited along in shocking old passenger cars behind squealing and bellowing live stock? My soul likes the odor of the melody thereof. It is indeed enough to be compelled to ride in a mixed crowd of rather bad-smelling emigrants, and several weeping babes, and sundry sympathetic chaws of tobacco, having to smell the odor of the stock.

When I have a model railroad, all my own, I'll tell you how she'll go: Double-track, steel-rail, stone-ballasted. Three classes of cars to each passenger train; second class tickets to be the same rate as now; first class, thirty per cent. higher; third class twenty per cent. lower—(I'll make the poor feel the difference). I know this European system is objected to as being anti-democratic—anti-American—but I like it. I believe in the propriety of keeping dirty ragamuffins out of the ladies' cars where your wife and miss, Mr. Editor, had rather ride than in a motley, tobacco-chewing crowd. No man puttest his new wine on an old garment; and no man admireth a piece of new cloth stuck in an old bottle; and whoso loves pure and honest women, and womenon all seated around among Flora McFlimsey, and Doctors of Divinity and Physic, liable to shock the one class and contaminate the other, morals I can hit except the arrangement I propose. It is well laid out; as by keeping my business continually before the public, it has secured me many sales that I would otherwise have lost."

WORTHY TO LIVE.—Robert Dodsley who died over a hundred years since, was the author of the following, one of the purest specimen of epigram extant:

Criss Sylvia to a reverend dean,
"What reason can be given,
Since marriage is a holy thing,
That there is none in heaven?"
"There are no women," he replied
"Else ARK returns the lost;
Women there are, but I'm sorry
They cannot find a priest!"

THE RUSSIAN-AMERICAN TELEGRAPH.—The New York Herald of Oct. 6th states that a telegram has been received at Fort St. James, Frasser River, British Columbia, announcing the completion of the Russian American telegraph line to that point, and that Capt. Conroy is expected pushing towards Stuart's Lake. The route is to cross the straits will be laid next August. A party is also on the way to Anvor River, to build northward, to meet another working party from the Anadyr. The Herald's advices state that the enterprise bids fair to be carried to a successful completion at a much earlier day than was generally anticipated. Capt. Buckley was on his way to the Gulf of Anadyr, at last advices.

KITTY NEIL.

BY DENNIS FLORENCE M'CARTHY.

"Ah, sweet Kitty Neil! rise up from your wheel!
This night Little Red will be ready to start;
Come, trip down with me to the sycamore tree—
Half the parish is there; and the dance is beginning—
The sun is gone down, but the full harvest moon
Makes day of exactly one mile to the one whitened valley,
While all the air sings with the joy loving things
Each little bird sings to the green shaded alley."

With a blush and a smile, Kitty rose up the while,
Her eye in the glass, as she bound her hair, glancing;
'Twas hard to refuse when a young lover woos,
So she couldn't but choose to go off to the dancing;
And away go the girls and the gallant groups are seen,
Each gay hearted lad with the lass of his choosing;
And Pat, without fail, leads out sweet Kitty Neil—
Somehow, when he willed, she neither thought of refusing.

Now Felix Magee puts his pipes to his knee,
And with flourish so free sets each couple in motion;
Now cozily retiring, now boldly advancing;
Search the world all round, from the sky to the ground,
No such sight can be found as a fair face dancing!

Great Kate, who could view your eyes of deep blue
Piercing through the thick dark lashes so shyly,
Your fairly thread arm, heaving breast, rounded form—
Not that his heart warm, and his pulses throb wildly!

Poor Pat feels his heart, as he gazes, depart,
And he sighs by the smart of such painful yet sweet love;
Yet, as he leaves by a sigh, as he retires, with a sigh,
To gain a sight for my Kate if he touches your feet, love!

Tom Rocket, the Highwayman.

BY ALBANY FONBLANQUE, JR.

"It happened to my father," said the tall man in the chimney corner, "and that's how I came to know all about it."

The chimney corner is that of the Rising Sun, a pleasant little roadside inn, about five miles from Wolverhampton, and the tall man is president of a bowling club that meets there once a fortnight, principally to dine. The "it," of which the speaker's relative was the hero, is the adventure which forms the subject of this narrative.

The reason why we [illegible] to stories instead of playing bowls this. One of the heaviest [illegible] that I can remember, broke [illegible] run that afternoon. Oh [illegible] never we could see great ragged copper colored clouds banking up against the wind, and the cloth was hardly off the table, when spit! spat! spat! against the diamond-shaped window-panes came a few heavy hail-stones, then came the lightning, then came the thunder, and then came the rain, as though it had not rained for ten years, and was determined to make up for lost time. So there was nothing for it but to sit still and to amuse ourselves, as best we could, indoors; and the conversation having turned upon travelling, and the dangers of the road before railways were invented, Mr. Josh Sandiger, our president, sitting and smoking his pipe in the chimney corner, volunteered to tell us a tale of those times, and, said he, "it happened to my father, and that's how I came to know all about it."

"I think it would like me to give you the story just as Mr. Josh gave it to us; you might get round with his pipe. He always puffs it very long, easy pipe, which seems to require a great deal of management to get it to draw properly. He never says more than about six words at a time, then he has a pull at his pipe, and goes on again, giving you a whiff of wind, then a whiff of smoke, while [illegible]

[illegible] pipe, pressed down the ashes, and shaken them out on the hob, [illegible] the last time, it again, and if it is all right, he gives the shank end into his brandy and water, looks into the bowl a third time, and gives it a rub with his cuff. Next, he opens his mouth wide, puts the smallingwax end in, closes his lips upon it slowly, and then goes at it again with his steady, six words at a time, as before. He is reckoned a very shrewd speaker in these parts, is our president. All the world, of course, he is; else, I ask you, would so many people come to hear him? Why, there's Bill Jones, the strong man, and everybody knows what he can do, he's been round the Nelson Arms, and he's been round the Bull, and he's been round the Crown, and he's been round the Bull's Head, and he's been round the Lion, and he's been round the Bull, and he's been round the Bull, and he's been round the Bull

One of the largest

ESTABLISHMENT -

In Southern Michigan

One of the best filled Establishments!

A LARGE STOCK,

Most Varied

of Furniture

is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St, Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various Styles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c

Furniture made to order on short notice by the best of Workmen.

ROCKING GLASSES,

As Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand. Pictures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

A well assorted stock on hand and a large and complete assortment of Collins and will make to order at any hour of Night or Day and have them in the best style.

Hearse Furnished when Desired

D. VANTINE,
G. SMITH.

JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try once and judge for yourselves.

A. JAMES.

Lewis and Clark and Sutlin, are subscribing for the HERALD

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deuel & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

keeping at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO
WOODEN WARE.

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything that anybody or his brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

As all our neighbors know.

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just received from New York and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hoed's, north side of Chicago street.

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE ! !

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY !

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass, Window Sashes

House Trimmings,

Carpenters Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

---

18 Pronunciamento 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour suit.

I shall be pleased to retain, and would invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd best Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Middlings, Best Flour,
Ship Stuffs, Best Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE.

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Salt.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL.

Corn In the Ear and Shelled.

A good assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN.

WARD & STICKLAND,

Are now Receiving large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single springs, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be appreciated particularly in all crowded assemblies, Opera, Carriages, Railroad cars, Church pews, Arm chairs for promenade and house dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 2 ply twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the Single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts. The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Double Steel, and twice or double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c. &c. which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant corded tapes and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible and are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

WARD, BRADLEY & CARY, Proprietors of the Invention, and Sole Manufacturers, 97 Chambers and 79 & Reade Streets, New York.

For Sale in all first class Stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada Havanna de Cuba Mexico, South America and the West Indies.

Inquire for the Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

Old and young should use

STERLING'S

AMBROSIA

FOR

THE HAIR.

It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and Preservative in the world.

STERLING'S AMBROSIA MANUFACTURING COMP'Y,

SOLE PROPRIETORS,

NEW YORK.

D. N. TEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases will visit Tecumseh the

1st & 2d of Every Month,

for Consultation with patients. Cancer and Scrofulous Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Incipient Consumption cured in three to five months. Liver Complaint, Dispepsia, and Constipation cured in 2 to 4 months. Piles, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs yield readily to his treatment. Prolepsus Uteri he is master of. Charges reasonable and within ability to pay: the really poor will be treated gratis. He will be at Comstock's Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence On Bailey Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars (See Circulars.

DENTISTRY

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices

---

F. R. Stebbins,

Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point.

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

Advantages of this Plow.

It will last from two years to a lifetime, according to the number of acres it may be used upon. It is in use in almost every part of the Eastern States and in many of the states in the West, in which it has been habitually used for years, in plowing eighty, ninety or less, it having proved to be better over three hundred acres of the same soil without yet being half worn.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils where all other Plows have failed. Where it will not scour it will not work anywhere to which it will not scour, and yet to find it.

It draws lighter than any other plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, or a point welded on, as readily as an ordinary Plow, by any blacksmith, and the share, as the share of other Plows, can be renewed.

Any section can be renewed by duplicates to be had of any Agent, as the share, land and Mouldboard are cast in moulds.

It is well stocked with New England second-growth timber, and the standard is of iron, with "eleos" in the cap so as to give or take at pleasure.

It plows at any depth, from one to twelve inches, so easily, so perfectly, so, it leaves a close furrow, and the mellow soil fresh composed.

It is the cheapest, as it is worth, but as cents at the outset, dollars once to get it, quarter over, according to your [illegible] quarter of a dollar saved, the quality and quantity of work performed must be considered, in determining whether or not it shall be used for profit. Plows are used for profit, and we mean dollars and cents. It cost, is the cheapest, and we [illegible] more than a hundred dollars every time he gets one of these Plows.

These remarks are addressed to those familiar with the merits of most of the Plows in use in the West, many of which have a good reputation.

Our new model [illegible] designed expressly for [illegible] heretofore we have had over [illegible] designed for both turf and stubble, patterns together will enable us to give views of all as to shape, and give them a bold or "bean" plow as they prefer.

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Slayton, Tecumseh.

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which are in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable.

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—OUR—

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our port-faced on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,

Sole Proprietors, Chicago.

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the Brick Shop on Railroad Street, Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young america. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days. I

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6 50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap, Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, wool-en and Straw

HATS AND CAPS

Linen and Paper Collars,
Neck Ties, Shirts,
Gloves, Hosiery,
Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware

EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN W. HART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands. Also a splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions.

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can.

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Tuesday the 3d day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Thomas P. Smith, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Louis O. Smith and Eliza Smith praying that letters of administration of said estate may be granted to Edwin Smith of Clinton, Lenawee County.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 13th day of November next, at 10 o'clk in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted:

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A true copy) n767w4

Probate Notice

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 29th day of September in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Caroline V. Steele deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Elizabeth Quackenboss, sister of said deceased, praying that the last will and testament of said deceased may be admitted to probate, and that Richard C. Moore might be appointed executor thereof.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday the 23d day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

(A True Copy) 778-w6.

Corporation Notice

"The stated meetings of the council shall be on the first and third Monday of each month, at 8 o'clock P. M. from April 1st, until the 1st of October and on the first Monday of each month at 7 o'clock for the rest of the year and holden at the office of the Recorder.

C. BURRIDGE, Recorder.

Tecumseh, May 15th, 1865.

COPARTNERSHIP!

A. Hood & Co.

Are now receiving at the Old Post of A. Hood, Anderson's Block,

A LARGE STOCK

—OF—

NEW GOODS

Direct from New York consisting of

Ready Made Clothing

A splended assortment of THE LATEST STYLES of cloths that could be found in the Eastern markets, Consisting of

BROAD CLOTHS, DOESKINS, FREECH, SCOTCH and ENGLISH CASSIMERES, COATINGS, VESTINGS, OVER COATINGS &c. Also a heavy

STOCK OF WOOLEN SHIRTS

Of all styles, UNDER SHIRTS & DRAWERS, SUSPENDERS, GLOVES, HOSIERY.

A nice assortment of

HATS & CAPS

Furnishing Goods!

Of all kinds for mens wear. We never keep on hand as good a selection of goods in our line as can be found in any one establishment in the County and for CASH we will sell them as low, or a little lower than any other establishment in the County.

Our Tailoring Department is in full blast. We are prepared to get up Suits on Short NOTICE, in as GOOD STYLE and at as low figures as any other establishment.

CUTTING DONE ON SHORT NOTICE

H. M. GRAY. A. HOOD.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

ALSIN MILLS

RAISIN

is the place to get good grinding done. I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT and I will warrant that Adam will please you satisfaction. GROUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat.

Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER for SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good good slabs for sale by the load. I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and contract to do the good work as cheap and better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comp

Latest News

Great Excitement!

Conterfeiters Arrested!!

RICHMOND

NOT YET TAKEN

Those Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any locality. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, the forger is often arrested in his progress by the Art, by the great rush to obtain them. Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 23. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 26 1865. WHOLE NO. 777.

1865. FALL TRADE, 1865.

NEW FIRM,

Tribou & Bidwell Brothers,

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods,

Corner Chicago and Rail Road Streets;

Tecumseh. Michigan,

The Largest Stock.

The Best Assortment,

And the Lowest Prices.

Call and examine our Goods, and we will prove the truth of our assertion.

Terms Cash.

E. A. TRIBOU.
L. C. BIDWELL.
L. I. BIDWELL.

NEW FIRM,

NEW GOODS AND

NEW ARRANGEMENTS.

JUST ARRIVED!

And yet to come

1000 CASES!

MENS, BOYS and YOUTHS BOOTS, and LADIES, MISSES, and CHILDREN SHOES.

Those goods were all bought before the present 'Panic for High Prices' and will be

SOLD LOWER

than the same goods can be bought to-day. N.B. Persons in search of 'Shoddy" are respectfully informed that I keep only the very best goods and

WARRANT ALL GOODS,

As represented.

Pauticular attention IS called to my Stock of HAND MADE.

BOYS BOOTS

Brought direct from the manufactures; every pair warranted.

MENS, LADIES, MISSES and CHILDRENS RUBBERS In great abundence.

The shop in charge of an experienced foreman is turning out piles of work, and every person that leaves a measure gets

PARTICULAR FITS.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine.

Shoe Pacs,

A new water-proof Boot for Farmers, Lumber-men and Hunters. Laces and Tassels in a variety of colors.

E. H. HOAG.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOIS)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

han any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

CASH FOR RAGS!

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCH M,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCH OOL BOOKS,

JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations,

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet M i ic,

Ph tograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

NEW MILLINERY AND Fancy Goods Store.

Mrs. L. WILBUR, would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that she has just purchased the largest and best assortment of Millinery Goods ever brought to this place. She intends to keep a large stock of

BONNETS, RIBBONS, FLOWERS, LACES, HATS, HEAD DRESES, PLUMES FEATHERS, and

in fact everything to be found in the Millinery line constantly on hand. Particular attention paid to Bleaching and Repairing straws. Be sure to call. Shop in rooms formerly occupied by Mrs. O. McCoy.

I also have a large assortment of Fancy Goods consisting of Hoops, Traveling baskets, Merino vests and drawers, Hosiery Gloves, Dress Trimming &c. to which I would call the attention of the ladies. I am offering my stock at low prices and would respectfully solicit a share of your patronage.

Mrs. L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Sept, 14th, 1865.

Administrator's Sale.

Estate of Joseph Grandy, deceased: Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, Michigan, made in said estate, on the 18th day of September, 1865, empowering and licensing me thereto, I shall on the 4th day of November, 1865, at the premises hereinafter described in the village of Tecumseh in said County, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, sell at public vendue, the interest said deceased died seized in and to the undivided one third of all that certain tract or parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, Michigan, known bounded and described as follows, viz: Commencing at a point in the north side of Chicago street, in said village forty-one and one half feet east of the east line of Evans Street measuring from intersection thereof by said north line of Chicago street running thence east on said north line of Chicago street fourteen feet, thence north at right angles with Chicago street eighty-nine feet, thence west parallel with Chicago street, fourteen feet and thence south at right angles with Chicago Street eighty-nine feet to the place of beginning with the privilege of an alley ten feet wide adjoining the north end of the above described land—subject to its share of the incumbrance of fifteen hundred dollars in a mortgage upon the undivided premises made by Wooster Taylor, Oliver B. Taylor and said deceased to John S. Strong bearing date on or about March 25d 1864 with interest from said date.—Terms published on day of sale.

Tecumseh, Mich, Sept. 19th 1865.

OLIVER B. TAYLOR,
Administrator of said estate.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c, at

A. JAMES

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight, 7:02 A. M.

GOING NORTH.

Mail and Express, 9:32 A. M.
Accommodation, 6:40 P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD,
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING.
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet, &c.
Chicao St. Tecumseh, Mich.

P. N. CURTIS,
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWIN B. WOOD,
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER,
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harnass and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam, Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

INDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG,
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G R. PALMER, Attorney at Law. and Notary Public, Lake Ridge, M. Particular attention paid to collections in any part of Michigan. Is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 80	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12 00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10 00	14.00
1 Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	18.00
½ Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18 00	30.00
Column	6.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted on $5.00 per year.

Job Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable

To Our Friends.

You will confer a favor on us by soliciting the Judge of Probate to publish Probate Notices in the HERALD, and you will also find it convenience to your selves to have the advertisements in the paper you receive.

STRAYED.—From the subscriber, Oct. 1st, Five Spring Lambs. A liberal rewkrd is offered for their return to my residence, 5 miles west of Tecumseh. JESSE STRETCH.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Having sold my stock of goods to Messrs. Tribou & Bidwell Bro's. all persons indebted to me are earnestly requested to call and settle their accounts with Mr. E. A. Tribou. Shall deal in Leather and Findings as heretofore.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Concerts.

On Monday evening last Prof. Leland gave a Concert in Bidwell's Hall with his juvenile class, which was highly complimented. His class did finely and the concluding tableau was truly magnificent.

On Tuesday evening the Peak Family held forth in the same Hall. It is needless to speak of their performance as the reputation of the troupe is already, firmly established. We presume that master Frank, in the role of comedy cant be beat in the whole country, and we doubt very much whether he can be equaled.

☞ Call and examine C. H Adam & Co's. stock of knit Wrappers and Drawers, Hose, Socks, Gauntlets, Lined Kid and Thread Gloves, Buckskin Gloves and Mits, Ladies' Cloth, Broad Cloth, &c., bought for cash during the late decline in goods. Most of them were purchased 5 to 10 per cent. below what they can now be had for in New York or elsewhere, and Caarlie is determined not to be undersold.

Tecumseh Union Lyceum.

At a meeting of the Tecumseh Union Lyceum held in the Union School Building on Monday evening, the following officers were duly chosen:

President—D. McNair.
Vice President—Jno. D. Chambers.
Recording Sec.—Miss L. Lewis.

The remaining officers will be elected on Monday evening next. The first regular debate will also take place on next Monday evening, when the following question will be discussed. "Resolved that public opinion is a true standard of the right."

AFFI.	NEG.
O. P. Bills,	Prof. C. B. Thomas.
D. McNair,	Col L. Saviers,
C. A. Cook,	Jno. D. Chambers.

☞ For your Sheet Music go to Ketcham's, he receives new Music every day, anything he has not on hand will be procured on short notice.

☞ M. Wright has just rec'd a large and well selected stock of Drugs, Groceries &c which he is selling cheap. He has the cheapest Sugars and best Teas in town, also a large stock of Wall Paper new patterns just received.

☞ The annual report of the Poor for Lenawee county shows that the total number of paupers now in the poor house is 36, of which 20 are males and 16 females; 18 are insane or idiotic, and six are children. The cost to the county per week for supporting each pauper at the poor house during the past year has been $1 20, and the total cost of suporting that institution has been $2,625 28. Besides this, 411 persons have received help outside the poor house, the amount thus expended being $4,768, a total for supporting the poor of Lenawee county of $7,293 28. The Superintendents of the Poor recommend an appropriation of $7,500 for the ensuing year.

Great Excitement.

A quantity of Prusian Cotton Yarn the very best made, arrived at the store of R. C. Moore one day last week, and the rush for it was astonishing. Customers know that Moore keeps the first-class goods, and feel that by purchasing of him they get their money's worth. Hoop Skirts of the best material can be had at R. C. Moore's. On account of the large trade that R. C. M— has of Hoop-Skirts, he is compelled to order often, therefore keeps a new stock of the latest style on hand continually. Merinos, Parametts, Alpaccas, Poplins, DeLaines, Prints, Sheeting, Shirting, Stripes, Denims, bleeched and unbleeched Factory, Cotton-Flannel, all wool Flannels, Red, Gray Salmon, white, Plaid &c. Double width Flannels for sheets, Balmorals, Nubias, Cassimers, Kentucky Jean, and almost everything you call for can be procured at the store of R. C. Moore The friends of Geo. Wastell will find him ever ready to wait on them with promptness and pleasure. We invite your attention so the above mentioned stock. Remember R. C. Moore's store.

☞ Gents Paper Cuffs at Ketcham's.

Child Taught.

BY MRS. M. F. TUCKER.

With her laughing sister Grace,
Leaning lovingly upon me,
Looking up into my face:
And with tender tones they whispered
"What is mamma grieving for?
Are you then so very sorry
They are coming from the war?"

"Oh my children! little children!
You can hardly understand
Why I weep at the returning
Of this brave heroic band
They are those your father gathered,
They are those your father led;
But to-day he is not with them,
Oh, my darling, lying dead!

I was thinking of the brightness,
And the promise of his youth;
Of his rare and manly beauty,
Of his tenderness and truth.
Of the loyal heart and loving,
Of the generous and brave,
Of the hope and the ambition
Lying buried in his grave.

I was thinking how he hurried,
With his armor gleaming bright,
To the fiercest of the conflict,
To the thickest of the fight!
How his valient arm was lifted
In the battles of the free;
Oh, my darling! my lost darling!
Who will never come to me!

How I watched and how I waited,
How I wept and prayed for him,
When the moon hung out her silver,
When the stars were growing dim.
How I watched and how I waited,
How I prayed for him in vain;
For my darling—oh my darling!
Who will never come again!

Little Ada's face grew graver,
(She is thoughtful for her years)
And adown upon my bosom
Fell the shower of her tears.
But said blue eyed Gracie smiling,
"Other papa's come to-day,
Come to love their little children
Shouldnt we be glad for they?"

Quick I read the simple lesson,
Saw my selfish grief was vain;
And resolved that moment never,
Never thus to err again.
Though for us the grief wind bloweth,
Though the trouble-tide we stem,
Other hearts, thank God; are happy,
And we will be glad for them

From how many care-worn faces
Will the tears be wiped away!
To how many lonely dwelling's
Will the sunshine come to-day!
Then, oh soul! thy woes forgetting,
Join the welcome of the free,
Though our darling lieth buried
By, the far off Tennessee.

Macon, Mich.

DR. DURAND COMING.—We have the pleasure of announcing to the public, especially the sick, that the renowned Dr. L. V. Durand of the Rochester Medical Institute, N. Y., will make his next professional visit to Tecumseh, on the first day of November, and remain two days at the Exchange Hotel. Dr. Durand's extraordinary success in the treatment of Chronic diseases, such as Diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Liver, &c., Catarrh and other complaints of the Head Ear and Eye, Female Complaints, Spinal Diseases, Rheumatism, neuralgia and all Throat Complaints of a lingering nature, is worthy the attention of those requiring medical aid. He examines you free of charge, and if he cannot cure you he will you. If he tells you he can cure you, you may rely upon his doing so.

☞ Go to Tribou & Bidwell Bro's. and buy an elegant Merino dress, at eight shillings a yard.

☞ Gloves, Hosiery, Nubias, Breakfast Shawls, Ladies Merino Shirts and Drawers at Tribou & Bidwell Bro's.

The first prize at the State Fair, at Adrian was awarded to Mrs. Bissell of Tecumseh, for Photographs. If you are in want of pictures please call at her rooms and examine specimens before going elsewhere. She intends to open her old rooms on Main Street and will fix a sky-light in the first story, which will be a great improvement, as it will save climbing numerous flights of stairs.

☞ Aveline, Lispenard and Cacino Plaids Black and white Check Double Shawls just received by Tribou & Bidwell Bro's.

Married.

At the Violett House, in Goshen, Ind. August 31st, by Rev. D. Pulford, Mr DANIEL MOYER to Miss LIZA PUNCHES.

Notwithstanding the high tax on whisky and other luxuries, DANIEL is determined to have his Punches.—Goshen Democrat

May 25th 1865, at Lagetown, Ills., Mr. ALBERT BLACK and Miss MARY E. FORQUER.

Tho' he was Black, she'd be his wife,
In her best bib and tucker,
Forquer is bound to Black for life,
And so Black's bound to Forquer.

—La Crosse Democrat.

WANTED.—Agents, male or female, to earn from $55 to $100 per month, and expenses paid. Full particulars sent to any address on receipt of 6 cents for circulars, and return postage. Address 22w4 E. E. Lockwood, Detroit, Mich.

SEWING MACHINES.—We call attention of persons wishing employment, to the advertisement of E. E. Lockwood & Co, in to days paper.

Soldiers Monument.

At a meeting of our citizens, held on Tuesday evening Oct. 17th, adjourned meeting on Tuesday evening Oct. 24th this committee made their report, a Constitution was submitted and adopted, and the following officers were duly elected for the ensuing year.

President—Horace Brewer, Tecumseh.

Vice Presidents—A. Anderson, Tecumseh, W. H. Osborn, Macon, Joshua Waring Ridgeway, J. H. Green, Raisin, Secretary—Lucius Lilley, Tecumseh.

Treasurer—Webster Anderson, Tecumseh

Executive Committee—G. W. Ketcham, Tecumseh, S. Rappleye, Macon, John Britton jr. Ridgeway, Z. Cook, Raisin.

Northern Lenawee is ahead yet. A permanent organization has now been effected and the members of the Executive committee in the several towns will take immediate steps to solicit subscriptions for erecting a monument to the memory of our deceased soldiers. We have a fund of several hundred dollars on hand already and with proper exertion a sufficient amount can be easily raised to build a monument, that will reflect the highest credit upon the patriotism and enterprise of towns in Northern Lenawee. Next week we shall give a list of the subscribers with the sum paid by each and a weekly list thereafter of all the names added to the subscription together with the amounts paid by each. The work is now fairly begun. Let us keep the ball rolling.

☞ Remember the Musical Festival in Bidwell's Hall this evening. It is to be a grand affair. Some of the best musicians in the State will compete for the prizes.

☞ The report of the Volunteer Relief Fund Committee to the Board of Supervisors shows that the amount expended for the support of soldiers' families, during the year, has been $27,752 99 There is now on hand the sum of $5,917 82 belonging to the fund, and it is recommended that $8,200 additional be raised for the ensuing year. A resolution was passed by the Board of Supervisors on Thursday raising the salary of the Prosecuting Attorney from $700 to $900, and allowing the Register of the Probate office a yearly salary of 300.

☞ The estimated value of the taxable property in Lenawee county, as equalized by the Board of Supervisors, is as follows: Real estate, $8 978 082; personal property, $2,227,675—total $10,314,757.

☞ A call for a County Convention for the erection of a soldiers' monument in this county, to be held Nov. 4th, in Adrian, has been issued.

☞ Constitution Bitters, which took the First Premium at the State Fair, also Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters and Roback's Bitters, all for sale at the Drug Store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

☞ Old Insurance men acknowledge the fact that the Phoenix of hartford, can't be beat. By comparing the assets of the four principal companies, as reported in July last, with their assets in January, we gather the following facts. During the six months from January to July

The Phoenix exhibits a gain of 2 1-4 pr ct.
Hartford " 1 3-4 "
Aetna " 1 "
Home " a loss of 2 1-2 "

These figures speak for themselves. The Phoenix does fire business exclusively and is one of the safest companies in the country. S. C. Stacy is resident agent for Tecumseh. See advertisement in another column.

☞ A new lot of Wall Paper and Window Shades just received at J. D. Robbins. Now is the time to buy as there will be an advance soon.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich, Oct. 26, 1865.

Ambrose, Wm. W.	Austin, Nathan
Adams, mrs B. B.	Brown, Edward
Burdsal, Hettie N	Cook, Richard B
Gould, S. B.	Lossing Thomas
Meer, C. W	Powers, R P
Reed, R H.	Wheeler A H.

Warraneup MRS H

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

$125 A MONTH.—Agents wanted to sell the PARLOR GEM $20.00 DOUBLE THREAD SEWING MACHINE Salary and expenses, or a large commission allowed. Address, with stamp,

22w4 H. B DAVIDS, Detroit, Mich

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Monday, the 23d day of October in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate In the matter of the estate of Robert Wilson deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of William R. Wilson a son of said deceased praying that the last will and testament of said deceased may be proved and allowed as the last will and testament of said deceased and that he may be appointed executor thereof.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 27th day of November next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petion, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ROBERT R BEECHER,

(A true Copy) n779 Judge of Probate.

CALVIN C. COATS, Register.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK.

The Wirz trial came to a conclusion last Saturday. The Judge advocate finished the reading of the trial for the prosecution, and the president then announced that the doors would be closed to the public.

The late arrivals from Europe indicate that the cholera has made its appearance in both France and England. Two cases have occurred at Southampton.

Five caves have been discovered under the city of Nashville, Tenn., which were occupied by thieves, burglars, etc. The mitty have the matter in hand.

The individual who was pay[illegible] hung in Pella, Iowa, has had the [illegible] sons who were engaged in the transa[illegible]on arrested.

Last week, at [illegible] residence of the late Edward Everett, in Summer street, Boston, was [illegible]tion for $56,791, and will be su[illegible]

The President, a few days since sent a telegram to Gov. Holden, of North Carolina, urging that the Convention should repudiate now and forever every dollar of the debt incurred to aid the late rebellion. Prior to adjournment, the Convention acted in accordance with the telegram.

The Mississippi legislature has elected Hon. Wm. L. Sharkey, United States Senator from that state, to fill an unexpired term of Jeff. Davis, by a vote of 100 to 20.

It is a subject of remark that all the large fires that have transpired lately, consuming cotton. At Selma, Mobile, New Orleans, Memphis and New York, quantities of that commodity have been burned to a value which, according to reports, amounts to several millions of dollars. The steamer Tycoon, with a cargo of cotton, was recently destroyed by fire on the Ohio river.

The Kentucky Central Railroad declines [illegible]

CLEANINGS.

—There was a great storm of rain and wind at Havana, Cuba, during the first week of this month, compelling people to suspend business and shut themselves up. There was some loss of life, and much damage done.

—A letter from Edward Spangler to a friend in Baltimore is published, and in it he proclaims his innocence. As to his relations with Booth, he says: "He asked me to see to his horses which I did by saying that he would make me a second present, which he did, six years on the Board of Dry Fortugas. I never enjoyed his confidence or his favor except occasionally when we met at a restaurant he would ask me to have something to drink."

—Floods in Japan, unprecedented in violence and disastrous results, occurred in the month of August.

—"Gladiator," the last winner of Derby, has won in all eight races, the stakes in which amounted to the enormous sum of £26,422, or about $130,000 in American gold. This for a three-year-old colt is much the largest [illegible]

—The citizens of Philadelphia are cautioned to use great economy in water, the amount in the reservoir being very low.

—The disease which has been attacking cattle in England has appeared also among the sheep.

—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has declared that publishers of newspapers, whose receipts exceed $1,000 annually, should be licensed as manufacturers, and that such license will cover all sales at the place of publication, including bill-heads, circulars, etc.

—It seems singular that the Episcopal Convention which has been continually making canons should object to clergymen bearing arms.

—A newly-married couple went to Niagara on a visit, and the gentleman, in order to convince his dear that he was as brave as he was gallant, resolved to go down into the "cave of the winds." She, of course, objected; but finding that he was determined, affectionately requested him to leave his pocket-book and watch behind.

—A map of Virginia, got up by Captain [illegible] published at Oxford two

PERSONAL.

One of the best swimmers at Biarritz, is the brother of the king of Spain. At nine o'clock every morning he plunges into the sea, and to witness his nautical performances, the élite of society rush to the casino or climb to the top of the neighboring rocks.

The only person left to perpetuate the name of Daniel Webster, is his grandson, Ashburton Webster, a son of Fletcher Webster, who is a very promising young man, now in the American navy. Fletcher Webster left two sons and a daughter, the last still living. Edward Webster, major, who died in Mexico, left no children. There are four other grandsons by his much beloved Julia, bearing the name of Appleton. This is all of the family of Daniel Webster. A Boston paper has the following about the tomb of the latter at Marshfield. "When the son of Fletcher Webster was buried the other day, his grandfather's coffin was again opened, and the remains found in a perfect state of preservation. There is a secret about it; but these features will never be seen again.

[illegible] "Innocence" at Paris

Ventilate Your Children's Rooms.—Most parents, before retiring to rest, make it a duty to visit the sleeping rooms of their children. They do so in order to be satisfied that the lights are extinguished and that no danger is threatening their little ones. But if they leave the room with closed windows and doors, they shut in as great an enemy as fire, though his ravages may not be so readily detected. Poison is there, slow but deadly.

Morning after morning do many little children wake weary, fretful and oppressed.

"What can it mean? What can it be?" the mother cries. In despair, she has recourse to medicine. The constitution becomes enfeebled and the child grows worse.

The cause, perhaps, is never traced to overcrowded sleeping rooms without proper air; but it is nevertheless the right one. An intelligent mother, having acquainted herself with the principles of ventilation, will not retire to her own room for the night without having provided a sufficiency of air for her children in the same manner that she provides and regulates their night covering, or any other requisite for refreshing slumber. Sometimes by judiciously lowering a window, and at other times by [illegible]

Ships from Chicago to New York.

Mr. S. DeWitt Bloodgood is the author of a pamphlet proposing a ship canal to connect the great lakes with the harbor of New York. He takes the ground that there is so great an increase of Western and Canadian productions which seek access to tide-water, that it is absolutely necessary that the New York canal facilities should be enlarged.

Lake Superior is connected with Lake Huron by the Sault St. Marie canal. Lake Erie is connected with Lake Ontario by the Welland canal. The St. Lawrence canal connects Ontario with the sea. But there is another lake not yet connected with its fellows—Lake Champlain. Yet the barriers which isolate it are easily removed. The lake affords a ship navigation of one hundred and twenty-five miles and its course is from the direction of the St. Lawrence towards the Hudson. The project of Mr. Bloodgood is, almost altogether an enlargement of the works already in existence. At the northern end of the lake, the Chamblee canal is already in operation. At the Southern end the Champlain canal unites the lake with [illegible] from Chicago to the Hudson. In 1849, a convention was held in Saratoga, for the purpose of building of a ship canal from Lake Champlain to the St. Lawrence. In 1855 the project was approved by Mr. Chabot, Canadian commissioner of public works, and by Mr. John B. Jervis, of New York, connected with the Erie canal and Croton water-works. The cost of the work was estimated at $4,000,000. The navigation of the lake is complete. Between it and the Hudson there is a canal 66 miles long, ascending 55 feet from the lake to the Summit level, and thence descending 125 feet to the Hudson. Mr. W. B. Taylor, estimated the cost of this canal at $3,770,000. This sum could build it so that it would be adapted to gunboats 150 feet in length, 25 feet beam and 8 feet draught. Mr. Jervis estimated that the cost of the improvement, and that of the Hudson for twenty miles below Troy, at $8,000,000. Since then the upper Hudson has been improved. In 1863 the engineer of the state of New York showed that the channel of the river might be easily and permanently improved at a moderate cost, upon the plan which has been so successfully adopted upon the Clyde in Scotland, by which vessels such as the largest class of Cunard steamers—the Scotia, Persia and Cuba—are enabled to reach Glasgow. In fact these vessels were built in the shipyards of that city.

It appears that, in the last ten years 1,287,661 tons, or more than one fourth of the tonnage of the Erie canal, passed over the Champlain to the Hudson. Gov. Seymour brought the plan to the notice of the legislature of New York in his last message. The completion of this work in the chain of water communication between the west and the east, would pull down the present rates of freight, and of course, tend materially to the development of our agriculture and commerce. We want all the competition we can have between the Northwest and the sea. Mr. Bloodgood's plan is evidently one which for its feasibility recommends itself to the commercial community, especially to that of the state of New York, whose interest it is to attract much of the western trade as it can.

Another Atlantic Cable.

Another scheme of Atlantic telegraph communication has been brought before the public by a Spanish engineer, one Senior Arturo de Mazorrtu. The route which he suggests, is from Lisbon to Cadiz, through the Canary or Cape Verde islands, St. Paul to Cape St. Roque, Pernambuco, and thence along the Brazilian range to Key West, there to be merged in the American telegraph system.

The advantage of this line would be that it would not be a monopoly under the control of one government, as the Irish and Newfoundland telegraph would have been. The line would leave the most western portion of Europe, which is Spanish, and join the most eastern portion of America, which is Brazilian. This line from Cape St. Vincent in Europe to Cape San Roque in America has the advantage of passing by many important islands, and by various capes and banks favorably situated for the subdivision of the length of the line into short sections—shorter, indeed, than many of lines already established between other points.

The projector declares that he has the proper concessions from the government interested, and that he expects to be able before long to commence operations.

There are rumors afloat in Washington that Butler is to have a seat in the Cabinet.

Last Sunday night a fire occurred in Milwaukee, opposite the Newhall House, destroying ten or twelve wooden stores and residences.

The bonds of the new Irish Republic are to be issued this week. John Mitchell's release is positively announced.

A heavy fire occurred in Charleston, S. C., on Wednesday, 18th, burying thirty or forty persons in the ruins, of whom fifteen to twenty were killed. Loss about $100,000.

The regular army is to be increased to 75,000, by agreement of our leading generals.

The Mississippi Legislature organized on the 16th inst., and Gen. Humphreys was inaugurated. In his inaugural address, he insists upon the sincerity of the South, acknowledges the death of slavery, and deprecates its resurrection in any shape.

A bill has been reported in the Tennessee Legislature and referred, regulating the elective franchise. Among its provisions is one giving the right of suffrage to freedmen who can read and write, possess the residence qualifications, and were free prior to Feb. 1st, 1865.

The Tennessee Senate have passed the bill allowing the negroes the right of testifying in the Courts.

The attempt made by Maximilian to extend the boundaries of his empire into British Honduras has been met by a declaration from the English government that Mexico has no claim whatever to any portion of that territory, and in this view the imperial government has been compelled to acquiesce. There is a report that Maximilian had sent $5,000,000 to Washington to influence congress in favor of his recognition. Gen. Sterling Price, ex-Governor Harris, of Tennessee, Lieutenant Maury, and three other ex-rebels, have been appointed by Maximilian as commissioners of colonization and immigration. More French troops have arrived in Mexico.

A company has been formed, and a grant obtained from the Queen of Spain, to lay a submarine cable between Porto Rico, Cuba and the United States.

The 17th Illinois cavalry, by its foolish and criminal insubordination, in refusing to cross the plains, as ordered, is under arrest at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

As was to be expected, there is no confirmation of the report that Jeff. Davis had made his escape.

The large freight depot of the Michigan Central Railroad at Detroit was totally consumed by fire on the 18th with its immense storage of freight, involving a loss of a quarter of a million dollars. Among the goods destroyed were seven hundred bales of cotton, and large amounts of highwines, whiskey and tobacco. The depot was a thousand feet in length and completely filled with freight. Several cars were also destroyed. Six employees of the road lost their lives in this terrible conflagration.

A case of lynching occurred at Pella, Iowa, on the 16th. A young man was arrested for stealing from a fellow passenger in the coach, tried, and acquitted by the magistrate, whereupon the citizens took him to a warehouse and hung him up by the neck to force a confession. Unfortunately they hung him a little too much, and he is not expected to live.

Six thousand negroes in Washington have signed a petition asking for the right of suffrage.

Harris & Osbrey's bonded warehouses in New York were burned last week, involving a loss of a million of dollars. Seven hundred thousand dollars worth of cotton was destroyed.

The notorious guerilla, Champ Ferguson, was executed last Friday. On the same day Henry C. Magruder another guerilla and relation of the rebel General Magruder was hung at Louisville.

Beauregard has been appointed Superintendent of the Jackson and New Orleans Railroad.

A hard battle has been fought between the Paraguayans and the allied army, resulting in the utter defeat of the former, with great loss.

The Tunisian embassy came as far West as Niagara Falls, last week, and returned immediately to make their errand at Washington.

Last week, a woman and two children were horribly mangled by a freight train on the North Missouri Railroad, near Macon City, the head of the woman being crushed so that she died immediately, and the legs of both the children almost torn from their bodies. The woman is thought to have been sitting under the cars with the children, to keep out of the rain.

Reports from collectors of Internal Revenue in Georgia, give gratifying evidence of the abundance of money in the South, notwithstanding the exhausting process it has been subjected to within the last four years.

The receipts of the United States Treasury for the year ending 30th of June last were about $1,800,000,000. The aggregate business transactions of the treasury at Washington, from 1861 to 1865, reach the sum of $9,217,000,000.

A building was destroyed and three men killed, by the terrible explosion of a steam boiler at Rahway, New Jersey on Tuesday the 17th.

Dispatches from United States consuls report the cholera on the decline in Italy, Constantinople and elsewhere.

provided with written [illegible] masters. Military passes are refused.

The eastern counties of Kentucky are still infested with guerrillas, who are doing much damage.

The report that Dr. Mudd was tortured with the thumb-screw, after his attempted escape from the Dry Tortugas, is untrue.

A delegate from the Fenian Congress was sent to Washington to secure the unconditional release of John Mitchell; and he reports that his mission proved successful, and that orders for his release will soon be issued.

Six thousand acres of land in Arkansas, belonging to the rebel General Gideon J. Pillow, which were held by the Government as abandoned property, have been restored to their owner.

The steamship Circassian, from Bremen for New York, is ashore on the coast of Cape Breton. The passengers and cargo were saved, and vessels have been sent to her assistance.

Two-thirds of the coal diggers in the Illinois mines, near St. Louis are incapacitated for work on account of the fever and ague.

The Episcopal convention at Philadelphia have adopted a resolution appointing a special committee on certain decorpancies in the prayer book.

None of the voting places in New York this fall will be in liquor stores or groceries, a marked improvement on the past.

In a gale of Tuesday last, several vessels went ashore between Manitowoc and Two Rivers, and among them the schooners Toledo, America, Sch. Belle of Manitowoc, Mary Bonstreet, Josephine Horn, and an unknown bark. The Josephine Horn was got off.

The steamer Atlantic from New Orleans for New York, was lost on the fifth instant, in a heavy gale about one miles south of Sandy Hook. Of fifty-two persons on board only five were saved. The Atlantic had a cargo of 1,178 bales of cotton.

Rumors from Philadelphia say that the Fenian Congress now in session there, will effect a military organization of the Brotherhood in the United States. The bonds of the Irish Republic are to be issued at once.

Secretary Seward, in his speech at Auburn last Friday, virtually declared that his Government will vindicate the Republican government of Mexico.

We have additional advices from the great hurricane that swept over the West Indies last month. In Guadaloupe, there was a terrible destruction of property. In another place, 200 or 300 inmates of a hospital that was destroyed were killed. Many vessels are believed to have been sunk.

The Execution of Champ Ferguson.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20.

The notorious Champ Ferguson was hanged to-day. The execution was strictly private. He died game on the gallows evincing no emotion until the rope was placed around his neck, when his face turned very red, and he broke out into a profuse perspiration, attended with strong quivering of the lips. He stood composedly on the drop some twenty minutes, while the charges, specifications and sentence were read by Col. Shafter. He nodded recognition to several persons in the crowd, and shifted his position in an impatient manner several times while the sentence was being read. To some specifications he inclined his head in assent; to others he shook his head. That about Alan Huddleston caused him to say, "I can tell it better than that." When the speaker read, "To all which the prisoner pleads not guilty," he said, "I don't now."

After prayer by his spiritual adviser, he was asked if he had anything to say before proceeding with the execution. He replied: "Nothing to say particularly at all—no, not that I know of."

The noose was then placed around his neck, when, for the first time, he gave signs of emotion, and his face blushed a deep scarlet. The perspiration broke profusely from his face and his lips closed with a convulsive quiver. The realization of his awful situation seemed to have dashed over his mind in all its fullness, overpowering his fortitude. Col. Shafter wiped the sweat away, and the prisoner gradually recovered his equanimity. He expressed himself much opposed to having anything placed over his eyes when a handkerchief was called for. Then he volunteered the statement, "I don't know some things in those specifications, but I don't deny anything I have ever done." For a moment or two he seemed to be repressing an impulse to make fuller remarks. After a brief pause, he added, "I want to be sent to my family. I don't want to be buried in this soil." After another pause, he continued in an excited tone, "Don't give me to the doctors, I don't want to be cut up here." Col. Shafter answered, "You shan't Mr. Ferguson. A short silence followed, when the prisoner again spoke: "I want to be put in that thing" pointing to the coffin, "and taken to White county, where I can have my family around me. If I had only had my way, I wouldn't have been here. Whenever you are ready, I am done. My last request is that I may be sent away with my wife." His last words were, "O Lord, have mercy on me, I pray thee."

At seven minutes to 12 o'clock the drop fell, and life was extinct in 16 minutes.

—Mr. N. Davenport, near South Bend, Ind., undertook to fill a kerosene lamp while lighted, when the oil in the can ignited and exploded, burning him so severely as to cause death, and injuring his mother so she had to suffer amputation of an arm. We publish something like half a dozen accidents of this kind weekly. When will people learn that kerosene is as dangerous, almost as burning fluid?

The best stock a man can invest in is the stock of a farm; the best shares are plowshares; and the best banks are the fertile banks of the rural streams; the more these are broken the better dividends they will pay.—H. W. Beecher.

nople, but is increasing at Marseilles. The average mortality at the latter place is from sixty to seventy per day.

—A young man at Bordeaux, France, recently stabbed his sweetheart thirteen times, until the poor girl was dead. He then washed the blood off his hands at the public fountain, and quietly surrendered himself to the authorities.

—A church in Springfield advertises for members. No more improper than was the reply of a church committee in a Connecticut town, who, when a very influential but irreligious man applied for membership, blandly assured him that the church was full.

—It is said that the French half-penny daily paper, called the La Petit Journal, circulates an edition of a million and a half copies. Doubtful.

The American Bible Society has entered upon its fiftieth year, and its friends propose making it a jubilee year, and as such its board of managers will celebrate it.

—A St. Louis street car conductor was fined $25 for trying to put a woman off the cars, supposing she was negro. She proved she was an Indian.

—A gentleman living near Jacksonville, Ill., thinking he heard a disturbance among his horses, got up, went to the window, thrust his head out, and listened. While he was in this attitude, the sash fell and caught with a spring, thus holding him a close prisoner. His family had gone away on a visit, and he was alone in the house. He shouted until he was hoarse, and tried every means to extricate himself from his predicament, but it was all in vain, and he remained until morning, when he was seen by a passer-by, and relieved from his awkward position more dead than alive. He soon recovered, and beyond a stiff back and a few twinges of rheumatism, is as well as ever.

—The negroes of Alexandria, Va., have formed a Coal Protective Association, and now buy whole cargoes, at a great saving from monopolist prices. Some prominent white citizens have gladly purchased from the association.

The Indianapolis papers complain of the vast amount of scoundrels in that city, and hint at vigilance committees and "violent remedies," if they do not stop their crimes.

The Madison (Ind.) Courier says it has heard young ladies singing, "Who will care for mother now," while their old mothers were wearing themselves out in the kitchen over the family washing.

—It is proposed to hold a Planters' Convention at Montgomery, Ala., next month, to develop, by means of consultation some system of employment and remuneration for negro services, which shall be of general application.

Mosquitoes have made their appearance in London this summer for the first time. They buzz, but do not bite.

The report of Captain Moore, who was sent to Andersonville to mark the graves of Union prisoners for future identification, says he numbered and marked the graves of 12,926 of our dead soldiers, being obliged to designate only 467 as "unknown."

There are now $3,500,000 worth of boots and shoes manufactured for the trade in Chicago in a year, and the business is rapidly increasing.

In Cochin China bull races are very much in vogue. The bulls are harnessed to chariots, and run with great speed.

The New York Home Journal says: "One of our merchants living in Nineteenth street, discovered, the other day, that he had lived for two years in the same block with his brother whom he had not seen for twelve years."

—For a wedding coming off in New York, one millinery establishment has some sixty odd dresses in charge, which will cost money enough to buy thousands of acres of land in Nebraska, Dacotah, or Idaho.

—At Birmingham, England, a charwoman was cleaning some attic windows, forty feet from the pavement, and as she was leaning out, suddenly fell into the street, upon a man passing by. He was fatally injured, but she escaped unhurt.

—The Barnum and Bennett Museum property suit, of which so much was lately said in the papers, is soon to come into court. The litigation does not appear to retard the building of the new Herald office, which is still going forward.

—During the four years the present Sultan of Turkey has been on the throne, there has been as great an improvement in the financial and material state of Turkey as the disorganization which presented itself on his accession, and the internal wars of Montenegro and Syria could admit of. The revenue has increased from £10,000,000 in 1861 to near £14,000,000.

—A despatch from Toronto states that Dr. Blackburn, the yellow fever plotter, has been admitted to bail on his own recognizance, his sureties being discharged.

—A country exchange says that the first month of fall was the warmest of the summer.

—The Viceroy of Egypt, who has so quieted Egypt on the first appearance of the cholera, has just dismissed several high functionaries for having abandoned Egypt during the epidemic.

—The sorghum crop in Wisconsin this season has been a success beyond all expectations. With their improved machinery and greater experience in boiling, farmers are turning their attention more and more to this kind of cultivation.

—Miss Lucy Rushton, the new actress from England, has made a complete failure in New York.

—Mr. William Lloyd Garrison is to make a lecturing tour through the Western States, during this month and next, speaking in Chicago for the first time in his life.

—A New York paper expresses the opinion that in consideration of the plea of guilty entered by young Ketchum, he will be sentenced to only two years and a half imprisonment in the State Prison.

—The Mobile Tribune reports that a new paper, to be edited by colored men, in the interests of the colored people, is to be established in that city.

—The new king of Wurtemburg, who is as as haughty as his father was genial, has ordered the boxes on the right hand side of the opera to be reserved for the aristocracy, so that his majesty need not be subjected to the humiliation of sitting face to face with persons of plebeian birth.

—The best game for a blacksmith to play is old sledge.

London for $125.

—The incendiary who kindled the terrible conflagration in Augusta, Me., has confessed his guilt. His name is George W. Jones, and he comes from China, Me.

—The population of Paris is rapidly overtaking that of London, and has increased more rapidly. It is now over 1,700,000, whereas London must still be under 3,000,000. Formerly the difference between the capitals was much greater.

—A person styling herself "Lady" Stanley, the wife of "Sir George Isadot Stanley," lately cowhided a waiter at the Aspinwall Hotel, Panama, because he did not uncork the champagne fast enough. "Sir George" held him while "my lady" was lashing him. The landlord, with others who attempted to interfere, got their share of the punishment, until the lady relented, declaring that she had now whipped the proprietor and cowhided the waiters to her satisfaction. A crowd of about a hundred persons witnessed the performance, and declared it the best they had seen for many days. This party recently arrived in Panama from Australia. Her "ladyship" first passed herself off as the daughter of a Southern planter, and subsequently she confessed Portugese nativity. They purpose to visit the United States.

—Benjamin F. Church, who was charged with having killed, in a melee, at Jacksonville, Ill., a man named Campbell, who was disturbing a 4th of July celebration by shouting for Jeff. Davis and the Confederacy, was sentenced on Friday to two years in the Penitentiary, and was pardoned by Governor Oglesby on Saturday last.

—Charles Forsyth, a clerk on the steamer McClellan, and a son of the captain of the steamer Favorite have been arrested for robbing the mails from Lacrosse to St. Paul.

—The Board of Supervisors of New York gave notice that the taxes to be levied for the support of the city and county government for the next year will foot up nearly twenty millions! The exact figures are $19,671,099.

—A young lady was frightfully, if not fatally burned last week, having gone to sleep over her embroidery, when the candle either burned down or fell over and ignited her dress. Instead of instantly wrapping herself in the bed clothes, she ran down into the street.

—Two weeks ago there was a mysterious murder in Buffalo, N. Y., a man being found dead on the street. The case was worked up by the police, the murderer arrested at Cleveland, taken back, tried, and is now sentenced to be hung on the 24th of Nov.

—A woman in New York, while drunk, beat and frightened her husband to death. The jury found that he was a consumptive, and that her treatment "only hastened his death," and so she was discharged. Lucky murderess.

—A telegraphic despatch, of chief interest to William Jetter, (wherever found,) announces that Mrs Magdaline Jetter, of Milwaukee, Wis., was killed near Lancaster, Pa., by a railroad accident last Saturday, the 14th inst.

—A fellow in London forged bills of exchange to the amount of $20,000, and gave the entire amount to a fascinating young actress for the pleasure of her acquaintance for one day. He is in difficulty on account of it.

—Mr. Lawton Babcock, who is nearly 102 years of age, voted in Lyme, Mass., lately. He voted for Washington, and has voted at every Presidential election since.

—Bonnets worn at a theatre, when they intercept the view of the stage, give much offense to those that are prevented by them from seeing, and who often declare such bonnets ought to be cap-ured.

—A clergyman in an upper town of Vermont, joined the Masons, whereupon his church made such a rumpus that he left it in disgust.

—Gen Brisbin, commanding at Lexington, Ky., has ordered that "Whosoever shall beat with a lash, or cause any one to be beaten, within the limits of this district, except in the case of children, shall be confined at hard labor."

—Gen. Grant has submitted to the Secretary of War a list of one hundred major and brigadier generals to be mustered out of service, and has also recommended that all officers of the regular army holding positions in the volunteer service be immediately returned to their proper positions in the regular service.

—All of the wood-work in Ford's Theatre, Washington, has been removed, and workmen have nearly completed three arch floors of brick masonry, and the basement also of brick. The building will be perfectly fire-proof, and a cast-iron stairway will be erected from the first floor to the third.

—Martin Hare shot his wife, in Vicksburg, because she would not give him $100 she had saved to send for her relatives in Ireland.

—A fellow voted in Cincinnati on Tuesday by putting a revenue stamp on his ticket. Good boy.

—A wild duck flying across the track of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway was killed by being hit by the cow-catcher.

Had Him There.—A father amusing an idiot occurred on the streets on Friday last, says the Chicago Tribune, in which a shoeblack contrived at once to show off his wit and turn an honest penny. A man apparently and undoubtedly from the country, was accosted by the juvenile polisher of begrimed understandings with the usual question. The following was the colloquy:

"Black yer boots, sir?"

"No."

"Shine 'em up for a dime?"

"No."

"Black 'em for five cents?"

"No."

"I'll do 'em for nothing?"

"All right."

The young hopeful set about his word with great relish and soon had one boot in bright, shining condition. Then turning up his face to the blacker, he gravely announced, "Now you'll have to give me a quarter to do the other."

That boy will yet be somebody.

He Took the Papers.—"Sir," said a ponderous personage who undertook to bully an editor, "do you know that I take your paper?" "I've no doubt you do take it," replied the man of the quill, "for several of my honest subscribers have been complaining lately about their papers being missed in the morning."

—The two Kings that rule in America. Jo-king and Sno-king. Vive la Republique.

Esquimaux of Grinnell Bay, whose tender care of Lord Frederick Fitz William, some three years ago, when he was taken ill on board the English man-of-war "George Henry," detained in the bay, by stress of weather, on the Esquimaux coast, induced him to offer her his hand. Her maiden name was Tookolito.

Ketchum, the forger is still confined in the Tombs, and bears his fate with remarkable resignation and calmness. He continues to play the role of injured innocence, but declares with some emphasis, he is too proud to complain. His wife, it is said, has not visited him; but two or three of his fair friends in whom he was more interested than he should have been, make frequent calls at his prison quarters, consoling his captivity with their caresses and softening it with their tears. He passes much of his time in reading poetry, and indicting sentimental epistles to the dear divinities I have spoken of; while he is the frequent recipient of various perfumed, rose-lined billets assuring him that in the midst of adversity the loving heart remembers most. His cell, if it can called such, is quite pleasant, and he is liberally supplied with books and delicacies and flowers. He has no doubt whatever of his discharge by the courts, and continues to assverate that he has done nothing which can make him amenable to the law; that his "financial operations" were unfortunate, but sanctioned by custom in Wall street.

Huntington's picture of the Republican Court has been purchased from Mr. Derby by A. T. Stewart, the rich New York dry goods man, for $25,000.

Miss Harriet Lane, the niece of ex-President Buchanan, is about to be married to Mr. Henry E. Johnston, a rich banker of Baltimore.

Theodore Formes, brother of the basso, and a tenor singer of repute in Germany, has arrived in New York. He is not likely to appear in opera.

Maximilian has adopted the genuine Mexican costume, and wears his broad sombero like the balance of the people.

An exchange makes the singular statement that Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher proposes to read her husband's lectures upon invitations of Lyceums and literary associations, Mr. Beecher's health preventing him from undertaking another lecture campaign.

Gov. Pierpont of Virginia, was ejected from the Treasury department, on the 18th, for profanity, disloyalty, and conduct unbecoming a gentleman.

A memorial has been addressed to the court at Madrid, by the planters of Cuba, asking for the abolition of slavery on the island.

The Albany Journal says that the rumor that Secretary Seward informed the English government of the movements of the Fenians is false in its length and breadth; and that no correspondence has passed in which a claim has been made for such intelligence; and that the whole story is as false as it is foolish.

Charles Reade is to commence a new romance in the January "Atlantic," to be entitled "Jealousy."

It is rumored that Ole Bull will soon revisit this country.

The house of Baring Bros. & Co., of London, reached its hundredth year a few days ago.

Gov. Oglesby of Illinois, and Mr. John Phillips of Chicago, have each given $500 to the soldiers' orphans' home, located at Mattoon, Ill.

Some excitement has been occasioned in the Rev. Dr. Nehemiah ("Southside") Adams' church in Boston, by the appearance in the pulpit of a son of the pastor who had settled in Georgia, and distinguished himself there as one of the most violent of the secessionists.

The rebel General Buckner, of Kentucky has become editor of a new paper in New Orleans, called Nixon's Crescent.

Gov. Morton of Indiana is seriously ill. His disease is reported to be paralysis.

Great excitement prevails in Rome in consequence of the unflinching determination of Louis Napoleon to withdraw the French troops from the eternal city, in conformity with the stipulation to that effect in the convention, with Victor Emanuel, of September 15th. It is supposed that this may decide Pio Nono to come to a friendly arrangement with the king of Italy.

Louis Napoleon's official penny evening paper, Le Petite Moniteur, has been ordered by the Imperial censor to be silent in regard to the death of General Lamoriciere, lest the mention of that heroic warrior's name should remind the people of his life-long opposition to Imperial rule.

Mr. D. T. Patterson, son-in-law of President Johnson, and Senator elect from Tennessee to the United States Senate, held the office of Circuit Judge under the rebel rule in Tennessee, and consequently took the oath to support the Confederacy. This makes him ineligible.

Gen. Grant, the Guard and His Cigars.—On Gen. Grant's return to Washington from his two months' tour, he called at the White House in citizen's clothes. A dispatch says much amusement was created by a Lieutenant of the guard not knowing him, and asking him to remove the inevitable cigar.

Greeley Fishing.—Nearly everybody has seen in the papers the remark lately made by Horace Greeley, that he had been trying for 30 years to get time to go a fishing, but without avail. Well, Greeley has "had his time." While in this city last Saturday, he rode out with a party of gentlemen, including the writer hereof, and tried his hand in trouting. The old Philosopher enjoyed the sport wonderfully—entering into it with all the spirit and eagerness of a school boy. Grasshoppers were used as bait, and Mr. Greeley assisted in catching them, using his somewhat dilapidated hat to considerable purpose—much to the amusement of the party. Mr. Greeley's luck was rather poor, as he did not catch a trout, but consoled himself with the remark that he could "take a fried one as well as anybody," which he demonstrated at dinner, on returning.—Hudson Star.

Ex-President Jeremiah Day of Yale College, and author of numerous mathematical works, who is now in his ninety-third year, was in Hartford the other day, and astonished some of his friends by walking all about the city and up Asylum Hill. The old gentleman prefers his feet to any other mode of locomotion.

Humor.—The Chicago Journal commences a lengthy "plea for good humor," as follows:

"Our readers have remarked that we sprinkle our columns with things humorous as well as things grave and substantial. We do this on purpose, and with a purpose. We believe in "running" the cheerful, as well the cloudy side of human affairs. Life is sober, the times are stern, people are grave or mad. There is little jollity in America. It's the all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, which predominates in the American disposition. Leisure is rare, sport is rarer and laughter rarer than all. Gravity beclouds the countenances on the streets. Men look sober, and women sad. Business! Business! There is no end to business. The social circle is broken up, home is a remembered dream. Men and women meet occasionally, and but to bow and say good bye.

Art of not Quarreling.—Sensible husband: "How is it that we never quarrel, Mr. Xantippe?" Well, I will tell you. One person can't make a quarrel. Now, if I am in a quarrelsome humor, and break out, my wife remains cool and collected and don't say a word. If my wife is peevish, and displays more temper than is becoming to one of her beautiful sex, I, her husband, remain as unmoved as the monument, or else cheat myself into the belief that I am listening for the moment to some heavenly song. We only quarrel one at a time, and it is astonishing, if you leave a quarrel alone, how very soon it dies out? That's our secret, madam; and I should advise you and all Xantippes to follow it.

Rules for Sleep.—An Improvement on Hall.—1st As soon as you get in bed have Bridget hand the wash bowl to you. Then place it immediately beneath the small of your back, and you will immediately sink back into a calm slumber. It should not remain in that position long enough to produce stupor.

2nd. Try to think of something you can't remember: the more you can't think of it, the sleepier you will get.

3d. Let John or Phineas pour ice water down the sleeve of your shirt for an hour or two, while he holds a lump of assafoetida to your nose.

4th. Count two millions slowly and deliberately. You will certainly be asleep before you have counted that number.

5th. Hold a wire against the tenderest nerve of your tooth. This is infallible—patent applied for.

6th. Have your back gently smoothed with a curry comb, or read the Nation.

A Question in Pastry.—A sub-committee of a school board was examining a class in a primary school. One of the committee, to sharpen up their wits, propounded the following question:

"If I had a mince pie and should give two-twelfths to John, and two-twelfths to Harry, and two-twelfths to Isaac, and keep half the pie myself, what would there be left?"

There was a profound study among the scholars, but finally one of them held up his hand as a signal that he was ready to answer.

"Well sir, what would there be left? Speak up loud, so that all can hear," said the committee man.

"The plate," shouted the hopeful fellow. The committee man turned red in the face, while the rest of the members roared aloud. The boy was excused from answering any more questions.

An Awkward Compliment.—A wedding breakfast was recently given by a substantial farmer blessed with five daughters, the eldest being the bride, when a neighbor, a young farmer who was honored with an invitation, thinking, no doubt that he ought to say something smart and complimentary on the event, addressing the bridegroom said: "Well you've got your pick of the batch." The countenances of the four unmarried ones, as may be imagined, looked awfully indignant.

A Dangerous Case.—Some twenty years ago, a farmer's barn in the vicinity of Worcester, was struck by lightning, and burned to the ground. Many of the citizens had gone to the fire, when a fop, well strapped and dickied, with a cap on one side of his head, met a celebrated doctor, and accosted him in this wise:

"Can you, ah tell me doctah, how fah they have succeeded in extinguishing the conflagration ah, of the unfortunate yeoman's barn?"

The doctor eyed the individual attentively dropped his head as usual for a moment, and then slipping his thumb and finger into his vest pocket, took out a couple of pills and handed them to him saying:

"Take these sir, and go to bed, and if you do not feel better in the morning, call at my office."

The Difference.—A philosophical cabman in Mobile, thus speaks of the section over which his wheels make their tracks: "If you run over a youngster down here in this hereward," said he, "the folks don't say nothin'—kase they have got more children than wittles for 'em—but just run over a goat or a pig, and I'm blest if a mob ain't arter you in two minutes!"

The amount of his Bill.—The Continental folks a day or two since, hearing of the whereabouts of a guest who had decamped without going through the usual formality of paying his bill, sent him a note: "Mr. ——: Dear Sir.—Will you send the amount of your bill and oblige," etc. To which the delinquent made answer: "The amount of my bill is $80,62½. Yours respectfully."

Why She Married.—A young widow was asked why she was going to get married so soon after the death of her first husband. "Oh la!" said she, "I do it to prevent fretting myself to death on account of poor Tom."

The Erie Despatch says a wild man has been discovered in a forest in Clearfield county. He was covered all over with a copper colored down, and when caught, was able to speak but one word, "draft." He had forgotten all the rest of the English language.

—Why is a convalescent dyspeptic like a reprieved criminal?

Because he can't di-gest yet.

—Why is a man's coat larger when he pulls it off? Because he finds it in-sides.

Wild Oats.—The following charming [illegible] place of word-music, from McMillan's Magazine, probably from the pen of the celebrated novelist Miss Mulock:

When all the world is young, lad,
And all the trees are green,
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen,
Then fly for hoot and horse, lad,
And round the world away,
Young blood must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.

When all the world is old, lad,
And all the trees are brown,
And all the sport is stale, lad,
And all the wheels run down,
Creep home and take your place there,
The spent and maimed among—
God grant you find a face there
You loved when you were young.

The Letter of the Law.—Bob Conn, a newly-elected sheriff, was told by the judge in open court. Bob went to the door and shouted—

"I call court! I call court!"

"Call W. H. Jones and A. P. Moore," said the judge.

"W. H. Jones and A. P. Moore—W. H. Jones and A. P. Moore!" yelled Bob.

"One at a time, Mr. Sheriff."

"One at a time—one at a time!"

"Now you've fixed it."

"Needn't come; we've fixed it!" screamed the determined sheriff.

There was no court that day.

Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean.—A correspondent of the Missouri Democrat calls attention to "a very singular and hitherto unheard of blunder in the commonly sung and printed words of the song, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean." The first stanza is always worded thus:

"O, Columbia the gem of the ocean,
The home of the brave and the free,
The shrine of each patriot's devotion,
A world offers homage to thee,
Thy mandates make heroes assemble,
When Liberty's form stands in view,
Thy banners make tyranny tremble,
When borne by the Red, White and Blue."

The fifth and sixth of the above lines are, in fact, and a libel on Republican principles. "Thy heroes assemble voluntarily" "when Liberty's form stands in view;" they need no mandates.

The seventh and eighth lines are nonsense. How can "banners" be borne "by the Red, White and Blue?" What meaning is there in the word? We have no doubt the lines referred to were originally written thus:

"Thy banners make heroes assemble,
When Liberty's form stands in view;
Thy mandates make tyrants tremble,
When borne by the Red, White and Blue."

Thus read, the words abound in truth and patriotism. It is a shame to let so glorious a song run longer from the stupid blunder of some brainless scribbler or drunken compositor.

Mrs. Partington on Hellis.—The old lady gets off the following as the

Miscellany.

(From the Californian.)

"THE DECEITFUL FLORENTINE."

A BALLAD.

There was a fine young mariner who sailed upon the sea,
His ship it was a ship of war—a lieutenant was he;
He was a man of gallant mien, and not unknown to fame,
Of high Italian parentage, O'Reilly was his name.

This noble young Italian man made love to Anna Lee,
He said that he did worship her; and she did worship he;
But Anna Lee thought sailor men were said to fickle be,
And she cried: "O, noble Florentine, I ask a pledge of thee!"

Then spoke this noble Florentine: "My love is ever warm;
Take this, my button, I have cut it from off my uniform,
For why, it is the only one, our noble President
And very noble Commodore permits us to present."

With these deceitful words straightway he sailed across the sea,
And stopped awhile at Limerick (a town in Italy;)
And there, forgetting of his vows, and of his former flame,
He married an Italian girl, O'Connelly by name.

When Anna Lee received the news, she gave a frightful start,
[illegible]
Down deep into the deadly tube, the button rammed instead.

She shot herself; and maidens all, oh, listen unto me!
Don't trust too much in Florentines whose name is O'Reilly,
Don't trust to sailors, and if you would save your sinful souls,
Be careful when and how you make such awful button-holes!

NAPOLEON.

Grandfathers and Grandmothers.

To my thinking, the most interesting periods of human life, are the two extremes—infancy and old age. There is nothing on earth, so pure, so beautiful, so innocent, so kissable as a bright-eyed, laughing, dimpled baby; nothing except a very old man, sans eyes, sans teeth, sans taste, sans everything but a sound conscience and a good heart.

I often wish that Shakspeare had not put that speech-picture of life into the mouth of Jacques. Jacques was a melancholy man, and took a melancholy view of things. If he had not been a misanthrope, a baby might have presented itself in his mind as chuckling and crowing in it's nurse's arms, instead of mewling and puking. In like manner he might have drawn a pleasant picture of a green and happy old age, instead of insisting so much upon leanness and slippers and shrunken shanks. The seven ages, as Jacques depicts them, may be in accordance with a certain rule of life; but, for my part I have met with many a beautiful exception, and I love to dwell on them. It has been my good fortune to know many old men, who, after the toil and strife of life, retained all the innocence and simplicity of their early childhood. I have seen them—and I can see them now—sitting in their easy chairs, their gums as innocent of teeth and their heads as innocent of hair as when they lay in their mothers' laps—sitting there bidding the Lord's good time patiently and cheerfully, while sons and daughters and grandsons and granddaughters hovered about them and patted them and smoothed their pillows, and spoke to them in those simple words which seem as well adapted to the old man as to the child. There is a purifying influence in old age which we all recognize. We know that the old man has led a sinful life, but when old age comes upon him, wrinkling his brow, blanching his hair and bowing him to the earth, it seems as if he had been purified by time. I can understand why the patriarchs prayed so frequently and earnestly for length of days; prayed for life until the passions and the vanities of human nature should have passed over like a cloud, leaving the heart to beat its last throb on the peaceful shore of eternity. It always seems to me that at fourscore a man is neither in this world nor the world to come—that he is in a position between the two, and can look calmly upon both.

I wonder if I am right in my impression that very old men are generally cheerful. I hope I am; for I love to think so. It is pleasant to believe that human nature can work out its own purification on earth, and return to its original innocence, with only such sips on its head as it cannot help, and is not accountable for. Right or wrong it is the impression that most of us have of persons in extreme old age. We fondle them as we fondle children, we talk to them as we dead them about by the hand as their parents walked to them when they were first learning to walk. They need help and care now just as they needed them then. There is grandfather sitting in his chair by the fire, seeing things dimly, hearing things vaguely, as he saw and heard from his mother's knee. And as we sit by and talk of him as if he did not hear us and understand what we say. "Poor old grandfather," we say, looking towards him: "he is failing very much. He can't see to read now, even with his specs and that is a great deprivation to him. But he is cheerful for all that. Ain't you, grandfather, dear?"

And the dear old baby knows by the sound of your voice and the look you direct toward him, that you are addressing him. And he endeavors to guess your meaning, and says something in reply, accompanying it with a pleasant chuckle to signify that he is quite happy.

He drops his handkerchief or his spectacles, just as a baby drops its spoon or its ivory ring, and you go and pick them up and put them back into his old hand, patting him on his bald head, and making him comfortable in his chair. As he sits there mumbling and gazing with his viewless eyes into the fire, you wonder if that feeble old man could ever have been the restless, fidgety, madcap schoolboy, the ardent lover sighing like a furnace, the fierce soldier, bearded like a pard, full of strange oaths, seeking the bubble reputation at the cannon's mouth! Where be his pranks now, where his sighs, his big, loud voice? All these things have passed away like a dream, and in old age, he awakes again infancy!

I think it must be pleasant to sit on the shore thus and wait for the boat, not impatient for, neither dreading its coming, pleasant to hear the plash of the oars and the distant song of the rowers, as they come to bear you away to that golden land where youth is eternal. I should find it difficult to talk of old grandfathers otherwise than in this strain, for I have never known an old grandfather, who, whatever his previous life, did not wear an aspect of innocence. Age is not altogether unkind. While it withers the beauty, it also expunges the traces of evil passions. The film that comes over the eye, is a veil to hide the glare of anger; the wrinkles that score the brow are the strokes of time's pen, designed to obliterate the frown and the scowl that passion had written there so boldly. I can recall many grandfathers that were a practical testimony to the soundness of the theory which I have just broached with regard to the purifying influence of age. I remember one, a little, feeble, merry-hearted old fellow, who had been a terrible Turk in his young days. He had been passionate, imperious, violent, a constant source of trouble to his wife, and a terror to his children. When he became an old grandfather, he was transformed into the most docile creature imaginable. His own little grandchildren could rule him and make him do just as they liked.

"Do you remember, grandfather," one of them would say, "when you used to give it to your boys all round with the horsewhip?"

"No, no, my dear," he would answer, "I hope I never did that."

"Oh, but you did, grandfather, and grandmother says you used to get drunk and break the chimney ornaments."

"Oh, fie, no my dear," says the old man, "it couldn't have been me, it must have been somebody else."

And granny strikes in and affirms that he did the deed, completely smashing two china shepherdesses that had been in the family for a century. Which relation sets the old man into a fit of laughter so hearty and good humored, that you cannot conceive how he could ever have been guilty of the violent conduct imputed to him. I dare say he can scarcely believe it himself now, when age has cast the devil out of him.

I remember another grandfather whose ninety-second birthday was celebrated not many years ago, at the house of his granddaughter. He was a picture of aged innocence, gentle, patient, affectionate and docile as a child. But he had been—as he himself confessed with a sigh, "a roarer" in his day—a sad dog among the women, sir; a six-bottle man, a beater of the watch, a brawler, a swaggerer, ever ready to cut fire and resent the slightest insult with lead and steel.

And there he was, on his ninety second birthday, propped up to the table, with a napkin tied round his neck. The swaggerer who was so ready with sword and pistol, cannot now be trusted with knife and fork. His food had been cut up for him, and he is eating it with a spoon. The six-bottle man is drinking toast and water, weakly flavored with brandy from a mug. He cannot grasp a tumbler now, and finds it convenient to have a drinking vessel with a handle. He sir, and ruined so many reputations, grows faint before the feast is over, and feebly calls to his granddaughter to come and support him. And there he lies like a weak child, nestling his palsied head on her bosom—the gay Lothario!

I sometimes wonder what is meant by the commandment which says, "Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Does it mean that they who honor their father and mother will live long? Can it be that those otherwise wicked persons who live to be happy old grandfathers, attain length of days, because in their youth they honored their fathers and mothers? It is pleasant to think so; pleasant to see how bread thus early cast upon the waters, comes back after many days to the generous hand which originally bestowed it. How seldom do we meet on the highway of life with a gray-headed grandfather trudging the last miles of the journey, friendless and alone. Nearly always he has children or grandchildren by his side to ease his burden and take him by the hand and help him up when he faints by the way.

With regard to grandmothers! Is it not a fact that we are accustomed to associate a certain idea of worldliness and selfishness—of wickedness in fact—with grandmothers which does not arise in out mind when we picture to ourself an aged grandfather? We are indebted in a great measure to the novel writers for this impression; but we have no reason to question the faithfulness of the picture. We rarely have the idea of a wicked old grandfather, but we often, I am afraid, have the idea of a wicked old grandmother. There is a popular ideal of the wicked old woman in a wig, walking with a crutch stick, match-making for worldly goods, scheming, lying, telling improper stories, gambling at cards and cheating sometimes. Is it a true picture, a faithful likeness? I am afraid sometimes it is. There are good grandmothers, of course; but there are bad ones, and they are more often bad than the grandfathers. But we must make reasonable allowance for them. A man in his young and middle days can have his fling and take his fill of pleasure. He can sow his wild oats to the last grain. The wide scope of his indulgence enabled him to see the folly of things. Not so with a woman. Her young days are a period of restraint; her married life is one of subjection. If she be wickedly inclined, it is not until she becomes an old grandmother that she can have her fling. The old grandfather has done with the froward ways of the world; the old grandmother begins to take them in hand.

There are certain outward attributes of the grandmother which accord with this view of her character. While the old grandfather humbly bows his bald head or blanched hair to the stroke of Time, the old grandmother endeavors to bear up against him with a wig or false front. She is a skittish creature sometimes, and will go out into the field when the harvest is fully ripe, and coquette with the old gentleman who wields the scythe. She beguiles him to drop his gleaming blade and sid down beside her; and she is quite free with him, and taps him over his old knuckles with her fan. This grandmother tricks herself into the belief that the old man will continue polite, and will not suddenly rise up, take his weapon in hand, and cut her down with the rest. And so she goes on pursuing worldly traffic to the very last. This, of course, is only true of some old women; but it is true of them all, that they are more troubled about the world's affairs than men; that when they are disposed to any vice, they follow it with a stronger passion; that when they are the victims of any weakness, they are more completely under its influence. Avarice has been called a good old gentlemanly vice. It is rather, I think, a good old gentlewomanly vice. There is an extreme period of age when a man drops the money-bags; but a woman clings to them to the last, and will die with her fingers clutching them. Not that she is naturally more avaricious than man, but her life of dependence has filled her with an inordinate dread of poverty. She is afraid of being alone and friendless, without money.

The old man has not this dread. At a certain stage he cares little what becomes of him. He will go to the workhouse cheerfully, while the woman will, of all last resources, avoid that.

The drop of dew which glistens under the sunlight like a diamond, reveals under the microscope a mass of writhing, wriggling worms, fearsome to look at. Let us then stand a little back from our grandfathers and grandmothers. Let us shut up the microscope and view them under the sun. Going down the hill together hand in hand, they are a spectacle to fill the heart with gratitude to Heaven that such a peaceful fate is man's on earth. What a privilege for a grown man to have an aged grandfather and grandmother!—to be their stay and support in their old days; to stand by at last and close their eyes. What happiness to the aged to be thus lovingly tended, and have their own old care repaid to them. Truly, length of days are a blessed portion to old people, who live to see their children and their children's children spring up around them with a constant increase of affection—giving assurance that man can never die, and love can never fade.

AN ECCENTRIC INVENTOR.—In noticing the death of Mr. Appold, the well-known engineer, a London paper observes that the most remarkable proofs of his cleverness as an inventor were collected in his own house and the works adjoining it. There everything that could be made so was automatic. The doors opened as you approached them, and closed after you had entered; water came unbidden into the basins; when the gas was lighted the shutters closed; a self-acting thermometer prevented the temperature rising or falling above or below certain fixed points; and the air supplied for ventilation was both washed to cool and screened to cleanse it from blacks. Even the gates of his stable-yard opened of themselves as he drove through, and closed again without slamming.

A TASTE for reading will always carry you into the best possible company, and enable you to converse with men who will instruct you by their wisdom, and charm you by their wit—who will soothe you when fretted, refresh you when weary, counsel you when perplexed, and sympathise with you at all times.

DR. ORESTES A. BROWNSON has presented by a number of his friends with a life annuity of $1,000, mainly at the suggestion of the Rev. Isaac Thomas Hecker, the founder of the congregation of St. Paul the Apostle.

The Wrong Side of the Curve.

AN EX-ENGINEER'S STORY.

Among the many incidents that during the late rebellion were connected with that great national artery, the Baltimore and Ohio Railway, is one that I will relate.

In the fall of 1861, having been detained by business in the town of Cumberland, Md., I was at last about to start for Wheeling, when I learned by a despatch that the road was occupied below Harper's Ferry by a force of rebels, and therefore no train would pass.

This proved to be true in reference to ordinary trains, but a "special" with which was the Hon. Mr. Pierpont, and a few other notabilities, had passed before the rebels cut the track, and was therefore approaching. On inquiry, I found that the engineer of the coming train had been one of my old chums ere I had discarded engine-driving for a more profitable business. My friend Joe M—— was a cool, bold, skilful engineer, and as generous as reckless of danger.

As I expected, I no sooner saw him and stated my wish to go up the road, than he swore that, special or no special, I should ride with him, if for nothing but to see the [illegible]

As we dashed rapidly along and were passing through Black Oak Bottom, a couple of ill-looking fellows in citizen's dress fired at the engineer, but doing no damage, merely provoked a laugh of derision from him for their want of marksmanship. On arriving at Oakland, Md., we were disagreeably surprised by receiving a telegram informing us that a party of rebels were making extraordinary haste to reach the railway at a point many miles ahead of us. Also, they seemed to know who the special train contained, and would therefore use all endeavors to capture or kill us.

There was but one car behind the engine, and in it was briefly discussed the question of go or stay, while Joe was having the tender re-filled with wood and water.

Mr. Pierpont's business was too urgent to admit of any possible delay; two or three others concluded to risk the trip, and I—well, if it's not too egotistical to say so—I had run risks on railways too often to back out because there was danger ahead, while the rest concluded to stay and trust to luck for the opportunity of getting away.

Just as we were about to start, the fireman making a misstep on the "running board," fell and struck the ground with such force as to break his arm. Joe hurriedly picked up the poor fellow, but time was precious just then, so leaving him in care of the gentlemen who had accompanied us, he started directly toward me, asking me to come and "run" for him, as, having no fireman, he would have more than he could do. I told him, however, to consider me his fireman for the rest of the trip as he was best acquainted with the road, so without any more ado I doffed my coat, we jumped on and away we went, past hamlets, through wildernesses of stunted bushes, up grade and down hill, at a speed rarely equalled. Our light train made firing an easy task for me, and I had frequent leisure to scan the beautiful ranges of the Alleghanies along which we skirted. Joe was sitting as was usual with him, with his left hand on the throttle-lever, and his body half out of the side window of the "cab," that he might the better scan the track ahead.

A few miles south of the famous Cheat River Bridge is a deep mountain gorge, with precipitous rocky sides.

It is shaped like an hour-glass, wide at each end, but tapering each way toward the middle. The track runs for quite a distance along one side of the gorge, makes a very abrupt turn to cross the chasm, a very deep one, in a straight line, and then, still curving inwardly, follows the gorge in a line nearly parallel with the track on the opposite side, for three-fourths of a mile.

We were pitching along with that peculiar rocking, bounding motion, so different from the jar of ordinary fast speed. As we swept to the top of a grade around the side of a hill that commanded a view of the gorge—Joe and I both on the lookout—we saw, at a moment's glance, enough to make us concentrate our thinking faculties, and act in a hurry whatever was best to be done.

There, on the straight track, just at the near end of the gorge, a lot of men, in gray uniform, were hastily piling up some old ties, logs, etc.; while at the point where the curve was sharpest—before reaching the gorge—were several more, tugging furiously at a rail, one end of which seemed to baffle them, as they pulled it outwards. We were within a mile of them when we discovered them, and as each noticed them, the shout came simultaneously from both of us—"The wrong side of the curve!" The ignorant fools were pulling out the inside rail instead of the outside. In the latter case nothing could have saved us from running off the track, and probably into the gorge. Our single brakesman, seeing the danger—I suppose from habit—was commencing to tighten the brake, but at a look from Joe I signaled "off brakes," Joe meanwhile opening the throttle to its widest extent as we dashed down the grade at a positively frightful velocity.

As we neared them, a party of them huddled together near the track. I seized a large stick of wood, intending, if possible, to hurt "somebody." We were going altogether too swift to fear their taking aim at us; and for that matter, I suppose they considered our destruction such a certainty that firing at us would be needless. I was poising the big stick of wood, and guessing at the rate of speed—I've had some practice in throwing parcels from trains in motion—when Joe suddenly pulled the whistle rope. The hoarse shriek seemed to startle them for an instant; they huddled closer together, and I tossed the stick outwards and downwards. I had barely time to see it crash through the group with the force of a thunderbolt, when, with a jarring plunge, the wheels on one side struck the naked ties. That part of the trouble we had feared but little, as the impetus of the engine was almost sure to make it mount the track again. On the track again, but a few rods ahead of us was the formidable barricade, and beyond that the yawning chasm. Joe was standing up now, with eyes blazing, still holding the throttle wide open, as he braced himself for the shock. I had grasped the brake-rod of the tender the instant I threw the piece of wood. Crash!—my hold didn't avail me, and I was pitched head over heels against the fire-box, and laid flat on my back on the foot-board or floor of the engine.

Joe was as suddenly jerked half around, [illegible] back striking a little door in front of where he had stood, breaking the door and shivering the glass to atoms. But we were through; how, we couldn't tell, except that we were still on the track, and thundering over the gorge. Joe's spirits rose with the occasion. Extricating himself almost as suddenly as he had been deposited in the little glass door, he jerked a tin flask from his pocket, sprung on top of the tender, and from thence to the roof the cab. Steadying himself for moment, with his face toward the rebels, he shouted "good-bye," and then made them a low bow, and took a drink, perfectly regardless of the white puffs of smoke, as one after another discharged their pieces at him, as he afterwards explained, "the engine made too much noise for him to hear the bullets, and they didn't seem to be hitting anybody."

After having, in spite of sore bones, performed a jig which he had extemporized for that occasion for the express edification of the rebs, Joe descended from his perch, and deliberately shutting off steam, stopped.

We were still in sight of them, though at a tolerably safe distance, and now saw a group of them standing near several men who had been wounded, perhaps some killed, by that "irrepressible" stick of wood.

Our damages were a few bruises each, but no serious hurts. Our engine suffered the loss of the pilot or cow-catcher and headlight, the front of the smoke-box was stove in, besides sundry dents and bruises on the brass casings of the cylinders; but for running purposes absolutely uninjured, the rebels having piled logs squarely across the top of the track, the point of the cow-killer had gone under them, and, though broken by the shock, had raised them sufficiently to keep them from under the wheels, while the engine dashed them right and left into the gorge.

The rebels seeing us stop, started in pursuit, but as we found nothing serious to impede our further progress, and, as in their case, "distance lent enchantment to the view," we were off again in high spirits, and without further adventure worth recounting, arrived safely at our destination.

Poor Joe, after being shot at so often as to have acquired a sovereign contempt for rebel bullets, was shot dead, about a year ago, while running a government engine near Chattanooga.

THE INFANT'S DREAM.

Oh! cradle me on thy knee, Mamma,
And sing me that holy strain
That soothed me last night as you fondly pressed
My glowing cheek to your soft white breast;
For I saw a sight as you sung me to rest,
That I fain would see again.

And smile as you then did smile Mamma,
And sing as you then did sweet:
Then rock me gently and sing and sigh,
Till you lull me fast asleep.

For I dreamed a heavenly dream, Mamma,
While slumbering on thy knee;
And I lived in a land where forms divine
In kindoms of glory eternally shine,
And the world I'd give if the world were mine,
Again that land to see.

Then sing, for I fain would sleep, Mamma,
And dream as I dreamed before;
For sound was my slumber, and sweet was my rest
While my spirit in the kingdom of life was a guest,
And the heart that has throb'd in the climes of the blest,
Can love this world so more.

Squire Pitman's Peaches.

Squire Pitman was sitting in his library, looking over the evening paper, when a noise was heard at the door, and Reuben and the gardener appeared, each with a boy.

"Here they are, sir," said James.

"We've caught 'em," said Reuben.

"Bless my soul," said the squire, "and what are their names?"

"This one is Tom Grey, and the other one is Frank Green."

"Very well, you may leave the young gentlemen here with me."

"Yes, sir."

Rather reluctantly Reuben and James let go their hold of our young adventurers, and [illegible]

Frank looked sideways at the [illegible] expecting to be seized and shaken, or [illegible] receive a severe scolding. What was their surprise when the old gentleman came forward very pleasantly, and said—

"Boys, I am very happy to see you. I like to receive visits from young people, though I think it better in such cases for them to come through the gate and not get over the fence, as they are liable to tear their clothes."

Frank looked down at his torn trowsers in a little bewilderment.

"Pray, sit down," said the squire, very politely.

Tom and Frank sat down on the corners of two chairs, evidently ill at ease.

"How old are you, Thomas? I believe that is your name"

"Twelve, sir."

"And you, Frank?"

"I am twelve, too."

"And I am seventy. It was really kind in you to come and call upon an old gentleman like me. But the evenings are short; you ought to have come earlier."

Tom looked at Frank in silent wonder. He didn't know what it all meant. If he had been shaken up, that he would have understood, but the squire's manner puzzled him completely.

"Are you fond of fruit, Thomas?" asked the squire innocently.

"Ye-es," said Tom, a little uneasily.

"Do you like it, too, Frank?"

"Pretty well," said Frank, who was a little afraid of committing himself.

"So I suppose. Most boys do."

Squire Pitman rose from his seat and rang the bell.

"You may bring in some plates and knives and lay them on the table," said he to the servant.

This was done. Next the old gentleman went to the closet and brought out a basket of peaches.

"I generally keep a little fruit," he remarked, "to treat friends who are kind enough to call on me. Help yourselves."

The wondering boys did so, and commenced eating. They wondered whether the shaking would come up after the peaches were eaten. Even if it did, they would have the satisfaction of eating them.

"Do you like them?" asked the squire, who seemed to enjoy seeing the boys eat.

"Yes, sir," said Tom, "they're rip-top."

"I'm glad you think so. I have several peach trees in my garden., James, the gardener, was telling me that there was some danger of boys getting in and robbing the trees, but I don't have any fears on that score."

Here Tom and Frank exchanged glances.

"If any of the boys want fruit, I know they would prefer to come and ask me for it, or drop in and make a friendly call, as you are doing. By the way, wouldn't you like to carry home some peaches?"

"Yes, sir," said the boys, hesitatingly.

"If you had something to put them in—"

"I've got a handkerchief," said Tom.

"And I've got a bag," said Frank.

"Bless my soul, how thoughtful you were to bring a bag! It will be just the thing. You're welcome to the peaches in that basket if you can stow them away."

"We are very much obliged to you," said Tom gratefully.

"Oh, don't say a word. It is a mere trifle, and I like to make some acknowledgment for your kind call. Will you call and see me again?"

"Yes, sir, if you should like it."

"I should be most happy to have you come. I get lonely sometimes, and young company cheers me up. Perhaps, though, you had better come to the door, as it is a little dangerous climbing over fences," added the old gentleman a little slyly.

The boys laughed a little consciously, and were shown to the door, Squire Pitman shaking them both by the hand, and kindly repeating his invitation.

"Ain't he a trump?" ejaculated Frank, when the door closed behind them.

"That's so. I felt awful mean to have him treat me so, when I had come after his peaches."

"So did I. You won't catch me in such business again."

The story of the boys' visit to Squire Pitman leaked out, and made quite a sensation among the school-boys. It was unanimously agreed that it would be the height of meanness to make any further attemps upon the property of one who had treated their companions so handsomely. The gardener kept watch for a few nights, but from that time Squire Pitman's trees were as safe as if a bull-dog had been chained at the foot of every tree.—Student and Schoolmate.

THE Raleigh Progress gives the following dialogue.

Army Chaplain—"My young colored friend, can you read?"

Contraband.—"Yes sah."

Army Chaplain.—"Glad to hear it; shall I give you a paper?"

Contraband.—"Sartin, massa, if you please."

Army Chaplain.—Very good. What paper would you choose?"

"Contraband.—"Well massa, if you chews I'll take a paper of tobacker."

The chaplain looked at the contraband and the contraband looked at the chaplain; then the latter sighed and passed on.

Poetry in Undress.

An English paper which rejoices in the name of "Ladies' Own," thus plays tricks with rhyme and reason: "It is many years since I fell in love with Jane Jerusha Skegge, the handsomest country girl by far that ever went on legs. By meadow, creek, and wood, and dell, so often did we walk, and the moonlight smiled on her melting lips, and the slight winds learned our talk. Jane Jerusha was all to me, for my heart was young and true, and loved with a double and twisted love, and a love that was honest too. I rosmed all over the neighbors' farms and I robbed the wildwood bowers, and tore my trousers and scratched my hands, in search for the choicest flowers. In my boyish love, I brought all these to my Jerusha Jane; but I wouldn't be so foolish now, if I were a boy again. A city chap that came along, all dressed up in fine clothes, with a shiny hat and a shiny vest, and a mustache under his nose. He talked to her of singing schools, (for her father owned a farm), and she left me, the country love, and took the new chap's arm. And all that night I never slept, nor could I eat next day, for I loved that girl with a fervent love that nought could drive away. I strove to win [illegible] sha Jane. And my poor heart was sick and sore, until the thought struck me, that just as good fish still remained, as ever were caught in the sea. So I went to the Methodist Church one night, and sa a dark brown curl peeping from under a gypsy hat and I married that very girl. And many years have passed and gone, and I think my loss my gain; and I often bless that hairy chap, that stole Jerusha Jane."

WORDS FOR POOR BOYS.—When I was a boy of twelve years, I was working for twenty-five cents a week for an old lady, and I tell you I had my hands full; but I did my word faithfully. I used to bring water and cut wood, and scrub and scour mornings for the old lady, before the real work of the day commenced. My clothes were bad, and I had no means of buying shoes, so I was often barefooted. One morning I got through my work early, and the old lady who thought I had not done it, or was specially ill-humored then, was displeased and scolded me, and said I was idle and had not worked. I said I had. She called me a "liar." I felt my spirits rise against this, and standing erect I indignantly told her that she would never have the chance of applying that word to me again. I walked out of the house to re-enter it no more. I had not a cent in my pocket when I stepped out into the world. What do you suppose I did then, boys? I met a countryman with a team. I addressed him boldly and earnestly, and offered to drive the leader if he would only take me on. He looked at me in surprise, but said he did not think I would be of any use. "Oh, yes I will," said I. "I can rub down and watch your horses, and do many things for you if you will only let me try." He no longer objected. I got on the horse's back. It was hard traveling, for the roads were bad, and we could only get on at the rate of twelve miles a day. This however was my starting point. I went ahead after this. An independent spirit, and steady, honest conduct, with what capacity God had given me—as he has given you—has carried me successfully through the world. Don't be down hearted at being poor and having no friends. Try and try again. You can cut your way through if you live, so please God. I know it is a hard time with some of you. You often are hungry and wet with rain and snow, and it seems dreary to have no one in the city to care for you. But trust in Christ, and he will be your friend. Keep of good heart, and be determined to make your way honestly and truly in the world. As I said, I feel for you because I have gone through it all—I know what it is. God bless you.—Preacher.

THE incident related above, must have been invented by "Preacher," or perhaps some one has given the wrong credit. But the anecdote is a veritable one that happened to the lamented Gen. Ormsby M. Mitchell in his early days and in his native state, Kentucky.

Mexico and Bonaparte.

The second volume of the miscellaneous writings of Louis Napoleon, contains the following reply of Joseph, the elder brother of the first Napoleon, to a deputation of Mexican Spaniards, who waited upon him about forty years ago, during his majesty's residence at Bordentown, New Jersey, for the purpose of offering to him the throne of Mexico:

"I have worn two crowns, and do not feel disposed to wear a third. Nothing could be more flattering than this offer, proceeding as it does from those who denied my authority at Madrid, whilst I was king of Spain, and who, now when I am in exile, desire me to become emperor of Mexico. But I do not think that the throne which you propose to build up, will be conducive to your prosperity. Every day which I pass on the hospitable soil of the United States assures me more and more of the excellent fitness of Republican institutions so far as the American continent is concerned. Preserve, therefore the most precious blessing of providence. Put an end to your internal dissent. Emulate the example of the United States, and select from the ranks of your fellow citizens some one who is more competent than I am to perform the great part of Washington."

THE EDITOR.

Unceasing he works—he's never at rest,
For the world unsated with news,
Keeps asking for more, the latest and best,
He cannot—he will not refuse.

Big sermons and speeches, stories and rhymes,
With items both ancient and new;
Suiting the people and suiting the times,
He must faithful and constant review.

Not only deals he in subjects profound;
His reason must mingle with fun;
The world will laugh and the joke go round
When the editor scribbles a pun.

And last but not least, year in and year out,
He dunns his subscribers for pay,
And for the dollar you owe him, no doubt
The poor fellow is starving to-day

FAMILY COURTESIES.—In the family, the law of pleasing ought to extend from the highest to the lowest. You are bound to please your children; and your children are bound to please each other; and you are bound to please your servants, if you expect them to please you. Some men are pleasant in the household and nowhere else. I have known such men. They are good fathers and kind husbands. If you had seen them in their own house you would have thought they were angels, almost; but if you had seen them in the street, or in the store, or anywhere else out of the house, you would have thought them almost demoniac. But the opposite is apt to be the case. When we are among our neighbors, or among strangers, we hold ourselves with self-respect, and endeavor to act with propriety; but when we get home we say to ourselves: "I have played a part long enough, and I am now going to be natural." So we sit down, and we are ugly and snappish and blunt and disagreeable. We lay aside those thousand little courtesies that make the roughest floor smooth, that make the hardest thing like velvet, and that make life pleasant. We expend all our politeness where it will be profitable—where it will bring silver and gold.

A WARNING TO LADIES.—Tattle begins with T.

Josh Billings Discourses Concerning Men of Big Genius.

A big genius is generally a phool; he knows how to do one or two things so much that he ain't fit for anything else; he is like a greyhound, good for running fast, that's all. You kant larn him enny more than you can an eagle; he knows how to fly up and look at the sun without winken, because he was born so, and when he gets up on the peke of the mountain and gets well lit, you kant go tew him, ner he won't come tew you, but there he sets till the dinner bell rings. After dinner he flies off again, and you won't see him till supper time. The are like mummeys, very curis kritters, and kepe a long time without spiling. If they only had common sense, so that you could make talkers or shoemakers of them, there would be some sense in having the breed more plenty; but one or two is all that is profitable to have on hand tew one, and the are enough to keep enny body uneasy about what the are going tew dew next. They live about 40 yeres ahead of the times, and when the world ketches up with the last one, another is born, who spends most of his time in digging up the old bones that the last one buried. About the only thing they kno enny common sense in is, that they most always die to dent [illegible] about having a big genius on hand, is that so many try to imitate them, but they don't generally get any farther up than their vices, and thus one big genius suckles a thousand phools. They don't generally live happy, because the ain't built right to fit things as they find them. The ought to have a grate place tew stop in, where there ain't nothing but big generalitys to dew, and whare tha kan play tost and ketch with the stars, and krack butternuts and mountains. Tha are curious critters.

Tha ain't afraid to straddle a hurry kane without enny bridle on, and stick in the spurs, but a mice nibblin' in the wanescut will drive him bareheaded into the street. They can plant, but they won't kultivate nor reap.

If I was a woman, I would as soon marry a porcupine as a big genius; they are neither as hot az the stove in the districkt skule house, or az kold and unfeeling az the shoes on a dead omnibus hoss. A genius iz like a big comet, that appears onse about so often, and makes everybody nervis, and then disappears, and though we may not at the time be able to put our fingers on the identical good tha have dunn us, still their visit is a big one, and the grate reservoys are pumped up fuller, and we poor men, the rest ov us, when we stick in our little fountains, find that the waters have been freshened and sweetened by sumbody.

Storing Roots for Winter.

I have been storing roots for a number of years, and have tried various ways of keeping them in winter, and have found that by burying them in the field, they will come out better in the spring than any way I have tried. If there is no danger of water getting in the heap, I make a long one in the middle of my batch of roots; after pulling a few rows, I take the horses and plow, and make a trench by turning a furrow each way. The roots can be wheeled in from each way, or hauled in a cart. After topping the heap to the requisite height I put a little straw on and then about six inches of earth—this is spanked down; about every eight feet I stand a wisp of straw upright for chimneys, to let dampness escape, as they will sweat. Before freezing weather, I haul some long manure and put on the heap.

A long heap has this advantage—you can work at each end, and over the middle; and when you take them out upon one end only, and after taking out what you want, throw some of the manure on to prevent their freezing. Should there be danger of water, I put a heap on top of the ground; this takes a little more time to cover them. I have had as much as five hundred bushels of turnips in a heap of this kind. Carrots and ruta-bagas I bury in the same way.—Cor. Germantown Telegraph.

GETTING MARRIED.—A rather laughable transaction took place a week or two ago in the town of Dewitt, Clinton county, Michigan in which love and business are so intermixed that it requires an adept to distinguish between the two. A milk-safe peddler called at a house to sell a "safe." The woman informed him that she was a widow, and would much rather have a man (safer.) The peddler informed her that, if she would take a safe he would send her a man. She took it, and the peddler went on his way rejoicing. He soon met a man who he ascertained had no bosom companion, and directed him to the widow. Going on, he called at a house to sell a safe, and was informed that the man was a widower, and would prefer a wife. He told him if he would take a safe he would direct him to where he could get a woman. He took the safe and the peddler directed him to the same widow. When he reached her, he was about an hour too late, the first having just secured the prize. The kind-hearted woman, however, sent him to a second woman, whom he secured; and both loving couples were married that afternoon.—Exchange.

MANURE MUST BE CHANGED.—It is known that green manure, or manure fresh from the stables will not do to apply to crops. This manure must in all cases be changed before it is thus applied. It must be decomposed (rotted). It is then plant-food, and may be applied directly, either as top-dressing, or otherwise. In the liquid form it is the same thing. The juices themselves must be decomposed. Hence we see the injury which grass receives on the application of fresh night-soil, or any fresh manure in the liquid form.

But the green manure may be plowed in to great advantage where a fallow is made. Plow in with the first or second plowing, leaving time for the action of the heat and air upon the manure. It is excellent to mix thoroughly with the soil if not plowed to deep, or with the top soil. We have never known it to fail in such case. On very poor soil it always has a wonderful effect.—Coleman's Rural World.

IMPORTANT.—Bells will prevent the depredations of dogs among your sheep.

A dog that knows enough to kill sheep, also known enough to be still and sly about it. The great noise caused by a number of bells, makes him fear for his safety, and he leaves without doing any damage. The bells would also bring the friends of the sheep to their rescue. A dozen bells in a flock of fifty or seventy five sheep would be ample. In a flock of twelve sheep, half of them should wear bells. Bells will protect your woolly herds.—Amer. Ag.

GEORGE BUTLER presented us with three apples the other day, taken from a tree in his brother's orchard, which were a novelty indeed—their blow end being excellently sweet, and their stem being a decided acid. Between the ends was every variety of flavor. The tree produces the same style of fruit every year. The fruit beats anything in our previous apple experience.—Waukegan (Ill.) Gazette.

WE are told from France that all the remarkable features of the season of 1811, have been repeated in 1865 in the French vineyards. The grapes have been so plentiful, and the juice so abundant, that large quantities of wine have been wasted in consequence of the want of casks in which to store it.

THE Sandusky (O.) Register states that twenty tons of grapes were brought from Kelley's Island and shipped to the east in a single day, and still the picking on the islands had hardly commenced

Business Notice.

Lamps and Glassware.—The introduction of kerosene has created a trade in itself in the many forms of lamps and lanterns designed for using it. Among the largest houses in Chicago which make this trade a specialty, is that of N. F. Merrill, known to a host of consumers as a liberal and courteous dealer. One of the most fascinating inventions, however, for the utilization of kerosene, is Fish's new Patent Cooking Lamps, a great variety of which he has on exhibition and sale. His stock of hotel and table glassware is very full, and comprises every variety of plain and fancy ware. Mr. Merrill will be glad to welcome his many country friends who may visit the city. It always affords Mr. Merrill a pleasure to show strangers through his establishment, which, by the way, is a treat of itself. He occupies a large building, 200 feet deep, fronting on Randolph and Couch place, five stories from bottom to top, crammed with all that heart could desire to his line. Give him a call.

New Advertisements.

Cash House!
Immense Stock!
N. F. MERRILL,

Kerosene Lamps.
Kerosene Lanterns.
Kerosene Chandeliers.
Kerosene Chimneys.
Kerosene Burners.
Kerosene Wicks.
Kerosene Cooking Lamps.

and Coal Oil Goods of every Description.

Hotel & Table Glassware.

A local Agent wanted in every town in the North-West, for

Fish's new Patent Kerosene Cooking Lamps.

Orders from the trade solicited and promptly filled

71 and 73 Randolph Street, Chicago.
P. O. Box 5854.

SECOND EDITION
JUST PUBLISHED.

Matrimony Made Easy;
—OR—
How to Win a Sweetheart or Lover.

If any young Lady or Gentleman wishes to know the only true way to begin a love correspondence, should send at once for my great book, if you wish to speak your mind in a tardy, bashful way to your love, and marry whoever you wish my book tells exactly how it should be done. It also tells you how to write and arrange love letters that you may send to your love, and win the affection every time to Courtship and Marriage. It tells you how you can become rich without hard labor, and be successful in all of your undertakings, with many valuable receipts, worth ten times the price of the book to whose hands it may fall. This book is handsomely bound in gilt muslin. Sent by mail to any address, post paid, for the small sum of One Dollar.

Send all orders to

C. L. BRIGGS, Publisher,
No. 144 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

P. S.—I will send it carefully sealed as a letter for Twenty-Five Cents extra.

DR. BRIGGS' ORIENT,
FOR CURLING
—AND—
BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR.

By using this article, ladies and gentlemen can beautify themselves a thousand fold. This Orient is the only article in the world that will curl straight hair, and at the same time give it a beautiful glossy appearance. It makes the hair soft and glossy. It also invigorates, beautifies and cleanses; is highly and delightfully perfumed, and will in no manner interfere with the natural softness of the hair. It neither scorches nor dries it up, but gives it a soft, healthy appearance. This

One of the Large es
ESTABLISHMENT
In Southern michigan
One of the best filled Establishments!

A LARGE STOCK.

Most Varied
Stock of Furniture
Is to be found at
Wemple & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE
NEW BUILDING,
South Side Chicago St., Tecumseh,

Great Bargains
Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various Styles and Prices
OF SOFAS,
TETE-A-TETES,
MAHOGANY, EASY,
WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT
AND ROCKING CHAIRS
FRENCH, COTTAGE,
COMMON AND TRUNDLE,
BEDSTEADS,
MARBLE TOP,
WRITING, CARD AND
TEA TABLES,

Wheat Nets, Cradles, Bureaus, Cribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notice by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,
At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pictures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired

D. VAN TINE,
G. SMITH.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, MICH

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the business. If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n706 A. JAMES.

☞ Now is an excellent and fitting opportunity for subscribing for the HERALD

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deuel & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO,
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything
that anybody or his
brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We will not be undersold, and we will pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL.

As all our neighbors know

NEW DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just received from New York, and is now opening a new stock of

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c

all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hoad's, north side of Chicago street.

L. DREW'S
NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass, Window Sashes,

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools
Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps,
Belts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE.

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron, and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country. Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

the easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

Now in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour sift.

Old Customers

invite others to try and see

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

to having it ground, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand, a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd best Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Middlings, B. W. Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. W. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE. They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S
WARE-HOUSE,

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Salt.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL,

Corn In the Ear and Shelled.

A good assortment of the kinds of Lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL
At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm. HAYDEN

WARD & STRICKLAND,

Are now Receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

The Science of Health!
Every Man his own Physician.
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS,
AND
HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

Disorders of the stomach [illegible] bowels.

The Stomach is the great centre [illegible] the health or the disease of the [illegible] or debilitated by excess—indigestion [illegible] and physical prostration are the usual [illegible] consequences. Allied to the brain, it is the source of headaches, mental depression, acrious complaints and unrefreshing sleep. The liver becomes affected and generates bilious disorders, pains in the side &c. The Bowels sympathize by Costiveness, Diarrhœa and Dysentry. The principal action of these Pills is on the stomach, and the liver, lungs, bowels and kidneys participate in their recuperative and regenerative operation.

Erysipelas and Salt Rheum.

Are two of the most common and virulent disorders prevalent on this continent, to these the Ointment is especially antagonistic. Its modus operandi is direct to eradicate the venom and then complete the cure.

Bad Legs, Old Sores, and Ulcers,

Cases of many years' standing, that have perilously resisted to yield to any other remedy or treatment, have invariably succumbed to a few applications of this powerful unguent.

Eruptions on the Skin,

Arising from a bad state of the blood or chronic diseases, are eradicated and a clear and transparent surface regained by the restorative action of this Ointment. It surpasses many of the cosmetics and other toilet appliances in its power to dispel rashes and other disfigurements of the face.

Female Complaints.

Whether in the young or old, married or single, at the dawn of Womanhood, or the turn of life, these tonic medicines display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible in the health of the patient. Being a purely vegetable preparation they are safe and reliable remedy for all classes of females in every condition of health and station of life.

Piles and Fistula.

Every form and feature of these persistent and stubborn disorders is eradicated beneath and entirely by the use of this Ointment, warm fomentations being followed by its application. By healing qualities will be found to be thorough and invariable.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bunions,	Mercurial Eruptions,	Swelled Glands
Corns,	Burns,	Piles,
Sore Legs,	Stiff Joints,	Chapped Hands
Tetter,	Rheumatism,	Sore Breasts,
Chilblains,	Ringworm,	Sore Heads,
Ulcers,	Tetanus,	Sore Throats,
Gout,	Salt Rheum,	Scalds,
Lumbago,	Scurvy of all kinds,	Skin Diseases,
Wounds of all kinds,

CAUTION.—None are genuine unless the words "Holloway, New York and London," are discernable as a Water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box, the same can be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

☞ Sold at the manufactory of Professor Holloway 80 Maiden Lane, New York and by all respectable Druggist and Dealers in Medicine, throughout the civilized world.

☞ There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

D. NOTEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases, will visit Tecumseh the

1st & 2d of Every Month,

for Consultation with patients. Cancers and Scrofulous Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Incipient Consumption cured in three to five months. Liver Complaint, Dispepsia, and Constipation cured in 2 to 4 months. Piles, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs yield readily to his treatment. Prolepsus Uteri he is master of. Charges reasonable according to ability to pay: the really poor will be treated gratis. He will be at Comstock & Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence on Budding Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars (See Circulars.

DENTISTRY

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices

---

F. R. Stebbins,
Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FURNITURE,
WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE
PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point

STEBBINS' FURNITURE ROOMS.
Adrian, Mich. n742tf

Advantages of this Plow,

It will last from three to six times longer than any other steel Plow made anywhere in any body. This has often been proved by actual trial, "fairly with, continually to be found on the almighty of success in the West, in which dissatisfied Plows have been immediately sent through." In plowing eighty acres, it having already blown every three hundred acres of the same old stubble not being half worn.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed. If there is a spot of ground anywhere in which it will not scour, we have yet to find it.

It draws lighter than any other Plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, or a Point welded on, as readily as an ordinary Plows, by any blacksmith who understands his trade, as the steel is perfectly malleable and works kindly.

Any section can be replaced by a [illegible] Share. Landsides [illegible]

It is well stocked with New England second-growth timber, and the standard is wrought iron, with "share" in the cap so as to give or take hand at pleasure.

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, works perfectly in either stubble or turf, leaves a clean furrow, and turns under stubble and foul trash completely.

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the world, just as sure as there is economy in paying fifty dollars once, rather than five dollars five or six times over — in not losing time and your temper because your Plow won't "scour" — and in doing a quarter or a fifth more work, with the same power. The quality and quantity of work it will secure to perform must be considered, as well as the cost price, in determining whether or not the Plow is cheap. Plows are used for profit, and the one out of which twelve solid dollars and cents can be got, in proportion to its cost, is the cheapest, and we are confident a man can get more than a hundred dollars worth of "Plow" work every time for one line of these.

These remarks are made after a familiarity with the merits of most of the good Plows in use in the West, many of which have justly earned a good reputation.

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for stubble and foul ground, heretofore we have had only the "C" pattern designed for both, turf and stubble. The "B" and "C" patterns together will enable us, to meet the views of all as to shape, and give them either "solid" or "lean" plows as they prefer.

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Slayton, Tecumseh.

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula, given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chapin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these maladies or diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They are a good tonic for loss of appetite.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable.

Any person and all persons doubting this, can have large demonstration by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in [illegible] with our name blown on the side, and our signature on the label, stamp across the cork.

For Medicinal and Table wine, which are perfectly pure, and need only to be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our name, label or cork, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

☞ Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the world. Circulars with testimonials, &c. &c. furnished on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,
No. 21 River Street Chicago

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!
IN FULL BLAST!
T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co., that he is still located in the Brick Shop on Railroad Street, Where he is now turning out the Nicest, Best and Strongest, WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and save your orders.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young americe. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days. I

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap. Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, woolen and Straw

HATS, CAPS!

Gloves, Hosiery, Traveling Bags, &c.

It is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, being a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware
EMPORIUM
FOR SOUTHERN MICH
Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands
Also a splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions,

Looking glasses

Of all sizes, kinds and prices,

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil:

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can.

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL,

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Tuesday the 31 day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five

Present, Robert R Beecher, Judge of Probate In the matter of the estate of Thomas P. Smith, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Louis O. Smith and Eliza Smith praying that letters of administration of said estate may be granted to Edwin Smith of Clinton, Lenawee County.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 13th day of November next, at 10 o'clk in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a Session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted:

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R. BEECHER, Judge of Probate
(A true copy) n767w4

Get the Genuine Article!

STRAIGHTFORWARD dealings in every department of its extended business, from the receipt of a premium to the payment of a loss, has rendered the name of

PHŒNIX
OF HARTFORD,

As familiar as any household word; and from far East sunrise to the golden shores of the Pacific slope, its eminent usefulness as an Insurance Corporation has been thoroughly tried and satisfactorily tested. It is now better than ever prepared for service and duty in the line of its profession, with increased facilities for the transaction of business.

WESTERN BRANCH,
No. 24 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
H. M. MAGILL, General Agent.
Policies issued promptly, by
S. C. STACY, Resident Agent.

IC. H. ADAM & CO.,
DEALERS IN
DRY GOODS,
Yankee Notions, &c.,
No. 2 Mechanics' Block,
oct 2tf TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX

COPAR TNIRSHIP!

A. Hood & Co.

Are now receiving at the Old Stand of A. Hood, Anderson's Block,

A LARGE STOCK

—OF—

NEW GOODS

Direct from New York consisting of

Ready Made Clothing!

A splended assortment of THE LATEST STYLES of cloths that could be found in Eastern markets, Consisting of

BROAD CLOTHS, DOESKINS,
FREFCH, SCOTCH and ENGLISH
CASSIMERES, COATINGS,
VESTINGS, OVER COATINGS,
&c. Also a heavy

STOCK OF WOOLEN SHIRTS

Of all styles, UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, SUSPENDERS, GLOVES, HOSIERY.

A nice assortment of

HATS & CAPS!

Furnishing Goods!

Of all kinds for mens wear. We mean to keep on hand as good a selection of goods in our line as can be found in any one establishment in the County, and for CASH we will sell them as low, or a little lower than any other establishment in the County.

Our Tailoring Department is in full blast. We are prepared to get up Suits on SHORT NOTICE, in as GOOD STYLE, and at as low figures as any other establishment.

CUTTING DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

H. M. GRAY. A. HOOD.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS

is the place to get good grinding done. I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING,

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS!

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT, and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. FOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bread

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good lard wood slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c. I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and shall endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort.

Latest News!
Great Excitement!!
Conterfeiter Arrested!!!
ROCHMOND
NOT YET TAKEN!

Those Life-like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

are creating the most intense excitement ever witnessed by a people of any community. So near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the Forger is often arrested in his progress in the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner. Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh Mich.

The Tecumseh Herald.

C. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Law." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 25. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 9 1865. WHOLE NO. 779.

1865. FALL TRADE 1865.

NEW FIRM

Tribou & Bidwell Brothers,

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods,

Corner Chicago and Rail Road Streets;

Tecumseh. Michigan,

The Largest Stock.

The Best Assortment,

And the Lowest Prices.

Call and examine our Goods, and we will prove the truth of our assertion.

Terms Cash.

E. A. TRIBOU.
L. C. BIDWELL.
L. I. BIDWELL.

NEW FIRM,

NEW GOODS AND

N. W. CEMENTS.

The subscribers have formed a copartnership in the Dry Goods Trade, and offer for sale, at the old stand of C. Lawrence, next door to the Post Office, an entire new stock of

STAPLE & FANCY GOODS,

consisting of Dress Goods, Yankee Notions, Brown and Bleached Muslins, Clothes Trimmings &c. Also a large and well selected stock of Crockery and Glass Ware.

The above goods were bought for cash and will be sold as low as can be bought in Southern Michigan. Give us a call.

ANDERSON & LARNED

JUST ARRIVED!

And yet to come

1000 CASES!

MENS, BOYS and YOUTHS BOOTS, and LADIES, MISSES, and CHILDREN SHOES.

Those goods were all bought before the present 'Panic for High Prices' and will be

SOLD LOWER

Than the same goods can be bought to-day N. B. Persons in search of "Shoddy" are respectfully informed that I keep only the very best goods and

WARRANT ALL GOODS,

As represented.

Particular attention IS called to my Stock of HAND MADE.

BOYS BOOTS

Brought direct from the manufacturer; every pair warranted.

MENS, LADIES, MISSES and CHILDRENS RUBBERS In great abundance.

The shop in charge of an experienced foreman is turning out piles of work, and every person that leaves a measure gets

PARTICULAR FITS.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine.

Shoe Pac,

A new water-proof Boot for Farmers, Lumbermen and Hunters. Laces and Tassels in a variety of colors.

E. H. HOAG.

J. D. ROBBINS.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER.
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

han any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

CASH FOR RAGS!

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH. - - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,

JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations.

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Music,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

NEW MILLINERY AND Fancy Goods Store.

Mrs L. WILBUR, would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that she has just purchased the largest and best assortment of Millinery Goods ever brought to this place. Intends to keep a large stock of

BONNETS, RIBBONS, FLOWERS, LACES, HATS, HEAD DRESES, PLUMES FEATHERS, and

in fact everything to be found in the Millinery line constantly on hand. Particular attention paid to Bleaching and Repairing straws. Be sure to call. Shop in room formerly occupied by Mrs. O. McCoy.

I also have a large assortment of Fancy Goods consisting of Hoops, Traveling baskets, Merino vests and drawers, Hosiery Gloves, Dress Triming &c. to which I would call the attention of the ladies. I am offering my stock at low prices and would respectfully solicit a share of your patronage.

Mrs. L. WILBUR.

Tecumseh, Sept. 14th, 1865.

NEW BAKERY

We would respectfully inform the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that we have secured the services of an experienced baker and intend to keep constantly on hand

BREAD,
CRACKERS,
CAKE and PIES

Of the very best quality, also GROCERIES, WOOD, STONE WARE, KEROSENE OIL, LAMP WICK & CHIMNEYS, POWDER, SHOT, LEAD, SOAPS, In fact everything usually kept in a Grocery & Provision store.

W. Taylor & Son.

For Sale.

A house and lot situated on Pearl st., near the railroad depot, formerly owned by J. W. Wellman. For terms apply at this office.

Cash paid for Butter, Eggs, Dried Fruit &c. at

A. JAMES

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

GOING SOUTH.

Express Freight,	7:08 A. M
Mail and Express,	9:32 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:40P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD.
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

RICHARD S. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING.
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilet, &c.
Chicso St. Tecumseh, Mich.

P. N. CURTIS,
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY.
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER.
Attorney's, Councellor's and Solicitors
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT.
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

INDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS,
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS.
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

I. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG.
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE.
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

MANSION HOUSE.
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, - - Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewashing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. R. PALMER, Attorney at Law, and Notary Public, Lake Ridge, M
Particular attention paid to collections in any part of Michigan. Is prepared to draw and execute Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 50	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12 00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10.00	14.00
¼ Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	18.00
½ Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less inserted on 3.50 per year.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

To Our Friends.

You will confer a favor on us by soliciting the Judge of Probate to publish Probate Notices in the HERALD, and you will also find it convenience to your selves to have the advertisements in the paper you receive.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Having sold my stock of goods to Messrs. Tribou & Bidwell Bro's, all persons indebted to me are earnestly requested to call and settle their accounts with Mr. E. A. Tribou. Shall deal in Leather and Findings as heretofore.

B. J. BIDWELL.

☞ Constitution Bitters, which took the First Premium at the State Fair, also Red Jacket Bitters, Hostetter's Bitters and Roback's Bitters, all for sale at the Drug Store of Dr. P. N. Curtis.

☞ A new lot of Wall Paper and Window Shades just received at J. D. Robbins. Now is the time to buy as there will be an advance soon.

☞ Mutilated Postage currency wanted at G. T. Ketchams, in exchange for goods. Rush in the Rags, no matter how badly they are torn; they will be taken at their full value as long as the denomination of the peice can be told.

Soldiers Monument.

As the committee now soliciting subscriptions to this fund, are frequently asked how much was realized at the 4th of July dinner for this object; they would state, that they have obtained and herewith present a full statement of the receipts and expenditures on that occasion:

Receipts for tickets sold for dinner $497.23

Expenses—

For Printing	$24.00
" Team Work	8.00
" Lumber Bill	61.31
" Use of crockery	32.40
" Powder	51,75
" Curtis & McCowen	6.59
Labor, Drayage and other items	50.08
	$233.13

Leaving nett proceeds dinner which has been handed over to the committee $264.10

Another acquisition to the fund on that occasion, arose from the sale and re-sales of the handsome Bouquet, contributed by Mrs. Smith of Adrian, and amounted to $515,50.

Whereas, we were called upon as a nation to pour out Blood and Treasure to put down the most wicked Rebellion the world ever saw, and in order to express our gratitude and admiration for our citizen soldiery who fell in defence of our nation's honor; a society has been organized called the Tecumseh, Macon, Ridgeway and Raisin soldiers Monument Association for the purpose of erecting and maintaining a suitable Monument on Military Square, in the villiage of Tecumseh, in perpetuation of their memory.

Therefore we the undersigned hereby severally agree to pay to the soliciting committee or their order when called upon, the sum set opposite our respective names, toward the erection and maintenance of said Monument:

A. Hood & Co.	$20.	J. S. Hendryx	$ 5
L E Montgomery	5.	Taylor & Son	5
L Drew	25.	E Hause	5
W A Weatherhead	5.	W C Fisher	5
A James	15.	B F Thompson	5
H E Anderson	5.	H Baker	5
Wm Richard	20.	A Pelham	5
O Emlay	5.	S Mangus	5
J D Robbins	5.	E H Hoag	5
R C Moore	10.	D Gillett	5
D VanTine	10.	W H Waring	5
E W Goheen	5.	J E Hall	5
P Bills	25.	W H Mather	5
A H Chaplin	5.	R McKeown	5
L Lilley	25.	P Davidson	10
M A Patterson	25.	J Whitenack	10
A Hanford	25.	S Davidson	25
C Strong	25.	Wm H Osborn	25
H Brewer	25.	J J Fulton	5
S Rappleye	26.	C W Culberson	5
A Anderson	25.	Peter Waldron	10
M Sherd	10.	J P Slayton	10
T Cummins	15.	N Miller	5
Joseph Collins	16.	Geo. Bowen	5
A D Hall	21.	V Woodard	5
E F Blood	25.	R Hendershott	5
H C Conklin	16.	J Oosterhout	1
W Anderson	10.	Eliza McCaugh	4
Rappleye	10.	Mrs S. Brown	5
D T Lewis	20.	C Saviers	10
Mrs. Lewis	5.	A. Averill	2
S G Conkling	10.	Deming	1
J L Tallman	10.	A Waller	5
Mrs Geo Griswold	5.	J. Waring	2
H Dunster	5.	J S Strong	8
S C Stacy	5.	L. M Mooney	5
Jno Niblack	5.	Cash	50
W M Thompson	2.	Mrs Laird	2
P R Adams	25.	W Hayden	25
G T Ketcham	5.	Mrs S M Hayden	3
A B Wand	15.	Albert Hayden	1
H Richard	10.	Clara B Hayden	1
John Usborn	5.	Terry Hayden	1
B Tindall	5.	J W Stevens	5
Wm Demott	5.	J Pettitt	5
C Hendershot	5.	A L Brewer	5
R L McConnell	5.	H B Roberts	5
F Davidson	5.	Thos. Dixon	5
Thos. Baylis	5.	R Culbertson	5
P N Curtis	5.	B Chatterden	5
L Wilbur	5.	J M Merritt	5
C B Thomas	5.	M Wright	10
A Allen	5.	N H Tindall	5
S C LeBaron	10.	R Ford	5
D C LeBaron	5.	M Primrose	5
E B Strickland	5.	E D Burlingame	5
P C Temple	5.	Wm Gray	5
J F Hall	5.	J J Alvord	5
N C Arnold	5.	J H Wishart	5
H J Daniels	5.	J H Dunbar	5
Geo. Curtis	10.	A J Hoag	5
M A Allen	5.	E A Tribou	5
Geo. Griswold	5.	H W Conkling	5
James McNair	5.	T S Hamilton	20
Jos. Tilden	5	H Peters	5
C Bidwell	5	T T Knoeland	5
E A Morehouse	5	S Crane	5
G Kishpaugh	5	I B Richart	5
W McCowen	10	C H Smith	5
A D Lawrence	3	S Bryan	5
C Roberts	5	A J Stitt	5
C H Adam	5	J V DePuy	5
B Pattison	5	B L Baxter	5
Tecumseh Lodge F & A M No 69,			$100

Forget it not.

Friend—are you in need of a nice and durable pair of Boots,—if so—forget not that they can be had at the very lowest figures at the Mammoth Boot & Shoe Store of E. H. Hoag.

Ladies—are you in need of a pair of those beautiful and useful Congress Gaiters or Balmorals?—you can find them at the Mammoth, and for prices that will astonish all who are in the habit of buying elsewhere, at high figures.

We would say to all those in need of anything in the line of Boots, Shoes, Leather and findings generally:—call and examine the large stock at the Mammoth before purchasing elsewhere. You will find ED. and WILL. ever ready to wait on you with pleasure.

Furs—Furs & Furs

R. C. Moore has just recieved a large and choice assortment of Furs, consisting of Capes, muffs, Collars and Cuffs in Ladies and Children's goods, viz: MINK WATER MINK. SABLE, STONE MARTIN, DYED MUSKRAT, ENNGLISH CONEY. SIBERIAN SQUIRREL. CAT &c.

In gentlemens goods he has Mufflers and Gloves,—all of these goods are received by him direct from the manufacturer and sold on Commission, at the lowest figures they can be bought in this state. Those in want of Furs will be saved the trouble and cost of going abroad for them (to Detroit or Toledo,) as he will sell you these goods at less figures than any dealer who buys his goods on his own account;—the manufacture of these goods bears critical examination, the better goods are lined with choice quality of Silk and Turk Satin, closely stitched, and made expressly for the best retail trade. Those in want of Furs are respectfully requested to examine Moore's goods before purchasing elsewhere.

Donation Party.

The friends of the Rev. J. W. Ray are respectfully requested to congregate, en masse, at his house on Wednesday afternoon and evening 15th inst., the special object of the convention may be safely inferred from the heading of this notice.

By order of Vestry of St. Peters Church

Wm Hayden,
A. James,
A B Ward, } Committee.

☞ Don't forget the Concert next week for the benefit of the Monument.

Married.

In Tecumseh on Monday, Nov. 6th 1865 by the Rev. E. N. Nichols, Mr. DANIEL KELLEY Jr to Miss ADDIE BOYCE.

Great Gift Enterprise.

In order to keep pace with these days of progress and reform, C. H. Adam & Co propose hereafter, with each bill of goods to the amount of $5 and over, to present a gift of from 25cts. to $25 in value. They have just received a large and splendid assortment of Fall and Winter Goods, which they are selling at the lowest cash prices. They invite special attention to their stock of Ladies Vests and Pants, cloth for Cloaks, with Ornaments, Buttons, Trimmings &c.; also Lined and Furred Gloves & Mitts, Gauntlets, Gaiters, Hose, Scarfs, &c. They are recieving almost every week, new supplies of all the latest and best styles of goods from New York, Toledo, Detroit and Chicago. Ladies will find a lady salesman for articles of ladies wear.

P. S.—All persons indebted to the late firm of Wastell & Adam are requested to settle their accounts without delay, as the books of that firm must be closed forthwith.

Elegant and Durable.

Gaiters, Polish Boots and Balmorals manufactured to order in all styles—from Glove Kid, French morocco and French Calf at the mammoth Boot & Shoe Store.

E. H. HOAG

☞ I hope my numerous friends will be patient, as I have the promise of my old rooms, (just east of Hoods store) for next week and will soon have them fitted for the reception of all who may favor me with a call. Mrs. C. M. BISSEL.

☞ On account of the great rush to Tribou and Bidwell Bro's. for new and cheap Goods, Tribou has gone to New York for a second supply. People soon learn where they can buy the cheapest. Do not fail to call and see their goods before purchasing elsewhere. They sell for cash and of course can and will sell at the lowest rates.

For the Tecumseh Herald.

Memory:

Twilight lingers;
Leaves a bright chaplet round my dream.
Made up of joys, all which were mine
"Long, long ago"
But now, are wasted,
Scattered on the stream of time.

Dews are weeping,
And the sweet flowers are sleeping
While I am dreaming of the happy days
When nought but sunshine cast its golden rays
Across my path;
The sunshine now is faded,
And my brighs pathway shaded.

Daylight is breaking,
And my dreamy soul is waking,
Still, I look back upon the tide,
And strong imagination pictures by my side
The loved ones;
Who have long ago gone home,
And left me here, to sigh, "alone."

L.

The Rural American,

We are under obligations to Fred Emerson, agent at this place, for the January No. of this valuable Agricultural Journal. It contains many of the most useful articles for the Farm, Household and Garden, is issued semi-monthly (instead of monthly as most other publications of the kind) in a neat form of 16 pages quarto. Every subscriber will recieve gratuitously, a Concord, Delaware or Hartford Prolific Grape Vine, or six Russell's Prolific Strawbery plants, or a splendid Engraving 24 by 36—all sent free of charge for transportation.

T. B. MINER, Publisher,
Clinton, Oneida Co. N. Y.

Tecumseh Union Lyceum.

The Lyceum has now completed its organization, and is in good running order. The following are the names of the officers for the present official term consisting of twelve weeks.

President—D. McNair
Vice President—Jno. D. Chambers,
Recording Sec'y—Miss L. Lewis.
Corresponding Sec'y—Prof. C. B. Thomas.
Treasurer—Nellie Beers,
Col. L. Saviers,
S. C. Stacy.
L. C. Miller, } Executive Com.

The regular meetings of the Society will be held for the present on Monday evening of each week. The question for discussion at the next meeting is "Resolved that ministers of the gospel ought to take an active part in politics."

AFF.	NEG.
Chas. Burridge,	S. C. Stacy,
Prof. C. B. Thomas,	D. McNair,
Col. L. Saviers.	L. C. Miller.

Benefit Concert:

A Concert for the benefit of the Soldiers Monument Association will be given in Bidwell's Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings Nov. 16th and 17th, by Prof. Leland's adult singing class. Prof. Leland has very kindly offered to give a couple of his superior entertainments in aid of the Soldiers Monument and the citizens of Tecumseh owe it to themselves to give him a rousing audience on both evenings. He has a large stock of music, both grave and humorous to make his selection from, and has bestowed great care in the arrangement of the programmes. His reputation as a singing teacher stands very high. Indeed as a careful and thorough drill master in Chorus and Quartette singing, he has but few equals and no superior in the West. Let all who love good singing attend. Let all who desire to aid in the erection of the Monument attend. Let all who like to have a good time generally attend, and let all who desire good seats procure tickets early at Ketcham's news rooms.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Nov. 9 1865.

Butler Miss R.	Johnson Miss Libbie
Bracy John	Lockwood James L
Dodge H. T.	Mellon Joseph
Cobb James	Metler Mrs M H
Cole Henrietta	Minor miss Libbie
Clark James S.	Pierson Timothy
Geller Miss Anna L	Russ Miss Kate
Haviland J.	Reymore M.
Hatter H	Richmond Levi C
Jordon James	Smith miss Alice
Kendrick Miss	Wheeler A

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Monday, the 23d day of October in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Robert Wilson deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of William R. Wilson a son of said deceased praying that the last will and testament of said deceased may be proved and allowed as the last will and testament of said, deceased and that he may be appointed executor thereof.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 27th day of November next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That the said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petion, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ROBERT R. BEECHER,

(A true Copy) 779 Judge of Probate.

CALVIN C. COATS, Register.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK.

The small pox is spreading rapidly at Montgomery, Alabama, both among the whites and blacks.

South American advices state that there had been no severe engagement between the Paraguayans and the allies lately. About 8,000 Paraguayans had shut themselves up in the town of Uruguayan, and were besieged by an army of 30,000 allies.

The cholera in Spain is disappearing, and only a few cases are reported in Germany. Bishop Lynch, a passenger by the Europa, which arrived at New York from Havre on the 23d ult., stated that the cholera in Paris is not an epidemic.

No further deaths are reported on the quarantine steamer Atlanta. The filthy condition of the Kiel was one of the principal

The official order of Maximilian, ordering the assassination of every prisoner captured by his forces, has attracted the attention of the United States government, and it is thought some action will be taken on this matter at an early day.

It is claimed in Washington that the President has the case of Wirz under close advisement, with a view to mitigate as much as possible his punishment. Wirz having recovered from his indisposition, his diet is changed back to his regular army rations—a proceeding which meets with his decided disapprobation.

The Cholera has arrived in New York by the steamer Atlanta from Brest. She is now detained at quarantine in the lower bay. Ten deaths out of fifty or sixty cases occurred during the passage, and there have been [illegible] since her arrival.

—A printer in Ohio says they don't brag on the size of their babies out there, but they are a most uncommon sure crop.

—A man at Baltimore, while carelessly handling a loaded gun, shot his little daughter through the head.

The citizens of South Danvers, Mass., are greatly excited over the discovery of torpedoes in their coal. A number have been found, by different families.

—Washington Irving's Rip Van Winkle has been adapted to the stage by Dion Boucicault, and is having great success in London.

—The Streets of New York" is running at Mrs. John Wood's Olympic Theatre. The other evening the bootblack, taking a paper from a newsboy in the snow scene, read from the amusement column the announcement of every manager, "This establishment does not advertise in the Herald." The protracted and uproarious applause which followed showed the popularity of the, cause of the managers in their war with the editor of the

THE RAILROADS IN THE TWO CAROLINAS.

The trip from Raleigh to Charleston—The Pleasures and Pains of Railway Travelling—Detailed Statement of the Condition of the Roads and the Rolling Stock, and Suggestions for the Future.

Special Correspondence of the Chicago Republican.

CHARLESTON, October 17th.

Let no man come into the Carolinas for a pleasure trip, as he would go into Canada or New England for the summer season. Enjoyment he may find, but it will be of an entirely different sort—as I can testify from an experience of six weeks, and about fifteen hundred miles travel.

FROM RALEIGH TO CHARLESTON.

The journey from Raleigh to Charleston furnishes the two extremes of Carolina railroad travel—the best and the worst. It is made over four different roads at an average rate of nine and three fourths miles per hour, and an average cost of six and one third cents per mile, exclusive of meals.

or less distance from the coast, through Charleston and Florence to Wilmington and thence to Virginia. From Kingsville, the former cross-line, reaches out one arm southward to Charleston, and another northward into western North Carolina. This great easterly and westerly road was the artery of the Confederacy. When Sherman seized Atlanta, he grasped the end of it; when he swooped down on Columbia, he cut it in mid length. This is about all Sherman did—thoroughly cut the great cross-line. Stoneman struck the arm reaching northward from Kingston in several places, and destroyed two or three important bridges. There was method in the work of these two officers. On the other hand, Hardee and Bragg acted like wild men. Thus, they burned all the bridges east of Kingsville on the cross-line, and all those on the coast line between Wilmington and Charleston—why I asks Yankee and rebel in unison. It certainly was not done to prevent pursuit by Sherman, for he was not pursuing. In a word, our forces destroyed Railroads, and the rebels burned bridges. It was much easier for Sherman railroad, so the rebels did not adopt the easiest way of preventing his pursuit. It is far easier for the railroad companies to lay track than to build bridges, and so Sherman's method not only broke up the rebel use of the roads, but left them in such a condition that their respective companies could more easily put them in working order. Hence, the cursing one hears from Southerners—and there is a great deal of it—is not of Sherman who destroyed track and accomplished a military purpose, but of Hardee and Bragg, who senselessly burned bridges and accomplished nothing.

The destruction of our army is nearly overcome—not obliterated, but so far overcome that travel is resumed on the several roads. At this writing, I believe there is less than forty miles out of use, and on this forty miles, work is progressing with commendable rapidity. Of the bridges burned by Stoneman, only that on the Catawba between Winnsboro and Charlotte remains unimpaired. On the other hand, the destruction of the rebel army will not be overcome for a dozen years. Thus, Wade Hampton burned the magnificent bridge at Columbia. Its loss delayed Sherman about twenty-five minutes! South Carolina cannot rebuild it unaided in this generation. Bragg burned the bridges at Wilmington; their loss worked us no serious injury, but they cannot be rebuilt under a year. Hardee burned the great bridges over the Santee and Great Pedee—their loss wasn't of the least consequence to us, but every passenger and every pound of freight on this great coast line of road, now crosses these rivers in flat-boats, and will continue to cross so for at least six months more.

Of all the roads in the two states, the North Carolina Central is the only one in the two states which runs two passenger trains per day, and this it does only over a short section of the route. On two roads there is a daily passenger train, and a daily freight train with passenger car attached. On all other lines there is a single train per day—each way of course—consisting of one or two passenger cars, and from two to eight freight cars. The rate of fare ranges from five to nine cents per mile, with an average of about six and a quarter cents. The actual running rate, including stoppages, is from ten to seventeen miles per hour, with an average progress, including stoppages, of about nine to ten miles per hour. Of course at such a rate of speed, there is next to no danger of accidents, and traveling is reasonably safe, even if it is exceedingly uncomfortable.

This slow rate of speed is necessitated by two causes, bad condition of the road, and bad condition of the cars and engines. The road-bed is generally in passably good order and could be put in first class condition at a comparatively small expense. The rails, however, are literally worn out, and before any great amount of work can be done on any road, every mile must be relaid with new iron. The wonder is, considering how much these two main lines were used by the rebel government, that it is now possible to use the roads at all. The chief difficulty, however, after all, is in connection with the rolling stock. Of this there is very little left, and what there is, is in the most wretched condition generally, imaginable. Except on the North Carolina road, their passenger cars are inferior to those on second-class emigrant trains at the North—in need alike of the painter, the glazier, the upholsterer and the scrubber. Even all these could not be able to restore more than three out of the ten. Three more of the ten might, perhaps, be put in serviceable order by a thorough overhauling at the shops. The remaining four, are utterly worn out, and would long ago have been condemned but for the absolute necessity of the situation. I have rididen in a dozen so far gone that I actually feared they would fall to pieces if a speed of sixteen miles an hour was attained. The box freight cars are, generally speaking, in somewhat better condition than the passenger cars. The engines on all the roads, without exception, are, so to speak, on their last legs, and most of them must soon be replaced by new ones. I rode with the engineer for ten miles on the Manchester road while he ran at the rate of a mile in three minutes and a half. I am sure I shall not repeat the experiment and I doubt if he will with that engine. His average rate is ten to ten and a half miles per hour.

The labor on the road is mostly done by negroes. The conductors, engineers and station-masters are, so far as I observed, white men, as are about one third the firemen and brakemen. But two-thirds of the firemen and brakemen, and nearly all the numerous hands employed at the various stations along the road, are negroes; and no complaint is made but that they do the work well enough when they are promptly paid. It is a fact however, that they refuse to make long engagements. The stationmen very rarely remain more than two or three weeks in a place—Then their craving for novelty possesses them, and they are off for a new point, very likely to engage in the same business.

I have found almost everywhere that the roads had all the business they could do. The passenger travel is small—seventy-five persons per day on most of the roads, is above the average. The lines centering in Wilmington and Charleston are burdened with cotton—indeed they cannot carry all that is seeking transportation. In one place and another, I presume I have spoken with forty men or more who were urging shipment. At Orangeburg were men owing from fifty to one hundred bales, who had been dancing attendance upon the railroads for a month. At Florence, nearly the same state of things existed. So it did too, at Kingsville. There is also much freight coming from the north. Of course, as the rates of passenger travel indicate, freights are exceedingly high—at least double those on northern roads. The shippers scold and swear, but no one expects a reduction of rates at present.

The roads must be rebuilt and restocked by northern or foreign capitalists. That this can be done by the present owners, is utterly impossible. There is scarcely capital enough in the whole state of South Carolina to rebuild and refurnish one hundred and fifty miles of road. The earnings on one of the lines are proportionately large, but, of course they are mainly swallowed up by the minor heedful daily repairs. The case is not one of argument—the refurnishing and rebuilding must soon be done and be doubly outside capital.

Each road appears to be managed independently of all others, and I could not see that there is any effort to make what are called close connections at central points. At the terminus of each line, there must be something like twenty-four hours of waiting and the hotel expenses, before travel can be resumed on another line. There isn't a sleeping car or a railroad eating house in the two Carolinas. The North Carolina Central has been talking about a sleeping car and may put one or two on its line next spring. Travelers mostly carry their rations with them like soldiers, or go hungry. There is just as little regard as possible paid to the comfort of the passenger. Fortunately most of the lines are relatively short—yet you are carried over the road from Charleston to Florence, a ride of from 9 a. m., to 6½ p. m., in a fasting condition, unless you have your own basket of eatables; and on the line between Florence and Wilmington you are given breakfast at 6½ in the morning, and allowed nothing more till 6½ in the evening; and the run from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. between Charleston and Kingston is made without any opportunity for dinner. Consequently most travelers carry a basket, and every true Southerner carries a bottle—with something in it when they start.

ISRAFEL.

PERSONAL.

From Fortress Monroe.

THE Boston Advertiser, to correct the many stories afloat concerning the reasons for the Hon. Caleb Cushing's visit to England, says he goes as counsel for the Government, in connection with the claims arising out of the war, and other matters of a similar nature.

ARTEMUS WARD, it is reported, has recently had $200,000 (gold, not greenbacks) left him by a rich old uncle in London. We don't know whether this is one of his jokes, or a joke actually played on him. If it is the latter, it is certainly a good one. We don't think he evermadea better.

THE funeral services of Col. Ulric Dahlgren, killed near Richmond, took place on the 31st ult. in Washington. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher delivered the funeral discourse, and at its close was the recipient of a handsome compliment from the President, who sent Secretary Stanton to Mr. Beecher, asking to be presented to him.

HON. HENRY WILSON of Massachusetts, celebrated his silver wedding on the 27th ult., on which occasion a large and distinguished party—including Sumner, Hamlin, Burlingame, etc., were entertained at Natick. The citizens of Natick presented the Senator and his lady with a silver service valued at $500, and during the evening, a purse of $4,000 was made up by the guests.

MAJ GEN. GEORGE H. THOMAS is congratulating himself on his successful strategy in escaping the lion-hunters. He has traveled from Nashville to New York, and through the principal cities on the Atlantic coast without suffering a single public reception. For the first time since the outbreak of the war, Gen. Thomas now allows himself the pleasure of a re-union with his family. In four years, he saw his wife but once. He is now in Washington.

HON. F. J. MOSES is chosen President of the South Carolina Senate and Hon. A. P. Aldrich Speaker of the House. Captain Moses will be remembered by some as the loyal South Carolinian who fought a duel in Paris at the beginning of the war with a rebel Virginian named Farquar, who had made a sneering remark concerning the North. Capt. Moses was desperately wounded, but finally recovered. We believe his opponent was killed. The captain is a native of the State of Maine, but has lived for many years in South Carolina, and is married to a South Carolina wife.

ASA FITCH, the well-known manufacturer and millionaire of Fitchville, Conn., died on Monday last.

THE present whereabouts of Samuel Cooper, Senior General in the rebel service, appears to be a mystery which neither he nor his friends care to develope. He left Richmond with Davis, and was a companion of that worthy in his flight to the vicinity of Augusta, where he parted company with him. At that time, Cooper had not a dollar in the world, and his companions with the exception of Davis, were nearly all in the same deplorable condition. He managed to borrow a few coins from his fellow fugitives and disappearing, has never since been heard from.

AN Irishman in Connecticut was trying to kill a hog the other day, when the animal seized his arm and bit it through the bone.

It is stated that if plenty of good, strong green tea, well sweetened, be placed in an outer department accessible to flies, they will taste of it and be killed thereby, as surely as by the most approved poison. The remedy is simple and well worthy of trial.

A GOOD good story is told about the Rev. Robert J. Breckenridge, who was temporary chairman of the Baltimore Convention last year, and the late Thomas F. Marshall of Kentucky. Both wishing to establish a reputation in early life, measured lances with Henry Clay, and of course got the worst of it. A few years after, the two met—the latter being on one of his customary sprees. The lawyer exclaimed to the divine: "Ah! Bob, it was an unlucky day for us when we tilted against the Great Harry. It drove me to the bottle, and you to the pulpit, Bob; but I've stuck a d—d sight closer to my text than you have to yours."

WINE MAKING.—Wine is a thing not made by man at all, but only modified by man. It is a production of nature. In the purest and best grape wine, this is most remarkably exhibited. The grapes are easily pressed by a wine or even cider press, and can be kept separate from the lees, or allowed to ferment on them as strength is required. Not one drop of water, not a lump even of sugar is requisite, though most of the wines in this country are made with it. But the fermentation is all an act of nature herself. She it is who makes our wine, and all that men have to do while the fermentation is going on, in the juice, is to watch it and let it alone. And when this has ceased, the drawing off into a clean cask and keeping it undisturbed in quiet and perfect darkness by itself, is all that man can do. A lump of leaf-sugar in each bottle, may give a champagne freshness to it, but the simpler, the purer, the less of cookery in wine, the better for it and those who have good taste enough to prefer it thus. The pure juice of grapes is best in sickness. The best of grapes, and if sugar be added, the best and purest sugar, should alone be used.—Philadelphia Ledger.

TO KEEP TIRES ON WHEELS.—Hear what a practical man says of this subject: "I ironed a wagon some years ago for my own use, and before putting on the tires I filled the felloes with linseed oil; and the tires have worn out and were never loose. I also ironed a buggy for my own use seven years ago, and the tires are as tight as when put on. My method of filling the felloes with oil is as follows: I use a long cast-iron oil heater, made for the purpose. The oil is brought to a boiling heat, the wheel is placed on a stick so as to hang in the oil, each felloe an hour for a common sized felloe. The timber should be dry, as green timber will not take oil. Care should be taken that the oil does not get hotter than the boiling heat, in order that the timber be not burnt. Timber filled with oil is not susceptible to water, and is much more durable. I was amused some years ago when I told a blacksmith how to keep the tires tight on wheels, by his telling me that it was a profitable business to tighten tires; and the wagon-maker will say that it is profitable to him to repair wheels. But what will the farmer who supports the wheelwright and smith say?

—A minister at Lyons, Iowa, Rev. B. G. [illegible] fined for a misdemeanor upon his daughter [illegible] great b[illegible]

From the Western Railroad Gazette:

Star Freight's Pilgrimage.—Fifth Paper.

GALENA, ILLINOIS, October 20, 186[illegible]

Your eminent little poet was constrained to declare that—

"The snow, the snow! 'tis pleasant thing
To see it falling, falling
Down upon the earth with noiseless wing,
As at some spirit calling.
Each flake, in her parade into
From teeming clouds let down,
When earth is still, and air is mute
As Peace's enchanted zone."

There is truth in it, that, and perhaps there may be some truth in proper season. But if the rhymester had been upon Star Freight's road "on the gose," as I have all day, I'm thinking he would be inclined to pronounce snow in Galena in the month of October, an unmitigated humbug. Four days of rain, to close up with four hours of snow, resulting about fourteen inches of splashy slush, sufficient to make the reader care to know how my limbs lie after dead. I dare say, with a terrible cold, just like everybody else; and though I expressed myself swearing, I couldn't refrain from thinking, even though I cursed (I did I) to the sentiment of a fellow pilgrim, who exclaimed, "Dab dis kind of weather!" The oldest inhabitant has not had a dry foot to his name, for four days; and if I were to name weather, I should do it in the following language: "Dry up!" I might also add, that would express my deep disgust with the present season of manifest, If this is Indian summer, please give me some white-man's winter.

Galena is not altogether a gone-coned town, though it is gone to seedier than it would be if Dubuque didn't rather scoop it, on the way of trade. Galena has furnished much lead and one Grant, in subduing rebellion. By the way, I tried to see Gen. Grant to-day. Went up to 140 Main street, where the General used to buy hides in his brother's store, and stood on the step. Closed my eyes, and tried my name was Ulysses, and that I had on a little leather apron, and was honest, and didn't always spell correctly, and never made speeches, and was laboring for $40 per month. Then I turned backward, O Time in thy flight," about five years, and wondered what I could do for my distressed country. Then I stood in Alley, black, dusty, for about forty consecutive seconds, and finally got to feeling quite Grantly, and wondered whether, when I opened my eyes, my eyes would not open on three silver stars on each shoulder. Almost feared to open them at all in fear they wouldn't; and they didn't. Asked a Colonel at that moment passing, if he took me to be Gen. Grant, and his profane reply was: "No; I take you to be a darned fool!" Now the dictionary of the country mill-maid, in Webster's old spelling book, was not so great out when her pail of milk tumbled on her head, as mine was at this unmerited insult. How in the world did that fellow find out? I can't be Gen. Grant no more than I can "climb to" where Moses stood. Then I stood where U. S. had stood a thousand times; but if Moses had stood there himself, he wouldn't have been Ulys. Mose might beat Ulyss in getting up fire-works; but I'll bet $200 Ulyss never'd have been forty years in generaling those Israelites out of Egypt. Geo. McClellan might have Peninsulacampaigned them through in fifty or sixty, and had manna, and locusts-and-wild-asses the only quartermaster's stores. But if those hard-repudiating Jews were satisfied with Moses, certainly so am with Ulyss, although I don't do him, nor nobody near enough like him to have the citizens of Galena give me a splendid, newly-furnished house which he can fill and cannot be bid, with a sidewalk built clear up to it. "All men have their forte," and my forte is, not being a Lieutenant-General. I'd be a lying Boston Lancer.

Gen. Grant is rolling home to vote. Mr. Washburne went and had him registered in his proper precinct; and he will be here on a flying visit, for political purposes. I wonder how he agrees on negro suffrage! I wouldn't wonder if he was in favor of letting Mr. Negro "suffer," some. Andy Johnson, is, you know. He says to Mr. Stearns, of Massachusetts: "The elective franchise is not a natural right, but a political right." Henry Ward Beecher "endorses" the President, and says: "I hold, also, that he (the negro) should have suffrage, because it is a natural right." From such endorsement, good-Lord deliver us! Andy says "his side" of the story. Henry "endorses" Andy by saying his nat'ral! An Irish jury would agree that Andy and Henry agree. There is nothing paradoxical in this figure of the naturalness of the negro to suffer. I don't know who is better authority in the premises than Mr. Negro himself, and when I asked the woolly-headed waiter at the dinner-table whether suffrage was natural or unnatural to his race, he replied: "Well, yes sah—to some ob us, 'tis very!" Taking that view of the case, I don't see but the issue is plain. Mr. Beecher endorses the President, and I endorse this nigger. Plain course—let it go to the equator as verdict of the people. I think Grant will agree; and as goes the General, so goes the Union.

Having thus disposed of the long-agitated negro, I leave him to his inevitable fate, and turn my political thoughts to Fenianism. By next week, I may conclude whether to invade England, and write Emmett's epitaph, or not. In case I invade, I shall do it by proxy, until defeated.

The next train westward bears among its other passengers, the to me precious form of

STAR FREIGHT.

APOLOGY EXTRAORDINARY.—A miller had had his neighbor arrested under charge of stealing wheat from his mill, but being unable to substantiate the charge by proof, the court adjudged that the miller should make an apology to the accused. "Well," said he, "I have had you arrested for stealing my wheat—I can't prove it—and I am sorry for it."

SHOULD BE DISCONTINUED.—The Hartford Courant says that the custom of giving the back of pews in church to the ladies originated during the time of the Indian wars, when the male members of the family always carried their muskets to church, when it was, of course very proper that they should have the end, to rush out and repel an attack.

That was a gallant practice in those days, but the idea of half a dozen gentlemen filing out of a pew into the aisle, at this age of the world, to let a lady sit at the inner end, is simply and absolutely barbarous. The fashion of so doing should be everywhere reprobated.

THE FOLLOWING was sent to a Connecticut editor with the intimation that more could be had for the money:

He was drowned on the Sound,
And his body wasn't found
For forty 'leven days;
Then he rose, and his toes,
And his jolly ruby nose,
Were discovered through the haze.

TOUCHING.

The following touching poem was picked up in a rebel camp in Georgia:

I laid four dollars on the board,
I bet 'em wun by wun;
The furrer dealer got my checks,
Till I at last had none.

Let every pa young gambolier
Of childhood's games beware,
And only play with gentlemen,
Who spread upon the fare.

AN ABSURD DITTY.—Was ever such small talk as the following before put into rhyme?

Said a b—d-bug to a musketeer:
"You're the luckiest living critter,
In extracting the sweets from life's fife;
Such a feast and a song you enjoy!
While poor me men seek to destroy—
Pray what are the means you employ?
Quoth he of the wings, "Old boy!
For particulars see small bills!"

PHILOSOPHICAL.—At Harper's Ferry, the other day, Sir Morton Peto and his fellow capitalists from England, excavated an old fellow from one of the cellars in the town, who had held his ground during the war, refusing to be frightened away by either cannonading or explosion. "I dun know," the old fellow said, "as I've didn't done no much harm. Fifty years ago I was the poorest man in Harper's Ferry; two years ago I was the richest, everybody else having run away. I wasn't worth nothing then; I ain't worth nothing now; so I'm square. Judge, (to Sir Morton) have you any tobacker about ye?"

GLEANINGS.

—At Caledonia, Racine county, Wisconsin on Wednesday, the 1st inst., a young man named Stitesky, of unsound mind, shot his father and mother, inflicting mortal wounds and then killed himself.

—Illinois expended for the army, equipping and transporting troops, $8,803,449.80, more than $800,000 more than any other state. Of this claim, government allows $3,719,906.73.

—The Hebrews of Indianapolis are to build a synagogue at a cost of $75,000.

—According to the census of the city of Genoa just completed, the population is now 159,000. Seven years ago, it was but 130,000.

—A girl in Caen was cutting a slice of bread for her father, holding the loaf against her breast, when the knife slipped through it and penetrating her heart, caused instant death.

—It has been determined to construct a railroad through the Alps, by the pass of St Gothard. Eight years of labor, and an expenditure of eighty millions of francs will be involved in the gigantic undertaking.

—In London, the other night, a man was going up stairs to bed, when he slipped and fell upon his wife, who was following him. They both rolled to the bottom, and while the man escaped with very slight injury, the woman was instantly killed.

—At Washington, on Friday the household effects of the late Mrs. Surratt were sold at auction. The sale attracted a large number of people, principally boarding-house keepers, who, the Star says, were much disappointed in the character of the furniture. Some relic-hunters were present, but they soon left in disgust, and everything went off without much competition, the rates being generally below the average prices of auction sales.

—A man in Ohio recently gave his wife $420 for safe keeping. She put it in the straw bed. And the next day the family moved away the straw was emptied, and the children burned straw, greenbacks and all.

Never make two bites at a cherry, unless it is a cherry-lip.

—A girl in Chicago a few days since opened a sealed letter addressed to her mistress, but escaped conviction because the letter was not signed with a real name. Close scratch that.

—"Man proposes, but God disposes," said a pious aunt to her over-confident niece. "Let a man propose to me if he dare," was the response, "and I will dispose of him according to my own views, and as he suits me."

—The editor of a country paper in Wisconsin, says that he felt called upon to publish Father Lewis' sermon on the "Locality of Hell," as it was a question in which nearly all his readers were deeply interested.

—There has been so little rain in Prussia this summer that in some parts the river Spree is almost entirely dried up. Folks can't go on a Spree there.

—In the Barrie assizes, C. W., a lad of twelve years, has been sentenced to five years in the house of correction, for placing obstructions on the Toronto and Collingwood railroad. A lad of ten, his companion in the scrape, was a witness against him.

—Cooper Institute, New York, is self-supporting, the income for rents being about $26,000. The gallery contains 400 pictures, the library 4,000 volumes, and the reading-room 160 newspapers besides periodicals. The School of design, a leading feature of the institution, numbers at present about 200 pupils. The scientific department contains valuable philosophical and chemical apparatus. The night school, which opened Oct. 3d with about 1,500 pupils, is a very interesting and admirable feature.

—The archives of the city of Williamsburg, New York, (now consolidated with Brooklyn,) have been destroyed, having been carelessly sold for waste paper. A crop of law suits has sprung up in consequence.

—The Ottawa (Ill.) Republican says that Mr. Johnson, who keeps a grocery at Earlville, was robbed of $200 last week. The villains went to his house in the night, and urged a cow into his garden, when he got up to drive her out. While he was gone, his wallet with the money was taken from under his pillow. No clue has been discovered to the scamps.

—A printer in Ohio says they don't brag on the size of their babies out there, but they are a most uncommon sure crop.

—A man at Baltimore, while carelessly handling a loaded gun, shot his little daughter through the head.

The citizens of South Danvers, Mass., are greatly excited over the discovery of torpedoes in their coal. A number have been found, by different families.

—Washington Irving's Rip Van Winkle has been adapted to the stage by Dion Boucicault, and is having great success in London.

—"The Streets of New York" is running at Mrs. John Wood's Olympic Theatre. The other evening the bootblack, taking a paper from a newsboy in the snow scene, read from the amusement column the announcement of every manager, "This establishment does not advertise in the Herald." The protracted and uproarious applause which followed showed the popularity of the cause of the managers in their war with the editor of the treasury on the 31st ult., was $34,564,997. Victor Hugo has been ordered to leave Belgium.

The Arkansas Indian council has adjourned after effecting treaties with the Cheyennes, Caddoes, Camaches, Arapahoes, Apaches and Kiowas.

An old lady who had been going to the office of an oil company regularly for her dividend, entered one morning as usual about the dividend time, very pleasant.

"Good morning, sir.

Stammering Secretary — "Yi-g-go-good morning; m-a-m-a-m.

"I came down to get my dividend this morning, sir.

Secretary—"We-el, m-m-a-m, the c-company hasn't de-de-clared any dividend this month.

Lady (astonished)—"Why not? I have been getting them all along, every month."

Secretary—"Weel, m-m-a-m, the c-company has begun to put down a w-w-well, and the di-di-directors concluded they couldn't pa-pa-put down wells and declare dividends too, so they s-s-stopped, m-ma-m.

The lady, after cogitating upon the doings of the directors, finally vanished, to the entire satisfaction of the Secretary.

REDUCTION OF POSTAGE TO NORWAY AND SWEDEN BY THE PRUSSIAN CLOSED MAIL.—The rates of postage upon letters to Norway and Sweden by the Prussian closed mail have been reduced as follows:

To Norway if prepaid, thirty eight cents per single rate.

To Norway if unpaid, forty-two cents per single rate.

To Sweden if prepaid, thirty-four cents per single rate.

To Sweden if unpaid, thirty-eight cents per single rate.

It is a pleasing instance of the transmission of noble qualities from father to son, that the two younger sons of the late Horace Mann, upon the loss by their brother of his property in the Charles Bank, through the recent robbery, at once informed him that one third of their joint bequest should be his.—Boston Commonwealth.

—Joshua Watson of Scipio, La Porte Co., Indiana, raised this year 1,100 bushels of cranberries on a ten-acre marsh; cost of gathering and marketing $100; net profit, $1,500.

A New York Paper says: "A person high in authority" asserts that it is all nonsense to elect members to the Legislature at Albany; for it is much cheaper to buy them after the election is over.

—A San Francisco dispatch of the 24th of Oct. gives the following particulars of yet further piracies committed by the Shenandoah: The Palmetto arrived yesterday, from Plover Bay Sept. 21st. She reports the capture of 24 whalers by the Shenandoah, which had been heard of at that port. All the names are included in lists hitherto telegraphed eastward. The last seen of the Shenandoah, by the ship Victoria, was south under full sail. During her operations she passed through Behring's Straits to the east cape where she burned nine whalers, presumed to be part of the twenty-four whose names were reported by the Palmetto.

—The proposed mustering out of the Veteran Reserve Corps has been through the advice of Gen. Grant reduced down to this: that those who wish it will be discharged, and those who do not will be retained. The different regiments are to be consolidated and the number of shoulder straps reduced. Congress will be asked to make it a permanent organization, into which men who have been wounded and desire to remain in the service, but who cannot enlist in the regular army, according to the regulations, on account of existing disabilities, will be admitted.

—Two Prussian officers, Capt. Calow and Major Von Shack, fought a duel recently at Magdeburg. They agreed to fight till one of them was killed, and twenty-eight shots were exchanged before Capt. Calow was fatally hit.

—The celebrated case of the burning of the steamer Martha Washington for the insurance money, has been paralleled by the burning of the steamer River Queen at Pittsburg. The steamer was new, and was owned by four men who did not pay the debts contracted in her construction, and she was attached for the claims. She was insured for $20,000, and one of the partners named Champlin conceived the idea of burning her, and carried his purpose into effect. Champlin's confession states how he burned the boat.

—A little boy in Indiana went off on horseback to drive up the cows. He tied the halter strap around his neck, and, the horse became frightened and threw him off, and then kicked and dragged him to death. He was found horribly mangled.

—A man in Birmingham, England, ran his pipe stem into his tongue, and died from the abscess caused by the accident.

—Two boys got into a scuffle at school in Cairo the other day, when one them fatally stabbed the other with a knife. The juvenile murderer was about 10 years old.

—The payments to the army since the beginning of the rebellion, amount, it is said, to $1,600,000,000.

—A codfish weighing 14 stones, having in its stomach a pair of spectacles with brass frames, was caught about three miles from Flambro Head, by William Warcap, a fisherman of that place. We call that a fish story—but it was quite a spectacle if true.

—David W. Hill, a well known attorney at St. Louis, fell from a fourth story window on Monday night killing himself almost instantly.

—A little girl in Melrose, Mass., set fire to a small heap of grass, and while watching the blaze, fell into the fire, and was so severely burned that she lived but a few hours.

—An entire family, consisting of father, mother, and seven sons and daughters, were found guilty of a systematic course of robbery at Hollidaysburg, Pa., last week.

—A matron in the neighborhood of Corry proposes to call her infant son Petroleum. She assigns as her excuse, that whenever she spanks him, she will "strike ile."

fifty-five per cent. of all the vessels in process of construction on the Atlantic coast.

—A terrific gale occurred at Key West on the 22d inst., and a large number of vessels went ashore, twenty wrecks being visible from the lookout of the steamer Massachusetts.

—Mr. A. J. Prints, superintendent of the Zanesville, Ohio, gas works was found dead in a street there last Thursday morning, about 2 o'clock, having been suffocated by a piece of tobacco (which he used, too freely) lodging in his wind pipe.

—A. J. Barrington, employed in Belcher's saloon, Philadelphia, bled to death from cutting a wart off one of his feet.

—Under the heading of "Reconstruction begun," the Boston Advertiser reports the following: "At the competitive declamation of Harvard College last Saturday, open to all applicants from the new Freshman class, the first premium was awarded to a student who had lost his arm serving as a captain in the Confederate army; the second to a young man of negro descent, the first undergraduate of that race who has ever been admitted to the University.

—Ink, buff, mauve and green starch is now made, and by its aid, any delicate fabric may be colored as well as stiffened.

—Parties from Logansport, Indiana, have purchased a lot together with a water privilege from the Minneapolis Water Power Co., for $12,500. It is situated immediately below the factory building of Demeritt & Brown. They intend to erect thereon next spring, a splendid flouring mill, containing ten run of stone. Capacity 800 barrels of flour per day.

A late invention is a self-fastening button, by which buttons are attached to any garment without the use of needle and thread. They can be instantly removed at will, and always stand straight and firm, never hanging half loose from the garment.

A countryman having partaken too freely of Pittsburg rum, while on a visit to that city, seated himself upon the curbstone to sleep off his potations, when his head falling on one side, he was soon strangled to death by the tight buttoned neck band of his shirt.

—The Burlington Hawkeye confirms the story that Mary Harris (the murderess) is in Richmond Va., working as a milliner under an assumed name. She left Burlington, the home of her family, some five or six week since.

—Cooper's Pills are the best.

Rights of Railroad Passengers.

The rights of passengers on Railways in reference to tickets and baggage, are of such interest that it is well to know the results of some recent decisions in Canadian courts upon the matter. A gentleman traveling on a first-class passenger ticket on the Great Western Railway, from Chatham to Toronto, had a traveling bag which he took with him into the car, not having offered it to be checked, nor having been asked so to do, or give it in charge of any official. At the London station where the train stopped for refreshments, he left it on his seat in the car, in order to secure his seat, and on his return from the refreshment room, it was gone. The company of Queen's Bench decided that the company was liable for the value, the system although it was not checked, the benefit of checking was introduced not for that of the railway company but for that of the passengers. A gentleman purchased from the same railway, "good only for fair to Detroit, Rate." He took the twenty days' excursion train, which ran as far as London; but he left it at St. Catherines, an intermediate station, and the agent of that place by the night express go on fifteen decided by the court of Queen's Bench, that the ticket was not a contract conferring on the holder a right to stop at every or any intermediate station, though within the allowed twenty days.

Sir Morton Peto and party have sailed for Europe, on the steamer Scotia with [illegible] as is stated, making arrangements respecting southern connections with their line, the Atlantic and Great Western railroad.

Miscellany.

DRIFTING.

BY NATHAN RICHARDSON ESQ.

My soul to-day
Is far away
Sailing the Vesuvian Bay;
My winged boat,
A speck afloat,
Swims round the purple peaks remote:

Round purple peaks
It sails and seeks
Blue inlets and their crystal creeks;
Where high rocks throw
Through deeps below,
A duplicated golden glow.

Far, vague and dim,
The mountains swim;
While on Vesuvius' misty brim,
With outstretched hands,
The gray smoke stands,

Here Ischia smiles
O'er liquid miles;
And yonder, bluest of the isles,
Calm Capri waits,
Her sapphire gates
Beguiling to her bright estates.

I heed not if
My rippling skiff
Float swift or slow from cliff to cliff;
With dreamful eyes
My spirit lies
Under the walls of Paradise.

Under the walls
Where swells and falls
The Bay's deep breast at intervals,
At peace I lie,
Blown softly by,
A cloud upon this liquid sky.

This day so mild
Is Heaven's own child,
With Earth and Ocean reconciled;
The airs I feel
Around me steal,
Are murmuring to the murmuring keel.

Over the rail
My hand I trail
Within the shadow of the sail;
A joy intense
The cooling sense
Glides down my drowsy indolence:

With dreamful eyes
My spirit lies
Where summer sings and never dies—
O'erwelled with vines
She grows and shines
Among her future oil and wines:

Her children hid
The cliffs amid,
Are gambolling with the gamboling kid;
Or down the wald,
With tipsy calls,
Laugh on the rocks like waterfalls.

The fisher's child,
With tresses wild,
Unto the smooth, bright sand beguiled,
With glowing lips
Sings as she skips,
Or pauses at the far off ships.

Yon deep bark goes
Where traffic blows
From lands of sun to lands of snows;
This happier one,
Its course is run
From lands of snow to lands of sun.

Go! happy ship
To ride and dip,
With blue eyes at at your lip!
Oh! happy crew,
My heart with you
Sails, and calls, and sings anew!

No more, no more,
This worldly shore
Upbraids me with its world uncouth;
With dreamful eyes
My spirit lies
Under the walls of Paradise.

Why the Putkammer Castle was Destroyed.

[The following interesting sketch from the Atlantic Monthly for November, is understood to be from the pen of the well-known ROBERT DALE OWEN.]

THERE is a test of truth in popular creeds and in human opinions generally which is prominently put forward by Herbert Spencer, and has been more or less distinctly stated by other writers, long before our time—a very searching and trustworthy test.

It is, in substance, this:—Whatever doctrine or opinion has received, throughout a long succession of centuries, the common assent of mankind, may be properly set down as being, if not absolutely true in its usually received form, yet founded on truth, and having, at least, a great, undeniable verity that underlies it.

If, however, there be conflicting details as to any doctrine, varying in form according to the sect or the nation that entertains it, then the test is to be received as affirming the grand underlying truth, but not as proving any of the conflicting varieties of investment in which particular sects or nations may choose to clothe it.

Thus the world's belief in the reality of another life, and in the doctrine of future reward and punishment.

In some form or other, such a faith has existed in every age and among almost every people. Charon and his boat might be the means of conveyance. Or the Believer, dying in battle for the creed of the Faithful, might expect to wake up in a celestial harem peopled with Houris. Or the belief might embody the matchless horrors painted by Dante; his dolorous city with the terrible inscription over the entrance-gate: "Lasciate ogni speranza, voi ch' entrate."

Again, the conception might be of a long unconscious interval after death, succeeded at last by a resuscitation; or it might be of another world, the supplement and immediate continuation of this, into which Death, herald, not destroyer, ushers us even while human friends are yet closing our eyes and composing our limbs. It might be of the Paradise in which, on the very day of the crucifixion, the penitent thief was to meet the Saviour of mankind; or it might be that Heaven, yet inscrutable or unpeopled, seen by some in long, distant perspective, shadowed forth in such lines as these:—

"That man, when laid in lonesome grave,
Shall sleep in Death's dark gloom,
Until the eternal morning wake
The slumbers of the tomb."

Yet, again, the idea may be of a Future of which all denizens shall be, on some Great Day, tried, as before an earthly court, doomed or by pronounced earthly tribunal, and sentence who, of his own set them by a presiding God, inflict upon sin impotent will, decides to measure for beyond condign punishment, in torment to quench all earthly severity,—of water to cool the flames, with no drop and ever. ed tongue, for ever

In other words, we ay human destiny in anoth world, receive, as to punishments optional and either of out of the indignation of literary owing who hates and requites offended judge manus natural and inherent of punis.

the very nature of the sin having out of Insanum requires a long carcera delirium ades. We may conceive of intemper- which are the awards of judicial shments or we may believe in those only ance; the inevitable results of eternal sin are nale law, a necessary sequence in but life to the bad passions and evil that this.

Those who incline to this latter aspe the Great Future, as the scene of rewa punishment supervening in the natural of things, may chance to find interesting beyond mere curiosity, in the following strange narrative.

There is not, perhaps, a country more rife in legends of haunted houses than Germany. No province but has its store of them. Many, drawn by tradition from the obscurity of the past, have lost, if they ever possessed, any claim to be regarded except as apocryphal. But others, of a recent date and better attested, cannot be disposed of in so summary a manner.

In furnishing a specimen of this latter class, I depart from a rule which I think it well to observe in regard to original narratives of character so marvellous: to record such, namely, only when they can be procured, direct from the lips of the witnesses themselves. This time to me second hand. I had no opportunity of cross-questioning the actors in the scene narrated. Yet I had the story from a gentleman of high respectability: the principal Secretary of the ——Legation at Naples: and his sources of information were direct and authentic.

In the southeastern portion of Pomerania, of the small town of Butow, there stood, not many years since, an ancient chateau. It was the ancestral residence of an old Pomeranian family of baronial rank; and the narrative of its destruction, with the causes that led thereto, is curious and remarkable.

Its former owner, the Baron von Putkammer, after leading a wild and dissolute life, had expired within its walls. For years previously, many a mysterious story, fraught with dark hints of seduction and infanticide, had been whispered over the surrounding country; and when at last death arrested the Baron's profligate career, some reported that he had been strangled in requital of outrage committed,—others that the Devil had taken home his own, as they had long expected.

His estate went to a relative of the same name, who granted the enjoyment of it to his eldest son, heir to the title. This young man, after a time, arrived to take possession. He found in the chateau the administrator of the deceased Baron's estate.

It was late, the first night, before he went to bed. Yet he was scarcely undressed, when he heard, through the stillness of the night, the approach of a carriage, at first rolling over the sharp gravel of the avenue, then entering the paved court-yard. This was succeeded by the noise of the front door opening, and the distinct sound of steps on the principal staircase.

Young Putkammer, surprised at this unseasonable visit, yet supposing it some friend who had been benighted, hastily donned his dressing-gown, and, with light in hand, stepped to the landing. Nothing could be seen there! But he heard behind him the opening of a door leading into the principal gallery of the chateau—a long hall which for some time had been out of use. It had been employed by the former owner of the castle as a banqueting-room, was hung with old family portraits, and, as the young man had noticed during the day, was so completely incumbered with furniture, which had been temporarily stored there, that no one could pass through it.

He returned in great surprise, which was much increased when he found the door of the gallery in question closed and locked. He listened, and heard quite distinctly, within the room, the noise of plates and dishes and the clatter of knives and forks. To this, after a time, succeeded the sound of shuffling cards and the rattle of money, as as if thrown on the table in the course of the game.

More and more astonished, he awoke his servant, and bade him listen at the door and tell him what he heard. The terrified valet reported the same sounds which had reached his master's ears. Thereupon the latter told him to arouse the administrator and request his presence.

When this gentleman appeared, the young nobleman eagerly asked if he could furnish any explanation of this strange disturbance.

"I was unwilling," said he, in reply, "to anticipate what you now witness, lest you might imagine I had some interested motive to prevent your coming hither. We are all familiar with these sounds. They occur every night at about the same hour. And we have sought in vain any natural explanation of their constant recurrence."

"Have you the key of the gallery?"

"Here it is."

The door was unlocked and thrown open. Silence and darkness! And when the lights were introduced, not an object was to be seen through the gloom but the old furniture confusedly piled up over the floor.

They closed and locked the door. Again the same sounds commenced: the clatter of dishes, the noise of revelling, the clink of gamblers' gold. A second time they opened the door, and this time quickly and suddenly, and a second time the sounds instantly ceased, and the hall, untenanted except by the silent portraits on its walls, appeared before them, the same still and gloomy lumber-room as before.

Baffled for the time, young Putkammer dismissed his attendants and retired to his chamber. Ere long he heard the door of the gallery open, the heavy footsteps sound on the stairway, the front door creak on its hinges,—and then the roll of the carriage, first over the stone pavement, then along the gravelled avenue, till the sounds gradually died away in the distance.

The next night he was ready dressed and prepared with lights. When, about the same hour, the noise of the approaching carriage was heard, he had the lights immediately carried to the top of the stairway, and he himself half descended the stairs. Up the stairs and past his very side came the footsteps; but neither living being nor spectral form could he perceive.

The same noises in the old banqueting hall. The same fruitless attempts to witness the revel, or to get at the secret, if any, of the imposition.

The young man was brave and devoid of superstition. Yet, in spite of himself, these mysterious sounds, renewed night after night, irritated his nerves, and preyed upon his quiet. He thought to break through the spell by inviting a party of living guests. They came, to the number of thirty or forty; but not for their presence did the invisible revellers intermit their nocturnal visit. All heard the approach of the carriage, the steps ascending the staircase, the sounds of revelry in the hall. And all, when the opened door disclosed, as went, but darkness and silence, turned away with a shudder,—and to the subsequent invitation of their host to favor him again with their company replied with some shallow apology, which he perfectly understood.

Thus deserted by his friends, and subjected, night after night, to the same ghastly annoyance, the young man found his health beginning to suffer, and decided to endure it no longer.

Returning to his father, he informed him that he would receive with gratitude the rents of the property, but only on condition that he was not required to reside in its haunted chateau.

The father, ridiculing what he termed his son's superstitious weakness, declared that he would himself take up his residence there for a time, assured that he could not fail to discover the true cause of the sounds that driven off its former occupants.

But the result belied his expectations. Like his son, he never could see anything. But the self-same sounds nightly assailed his ears. He caused the hall to be cleared out and occupied daily. So long as it was lighted and there was anyone within it, no sounds were heard; and by thus occupying it all night, the disturbance could be averted. But as often as it was closed or left in darkness, the invisible revel recommenced at the wonted hour, preceded by the same preliminaries, and in the same manner.

Left untried to penetrate the mystery, and to detect the trick, if to trickery the disturbances were due. But every effort to obtain an explanation of the phenomena utterly failed. And the father, like the son, after a few weeks' struggle against the nightly annoyance, found his nervous system unable to cope with the constant strain upon it, and left the chateau, determined never again to enter its walls.

The next expedient was to rent it to those whom the fame of its ghostly reputation had not reached. But this was unavailing, except for a brief season. No tenant would remain beyond a week or ten days. This plan, therefore, was abandoned in despair; the principal rooms were closed; and the building remained for years untenanted, except by one or two unwilling dependants.

Finally the proprietor, deeming all change hopeless, and finding that the keeping up of the chateau was a mere useless expense, resolved to destroy it. The dead had fairly driven out the living. He had it pulled down; and a few low, ruined walls alone remained to mark the place where it stood.

to have been heard by those who were bold enough to approach them at the midnight hour. When this was reported to the proprietor, he determined, if possible, to outroot this last remnant of disturbance. Accordingly, he caused to be erected, out of the remaining materials of the chateau, and on the spot where it had stood, a small chapel, now to be found there, a mute witness of the story I have here told.

The chapel was completed in 1834. Even while the rites attending its consecration were in progress, strange and unwonted noises disturbed the congregation; but from that time on they ceased; and the chapel has since been entirely free from any such.

A relative of the proprietor, a young officer in the Prussian army, was present at the consecration, himself witnessed the noises in question, and had previously heard from the parties themselves, all the former occurrences. He it was who related the circumstances to my informant, the Baron von R——, a gentleman of a grave and earnest character, whose manner, in repeating them to me, evinced sincerity and conviction. But is is not merely upon his authority that the details of the narrative rest. They are, it would seem, of public notoriety in Pomerania; and hundreds of persons in the neighborhood, as my informant declared, can yet be found to testify, from personal observation, to the general accuracy of the above narration.*

The most salient point in this story is the practical and business part of it—the actual pulling down of the chateau, as a last resort, to get rid of the disturbance. Mere fancy is not wont to lead to such a result as that. The owner of a piece of valuable property is not likely to destroy it for imaginary cause. Interest is a marvellous quickener of the wits, and may be supposed to have left no stone unturned, before assenting to such a sacrifice.

I inquired of the gentleman to whom I am indebted for the above narrative if there were no skeptical surmises in regard to the origin of the disturbance. He replied, that he had heard but one—namely, that the administrator of the deceased Baron's estate might, from motives of interest and to have the field to himself, have resorted to a trick to scare the owners from the premises.

It is beyond a doubt that such devices have been successfully employed ere now for similar purpose. An example may be found in the story of the monks of St. Bruno, and the shrewd device they employed to obtain from King Louis the Saint the grant of one of his ancestral palaces. It was in this wise.

Having heard his confessor speak in high terms of the goodness and learning of the monks of St. Bruno, the King expressed a desire to found a community of them near Paris. Bernard de la Tour, the superior, seized upon the occasion, and Louis assigned to them, as residence, a handsome dwelling in the village of Chantilly. It so happened, that from their windows they had a fine view of the old palace of Vauvert, originally erected for a royal residence by King Robert, but which had been deserted for years. The worthy monks, oblivious of the Tenth Commandment, may have thought the place would suit them; but ashamed, probably, to make a formal demand of it from the King, they seem to have set their wits to work to procure it by stratagem.

At all events, the palace of Vauvert, which had never labored under any imputation against its character until they became its neighbors, began almost immediately afterwards to acquire a bad name. Frightful shrieks were heard to proceed thence at night. Blue, red, and green lights were seen to glimmer from its casements, and then suddenly disappear. The clanking of chains succeeded, together with the howlings of persons as in great pain. Then a ghastly spectre, in pea-green, with long, white beard and serpent's tail, appeared at the principal windows, shaking his fist at passers-by. This went on for months.

The King, to whom these wonders were duly reported, deplored the scandal, and sent commissioners to look into the affair. To these the six monks of Chantilly, indignant that the Devil should play such pranks before their very faces, suggested that, if they could but have the palace as a residence, they would undertake speedily to cure it of all ghostly intrusion. A deed, with the royal sign-manual, conveyed Vauvert to the monks of St. Bruno. It bears the date of 1259. From that time all disturbances ceased—the green ghost, according to the creed of the pious, being laid to rest forever under the waters of the Red Sea.†

Some will surmise that the system of the castle of Putkammer is but a modified version of that of the palace of Vauvert. One who was not on the spot, to witness the phenomena and personally to verify all the details, cannot rationally deny the possibility of such a hypothesis. Yet I find little parallel between the cases, and difficulties, apparently insuperable, in the way of accepting such a solution of the mystery.

The French palace was deserted, and nothing was easier than to play off there, unchallenged, such commonplace tricks as the showing of colored lights, the clanking of chains, shrieks, groans, and a howling spectre with beard and tail—all in accordance with the prejudices of that age; nor do we read that any one was bold enough to penetrate, during the night, into the scene of the disturbance; nor had the King's commissioners any personal motive to urge a thorough research; nor had a pious sovereign the owner of a dozen palaces, any strong inducement to refuse the cession of one of these, already untenanted and useless, to certain holy men, the objects of his veneration.

Very different, in every respect, is the affair of the Pomeranian castle. It is a narrative of the skeptical nineteenth century, that sets down all ghost stories as nursery tales. The owner, and his son, the future possessor, each at separate times and for weeks, resided in the castle, and occupy themselves in repeated attempts to discover whether they have been imposed on. The self-same trick, if trick it was, is repeated night after night, without variation. The roll of the approaching carriage-wheels, first along the gravelled avenue, then over the paved court-yard, while no carriage was visible,—how were such sounds to be imitated? The fall of the footsteps, unaccompanied by aught in bodily form, up the lighted stairway, and past the very side of the bold youth who stepped down to meet them,—what human device could successfully simulate these? The sound of the opening gallery door and the noises of the midnight orgies, with full opportunity to examine every nook and corner of the scene whence to every ear, the same identical indications came,—how, in reproducing these, could trickery, time after time, escape detection? Both father and son, it is evident, had their suspicions aroused; and both, as evidently, were men of courage, not to be blinded by superstitious panic. Is it a probable thing that they would destroy an old and valued family mansion, without having exhausted every conceivable expedient to detect imposture?

Nor was this imposture, if as such we are to regard it, conducted in approved form, after the orthodox fashion. It assumed a shape contrary to the usually received ideas. No spectre clanking its chains; no lights burning blue; no groans of the tormented; no ordinary getting-up of a ghostly disturbance. But a mere succession of sounds, indicating, if we are to receive and interpret them literally, the periodical return from the world of spirits of some of its tenants, restless and unblest. Was this the machinery a mystifier was likely to select?

Such are the difficulties that attend the hypothesis of a concerted plan of deception. They will be overlooked by those who have made up their minds that communications between this world and the next are impossible, and who will content themselves with some kind or other it plainly must have been.

And such skeptics will very properly remind us of other difficulties in the way of accepting as a reality the alleged phenomena. What have the spirits of the departed to do with conveyances resembling those of earthly structure? Are there incorporeal carriages and horses? Can grave men admit such fancies as these? Or is all this, even if genuine, only symbolical,—sounds without objective counterpart? Then what becomes of the positive character of this narrative, as a lesson, as a warning to us? The whole degenerates into an noted parable. It fades into the idle pageantry of a dream. Thus we lose ourselves in shadowy conjecture.

But, none the less, the facts, if facts they be, remain to be dealt with. And if at last we concede to the ultramundane origin of these manifestations, whether as objective reality or only as truth-teaching allegory, what a field is opened to our speculations regarding the realms of spirit and the possible punishments there in store for those who, by degrading their natures in this world, may have rendered themselves unfit for happiness in the next,—and who, perhaps, still attracted to earth by the debasing excesses they once mistook for pleasure, may be doomed, in the phantom repetition of their sins, to detect their naked reality, to have stamped on their consciousness the vileness of these without the brutal gratifications that veiled it, the essence of vice shorn of its sensual halo, the grossness without the glitter: if so, a terrible explation!

I beg it may not be imagined, that, because I see grave difficulties in the way of regarding this case as one of imposture, I therefore set it up as proof of a novel theory regarding future punishments. A structure so great cannot be erected on foundation so slender. I but furnish it as a chance contribution towards the probabilities of ultramundane intercourse,—as material for thought,—as one of those hints which future facts may render valueless, but which, on the other hand, other observed phenomena may possibly serve to work out and corroborate and explain.

* I find in my journal the following:—"August 17, 1857. Read over to the Baron von P—— the foregoing narrative; and he assented to its accuracy in every particular."

† This story is given in Garinet's Histoire de la Magie en France, p. 75.

‡ Yet in a recent case occurring in England, and authenticated in the strongest manner, the "sound of marriage driving to the door when none was there" is one of the incidents given on the authority of the lady who had witnessed the disturbances, and who furnishes a detailed account of them. See "Ficts and Fantasies," a sequel to "Lights and Sounds, the Mystery of the Day," by Henry Spicer, London, 1858, pp. 76-101.

How to Avoid Cholera.

At a meeting of the New York Health Commissioners, a few days since, Dr. Sayres, of Brooklyn, gave the following general rules for the treatment of cholera patients: "Great fear and anxiety had a great deal to do in the prostration and spread of disease, and influenced the physical condition to such a degree as to make persons more subject to it than they would otherwise be. He thought if the people understood the single fact that the cholera is not necessarily a fatal disease, and that it always is preceded by certain premonitory symptoms, such as lassitude, great languor, debility and a diarrhœa, and that in this stage of the disease it is nearly always curable, if the proper precautionary measures are taken, it would tend to allay the popular terror. At this stage of the disease, it is of the first importance to paytention to the first symptom, which is diarrhœa. At the very first approach, the patient should assume a horizontal posture and retain it, with the hips higher than the shoulders, and under no circumstances assume the perpendicular, even for a moment. Absolute, positive rest is needed, the body being kept in a warm condition. Any artificial means can be used for that which may be necessary. The main thing is the horizontal position, and perfect rest at the very commencement of the disease. If the patient is down stairs when taken, let him stay there or be carried up; but do not let him walk up. If he is out visiting, let him stay at his friend's house. Keeping this position for forty-eight hours, in the majority of instances, the disease will pass over, and the patient, on recovery, need make no very great changes in his mode of life. Of course, if he has bad habits, he should reform them; eat and drink rationally, and attend to business as usual, but not overdo himself. In the present state of the atmosphere, when pestilence is abroad, the system is rendered more liable to exhaustion, and he should husband his strength by avoiding violent exercise. With these few precautionary measures, and a proper sanitary condition of the city, and a rigid enforcement of quarantine, we may hope to escape any pestilential epidemic."

"I Call You."

Not long since at eminent divine in the state of Illinois (it won't do to mention dates, names or places), visited a distant town for the purpose of preaching the dedicatory sermon in a new church. Court was in session and on Saturday evening the judge and lawyers congregated in a room and amused themselves by card playing and story telling. The divine, at the request of F., a lawyer, visited the room. Coming upon the group so suddenly, they were unable to hide their cards and w——y. The divine looked on awhile, and then raising his hat, invited the gentlemen present to attend the church next day and hear him preach. This they agreed to do, and Sunday found judge and lawyers seated in the women corner."

The sermon over, the minister announced: "Friends, the citizens of this town have built a fine church; there is still $1,600 due. We propose to raise the money by subscription to-day, and (eyeing the judge), I get one hundred dollars! who goes better?" The judge, glancing at the lawyers, slowly responded, "I see your hundred." "Thank you, brother," said the divine: "will any one raise it?" looking at the same time at lawyer No. 1. The lawyer saw he was in for it, and quietly responded, "I go a hundred blind," and so on through the list. The divine raked down the bar and their money, until the scene closed by a sharp, shrill voice, announcing, "I see the last hundred and call you!"

Our readers can imagine the astonishment of that congregation. We venture, however, that those lawyers will not again invite the divines to witness a "social game of whist," where men "see" each other, "go it blind, and "call the hand."

—A retired officer aged seventy, at Quevrain in Belgium, wrote a letter stating that the brilliancy of the sun rendered life unsupportable, and then committed suicide.

Muscular Labor.

An English stage-horse used to work eight miles per day, which he ran in about one hour—the average speed, stops included, being seven and a half miles per hour. A wagon horse travels 20 miles per day, and works eight hours. These rates were found by experience to be the most economical. An engineer, a few years ago, tried the effect of increasing the work of horses from about 40,000 to 44,000 lbs. lifted 1 foot per minute; the result was that in less than 2 months out of 30 horses 21 died. Water finding that the best horses working 6 hours per day can lift 33,000 lbs. 1 foot per minute, adopted that as the horse-power; but the general practice is to work 8 hours and lift 22,000 lbs. 1 foot per minute and this is all that ordinary horses can do without wearing out so fast as to make an increase of work more costly than this rate.

The rate at which men can work has not been so carefully ascertained; but we have had sensational reports, that in Cuba, slaves and coolies have been worn out in seven years. Be that as it may, the employers of labor and navies would keep careful records of the labor of men under their charge, and report to the Smithsonian Institute; and if railway companies and great industrial establishments would employ physicians to watch over the health of their people, and attend gratis, and employ their leisure in keeping such records, it might help to build up a reliable hygienic science, on which an improved practice might be founded.

The introduction of machines to relieve men from the expenditure of muscular power has already done much to increase the duration of their powers. A man at a planing machine is a man of leisure compared with the man that chipped and filed to produce plane surfaces, within forty years or less. The small steam hammers now coming into use give immense relief to the muscles of forge-men; and there is a rapid increase of machines to substitute the power of steam for that of muscle.

The fatigue and exhaustion of power, and the wear that tends to shorten life are now very much less than they were when we first saw machine shops. Then men had to do work like horses; now they do little more than superintend the working machine-tools. Then they were more worn in two hours than they now are in ten hours, upon the main operations of finishing.

Thus there is a constant diminution of hard labor. But still we have much more to do in this way. Men at the vice have often hard work with the chisel and file, which ought to be done by shaping tools, and probably will be. Forge-men still work hard. In fact, some men in a machine establishment really do three or four times as much hard work as others. A man at a lathe or planer, on light work, can endure 14 hours work per day with less effect on his constitution than 6 hours at a forge would have.

There is no good reason why men should not use seats more than they do when attending machine tools. Proprietors would do well to provide good seats, to be used freely when there is no necessity to stand.

A horse that is run too fast, or too much loaded, is soon worn out, and dies; three years is the average in stage services. But one that is mod rately worked will last ten years; so, if a man works with all his energy many hours per day, he will soon wear out. Laboring men in England, according to statistics, do not sustain nearly to the age of professional men and men of leisure. But if too much work shortens life, too little or insufficient exercise is generally supposed to have the like effect. What we do not yet know is the approximate amount of labor which is best for health and longevity. Perhaps it might be six hours for the man who does very hard work, and twelve for one who does light work.

But the question is not an abstracted one, applicable to men who can work little or much, as they choose; it is a practical question to men who have to earn their living; and in the solution of it we have to consider whether it is best to labor moderately, and live in an unhealthy tenement house, or to labor up to the maximum power consistent with health, and earn enough to live in a healthy house and region, and buy good food, clothing, and other means of health. Probably, a man with three or four dollars additional wages earned by working more hours, and spent in additional means of health, will preserve his own health and that of his family and live longer and have more enjoyment than he could have had with less work. This we must consider. We have a constant complaint from the newspapers—which echo the voice of the people, so far as we know—the condition of our cities and towns is so bad that a vast amount of time is lost by sickness; and the deaths in some locations is more than double what it is in others. Now it will cost extra work to make this condition better; and we have to consider whether to lessen the hours of work, and be slow in improving the cleanliness and healthiness of the place we live in, or to keep up or increase the hours of work, so that we may earn means to avoid the causes of sickness and premature death. And this is the only way that men can get only what they earn; no contrivance will long enable any class to get high wages for little work while others are not doing as well. We have simply to inquire how it will do for all men to shorten their work. There is a time of work which will give a maximum product—a maximum of enjoyment, if men work less they will, on the whole, fall short of the greatest good.

Some may make up by gambling in various forms, and many more may hope to do so; but those who are not gamblers by trade will be the losers by this method of making up for lack of industry.

But one thing is certain, mechanics that work twenty hours will earn nearly twice as as much as those those that work ten hours. And if we get plenty of machines, they will lessen our hard work. In fact, it is by invention that we shall lessen our labor.—American Artisan.

SENSE AND NONSENSE.

—When Lord Alvanley came back safe and sound from his duel with Mr. O'Connell, he astonished his hackman by giving him a guinea. "All that, your honor," queried the Jehu, "for driving you to the wood?" "Not a bit of it my man," responded his lordship, "that's not for taking me out, but for bringing me back."

—Discontent will live and be vigorous on such a slender diet that it is next to impossible to starve it to death when it has once been brought into existence.

—It has been proposed to tax stays, but it was objected to on the ground that it would diminish consumption.

—A classic southern editor says that if the Naiads were constantly bathing, he presumes from their name that the Dryads were the ones who brought them their towels.

—Prosperity is no just scale; adversity is the only true balance to weigh friends.

—Dr. Robertson observed that Johnson's jokes were the rebukes of the righteous, described in the Scripture as being like excellent oil.

—"Yes," exclaimed Burke, full of vitriol.

—Counsellor Gripps being on a party at Castle Martyn, one of the company, a physician, strolled out into the churchyard. Dinner being served, and the doctor not having returned, some one expressed surprise as to where he could be gone to.

"Oh," said the counsellor, "he is but just stepped out to pay a visit to some of his old patients."

—Artemus Ward says "It would hev bin more'n ten dollars in Jeff. Davis' pocket, if he'd never bin born."

Terrible Steamboat Explosion.

Shocking and Heartrending Scenes.

Many of our readers will remember the account given during the past summer of the launch of the splendid new Hudson River steamer, "St. John," of the "People's Line," the largest river steamer yet built in America. It is upon this boat that one of the most horrible accidents of the year happened on Sunday morning, Oct. 29th. The boat was just passing Twentieth street, on the trip down from Albany to New York, the passengers being nearly all in their berths asleep, when, at precisely 3:30, a

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

was heard, the cabins were filled with hot, choking steam; the floors were flooded with boiling water, and a cry of agony, too long and fearful to be described, rang through the steamer from end to end. Quick as thought, the loosened steam with all its mighty power, tore down a portion of the steamer's side, broke into a thousand splinters the partitions between rooms Nos. 121 and 123, smashed into fragments the women in one room, blasted and mangled and slew a mother and infant in the other; whirled swiftly through the upper ceiling, uprooting the flooring of room No. 41, seized the occupant of the lower berth, enveloping him in its blistering folds, filled his lungs with its torturing heat, drove the life from him, and then passing with fearful violence into the adjoining room, No. 42, it blasted the sleeping form of a wife whose husband was by her side, separating forever and in the most marked and terrible manner, those whom God had joined together. While the crash of broken glass and fractured furniture above, drowned the death shrieks of these victims, the passengers in their rooms, awakened by the noise and frightened by the tumult, jumped hastily from their berths and rushed precipitately and foolishly forth into the saloon. The majority of them were in their night-dresses, and with uncovered feet, stepped into with which the cabins were flooded, and opened their lungs for the inhalation of the scalding steam.

THE BOILING WATER

Of the horrible sights to be seen after the accident, one account speaks as follows: Led by curiosity, we walked toward the pillar, when our footsteps were stopped by a dreadful sight, upon which no living man could look unquailed. A large white cloth, curiously outlined with elevations and depressions, spotted with blood stains, darkened with matter and smeared with gore, suggested a more terrible revelation. Just then a brother in search of a sister came to see if she was there; the sheet was raised, and oh, dreadful sight, the victims of the slaughter lay before us. No battle-field could exhibit such mutilation, no thicket inhabited by wild beast could boast more perfect disfiguration. The steam in its operation must have been instantaneous, and death most likely carried off a victim ere a second's agony had followed the blow of the assailant. No one of the adults lay straight out, but with clenched fist, uplifted knee, bloated countenance, disfigured features, and in most instances, with skin entirely peeled away, they lay, hideous and repulsive. More touching than pen can paint was the lifeless forms of three little ones, that unconsciously kept their mother's company to the unknown shore beyond. One pretty child, not more than three years of age, with tiny hands outstretched, alone preserved the semblance even of humanity; upon the rest we gladly drop the cloth of forgetfulness.

Turning from this tableau of the dead, rigid and terrible, we were attracted by the screams and moans of

THE BAGGAGE MASTER,

Mr. Addison Searle, who lay stretched upon a blood-stained mattress in the further corner. The poor fellow's head and face was a mass of cuts and bruises and blisters. His head was tied and bandaged, and his body comfortably covered with blankets. If he raved it was with much good sense, for his constant utterance was prayerful. While we stood near him, we were the unwilling witness of a most one of those normal, but hardly necessary sequences to troubles of this character. The friends of Mr Searle, instead of waiting until his wounds were properly dressed, his blood washed away and he ready for removal, hastened to his wife with the tidings of his condition. Instantly she determined to see him, and it was of her interview with him that we spoke. Wildly entering the saloon she rushed with all the fervor of affection to his couch, and throwing herself upon him, cried in the bitterness of her sorrow, with utterances that were heart-rending to the hearers and exciting to the sufferer, who turned and tossed in helpless wretchedness.

HEART-RENDING SCENE,

One man escaped the boiling water that was flooding the cabin, by grasping the chandelier and raising himself on its arms. Among those who were scalded to death was a newly-married pair, returning from their bridal tour. They had been married at St. Luke's Church, in New York, on the Thursday previous by the Reverend J. H. Turtle. On Tuesday following, their funeral obsequies were solemnized in the same place by the same clergyman. In all some eleven persons were killed, and fourteen severely wounded.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

	October 6th, 1868.
BROOM CORN—Fair to good	$175.00	@$200.00
BEEVES	4.50	@ 7.00
BEANS	.75	@ 1.25
BRAN	8.00	@ 8.25
BUTTER	.30	@ .42
CHEESE	.17	@ .18
COFFEE—Rio	.21	@ .22
Java	.50	@ .51
EGGS	.38	@ .40
FRUITS—Green Apples	4.00	@ 5.50
Sicily Lemons	11.00	@ 14.00
Havana Oranges	18.00	@ 20.00
Catawba Grapes	.14	@ .15
Cranberries	14.00	@ 17.00
Dried N. Y. Apples	15½	@ 16½
Do Peaches	.45	@ .50
Raisins, M. R.	6.12	@ 6.37
FLOUR—Winter Extra	9.40	@ 11.00
Spring	7.25	@ 7.75
Spring Supers	5.50	@ 6.00
Rye	5.60	@ 6.40
FISH—Mackerel, No. 1, half bbl	10.00	—
Whitefish	7.50	—
Codfish, per hundred	9.50	@ 10.00
GRAIN—Corn, No. 1	.42	@ .41
Barley	.45	@ .47
Oats	.39	@ .41
Wheat—Winter	1.88	@ 2.00
Spring, No. 1	1.15	@ 1.18
HOGS	10.00	@ 12.00
LUMBER—First Clear	60.00	@ 65.00
Fencing	20.00	—
Common Dressed Flooring	37.00	@ 40.00
LARD	.25	@ .26
PORK—Mess	83.00	@ 84.00
POTATOES	.40	@ .60
SUGARS—Cuba	10½	@ 11½
New York Refined	21	@ 21½
White C.	20	@ 20½
White B.	19½	@ 20
Yellow C.	17½	@ 18
SEEDS—Timothy, ⅞ bug	3.00	—
Flax	2.90	—
SHINGLES—Sawed A	6.25	@ 6.40
SALT—Fine	2.20	—
Coarse	2.50	— 2.60
Paper, without sack	.75	—
TEAS—Young Hyson	1.30	@ 1.80
Imperial	1.60	@ 2.20
Japan	1.50	@ 1.55
Oolong	1.10	@ 1.30
WOOL—Tub Washed	.50	@ .51
Fine	.33	@ .37
Tub Washed	.60	@ .65

WANTED—AGENTS.—$100 to $200 per month, everywhere, male or female, to sell the celebrated COMMON SENSE FAMILY SEWING MACHINE, improved and perfected. Will do all kinds of work. Retails for $15. Every second one can be sold. Liberal discounts to parties ordering a dozen machines. Fully warranted three years. For terms and particulars address MATHEWS & KING, P. O. Drawer 6234, 55 Clark St. Chicago, Ills.

SKATES.
40 Different Styles!

20,000 PAIRS. TO THE TRADE OF THE NORTH WEST, AT EASTERN PRICES! Send for descriptive list and price list to E. E. WESTON, Western Skate Depot, corner of State and Randolph streets, CHICAGO, Ill.

WANTED—AGENTS.—The greatest book of modern times. Private, suffering and married citizens, LIFE AND DEATH IN HOLY PERSONS. By Robt. H. Kellogg, an Author of celebrity. Some had a book each session. Within twenty days 8,000 copies were sold, and 20,000 ordered. Address A. RIBBLE, 68 Washington street, Chicago, Illinois.

FAIRBANKS' STANDARD SCALES, OF ALL KINDS. Fairbanks, Greenleaf & Co., No. 172 LAKE STREET, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

New Advertisements.

WANTED—AGENTS.—$100 to $200 per month, everywhere, male or female, to sell the celebrated COMMON SENSE FAMILY SEWING MACHINE, improved and perfected. Will do all kinds of work. Retails for $15. Every second one can be sold. Liberal discounts to parties ordering a dozen machines. Fully warranted three years. For terms and particulars address MATHEWS & KING, P. O. Drawer 6234, 55 Clark St. Chicago, Ills.

SKATES.
40 Different Styles!

20,000 PAIRS. TO THE TRADE OF THE NORTH WEST, AT EASTERN PRICES! Send for descriptive list and price list to E. E. WESTON, Western Skate Depot, corner of State and Randolph streets, CHICAGO, Ill.

LASAK & MORRIS,
FURRIERS AND HATTERS,
107 Randolph Street, Chicago.
Branch of F. W. Lisk's Fans, No. 520 Broadway, New York.
IMPORTED AND AMERICAN
FURS IN ALL STYLES,
For Ladies and Gentlemen.
SLEIGH ROBES, BUFFALO SKINS,
Hats, Caps,
BUCKSKIN GLOVES AND MITTENS,
UMBRELLAS, CANES,
And all goods in the above line for sale at moderate prices.
FUR GOODS
Manufactured to order, and CASH PAID FOR ALL KINDS OF RAW FURS.

Cash House!
Immense Stock!
N. F. MERRILL,
Wholesale Dealer in

Kerosene Lamps,
Kerosene Lanterns,
Kerosene Chandeliers,
Kerosene Chimneys,
Kerosene Burners,
Kerosene Wicks,
Kerosene Cooking Lamps
and Coal Oil Goods of every Description.
Hotel & Table Glassware.
A local Agent wanted in every town in the North West, for Fish's new Patent Kerosene Cooking Lamps.
Orders from the trade solicited and promptly filled
71 and 73 Randolph Street, Ch

One of the Largest

ESTABLISHMENT

In Southern michigan.

One of the best filled Establishments!

A LARGE STOCK.

Most Varied

Stock of Furniture

Is to be found at

VanTine & Smith's

ROOMS IN THE

NEW BUILDING,

South Side Chicago St, Tecumseh,

Great Bargains

Are now offered to wholesale or retail buyers.

Among our assortment of Furniture may be found,

Various Styles and Prices

OF SOFAS,

TETE-A-TETES,

MAHOGANY, EASY, WOOD SEAT, CANE SEAT

AND ROCKING CHAIRS

FRENCH, COTTAGE, COMMON AND TRUNDLE,

BEDSTEADS,

MARBLE TOP, WRITING, CARD AND

TEA TABLES,

What Nots, Cradles, Bureau ribs, Desks, Show Cases, Stands, Book Cases, Cupboards, Washstands, Lounges, &c. &c. &c.

Furniture made to order on short notic by the best of Workmen.

LOOKING GLASSES,

At Low Prices,

A large assortment of Moulding on hand and Pic. ures Framed to Order.

COFFINS,

We keep constantly on hand a large and full assortment of Coffins and will make to order all kinds either Night or Day, and finished and trimmed in the best style.

A Hearse Furnished when Desired.

D. VanTine,
G. Smith.

Tecumseh, June 11th, 1863.

A. JAMES

Is Still at the Old Stand

Corner of Chicago and Evans Streets,

TECUMSEH, - - MICH

Where you will always find him ready to sell you anything you want in the line of

Groceries & Provisions,

I keep the largest and best assortment of

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
FRUITS,
SALT,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WOOD,
WILLOW,
STONE WARE,
&c. &c.,

Of any house in town, which I will sell for Cash cheaper than any other man.

Having had eleven years experience in the business, and always buying for Cash I am enabled to offer better inducements to cash customers than new hands in the busines If you dont believe it, ask your neighbors where they get their Groceries and where they buy them the

CHEAPEST.

Try me and judge for yourselves.

n768 A. JAMES.

This is the place never mind the Black Board,

New Firm at the Old Quarters!

Deuel & Weatherhead,

General Dealers in

Groceries & Provisions,

Have on hand and are constantly receiving at their store the largest stock of

SUGARS, COFFEE,
MOLLASSES, TEA,
SYRUP, SPICES,
FISH, TOBACCO,
WOODEN WARE,

That was ever brought into Tecumseh!

They will at the same time pay the

Highest Cash Price,

FOR COUNTRY PRODUCE, OF ALL KINDS.

They keep constantly on hand

PORK LARD,
COD FISH, and
in fact everything
that anybody or his
brother ever want.

Live and let Live,

will always be our motto. We wil not be undersold, and we wil pay as much for butter, eggs, lard, potatoes, &c. as any

OTHER MAN DARE SELL

As all our neighbors know

NE W DRUG STORE

M. Wright, has just received from New York, and is now opening a new stock of all of which will be sold very low for cash. Everything new and fresh. Store one door east of Hood's, north side of Chicago street.

Groceries, Paints, Oils &c.

L. DREW'S

NEW HARDWARE!!

Having received from New York and other eastern cities a large Stock of the following goods viz:

STOVES IN ENDLESS VARIETY!

Iron, Steel Nails, Cutlery, Putty, Glass. Window Sashes,

House Trimmings,

Carpenter's Tools, Farming Tools Coopers Tools and Chain Pumps, Bolts, and a

Variety of SHELF GOODS,

PURCHASED FOR CASH Before THE LATE ADVANCE,

They are offered for sale at prices which defy competition. All kinds of

Tin ware

constantly on hand and made to order of the best material and by experienced workmen, also

Copper, Sheet Iron. and Zinc,

Also the

Good Samaritan COOKING STOVE,

one of the best stoves in the country.

Agent for the sale of the UNIVERSAL

CLOTHES WRINGER

The easiest and most reliable Wringer ye invented. Warranted to give satisfaction.—Take one and try it.

L. DREW.

---

18 Pronunciemento 65.

GLOBE MILLS.

This well known and popular Mill is

New in Good Running Order,

and prepared to do Grinding Grists for the farmers in a satisfactory manner, will endeavor to make a good yield and have the flour suit.

Old Customers

will be pleased to retain, and would

How well we can do For them

To such as

PREFER EXCHANGING THEIR GRAIN

for flour, I shall be ready to accommodate, having always on hand a

SUPPLY OF FLOUR,

There can usually be found at the Mill for Sale

Best White Wheat Flour,
Best Red Wheat Flour,
2nd best Red Wheat Flour,
At Wholesale or Retail.
Corn Meal, Bolted and Coarse,
Fine Midlings, B. . Flour,
Ship Stuffs, B. w. Bran,
Mixed feed for horses and cattle,
Corn and Oats ground for horse feed.

This Mill can more often grind, because of its unfailing

SUPPLY OF WATER,

and does more certainly have a supply of Flour and Feed always on hand, than any other mill for miles around.

Farmers are invited to bring their wheat to the Globe Mill and get THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE.

They will always also usually find a market at the Mill for their other grains.

Wm. HAYDEN.

HAYDEN'S

WARE-HOUSE,

The Subscriber has for sale at his Warehouse,

AND LUMBER YARD

THE FOLLOWING:

Course and Fine Sat.

WATER LIME

Calcined Plaster, Plaster, Stone Lime,

RED AND WHITE WHEAT FLOUR

COARSE AND FINE MIDLINGS, BRAN, MEAL,

Corn In the Ear and Shelled.

A goo assortment of the kinds of lumber usually called for.

Flooring, Scantling, Joists, Oak Fence Boards, Pine Siding, dressed; White wood Siding, seasoned, Barn Boards, Lumber, assorted qualities & thickness,

Doors and Sash

Made of the best seasoned pine of assorted sizes,

SHINGLES

Of different kinds from the best No. 1 pine to the best No. 1 hard wood. Will fill with dispatch any orders for bills of Lumber if practicable. All the above articles will be sold

WHOLESALE And RETAIL

At Reasonable Prices.

STORAGE FOR GOODS

May be had at the warehouse, also goods received and sold on commission. Wheat purchased at the highest market price, also received on storage. Corn, Oats Buck wheat, and Rye usually bought at market price and Cash paid for all descriptions of merchantable Lumber.

Wm HAYDEN

WARD & TRIGLAND,

Are now receiving a Large assortment of

Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing,

Groceries, Boots & Shoes, Hats & Caps, Kerosene Oil, &c.

Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

The Science of Health!

Every Man his own Physician.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS,

AND

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

Disorders of the stomach, Liver & Bowels.

The Stomach is the great centre which influences the health or the disease of the system—Abused or debilitated by excess—indigestion, offensive breath and physical prostration are the natural consequences. Allied to the brain, it is the source of headache, mental depression, nervous complaints and unrefreshing sleep. The liver becomes affected and generates bilious disorders, pains in the side &c. The Bowels sympathize by Costiveness, Diarrhœa and Dysentry. The principal action of these Pills is on the stomach and the liver, lungs, bowels and kidneys participate in their recuperative and regenerative operation.

Erysipelas and Salt Rheum.

Are two of the most common and virulent disorders prevalent on this continent, to these the Ointment is especially antagonistic its modus operandi is first to eradicate the venom and then complete the cure.

Bad Legs, Old Sores, and Ulcers.

Cases of many years' standing, that have perinaciously refused to yield to any other remedy or treatment have invariably succumbed to a few applications of this powerful unguent.

Eruptions on the Skin.

Arising from a bad state of the blood or chronic diseases, are eradicated and a clear and transparent surface regained by the restorative action of this Ointment. It surpasses many of the cosmetics and other toilet appliances in its power to dispel rashes and other disfigurements of the face.

Female Complaints.

Whether in the young or old, married or single, at the dawn of Womanhood, or the turn of life, these tonic medicines display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon precptible in the health of the patient being a purely vegetable preparation, they are safe and reliable remedy for all classes of females in every condition of health and station of life.

Piles and Fistula

Every form and feature of these prevalent and stubborn disorders is eradicated locally and entirely by the use of this emollient; warm fomentations should precede its application. Its healing qualities will be found to be thorough and invariable.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bunions,	Mercurial Eruptions,	Swelled Gands
Sprains,	Burns,	Piles,
Sore Legs,	Stiff Joints,	Chapped hands
Tetter,	Rheumatism,	Sore Breasts,
Chilblains,	Ringworm,	Sore Head,
Ulcers,	Fistula,	Sore Throats,
Gout,	Salt Rheum,	Scalds,
Lumbago,	Sores of all kinds,	Skin Diseases
Wounds of all kinds.

CAUTION—None are genuine unless the words "HOLLOWAY, NEW YORK AND LONDON," are discernable as a Watermark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box; the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

 Sold at the manufactory of Professor HOLLOWAY 80 Maiden Lane, New York and by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicine, throughout the civilized world.

☞ There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

D. NOTEMAN, M. D.

Practical Physician, for the treatment of Chronic Diseases, will visit Tecumseh the

1st & 2d of Every Month,

for Consultation with patients. Cancer and Scrofulous Tumors removed without the use of the knife. Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Incipient Consumption cured in three to five months. Liver Complaint, Dispepsia, and Constipation cured in 2 to 4 months. Pils Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration and diseases of the Genital Organs yield readily to his treatment. Prolepsus Uteri he is master of. Charges reasonable according to ability to pay: the really poor will be treated grates. He will be at Comstock & Noteman's Drug Store, Adrian, the last week in each month. Residence on Budding Street. All letters with stamp enclosed will receive prompt attention. For further particulars (See Circulars.

DENTISTRY

HAUSE & PELHAM

Resident Dentists.

Office over Fisher & Baker's Drug Store, Chicago St.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

☞ All branches of Dentistry performed in the neatest possible manner and at Reasonable Prices

---

F. R. Stebbins,

Adrian piano Rooms,

I am selling, and keep on hand at my Furniture Store,

Steinway & Sons, Wm. B. Bradbury, Weber and Vose Pianos from fifty to one hundred dollars cheaper than any dealer in the West.

Call and see or address me. I have also the largest and best assortment of

FU N TURE,

WINDOW SHADES, PICTURE PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES &c.

In Southern Michigan. All Pianos and Furniture guaranteed just as represented, and shipped safely by railroad to any point

STEBBINS FURNITURE ROOMS.

Adrian, Mich. n742tf

Advantages of this Plow.

It will last from three to six times longer than any other Steel Plow made anywhere in America. This has often been proved by actual scratching with, occasionally to be found on the neighborhood of stones in the West, in which other steel plows have often habitually cut, through or shaping slightly, more or less, is having already passed over three hundred acres of the most rocky stubble yet being half worn.

It will "scour" in the most difficult soils, where all other Plows have failed. If there is a land or ground anywhere in which it will not scour, we have yet to learn.

It draws lighter than any other Plow while cutting the same width and depth.

The Share can be sharpened, or a Point welded on, as readily as an ordinary Plowshare by any blacksmith who understands his trade, as the steel is perfectly malleable, and works kindly.

Any section can be replaced by a duplicate, to be had of any Agent, as the Share, Landside and Mouldboard are cast in moulds iron with "slots" in the cup so as to give or take land at pleasure.

It plows at any depth, from three to twelve inches, works perfectly in either stubble or turf, leaves a clean furrow, and turns under stubble and foul trash completely.

☞ It is the cheapest Plow in the world, just as sure as there is economy in paying six dollars once, rather than five dollars five or six times over; as in saving time and horse power, because your Plow works easier, and in doing a quarter or a fifth more work, with the same power. The quality and quantity of work it will endure to perform must be considered, as well as the cost price, in determining whether or not the Plow is cheap. Plows are used for profit, and the one cost of which is one dollar and cost can be got in preparation for it cost, is the cheapest, and we are confident that he gets more than a hundred dollars worth of Plow every time he gets one of these.

These remarks are made after a familiarity with the merits of most of the good Plows in use in the West, many of which have justly earned a good reputation.

☞ Our new model "B" Plow is designed expressly for stubble and foul ground. Heretofore we have had only the "C" pattern designed for both, turf and stubble. The "B" and "C" patterns together will enable us to meet the views of all as to shape and style these "either" or "both" plows as they prefer.

Call and see them.

Warranty very liberal.

For Sale only by

Tindall & Slayton, Tecumseh.

These Bitters are prepared, in pure Bourbon Whiskey, from a combination of over twenty different kinds of roots, barks and herbs, which act in perfect concert one with other, prepared from the original formula given by the great chief, Red Jacket, to Dr. Chaplin, who used them successfully in his practice for many years, and by their use gained so great a popularity in the treatment and cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, and all diseases arising from torpid liver or indigestion. Persons suffering from either of these loathsome diseases will find a sure cure by the use of these Bitters, which are perfectly pure and free from all those drugs and poisons usually put up in such preparations and palmed off on an unsuspecting public. A single trial will convince the most skeptical that in the RED JACKET there is virtue which no other Bitters possess.

They strengthen and invigorate the system.
They are unequaled for general debility.
They are a sure cure for dyspepsia.
They give a good and healthy appetite.
They assist digestion.
They are the best stimulant in existence.
They are a preventive of Fever and Ague.
They relieve constipation.
They cure Nervous Headache.
They are perfectly pure and palatable

Aged persons and delicate females will find they can save large doctor's bills by the use of these Bitters.

Beware of counterfeits. The Red Jacket Bitters are only sold in bottles with our name blown on the side, and our private government stamp across the cork.

—CUR—

For Medicinal and Table uses, which are perfectly pure, and need only be tried to be appreciated. None genuine unless they have our gold lettered on each bottle, and our initials pressed in wax over the cork.

Sold by all druggists and dealers throughout the country. Call for our goods and take no other.

Circulars to the trade supplied on application to

Bennett Pieters & Co.,
No. 21 River Street Chicago

The Southern Michigan

MANUFACTORY!

IN FULL BLAST!

T. Cummins, Proprietor,

Would announce to the citizens of Lenawee Co, that he is still located in the Brick Shop on Railroad Street, Where he is now turning out the

Nicest, Best and Strongest,

WAGONS, CARRIAGES, SLEIGHS, BUGGIES, CUTTERS,

And in fact everything in his line from a Baby cart to a large Omnibus. His prices are such as defy competition. So call and leave your orders.

A. S. MATHEWS,

Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity that he has just opened a new Market one door west of the Mansion House where he will be ready to serve his customers with the best meats the country affords at all times.

He keeps constantly on hand a supply of

Mackeral, White Fish, Trout, &c.

GLORIOUS NEWS,

The Confederacy gone up! But

GEORGE HEESEN'S

CLOTHING EMPORIUM

Is in full blast, and has not yet surrendered to young america. I would say to my friends and customers that I have just received a large stock of clothing which were purchased at panic prices, and I will sell them at a very small profit, for they must be sold within ninety days.

Sell Cassimere Pants at 6.50.

Broad cloth and cassimere coats very cheap; Linen coats cheaper than any other house in town, woolen and Straw

HATS, CAPS!

Linen and Paper Collars,

Traveling Bags, &c.

all is easily understood that I can sell goods cheaper than my neighbor for I save great expense, been a tailor and having followed the business for the last 17 years I know how work ought to be done.

Please come over on the Canada side for you can buy goods cheaper than you can on the American, for all expense of importing is saved, which amounts to considerable.

Cutting Done at Old Prices.

Those wishing garments made would do well to call on me and have an honest job done.

Geo. Heesen.

GOOD NEWS TO ALL

THE

Crockery & Glass Ware

EMPORIUM

FOR SOUTHERN MICH

Is In Mechanic's Block.

JOHN WISHART

will always be on hand to show customers the

Largest, Best & Cheapest Stock of

CROCKERY,
GLASS,
ROCKINGHAM,
EARTHERN,
AND STONE WARE

Just received and in store, a complete stock of

WHITE GRANITE WARE.

of the LATEST and BEST English brands

Also a splended assortment of

French and Italian Vases,

Table Cutlery of all descriptions.

Looking glases

Of all sizes, kinds and prices.

Kerosene Lamps, Burners & Wicks.

He keeps the best kind of

Kerosene Oil.

Also the

Best Air Tight Fruit Can

IN THE WORLD

GIVE HIM A CALL.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian on Tuesday the 3d day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty five

Present, Robert R Beecher, Judge of Probate In the matter of the estate of Thomas P. Smith, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Louis O. Smith and Eliza Smith praying that letters of administration of said estate may be granted to Edwin Smith of Clinton, Lenawee County.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday the 13th day of November next, at 10 o'clk in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said Petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the Petitioner should not be granted:

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate

(A true copy) n767w4

Get the Genuine Article!

STRAIGHTFORWARD dealings in every department of its extended business from the receipt of a premium to the payment of a loss, has rendered the name of

PHŒNIX

OF HARTFORD,

As familiar as any household word; and from far East pagodas to the golden shores of the Pacific Isles, its eminent usefulness as an Insurance Corporation has been thoroughly tried and satisfactorily tested. It is now better than ever prepared for service and duty, in the line of its profession, with increased facilities for the transaction of business.

WESTERN BRANCH,

No. 24 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio

H. M. HAGUE, General Agent.

Policies issued promptly, by

S. C. STACY, Resident Agent.

C. H. ADAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

DY GOODS,

Yankee Notions, &c.

No. 2 Mechanics' Block,

oct 2tf TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE!

HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Pat

COPARTNERSHIP!

A. Hood & Co.

Are now receiving at the Old Stand, Hood, Anderson's Block,

A LARGE STOCK

—OF—

NEW GOODS

Direct from New York consisting of

Ready Made Clothing

A splended assortment of THE LATEST STYLES or cloths that could be found in the Eastern markets, Consisting of

BROAD CLOTHS, DOESKINS, FREFCH, SCOTCH and ENGLISH CASSIMERES, COATINGS, VESTINGS, OVER COATINGS &c. Also a heavy

STOCK OF WOOLEN SHIRTS

Of all styles, UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, SUSPENDERS, GLOVES, HOSIERY.

A nice assortment of

HATS & CAPS

Furnishing Goods!

Of all kinds for mens wear. We manage to keep on hand as good a selection of goods in our line as can be found in any one establishment in the County, and for CASH we will sell them as low, or a little lower than any other establishment in the County.

Our Tailoring Department is in full blast. We are prepared to get up Suits on SHORT NOTICE, in as GOOD STYLE, and at as low figures as any other establishment.

CUTTING DONE ON SHORT NOTICE

H. M. GRAY. A. HOOD.

Farmers! Farmers!

THE

RAISIN MILLS

is the place to get good grinding done. I pay particular attention to this branch of business,

CUSTOM GRINDING

keep the Mill constantly in good repair and the 2nd Adam is always on hand with a pleasant smile to tend to the wants

OF MY NUMEROUS CUSTOMERS

BRING GOOD CLEAN WHEAT and I will warrant that Adam will give you satisfaction. SOUND

Wheat taken in store for Bran

Good White and Red Wheat Flour for sale. The highest market price paid

In Greenbacks

for good White and Amber Wheat. Mill Feed of all kinds for Sale.

SAWING DONE

for Customers on short notice. Bills of hard wood lumber sawed, and delivered if wished.

LUMBER FOR SALE

Cash paid for Saw Logs. Good board slabs for sale by the load. &c. &c.

I sincerely thank my numerous customers for their very liberal patronage, and will endeavor to do as good work, and even better if possible in the future.

Woolston Comfort

Latest News!

Great Excitement!!

Conterfeits Arrested!!!

RICHMOND NOT YET TAKEN!

Life like pictures taken at the Gallery of

A. J. HOAG

amid the most intense excitement are caused by a people of any community, even near like the genuine are these counterfeits of the human face divine, that the forger is often arrested in his progress by the Art, by the great rush to obtain them.

Copying executed in the most approved manner, Albums, and Cases of the latest styles always on hand.

☞ Gallery, over the Post Office, Tecumseh, Mich.

The Tecumseh Herald.

B. M. BURLINGAME, Publisher. "The Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws." Terms per year $2 00 in Advance.

VOL. XVI. NO. 26. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 16, 1865. WHOLE NO. 780.

FALL TRADE 1865

NEW FIRM

Tribou & Bidwell Brothers,

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods,

Corner Chicago and Rail Road Streets;

Tecumseh, Michigan,

The Largest Stock.

The Best Assortment,

And the Lowest Prices.

Call and examine our Goods, and we will prove the truth of our assertion.

Terms Cash.

E. A. TRIBOU.
L. C. BIDWELL.
L. I. BIDWELL.

NEW FIRM,

NEW GOODS AND

NEW ARRANGEMENTS.

The subscribers have formed a copartnership in the Dry Goods Trade, and offer for sale at the old stand of C. Lawrence, next door to the Post Office, an entire new stock of consisting of Dress Goods, Yankee Notions, Prints and Bleached Muslins, Clothes Trimmings, &c. Also a large and well selected stock of Crockery and Glass Ware.

STAPLE & FANCY GOODS,

The above goods were bought for cash and will be sold as low as can be bought in Southern Michigan. Give us a call.

ANDERSON & LARNED.

JUST ARRIVED!

And yet to come

1000 CASES!

MENS, BOYS and YOUTHS BOOTS, and LADIES, MISSES and CHILDREN SHOES.

Those goods were all bought before the present 'Panic for High Prices' and will be

SOLD LOWER

Than the same goods can be bought to day. N. B. Persons in search of 'Shoddy' are respectfully informed that I keep only the very best goods and

WARRANT ALL GOODS,

As represented.

Particular attention is called to my Stock of HAND MADE,

BOYS BOOTS

Brought direct from the manufactures; every pair warranted.

MENS, LADIES, MISSES and CHILDRENS RUBBERS

In great abundance.

The shop in charge of an experienced foreman is turning out piles of work, and every person that leaves a measure gets

PARTICULAR FITS.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine.

Shoe Pac,

A new water-proof Boot for Farmers, Lumbermen and Hunters. Laces and Tassels in a variety of colors.

E. H. HOAG.

(Successor to ROBBINS & DEWOLF)

DEALER IN

CLOCKS, WATCHES,
FINE JEWELRY,
SPECTACLES,
WALL PAPER,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
YANKEE NOTIONS,
TOYS, ETC., &c.

I will sell any of the above goods as

Cheap or Cheaper

than any other dealer in the country, and

WARRANT

all goods sold as good as recommended.

CASH FOR RAGS!

Butter, Eggs, Lard, Produce, Old Iron, Brass, Copper, or anything a Farmer has to sell, taken at the highest market price in exchange for goods.

J. D. Robbins.

TECUMSEH, - - - - MICHIGAN.

G. T. KETCHAM,

BOOK SELLER,
NEWS DEALER,
AND STATIONER,

Post Office Building

TECUMSEH, MICH.

Keeps constantly on hand a full assortment of

SCHOOL BOOKS,

JUVENILES,

Bibles and Testaments,

Hymn Books for all Denominations.

BLANK BOOKS

Sheet Music,

Photograph Albums,

STATIONERY, in endless Variety

Quality and Price.

Pens, Pencils, Inks, Slates, Paints, and in fact everything kept in a First Class Book Store. Call for anything in his line and he will procure it for you. All THE POPULAR PERIODICALS, Papers and cheap Publications of the day received as soon as published.

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY.

Get the Genuine Article!

PHŒNIX HARTFORD COMPANY INSURANCE COMPANY.

STRAIGHTFORWARD dealings in every department of its extended business. From the receipt of a premium to the payment of a loss, has rendered the name of

PHŒNIX

OF HARTFORD,

As familiar as any household word; and from far East sunrise to the golden shores of the Pacific slope, its eminent usefulness as an Insurance Corporation has been thoroughly tried and satisfactorily tested. It is now better than ever prepared for service and duty in the line of its profession, with increased facilities for the transaction of business.

WESTERN BRANCH,

No. 24 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

H. M. MAGILL, General Agent.

Policies issued promptly by

S. C. STACY, Resident Agent.

Commissioner's Notice.

The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court of the county of Lenawee, commissioners to hear, examine and adjust all claims and demands against the estate of Charles Ellis, late of the township of Macon, deceased hereby give notice that they will meet at the office of Snow & Keyes in the village of Clinton in said county on Saturday the 9th day of December and on Saturday the 10th day of March next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days, to hear and adjust claims against the estate of said deceased, and that six months from the 18th day of September 1865 are allowed for creditors to present their claims for allowance.

F. S. SNOW, } Commissioners.
CHARLES BROOKS }

Dated Nov 9th, 1865.

TECUMSEH TIME TABLE

Express Freight,	7:10 A. M
Mail and Express,	12:40 P. M.
GOING NORTH.
Mail and Express,	7:10 A. M.
Accommodation,	6:35P. M.

Business Directory.

ANDREW HOOD,
Dealer in Hats, Caps and Clothing, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

B. J. BIDWELL,
Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

WARD & STRICKLAND,
Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries &c. &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh. Mich.

RICHARD C. MOORE.
Dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALFRED JAMES,
Dealer in Groceries, Confectionaries, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DEUEL & WILBUR,
Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HENRY C. CONKLING.
Dealer in Groceries Provisions, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, M.

MOSES WRIGHT,
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Toilets, &c.
Chicao St. Tecumseh, Mich.

F. N. CURTIS,
Dealer in Drugs, Paints, Oils, & Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

FISHER & BAKER,
Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

EDWIN B. WOOD.
Attorney, Counsellor, and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BILLS & BAXTER,
Attorney's, Councellor's, and Solicitors.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

McNAIR & HEWITT,
Justice's of the Peace, Insurance Agents.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

CURTIS & McCOWEN,
Dealers in Hardware, Tubs, Pails, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EDWARD H. HOAG,
Dealer in Boots, Shoes, Leather &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

EMLAY & COURTER,
Dealers in Saddles, Harness and Leather.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HORACE BREWER,
Steam Engine and Machine Founder.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

BURLINGAME & CO,
Dealers in Agricultural Impliments, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

ALEX HENDRY,
Manufacturer of Blinds, Rakes, &c., &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

INDALL & SLAYTON,
Dealers in
Produce and Agricultural Implements.
Railroad St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. D. ROBBINS.
Dealer in Jewelry, Clocks and Notions.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

O. G. ADAMS,
Watchmaker and worker in Jewelry.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

G. T. KETCHAM.
Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

J. C. SATTERTHWAITE,
Insurance Agent and Notary Public.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

WOOLSTON COMFORT.
Raisin, Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills
Tecumseh, Michigan.

H. B. MATHIAS,
Dealer in Tobacco, Cigars, and Pipes.
Chicago St Tecumseh, Mich.

A. J. HOAG,
Photographs, Ambrotypes and Albums,
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

MRS. C. M. BISSELL,
Photograph and Ambrotype Artist, &c.
Pearl & Chicago St's. Tec. Mich

SMITH & VANTINE,
Dealers in Furniture and Upholstery.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

HAUSE & PELHAM,
Surgical, and Mechanical Dentists.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

JOHN WISHART,
Dealer in Glass Ware, Crockery, &c.
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich

MANSION HOUSE,
Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Michigan.
WILLIAM NIXON, Proprietor.

HIRAM WESCOTT,
Paper Hanging, Whitewasing, &c., &c
Chicago St. Tecumseh, Mich.

DR L. BARNES,
(Late Surgeon in chief 3d Div. 10th a. c.)
Physician & Surgeon.
A practitioner of six years experience and two years extensive surgical practice in the U. S. Army. Office and residence 2d door north of the M. E. Church. Tecumseh, Mich.

TECUMSEH HERALD.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Rates of Advertising.

(One inch of column constitutes a square.)

	1 wk	3 wk	3 m	6 m	1 yr
1 Square	$ 80	$ 1.25	$ 4.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
2 Squares	1.00	2.00	5.00	8.50	12.00
3 Squares	2.50	3.50	6.50	10.00	14.00
¼ Column	3.00	4.50	8.	12.00	18.00
½ Column	4.00	6.00	10.00	18.00	30.00
1 Column	8.00	10.00	20.00	25.00	50.00

☞ No advertisement considered less than one square. Transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Advertisements unaccompanied with directions for the number of insertions, will be continued until ordered out, and charged accordingly. Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted at $5.00 per year.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

To Our Friends.

You will confer a favor on us by soliciting the Judge of Probate to publish Probate Notices in the HERALD, and you will also find it convenience to your selves to have the advertisements in the paper you receives.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Having sold my stock of goods to Messrs. Tribou & Bidwell Bro's. all persons indebted to me are earnestly requested to call and settle their accounts with Mr. E. A. Tribou. Shall deal in Leather and Findings as heretofore.

B. J. BIDWELL.

Died

In this village on the 2d of Nov. of Typhoid Fever, SARAH, wife of Wm. NIXON, aged 48 yrs. 3 months and 15 days.

☞ The weather for the past week has been delightful: Our Indian summer is rapidly passing away. December is almost at hand.

☞ On the 24 inst a Lodge of Good Templars was instituted in Ridgeway Lenawee Co. Mich. by Rev. D. C. Wright Deputy Grand Chief of the State.

Married.

At the residence of the brides father, in Cambridge on Tuesday Nov. 7th, by Rev. Mr. Lyster, MR. JOHN D. HOLMES of Manchester, and MISS NANCY KEENEY of Cambridge.

☞ On the 7th inst. Christopher Barrett Sen. of Ridgeway was thrown from his horse while riding to pasture, and two of his ribs broken, with other injuries involving doubtful results.

☞ On the 8th inst, Christopher Shayler, of Macon, was found dead in his stable, apparently caused by the kick of one of his horses, upon his chin. His family were at the time, waiting for him to come to dinner, and found him soon after the accident occurred.

☞ The Livery stable property south of Hayden's Warehouse, formerly owned by Underwood, has changed hands and is now owned by Charles Bidwell. Mr. Bidwell was formerly a resident of Macon and has served two years in the army. He is now prepared to furnish the best "rigs" at the cheapest rates.

☞ "There's a happy time coming."—"Mine host" George Whiting of Moreville, has recently been enlarging and repairing his Hotel at that place. The addition made to his dancing hall makes it one of the best in the State. He proposes to dedicate it by a grand Cotillon party on the eve. of the 24th inst.

George is a good fellow and we bespeak for those who attend a gay time.

FIRM AS A ROCK.—The Phoenix Insurance Co. of Hartford can re-insure at the highest rates every risk now upon its books—discharge all obligations present or prospective, of whatever nature—pay back to stockholders every dollar of its capital stock—and retire from business with a clear net cash surplus of $131,857,18. There is no sounder Co. and no cheaper Co. in the country than the Phoenix of Hartford.

S. C. STACY, Agent.

☞ H. McGee keeps constantly on hand a fresh supply of meats, which he is selling at the lowest possible rates. His market is one door south of Bidwell's Block on Railroad st., where he will be happy to serve all who may favor him with their patronage.

☞ The largest stock of Flannels may be found at Ward & Strickland's.

New Goods, New Goods,

R. C. Moore has added to his stock of Dry Goods during the last week a nice assortment of prints, delaines, merinos, balmaral skirts, flannels, cassimeres, breakfast shawls nubias, hoods, corsets, &c. We would especially invite your attention to his stock before purchasing elsewhere. Hoop Skirts manufactured on express order, each one bearing his name and made expressly for this market, are now to be found at his store Remember the place to buy good goods and at living prices is at Moore's.

I. O. of G. T.

On Saturday eve, Nov. 4th a Lodge of the above order was instituted in this place, by Rev. D. C. Wright, D G W C T of the State. A good number were in attendance and the Lodge bids fair to be a large one.—The Temperance loving people of our village should now come forward and give it their support. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term.

W C T Hon. B. L. Baxter, W V T. Mrs. D C. Wright; W S. Dr. S J Fulton; W A S. Mrs. S J Fulton; W T Dr. E. Hause; W C. Rev. S E Wishard; W F S. P A Perry; W M. R M Donnelly; W D M, Miss S A Waring; W I G Miss Fanny Sherman; W O G. L C Blood, W R S, Miss M C Dingman; W L S, Alva M Waring.

Soldiers Monument.

the most wicked Rebellion the world ever saw, and in order to express our gratitude and admiration for our citizen soldiery who fell in defence of our nation's honor; a society has been organized called the Tecumseh, Macon, Ridgeway and Raisin soldiers Monument Association for the purpose of erecting and maintaining a suitable Monument on Military Square, in the village of Tecumseh, in perpetuation of their memory.

Therefore we the undersigned hereby severally agree to pay to the soliciting committee or their order when called upon, the sum set opposite our respective names, towards the erection and maintenance of said Monument:

A. Hood & Co.	$20,	J. S. Hendryx	$ 5
L E Montgomery	5,	Taylor & Son	5
L Drew	25,	E Hause	5
W A Weatherhead	5,	W C Fisher	5
A James	15,	B F Thompson	5
H E Anderson	5,	H Baker	5
Wm Richard	20,	A Pelham	5
O Emlay	5,	S Mangus	5
J D Robbins	5,	E H Hong	5
R C Moore	10,	D Olliett	5
D VanTine	10,	W H Waring	5
E W Goheen	5,	J E Hall	5
P Bills	25,	W H Mather	5
A H Chaplin	5,	R McKeown	5
L Lilley	25,	P Davidson	10
M A Patterson	25,	J Whitenack	10
A Hanford	25,	S Davidson	25
C Strong	25,	Wm H Osborn	25
H Brewer	25,	J J Fulton	5
S Rappleye	26,	C W Culberson	5
A Anderson	25,	Peter Waldron	10
M Sherd	10,	J P Slayton	10
T Cummins	15,	N Miller	5
Joseph Collins	16,	Geo. Bowen	5
A D Hall	21,	V Woodard	5
E F Blood	25,	R Hendershott	5
H C Conklin	10,	J Ousterhout	1
W Anderson	10,	Eliza McCaugn	4
Rappleye	10,	Mrs S Brown	5
D T Lewis	20,	C Saviers	10
Mrs. Lewis	5,	A. Averill	2
S G Conkling	10,	Demming	1
J L Tallman	10	A Waller	5
Mrs Geo Griswold	5,	J Waring	2
H Dunster	5,	J S Strong	8
S C Stacy	5,	L. M Mooney	5
Jno Niblack	5,	Cash	50
W M Thompson	2,	Mrs Laird	2
P R Adams	25,	W Hayden	25
G T Ketcham	5,	Mrs S M Hayden	3
A B Wand	15,	Albert Hayden	1
H Richard	10,	Clara B Hayden	1
John Usborn	5,	Terry Hayden	1
E Tindall	5,	J W Stevens	5
Wm Demott	5,	J Pettitt	5
C Hendershot	5,	A L Brewer	3
D S Heath	5,	G A Gillispie	5
W A Parsons	5,	J S Sherman	5
R L McConnell	5,	H B Roberts	5
F Davidson	5,	Thos. Dixon	5
Thos. Baylis	5,	R Culbertson	5
P N Curtis	5,	B Chatterden	5
L Wilbur	5,	J M Merritt	5
C B Thomas	5,	M Wright	10
A Allen	5,	N H Tindall	5
S C LeBaron	10,	R Ford	5
D C LeBaron	5,	M Primrose	5
E B Strickland	5,	E D Burlingame	5
P C Temple	5,	Wm Gray	5
J F Hall	5,	J J Alvord	5
N C Arnold	5,	J H Wishart	5
H J Daniels	5,	J H Dunbar	5
Geo. Curtis	10,	A J Hoag	5
M A Aten	5,	E A Tribou	5
Geo. Griswold	5,	H W Conkling	5
James McNair	5,	I S Hamilton	20
Jos. Tilden	5	H Peters	5
C Bidwell	5	T T Kneeland	5
E A Morehouse	5	S Crane	5
G Kishpaugh	5	I L Richart	5
W McCowen	10	C H Smith	5
A D Lawrence	3	S Bryan	5
C Roberts	5	A J Stitt	5
C H Adam	5	J V DePuy	5
B Pattison	5	B L Baxter	5
Tecumseh Lodge F & A M No 69,			$100

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Mich., Nov. 9, 1865.

Adams Mrs. Adelia	Halliway Richard
Allen miss Adaline	Judson A B
Brown Samuel B	Lossing Thomas
Debus Lewis	McNell mrs H A
Frazier A	Lewis J H
Geth W	Lockwood Charles
Hall mrs Jane	Stretch J.
White miss Harriet.

W. ANDERSON, P. M.

Oh, Buckwheat Cakes!

The gentlemanly proprietor of the Raisin mills, has presented us with a sack of the nicest Buckwheat flour we ever saw. It fairly makes our mouth water to look at the sack that contains it. He says that Alf. James keeps a supply of it constantly on hand and we advise all those in search of a good article to call there and get some. The Raisin mill is now in the best of repair and is daily turning out the best of flour. Friday has been set apart as day for grinding Buckwheat.

Great Gift Enterprise.

In order to keep pace with these days of progress and reform, C. H. Adam & Co propose hereafter, with each bill of goods to the amount of $5 and over, to present a gift of from 25cts. to $25 in value. They have just received a large and splendid assortment of Fall and Winter Goods, which they are selling at the lowest cash prices. They invite special attention to their stock of Ladies Vests and Pants, cloth for Cloaks, with Ornaments, Buttons, Trimmings &c.; also Lined and Furred Gloves & Mitts, Gauntlets, Gaiters, Hose, Scarfs, &c. They are recieving almost every week, new supplies of all the latest and best styles of goods from New York, Toledo, Detroit and Chicago. Ladies will find a lady salesman for articles of ladies wear.

☞ Go to Ward & Strickland's for the cheapest coats, pants and vests in the county.

Public Lectures.

which should secure attention.

The young people of our village have organized the "Tecumseh Union Lyceum," holding its regular meetings at the Union School on Monday evenings.

Believing that education is not obtained wholly within school or college walls, but is promoted by interchange of ideas and contact of mind with mind everywhere, they propose to secure public lectures to be delivered before the Lyceum during the coming winter. The privilege of listening to, and profiting by, the thoughts and sayings of the wisest men, can only be secured in this way. Our people are feasted with Concerts and glutted with "shows" of every character; but really profitable amusements, those that will not only amuse but instruct and leave lasting and valuable impressions upon the mind—are very rare among us. The corresponding Sec. of the Lyceum is in communication with such men as Hon. J. M. Gregory of Kalamazoo, former State Superintendent of public instruction, Dr E. O. Haven of our University, Hon. E. B. Fairfield of Hillsdale, who are expected to lecture before the Lyceum during the winter.

To secure these advantages involves some expense; but the young men confidently hope that the intelligent people of Tecumseh and vicinity will, by their liberal patronage of lectures, both aid and encourage them in their undertaking. The people of Tecumseh are intelligent enough to appreciate, and should be wise and liberal enough to support, public amusements of an elevated and instructive character.

It is now expected that Hon. J. M. Gregory will lecture before the society on the evening of Friday, Dec. 1st Further notice will be given. T.

Shipments from Tecumseh.

Through the kindness of Mr. J. C. Satterthwaite, the Railroad Agent at this station, we lay before our readers the amount of the shipments for the month of October. They speak well for the business energy and prosperity of Tecumseh.

Apples—7050 barrels,
Flour—5000 "
Sorghum Molasses—4 bbls,
Shingles—83,000.
Broom handles—450.
Live Hogs—30,000 lbs.
Cider—100 bbls.
Wool—12,065 lbs.
Leather—8022 lbs.
Butter and Cheese—6,636 lbs.
Oats—10,218 lbs.
Staves—20,000.
Heading—30 bbls.

The above are the principal articles that have been exported. The total shipments during the month amounted in the aggregate to 2,497,194 lbs. The imports amounted to 538,257 lbs. The total amount of produce & merchandse handled over at the Depot foots up at the respectable figures of 3,025,451 lbs, or allowing one ton to a wagon load, it amounts to over 1517 wagon loads. The apples shipped from this station up to Nov. 13th were 12040 bbls, and there are enough more awaiting shipment to amount to 12,200 bbls. in all.

Bursting of a Mill stone

One day last week an accident occurred at the Globe Mills by the bursting of a Mill stone. The hands had all gone to dinner except Mr. Thomas Baylis the chief Miller, who had just returned from his. Upon raising the gate to set the Mill running he found that but one run of stone had been geared on, consequently he went immediately to the wheel to let down the gate, and while bending over to shut the gate, the stone that was in motion burst with a loud crash, several pieces went through the Mill. One stone weighing about 60 lbs. passed a few inches over Mr. Baylis' head and another larger piece just grazed his left shoulder. Had he been standing up, he would have been killed without any doubt. It was very lucky also that none of the other hands were in the Mill. The stone that bursted had been in use for several years and the iron bands around it were rusted almost entirely through—which was probably the cause of the accident. The damages were soon repaired and the mill is again in running order.

Dr. Durand Coming

This celebrated Physician will make his next professional visit to Tecumseh, on Wednesday the 29th of November, and will be at the Exchange Hotel. All who are afflicted with Chronic Complaints such as diseases of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach, Bowels Kidneys, Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Female Complaints, Piles, Fits Cancers, Stiff Joints, Neuralgia, Spinal Complaints, &c, should call on him at once as he is a gentleman of eminent skill and intelligence and certainly performs great cures.

☞ Dr. Curtis has got back from New York, and most of his goods have arrived. You will be surprised to see his large stock and endless variety. The largest and most beautiful stock of Wall paper ever brought to this beautiful village, now is the time to ornament your houses. Ladies Beads which have been so often called for, a fine assortment can be found at his store. He will tell you more about his spendid stock of goods next week.

☞ Those of our subscribers who are intending to bring us wood are requested to do so immediately, as we cannot wait for our supply until the mud comes on.

☞ Store broken into by a band of customers. Great excitement at Ward & Strickland's.

Proclamation by the President.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, during the year which is now coming to an end, to relieve our beloved country from the fearful scourge of civil war, and to permit us to secure the blessings of peace, unity and harmony, with a great enlargement of civil liberty; and

WHEREAS, Our Heavenly Father, has also, during the year, graciously averted from us the calamities of foreign wars, pestilence and famine, while our granaries are full of the fruits of an abundant season; and

WHEREAS, Righteousness exalteth a nation, while sin is a reproach to any people;

Now, therefore, I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do hereby recommend to the people thereof that they do set apart and observe the first Thursday of December next as a day of national thanksgiving to the Creator of the Universe for these deliverances and blessings, and I do further recommend that, on that occasion, the people make confession of our national sins against His infinite goodness; and, with one heart and one mind, implore the Divine guidance in the ways of national virtue and holiness.

George Arnold, author of "McArone papers," and a poet of no mean order, died in New York on the 9th inst. Among other poems of his, was "The Jolly old Pedagogue."

The horse "Dexter," which has this summer made the most famous trotting time on record, counts up 12,600 as the net winnings of the season, on public purses, besides the large amounts won by his backers on outside bets. The little horse will now go into winter quarters at Astoria, L. I.

United States Senator Collamer of Vermont, died at his residence in Woodstock on Thursday evening the 9th.

William Johnson, the only brother of the President, died in Texas a few days ago, from the effects of an accidental gun-shot wound.

The immigration to southwest Missouri is very large. An individual who lately passed between Springfield and Sedalia, saw at —Over 25 printing presses are now employed in Washington in working off school books for Northern publishers to supply the Southern demand. The prices charged in Washington for press-work are 20 per cent. more than in the Northern cities. Three-fourths of this immense number of books going South are sold to negroes.

GLEANINGS.

—A novel fleet arrived at Omaha, Nebraska, recently, consisting of about fifty craft, containing some 800 men from Montana territory. The boats are a kind of flatboat, built expressly for the purpose, with a few skiffs along for packing wood along the shore, making reconnoissances, etc. The party embarked on the Yellowstone river, 800 miles from its mouth, and only five miles from Virginia City. They were twenty-seven days reaching Omaha, a distance of 2,300 miles. They had no difficulty with Indians, found plenty of game and enjoyed good health.

—Pat wants to know why his pipe is like the Seneca 16. Because it comes just after Incidents and Accidents.

B. W. Green late President of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, cut his wife's throat last week, causing her death, and then cut his own. The wretched man, who was insane at the time, will not probably recover.

A boy in Cincinnati, named O'Brien, 11 years of age, was being instructed in the musket drill by his father. The wood to load and fire was given, and the boy discharged the gun, the ball striking his mother in the right eye, inflicting a probably fatal wound. He was taken into custody.

In a fight between two negro boys at Louisville the other day, one threw a butcher and cut the other's eye out.

Mrs. Edward Adcock, who was living with her son, near Monmouth, Warren, county, Ill., was burned to death, by the explosion of a kerosene lamp a few days since.

A Boston lady recently lost several hundred dollars in money and jewels, her house

EX-PRESIDENT BUCHANAN is said to be engaged in revising the last proofs of the history of his administration.

CAPT. JUDKINS, of the Cunard Line of ocean steamers, has crossed the Atlantic 500 times in the service of the company, and now proposes to quit seafaring.

THE bones of Red Jacket, the great Indian orator, of Western New York, are not buried, but are kept at the house of his descendants in a wooden chest.

THE Prince and Princess of Prussia will in a few weeks come to England on a visit to Her Majesty. They are expected to remain a fornight in England.

An old report has just been revived, to the effect that Queen Victoria really intends to abdicate in favor of the Prince of Wales, and there are sensible men who incline to accept the rumor.

GEN. E. KIRBY SMITH was, at latest accounts, in Cuba. Permission has been granted him to return to this country, and he is expected to arrive soon in Lynchburg, where his family are.

Execution of Wirz.

Special Despatch to the Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.

The execution of Henry Wirz attracted crowds of people to the Old Capitol this morning. At nine o'clock a strong military force arrived, and the streets in front, and at the sides of the building were cleared. Owners of tenements, from the windows or roof of which views of the gallows could be obtained, admitted spectators at large prices, and quite a number of women availed themselves of this opportunity to gratify their curiosity.

Holders of tickets were admitted into the prison, through which they passed into the yard. A rough gallows had been erected in one corner of the yard, on the platform of which stood four sentries of the veteran reserve corps, while from the beam dangled the fatal rope, which should prove a deadline to the tyrant of Andersonville. Wirz was in his cell, attended by Fathers Boyle and Wiggett of the Roman Catholic Church. Last night he ate a hearty supper, and then went to sleep at 10 o'clock reposing quietly

Boiler Explosions.

The many catastrophes of the present season from the explosion of boilers have set intelligent men to thinking. Norman Wiard, the ice boat man propounds a new theory, which may or may not account for some mysterious explosions:

In cases of violent explosions, in which the rupture is not in the weakest parts, the riveted joints, but often in the strongest parts of the solid plates, he holds the immediate cause of rupture is difference of temperature, which causes the plates to strain themselves. Water does not transmit heat downward; therefore it may happen that when part of the fire surface is not covered with water, the steam may be heated red hot, and heat all that part of the boiler which is above the water level. Only a thin film of water will be hot, while the iron below the water may be of the temperature of the water, under 300°, while all above may be hot enough to burn the felting, perhaps 700 or more. The hot portion expands in length and strains affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this 28th day of October, in the year of our Lord 1866, and of the independence of the United States the 91th.

(Signed) ANDREW JOHNSON.

By the President: WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK.

James Brooks' seat in Congress is to be contested by his competitor, Wm. E. Dodge.

Advices from Mexico state that the citizens of Matamoras are in a starving condition, and the Imperial troops are but little better off.

Wirz's body was buried on Saturday at the arsenal at Washington, near the remains of the assassination conspirators. It has come to light since the execution, that Wirz's wife, in an interview with her husband on the 27th ultimo, kissed him, and in so doing, conveyed to his mouth a little ball of strychnine coated with licorice. General Baker, who was present on the occasion, suspecting that something was wrong, seized Wirz by the throat, and compelled him to disgorge the poison. Mr. Schade (Wirz's counsel) pronounces this statement an infamous lie.

The Ohio and Mississippi railroad company, has commenced a suit against the Indianapolis railroad company, claiming damages to the amount of over $1,500,000, for the breaking by the latter of the contract existing between the two roads, whereby the latter used the track of the former from Cincinnati to Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

The last of the stolen funds, $8,000 of the late express robbery in Chicago, have been found under a church.

Worth has been elected Governor of North Carolina over Holden, by from 5,000 to 10,000 majority.

Steps are to be taken by the Canadian Government to meet the anticipated danger of a Fenian invasion. A large body of troops, estimated at 18,000, is to be stationed along the frontier.

In the South Carolina legislature, bills have been reported for the seizure of all arms found in the possession of freedmen, to punish white persons who shall furnish arms to freedmen, to shut up all shops kept by freedmen, and to prohibit the employment of any negro without the written consent of his or her former master having been first obtained.

Turner is elected to Congress in the Raleigh district of North Carolina, and Clark in the new district. The former was a member of the rebel congress, and the latter can not take the congressional oath.

The Alabama Convention, by a large vote has just pronounced against repudiating the State debt incurred in the interests of the rebellion.

Ryan, the weather prophet, died at Lansing, Michigan, on the 8th instant, in his 68th year.

The Jamaica insurrection is raging with great fury, and the rebels are perpetuating the most horrible atrocities. The volunteer troops thus far sent against them have only been partially successful.

The total assessed value of property in Wisconsin is $157,416,297; and the state tax levied for this year is $904,371.

Freeman, chief engineer of the pirate Alabama, has been pardoned by the President on the recommendation of Captain Winslow.

The excitement over the discovery of an abundance of gold quartz in the Dunkard oil region of Pennsylvania, has almost entirely eclipsed petroleum. The quartz is said to be full of fine gold.

Military stock stands high. General Stone of Iowa, General Oglesby of Illinois, General Fairchild of Wisconsin, General Marshall of Minnesota. Gen. Cox of Ohio, General Barlow of New York, have, as candidates of the Union party, been made Governors of the respective states by large majorities.

New Jersey elects Marcus D. Ward, the Union candidate for Governor, by 2,000 to 2,500 majority. The Legislature is Union by one majority in the Senate, and sixteen in the House.

Gen. Barlow, the Union candidate, is elected Governor of New York by 27,000 majority.

The majority in Wisconsin, for Fairchild, Union candidate for Governor, is about 7,000 The negro suffrage bill is defeated by about 10,000.

Gov. Wells received 6,000 majority for Governor in New Orleans, and is elected by a large majority.

Minnesota has gone for Gen. Marshall, Union, by about 3,000 majority. Negro suffrage is defeated in this state.

By the explosion of the steamer Yo Semite, on the Sacramento river, Cal., last month, forty persons were killed, and many more injured.

The Russian Telegraph expedition has struck gold. The greater portion of the employes have been discharged, and operations for the season have been partially suspended.

The decision of the court in the celebrated Harris divorce case has been announced in favor of Mr. Harris, who obtains a complete divorce with control of the children. No alimony is allowed Mrs. Harris.

A death from cholera is reported in St. Louis; but doubts are expressed as to whether it is a clear case of the Asiatic malady. But few cases of cholera have occurred among the passengers of the Atlanta since their removal from that vessel, and the disease has assumed a very mild form.

The commander of the British war ship Bull Dog, opened on Fort Picket, at Fort Hayti. The Fort responded, the Bull Dog got aground, and the commander was compelled to blow her up. Affairs on the Island are very much unsettled.

The Tunisian Embassy had a farewell interview with the President on the 6th, and were to leave for home this week.

President Johnson has assured the Southern States that if they do not pass the constitutional amendment, they cannot be considered as restored to the Union.

A letter from Texas says that the State is fast attaining its former prosperity: civil authority resumes its sway; post offices are being opened, and stages begin their old routes. Gov. Hamilton's administration is universally approved.

Gov. Parsons, of Alabama, has been in New York, for the purpose of appealing for aid for the destitute people of Alabama.

Thanksgiving has been appointed for December 7th, in Michigan.

Wirz says that the person of his name who was convicted of embezzlement, and divorced from his wife, in Switzerland, was a cousin of his.

The Indians who have been feeding for several years near Fort Larimie, attacked and destroyed a train of potatoes destined for that post, on the 22d ult., by which little freak of kindness, the total loss is $12,000. On the same day, and in the same neighborhood, (Pole Creek) a train from Leavenworth for Denver of sixteen wagons, was attacked and destroyed. The pacification policy isn't warmly admired in the Territories.

The new Southern Express Company, of which General Joseph E. Johnston is president, has commenced operations. Gen. Johnston's salary is $10,000.

The mail from New York to New Orleans, will hereafter be sent by railroad instead, of by sea.

Ex-Governor T. F. Manning of Georgia has been elected U. S. Senator for the term ending in 1867.

A WHOLE FAMILY BURNED TO DEATH IN STEELE COUNTY.—A family by the name of Clark, living near Crain creek, in this county, were burned to death by the explosion of kerosene oil on Sunday night last, in the following shocking manner:

Having occasion to fill a lamp, Mr. Clark undertook to do so without extinguishing the blaze. The oil in the lamp took fire and exploded, communicating the fire to the can, which also exploded, enveloping him in flames. He ran out of doors and and rolled himself in the grass; but before he could succeed in extinguishing the fire, he was burned to a crisp. His wife was sitting near the door, holding a sick child, but, when the explosion took place, fell to the floor, and, before they could be rescued, both mother and child were burned to ashes.

Dr. Ware was called to the unfortunate man, but he could render him no assistance, and he died in about an hour.

A family living in the upper part of the house saved their lives by jumping out of the window. The mother had her hands and arms badly burned while searching for a burned bed, supposing one of her children to be still there, but finding the father had succeeded in getting them all out of the window, she threw herself out head foremost, fortunately receiving no injuries, except dislocating one wrist. The house and its contents were entirely consumed.—Owatonna Minn. Plaindealer, 13th.

SIMEON JENNINGS, of Wellsville, Ohio, died suddenly, while sitting in his chair, last week. He possessed enormous wealth, mostly in the shape of real estate and mortgages on the same. He also owned large interests in a number of Ohio banks. He was noted for his extreme penuriousness and intense devotion to money-getting. Though worth millions, when traveling in the cars he would carry a lunch in his pocket to save the expense of a dinner at an eating-house. He bought a plain brick residence below Wellsville, on the Virginia side of the Ohio river, and made that his home, to escape paying taxes in Ohio on his mortgages, judgment notes and money. He always managed somehow to avoid paying a large share of the taxes justly due from him. The heavy federal income tax nearly broke his heart. He was very obese and gross looking, and for several years drank whiskey in large quantities. He was probably the richest man in Ohio. He leaves no direct issue—dying childless. He has several collateral heirs, however, but leaves property enough to bestow a large fortune on each of them. We have not heard that he left any bequests to benevolent objects.

HOTEL-LIVING IN NEW YORK.—The proprietors of the Broadway hotels are talking seriously of raising their prices of board from $4.50 to $6.00 per day, not because they have grown immensely wealthy at the former figure, but because they believe they can obtain the latter rate as easily; and I believe they can. As it is, the landlords are unable to accommodate the crowds of applicants for board, and they are inclined to establish a tariff out of pure benevolence to their guests of course, that will give their customers more room. The prices which some persons pay at the fashionable hotels are remarkable. There are families at the Fifth Avenue who give $500 to $600 a week for their mere lodging and boarding privileges, while their "extras" will reach $800 to $400 more.—New York Letter.

Receipts that Never Fail.

To destroy rats—catch them one by one, and flatten out their heads in a lemon-squeezer.

To kill cockroaches—get a pair of heavy boots, then catch your roaches, put them in a barrel, then get in yourself and dance.

To kill bedbugs—chain their hind legs to a tree, then go round in front and make mouths at them.

To catch mice—on going to bed put crumbs of cheese in your mouth, and lie with it open; and when a mouse's whiskers tickle your throat—bite.

To prevent dogs from going mad—cut their tails off just behind their ears.

The Nashville Press and Times says that from the first of July to the present time, 40,000 letters have been sent from the Nashville post office, to the dead letter office, having nothing on them but the name of the person to whom they were addressed, without town, county, or post office, or without any address at all, or with revenue instead of postal stamps. Many of these letters have been mailed by first-class business men. Cause, carelessness.

—Indianapolis has been designated by the war department as a department depot, and Col. J. J. Slocum, has been appointed chief commissary.

—Asa Fitch, the Connecticut millionaire, made his fortune in business in the city of Marseilles, France. He built a village, Fitchville—in his native state. He was a bachelor, and left $5,000,000.

—A letter from India to a London paper states that the monkeys of that country seem to be firmly persuaded that the telegraph lines and poles in that country were erected for their special use and behoof in performing gymnastic exercises.

—Some of the enterprising iron and lead founders in Birmingham, England, it is said have been driving quite a brisk business in casting heathen (bronze) gods, and shipping them off to India where they meet a ready market.

—Appended to a marriage notice in New York, are the words, "plenty of cards."

—The statement is made officially that Lee's and Johnston's armies numered at the time of their surrender, the former 28,000 men, and the latter 36,000 men.

—A woman with a waist sixteen inches around, writes in the Edinburg Review in favor of tight-lacing.

—The grave announcement that the prince imperial will hereafter dine with his mother and not in the nursery, occupies a prominent place in the French court journal.

—The Emperor of Morocco has permitted telegraph wires to be laid in his dominions.

—The 7th of December has been appointed as a day of thanksgiving by the Governors of Pennsylvania and Michigan.

—The next central eclipse of the sun in the United States, will occur on the 7th of August, 1869, and will be total—the first since Nov. 40, 1854.

—The commissioner of agriculture reports that the deficit in the wheat crop is 12,172,994 bushels. The increase in oats is 50,000,000, bushels and in hay more than 5,000,000 tons. The corn crop is the largest ever known in the United States.

—During the rebellion, the deaths in hospital were only nine per cent., whereas in the Crimean war, the deaths in English and French hospitals were 50 per cent.

—Michigan City has recently taken a new start in trade and enterprise. The liberal sum of three hundred thousand dollars has been subscribed by discriminating capitalists, for the purpose of improving the harbor. When that work is completed, great quantities of coal, plaster, iron, lumber and produce, will be brought by rail, and sent to other points of trade and transportation on the lakes.

—An absurd story is going the rounds of the papers, concerning a man who pretends that he has not slept a week since 1867. One paper in giving the story, naively remarks, "it is possible that he may be a humbug." Quite so.

—Rev. Morgan L. Dix preached a sermon in New York a few days since, in the course of which he stated that there was a perfect unity between the Northern and Southern branches of the Episcopal church at the recent convention in Philadelphia.

—The recent dinner given by Sir Morton Peto in New York, cost $40,000—$100 to each person who sat at the table. 24 kinds of wine were drank, and some of it cost $50 per bottle.

—Fifth avenue, New York, is horrified by the publication of a sanitary map, showing that the cholera is likely to attack the fashionable portion of that city, where houses are built upon made land, and sewerage is imperfect.

—A Providence paper referring to the outlandish and utterly abominable words constantly coined by telegraph operators, says: "The Associated Press pours a stream of cold poison into the English language every morning. We hear of buildings being 'burglarized' and 'incendiarized,' of steamers 'colliding' and oil wells 'conflagrating,' and the other day we were told an actress had 'debuted' with success! There ought to be a law against such atrocities."

—About three hundred female physicians have been graduated from the Woman's College of Physicians and Surgeons, In New York.

—The authorities of Detroit are about to commence the erection of a new City Hall, to cost, when completed, $350,000.

—A highway robber, named Poole, was lately hung at Placerville, California. The offense is so rank and common in the Pacific States that the sharpest of punishment is necessary to awe it.

—The Canadian distillers can't make a living, notwithstanding by cheating the government out of the duties, and so they are leaving the business. So much the better for the Canadians, as they will have less poor liquor to drink.

—A fortunate well owner at Pithole City, who has amassed a fortune, declares his determination to "see where the d——d stuff comes from," and has commenced sinking a shaft, 11 feet by 20, down into the earth.

THE TIN WEDDING.

A few weeks ago, Mr. Tilton of Brooklyn, N. Y., had what is called a tin wedding, that is, a celebration of the tenth anniversary of his married life. Among the guests was Miss Phoebe Cary, who, presented the following poem:

Dear friends, the thought must surely come
To night to every thinker,
That he who joined your fates at first,
Was something of a TIN-ker.

For through the ups and downs of life,
Though fair and stormy weather,
His soldering for TIN long years,
Did hold you fast together.

And since your love has worn so well,
Another truth we settle,
You are not made of TIN-sel stuff,
But true and tempered metal.

And therefore, may the gods on you
Their choicest gifts bestowing,
Fill up the TIN cups of your lives
With bliss to overflowing.

May love and friendship smooth the path
Of life your feet are treading,
Till happier than your nights of TIN
Shall be your golden wedding.

And may you hear with hearts as young
Our last congratulations,
As when your marriage bells first rung
Their tin-to-nabule dogs.

then she has carried her money and jewels in her pocket-book, and one day last week her pocket was picked while shopping, of $200 worth of jewels and cash.

Last Tuesday night the wife of Andrew Marsh, living some five or six miles south of this city was attending a sick neighbor. About 3 o'clock Wednesday morning she attempted to fill a lamp with kerosene while it was yet burning, when it came in content with the flame and exploded, covering her with the burning fluid. She ran out of the door screaming, and those who were watching with her followed her out, and threw a barrel of rain water, which was standing by the door, on her, and subdued the flames. She then started for home about half a mile distant, running and uttering the most fearful cries. Her husband heard her and met her at the door, and took her in his arms to carry her to the house, when his fingers penetrated to the bone, so dreadfully was she burned. She died about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.—Monmouth (Ill.) Review, October 29.

A young lady of California, recently broke her neck while resisting the attempts of a young man to kiss her. This furnishes a warning to young ladies.

A curious railroad accident occurred at Clinton, Conn., a few days ago. An express train was approaching, when a cow, annoyed by a small dog, dashed on to the rails. When the train had passed, the cow lay with her head cut off, and the little dog with his tail cut off, sat between the rails looking after the retiring cars with a face indicative of the most intense astonishment and disgust.

On Friday, the 10th, Chas. Ernst, a saloon keeper of Chicago, was shot in the wrist by his wife who was quarreling with him about the disposal of some furniture. Parris, Beach, Ernst—what next!

A gentleman informs the Springfield (Ill.) Journal that on Monday night the 6th, as the up passenger train on the Chicago, Alton and St. Louis Railroad was in the vicinity of Chatham one of the lamps in the passenger car fell from its fastenings and burst, throwing the oil over the floor. In the fall the oil became ignited, and the flames flashed along the car with fearful rapidity endangering the lives of several lady passengers, but who escaped as by a miracle. Before the flames were extinguished several seats were burned, and had the car been full many must have lost their lives before they could have escaped.

Mr. Joseph Strickler, an old and esteemed citizen of Quincy, Ill., was killed on Saturday while loading wood upon a flatbeat. A heavy stick struck him upon the back of the head.

A tree fell across the track of the Columbus and Indianapolis railroad on Monday, just in front of an approaching express train, which was thrown from the track, and one brakeman killed. The engineer and fireman were also injured, but no passenger was harmed.

A lad named Joseph Swinebold, aged only fourteen years, of Peoria, attempted to commit suicide on Sunday by shooting himself. Ill treatment by his parents was the cause. He is yet alive, but in a critical condition.

A tiger died of cholera in the Zoological garden in Madrid.

Mrs. Lucinda Hall of Springfield, Mass., died at the breakfast table. She was the last of a family of eight children, seven of whom died suddenly in their chairs, the eight being found dead in the bed.

PERSONAL.

TOM THUMB has been sued for an income tax in England.

GEN. JACKSON'S grave is covered by a common sandstone slab, on which, at the General's own request nothing is written but the following:

"General Andrew Jackson, born March 15, 1767; Died June 8, 1844."

GEN. F. P. BLAIR'S vote was rejected in St. Louis last week, because he refused to take the constitutional oath.

GEN. J. D. WEBSTER and Lew Wallace have resigned.

THE New York Observer gives an interesting account of the career of the Rev. Ebenezer Turrell of Medford, Mass. The record begins with Sept. 3d, 1727, and ends April 15th, 1773. In this time (forty-six years) it appears that he preached five thousand, five hundred and eighty-two carefully written sermons, no one of which could have been less than an hour long. He never repeated a sermon. Mr. Turrell was a native of Boston.

JENNY LIND'S health is failing, and she is obliged to repair to the south of Europe.

KIT CARSON is described as a man below the medium size, of compact iron frame, and a face bronzed like an Indian. A writer says: "Kit was dressed in a Colonel's uniform, with rather broad shoulder straps, and and his dark hair sprinkled with gray, flowed down upon his shoulders a la waterfall. He wore a rather broad-brimmed felt, and altogether presented the appearance of a sturdy little man destitute of any pretension." Col. Carson served as a Brigadier under Gen. Crocker in New Mexico.

HERE is a pleasant and authentic anecdote of the late J. F. Herring, the animal painter, A dozen years ago he painted a small picture for one of our best known dealers, and received a check in payment. The check was written on a slip of paper, "Pay Mr. J. F. Herring," and duly signed, but without the insertion of the words, "bearer" or "to order," and the clerk of the Union Bank looked very doubtful, first at it, and then at the person presenting it. The artist noticed this and demanded what was wrong. The clerk explained. "Don't you see it is payable to J. F. Herring." "I do," said the clerk. "Well, I am he." "How do I know that?" said the clerk. "Do you know what J. F. Herring is?" "Rather," said the clerk; "I've got the 'Three Members of the Temperance Society' at home." Herring was delighted. He seized a pen, and on a sheet of blotting-paper lying on the counter, dashed off a sketch of some horses' heads. "What do you think of that?" said he, handing it across. The clerk paid him at once.

EDWARD OAKSMITH, a good-natured, excellent journalist, who took to photography in Cuba and died of yellow fever, has been confounded with his brother, Appleton, a slave-shipper. Edward, on the contrary, was a splendid fellow socially, and never made a cent that did not drop honestly from his finger-ends. His name was originally Edward Oakes Smith, being a son of Seba Smith (Major Jack Downing) and Elizabeth Oakes Smith, the well known lecturer.

of Louis Napoleon and one of his devoted friends, and Mr. Dupin, the famous president of the chamber of deputies under Louis Philippe, are reported to be in a dying condition.

THE Sultan of Turkey has shocked all true believers by the innovation which he is understood to have just perpetrated. He is sitting for his portrait to a French artist. As all representations of the forms of living beings are prohibited by the faith of Islam, this is naturally regarded with great consternation by the Constantinopolitans.

DR. WORCESTER'S death is followed by that of one of his most eminent cotemporary lexicographers in England, Charles Richardson, who died recently in his 90th year. He wrote extensively on philology and English grammar. His most celebrated work is his dictionary, of which a new edition appeared in 1860, and which is famous for its curious quotations.

THE remarkable and famous octogenarian negress, Sojourner Truth, who has been and now is employed in the Freedmen's Hospital at Washington, was rudely assaulted by the conductor of a street car in that city, who attempted to eject her from a seat. The case was brought before the Grand Jury, and the offending conductor put under bonds for his appearance at the court to answer for the outrage.

—We learn that the services of Dr. Lieber as professor in Columbia college, New York, have been transferred to the law school, and that the chairs of history and political economy which this distinguished philosopher has hitherto filled, have been abolished in the college proper. How that institution is to be got on without instructing its students in these branches, is a question. We trust that this change is not to be taken as a part of a system to be introduced by the new southern president of that venerable seat of learning.

LIEUT. WM. F. LYNCH, formerly a lieutenant in the United States Army, died at his residence in Baltimore a few days ago, in the 64th year of his age. He entered the naval service in 1820, and some eighteen years ago, commanded the famous Dead Sea exploring expedition. He was a popular officer, and for many years remained in active service. At the outbreak of the rebellion he resigned his commission, removed to the south, and was made a commodore in the Confederate navy. He was a native of Norfolk, Va.

THE largest of New York editors in point of size, is James Gordon Bennett, while the smallest is Henry J. Raymond. Both of these men have been bold editors, and yet, quite strangely, the latter has never met the touch of personal violence, while the former has been punished often and severely. Mr. Raymond exhibits a marvellous contrast between muscle and intellect. His industry for a quarter of a century past, has been incredible, and, he has the reputation of being the hardest worker in New York. In this way, he has built up The Times.

Erastus Brooks of The Express, is of a all nervous frame, indicating no ordinary degree of power, and yet, with all his ability, he has failed to build up a leading paper.

As for Horace Greeley, almost everybody knows how he looks, and we need only add that he dresses much better than in former days, and the famous white coat has retired from service. We believe that the eccentricities of this peculiar man are entirely unaffected, and are only the idiosyncracies of his nature. Mr. Greeley has changed but little in twenty years, and wears remarkably well considering the great amount of work he turns off daily. When we first saw Mr. Greeley, he was a tall, slender youth, with a peculiar freshness of countenance, and a beautiful simplicity playing over his features. This was in 1839, when he was struggling for a foothold in the great metropolis. He has since become stouter, and while he shows the marks of time, he has not put off the early marks of his character.

His chief opponent, Thurlow Weed, is six feet high and well proportioned, albeit we do not admire his style of countenance. We are glad that these two gentlemen are now united in the support of the party to which they belong.

We have thus referred to the veterans of the daily press, and we may remark that during a period of twenty years or more, they have stood at their post of daily toil with uniform industry, and in each individual case, have gained in weight since the commencement. No one has died during the term mentioned.

Among the editorial corps of New York, the public interest singles out one as an object of chief curiosity. This is Bennett. There is, perhaps, some excuse to be found for this in the fact that no public man has ever said so much about himself as he. He has even advertised his own personal ugliness, and that too, in the most indelicate manner. We might quote from his own personal columns, such references ad nauseam but we forbear. Mr. Bennett is seldom seen, and while other editors are open to the public, his method for years has been seclusion. We think the habit grew out of a sense of danger, arising from the bitterness of his personal attacks, and the frequent retaliations which followed. Mr. Bennett is understood to make no claim upon public sympathy; he warred upon society, and expects to receive whatever may come. If wealth be the great end in life, he has succeeded, since his establishment is estimated at two millions; but we doubt if this affords the expected satisfaction. In early days, Mr Bennett was tall slender, and exceedingly awkward. He has since become very stout, and is the largest, stoutest and richest of New York editors. He is descended from an old Scotch Roman Catholic family, was educated for the priesthood, and though a life-long scoffer at sacred things, still clings to his early faith. Of the religious preferences of the other editorial gentlemen referred to, we may add that Mr. Greeley is a Universalist, and Mr. Raymond a Presbyterian. Of the religious press, Mr. Prime of the Observer is a large, well built man, with quiet, unostentatious manners. This correspon-sues ful one may pers
thd hig
in i
Mr. kno vene
che nat in-l yea
hum

morning. He then wrote his farewell to his wife, and made some statements about his connection with the rebellion, asserting that he had maltreated prisoners, in accordance with orders from his superior officers, but solemnly protesting that he had never killed any one, or perpetrated the cruel acts ascribed to him. After the sentence was read to him in prison, Wirz said: "I'm d—d if the Yankee eagle hasn't turned out to be just what I expected—a damned turkey buzzard."

HE ASKS FOR PRIESTS.

He then asked that the Rev. Father Boyle be sent for, and also Mr. Schade, his counsel; and since that time, these gentlemen have been almost constantly in attendance on him. Besides these, some ladies have called, one of them paying her last visit to him yesterday, when she brought him some delicacies. As she was was leaving, he manfested emotion when he expressed his gratitude to her, and remarked to Mr. Schade who was present, that that was the last tear he would shed in this life.

A couple of ladies said to be of the family of a prominent officer, called on him also and in reply to a question as to whether he had hope, he said: "Certainly madam; the greatest sinner has hope; and I being innocent must sure[illegible] To-day he received a

LETTER FR[illegible]

dated Cadiz, Ky., [illegible] she used the most affectionate [illegible] and expressed a hope that they then were seeing their darkest hour. She urges him to cheer up and be prepared for the worst, but is satisfied that if the government knew how much anguish they had suffered, he would not be condemned to death. She also states that she intends with her children to go to his people in Europe.

WIRZ HAS BEEN AN INFIDEL,

but of late professed repentance, and one of his religious advisers assured me that he believes that he was sincere, and that he truly repented. Just before the hour appointed for the execution, a young Massachusetts official of the prison, handed him an autograph album, in which he wrote with a clear steady hand, "Old Capitol Prison, Nov. 10, 1865. Henry Wirz, Captain and A. A. G., C. S. A." "There," said he, "is my last signature."

At half past nine the

PREPARATIONS FOR EXECUTION

were made. Wirz was attired in a long robe or shroud of black cambric, and an attempt was made to handcuff his wrists, but his right arm was so wasted that the iron could not be fastened without giving pain. "I don't want to be cross," said he, "but don't hurt me. The irons were removed.

LEAVES THE CELL.

When smumoned to leave the cell, Wirz remarked to Father Boyle, "I hope this black dress will soon be turned into a white robe. I go willingly."

Meanwhile some 200 spectators had congregated in the prison yard, about 30 of whom were representatives of the press. Many of the others were young officers, some of whom had experienced the cruelties and insults of the rebel prisons.

In the distance the dome of the capitol towered up through the leafless branches of the trees, and on every vantage ground near by were spectators—many of them soldiers—a few of them women.

ARRIVES AT THE GALLOWS.

At a quarter past ten, the hum of conversation subsided into a profound silence as Maj. Russell came from the prison, followed by the criminal, who was escorted by his spiritual advisers. He was a much taller man than I had expected to see, and walked with a firm step, glancing up at the sky, as if refreshed by the sunlight; his long, black hair was combed smoothly down, his head showing a high forehead. His beard and whiskers were full, almost concealing the expression of his face, and his cunning eyes twinkled with a defiant expression of apparent indifference. On reaching the gallows, he ascended the steps with alacrity, and seated himself in a chair placed on the drop. Father Boyle, from the house he had received the sadrament, stood at his right hand, holding in his hand a small crucifix, and at his left hand stood Father Wiggett.

CHARGES AND SPECIFICATIONS.

Major Russell read in a clear voice the long charges and specifications, in which the name of Jeff. Davis is included. Wirz listened to the tedious document with attention, nodding his head in assent when some portions of it were read, and shaking his head negatively at other portions. Father Boyle would occasionally present the crucifix to him as if to strengthen him for the coming struggle by the hope of divine forgiveness. Occasionally the impatient crowd would give hideous yells, upon which the criminal would betray uneasiness. Then Father Boyle would display the symbol of redemption saying, "Faith, hope, charity—repentance will save you." At the last reading of the charges, the specifications, the finding of the court, and the President's approval of the sentence, had all been read, Major Russell turned to the prisoner, and asked if he had any remarks to make. He replied in an unconcerned tone that he had no wish to say anything to the public. To the Major he would say he died innocent. He had but once to die. His hope was in the future.

Major Russell then shook hands with him receiving his thanks for courteous treatment. The priests bade him farewell with words of consolation, and retired. He stood erect upon the drop; the hangman pinioned his arms and feet, adjusted the noose and put on the black cap. Then commenced

UNEARTHLY YELLS

From those outside the prison yard, as if execrating the perpetrator of the atrocious cruelties. Maj. Russell raised his cap.

THE DROP FELL.

Henry Wirz with a sudden plunge was hanged by the neck till he was dead, dead, dead. May God have mercy upon his soul. It was seven minutes after the drop fell before the convulsive motion of the body ceased; and subsequent surgical examination shows that the neck was not broken.

THE BODY.

[illegible]er hanging fifteen minutes the body [illegible]aken and carried into the dead-room, [illegible] it was placed in a coffin, and given [illegible]rge of Father Boyle. The body is to [illegible]posited in the vault of the Catholic [illegible]ery until the wishes of Mrs. Wirz con[illegible]g it are made known.

[illegible]h has been the termination of the [illegible]y career of another sanguinary agent [illegible] slave power.

[illegible]rave soldier, though he loves home, [illegible] strike home."

[illegible] soul of a noble man is the ballot-box [illegible]d. Only through such a soul can his [illegible] be heard as the voice of the people.

steam, and added to the strain of the steam, causes the rupture. There are instances very numerous, in which cast-iron has been ruptured by differences of temperature alone; and even wrought iron forged in large masses, such as shafts, is internally split in cooling, as appears from cutting through it. And when in a boiler, the difference of temperature is such that the upper part of a cylindrical shell, would be half an inch longer than the lower part if they were cut apart, the strain has the same effect as if a strip of the plate along the water level were of a weak quality.

The force with which parts of the boiler are projected, is accounted for by the power known to exist in hot water, acting explosively, as powder acts, but less violently. If a rupture occur, which suddenly liberates this power, the water and iron will be projected with the force usual in explosions.

There was great excitement in the New York stock market last Monday, a "corner" being established in Prairie du Chien,—60,000 shares having been sold short, while only 29,000 were issued. At the first board the price jumped from 150 to 220. The price dropped at the second board, to 165, but rallied, after the board, to 210. The extremes of the day were 120 and 280. A "cornering" movement was also started in Cleveland and Pittsburg, the sales at the morning board reaching 18,000 shares. Petroleum stocks were likewise excited, the sales of Pithole Creek exceeded 20,000 shares.

DURING the ensuing year, it is probable that an important line of railway, connecting New York with St. Paul, Minn., will be near completion. This is to be accomplished by the connection of the Minnesota Central with the McGregor Western at Austin, near the state line of Iowa. Both of these roads are progressing rapidly to the point of junction, and when united, will form via the Chicago and Northwestern and Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien, a continuous railroad route to St. Paul.

The Northern Central Railroad Company, (Baltimore to Harrisburg) are laying a second track, rebuilding bridges, and putting the road-bed in smooth working order. The improvement is to be completed in a few months.

The Russian-American Telegraph expedition explorers have sounded Behring's Straits, and reached the Asiatic side.

INTERESTING SIGHT.—Isn't it funny to see a lady with both hands in soft dough, and a mosquito on the end of her nose?

A FEW RAW.—A "creature" being asked by a lady, the other evening, if he loved oysters, replied, "My dear madam, my love for oysters amounts to a few raw" (furore.)

PROPOSED CHANGE OF NAME.—Mexico, from her past entangled government, might have been properly called Mixico, but it's would-be Emperor proposes to change its name to Maxico. At present, we think it should be called Muxico.

NEW USE FOR A POSTOFFICE.—The following advertisement appears in a late number of the Syracuse Courier: "Manure—wanted, stable manure. Any person having from five to fifty loads to dispose of, will please send word or drop it through the postoffice."

NOT AS A "FELLER."—A young lady in the "rural districts," was once escorted home from an evening party by a young man to whom she was not particularly partial. On taking his leave he remarked: "I guess I'll come and see you next Saturday night." "Well, Bill Smith," replied the lady, "you can come as a friend, but not as a feller." Bill didn't go either way.

CAUSE FOR FRIGHT.—A loafer who had been noisy, was up before the Mayor's court. His Honor told him to pay over five dollars for his fine. "C-c-can't do it" stuttered he; "a-a-ain't got the pewt-r."

"Are you a married man?" inquired the Mayor.

"Not exactly so f-f-f-for gone yet sir."

"Well, I will have to sen-d you to the workhouse"

"Tain't nuthin' to go-go there," said Alick, "but when you t-t-talked about m-m-marriage, old fellow you f-f-frightened me!"

RAILROAD WAGGERY.—Waggs went to the depot of one of our railroads the other evening, and finding the best car full, said in a loud tone:

"This car isn't going!"

Of course these words caused a general stampede, and Waggs took the best seat. The cars soon moved off. In the midst of indignation, Waggs was questioned—

"You said this car wasn't going!"

"Well, it wasn't then; it is now."

The "sold" laughed a little, but Waggs came near getting a good thrashing.

MONS. FROGGY TO MISS KRYO.—Small-billed poetry has abounded latterly. It is to be hoped the following closes the season:

Petite moskeetare, your time it have come!
To frost he haye call for you—go you now home
All of your bite re-bus into my ear—

Miscellany.

From the Western Railroad Gazette.

"Indian Summer."

BY E. M. HALE, M. D.

Autumn has put her garb of beauty on,
And sinks into delicious reverie,
Dreaming of sunny hours and spring days gone,
Gone like the waves of a receding sea;
And over hill and dale, and wood and lawn,
She strews the trophies of her riper days;
And until evening's hour from morning's dawn,
O'er all doth rest a dim and dreamy haze.
All sights and sounds seem softened by its power
And all is calm and still as holy Sabbath hour.

Each varied scene is hushed in semi-sleep,
With misty drapery around it thrown;
And wearied nature is to mood to reap
A drowsy rest in quiet all her own.
The roving winds their silent vigils keep,
Moving on noiseless and slow wand'ring wings
On hilly ranges, smoky columns creep,
Or on some craggy steep like mantle clings;

The golden sun rides in the mild blue sky,
His fiercer rays no longer earth oppress;
But gazing down with soft and languid eye,
He viewsth all below with gentleness.
The fleecy clouds go slowly sailing by,
Like mighty ships upon a waveless sea,
Or like strange things of life they grandly fly
On wings that move all slow and solemnly;
Or off upon the far horizon lie,
Masses on masses piled, like mountains proudly high.

The spreading fields no more are clad in green,
Save where the uspringing wheat bedecks the plain;
The bending reapers now no more are seen,
Amid the golden sea of waving grain,
While in their path the busy hands d d glean.
But there are furrowed fields of dusky brown,
With barren grounds of stubble spread between,
And gray earth on the hill-sides sloping down
From hoary heights to hedges far beneath,
That round the hill's brow cling, as clings a warrior's wreath.

With glories all unknown to other lands,
The forest now with varied robe is clad;
Their margins round, the downy hazel stands;
By wood and stream bends the dark willow sad,
With sumach interspersed like flaming brands.
The yellow hickory and purple oak
Round which the ivy climbs in crimson bands,
Are towering high, and oft the lightning's stroke
Has fallen on them in a stormy hour,
Yet bravely have they oft withstood its crushing power.

In lonely marsh, or on the craggy steep,
Unchanging stands the solemn evergreen;
And where the river's tide flows dark and deep,
The sycamore with spotted bark is seen—
The waters woo the boughs that o'er them lean,
Laving their drooping branches till they weep.
And with bright, quivering leaves, the poplar high—
Through which with rustlings soft the winds do creep—
Stands by the stately elm that storms defy,
While on its boughs the lark, high rocking sleeps.
And there the chestnut vast with leaves of brown,
From whose expanding burs the nuts come rattling down.

High in the sky, the hawk majestic sails—
The wild duck floats upon the shaded lake;
And oft is heard the whirring flight of quails,
As swift they rise from out the reedy brake.
From gray barns comes the muffled sound of flails,
Like partridge drumming on the woody hills;
And from the river's side in sleeping vales,
Comes the dull rumble of the drowsy mills;
While the bright waterfalls, with mimic roar,
Lull the tired kine that rest upon the streamlet's shore.

And when fair night her soft, dim mantle flings
Upon the earth, and from the radiant sky,
Bright, starry eyes look down on lowly things,
While the pale moon is calmly mounting high:
Then is the time that a sweet influence brings
Loved ones together in some quiet spot;
And while the chirping cricket to them sings,
They talk of a pure love that changes not;
Nor think they, in their truth and beauty yet,
That cherished hopes of youth, like moon and stars, do set!

Thine, "Indian Summer," are the dearest hours
That come to us within the changing year.
Brighter than when the dreary winter lowers
O'er the bleak earth that shivers, cold with fear;
Fairer than spring or summer with its flowers,
Or autumn, with its wealth of fruit and grain;
For, as the moonlight falls on shattered towers,
Falls thy soft light upon the heart's domain;
Bringing a sacred joy—a peace most rare,
And by its soothing power, dispelling shades of care.

From the New York Clipper.

CLOSE QUARTERS.

A RAILROAD ADVENTURE.

A fine spring evening and I was in the very midst of the steaming, reeking heart of London. Dust in the roads, dust on the paving stones, crowds thronging the causeway, carts and carriages rolling one after another, the noise of their wheels deafening my ears, the sight of the multitude oppressing my vision. I am one who would fain gaze on green meadows and waving weeds; I will be off into the country. Such was the tenor of my thoughts as I closed the door of my house, situated in Oxford street, and made my way for the depot. I soon reached Euston Square, and made for the huge station, whose large hall I entered, and amused myself, as I had some time to wait, in watching the various passengers as they arrived and departed. After speculating on several whose appearance attracted me, I caught myself gazing with some degree of interest at a young man who appeared to have nothing of more importance to occupy him than I had myself. He was tall and dark, his forehead was high, and his eagle eyes gave indications of an active spirit within, as they flashed with anger when one of the porters let a heavy parcel fall upon his foot. "Careless rascal!" he exclaimed, "you have almost crushed my foot!" The man apologised, and the stranger remarked: "It seems as though if a person has a tender place these fellows are sure to find it out!" I sympathised with the gentleman, and we soon entered into conversation on my observing that I was going by the nine o'clock train; he told me that he, too, was going by the same, and we arranged to travel together.

"How far are you going?" he asked.

"Only as far as Rugby to-night, and then I shall ramble slowly off towards the North," I answered.

On looking to the compartments, we saw the usual number of somnolent, disagreeable passengers one mostly meets on an English railroad.

"How is it that people will persistently try, or pretend to try, to sleep in the cars?" remarked my new acquaintance, "where no one ever really could sleep. It is only a miserable pretext, dislocating one's bones, and reminding belated travelers of the comfortable beds they ought to be in at home."

"Yes," I rejoined, as we entered the carriage, "and how everybody looks at you on entering, as though you had no right there, and were most likely a pickpocket!"

"And people ought to be very careful who they travel with, young man," said a hoarse voice in the farthest corner of the carriage.

I looked and saw a little fat man, tightly buttoned to the chin in a large white great coat, and with a comforter up to his ears.

"You may smile," continued he, "but I could tell you a thing which occurred to me on this very line, and by this very train, that would open your eyes a little."

"By all means let us hear it, sir!" exclaimed my dark companion. "The train is just starting; we have forty-two miles' run before we stop again, and are only three in the carriage. If you will tell your story, I will tell you one, and perhaps our friend here will do the same."

I expressed my willingness to have done so had I any adventure to tell, but added: "I have some cigars, and if you will both accept one we will endeavor to pass a pleasant hour."

The short man took the proffered weed and commenced his story, as follows:

It may be four years ago, and it may be five, that I was called by business from my home at Yarmouth to London. It was about a law suit, and as there was plenty of money and the costs likely to come out of the estate, we witnesses we pretty well treated by the lawyers; at least they treated the well enough, and dropped me a sovereign over and above the usual fees. Well, the case being over early in the day, I determined to go and see some sights, enjoy myself, and return by this same train. I arrived at the station pretty early, for having enjoyed myself, I was in good humor and thought how I should like to have some jolly companion with a cigar to join me on the line down. I walked up and down the platform, but there were few passengers that night, and I could see none I liked. Well, I got my little friend into a second-class car. I found I was alone, and said, "Hallo, Jim, this is not the sort of company you bargained for; however, you are not the sort of boy to meet sorrow half way." Remarking this I took a seat, a porter shut the door, and the train was about to start when there was a hurried stamp on the platform and a man jumped in. The door was shut, and before I had time to see what my companion was like, the train had started and was in full career. He appeared to be a figure of the largest, if I were to judge by the height and size. His head was covered by a slouched hat, the brim of which was turned down in such a way as to conceal his face. Not liking his appearance, I sat quiet in a corner.

"You don't seem very sociable, neighbor," he began; "come, be sociable."

I replied that "I had no objection if I only knew how."

"Well," he replied, "first take a pull at this," drawing out a huge bottle, "and then we will have a game of cards."

I answered that I was a teetotaler, and never played cards.

"Now don't tell me none of your lies," he said. "Not drink, eh?" and he accompanied his words with a dig in my right side, on my bottle case.

The blow was gigantic; the force of that man's hand you can not imagine; my bottle was broken in bits, and the liquor running out discolored my coat.

"A teetotaler, eh?" said he; "this smells wonderfully like rum. Now, I tell you what, my cove," says he, pulling out a pistol, "sit down at once (for I had started to my feet), or I will leave one alive in this carriage, and I promise it shan't be you." He held his pistol close to my head, and I was forced to obey.

"Now I tell you what, I am quiet and peaceable, but you shall be sociable, and play, and drink—come."

He handed me the bottle and I pretended to drink.

"Now," said he, bringing forward the cards, "what shall we play? You don't know, eh—well, we will play hookey. I will be banker; I will put four packs down; you put money down on three; I will double it, and if the one comes up uncovered highest, I win; if not, you. Of course you won't stake anything low."

I protested I had no money, but he spoke in such a feeling way of the trouble I should cause him to search me for my purse, that at last I pulled it out; it contained about thirty pounds. I covered the packs and of course I lost at once; in a few minutes all my money was gone.

"Now, let me see, your watch, chain and rings are worth twenty pounds—just stake them," said he, with awful emphasis. I did so, and they were gone.

"Well," he said, "your clothes are good, —we will play for them. Of course, as a gentleman you will redeem them in money, won't you? Say five pounds you stake, I cover—won again, never was such luck. Well, I don't know, you seem a shabby critter; I'd best have them while I can;" and seizing me he deliberately stripped me of all my clothes, one by one. I struggled and screamed, but it was no good. He stripped me to my very stockings. I begged, I prayed for a rag to cover me, for the night was cold.

"You may think yourself well off alive," he said. Never mind, I gladly thought, the train slacken speed. Wolverton is here. Alas! as I spoke, the wretch stepped into the darkness, and before I, a naked, wretched man, could make the people at the station understand what had happened, he had gone beyond recall.

All I ever recovered was my white great coat, which the villain had dropped in his flight.

R. R.

A Boy Better-Jug.

A writer in All the Year Round, thus philosophizes:

"I wonder sometimes if they can possibly be the same genus as the boys with whom I associated when I myself was a boy. I paid a visit lately to a gentleman in the country, and in going over the house to see its lions, I was shown into a room where my host's boys printed a weekly newspaper for their own amusement! There were all the appliances of a printing office; cases, galleys, rules, imposing stones and presses; and two young gentlemen whose united ages probably did not amount to five and twenty, were so far familiar with their use as to be able unaided to compose and print a weekly newspaper, containing news and articles of their own writing. I thought of my playroom, and what it contained. I had a vision of a penny top; a pop-gun roughly made from the branch of an alder tree; a kite composed of a half-penny cane and a sheet of brown paper; a worsted ball wound upon an old barrel bung; and a teetotum. Again, the other evening I went to a party and I had scarcely entered the house when my host's two boys carried me off to the garden to take my photograph. One, quite a little fellow, posed me in a chair, instructed me to look at a certain spot, and warned me of that principle of the convex lens which has a tendency to enlarge feet and hands which are placed too much in advance of the rest of the body. The other boy, meanwhile, was in a dark room, playing with subtle chemicals of whose nature and properties, his grandfather, the eminent chemist had never dreamed. In less than five minutes these two youngsters had used one of the closest secrets of nature to fix my image on a piece of glass. It was as easy a feat to them as it was for me lift up my top while spinning, in a spoon, or in the hollow of my hand. * * When I was a boy, my library consisted of some half a dozen sixpenny books, such as Jack the Giant Killer, Puss in Boots, the History of Cock Robin, and an abridgement of the Arabian Nights. I remember that I kept them locked up in a deal box and was exceedingly chary of lending them, or even of letting any one look at them. But boys now-a-days take in their weekly and monthly magazines; correspond with the editors; answer riddles and rebuses; contribute puzzles and engage in chess tournaments by correspondence; nay, they club subscriptions to Mudie's and read all the sensation novels as they appear. I see some square-capped boys of not more then fourteen years, going to school every morning reading their penny newspapers. I have no doubt that they read the law and police reports under their desks when they ought to be getting their lessons. Boys and hobbledehoys used to be a nuisance because they were lumpy, and awkward and uninteresting; and because they were too young to share in the conversation of grown people. But now-a-days, if boys are voted a nuisance at all—which they will not tamely permit, it is because they are too clever by half—they know a great deal too much."

Daring Robbery—The Money Recoverd

About nine o'clock Thursday morning, the 9th inst., one of the most extensive and daring robberies ever committed in Chicago was perpetrated on Clark street, on the corner of Lake street, the particulars of which are substantially as follows:

At the usual hour in the forenoon the wagons of the American Express Company received their loads of valuables at the office of the company, on the corner of Lake and Dearborn streets, and then proceeded as usual to deliver them to their proper owners in diffent parts of the city. One of the wagons was a light, covered vehicle, open at both ends, drawn by a single horse, and freighted with numerous packages for various banking institutions and individuals—among these packages were four canvas carpet bags containing greenbacks and two small boxes filled with specie—the entire money contents of the wagon amounting to between two hundred and fifty and three hundred thousand dollars. The wagon was in charge of Messrs. Prout and George Matthews, the special duty of the former being to drive the wagon and of the latter to deliver and look after the packages consigned to his hands for disposal.

After delivering a number of packages, the wagon drove to the Traders' Bank, No. 44 Clark street, where Mr. Matthews alighted and entered the institution for the purpose of delivering a package, leaving the driver on the seat, in charge of the wagon and its contents. The First National Bank, situated on the corner, being the next place of delivery, Mr. Prout drove the wagon up in front of it, and awaited there the return of Matthews. He had not been there many minutes before Mr. Castle, one of the Company's messengers, came across from the opposite corner, and asked him how many deliverers there were with that wagon. Prout answered that Matthews and himself were the only persons in charge of the wagon. Castle then asked him if the packages were all right. Turning, Prout glanced over the contents of the wagon, and exclaimed to his companion, "My God! one of the bags is gone!"

The alarm was at once given, and while Mr. Matthews remained in the wagon, Prout looked high and low for the valuable parcel, but it was nowhere to be seen. Mr. Castle, upon being questioned, stated that in passing along Clark street he had seen a tall man walk up behind the wagon and take therefrom a carpet bag, but supposing him to be one of the deliverers, did not pay particular attention to his appearance, or the quality or description of his dress. He saw the man passing along Clark street, until he came to the Sherman House, when he lost sight of him in the crowd.

The most insane and exaggerated reports as to the amount of the loss were circulated through the streets. These reports were false of course as will be seen by the following note from Mr. Fargo, Superintendent of the American Express Company:

OFFICE OF THE AMERICAN EXPRESS CO., CHICAGO Nov. 9, 1865.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: The amount of money stolen from our wagon this morning will not exceed $40,000, * * * * * and consignees have been requested to present their claims for payment.

Yours, &c., J. C. FARGO

Immediately after the robbery was committed, the matter was given into the hands of Superintendent Turtle, who forthwith set the whole detective machinery at work, and to officers Kenny & Webb was given a share in the work. Suspecting the driver (Prout) to be implicated in the matter, they attempted to bring him to a confession, but nothing could be got out of him. It was soon discovered that he had a brother by the name of William, living in the West Division, and officers Webb and Kenny next turned their attention to him. Shortly after dark they hid themselves near the house (situated on Brown street, one door South of Taylor,) and for two hours waited in the utmost suspense. About 9 o'clock a light appeared in the front room, and on the officers stealthily creeping up to the window and pearing in through the blinds, they perceived Wm. Prout and a young woman actively engaged in counting huge piles of greenbacks laid out before them on a table. This, to the officers, was positive assurance that the right birds were caged, and they bided their time. About half an hour later a man drove up to the house in a hack, entered and soon emerged again in company with the one previously seen counting the money. They entered the hack and were about to drive off when the detectives pounced upon them.

Having secured their prisoners, attention was directed to the house itself. The building from the outside presents a very uninviting appearance, being in a dingy and dilapidated condition; but on entering, a scene of almost oriental magnificence met their astonished gaze. The walls were hung with large mirrors and costly pictures, the furniture was of the best quality, and a magnificent carpet covered the floor. The only inmate was the female before mentioned—a beautiful girl, about seventeen years of age, by the name of Rosa Le Craig—who had been acting as "Moll" for the men in their expeditions. The officers, seeing a large trunk in the room, demanded the key, but she pretended to know nothing about it. The men then began to tear up the carpet, and on coming to the spot where she stood when first accosted, the key was found imbedded in the carpet. The officers now opened the trunk, and at the bottom, under a lot of old dresses, they found a lady's traveling bag, which on opening was found to contain part of the missing money. The rest was discovered tied up in an old handkerchief. On searching the bed, the identical carpet bag which contained the money at the time it was stolen, was found stowed away between two mattrasses. A rigid investigation of the premises disclosed a secret closet behind the front door, and in this recess were found several full sets of burglars' tools, also a lot of powder, fuses and other parsphernalia resorted to in destroying safes. After the investigation of the premises had been completed, the parties were placed in the hack and taken to then Central Station.

A PLAY UPON NAMES.—A Southern paper remarks that "the following General invitation from a Confederate country maiden to a friend in the city was penned before the Confederacy 'went up:'"

Come leave the noisy Longstreet
And come to the Pickets with me;
Trip over the Hoth with flying feet
And skip along the Lee.
There Ewell find the flowers that be Along the Stonewall still,
And pluck the buds of flowering pea
That grow on A. P. Hill.
Across the Rhodes the Pillorat boughs
A stately Archway form,
Where sadly pipes that Early bird
That never caught the worm.
Come hasten, for the Rot is gone
And Wheat lies on the plains;
Come braid a Garland are the leaves
Fall in the "blasting Raine."*

* Rains will be recollected as the partner of McDanie! in the torpedo business.

MR. WEBSTER visited Mr. Adams a short time before his death, and found him reclining on a sofa, evidently in feeble health. He remarked to Mr. Adams:

"I am glad to see you, sir, and I hope you are getting along pretty well."

Mr. A. replied in the following figurative language:

"Ah, sir, quite the contrary. I find I am a poor tenant, occupying a house much shattered by time. It aways and trembles with every wind, and what is worse, sir, the landlord, as near as I can find out, don't intend to make any repairs."

Swine are held by many in high esteem as food, but their kind purse are all gamesters.

Alliterative Acrostics.

One of the best specimens of alliteration, on an extended scale, is the famous poetical account of the Siege of Belgrade. The author is unknown. Belgrade was often besieged and taken—eleven times between the years of 441 (when Huns captured it) and 1789 (when it was taken by Laudohn). The siege commemorated by the poet probably was the last, when the famous fortress fell. (There is alliteration again).

THE SIEGE OF BELGRADE.

An Austrian army, awfully arrayed,
Boldly by battery besieged Belgrade.
Cossack commanders cannonading come,
Dealing destruction's devastating doom.
Every endeavor engineers essay
For fame, for fortune, fighting, furious fray;
Gallant gunners grapple, giving gaslor good,
Heaves high his head, heroic hardihood.
Ibraham, Isiah, Ismael—lops in life—
Jostle John Jarvolitz, Jem, Joe, Jack, Jill.
Kick kindling Kutusoff, kings' kinsmen kill,
Labor low levels lofiest, longest lived (lives!)
Men march 'mid mounds, 'mid moles, 'mid murderous mines.
Now night falls near, now needful nature nods,
Opposed, opposing, overcoming odds.
Poor peasants, partly purchased, partly pressed,
Quite quaking, "Quarter! quarter!" quickly quest.

Truce, Turkey, cries! thus, treacherous Servian train,
Unjust, unwise, unmerciful Ukraine,
Vanish, vile vengeance! vanish, victory vain!
Wisdom wails war, wails warring words. What were Xerxes, Xantippe, Ximenes, Xavier?
Yet yany's youth, ye yield your youthful yest,
Zealously, zanies, zealously, zeal's zest.

This is the text, as given in Henry Southgate's "Many Thoughts on Many Things," and adopted by Chambers. But there are varie lectiones, in another copy, supplied by a literary friend in Philadelphia, which—especially the closing lines—are worthy of being recorded for comparison. Here are the different readings:

Generals 'gainst generals grapple, gracious God!
How honors Heaven heroic hardihood!
Infuriate, indiscriminate in ill,
Kindred ki l kinsmen, kinsmen kin fred kill.
* * * * * * *
Now, noisy noxious numbers notice naught
Of outward obstacles opposing aught—
Poor patriots!
* * * * * * *
Reason returns; religious right redounds;
Suwarrow stops such sanguinary sounds,
True to thee, Turkey! Triumph to thy train.
* * * * * * *
Why wish we warfare? Wherefore welcome were Xerxes, Ximenes, Xanthes, Xavier?
Yield, yield ye, youths! Ye reomen, yield your yell!
Zeno's, Zarpster's Zoroaster's zeal
Attracting all, arms against acts appeal.
* * * * * * *

We throw the various readings down before curious scholars—a hard nut for them to crack! Which is the accurate version?

A correspondent sends us another specimen, about which he writes thus:

"It is, perhaps, literally, the most accurate alphabetical acrostic that has appeared. Without at all entering into competition with the wonderfully spirited 'Siege of Belgrade' on the score of expressive force, it would be easy to point out several particulars in which it has an accuracy over that admirable composition. None of the peculiar difficulties of the task are shirked—the lines follow the exact order of the alphabet. No one without a trial would conceive the difficulty of finishing in a fair Alexandrine on the letter Z, which becomes, in its place, the most intractable of all.

"There is no rhyme, that I am aware of, between the words beginning with Y and Z; this may cause the illegitimate 'zealed' to pass muster, while a similar reason may excuse the manufacture of the bobtail 'unwont.'"

We now subjoin the alliterative acrostic sent us by our correspondent. It certainly is a spirited and surprisingly-correct specimen:

PRINCE CHARLES PROTECTED BY FLORA M'DONALD.

All ardent acts affright an age abased
By brutal broils, by braggart bravery braced.
Craft's cankered courage changed Culloden's cry;
"Deal deep," deposed! "deal death!" "decoy!" "defy!"
Enough. Ero envy enters England's eyes,
Fancy's false future fades, for Fortune flies.
Gaunt, gloomy, guarded, grappling giant griefs,
Here, hunted hard, his harrassed heart he heaves;
In impious ire incessant ills invents,
Judging Jove's jealous judgment, jaundiced jests!
Kneel, skirted knight! keep keenest kingcraft known,
Let larger lora life's leveling lessons loan;
Marauders must meet malice mirror' meeds;
No nation noisy nonconformists needs.
Oracles of old! our orb ordain
Peace's possession—Plenty's plainy plain!
Quiet, Quixotic quests; quell quarreling;
Rebuke red riot's resonant rifle-ring.
Slumber seems strangely sweet since silence smote
The threatening thunders throbbing through their throat.
Usurper! under uniform unwont
Vail valor's vaguest venture—valnest vaunt.
Well wot we which were wise. War's wildfire won
Ximenes, Xerxes, Xavier, Xenophon:
Yet you, ye yearling youth, your young years yield
Zuinglius' zealot zest—Zinzindorf's Zion-zealed.

Still, we think it deficient in the spirit which characterizes the "Siege of Belgrade."

The Yosemite Valley—A Magnificent Work of Nature.

Correspondence of the New York Tribune.

See Yosemite and die! I shall not attempt to describe it; the theme is too large and my capacity too small. Beside, after three months' rapid travel among the grandest features of the continent, I am sated with sight-seeing, have lost the keen edge of relish and run out of adjectives. Yosemite should be studied for months; I have see it but five days. Volumes ought to be and will be written about it; in two letters I can only group a few hints and impressions.

Yosemite—signifying grizzly bear—was the name of a tribe of Indians. In 1851 they were hostile; the whites, pursuing them into their home and stronghold, discovered this crowning wonder of the world. Finding in one lodge a very aged squaw, they asked how old she was. The Indians replied that when she was a girl these mountains were hills! To appreciate the statement one should see the mountains.

Our party of 17—the largest which ever entered the valley—includes my companions of the overland trip, Fred McCrellish, of the Alta California Frederic Law Olmstead, the well-known author, architect of Central park and secretary of the United States Sanitary commission. On Monday, after four days' hard travel from San Francisco, we galloped forward out of the pine woods, dismounted, stood upon the rocky precipice of Inspiration Point, and looked down into the garden, or rather as he would view the interior of some stupendous roofless cathedral from the top of one of its towering walls. In the distance were snow-streaked mountains. Right under us was the narrow winding basin of meadow, grove and shining river, shut in by granite walls from 2,000 to 5,000 feet high—walls with immense turrets of bare rock—walls so upright and perfect that an expert cragsman can climb out of the valley only at three or four points.

Flinging a pebble from the rock upon which we stood, and looking over the brink, I saw it fall more than half a mile before striking. Glancing diagonally across the narrow, profound chasm, I surveyed an unbroken, seamless wall of granite two-thirds of a mile high, and more than perpendicular, the top protruding over the base. Turning toward the upper end of the valley, I beheld a half dome of rock one mile high, and on its summit a solitary, gigantic cedar, appearing like a mere twig. Originally a vast granite mountain, it was riven from top to bottom by some ancient convulsion, which cleft asunder the everlasting hills and rent the great globe itself.

